PRESIDENT OUTLINES GREAT PLANS OF MEDICAL FACULTY

Sir Robert Looks For Great Developments--New Warden of Hart House Also Speaks to Students

The President of the University, Sir Robert Falconer, delivered his annual inaugural address before the Faculty and student body of the University in Convocation Hall at three o'clock on Tuesday, a large number availing themselves of the opportunity of hearing him.

After referring to the serious losses the University had sustained during the vacation, owing to the deaths of Dr. Grange, of the Veterinary College, and Dr. Raynor, of Victoria, and the resignations of members and former members of the teaching staff, the President noted that the first instalment of the Rockefeller Foundation was received in July of this year, following the approval by experts of the fund, of proposed changes and improvements in the Varsity medical department. The faculty made their own plans, which were fully concurred in by the Rockefeller experts. They provide for:

The erection of a new anatomy building, the foundation for which has already been excavated.

The establishment of a Psychiatric Hospital, which the City of Toronto is to build on a site provided by the University, the government having promised to maintain such a project.

Foundation within five years of new laboratories, to take care of increasing demands in the clinical department.

The appointment of Dr. Clarence Starr to the chair of surgery, is in accord with the extension plans. As part of his new duties Dr. Starr will act in the capacity of chief surgeon at the Toronto General Hospital. This latter appointment was practically unanimous, and receives the full support of the doctors practising in Toronto.

The institution two years ago of a chair of medicine, as a result of the munificence of Sir John and Lady Eaton, is also to be extended. This experiment is being watched with interest by leading medical men in America and in Great Britain, Sir Robert stated.

A Rosy Future

While predicting a rosy future for the faculty of medicine, the President pointed out that conditions are still far from perfect.

Plans for greater supervision of student health at the University were enlarged upon. "Education should aim to develop the whole person," Sir Robert said, "a healthy body not only makes its possessor a more useful member of society, but brings happiness and helps to keep the mind clear."

OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS TO BE INCREASED IN STRENGTH

The Corps resumes the winter work with a nucleus of about 100 who trained last year. At present eight non-commissioned officers are undergoing a two weeks' course in instruction at the permanent Force at Stanley Barracks, receiving pay and subsistence. These and some others will be candidates in November for the rank of "A," which confers the title of "Lieutenant's" commissions in the Infantry of the Auxiliary Forces throughout the Empire. Last April eight members successfully passed this examination. A good batch of N.C.O.s is thus available for the coming season.

It is hoped that it will be possible to organize two more companies this session. Personnel should be available from the Freshmen and Sophomore years of all faculties, as University regulations call for these taking either C.O.T.C. training or work under the gymnastic staff at Hart House. The companies will be recruited respectively from Arts, Applied Science, and Medicine, the last two being given military training in addition to the Infantry work, which is needed for all branches.

Major W. Stewart Wallace, now of the Library Staff, will be in charge of the Arts company; Major J. R. Cockburn, M.C., of the Science Company, while qualified officers for the Medical Company, being selected by the Dean of that Faculty. With three companies it will be possible to arrange for competitions in shooting, drill—perhaps football and hockey will be entered for the Garrison Indoor Baseball League, which ought to give as good an account of itself as did that of the Engineers when the corps was recruited from Varsity fifteen years ago.

While general information regarding the C.O.T.C. is given in the University Calendar (Arts Calendar, pp. 61, 62 and 103) it may be appropriately stated here that the corps serves a double function in the University activities, namely, in providing the practical and outdoor portion of the academic course of Military Studies and in giving drill, military and physical training to students who desire militia training or who elect to take their physical exercise in this form.

The Corps Headquarters is at 184 College Street, where are situated the armoury, stores, lecture room, library and club-room, and where students interested will be welcomed.

RESPECT OF FRESHIES DEMANDED BY COUNCIL

Governing Bodies of Men and Women Have Onerous Duties

The outstanding student organizations in the University with the composition of which Freshmen should familiarize themselves are the Students' Administrative Council and Women Students' Administrative Council. Both of these councils are composed of the elected representatives of the various colleges, faculties, years and societies. Meetings are held regularly for the consideration and administration of all matters relating to discipline and student policy. The attention of all Freshmen is invited to the columns of THE VARSITY in the succeeding issues of which will appear a complete account of the development of student government in the University of Toronto.

The Joint Executive of the Students' Administrative Council, which is composed of the eight executive members of the Students' Administrative Council, together with the six executive members of the Women Students' Administrative Council, is the central body of student administration. Under its direction are published THE VARSITY, TORONTOSIS, and the "Students' Directory." All director affairs pertaining to the interests of both men and women are administered by the Joint Executive.

The members of the Executive of the Students' Administrative Council for the current college year, 1921-22, are:

President, John Lowe, B.A., Vice-President, F. L. Hutchinson (U.C.), General Secretary-Treasurer, F. C. Hastings, B.A.

Convener Students' Court, H. G. Thompson (S.P.S.), Convener Musical Organization Comm., E. B. Harshaw (Trin.), Convener Musical Organ. Comm., Wm. A. Paul (Dart).

The Varsity Representative, Eric Drue (Forestry).

The Torontosiss Representative, J. M. Luck (Vic).

The Executive of the Women Students' Administrative Council is as follows:

President, John Lowe, B.A., Vice-President, F. L. Hutchinson (U.C.), General Secretary-Treasurer, A. E. Marjorie Parkes, B.A., Convener Representative, Gretchen Gladman (Trin.).

Torontosiss Representative, Vinola (C.M.), Torontosiss Representative, Lily McLachlin (C.M.).

These two executive bodies together form the Joint Executive with John Lowe as President and F. L. Hutchinson as Vice-President.

Lynette Maybee, President Women Students' Administrative Council, Vice-President, F. L. Hutchinson (U.C.), General Secretary-Treasurer, A. E. Marjorie Parkes, B.A., Assistant Secretary.

J. B. BICKERSTETH M.C. INSTALLED AS WARDEN

Mr. Bowles' Successor Has Varied And Distinguished Record

Mr. J. Burgon Bickersteth, who succeeds Walter Bowles as Warden of Hart House, made his first official appearance before the students as a whole at Convocation Hall yesterday afternoon. Mr. Bickersteth is a graduate of Christ Church, Oxford, and the University of Paris, and is an Oxford Blue in soccer, having captained the team in 1910-11. He is no stranger to Canada, as he has spent several years among the western homesteaders and in the mountain construction camps of the C.T.R. and C.N.R. At the outbreak of war he joined up as a private but later received a commission in the Royal Dragoons, with whom he served for four years. He received the M.C. in the retreat of March, 1918, and Bar in the advance of August, 1918. The "History of the 6th Cavalry Brigade," with foreword by Lord Haig, is one of his works.

In his address to the students yesterday afternoon, Mr. Bickersteth told of his post-war connection with Alberta University. The spirit of the University is remarkable, and the type of student life is magnificent. He spoke very enthusiastically of Hart House, as it is now, and as it will be when influenced by age. Hart House has an ineffable, indefinable and subtle, that leaves its impression long after the student has graduated. The two years' work of Mr. Bowles and his student committee deserves the highest praise; it is amazing what they have accomplished in so short a time.

It is difficult on the Great Hall. Co-operation is the only solution of the difficulty; if the student deserts the Hall to eat downtown he is not standing by his possessions, or helping to build up traditions as he should. As to the library it is a place where a man can browse at will and read, but he must read in the library. No books are to be taken out.

In conclusion, Mr. Bickersteth expressed the wish that Hart House would be a place of friendship between one man and another, one group and another, and between the Warden and those who used it. Thus Hart House will carry out the idea of those who founded it, and create something that will endure longer than any building, however beautiful.

GOBLIN SENDS CHEER TO ALL THOSE HERE WHO FAILED LAST YEAR

While the Supplementary Exams were being written recently the monotony of the registrar's office was relieved by the receipt of a strange telegram. After reading the first few words, the startled officials are said to have given way to most unseemly hilarity. The telegram read as follows: "Sincere sympathy and best wishes for success to all those unfortunate who, having been out of the straight and narrow path of study during the last year, are now writing supplemental exams."

Expecting, of course, to see appended to the telegram the name of Sir Robert Falconer, the Registrar was surprised, to say the least, when he read, not one of these, but simply "THE GOBLIN."

So tickled was he at this evidence of the thoughtfulness of the students that he immediately had five copies made, and pinned these on the doors of all rooms in which supplicants were being held. No doubt the "poor infernals" were mightily cheered thereby.

The incident didn't end there, however. One of the big Toronto dailies, in a column of news, took up the story, and 100,000 readers chuckled over the absurdity of it all.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE MARKED IDEAL OF SERVICE

Industrial, Educational, and Missionary Problems among Vital Questions discussed by Large Gathering at Elgin House

VARSITY STAFF
A meeting of all men of the staff will be held in "The Varsity" editorial office, Elgin House, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Every man's presence is needed.

WOMEN OF "VARSITY" STAFF
First staff meeting of the term will be held to-day in Room 85 Basement of Main Building, at 4.30. This is an important meeting.

Women of U.C. Waste No Time in Organizing

The Women's Undergraduate Association of the University College is the self-governing organization of the women of the College. Every undergraduate woman registered in U.C. is a member. The fee is twenty-five cents a year and should be paid when registering with the Head of the Union.

The Executive of the Association is composed of an Honorary President (a member of the faculty or the wife of a member), a President (a member of the senior year elected by the whole College), the Presidents of the Women's Societies and certain elected representatives.

The function of the Association is to unify and control the interests of the women of the College and to establish and maintain the best standards of conduct and work among the women of the College.

The activities of the W.U.A. are many and varied. Under its auspices is held the annual student conference, the first year. During the year mass meetings are held to discuss matters of importance and to learn the opinion of the women of the College. In addition to these duties the executive is expected by the Council of University College (the members of the faculty) to be responsible for the good name of the college so far as the women are concerned. The Executive, therefore, has power of discipline and the Council will receive and consider recommendations from the Executive regarding delinquents.

The above is in substance an extract from section two of the small but enlightening but this only a needed pamphlet issued this year by the W.U.A.

When interviewed by THE VARSITY Miss Macdonald stated that the W.U.A. is anxious to be recognized by the government as the women already possess. A high standard in work and play is to be aimed at but this only can be done with the loyal assistance and hearty co-operation of every U.C. woman.

During the summer the W.U.A. stationed an information bureau in East Hall to assist the women in registering. Women from the upper years acted as guides, but this only shows how they themselves are especially asked to attend. The Executive of the W.U.A. hopes to stage the initiation of 275 at an early date.

CAMPAIGN FOR VARSITY ARENA TO BE RESUMED

Announcement At Early Date

The campaign which was commenced last March for subscriptions to the new Varsity Hockey Arena will be resumed at an early date. While the results last spring were very gratifying, the Arena Committee and the Athletic Directorate felt that it would be wiser to suspend operations for the summer. There was prevalent throughout the country and many who were willing to subscribe postponed action for a time. When the unsettled conditions in regard to labour and the high cost of building material made it difficult to get exact estimates it seemed wise to wait. It was also the opinion of those in a position to know that more favourable prices would be met in the coming winter.

Those who had subscribed to continue their undertaking for another six months. The response to this was so gratifying that the original subscribers, four hundred in all, were fully convinced of the soundness of the scheme. A return to the arena will be made as soon as possible, and the committee to complete the subscription lists and proceed with the original plan.

Definite announcements will be made at an early date.

MILITARY STUDIES

Will students purposing to take any of the three courses offered in this subject, please see Colonel Lang at 184 College Street between now and 6 p.m. on Friday, 30th September, in order that the hours may be allotted in the calendar for this year having been found unsuitable.

The Student Christian Movement Conference held at Elgin House, Muskoka, from Sept. 19 to 26, was in every respect one of the most successful in the history of the movement. The number of delegates was large including representatives from Saskatchewan University in the west and from as far east as Dalhousie. The work of the conference was divided into three sections. The first, that of the Bible study groups, was led by such men as Dr. H. B. Sharnan, Dr. Gifford, Dr. Thomas, Prof. Todd of Trinity College, Prof. S. H. Hooke of Victoria College and others. The second division dealt with the practical application of the study. These were sub-divided into three groups.

Industrial Problems
One of the outstanding features of the conference was the deep consideration and discussion given to the problems facing Canada. In the section dealing with industrial problems, Dr. Thomas of the Methodist Social Service and Evangelical Department; W. H. Alderson, President of the Toronto Board of Trade; H. Tracey of the British Labour party, and M. H. Staples of the U.F.O. presented the various aspects of this vital question. A detailed account of this study will be published in the next issue of THE VARSITY.

In addition to the industrial group, there were also the educational and missionary groups. For the first three days of the week Dr. Sandford of the Faculty of Education of the University of Toronto presented the essential purpose and problems of general education.

During the remainder of the conference Dr. P. R. Haywood of the Religious Education Council of Canada dealt with the practical application of the study as applied to the program of religious education in the churches, particular attention being paid to the work of the C.S.E.U.

The missionary problems were discussed by a group led by Miss Dorothy Kilpatrick of India.

Evening Men Speak
The evening meetings were addressed by Dean Bosworth, of Oberlin, Principal Ritchie of the University of Toronto, and Hilda's, Miss Kilpatrick, Dr. Sharnan, and Prof. Hooke, their thoughts dealing with the place of Love, Faith, Prayer and will in the completion of life.

Athletic Programme Good
As splendid series of events was arranged for the afternoons of the Conference. The Regatta of the Champlain Regatta, McGill, and the Indoor Baseball Title to the Trinity-Wycliffe aggregation. Rain prevented the completion of the Tennis Tournament.

An account of the business done will be published at an early date.

DOCTOR STARR CHOSEN FOR CHAIR OF SURGERY

As a result of the grant which the University has received from the Rockefeller Foundation it has been possible to establish a Chair of Surgery in the Faculty of Medicine and Surgery, and that the new appointment would undoubtedly greatly increase the efficiency of the Faculty, particularly in the Department of Surgery, of which Dr. Starr will now assume charge.

Dr. Starr is a graduate of the University of Toronto, and has had very valuable experience as head of the Sick Children's Hospital, and overseas, and for the past two years has been a "part time" lecturer in the Department of Surgery. When it was decided to establish the chair, he was picked upon as the most eminent man available, and his acceptance of the post is expected to greatly strengthen the Faculty.

Varsity Veteran Production Still Playing in West

Cheerful news has come to us from the West regarding the good old P.B.I. Every week Capt. Fred M. Fisher, who has the company booked up for the winter, is receiving glowing accounts of the crowded houses, laudatory comments in all the papers and a general feeling among the troops that at last has come a real production, one that all take pride in, and flagging, but depicting the actual life of the boys in France.

Mr. J. Young, of 273 Dents, is the only member of the original Hart House cast left with the show. His never failing gift of humour in the part of "Erbert" has continued to delight the audiences as did on its first presentation in March, 1920.

Mr. Andrew V. Skyes, of Meds 274, saw the production in Calgary, and upon being interviewed by THE VARSITY Mr. Skyes stated that there had never been a Canadian production so delightful and so much favourable comment by the press as did the P.B.I. The returned men in particular were delighted with it and large numbers of the majority of which were troops, greeted every appearance.

ALL HAIL!

Again we have gone the round of examinations, Convocation, and a summer spent in various activities—work and play—all in some way or another profitable to us, because our funds of experience, our knowledge of our fellow men with their manifold likes and dislikes, needs, desires and aspirations, have been increased and enriched by the contacts we have made with men during the summer. And again we have come together beneath the shadow of the old grey tower to continue our preparation for our life-work. As we welcome one another, and as THE VARSITY welcomes its readers, old and new, we know that each has his or her own contribution to make to the life of the University. If the University is to be more than a mere knowledge factory every student must take his share in the life of the student community. We hope for great things in this session, but only if every member of an enlightened and united student body takes an active and intelligent interest in all the affairs of his college and the broader life of the University as a whole. Nothing else can make the corporate life of the student body harmonious, happy and thoroughly profitable.

THE FRESHMEN

We welcome you with real pleasure to our circles. Every one is going to welcome you in one way or another in the next few weeks—especially the Sophomores. But whatever form the welcome takes, we want you to feel from the first that you are really a part of our University and its life. You have come to us to gain an education. You will not get it all in the classroom, but you must look for it in the student organizations, on the playing field, and in the little groups of men and women that meet in the most informal ways—the little groups in which more is done to make or mar the tone of our college life than anywhere else. You have come here with ideals—we too have ideals, we have traditions. Learn them, live up to them. The Sophs may seem to try to suppress you, but they are really interested in your welfare and will prove the greatest factor in knitting together the various freshman classes.

SUMMER RESOLUTIONS

A new college year has begun, for some the first, for others their last. It lies within the power of each one to make it the most successful and in every way the most satisfactory year of the four, and although New Year is the correct and accepted time for turning over the new leaf and making the usual pie-crust resolutions, it would be well for us now if we looked at our frantic resolutions of last April and endeavour to put a few of them into practice. There is no time like the present when we are fresh from vacation and ready to perform gigantic intellectual feats. The autumn season is a busy one for College men and women; organizations have to be put into action again and the various sports claim the attention of the whole University, but it is indeed possible to do a little honest work every day with books. It means that one profits more by the lectures all year and there is not such a huge mass of raw material to assimilate in the annual spring cram. A student who works as hard as he plays will turn out the best all-round man and will naturally derive most pleasure and benefit from his college course.

Not only is the present an excellent time to make good certain resolutions about work, it is also a good time for every student to resolve to get behind some organization and keep with it. There are students who put in a four years' existence at college without assuming any responsibility for college affairs. The result is that a few are overworked and there develops a set of persistent knackers. There is something in this University for every one which will claim their interest and demand their best.

RUGBY

Last year we had one of the greatest years in our history. This year we should have another. Dr. "Jack" Maynard was one of the outstandingly successful captains—with our support he can be an equally successful coach.

We got behind Laddie.
 Keep behind Jack.

Roll of Service is Enduring Memorial to Varsity's Soldier Sons

"This record will be kept and read with almost sacred regard by the friends of those who have fallen and who offered their lives for the cause of freedom. Future generations of graduates and undergraduates of this University will turn to this perpetual memorial." In these words President Falconer, in his foreword to the new University Roll of Service, expresses his appreciation of its import and historical value.

As early as 1917 a Provisional Roll of Service was compiled, followed in 1918 by a Supplement. These were to be but forerunners of the Edition which has recently been completed, a book containing as it does much more detailed information. Every effort has been made to secure accuracy in even the smallest details, and to Prof. G. O. Smith and his assistants is largely due the credit for such a splendid volume. But credit must also be given to the many faithful and willing workers, in the University and College offices who before 1917, when Mr. Smith assumed the responsibility of the work, laid the foundations that made the Roll possible.

Introductory to the Roll of Service is a short summary of the war activities of the University, with short notes on the different units, such as the 67th Battery, the C.O.T.C. and the University Women's Hospital Supply Associations.

The record of those who were killed in action is in the form of a biography, giving information regarding education, life, activities and military record. Following this is a list of the names of those who died from causes in part due to war disabilities within two years after the armistice. The main roll of the names, approximately 5,000, who enlisted in addition to 600 killed is in more condensed form. Toward the end of the book is a list of the returned men who came to the University for the first time after the war.

As a whole the Roll of Service is something of which the University may justly be proud. It is complete, accurate, and will remain a lasting tribute to the sacrifices of men connected with the University during the Great War.

The Roll of Service is published by the University of Toronto Press and is on sale at the Book Room. (Cloth $1.00, paper 75 cents. To men whose names appear in the Roll 75 cents and 50 cents respectively.)

S.A.C. RECOMMENDS RULES
TO GOVERN ALL FRESHMENEach College Requested to Vote on Suggestions

At a meeting last term, the Students Administrative Council appointed a committee to make recommendations regarding the institution of uniform rules governing the conduct of Freshmen. The following is their report:

Your committee appointed to deal with the matter of the institution of a set of rules to apply to freshmen of all faculties and colleges of the University beg to report that in their deliberations they felt constrained to keep two things in view, viz:

(1) That any rules imposed by the Students Administrative Council be quite independent of the initiation of freshmen by the respective faculties and colleges and independent of any rules imposed by the student government of the respective faculties and colleges.

(2) That there should be no attempt to submit freshmen to degradation but that for the good of all—and more especially for their own good—freshmen should be properly disciplined and constantly reminded of their extreme juvenility.

Your committee begs to suggest in particular:

(1) That all freshmen be required to wear upon the right sleeve of their outer garment a green brassard—of a size 0 in. x 4 in.—say—such brassards to be supplied as a Ways and Means Committee of the Students' Administrative Council may see fit.

(2) That no freshman be allowed to wear spurs, canes or derbies on University property.

(3) That for the Main Building of each faculty or college the use of one or more entrances be prohibited to freshmen and that prominent but small and neat notices be posted in each of such buildings to this end.

(4) That the student government of each faculty or college make a point of drawing their working parties, chore boys, messengers, etc., from the first year and that the Presidents or Heads of first year classes be responsible for this supply. Your committee beg to suggest in general:

(1) That the enforcement of rules develop upon the Second Year of each faculty or college.

(2) That freshmen who are ex-members of the C.E.F. (or etc.) be exempt.

(3) That any rules finally adopted by the Students' Administrative Council be submitted to the governing body of the students of each faculty and college for approval before final adoption.

(4) That any rules adopted be given prominence on the notice boards of each faculty and college and the first issue of THE VARSITY of each Michaelmas Term.

Signed on behalf of the Committee,
 F. LORNE HUTCHINSON,
 Convenor.

FIRST CHURCH RECEPTIONS
TO VARSITY STUDENTSAt Old St. Andrews and Central Methodist

The first reception to students held by the various churches in Toronto was given to the Presbyterian students of Dents, Pharmacy and Normal School and their friends by Old St. Andrews' Church at the Memorial House, 415 Jarvis Street, last Friday evening. Music, dancing and refreshments formed a delightful programme. The singing and Varsity yells, led by Archie Bryce, a graduate of U.C. '21, were staged around a huge bonfire in the garden. Dancing took place indoors and on the lawns. A similar reception for Presbyterian students of Medicine, Science and Arts is being given by Old St. Andrews' Church on Monday evening, October 17th.

A most enjoyable reception was tendered to the Methodist students of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons and the Ontario College of Pharmacy at the Central Methodist Church on Monday evening. Upwards of four hundred students and their hosts and hostesses filled the Sunday School Room.

Among the many contests that enlivened the evening was one which was extremely novel and interesting. The idea was to send an acoustic telegram using the word Dents, and reply using the word Pharmacy. The winning telegram was: "Don't Entertain Naughty Toronto Students" and the reply was: "Pharmacy Had A Rough Meeting At College Yesterday."

Another which received honourable mention was "Don't Everybody Never Take Stimulants?" and the answer, "Pharmacy Hasn't Any Rum. Montreal Agents Came Yesterday."

The ladies then served a most recherche lunch and after many vociferous yells, among which the famous Dental 213 whizz bang predominated, ending in a lusty Toronto, Toronto, Varsity, the evening ended. Many Dents and Pharmacy students will look forward to next year if it starts off with a reception at Central Methodist Church.

SIR ROBERT FALCONER'S ADDRESS

The successful year of athletics just closed was commented upon. That the needful loyalty and encouragement to the various teams would again be in evidence was predicted. The students were warned however, that they should not confine their sport to looking on and cheering. "Only as you engage in sport yourselves can you appreciate a game," the speaker said. That university athletics were the highest type of modern sport was hinted at by the President, who showed that at such places games are played, not for the sake of winning but for the sake of the play itself.

The interest now being taken in educational events was touched upon, and the activities of commissions and committees, who are directing educational affairs, praised. The need for selectivity is increasing, it has been found. The institution of more scholarships was considered an admirable feature as in this way the nation ensures that its best men will have the chance to fit themselves for her service.

President Falconer concluded by announcing the resignation of Mr. Bowles, the Warden of Hart House. He spoke highly of the Warden's work and introduced his successor, Mr. Bickersteth of Oxford. Mr. Bickersteth spoke a few words to the students, expressing his admiration for things Canadian and for Hart House, especially which he considers peerless.

The Old Boys' Game

Next Saturday at the Stadium the annual event preliminary to the beginning of the Intercollegiate Football season will take place.

Owing to the scarcity of grounds the Athletic Association has consented to accommodate the Argonauts in their first league game of the season on the same afternoon. The game or games will, therefore, be a double-header, the Argo v. Hamilton Tiger commencing at two o'clock and the Varsity v. Old Boys at 3.45.

A number of old-time stars, such as Smile Lawson, Red Mackenzie, Jack Maynard, Hume Crawford, Gurney Stratton, Herb Taylor, are turning out and practicing daily.

Seats go on sale Thursday at Hart House, at the Athletic Association office. This game, on account of its dual nature, is not included in the season tickets. The season tickets will go on sale about October 28th, and definite announcements will be made in a few days.

DENTAL TRACK MEET

The date for the Second Annual Dental Track Meet has been definitely set for Thursday, October 6th, and all men who have any interest whatever in this branch of sport are urged to turn out to practice every day from now till the meet. There will be a coach at the Stadium from 10.30 a.m. till 6 p.m. every day until the meet. Mr. Ernie Wallace will be on the job with a huge bottle of liniment and Mr. Bert Bradley will have a supply of spiked shoes, etc.

Turn out Dents, and make the Track Meet as big a success as the last year. Dean has promised us a holiday on that occasion, and it is hoped that a record crowd will turn out.

"A" Class won the Challenge Cup last year. Who will be the lucky ones this time? As 273 compete as two separate classes every year has a chance for the cup and prizes for first, second and third will be given in each event to individuals.

Watch Friday's VARSITY for more news.

VARSITY TRACK HAS BEEN REMODELLED

Now exactly a quarter of a mile

Have you seen the new Varsity Stadium track? No. Well it's worth a visit. For years and years and years, even before they talked of building the new Union Station. Track fans longed for the day when the athletes of Toronto in general and Varsity in particular would not have to worry about that wretched 43 yards to the good on the cinder speedway and how this thing has been done! Once around the oval now means a quarter of a mile. Canada's greatest athletes have trained and competed on Varsity track. Men whose names are household words, such as Knox, Halbur, Bricker, Goulding, Longboat, Wood, Shrubbs, Freeman, Lawson, Webb, Sherring, Linton, Campbell, Sienert, Moriarty, Kerr, Treasurer, Lister and hosts of others knew the old Varsity cinder oval and are often to be seen sitting in the bleachers watching the new crop endeavouring to catch the torch from the hands who have held it so high in past years.

SOCCER NOTICE

A meeting of the U. of T. Association Football clubs will be held in room opposite Mr. Reed's office, Friday, Sept. 30, at 6.30 p.m.

BRITISH RUGBY PRACTICE

Candidates for the British Rugby Team of the University of Toronto are requested to turn out on the back campus at 5 p.m. Wednesday, September 28th, and every evening thereafter (except Saturday) at the same hour. All faculties of the University are eligible to try for this team, and as we expect to play McGill here on October 22nd with a return game in November, a good turn out is looked for.

Come on, you Ruggers!

GOBLIN BIDS FAIR TO SURPASS HIS RECORD

His Staff Employed in Many Ways During Summer

THE VARSITY happened to drop in on GOBLIN about five hours before breakfast yesterday morning, and found the prize funny men relating their summer experiences. Taken all together they make a remarkable collection. Keith B. Crombie, Managing Editor, has blossomed out as a feature writer. The observing undergrad may read his humorous philosophical perorations on the front page of one of Canada's largest newspapers. At the same time he has been giving the St. Thomas Times-Journal the benefit of his own particularly effective style.

Jimmy Cowan, Editor-in-Chief, was Director of the Canadian Chautauqua Theatre at Muskoka Assembly. Here he produced, directed and acted in various plays which helped to give many Muskoka residents an unusual summer. The leading man of the company was Clarke G. Ashworth, Business Manager, whose portrayals of highbrow types were reminiscent of Sliding Billy. It also turns out that the black-face team of Kale & Coyne were known in private life as "Jimmy and Ash." Colin Tait, of THE VARSITY, also starred in many of the plays. Incidentally, the theatre was designed by F. A. Deacon, Art Editor, and the foreman signed on as carpenter and painter during the construction. The story of the theatre built and run by Varsity men was considered good copy by several dailies.

Russ Williams, chairman of the Advisory Board, while not selling razors "which not only shave you but your hair" was busy engaged in running a Summer Resort at Glen Island on the Bay of Quinte.

The real thriller of the bunch is the yarn about Allan R. Crawford, Circulation Manager. Instead of smilingly selling Goss, to the waiting mobs Al will be selling subscriptions to the Eskimos. He was chosen by Vilhjarnur Stefansson to head his advance party into the Arctic regions, and is now in a land where the mail arrives promptly every February. He has the distinction of being the only Canadian selected to take part in the expedition. Crawford's party will be joined by the remainder of the expedition under Stefansson himself. They expect to explore an area estimated at a million square miles in the Polar regions between Siberia and Alaska. The Goss staff received its farewell message from Crawford at Nome, Alaska, about a week ago.

Ask any man on the GOBLIN staff about the coming year's issues and he will tell you that they will be bigger, better, peppier, wittier and cleverer than ever. THE VARSITY has questioned some eight or ten GOBLINs and they are all bubbling over with enthusiasm, and willing and able to talk for hours on the little fellow's chances during the coming weeks.

For the benefit of the freshmen, who have never come under his hypnotic influence, GOBLIN is VARSITY's funny-bone. He appears each and every month, chuck-full of cheerfulness and with 32 pages of snappy cartoons, original jokes and intensely humorous articles. Every undergrad, with lemons toward foolish writing or eccentric drawing is expected to contribute, and search parties are now out looking for talented freshmen. Any new arrival, who is inclined to forsake the path of serious artistic or literary effort and devote himself to nonsense, will find a reception committee and free cigarettes awaiting him at the GOBLIN offices, 8 University Avenue.

The GOBLINs will all be on hand when the first issue goes to press. Guy Rutter, whose pretty-girl pictures adorn the walls of the happy students' rooms from Bloor Street and the ends of the earth; and Walter Howard, perpetrator of the famous "What's Sauce for the Goose—" both promise something good. There are undergrads, with lemons toward foolish writing or eccentric drawing is expected to contribute, and search parties are now out looking for talented freshmen. Any new arrival, who is inclined to forsake the path of serious artistic or literary effort and devote himself to nonsense, will find a reception committee and free cigarettes awaiting him at the GOBLIN offices, 8 University Avenue.

Artists intending to contribute to the coming issues of GOBLIN should make a note of the larger size. The new page size will be nine by eleven inches, which should add greatly to the appearance, and will enable the printer to crowd in a few more cartoons and drawings on the already well-filled columns.

During the summer, GOBLINs jokes were copied by papers all over the United States and Canada. Several of the original cracks from the first issue have made the circuit of college comics, and are now appearing in the newspapers across the country. Both Stranger and the Literary Digest have quoted GOBLINs, and McLeans makes a regular practice of it. The magazine has also made its appearance on the screen in the Topics of the Day films, Fox News Reel and Canadian National Pictorial.

AN INNOVATION

We hope by the time that this issue of VARSITY is delivered that our huge new sign board will be doing duty in the Main Hall by the fountain.

Mr. Adams of 274 has kindly consented to take charge of this sign, and any one who wishes to put any notice of general interest on it see Mr. Adams or leave a notice at library wicket where it will receive immediate attention.

This sign board is primarily to advertise athletic, social and executive events, and it is hoped will be carefully read by all each day.

ARTISTS' AGENCY

A prize of one year's subscription to Goblin will be given for the best design for the heading for the Dentistry column of the VARSITY. Send your contributions to Contest Editor, Hya-Yaka, 240 College Street. Contest closes October the 5th.

A mass meeting of all war veterans will be held in Lecture Room 3 at 12.00 noon to-day, Wednesday, to discuss matters of vital interest to all the troops. Even if you are not personally interested your presence will materially aid the cause of those who are. Let's have number three filled to the doors at 12 noon.

The Track Club held a meeting in the Board Room yesterday at noon with Mr. Willard Stevenson in the chair.

Mr. J. Monderelle was elected secretary and Mr. R. A. Williams manager of the team. Mr. R. E. Braley was appointed as curator of track supplies, and the date of the meet fixed for October 6, the anniversary of the famous 274 Initiation last year.

This is the largest turnout ever seen at an athletic meeting as great results are expected from the work of the executive.

A very snappy initial meeting of the class of 273 took place in the large lecture room last Friday morning at 11 a.m., with President R. N. Williams in the chair.

Many matters of interest were discussed. Reports from the various athletic clubs showed considerable activity along those lines, especially the track, as the Big Dental Track Meet is the first athletic event of the year, on October 6.

Mr. L. Honey, chairman of the At-Home Committee announced that a dance would be held at Columbus Hall very soon. Watch Friday's VARSITY for fuller information.

PROFESSOR LOUDON COACHES VARSITY TO TRIPLE WIN

Blue and White Juniors Are American Intermediate Champions
Seniors Win Canadian Championship

Once more we can thank Professor Loudon for the wonderful achievements of the University of Toronto Rowing Club. Our oarsmen have again won the Hanlan Memorial Trophy and, not satisfied with the one, they journeyed over to the National Regatta at Buffalo and won the Intermediate eight-oared shell race, thereby becoming champions of the continent in that class.

The season was a most successful one and all credit is due to the committee with Doug. Huestis as president, Frank Spence, secretary, and Les. McGee captain. Of course most, if not all, the anxiety and trouble of preparations fell on the shoulders of the coach, Professor "Tommy" Loudon. The University will never be able to appreciate fully how much it owes to him.

With the array of material available in the spring Professor Loudon was able to choose two very likely eights besides keeping the old senior crew intact. A junior and a tuck-weight crew (140 lbs.) were rounded into fine condition and any night at six or early morning at seven (daylight saving time, too) one might have seen three blue and white paddles sliding out for a three or four mile paddle. A great amount of praise is coming to these boys for turning out so regularly, never missing a day, when so many were putting themselves through college and when positions were so scarce. They rowed through rough or fine weather, cold or warm. The heat wave, which was so severe in the city, made training especially hard. But the manner in which the boys kept working without a break was a splendid example of sportsmanship.

On Dominion Day, when there was a regatta open to all comers, the 140 lbs. eight was entered but was defeated by inches by the Don crew, who won at the Canadian Henley the year before. The University shell lead until the finish and to give this Don crew, who has rowed together for two years, such a close race when they themselves had only about eight weeks' rowing training of any kind shows the material the U. of T.R.C. are capable of developing. The Argonaut boat came third with a second Don entry, last. Our boat was composed of: McGee, S.P.S.; Brooker, Williams, S.P.S.; Keefler, S.P.S.; Sire, S.P.S.; McQueen, S.P.S.; Baxter, S.P.S.; Hamilton, S.P.S.; Tuftord, Meds.; Johnson, S.P.S., cox.

July the 28th and 29th came and the Club moved to St. Catharines en masse. Boats were rigged and placed on racks in the new boat house, where they received their finishing touches from careful hands. The coach boat arrived with Professor Loudon in it, having crossed the lake by compass through a fairly rough sea.

The first race on Friday which the U. of T. took part in was the Junior Eights. A fair start with a slight following wind sent the boats away in good form. Our Juniors jumped the remaining crews at the start and kept pulling away steadily all the way up the course. The Argonaut and Detroit crews gave several splendid spurts but condition and good coaching began to show when the last minute was reached. The University crew rowed with a beautiful swing and did not have to extend themselves greatly to finish two lengths clear of the field. Argonauts were second; Lachine, third; Detroit, fourth; and Hamilton, fifth. Our boat lined up as follows: M. L. Wallace, U.C., stroke; J. A. Jackson, U.C. No. 7; M. L. Langford, Vic., No. 6; K. L. Carruthers, S.P.S. No. 5; N. W. Taylor, U.C. No. 4; C. W. Malley, Pharm., No. 3; R. D. Morris, Meds. No. 2; L. D. Coll, Meds. bow; C. W. Smart, S.P.S., cox. Average weight, 170 lbs.

The last race of the day was the 140 lb. or "tuck-weight" eight. The University shell, through a bad start, lost a length before they got under way. The Detroit shell kept well in the lead throughout the course, and although our crew worked like Trojans and rowed a wonderful race they were unable to fight down such a lead. But to gain second place ahead of Ottawa, Detroit and Argonaut crews speaks for their quality as oarsmen. Our boat was the same as the Dominion Day boat, except Seaborn, S.P.S., who took the place of Williams, who was unable to row after Dominion Day.

Saturday proved to be an ideal day for rowing, but perhaps you have heard what a great regatta the Henley was this year. There was considerable conjecture as to who would come out on top in the Senior Race. Some were quite sure that the runners-up from the previous day would repeat the performance of the Varsity eight a year ago, and defeat their own Senior crew into the bargain. But judging from the volume of the "Toronto's" on Friday it was—Varsity to win—no matter which crew should be victorious.

The start was, again, a good one. The U. of T. Senior jumped a quarter of a length on Detroit who in turn jumped Varsity's second crew a quarter of a length with the Argonaut crew last. The Varsity senior boat gradually pulled away from Detroit and then the second Blue and White shell took them on. Before the half-way mark was passed they nosed them out. There were then two University boats leading the field, with perhaps a length of open water between them. The juniors were pulling up slowly on the first but it was too much of a lead to overcome in two minutes. The Seniors were extended to the limit but their experience and swing took them to the finish with a few feet of open water to spare.

The Senior boat was made up of: A. Coventry, Arts, stroke; A. Bell, S.P.S. No. 7; B. Little, S.P.S. No. 6; J. Creighton, Vic. No. 5; J. Smith, S.P.S. No. 4; G. Beatty, U.C. No. 3; R. D. Huestis, S.P.S. No. 2; G. Peterkin, S.P.S., bow; I. Campbell, Meds. cox. Average weight, 160 lbs.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO SENIOR EIGHT

Senior Champions of Canada 1920 and 1921

The very night of the regatta a meeting was called to decide about Buffalo. To the surprise of everybody the "Juniors" were to go as well as the "Seniors." The latter were to row for the Championship of America and the former for the Intermediate Championship.

With due preparation and arrangements thanks to the financial support of some Toronto men, August 8th found our two crews practising on the course at Buffalo. Much could be said about this stretch of water, because it was quite unprotected in places from the waves from the lake. There were seven crews entered in the Intermediate race, our crew having the outside, against the breakwater. After an exceedingly long wait at the start the U. of T. crew jumped away on the pistol shot and lead all the way to the finish, winning by about half a length of open water. This victory gained for the crew the title of Intermediate Champions of the Continent. The crew, a week before, was the greenest of junior eights with only two months' training as oarsmen to back them up. New York Athletic Club were second, Duluth third, Detroit fourth, Norton and Vespers of Philadelphia fifth and sixth, with Potomac of Washington last.

The next day, Saturday, the two Varsity crews again lined up with four others for the Senior race. The weather was very bad and the course was like the open lake in spots. But the race was started after an hour and a half's shuffling into positions. The winners of the Intermediate race of the previous day's race lead the race for a few hundred yards, but when the rough water was reached their boat dropped to fifth place. The Seniors, on the inside of the course at the start, lost a couple of lengths but by rowing hard were able to pull up within a length of Duluth, who were leading. The Duluth boat then gave a great spurt, but the Varsity boat also had a good kick left and rowed to the finish just a bare yard or two behind. The judges themselves had to vote to decide who had won. The order of the finish was: Duluth first, U. of T. second, Union Boat Club of New York third, Norton of Worcester fourth, U. of T. second boat fifth, Detroit sixth, and Buffalo's Scalp and Blade last, having swamped halfway down the course. The Union Boat Club shell has seven of the Columbia Eight in it.

We Have Solved Your Greatest Problem

Regarding your Valet Service for the college term of 1921-22. We will act as your valet, call for your clothing, sponge, press, clean and repair suits and two pairs trousers a week, suit and overcoat a week, four pairs trousers a week, dress suit at any time, dress suit and suit with extra trousers a week, or in fact almost any combination you wish to send. This includes French dry cleaning suits and overcoats (not to exceed five during term of contract). Clothing to be kept up in good repair and returned within twelve hours on special hangers by motor delivery to any part of the city. No delays, no spots, no missing buttons, no rips. Think of it, a first-class valet service at the expense of eleven cents a week! We guarantee service and no delays and a saving of at least one suit during term of eight months. All work called for and delivered daily. Simply put your name and address on your parcel and phone Coll. 4277 and tell us best day to call. Arrange this yourself.

This is a system adopted by Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Princeton, Purdue, and many large colleges. Be neat and a credit to your "Alma Mater." Let Toronto students be neat as well as efficient. It will help you a whole lot. You'll feel better and appreciate this great service we offer you for $12.00 from now until end of May, 1922. The minute our list reaches twenty-five hundred names we will make a rebate of $2.00 to every name on our list, making this a $10.00 proposition. Patronize Canadian workmen, as well as buying Canadian made goods. There is a great reason why you should. More later regarding this. Kindly report any delays or incivility on part of any employee of "Marlborough Cleaners."

CANON SEAGER SUCCEEDS AS PROVOST OF TRINITY

Dr. Macklem Retires to Private Life To-Day Following Twenty Years' Valuable Service As Head of Anglican College

After twenty-one years of service as Provost and Vice-Chancellor of the University of Trinity College, the Rev. Dr. Macklem today lays down the duties of that office, following the reluctant acceptance of his resignation by the Corporation. As his successor, the Rev. Canon Charles Allen Seager has been unanimously chosen by the Corporation after an exhaustive consideration of possible candidates. Dr. Seager will take up his work on October 1, the first day of the new academic year. The retiring Provost, Dr. Macklem, is a Canadian of Old Loyalist descent. He was born at Chippawa, Ont., and educated at Upper Canada College and St. John's College, Cambridge, taking his degree in 1887. After ordination to the ministry of the Church of England, he was appointed assistant at All Saints' Church, Toronto, where he remained for two years when he became first rector of St. Simon's Church. In May, 1900, Dr. Macklem became Provost of Trinity.

Although one of the most outstanding preachers in the Church of England in Canada, Dr. Macklem is known chiefly as an administrator. Since his accession to office he has placed the College on a sound financial basis, introduced many internal reforms, and above all else, has established the relationship between Trinity and the University of Toronto. When he assumed his position the question of the co-ordinating of the two institutions was the first of his on the one hand, and the famous residential system and the foremost medical school in the province, and, on the other, Toronto, with the resources demanded for modern scientific research, was burning one. For years, the Department of Education had been working to bring it about but there was considerable opposition on both sides. Thanks to the fact and foresight of Dr. Macklem, this opposition was overcome and a mutually advantageous agreement was reached. Again, when in 1909, the Royal Commission recommended the removal of Trinity from its present location to the Queen's Park, the business ability of the Provost resulted in obtaining very favourable conditions for the College. As recognition of his scholarly attainments, Dr. Macklem has been made the recipient of many honorary degrees, in 1901 a D.D. from Trinity, an LL.D. from the University of Toronto, and from Toronto in 1904, and a D.C.L. from Bishop's College, Lennoxville, in 1908.

Of Dr. Macklem's future plans, very little could be learned, the Provost having made no formal statement when interviewed by THE VARSITY. It is understood, however, that he will resume the parochial work and the service to which he was called twenty years ago. His retirement, it is needless to say, is an matter of general regret at Trinity College.

As successor to Dr. Macklem, the Rev. Canon Charles Allen Seager, M.A., D.D., has been elected fifth Provost of Trinity College. Dr. Seager was born at Goderich, Ont., being the son of the County Crown Attorney for the County of Bruce. After matriculating from Goderich Collegiate he took a course in Honour at Trinity, under the late Rev. Dr. Clark, and graduated both in Arts and Divinity with high honours. He was ordained to the priesthood by the Bishop of Toronto, being appointed assistant to Dr. Roper, the present Bishop of Ottawa, at St. Thomas' Church, Huron Street. From this position he went as vicar to St. Cyril's, and from there to Vernon, B.C. Dr. Seager was appointed Principal of St. Mark's Hall in the Anglican Theological College of British Columbia, and when the outbreak of the war drained the College of students he came to Toronto to act as rector of St. Andrew's Church, and Canon of St. Alban's Cathedral. Dr. Seager is a preacher of marked ability, a deep scholar, and an eloquent lecturer, and the Corporation could hardly have made a more fortunate choice.

Wycliffe Professor Earns Coveted Degree

Word has recently been received here that Rev. Professor Wycliffe Filmer, M.A., B.D. (Oxon.), of Wycliffe College, has recently qualified for the degree of Doctor of Divinity (in Theology) from the University of Oxford. This Varsity wishes to join the many Toronto friends of Dr. Filmer in very sincere congratulations.

Parades Begin Shortly

Reference was made to the work of the Corps Physical Training in Wednesday's VARSITY. The medical examination of students to decide on their fitness for exercise is proceeding slowly but surely. The number to be examined is great and many days, if not weeks, must elapse before they are arranged in classes. It is strongly recommended that those intending to take their Physical Training in the Officers Training Corps not wait till these examinations are complete but to enter the Corps and so utilize the good weather which October usually brings for the open air drills. These are carried on in the garden of the contingent's headquarters at 184 College Street.

SIR R. L. BORDEN HERE NEXT WEEK

Ex-Premier To Deliver Marleeth Lecture Series

The establishment of trusts which render possible the delivery of lectures on special topics by eminent men is a feature of education which has been developing very steadily for some generations. Naturally, trusts of this character are greater in number in the Old World than in the New, but the great value of such special lectures is being increasingly recognized in North America.

When Mrs. Marleeth established the Pearson Kirkman Marleeth Lecture in the University of Toronto she exemplified a vision both far-reaching and constructive. Too little attention has been given in the past to the real study of the national movements of the United States and Canada, and if these lectures bring it about so that serious and impartial thought will be given to these movements to the national (as distinct from merely political) movements in the two countries, nothing but good can result. Insularity has become a vice in this country, a habit which has become a stumbling block, and since we are told that prevention is better than cure the Varsity recommends as a most effective preventive to these limiting prejudices the study of big things, broadening things, national things.

Sir Robert Borden should require no recommendation to the University and city; regardless of political partisans, his name and place in Canadian history are assured, and his presence in the city of Toronto during the years of war is unquestioned. The subject on which he will lecture, "The Evolution of the Canadian National Movement," is one which every Canadian should find of absorbing interest, as the Constitution under which we live is recognized by the most eminent jurists of the English-speaking world as a masterpiece of constructive statesmanship. Whether Canada is considered from the point of view of size, physical divisions, or the racial origins of its inhabitants, no thinking person can be blind to the fact that a Constitution which first brings into being a political unity, and then fosters the development of a sense of national consciousness (and surely there can be no question of the reality of Canadian Nationality since 1914-1918) is an unattained measure of admiration and appreciation.

Full appreciation of the Constitution and development of it can only come through knowledge; seekers after knowledge are offered the opportunity of hearing one of the most eminent of living Canadians speak on this vital subject, and it is earnestly hoped that Convocation Hall will be crowded to overflowing at each of the three lectures. It is not necessary to point out to students in the U. of T. that such an opportunity (coming as it does only once in a lifetime) is one which should not be lost, and that men will be well advised to sacrifice lighter pursuits in order to gain a greater appreciation of the Constitution under which they live.

The lectures will be given on October 5, 6 and 7, commencing at 8.15 p.m.

WIT THE VETERANS

Famous P.B.I. To Have Successor

The Varsity Veterans are busy organizing for the coming year and have a convincing program of winter recreation. Smokers are to be held at intervals; the Annual Informal Dance will take place shortly, and a grand March and Honor Roll in the new year. It is hoped that another war play rivaling P.B.I. of happy memory will be launched, in which every one of the returned men of college will be encouraged. The more pleasing memory of the war is being perpetuated.

TRINITY INITIATION

LAST NIGHT

The hand of welcome and quantities of green paint were extended to twenty-five Trinity freshmen on Thursday evening. Following the reading of the rules laid down for their conduct, the freshmen amused their seniors by their childish antics. Following the reading of the rules laid down for their conduct, the freshmen amused their seniors by their childish antics.

The situation is this: There are a large number of Varsity students who are playing every bit as well as they did last year. There are a large number of Varsity students who are playing every bit as well as they did last year. There are a large number of Varsity students who are playing every bit as well as they did last year.

As all the true Varsity students know Varsity has a new coach this year. Dr. John Macnamara was appointed honorary rugby coach for Varsity during the summer and he started right in to turn out the best and truest Varsity players. He is a coach full of pep and vim, being so enthusiastic about the rugby season that it is thought that before long he will be able to turn out the best and truest Varsity players. ## LEAGUES EXPLAIN IDEALS OF BRITISH LABOUR AND U.F.O.

British Labour Is In Strong Contrast To Soviet System Of Russia—U.F.O. Seeks To Develop Life of Farmers Intellectually and Socially

What is wrong with the existing social and industrial system? Why is there unrest among the workers of the country? What is the solution of the problem? Such are the problems confronting a group of men and women delegates engaged in studying the general industrial question in its solution during the Student Christian Movement Conference at Elgin House. Solutions to this pertinent problem are being offered to the students by Rev. E. Thomas, of the Methodist Social Service and Evangelistic Department; Mr. W. H. Alderson, President of the Board of Trade, Toronto; Mr. H. Tracy, of the British Labour Party; and Mr. Staples, Representative of the U.F.O.

The Christian viewpoint Dr. Thomas, in placing the industrial problem before the students, pointed out the fact that there is unrest among the workers of Canada and other countries. Why? First, because the worker has no control over the tools of industry and therefore is dependent upon the owners of industrial concerns for labour. This state of affairs has brought about by the invention and development of mechanical powers, as a result of which has emerged the owner class, which has ceased to produce for service and is engaged in production for profit.

Secondly, the present system is destroying the inventive and creative instincts of humanity. Such a state of industrial affairs is, from the Christian standpoint, morally wrong in that it denies personality and life to a being possessed of a living soul. Moreover, the result of the divine refusal to live as mere automata is plainly seen in the slowing down of the industrial wheels of progress.

Mr. Alderson's View What solution have the employers of labour for this problem? The men who control the means of production and on whom rests the task of initiating industrial progress under the present system. Mr. W. H. Alderson, President of the Board of Trade, who was to speak to the group on this phase of the subject, stated that he had no objection to the present system in the work of the Rotary Club than in the Canadian Manufacturers' Association or in the work of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of Canada. He dealt at some length with the growth and aims of the Rotary Club, pointing out that first service and friendship are the motto of the Club. He gave concrete examples of how the club attempts to measure up to its ideal and pointed out that it had been inspired by the same spirit as the industrial union of marine and shipbuilding workers of Canada. Two subjects are barred from discussion in the Rotary Club, namely, politics and religion. He stated that there are elements of a disturbing character in the city of Toronto and that the minimum wage of the industrial union of marine and shipbuilding workers of Canada would react upon the working-man by driving manufacturers to Montreal.

Judging from the amount of view it would appear that Mr. Alderson believed the present industrial system to be sound. True there were difficulties existing but these could be met by financial and personal assistance.

TENNIS MEET

MONDAY, OCT. 3

Club is Preparing For Intercollegiate Meet

At a meeting of the University of Toronto Tennis Club held on Wednesday afternoon in Hart House it was decided to begin the Annual University Tournament on Monday, October 3rd, on the grounds of the Toronto Tennis Club, Price Street (Yonge Street east). This tournament is open to all students of the University and Men's Singles and Men's Doubles. Entries will be accepted at Mr. Reed's Office, Hart House, on Saturday, September 30th, and will be accompanied by an entry fee of 50 cents for each event. In order that the tournament may be completed in time to meet the intercollegiate meet at Montreal it has been decided that the players must be ready to play within half an hour of the start of the match. The players who are to take part in the tournament are: Mr. W. V. Crossen, of the University of Toronto, as Chairman of the Tennis Committee. Mr. Crossen is undertaking most of the arduous task of running the tournament and players should co-operate in every way. The Executive of the Club is: Honorary President, Sir Robert Falconer; Honorary Vice-Pres., Professor Holker; Honorary Secretary, E. C. Little; Honorary Treasurer, E. C. Little; Chairman Tournament Committee, W. V. Crossen.

Students are reminded that tennis is a major sport and that a first class player may be found in the ranks of the club. The club is now being organized and consequently a large entry list is expected for this tournament. The Varsity players are prepared to give the Montreal stars a great battle for the honours this year.

RUGBY (Intercollegiate)

SENIOR SCHEDULE

Oct. 8—Toronto at Queen's (McGill a bye)

Oct. 1—Toronto at McGill (Queen's a bye)

Oct. 22—Queen's at McGill (Toronto a bye)

Oct. 29—McGill at Toronto (Queen's a bye)

Nov. 5—Queen's at Toronto (McGill a bye)

Nov. 12—McGill at Queen's (Toronto a bye)

N.B.—On October 1 will be held at the Stadium the annual Old Boys' Game between members of former teams and this year's Varsity Team.

INTERMEDIATE AND JUNIOR GAMES Games will be arranged by the members of the respective sections, but Semi-Finals and Finals must be played before November 12th and 14th respectively. Names of all players must be declared by November 5th.

OYEZ!

Rugby Season Starts Saturday With Double Header

Between the hours of 9 a.m. Friday and 12 noon Saturday, four thousand Varsity students will witness the opening of the Athletic Association and receive, in exchange for the necessary four bits, one pound each entitling the holder to admission to the big double-header at the Stadium on Saturday. It figures out at twenty-five cents per game for this big event. The Varsity Association will play the Blue play the curtain-raiser, opening up the great and glorious season. The feature event, as far as we are concerned, is the match between the Varsity and the New Army. Here's the chance to see all the Varsity Stars, past and present. There are a half dozen of them lining up with Argos. Here's your chance to look over the mighty Connaught. Here's your chance, Friday, to see what the good old Varsity spirit is. Here's your chance to see the Tigers, the conquerors of the West. All for four bits. Roll up! Roll up! We got behind! Ladies! Keep behind Jack and Gord. Duncin!

SOLDIER LOAN APPLICATIONS MUST BE IN BY OCT. 10

The arrangement whereby returned soldier-students may receive loans from the Alumni Association is to be continued this year. The amount of money available, however, will be considerably less than last year and only those who would otherwise be unable to continue their course should apply. All applications must be in the hands of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Alumni Association, 184 College Street, by October 10th.

QUEEN'S HALL BEGINS YEAR WITH "LIGHTS OUT"

Monday night saw the annual Fall invasion of Queen's Hall. And although lights were out, necessitating much prowling about with the aid of lanterns, the incident merely added to the hilarious confusion of "first night."

The freshmen, of course, had to watch their step most carefully while being piloted to their new quarters, but the prevailing gloom proved no obstacle to the senior girls who found their own haunts and those of their pals without difficulty. And great was the hubbub which then arose! Nor did it die down till many an hour had elapsed by midnight.

The doings of the summer and plans for the winter; the gossip about last year's seniors (special credit to the senior girls who found their own haunts and those of their pals without difficulty. And great was the hubbub which then arose! Nor did it die down till many an hour had elapsed by midnight.)

On Tuesday night some of the seniors in No. 7 decided to have a party for the freshmen in their house. That the said freshmen have some vague notion of the late that with their tiny bodies and slender waists, on being invited to the party, ignited in a voice half fearful, half silly, and good spirits over a multitude of sins, and of these there was an abundance (notwithstanding the fact that Rancy was represented.)

NOTICE, VARSITY VETERANS! There will be a meeting of the Executive and Council of the Varsity Veterans in the Lecture Room, Hart House, on Friday, September 30, at 5 p.m. IMPORTANT.

NEW LECTURER IN ECONOMIC HISTORY

Cambridge Graduate Who Read Paper at Imperial Conference

The Economics Department opens the fall term with an addition to the staff in the person of Professor Fay, a graduate of King's College, Cambridge, and for the past fourteen years a lecturer in Christ's College, Cambridge. Professor Fay will be Professor of Economic History and is handling practically all the important classes in the University in this subject. To many interested in Economic questions the new member of the staff will already be known from his publication of a large work on "Co-operation" and his "Life and Times of Thomas Mun, 1571-1621."

During the war Professor Fay was in the Machine Gun Corps and for one year was attached to the Canadian Corps in connection with Machine Gun Staff work. He came to Canada for the first time this summer to attend the Imperial Teachers' Conference, where his paper on "The Liaison between the Universities and the World of Business" attracted widespread attention.

In his last lecture at Cambridge Professor Fay held the position of Senior Proctor. Following the custom of English Universities it was his solemn duty to go about in ceremonial attire taking the names of delinquents who had dared to transgress any of the rules and regulations of the College preparatory to a suitable punishment. On the occasion of his last Proctor he proved very successful and left Cambridge exceedingly popular with the students.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF S.A.C. JOINS STAFF

Rev. Sydney Childs Accepts Post At Trinity

Another of Varsity's Old Boys returns to the fold. The Rev. Sydney Childs, former three times President of the Students' Christian Association Council, returns again to Trinity this year as Financial Secretary to the College and also as lecturer in Philosophy.

Childs has an honourable distinction of having served on the Students' Council for six years, three years as an undergraduate and on security his B.A. in the Editor of the "Trinity" as President of the Council for the following three years, during which he secured his divinity degree.

Much of the success of THE VARSITY Supplement is due to the unparagoned efforts devoted to it by Mr. Childs. In the past he has been Editor of the Supplement for three years, '16, '17 and '18 Mr. Childs played a prominent part in the raising of thousands of dollars which were devoted to Varsity's war work.

Following his graduation Mr. Childs accepted the post of assistant curate at St. James Cathedral of this city, and in the September of the next year was transferred to Ottawa as curate at St. George's Church, which post he held until this summer.

The University is fortunate in being able to welcome to her staff one who, during the past few years, has been such a prominent part in student activities. The Varsity is confident that the same success will attend Mr. Childs' efforts in the new position, and that the staff that characterized his undertakings as an undergraduate.

"Patches" Will Appear at the End of the Month

The first number of PATCHES will be issued towards the end of October. Last year's staff, though badly torn by the graduation of some of its members, has been able to produce, by the inclusion of new members.

PATCHES is U.C. magazine—the faithful record weekly while being piloted to their new quarters, but the prevailing gloom proved no obstacle to the senior girls who found their own haunts and those of their pals without difficulty. And great was the hubbub which then arose! Nor did it die down till many an hour had elapsed by midnight.

As soon as possible the year representatives will begin their work of writing their contributions. Let those approached welcome the aforesaid smilingly and with a willingness to help. Cartoonists will be asked to contribute. There will be not less acceptable than articles of sober truth, all contributions to be given in at the Post Office.

On Tuesday, October 4th, at 2.15 in the Women's Union, St. George Street, there will be a general meeting of the PATCHES staff, year representatives included.

Med. Reception To-Night

While sophomore and senior year representatives in its shadow the Varsity "Y" organization is the freshman's first experience in the world of the "Y." He is making use of it for many of his wants and it scarcely ever fails him. With all the students, the organization is growing and increasing in popularity year by year and its activities are looked forward to.

To-night 150 medical freshmen are being entertained in the House to a stung night and an energetic committee has a programme arranged that will make the chaps wearing the scarlet tie forget all about their other troubles. There is going to be but one speech and that is by Dean Primrose. Two boxing bouts by Gray and Black and Cossage, are scheduled. "Eats" for all.

WHY WORK?

After all, why should we work? Why spoil one's College course by going to lectures, and by plugging hour after hour at the meetings of men who are dead and gone—we know where we should have sent them—when there are so many other activities that claim one's attention and interest? What's the use of it when we know that a kind-hearted Providence has endowed one with brains enough to get over the year's work in the last six weeks and still get a very respectable third, or even a second? How often we reason thus, not so much at this time of year as later in the session. How ready we are to accept the old interpretation of the Genesis story and believe that Work was sent as a punishment for man's sin and that Heaven is a state of rest in which our tasks are all done and done with. It is well that at the outset of our year we should realize the fallacy of this view of Work. The Pauline dictum, "Let this be known among you, that if any man will not work neither shall he eat," is not only sound theology, but is also sound economics. Work is not an imposition, but a duty and a privilege, and the man who does not appreciate the fact that without real work his personality cannot gain full play is indeed unfortunate. It is all right to work for a degree. It is better to work for the knowledge gained, but above all it is good to work for work's sake. The greatest happiness is the knowledge of a congenial and useful task well done and the prospect of another to be done.

A PRODUCER'S MOVEMENT

In another column we have reviewed the discussions of the group on Social and Industrial Problems at the S.C.M. Conference. Mr. Tracey, a leader of the Labour movement in Great Britain, and Mr. Staples, of the Educational Department of the U.F.O., gave the delegates much food for thought. But they gave something more—suggestion of the potentialities of the Farmer-Labour Alliance, not only in our Province, but as a factor in the life of our whole Dominion. We see glimmers of hope, not of new O.B.U., not merely of a strong political party, but of a united movement with the ideal of political power in a place of secondary importance and the ideal of production for the good of the community at large as its first interest. Such a movement could do more than any political party to solve the great industrial problems of our day. It is for us as students to carefully study the ideals of these two important groups in our national life, that when we take our own places in the world, we may rightly weigh the issues, and not be led by the by-word of the hour or the street cry of the moment, nor on the other hand, be hidebound by conventional prejudices. Any movement which places the interest of the community before private gain merits our support.

THE LENGTH OF THE SUMMER VACATION

There has been some discussion in the past in certain college circles about the length of the summer vacation. It is felt that the college year is not only shortened by the three months' holiday in the summer but also that the average student brain ossifies and stagnates during that period. No sooner does a student get his work thoroughly under way and his interest aroused when vacation time comes around again and interrupts his progress. Those who believe that the vacation period is not too long maintain that holidays need not interrupt one's progress. During holidays a good student will digest thoroughly the knowledge he has received and will gain a perspective that was impossible during the term. Moreover, he is free to follow any particular course of study or investigation that appeals to him and for which he had not leisure during the college year. Vacation also gives him an opportunity to prepare some of his next year's work. Certainly those students who use the long vacation to earn money to assist them in the next year must be considered. Of these there is a large number in this University and they usually are the students who realize the value of their college training so should be encouraged, not hindered.

After the strain and stress of examinations the average student needs a rest, but not necessarily a long one. The remaining time may be profitably spent either in gaining practical experience by working or in broadening his mind by wide reading, not forgetting recreation.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Readers of THE VARSITY will be glad to see the increased size of our sheet. The addition of two inches to the page gives us approximately eleven per cent. more space.

The delay in delivery of the first issue of THE VARSITY was due to the fact that it was impossible to procure enough monotypers. This deficiency has been remedied and we hope no such irregularity will take place again.

A senior member of the Editorial Staff is going to contribute eight valuable editorials on sporting subjects, the first of which will appear in Monday's issue. We are sure our readers will eagerly welcome a discussion of this important phase of our college life.

BRITISH LABOUR LEADER

Mr. H. Tracey, of the British Labour Party, in presenting the solution to the industrial system as seen by the Labour movement of his homeland, first dealt with the organic development of the Labour Party and secondly with its ideals. Two opposing tendencies have tendency for ascendancy in the organized working-class movement since its formation half a century ago. The one based upon the desires of the Third International, with headquarters at Moscow, has as its fundamental principle a philosophy of violence and resolves itself into the Soviet system of government. This tendency reached its climax in the Soviet system of Russia after which time it began to ebb. For example, Russia is modifying the Soviet principles after having experienced the worst results of applying the theories underlying the social Revolution too sharply and suddenly. In other words, the idea of the present system to-day, revolution to-morrow, and a new social order the day following, is rapidly departing from the minds of the people. In stating the fact that Revolution is not the product primarily of theory but of necessity which leads people to revolt when conditions become unbearable, Mr. Tracey said that this was a warning to governments and defenders of the existing system. For it may be that the unemployment situation may bring about the prevalence of revolutionary propaganda if not revolutionary action. On the other hand the British Labour Party is based upon the Second International, with headquarters at London, seeks to achieve social transformation by the method of parliamentary democracy, by the economic of political power through an organized working class party obtaining a parliamentary majority legislating social and economic evils out of existence. The speaker stated emphatically that the British Labour movement is definitely pledged to the parliamentary method of social transformation.

Answering the question, "What is Labour's programme?" Mr. Tracey stated that Labour hopes to bring about a conversion of public opinion in favour of, first, public ownership of vital industries and public services, e.g., mines, railways, power plants, etc. Secondly, democratic control of these concerns by securing the best obtainable system of popular control and democratic administration. Public ownership means the abolition of a system whereby industry is run by private capitalists for the purpose of making private profits. Labour believes that this system is morally and materially discredited, that capitalism as a system is running down.

The Farmers' Suggestions

Mr. Staples, in presenting the solution of the United Farmers of Ontario for the problem facing the Agrarian Department of the present industrial and social system, outlined first the historical setting of the movement, the organization, the ideals of the movement and how the movement retains these ideals.

The farmers' movement has two distinct departments, a general organization of the U.F.O., which is educational and social in character, and the co-operative company which is concerned with business. By these means the ever-present conflict between the business and educational phases of life is avoided.

The fact was strongly emphasized by Mr. Staples that the aspirations of the real farmers were rooted in the soil of their forefathers because their farms meant something personal and vital to them in a way so different from the shareholder in a business. Moreover, he pointed out that during the Macdonald regime the farmer had been overwhelmed with the idea of protection until he came to think in those terms only, letting the intellectual and public-minded side of his nature go undeveloped. But a new ideal has been presented to the farmer. That of educating himself in public matters in marketing his produce and in scientific farming until he can prove himself a real service to the community. What is the new ideal? It is the all-round development of the intellectual and social phases of man's being. The working out of a co-operative system which will give the farmer a personal interest in the business of marketing and buying so that he could feel proud of the service rendered to the community.

In concluding Mr. Staples declared that the great task of the present was that of educating their people to the ideal and of securing them in their development towards this ideal.

Through the presentation of the many phases of the industrial problem the students could not help but be struck by the fair attitude, of the supporters of a new system, toward the employers and owning class labouring under the difficulty of the present system. Mr. Thomas repeatedly pointed out the difficult problems confronting the employer to-day and some of the courageous attempts being made to correct them. Both Mr. Tracey and Mr. Staples conveyed the same idea and disclaimed any concept on that their people were more efficient, less selfish, or better in any way than any other class of people, but they did maintain that their ideals were unselfish, which they could not say of the existing system.

The whole question, viewed from the eyes of the student, leads one to regret that Mr. Alderson did not deal more fully with the fundamental problems of the employer for to students studying the problems confronting the country it is of little concern whether the present system or some new system produces an employer for to students studying the problems confronting the country it is of little concern whether the present system or some new system is employed to produce the results required.

Interfaculty Track Meet

Monday, Oct. 10th, 1921

Training for track men daily, 4.30 to 5.30, Stadium track.
Turn out—support your faculty.
Following are the events:
100 yards
220 yards
440 yards
Half Mile Run
One Mile Run
Decatur
Shot
Hammer
Running Broad Jump
Running High Jump
120 Yards Hurdles
Pole Vault
Three Mile Run
One Mile Walk
Interfaculty Relay
(1 Men, 440 each)

WALKERS

There will be a one mile walk on the card at the Interfaculty Track and Field Meet on Monday, October the 10th. There are still 10 days in which to get in shape for this event. Four or five walkers turned out yesterday and it is hoped that many more will follow their example during the next week and a half. Dress at Hart House and get a rub there after your work out. Mr. Halbus will be on the track every day anxious to assist any new or old men at the game.

TRINITY TRACK MEET

The annual field day will be held on Friday, October 7th, preliminaries on the day before. Get into shape and support your year and try for a place on the interfaculty team. Real training may be had by any in earnest at the Varsity Stadium any afternoon from 4.30 to 5.30. All events of the interfaculty meet. Are you any good? If not, why not?

LACROSSE TOUR

The University Lacrosse Team met with varied success last spring on its trip to the States, winning only two of the seven games that were played in eleven days. Wins were turned in against Hobart and Penn State College, losses against Crescent Athletic Club, New York, Army Training Station at West Point, Johns Hopkins and Mount Washington at Baltimore.

The reasons for so many losses are that the team was much lighter than those it was called upon to meet, inability to carry substitutes, too many games in the time in proportion to the distances to be travelled, difference in rules.

Against Hobart Varsity played the ten man game and made a good showing. In all other games there were twelve men to the side. Two half hour periods constituted a game. The Crescents had a heavy team but had to fight all the way to win. Johns Hopkins only managed to win their game in the last 30 seconds. They were leading 4-1 with 15 minutes to go. The Varsity men then put into effect a play pivoting on Magee at centre which so puzzled the Americans that the score was tied in a few minutes. They were unable to deliver the punch to win the game, however.

Special mention might be made of the splendid work of Firth in goal, Magee at centre and Keith at inside home.

TRACK AND FIELD SPORTS

The Canadian Intercollegiate Track Meet will be held on October 22nd at Kingston.

University of Toronto Interfaculty Track Meet will be held on Monday, October 10th, at 2 p.m.

NOTICE*COMPULSORY TRAINING

All students in the First and Second Years are required by the Board of Governors to take Physical Training. (See University Calendar.)

A medical examination is given to each student at the beginning of the fall term. He will then be assigned to a class under the Gymnasium Directors and his attendance at that class will be recorded by roll call. A minimum attendance of eighty per cent. (80%) will be required and the student will be responsible for the record of his attendance.

WARNINGS

All students are cautioned against playing with outside clubs during their college course. The following is a clause from the Articles of Alliance between the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, March 31, 1911:

SECTION 5.—No student eligible to compete in any intercollegiate contest SHALL REPRESENT A NON-COLLEGE CLUB or organization during the college term unless liberated by the members of the C.I.A.U. concerned, but this shall not be interpreted to prevent a student from representing a non-college club during the long vacation.

Violation of this rule renders the offender liable to suspension not only by the C.I.A.U., but also by the A.A.U. of Canada.

All students are cautioned against taking part in unsanctioned track and boxing meets, which will affect the amateur standing of all participants. If a student wishes to compete during the University terms he must apply to the Directorate for permission.

FALL FASHION NOTES FOR THE WELL DRESSED FROTH

A new note this autumn in the ever-changing styles for young men and men who stay young is the introduction of a more daring effect in neckwear by several of our well-known children-about-town. It must be said that the effect is not entirely pleasing to the older and more responsible man, and he is quite satisfied to remain true to the more or less (some more but some less, sad to relate) conventional cravat. However, in this modern era when impetuous youth will assert itself the more settled element must sit back and watch the result of the youngsters' effort to dictate the fashions.

The first to break the bonds of restraint were the "set" known as the "School Kids." They adopted the Nature theme in their choice of four-in-hands, the line doubtless being characteristic of the great green out-of-doors in which they hope to spend their lives peering through their transits and theodolites.

The doctors in embryo quickly took up the mode and, inspired by the thoughts of the gore in which they were wallowing later on in their clinical years, blossomed forth in a gorgeous shade of red. In some circles this colour is not considered as quite the thing to wear, but the children must have their fling.

The newest members of Dr. Hutton's finishing school for young men have, in their usual quiet way, ventured forth into yellow as becomes those who will devote their lives to the arts.

Following the usual custom, Derby hats and sticks have been discarded. Spats will not be worn. They are not considered as fair by the arbiters of fashion. At the time of writing no less than twelve of the neophytes have paraded into THE Varsity office, apparently in an endeavor to establish an old, old fashion in men's attire. They were charmingly gowned in a style that held full sway at the time of Belshazzar, of Biblical fame, yes, even before he ate the apple. Dr. Burton, who is conducting the physical examination and research in the realms of pardiades next door, greatly appreciated their efforts, but the effect was quite lost in your reporter.

STUDENTS HEAR MISSIONARIES

Prominent Workers Speak Before Elgin House S.C.M. Conference

The theme of the Missionary Group conducted every day by different missionaries on furlough was "The Impact of Canada on Non-Christian Lands."

Rev. Geo. G. Simmons, an educationalist from the Canadian Anglican Diocese of Honan, China, spoke of Canada's impact on China. Politically, our influence has been marked and appreciation has been definitely shown by the eminent Mr. Wong. Spiritually, Christian enterprise is apparent in the decay of the Eastern religions. In the sphere of education we find the Chinese student now cutting his traditionally uncut finger-nails as a symbol that he now recognizes it a duty and a privilege to "serve society." Industrially, too, we find China revolutionized by contact with our people; factories, bridges and tunnels are now seen despite conservative and superstition.

Miss Dorothy Kilpatrick, of the Canadian Presbyterian Diocese in Central India, speaking in her rich-down Oriental costume of rose-pink and apple-green, gave a most charming address on the wonders and needs of India, together with a glimpse of her work there. The curse of India is the terrible caste system—only the religion of Jesus Christ can face the millions in bondage. Miss Kilpatrick is principal of a school of 150 low-class natives in Ruttam.

Mr. Orchard gave another powerful address on India, where he also carried on evangelistic work in the interior. He dealt first with the character of the native Indian; he is the most religious man on earth, patient and persistent, lying and unmarred, yet "holy" without. Mr. Orchard described the caste system as "the greatest evil in the world—the most unbrotherly, unprogressive, anti-Christian, anti-social." Next he threw light on the high civilization to which India has attained, and remarked on the importance of the cotton and jute industries. But granted the truth of Prof. Fiedick's words, "Materialism—immorality—downfall." What of these poor 220,000,000 souls? The challenge to a healthy Christian Canadian impact is obvious.

Miss Trent, for 27 years with the Canadian Anglicans in Mid-Japan, touched on the beauties and high civilization of the "Flowery Kingdom." She described methods of evangelistic work and conversion employed in her rather more personal, quiet work. Miss Wellswood, representing the Methodist Mission in West China, dwelt on the failing of Confucianism with the indignity and dependence of women which it involved. Christianity is the only solution. She is the founder of a Nurses' Training School, from which eight women have already graduated. Her description of a Chinese romance by correspondence was delightful.

Mr. Murray Brooks, of the McGill Mission, Ceylon, wound up the missionary classes with an excellent report on India. He drew attention to the antiquity, complexity and stability of India—the latter due to the British who are, he declared, India's benefactors materially, spiritually and politically. Varsity is due to their treating the Indian as an inferior being, and hence the religious situation is bound up intricately with the political; and would Christianity return but show a brotherly spirit. India's problems would solve themselves readily in Christ's religion—and India knows it. The great religions of India are due to vanish as did those of the Roman Empire. Two lines of Hindu poetry seem to paint the scene: "People rejoice in the light of the moon; But they look for the rising of the sun."

Dentistry

An enthusiastic meeting of the swimmers of the College took place in the Board Room yesterday at 11:45. Plans for the coming season were discussed and polo teams chosen. Many new men were out and the interest in swimming at Dents seems to be on the rise. Any one else who was not present and who cares for this, the finest of all indoor sports, lend in your name to Mr. W. J. (Pat) Riley 213.

Don't forget the Parliament Meeting in Lecture Room No. 3 on Monday evening. All men interested in any branch of athletics are particularly urged to be present to decide on grants to the different sports, Hya Yaka and R.D.S. A special invitation is extended to first year men. Come out and learn how your college is governed and how your money is spent. Every one on the Track Committee is working hard for the Big Meet on the 6th. Are You?

Mr. Ernie Wallace was right on the job with a gallon jug of liniment to look after the track and field men. A great many turned out but we want more. Dress at Hart House and come down from the Stadium for a rub. Hot showers after six o'clock are an innovation, but thanks to some diligent agitator the Powers that Be have given us boiling water, the panacea for all muscle aches and cramps.

Medicine

In the past two years the number of students applying for admission to the First Year of Medicine has increased till it passed the bounds of accommodation, and this year for the first time measures have had to be taken to limit the entrance, with the result that of 220 applicants only 143 were accepted. The selection of these was a difficult matter, but preference was given first to returned men and to those whose standing was higher than pass Junior Matriculation, and then to the age of the applicant, any who were unusually young being advised to apply again next year.

The total registration is 1,066, made up as follows:

First Year	143
Second Year	191
Third Year (6)	140
Third Year (5)	207
Fourth Year	226
Fifth Year	159

University College is fortunate, indeed, to have secured a man of the ability of Harry Lennox to coach her soccer team.

The U.C. Freshies received a kindly welcome to their College Thursday afternoon at a tea given by the new Head of the U.C. Women's Union. After refreshments were served, Miss Waddington addressed the gathering in happy fashion. She expressed the wish that the new students would start their academic year with sound principles and a realization of the fact that the standards of the University must be upheld in every possible manner, not only in the classroom but also in student organizations and sporting fields.

OPTIMISTIC MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT AT CONVOCATION

First Sermon of the Year an Inspiring Appeal to Student Body For Intelligent Reading and Study

With optimism as his keynote, Sir Robert Falconer spoke to a large congregation at Convocation Hall yesterday morning on the five eighteen verses of the Gospel of St. John.

"These verses," the President, "are the writer's theology. They are a picture to his eyes, expressing his belief in God's Word, the creation of the world, and in the life which first moved across a formless void. Then reason came into existence and the human race was illumined by Divine Reason."

"Philosophy," continued Sir Robert, "became an endeavour to get a reasonable basis for our life."

John's philosophy was the most profound in the New Testament. Now, on this convocation, we are too inclined to be philosophers. We are afraid of philosophy. We are afraid of theology. One reason why so many religious have dropped out of this continent is our lack of philosophy.

The speaker went on to explain the history of the coming of Christ which John gives. He emphasized one clause: "We beheld His glory, full of grace and truth." Jesus was gracious. He charmed men in his own day, and He has charmed the world ever since. So many people to-day do not charm, but repel us. His charm, however, is universal.

Jesus brought grace and truth. It has been said that truth is adamant. Jesus, then, could not be bent to the ways of the world, yet He was full of charm. Others, not He, changed, for He was always the same.

There is much chaos and confusion in our world to-day. The idea of the progress of mankind is no longer universally accepted. Scientists alone work on calmly, believing that the world is reasonable, and the laws of nature firm. There is not, however, the same trust in human nature. Too many people are drifting along from day to day, and living in the present. Yet the very root of Christianity lies in the belief that not only the world outside, but human nature is reasonable. Truth is a real thing. Society is improving. Behind everything is a divine pervasive influence.

The speaker concluded a most inspiring address with an appeal to young men and women to read the Gospels with open eyes, and to believe that there are signs of growing light—bright impressions on the world by Jesus Christ.

Varsity Students WANTED at McGill

U. of T. Supporters Should Cheer Varsity to Victory on 15th

As most students know, Varsity plays McGill in Montreal on October 15th in one of the two big rugby games of the year. In addition to the excitement and interest that the Varsity match will always create, there is a feature that makes this particular game worthy of special mention. The McGill Centre has a tradition close on the day of this game and graduates of old McGill will be there from near and far for the announced intention of witnessing a fitting consummation to McGill's greatest week of celebration and Varsity students, the consummation they desire and expect is the crushing defeat of the team that represents You by the Red and White aggregation. But it isn't going to happen. We are going to witness old McGill in their own back yard. To accomplish this end the team must be supported by a united student body. Consequently, Varsity must have a large representation of students in Montreal for the game on the 15th of October.

The University of Toronto Alumni Association of Montreal has reserved a block of 700 seats in the middle sections of the stand and this Association is sending our Athletic Association 200 of these seats for Varsity students. As soon as these seats arrive particulars regarding their sale will be published in The Varsity but meanwhile will be reserved in advance. There will be preparations made for music and colour-schemes, and if the students will only support the Rugby Club the Blue and White will be there in all its pride and glory. Watch THE VARSITY for further particulars of the trip, keep the date open, then go to Montreal and leave the rest to Maynard, Duncan and Co.

CONVOCATION CHOIR HIKE

Plans are now under way for the annual Choir Hike. All members are urged to keep the date open and to be on hand. Any students who are not already members would be glad to join the Choir this year are invited to come with us. Date—Thursday, October 6th. Watch the next issue of Varsity for particulars.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION

The Annual Meeting of the University of Toronto Rifle Association will be held in the lecture room, Hart House, on Tuesday, October 4th, at 5 p.m. All interested in shooting should attend.

Varsity Veterans There will be a meeting of Executive and Council of Varsity Veterans, Tuesday, October 4th, at 5 p.m., Lecture Room, Hart House.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR REV. DR. REYNOR IN VICTORIA CHAPEL

On Friday morning the chapel of Victoria College was the scene of a most impressive memorial service for the late Rev. Alfred H. Reynor, D.D., who died in Cobourg on September 23rd last. The service was held in the morning at 10 o'clock, and was presided over by the Rev. Dr. F. H. Wallace, recently retired from the faculty of the College, paid high tribute to the life work and fine personality of Dr. Reynor.

Shortly after entering the ministry Dr. Reynor became a professor in Victoria University, and remained on the staff in various departments for upwards of 40 years. In his many offices he was a man of great energy and initiative, and a man of great personal charm. He was a man of great personal charm. He was a man of great personal charm.

Varsity Staff A meeting of all men of the Staff will be held in the Varsity Staff House, this afternoon at 4:00. As the staff must be organized at once, it is imperative that every man be on hand.

MODEST MILLINERY IN MAIN BUILDING

Freshmen Flaunt Flag of Frivility

This week will see a new variety of millinery haunting the hallowed halls of the Main Building. The latest additions to the cohorts of the Artsmen will be brazenly flaunting their allegiance before the eager eyes of fellow-freshmen from faculties afar, for in Hart House and on the University Grounds it has been decreed that the Fresh must wear red and white caps, and on no account may he remove them, day nor even when he approaches the confines of civilization and attempts to beat a passage on the lurid lines of the lost, those thrillers that rush raging on our streets, all for seven cents.

And for many long weeks will the Frosh continue in outer darkness, unrelieved except by red and white, for not until the final period of this month will their formal introduction to the melancholy halls of the Sophomore take place, when the sacred precincts will resound to the wails of the woebegone, the shrieks of the sacrifice and the groans of guileless, the rivers will run green with paint and the halls will be splashed with—

But I fear, O ye of little learning, that I am divulging the plans of the most serene sophomores, those noble beings who have passed in your way, more successfully than it shall be your lot to do, for did not the class of 214 utter roil the assembled armies of their predecessors and drive them with disastrous damage from the place of arms?

University College

U.C. WOMEN

Mass Meeting of women of 274 in East Hall on Tuesday at 10 a.m.

U.C. SOCCER

The hours for practice on back campus will soon be announced. All who intend to turn out and play for their College should watch for the announcement. Let us have a good turnout for a first practice and show that U.C. can produce a real soccer team. We have the goods, let's show 'em.

PATCHES

Contributions to the forthcoming issue of "Patches" should be left at the Post Office at once. Short stories, poems, articles appropriate to a U.C. magazine, cartoons and drawings, are all available for publication.

There will be a meeting of the "Patches" staff, year representatives included, Tuesday, at 2:15, in the Women's Union, St. George Street.

Soccer Prospects Most Encouraging

Warden Bickersteth Is New Coach

The initial meeting of the Soccer Executive was held on Friday evening last and reports indicate a very encouraging outlook for the coming season. The club has been very fortunate in securing Mr. Bickersteth, the newly appointed Warden of Hart House, to act as coach. Mr. Bickersteth not only has a thorough knowledge of the game, but also captained the champion Oxford eleven in pre-war days. Varsity has always had abundance of good material and with Mr. Bickersteth in charge the class of soccer played here will not only be greatly improved but a very creditable team should be turned out.

The majority of the members of last year's Senior and Intermediate Inter-collegiate Champions are back and are available for this year. Underhill, Spaulding, Evans, Smullic, D'Easum, Grey, Nicholson and Johnson of last year's Seniors are one while Grant, Wetherill, Lounsbury and Glover up to date are making strong bids for the first team.

In addition to the intercollegiate games Varsity hopes to enter a Senior Team in the Bridgton Cup Series in the T. & D. League. These games are starting immediately and will necessitate everyone turning out this week. The schedule for these and the intercollegiate games will be announced later. Mr. Breuls has again been appointed manager of the Intermediates and is desirous that the team should start on a double schedule in the intercollegiate games this year. This will require an early start, so everyone interested should turn in and get into shape for a place on the Seniors, Intermediates or the Faculty team.

A meeting of the Soccer Executive will be held on Wednesday, October 5, at 4:30 p.m., in Hart House, opposite Mr. Reed's office, for the purpose of drawing up the intercollegiate schedule. Each Faculty desirous of entering a team is requested to send two representatives.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

Mr. Student! In the midst of your academic and social activities are you overlooking one of the greatest things in your University career and one of the worth-while things in your life, namely, the acquisition of that intangible something called Varsity spirit. At the present time you have in the Intercollegiate Union a Varsity Rugby Team that stands for the things you stand for and that is striving for that for which you are striving, namely, a greater University of Toronto. This team is starting now to defend its titles and your title of Intercollegiate Champions and Dominion Champions. These are laurel wreaths that must not be lost without fighting for them with the spirit that Varsity men have always known and revered, the spirit that has come through the ages and that is our glorious heritage. Your rugby coach is Dr. Jack Maynard, one of the most brilliant players who ever wore the colours you should be proud to uphold all the wonderful traditions of Varsity's past and whose achievements will reanimate the shades of the Rugby players who have gone before. Don't say, "Shag will beat us," because "Shag" isn't going to beat us. With your support we shall win again and if, by chance, we lose, we shall lose fighting with the knowledge that you are behind the team. Go to the Stadium. Watch your team. Boost your team. Cheer them in victory and in defeat, and by degrees, almost imperceptibly you will acquire that spirit without which no student can call himself a real Varsity man. Jack Maynard said to the team at a meeting not long ago: "Varsity, it is inconceivable to me that the University of Toronto should be anywhere but at the top." Mr. Student, what are you doing to keep her there?

RUGBY CLUB DINNER A GREAT SUCCESS

Many Old Boys Present

After the Varsity Old Boys' game on Saturday an informal dinner was tendered to the teams in the Great Hall, Hart House. About seventy-five grads. and undergrads were present and the enthusiastic show promised well for the coming rugby season. Mr. Jardine supplied music during the dinner, after which Mr. G. M. Purcell, President of the Rugby Club, made a short speech welcoming the guests and asking the support of a united University behind Dr. Maynard and Captain Duncan. Sir Robert Falconer, the guest of honour, spoke of the high place held by athletics in the University of Toronto and he stated that he always had at heart the best interests of Varsity teams in all lines of sport. Mr. J. Burdon Bickersteth, M.C. and Bar, the new warden of Hart House, was introduced and spoke enthusiastically of U. of T.'s rugby prospects. He was followed by Dr. Jack Maynard, Dr. Hendry, Dr. Smirle Lawson, "Laddie" Cassels, "Gamsy" Stratton and Goad. Duncan. The dinner did much to foster players and executives with the spirit to win and it is the intention of the Rugby Club to hold other similar functions throughout the season.

Additional Course at St. Michael's

Graduates May Now Proceed to Holy Orders

The beginning of this session finds many changes at St. Michael's College, the most important of which is the addition of a course in Theology. Until this year, graduates who wished to proceed in Holy Orders had to attend Assumption College, Sandwich, for their theological work. Henceforth this course will be given at St. Michael's, and to this end several new appointments have been made.

Rev. W. J. Roach has been transferred from Assumption College, where he had held the post of Professor of Ethics. Father Roach is a graduate of U. of T., and at one time was President of St. Thomas' College in Chatham, N.B. The chair of Dogmatic Theology will be filled by Father Hurley, who has studied at St. Michael's, Assumption College, and Rome. Rev. B. Sullivan, M.A., of the Catholic University of America, and the Rev. A. P. Dummer, of Assumption College, have also been appointed to the staff of the new Faculty.

Rev. C. P. Donovan, who lectured in Ethics last year to the Arts students, has returned to Assumption College, and his post at St. Michael's will be filled by Rev. E. G. McCormick.

In view of the increased registration this year, it has been found necessary to make extensive alterations within the building. The residence at St. Mary's Street, has been taken over and equipped as an infirmary, with a resident matron and assistant in charge; while the old infirmary has been partitioned off into extra rooms to accommodate the Arts students. The large residence will be occupied jointly by students in the faculties of Arts and Theology.

Not the least important innovation, in the opinion of most of the undergraduates, is the installation of a swimming pool, which will soon be completed.

Varsity Team Victory After Star Aggregation

"Varsity" Staff

Will all members of "The Varsity" Staff who will be placed this year place their names and phone numbers on the lists posted in the respective offices. It is necessary that this be done at once to enable the Managing Editors to complete the Staff List.

SONGS AND SPEECH AT VIC'S FIRST LIT.

Enthusiasm ran high at the opening meeting of the Union Literary Society of Victoria College, at its opening meeting for the Fall term, held in Alumni Hall on Saturday night. The meeting was interesting throughout and, judging by the large attendance and the interest shown, indications are that the "Lit." will be bigger and better than ever.

All joined heartily in the opening song services led by Mr. E. C. Marr, '23, and Mr. Roy Rickard, after which Mr. L. W. Brown, '22, rendered a clarinet solo. Amidst the reverberating echoes of the royal salute, His Majesty's representative "She smells the Sun" arrived and delivered the Speech from the Throne. Besides containing the usual humour, as well as such pardons and titles his gracious majesty saw fit to bestow on both diligent and deserving members of the "Lit." the "Speech from the Throne" foreshadowed the policy of the party in power for this term.

The feature of the evening's meeting was the address delivered by Mr. Herbert Tracey, journalist and Secretary to Mr. Arthur Henderson of the British Labour Party. In a very forceful and eloquent manner he outlined the policy and organization of the British Labour Movement. "The Labour Movement," he said, "was the most challenging and most organized movement of our time and we as students, should try to bear on an arising crisis." The British Labour Movement, he said, "is a federation of societies not inspired by a class principle, nor is it inspired by a spirit of antagonism. The idea of revolution as a means to gain their end has changed to the method of political education ultimately to gain the end by legislation. Class war he held to be immoral, unchristian and undemocratic. After the critic's report given by Mr. J. C. Eastcott the meeting adjourned to the common room for a bun feed, which was ravishly indulged in.

Active legislation will be introduced at the next meeting of "Lit." Come out and join in the discussion.

RECEPTION AT VIC. FOR OLD AND YOUNG

S.C.A. Welcomes Frosh

S.C.A. activities commenced at Victoria on Saturday, October 1, when the annual reception of Freshmen was held on the College grounds. Let us say that this was the formal commencement of activities, because S.C.A. influence at Victoria is in reality co-existent with the year, commencing on the first day and operating as a strong force in the College until the last student leaves in the spring.

The reception was under the joint management of the Women's and Men's Associations, being a fine example of collaboration between Eds and Co-eds. However, the Co-eds gave precedence to the Eds to the extent of allowing a mere man to act as chairman, which Mr. J. Endicott, '23, did most admirably under the trying circumstances.

The programme included refreshments, which afforded an opportunity to the Freshmen, and he it said in tribute to their good judgment, men of the higher years, and even a few well-known grads., to meet some of the fair Freshettes; orchestral and solo selections, near-community singing, and the customary speeches of welcome, reassurance and sympathy to the Frosh. The speakers were: Miss Gertrude Rutherford, a Des Moines delegate; Mr. Jack Kell, President of '23 and Vice-President of the U.C. Executive; Miss K. Bennett, '22, Vice-President of the Joint Executive; and Mr. S. N. F. Chant, President of the Joint Executive.

In closing 272 received their Baptism of the Spirit of Victoria, as they learned and took part in the time-honoured College songs and yells, finally showing they are a real class by giving their own yell for the first time before so select and critical an audience.

Old Boys Put Up a Great Game in Spite of New Rules

An opportunity for students of Varsity to estimate the ability of the team of 1921 was given on Saturday. The result was extremely gratifying. Coach Maynard had two complete teams which played out an aggregation of stars. Some of the Old Boys were decidedly of the class of yesterday, or even the day before, but many had on Argo uniforms and the victory of the present team has greatly advanced its prestige.

Considering the earliness of the season there was little fumbling and it was clearly shown that this year's team is going to work like a well-oiled machine. Varsity was particularly strong at quarter, outside and flying wing, while Smirle Lawson, for the Old Boys, repeated a few of his old-time tricks. Interest was mainly centered, however, on what the new members of the Varsity squad could do and their playing produced great satisfaction to Varsity supporters.

The line-up what started was:

Varsity	Position	Old Boys
Duncan (Capt.)	F. Wing	Box
Snyder	Half	Lawson (Capt.)
J. Taylor	Quarter	Saunders
Patterson	Three	McKenzie
Hobbs	Inside	Stratton
N. Taylor	Quarter	Stout
Ferguson	Inside	Earl
Reilly	Quarter	Huestis
Westman	Inside	McDonnell
Rolph	Outside	Cassell
Fisher	Quarter	Strieter
		Gardner

First Period: Old Boys—Grassford, Sinclair, Milne, Kennedy, Campbell, Wallace, Stornes, Taylor, Peterkin and Beck. Varsity—Ketchum, Somerville, Young, Bartlett, Murray, Hule, Wince, Prundergast, Gratz, L. Smith, G. Smith, Warner, White and English.

Officials: Myer and R. Y. Cory. Varsity kicked off to Humie Crawford. Lawson ripped gains in Varsity's line for several big gains, but soon the tide of the game turned. Varsity had a bad chance to get away when Stratton sent him a long pass, but it slipped through his hands. The Old Boys buckled down and played on even terms with Varsity till the close of the period. Of the halves Snyder had been hitting the line very well, while on the line Reilly looked good.

Second Period Coach Maynard sprung a surprise when he sent a complete team on the field. They displayed lots of pep and drove the Old Boys back. Somerville then began his kicking, which was the dominant factor in the game. Within five minutes he put three drops between the bars. Their average length must have been close to 20 yards. In addition to his top kicking, Somerville kicked excellently. His kicks were long, but so high that the wings were down under them every time.

An aim was also taken as the Old Boys were followed by Eds and Co-eds. Red Mackenzie and Smirle Lawson, which brought the Old Boys with easy scoring. The Old Boys' poor kick lost them their chance. Gardner kicked a lose ball and Frank Sullivan booted it over the line. Somerville made good catch and carried the ball out. Varsity settled down and drove the veterans right up the field and when half time came the score was Varsity 11, Old Boys 0.

Third Period Coach Maynard started the same team that he used in the first quarter. They worked the ball steadily down to the Old Boys' line and sent a kicking through for a touch which was not converted. The Old Boys now began a march in the other direction. Douglas picked up a fumbled kick. A blocked kick of the Old Boys was secured by Troy, who ran it across the line. The touch was not converted.

An inside kick of the Old Boys was grabbed by Frank Sullivan, who scored a try and later converted it.

Fourth Period Out came the team that had started period number two. Somerville promptly kicked another field goal. Fresh interest was aroused when Pete Campbell joined the Old Boys. He commenced kicking the long, kicking through which he is famous. Varsity outsiders were too good and the halves of the Old Boys were unable to get away. An attempt was made by Somerville to cross the bar, but Sullivan was tackled for a fumble. The Old Boys picked up three fumbles by Varsity and so prevented further scoring against themselves. In the few remaining minutes Al Young made two good runs through holes in the line and sent a long pass for a last gully on a pass from Campbell. Final score, Varsity 23, Old Boys 11.

There will be a Meeting of Managers of Muelock Cup Rugby Teams of all faculties to arrange groupings and schedules for the present season on Tuesday, October 4th, at 5 p.m. in the Graduates Common Room, Hart House. It is of the utmost importance that every faculty should be well represented.

SELF-GOVERNMENT

In every phase and condition of life there is government. Nature is controlled by certain fixed laws and nations are governed by written or unwritten laws, statutes and constitutions made by their representatives and heads. The nation is composed of individuals and the hardest lesson in life for the individual to learn is self-government or self-control. As a nation is governed by its laws, the expression of its national will, so should an individual be controlled by his will not his habits. "These habits are formed by the frequent repetition of acts, and when formed mould a character. So the importance of regular, controlled habits is at once seen. The human will is given to prevent them mastering us; it masters them by frequent exercise of its power of control. In this way the will becomes strong and the result is a well-balanced, controlled individual.

When Nature departs from her fixed laws a phenomenon occurs, when a nation departs from its laws we have a rebellion and when an individual fails to achieve or departs from self-mastery we have a social menace in greater or less degree. Self-control is at the root of society; an uncontrolled man or woman is as useless as a machine whose brakes and gears are unresponsive. In youth is the time to exercise will, for it is then flexible and unhampered by weight of habits and answers to our call. Our college days are most impressionable days; one seldom changes after leaving college, so now is the time to watch ourselves closely in every way—in our work, not to fall into shirking habits, in our play so to discipline ourselves ever and always to play the game, to be as good a loser as winner and in our social life to be courteous and mindful of the comfort of others. In the rush of college life laxity is prone to enter. Only by careful self-discipline and self-government can we mould a character that we will not be ashamed to carry with us through life.

A SUCCESSFUL LIFE

Success—what a magic word it is! To some people Success means merely the hoarding of gold. They place making a living before making a Life. To achieve real success many elements must come into one's life, and yet popular opinion regards the struggle against poverty, with all its consequent diversity of interests and activities as having a warping effect on one's character. However, we may desire to escape the charge of being materialistic we must recognize that, among the many greater achievements which go to make up a really successful career, the acquisition of some share of this world's goods is to be considered.

What are the great means to success? Many in number, none of us has them all, but one of the greatest and most to be desired is Health. People healthy in body and mind are happy, optimistic, good, cheerful and enthusiastic. The world pays well for these qualities, often regarded as the exclusive possession of youth. But they can, through health, be retained by middle-aged and even old people.

It is true that if the secret of Success is Health the secret of Health is exercise. The best hobby is one that keeps you out of doors, breathing God's fresh air and absorbing Heaven-sent sunshine. People living a sedentary life can condense into twenty minutes, only four per cent. of the time spent in sleeping, enough exercise to keep their muscles firm and their arteries soft, thereby prolonging life by many useful years.

Varsity men! Are you burying the talents you have been given or are you making use of the magnificent gift of Hart House to care for your bodies? Physical training should be just as important to you as lectures or labs. for the return is equally great. The man who is fit will agree that nothing could compensate for the loss of that feeling of independence that comes from a sound, healthy, virile body. It is one of God's greatest gifts to man, to be guarded jealously, because it is one of the essential prerequisites to the Success that is really worth while.

"FRIEND, GO UP HIGHER"

The opportunity offered for Science students interested in Aviation to qualify as officers in the Canadian Air Force or as civilian pilots is another recognition by our Government of the value of University men in the public service and also of the high character of the work done by those who served in the Air Force during the war. The generosity of the offer made is, moreover, an indication of the importance attached to this increasingly important department not only of scientific warfare, but also of modern transportation, police work, and our ever-present and insistent duty, especially in Canada, of forest preservation.

This opportunity cannot fail to make a strong appeal to the student who desires not only to earn his bread and butter during the long vacation, but also hopes to equip himself for a larger service to the Dominion in a work that requires skill and training of a very high order.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Our Society Editor, with the far-seeing omniscience of his confreres of Paris and London, speaks sometimes of future and futurist fashions as an accomplished fact. But the thought farthest from his mind is that of casting any aspersions or reflections on some of the worthiest and most highly esteemed of our readers. He has, we are told, even brighter ideas than that of ties or brassards, and some of these will be divulged in the near future.

Rambling Thoughts on Friends and Friendship

—By One Who Found Them

Did you ever go to a meeting, or a dinner, or a party, and see so few familiar faces that you felt you must have got into the wrong outfit? If you have, you will to some extent appreciate our feeling when we appeared at the Union Station on the morning of September 19th, to board a C.N.R. train for Bala, en route to Elgin House. A sea of faces confronted us—obviously all those of students, and equally obviously, all those of strangers. But that feeling is gone now and we feel that we have about two hundred more friends in the world than we had a fortnight ago. Not two hundred new acquaintances—some of the delegates did not have the privilege of meeting us, and at least one did not seem to want to, judging by the icy stare that met our uplifted hat a day or so ago—but we are so ordinary that she probably never noticed us there—no, not new acquaintances, but new friends. We have many acquaintances who are not, and at times we are apt to thank heaven that they are not, our friends. But we also have many friends who are not acquaintances. We like to think of Plato, and Aristotle, of Galileo and Des Cartes, of those great masters Darwin and Huxley as friends of our own.

Of course, we refuse to recognize Euclid, because we don't like him. But these men led us on in the search for truth, and whatever their finding, whatever their contribution to the world's great fund of knowledge, we know that as long as we, too, are sincerely searching for the truth, we are in tune with the great minds of the world.

Yes, we made new friends. Early, in that great work, which will be a landmark in many lives, there were those who rubbed us up the wrong way, who seemed almost to repel us. It was interesting to see how that wore off. Whether they toned down, or we became more tolerant, explain it as you will, the psychological effect of the interactions of personalities, or the work of the Spirit of God, the result was achieved somehow, and a motley crowd of Arts and Meds, of Science and Theology, men and women, barbarian, Scythian, and what not, became a community. That's a good word—community—but it can only be truthfully used of a real unity.

What was the secret? We met under many circumstances. Together, in groups of varying sizes, we studied the problems of our social structure and of the education of our future citizenry. Together we studied the conditions of the people in non-Christian lands throughout the world. Together we studied the Word of God—yes, and together we studied the stars which He made and the trees which He planted before we were here to see them. Together some of us studied the art of handling a canoe beneath the overhanging branches of the most beautiful shores in Canada. Together we are meals, sang our songs, yelled our yells, and together we knelt in prayer and thanksgiving to the great God and Father of us all.

And we were happy. We lived a natural, normal life—sport and recreation of many kinds—no one was prudish, no one was narrow. No one thought it unnatural to go to the worship of God in a sweater and flannels, or to go on to the baseball diamond discussing the deepest problems of Religion. What was the secret?

The answer is in the word "Together." Everything we did, we did together. There were no individualists in that conference. We never thought in the singular. We never thought of the salvation of our own individual, puny souls. We thought in terms of Community. And we learned there the great secret of life—the secret of real joy—a community life in thought, in play, in work and in prayer.

The Brotherhood of Man can only be built on the Brotherhood of Man. And the Fatherhood of God is that of the Father of a family—not the Father of millions of isolated individuals. For decades now, men have denounced the life of self-interest. Some of us are so bent on denying ourselves, that we have forgotten the other fellow—hence monasticism and asceticism in many forms. That's all wrong. Don't DENY yourself—FORGET yourself—LOSE yourself, and then you will find yourself in the Friendship of your fellows. Human friendship and service are the only possible real expressions of the Divine spark within each one of us. The mastery of the art of universal Friendship—with Pharisee and Publican—is the secret of living the life of the Kingdom of God. But we have seen that in its fulness only in Jesus Christ. Two great truths—You can't find Jesus Christ unless you find your friends—

You'll never really find the souls—the selves—the personalities—of your friends, until together you find Jesus Christ.

The Conference did just one thing for me. It revitalized the text, "Where two or three are gathered together in MY NAME, there am I in the midst."

And HE was there. He was the greatest Friend of them all. It was HE that made the other friendships worth while, and it was the other friendships that made Him the greatest factor in life.

HE was there. He wasn't a "wet blanket." He was the central figure of our life. And HE too took part in it all—in the Chapel, under the stars and the trees, on the baseball diamond and the tennis court. He was there—in the midst.

SCHOOLMEN MAY STUDY AVIATION

Scheme Now Complete

A copy of the Air Board's report on training candidates for all forms of aviation—Civil and Governmental, and for the Canadian Air Force—has been received by the University authorities. This reveals the flying activities throughout the Dominion, the civil side of these including fire-fighting, preventative work for the Customs and Inland Revenue, fishery protection, photographic surveys and entomological research. To the student perhaps the most interesting portion is the announcement that the Air Board has drafted a scheme whereby the opportunity is to be given to selected undergraduates in Applied Science at Canadian Universities for qualifying for six certificates and, if so desired, obtaining commissions in the Canadian Air Force or the Reserve of Officers the latter liable for service only in time of emergency. The civil importance of aviation is too obvious to need emphasizing.

Candidates must be Freshmen in the Applied Science course, British subjects, physically fit, unmarried, under 24 years of age in May 1922, and must agree before being accepted for a course to study for 3 terms of 4 months (May to August) at an aviation centre. They are to be given uniform, camp equipment, quarters, rations, transportation, medical attendance and pay at the rate of $2.00, $2.50, and $3.00 per day during their first, second and third terms respectively.

Training with their University's C.O.T.C. Contingent is to be preliminary to their acceptance as candidates. Students who fulfil the conditions enumerated above will therefore be enrolled in the Applied Science Company of the Corps, and those looking to a training of this kind should see Major Cockburn, M.C. (in the Dept. of Drawing, old Engineering Bldg.) or Colonel Lang at 184 College Street.

RESIDENCE ELECTIONS

East House Shows Life

The fellowship of East House was extended in good old fashioned terms last Friday evening to the incoming members and a quartette of Freshmen. The occasion was that meeting at which the House Committee and officers are elected, and we are proud to announce our selection for president for 1921-22—R. Ivan Gordon, 212 Medicine; for secretary-treasurer, Wilfred L. Yack, 212 Science, and for House Committee, Kingsley W. Cosgrove, 212 Medicine, D. M. Campbell, 213 Medicine, Sidney D. Holmes, 213 University College and Grant N. Black, 214 Medicine.

The House is fortunate indeed in having for Housemaster Dr. J. M. D. Olmstead, a very popular member of the Staff of the Department of Physiology. This is his second year at East House and for the benefit of those students of the future who reside there, it is hoped that he will be there for many years to come.

It is rumoured that the House Committee are intending to enforce the rules of conduct for Freshmen to help them adjust themselves to University life and these rules are at present under revision but will be published and explained to the Freshmen during some evening in the near future.

U.C. WOMEN HOLD OPENING MEETING

Many Activities Outlined

The opening meeting of the Women's Undergraduate Association of University College was well attended and gave every promise of a successful year of co-operation and activity among the women. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved, Miss Adelaide MacDonald, the president, gave a short but masterly address, in which she outlined the scope of the U.W.A. and stressed certain things for which the society has made itself responsible. She referred particularly to the crowding of the lower halls, and urged each woman to be very careful not to add to the congestion. The place for the social, bachelorette parties and the women's room, and it is highly desirable that they all realize this fact and act upon the realization. On no account should any woman linger in the room, which is sacred to the men now as it was in the days before women went to college.

Miss MacDonald went on to explain the membership of the U.W.A., executive must O.K. all posters of the various societies, before they are exhibited in the college, that from the various societies, that from the book exchange in Room 82 in the basement; and that it is purposed to canvass the first and second years for contributions to the fund. Also, everyone was requested to pay the society's fee, and to obtain a copy of the Hand Book in order that she might know what was expected of her.

Nominations for first year representatives to the W.U.A., W.S.A.C., and the Social Service Committee followed, after which the presidents of the various societies outlined the nature of their work and their programmes for the coming year. Miss Jean McQueen, of the Social Service Committee, spoke of what that club hopes to do at the settlement and made a strong appeal for student workers. The settlement is under the Federation of University Board. There are openings for girls who would give one afternoon each week to the library or to the children, or to the day to read through the winter. There are evening classes in English, some eleven o'clock for boys and girls, and sewing classes, which meet on Mondays and Thursdays. In all of these activities there is great need of student assistance, and those who have worked at the settlement feel sure that any volunteers they find will work abundantly worth while.

Miss Mary Needler, on behalf of the Women's Literary Society, extended an invitation to all interested in literature to become members. The course of study for this winter is British prose writers, chiefly the novelists and essayists.

Miss Grace Stanton spoke for the Athletic Society and sketched the possibilities of tennis, basketball, hockey and swimming and gymnastics work. She asked for 215 to fill the vacancies left by the girls who had graduated.

Miss Dorothy Arthur represented the Modern Language Club in explaining that it is open to everyone who is interested in modern languages. A French play is given each winter and the first meeting is usually an open French one. The Three Arts Club, of which Miss Dorothy Haynes is president, is interested in painting, etching and sculpture, and is the largest among its members. It is purely active students of art, but those who desire a cultural knowledge as well. A series of lectures has been planned and the students will be able to meet the eminent artists who will deliver them.

Miss Margaret Jameson represented the Student Christian Movement. She emphasized the need for spiritual growth and for greater maturity in religious ideas. The S.C.M. is a fellowship of students rather than an organization, and its chief activity is organizing Bible Study Groups for discussion.

Miss MacDonald made an appeal for student support of the college magazine "Patches," and asked for contributions. Then "Toronto" was sung, and after the University and College songs, the first, and very successful meeting of the U.W.A. for the new year ended.

Dentistry

Wednesday, October 5th, is the date (not, junior, don't miss it) when you are thinking of on which the contest closes for the best design for the top of the subscription to GLOBE, the Royal Society of Humorous Publications) will be given to the designer of what the Contest Editor will select to be the best design. Don't make it too deep and just the width of a column. Something emblematic and artistic, such as a hockey player rampant or a pair of lovers couchant with Arcadia in the background. If you already have subscribed to GLOBE you may have a Six-Cylinder Packard (on payment of the difference in cash).

Mail your applications to or leave them with the Contest Editor, Hya Yaka, 240 College Street.

BRITISH RUGBY TEAM STARTS SEASON EARLY

The Varsity British Rugby Club opened its season Saturday with the West of England Club as their opponents. The Englishmen won a hard-fought game by the score of three to nothing. Since the visiting team last year the Varsity team is indicated by the close score. The students have a well-balanced line-up of more or less experienced players. Almost the entire team have had previous experience on either Old Country, B.C., or Maritime teams. This team is worthy of the support of the entire student body. Manager Mackon would like to get in touch with any experienced or wing players. The Varsity line-up was as follows: Forwards—Robson, Sims, Holmes, Murray, Johnson, Ryll, McKison and Russell; Halfbacks—Ketchum and Beaumont, Three-quarters—W. H. Russell, Caple, Ross, Tudhope; Full Back—MacNiven.

NOTICE

Compulsory Training

Under the above heading in Friday's issue there appeared a statement that after the medical examination a student would "be assigned to a class under the gymnasium Directors and his attendance recorded by roll call." It is regretted that this statement, though true, is incomplete; the alternative to work under the Gymnasium Directors, namely, training in the Officers Training Corps, should have received equal prominence. Thus, a student has a choice of two ways in which he may satisfy the Government's regulation regarding compulsory physical training.

Drill under Permanent Force instructors will commence at the same time as the gymnastic classes, but students are asked to enter their names as soon as possible at the Corps' Headquarters (184 College St.) so that the organization of the three companies—Arts, Science and Medicine—can be gone on with, and arrangements made for inter-company games and the selection of a team to represent the corps in the winter's athletics.

NEW INTERCOLLEGIATE RULE EXPLAINED

For the benefit of those students who do not understand the new ruling of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, which deals with the eligibility of players for competition in intercollegiate contests, we quote here Rule 14, Sec. A. of the Constitution of the C.I.A.U.

No person shall be eligible to compete in any intercollegiate contest, either individually or as a member of a team, who is not an amateur and who is not also a bona fide registered student regularly in attendance on the regular lectures of the University or School of Arts, Science and Commerce, and who shall be eligible to compete who failed to write on the final sessional examinations of the preceding year of attendance or who failed to secure such standing as would permit him to enter the current year in good standing. The term "good standing" shall be interpreted to mean that a student is qualified to proceed with his regular course of study without such failures as necessitate the repetition of work essential to the completion of his course within the time prescribed for it, thus delaying graduation. Should any student claim to have been unable for good reason to write on the sessional examinations, the question of his eligibility shall be decided by the Board of Reference.

ARGOS DEFEAT TIGERS EASILY

Excellent weather and promise of two good games brought such a large crowd to the Stadium that the seating capacity was almost insufficient. Despite the known qualities of the Toronto team the successful Western tour of the Tigers had thrown a care into the Argos supporters. Any fear they may have held for the outcome was, however, quickly dispersed. So marked was the superiority of the Argos squad that in the middle of the first period Harry Batstone duffed his mauls for the barb of the diabolical and hurried to the island to play baseball. He was replaced by Britnell who, alternating with Frank Sullivan, filled his position well.

Tigers did not measure up to advance notices. Manson was the best of their much-lauded back division and he was steadily outkicked by Conacher. Their wing line was outbucked by Argos and were quite unable to stop the end runs.

Argos, on the other hand, were strong in all positions. Even when using several spares they had a large margin on the Tigers. The score of 27-4 did not overemphasize the superiority of the Argos team.

The story of the game develops largely into an account of how Conacher spent his Saturday afternoon.

The teams as they started were:

Argos—Flying wing, Strirrett; halves, McCormack, Conacher, Batstone; quarter, Cochrane; snap, Douglas; insides, Earl, Pugh; middles, Romeril, Wallace; outside, Polson, Fear, sub, F. Sullivan; Britnell, McKenzie, Huestis, Burkhardt, G. Sullivan, Bradfield, Hay, Couttie.

Tigers—Flying wing, McFarlane; halves Elford, Manson, McKelvey; quarter, Burton; snap, Ireland; insides, Gatsensby, Zimmerman; middles, Cox, Smith; outside, Connor, Bowman; sub, Crocker, McLean, E. Smith, Roamer, Tuck, Reid.

Referee—T. Ridnell, Montreal.

Umpire—Dave McCann, Ottawa.

First Half

The game commenced about twenty minutes late when Ireland of Tigers kicked South into the wind. The ball was returned by McCormack and bounded to the 10-yard line. On their third down Tigers kicked to Conacher. Batstone booted over the line and Argos scored the first point of the game on a rouse. Two more kicks by Batstone and Conacher to the dead line brought Argos' total up to three. Tigers worked the ball up to Argos' 30-yard line only to have Conacher run it back to their 10-yard line. Argos lost the ball and Tigers gained a few yards on bucks. Tigers kicked and after a short parley Argos were given the ball on Tiger's 40-yard line. An end run saw Conacher wade over the line with a load of Tigers. Batstone failed to convert. A few minutes later Conacher ran back a punt of McKelvey's about 50 yards and then passed to Britnell, who completed the journey over the last white line. Jimmy Douglas tried unsuccessfully to convert. Quarter ended: Argos, 13; Tigers, 0.

Tigers, now with the wind, soon scored a rouse when Manson kicked over the line to McCormack. Several runs by Conacher and good bucking by Romeril took the ball to the other end and interlarded by Argos gave Tigers possession at mid-field. Two good bucks and a kick by Manson raised Tigers' score to two. Argos were held scoreless this period. Half-time score: Argos, 13; Tigers, 2.

Second Half

Conacher made a fine kick to Manson. On an exchange of kicks the ball bounced over Manson's head and he was tackled for a rouse. "Jo Jo" Strirrett introduced a new one when he tossed his headgear in the air and chatted it wildly, tried to convince the Tigers that he was after the ball. The first time the trick seemed quite good. Manson kicked to Britnell, who ran to Argos' 40-yard line. Ireland and Conacher threw each other a nasty look and were asked to retire for a few minutes. Hay and Reid were also asked to take a rest. Tigers scored their third point when an attempted drop by Manson went to the dead line.

Following an attempted onside kick Conacher secured the ball himself and crossed the line for another touch. Strirrett failed to convert.

After a run by Conacher three-quarter time found Argos in possession of the ball on Tiger's 5-yard line. Quarter ended: Argos, 21; Tigers, 3.

On the first down Conacher smashed through the line for a touch. Sullivan converted.

The last point of the game was scored when Manson kicked to the dead line after Tigers had secured for interference by Argos.

Final score: Argos, 27; Tigers, 4.

TENNIS PLAYERS OBSERVE

U. of T. tennis players are particularly fortunate this year in having the use of the courts of the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club secured for them. This Club is situated at the end of Price Street, which is only a few hundred yards from the Yonge Street car line. To reach the Club from the University by street car go East on Bloor to Yonge, North on Yonge to Rowanwood, walk North on Yonge to the first street on your right (Price Street), follow this street East till you meet a wooden wall, go through the wooden wall. When you have passed through the wooden wall you will see sixteen excellent courts. That there are so many courts is fortunate as the tournament has to be finished before the Intercollegiate Meet. As the weather is liable to be unfavourable at this season the courts must be filled whenever they are playable and at our disposal. To insure this, players failing to be present within half an hour of their scheduled time will be defaulted. Read the draw and be on hand for your matches.

MANY WALKS OF LIFE ARE REACHED BY UNIVERSITY SHORT COURSES

Activities Extending Continuously

The scope of the University of Toronto, Ontario's Provincial University, has been for the past few years gradually broadening so that now the educational needs of many thousands of people throughout the province are served. This work, carried on by the Department of University Extension, is probably little known among the students who attend the regular sessions. Knowledge of this work is important in order that one may realize the University's truly democratic outlook.

By assisting school teachers throughout the province to improve their scholarship without discontinuing their teaching the University is greatly benefiting the whole province. A course for teachers wishing to qualify for the B.A. degree is conducted during the summer and is open to teachers with Upper School Certificates entitling them to enter upon the work of the second year. The subjects of the General Arts Course can take this work a time, thus enabling the students to complete the three final years in five summer sessions. Teachers who live near the University can take this work during the winter after school hours.

The course that makes the professional teachers is that of Pedagogy. Summer sessions in this course are given at the Ontario College of Education. Teachers with a B.A. degree and two or three years successful teaching are qualified. It is here that the student can obtain a Bachelor of Pedagogy are obtained. Since this is the only course of its kind in the Dominion teachers come from all over Canada.

Under a recently adopted scheme it is possible for any ambitious young man or young woman, employed during the day, to earn a degree. By this special arrangement the University offers instruction to the students of any organization in the province who wish to take all or part of the General Arts Course. The classes are held in the evenings and require from two to eight hours' tuition a week. The students are studied at times in the teachers' course, and the examinations are held in May. These classes are carried on at the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. and in other centres in the province.

There are a great many young men whose courses were interrupted by the war and have not been resumed who will likely take advantage of this splendid opportunity. The customary allowance of one year for overseas service is made in both the teachers course and in the night classes. These courses do not make a degree any easier to obtain. The University's standards are rigidly maintained. But they do provide an opportunity for receiving University instruction.

One of the outstanding features of the extra-curricular work is the co-operation with the Workers' Educational Association. The W.E.A. is a voluntary organization formed with the object of extending to clerical and manual workers the advantages of university education. The classes are largely attended by members of trades unions and the courses of instruction do not lead to a degree or certificate of any kind. The instructors are mostly supplied by the University.

The Tutorial Classes provide for continuous and intensive study of any subject chosen by the students. The classes meet twice a week for two-hour sessions. The first hour is usually spent in lecture and the second hour in helpful discussion. Last year there were four such classes conducted in Toronto and one in Streetsville. The University offers this service to any locality so far as finances and staff will permit.

The Extension Lectures offered by the University are both interesting and instructive for an evening's entertainment. The list of lectures includes scientific, literary, historical, educational and economic subjects arranged in single lectures and series of from two to six evenings. Over fifty of these lectures were delivered during the past year. These lectures are practically planned by the University in any community in the province as the cost, $5 and expenses, is far from prohibitive.

The short course for Farmers which was held at the University last February was probably the best known of the Extension courses. It was put on at the request of the United Farmers of Ontario for the benefit of Farmers' Clubs and others, and brought an enthusiastic gathering of close to three hundred agrarians. It will be repeated next February and will in all likelihood become an established institution.

The Short Course in Journalism, which was held last month, was the outcome of a suggestion on the part of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association. Its object was not to make a newspaper man from the raw material in six days but to impress upon proprietors and editors of small papers the value of editorial columns. This course may lead to the establishment of a chair of Journalism in the University.

In view of the value of scientific knowledge in the preparation of menus and the strong interest that housewives have shown in the study of food values, the Department of Household Science is offering a ten weeks extension course on "Foods and Diet" for women. The lectures will be held on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and suitable laboratory periods will be arranged. For the spring a similar course in Household Management is contemplated.

The short course in Town Planning next January is designed for municipal officials, architects, surveyors, landscape gardeners, and all those who are interested in the subject. A special feature will be the practical discussion of real problems presented by those attending the class.

This new policy of our University is to be highly commended and should be known to both its student and graduate supporters.

Trinity

The English Universities have claimed three Trinity students this year. R. H. Bonycastle, '23, and E. A. Nanton, of the same year, both members of the hockey team which carried off the Jennings Cup last winter, are continuing their courses at Wadham College, Oxford, and at Cambridge University, respectively. Another Trinity man prominent in athletics, P. A. Child, is taking a course at Christ's College, Cambridge, having graduated from Toronto last year.

CABBAGES AND DEAD FISH

"Some people object to my views and my teaching because they are dangerous. They ARE dangerous. But that is no reason why they should be ignored. Other things in life are dangerous. It is dangerous to walk down the street. A chimney-pot might fall on your head, or a street-car might strike you. But that is not sufficient reason for keeping off the street. A MAN can't go through life without facing danger. I know one thing which can, and that is a Cabbage. If you refuse to face questions and problems because they are dangerous you may have a very quiet, peaceful life; but you will never be a man—never be more than a cabbage.

"The type of optimist whose optimism makes him merely float with the stream is not a man. Any dead fish can float with the stream, but it takes a living one to hold his own, and it takes a will to swim against the stream."

These extracts from addresses by two men prominent in University circles in Canada should give us serious pause. We are bound to recognize that among us there are many to whom the unenviable epithets used are applicable. Usually the two failings go together. It is the easiest thing in the world to brush aside a knotty problem, in the realm of morals or any of the other equally personal departments of thought, with the feeling that the solution is beyond us, and that we can get along very well without reaching a solution anyway.

The person who thus dodges an issue is morally and mentally either cowardly or indolent. He is not a MAN. Students, of all people, should be prepared to fearlessly and honestly face facts and follow them through to a conclusion, however unpleasant, however inconvenient it may be for themselves.

There are two main types of optimists—the man who says that his sky is blue and there no clouds to be seen, and the man who determines to go through the cloud to the sunshine beyond. We want optimists. It is an essential of a normal life. We have no use for the person who thinks there is no good thing in the world and no sun in the sky. But we have no more use for the person who is content to have clouds between him and the sun.

He must be either a Cabbage or a Dead Fish.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION

Medical examination for the women students of this University is at last possible. Dr. Edith Gordon is in charge and the work has already begun. The women of all years and faculties are expected to avail themselves of this opportunity.

During the last few years the need of medical supervision and physical training has become more and more apparent. This University leads the way in the intellectual and educational affairs of Ontario. Should it not be as concerned with the physical condition of her sons and daughters as with their mental? For, as President Falconer impressed upon us in his opening address, morals, education and health go hand in hand, and this fact is gradually becoming more widely recognized. Optional medical examination for the women is a decided step forward and it is hoped that the next step will be to make it compulsory. Before that can be done, however, adequate gymnasium facilities must be procured. Then every woman will be able to enrol in a training class and keep herself one hundred per cent. fit, for this is the duty of every human being.

Gymnasium work is not to be regarded as a pastime for those who are athletically inclined. It should be quite as important as Latin or Mathematics. When its importance and the past physical culture play in one's state of health are realized either attendance at physical culture classes will be made compulsory for all or gymnasium work will be incorporated in the curriculum as a subject to be elected as one chooses English or French. Classes will then be held early in the day when the student is fresh, not in the late afternoon when she is tired, hungry and likely to be late for dinner.

A healthy body promotes a healthy mind. Our four years in college would be ill spent and our education and degree purchased at too great a cost, if that cost were the sacrifice of physical well-being.

MONDAY, THE TENTH

For years a very limited number of students have been working faithfully and with scant recognition to make the Track Club a success and to secure recognition for Track and Field Sports that is to some extent commensurate with the value of those sports, both as exercise and as pure sport. To-day we have in the University a collection of athletes that is capable of making a very strong bid for the Intercollegiate Title. No sport can be a real success if only the competitors are interested. We should all be actively engaged in some form of sport, but, in addition, we should all be actively interested in all University sports.

The Interfaculty Track Meet is to be held at the Stadium on Monday afternoon next. Your College will be represented on the track. Your representatives ought to be supported by one hundred per cent. of your student body. Unless this meet is a success we cannot look for a strong team for the Intercollegiate. The half-holiday declared by the Caput is intended to enable students to attend the Track Meet—not the theatre—and it is not meant to be a time for making up wasted study hours. Turn out and show your own men that you are behind them in full strength, and give them the encouragement necessary to make a real victory at Kingston a possibility.

The letter of the Rev. J. G. Inkster in this issue raises a point that is worthy of the consideration of our readers. The Toronto churches are putting forth every effort to make the students welcome. We ought to show our appreciation.

Give U.C. women a chance in the tennis tournament. The courts are in poor condition. It is estimated that five hundred dollars would make one court usable, and one thousand dollars would install the best kind of clay court. What about it?

Correspondence

To the Editor, VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—There are in the city just now many University students away from home, their regular church affiliations, for the time being, are broken. This fact creates a tendency to drop all church connection and religious observances, which will inevitably result in spiritual decay.

As a minister of the Gospel, I realize my responsibility to such students. For that reason I am writing to you to say (through the medium of your valuable paper) to students away from home: I welcome them to Toronto and give them a cordial invitation to make Knox Church their spiritual home while they are in the city.

I am writing this more especially for the Presbyterian students, whom I shall be glad to meet in my vestry any Friday afternoon or evening between the hours of 4 and 6 or 7 and 8.

Thanking you in advance for your courtesy in wishing every student in the University a happy and prosperous session, I am, yours faithfully,

JNO. GIBSON INKSTER.

JUNIOR MEDS

Hart House,
October 3, 1921.

To friends, patrons and members of Junior Meds Rugby Team:

Through the kindness of the Editor of Varsity we hereby exhort all former players of Canadian rugby, or any others who may be interested in rugby, enrolled in the three junior years in the Faculty of Medicine, to make their appearance on the Bank Camp at 4.30 p.m. every afternoon and show some Faculty spirit, if not skill.

Also if such there be who possess rugby clothes, who will loan or donate such for the members trying for places, the management would be deeply grateful. Clothes will be presented to manager who will assume responsibility.

Yours for a championship team,
DON STREIB, M.A.,
Jr. Meds Rugby.

COLUMBIA PROFESSOR APPOINTED MINISTER

For the first time in her history Columbia University can boast of a Minister to a foreign country taken from the ranks of her professors.

Professor John Dwyer Prince, head of the Department of Slavonic languages, has been appointed American Minister to Denmark. This announcement comes with the news that his department has widened its range in response to the demand for trained linguists in connection with increasing world trade.

Dr. Clarence A. Manning, instructor in the department, will have charge during Professor Prince's absence.

GIRLS' SUMMER SCHOOL PLANNED AT CONFERENCE

Plans for the formation of a summer school for girls were discussed at the last meeting of the Students Industrial Council, composed of representatives from the various girls' colleges in the East, which was held at Altmont, N.J., last June. The school under consideration is to be conducted along the same lines as the Columbia Summer Session and will have the same purpose in view.

Miss Evelyn Orne, President of the Student Government at Barnard College, was that institution's representative at the conference in June. Meetings of the Council are held early each Summer and further plans and the organization will be taken up at the next gathering.—COLUMBIA SECTATOR.

THE POINT SYSTEM

Massachusetts Institute of Technology maintains a point system for the purpose of preventing a student from carrying too much work to the detriment of his studies. Men elected to office are not approved for their office until their points have been checked by the Point System Committee.

MUST HAVE PHOTOS

Photographs are required as part of the registration at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The purpose is to prevent confusion in identifying men of the same name.

AIDS TO STUDY

A few well-chosen reference books on the student's study table are an immense help. They are the tools by which he gets work done. The selection should include dictionaries, one, of course, in English, and one each in other languages being read, a good work on synonyms, and one on quotations. He would do well to add Brewer's "Handbook" and Roget's "Thesaurus," and, if possible, a good general Encyclopedia. In our reference department all the foregoing may be found as well as many others.

A NEW ENGLISH DICTIONARY

Winston's Simplified Dictionary is recent, and may be recommended highly. It includes all the words in the English language as used to-day, and is fully illustrated and beautifully printed, bound in leatherette, thumb index, $1.95. Examine the reference books at your leisure.

The Verdant Frosh

Belonging to the Political Science Department, and therefore having solved most of the problems that puzzle, or have puzzled, the minds of men, we would like to direct our readers' minds to a somewhat neglected problem—the college Freshman, dealing more particularly with attempts to define a Freshman. In stating that the problem is neglected we do not mean to imply that the Freshman (as an established fact) is neglected. By no means because we are aware that he is the object of a set of annual experiments conducted by the sophomores of each faculty. At the beginning of the experiment he is always very fit and very green; at the conclusion he is not nearly so fresh and the colour effect depends to a certain extent on the ingredients used by the sophomores in the experiment. The object of these experiments, which are invariably successful, is the elimination of the characteristic, verdant, greenness. Although every student who enters the Freshman is necessary and efficient it contributes little to the question under discussion, i.e., to why and what a Freshman is.

Some light is thrown on the problem by the confessions demanded from the Freshman by the English Department of U.C., namely, "Why I Came To University College," but the excuses given are varied and confusing and the fact that they come from a prejudiced source makes them of little value.

Possibly the unexpressed opinions of some of the wise men, at whose feet we sit, would be illuminating. The keeper of the gate of our halls of learning considers them, no doubt, a justifiable excuse for the existence and importance of his own department. What, besides a horde of invading Freshmen, could justify that staff and those bulging files.

The High Priest who receives the students' offering of gold considers them an ever-recurring source of revenue. Let them come by tens and by hundreds for well he knows that before four years have passed they will have given him a good outer darkness all those who are not worthy to be rewarded with the title signifying much learning.

The opinion of our leaders of that branch of learning situated on St. George Street is that the Freshman is the expression of the human will, showing the natural desire to exist with as little effort as possible.

Personally, we do not know what a Freshman is or what claim he has to exist. Our views are in accordance with the convictions of one of the English staff. A Freshman is an abomination in the sight of the Lord and an affliction visited on the Universities by the visits of the sins of omissions of our colleagues.

FINE NEW BUILDING

Massachusetts Institute of Technology has opened a new School of Naval Architecture. The building cost nearly $600,000 and contains a museum and a library in addition to the regular lecture rooms, offices, etc.

MENTAL TEST AT CORNELL

Tests for Mental Ability are on the routine to be undergone by the entering class of 1925 at Cornell. This is the first time that this has been on the compulsory list, but, due to the fact that it proved so successful last year, it was added to the requirements.

A University Faculty Committee has been appointed for the purpose of conducting these examinations which will be submitted to all the freshmen in Arts, Engineering, Agriculture, and Architecture colleges. Slips were given each student as he and she received study cards.

INSURANCE RANGE BROADENED

Courses covering the entire field of insurance will be given at Columbia University this fall at hours convenient to the business man or woman. The University Business, the Home Study Division, and the School of Business will co-operate in the administration of the Courses.

Professor Ralph Blanchard, in charge of insurance at Columbia, will be assisted in the courses by several men prominent in the insurance houses of the city.

JOIE RAY WILL RUN AT THE INTERFACULTY MEET MONDAY, OCTOBER 10

Students To See World-Famous Runner In Action

Joie Ray, of Chicago Athletic Club, the best mile runner in the world to-day and last year's U.S. representative at the Olympic games, has consented to run 1 mile at the Interfaculty Meet on Monday.

This should be of special interest to every student who has any sporting instincts whatever. Not only that he will exhibit probably the most finished style of modern running, but also that he is about to attempt to break the world's record at the Exhibition track this week.

Students! Show your true Varsity spirit and attend the Interfaculty Meet this coming Monday. The Caput has granted a half-holiday and the admission fee is but 25 cents.

Recruits Wanted!

All men who wish to turn out for Varsity Rugby teams, First Second, Third and Fourth, are asked to turn out at 1 p.m. and report to Coach Parke or Manager Greig of the Second Squad on the back campus, or at the Stadium. Anyone who can recommend likely players should do so at once to Manager MacLennan or Greig, and these men will be given a thorough trial. Varsity needs every available man if the Blue is to defeat the Tricolour and the Red. The players cannot do it alone. Jack Maynard cannot do it alone, but the two together can do it with the support of every student. The First Team is not yet chosen and is always in need of high class men, and this applies to the other squads. Put your UNIVERSITY first, your FACULTY second, and then YOURSELF a good third.

ATTENTION!

The first practice of the season will be held on the Back Campus to-night (Wednesday) at 4.30. Everybody intending to turn out with the team please be on hand.

VARSITY TRACK TEAM SHOWS RICH PROMISE

Great Progress Being Made in This Sport

For some unknown reason track, the most ancient and honourable of all sports, has been grossly neglected in Ontario. It is years since a first-class track athlete has been developed in the vicinity of Toronto. Lately a revival has been inaugurated which bids fair to eclipse the fame of Bobby Kerr, Halbus and other stars of yesterday. This revival has been particularly noticeable in the high schools. Hamilton and Toronto schools are competing and defeating first-class American teams. At Varsity this great movement is being felt. Under the watchful eyes of old-time stars Varsity is slowly rounding out an aggregation which may some day be famous. It may not this year enter the select class of U. of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Oxford and Cambridge, but the foundation is being laid.

The supporters and competitors of the Varsity club are sanguine of winning of the Canadian intercollegiate championship this year. In some events the representatives are nearly of first-rank calibre. The middle distance events are particularly strong. The team has suffered from an old complaint, viz., men whose ability might be developed have turned out too late in the season to benefit by the really excellent coaching which is afforded them at the Stadium.

Varsity students should take this opportunity offered to support a real track team by turning out in force to the interfaculty games to be held on Saturday. You may see some interfaculty records fall as the high jumpers are reported to be flirting with the six foot mark.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

The rugby at Varsity has again commenced and it looks as though the old Blue and White is in for one of its most successful seasons. To be a successful year one naturally looks to whether or not the Senior Championship will come hence. This, however, is not the only factor which goes to make up a success in rugby. One of the chief factors in a successful season is that of bringing out and developing new players.

How does Varsity stand in this regard now? At present there are four squads directly under the supervision of the University coaches. Each squad contains from fifteen to twenty men. In other words, there are from sixty to eighty men turning out every night at the Stadium and being trained in the new rules of the game and also getting into good condition.

These men represent an abundance of good material but is it the best? It is a well-known and well-recognized fact that there are men in this University who have played rugby in their own home town or preparatory school and are not playing here. There are several reasons for this. The individual may be self-conscious and as a result is a little backward turning out. If that individual stops to think he will realize that there are many men out now who are a lot worse at the game than he is. If so, why not get into the old uniform which is now at the bottom of the trunk and turn out.

There are many men in this University who come from points where rugby is an unknown sport. They have the natural ability for rugby but do not know the game. Here is a great chance for the Mulock Cup teams to do their Alma Mater a good turn. If the managers of the Mulock Cup teams will dig out these men and show them the rudiments of the game they will do the rest and there will be an abundance of material for the University teams for years to come.

This year there are fifteen Mulock Cup teams each intent upon two things. First to develop new players and second to win the championship. With such views prevailing everything points to this being a premier season for rugby in Varsity.

The new track, which is now the best in Canada, should be the scene of some very keen competition. Any prediction at this time as to the ultimate outcome of the meet would be out of place, but here's hoping that enough stars are unearthed to beat McGill and Queen's.

Owing to unforeseen difficulties arising the U. of T. R. C. has not been able to procure the necessary boats for their regatta this year and will therefore have to cancel the interfaculty meet.

BRITISH RUGBY CLUB

The British Rugby Club is growing fast. Great interest is being shown by the undergraduates in the latest addition to Varsity's sporting family. There are now two complete fifteens turning out regularly every night, and new men are joining the squad at every practice. Sgt.-Major Blake, of boxing fame, is rounding the teams into shape and is showing results. The men are very keen for the McGill game and promise them a good struggle.

Practice on the machines will commence about January 15th and preparations are under way to have a very large turnout for both heavy and light weight rowing.

HURDLING

The First of a Series of Sporting Editorials

One of the most exciting events on the card at a Track and Field Meet, not only for spectators, but for competitors as well, is the 120 yard high hurdles. Many track fans think of hurdling as a sport for jumpers and would pick a man with the short prominent muscles characteristic of jumpers as a likely winner in this event. But a moment's thought will convince any one that to become a champion or even a near champion hurdler a man needs to be a sprinter of the first water. Compare the difference in time for 120 yard sprint and 120 yard high hurdles. The sprint record is 11.6 seconds while the hurdler's best is 14.8, only a difference of three and one-fifth seconds.

The most likely aspirants for hurdling honours are the tall, rangy type with the narrow ankles, knees and hips characteristic of men of great endurance but with long bodies and not overly long legs indicative of great strength. Varsity's own champion, Caruthers, is an ideal type although some critics say he is a trifle too tall, but as results are what count we may safely say he is an ideal type.

The initial sprint to the first hurdle must carry the body the whole length of the course, as few, if any, men can increase their speed between hurdles. Therefore, because one travels faster with one's feet on the ground, it is desirable to remain in the air the shortest possible time. By keeping the forward leg straight the hurdle can be taken as a step, not as a jump. The trailing leg should really not trail but be brought up bent, close to the body in a horizontal plane so that the knee just grazes the hurdle. Then it can be carried forward in a straight line (not in an arc) for the next stride.

As the forward leg passes over the hurdle the body should bend forward from the waist so that as the hips rise in the air the head lowers, thereby keeping always on a dead level. The style of Earl Thompson, world's record holder, differs from this in that he leaps high in the air before the hurdle then drops quickly as he reaches a position over it, much as Forrest Smithson did when at the height of his career he broke the then believed to be unbreakable record of 16 seconds.

All of which goes to show that phenomenal athletes are born not made and that while any aspirant for timber topping honours can learn much from his coach, yet every man has a style all his own and perhaps by too closely following the style of a better man he may lose the grace and ease which comes from a natural performance.

NOTICE

Entries for Interfaculty Track Meet must be in before Thursday night at athletic office.

Tennis Tournament Away To Good Start on Saturday

The good weather on Tuesday gave a fine start to the Tennis Tournament. Most of the matches resulted as expected, but one of the noticeable exceptions was the defeat of Crossen. Jimmie Douglas, the football star, tried his hand at tennis but fell before this deadly racquet of Wales finalist in the Varsity tournament of last year. Watch for the draw in the morning papers.

Track Union Meeting

A meeting of the Intercollegiate Track Union was held in Kingston on Saturday, October 1. The main object was to discuss the altering of the date of the meet.

It was decided to hold the meet on Friday, October 21, at the new Richardson Memorial Stadium at Queen's. Both McGill and Queen's report their teams to be rounding into good shape.

Great interest is being displayed both by competitors and spectators in the coming Interfaculty Track Meet. The keen competition which will be evident between the different faculties in their efforts to capture the track championship will be second only to the Intercollegiate Meet.

Men will be picked from those running in this Interfaculty Meet to represent Varsity against McGill, Queen's and R.M.C.

MULOCK CUP SERIES STARTS NEXT WEDNESDAY

A meeting of the Managers of the Mulock Cup teams was held yesterday at 5 o'clock. President Parcell of the University Rugby Club, was in the chair and Vice-President Baker was also present. The following faculties were represented by managers or deputies: St. Meds., St. Dents, Jr. Meds., Jr. School, Forestry, St. Michaels, Knox, Trinity, St. Arts, Victoria, and O.A.C. phoned.

Referees are to be chosen by the captains, who, if unable to agree, must take the matter to the Vice-President of the Rugby Club.

The schedule of the games will be in Friday's Varsity.

The following faculties will be as follows:
Group 1.—St. Meds, St. Dents, St. School.
Group 2.—Jr Arts, Jr. Meds, Jr. School, Jr. Dents.
Group 3.—Forestry, St. Mikes, Knox, O.A.C.
Group 4.—Trinity, St. Arts, Vic.

A signal battalion is being formed in Toronto with the very best and latest of equipment at its disposal. Anyone desirous of joining up may apply care of THE VARSITY. This is an opportunity not to be missed. Get in before the rush.

THE TRUE SPIRIT OF FUN

College life is unique. Nowhere else in the world have we the same conditions, a number of young men and women from every station and walk of life, with every degree of intellect, all pursuing one object—a liberal education. Nowhere else is to be found the delightful comradeship, the spirit of youth and fun that exists in college. A youthful spirit is easily definable, but differences of opinion will arise in defining the true spirit of fun. Fun is something that must be enjoyed by all; if shame or hurt feelings result from any action there is no fun or joke in it. Someone has said that a sense of humour is that within you which causes laughter when something happens to another, which, happening to yourself, would arouse wrath and vengeance. This does not define real fun, which is enjoyed by all concerned.

To-day young people are accused of being less thoughtful for the feelings of others and less courteous than the previous generations. Such sweeping statements are always open to challenge. Surely in college, where we come into contact with the best and most progressive in ideals and intellect this cannot be so. No one will deny our privileges and it is our duty to live up to them. No one, however, would urge that young people should abandon their love of fun, their originality and good spirits, far from it—"a merry heart doeth good," but fun should be spontaneous not an organized thoughtless attempt to mortify others or make them conspicuous. Even freshmen have feelings, and while certain discipline is met and fitting care should be taken that it does not proceed too far and bring discredit, not on our victims, but on our University. Toronto is a large city and all its inhabitants are not blessed with a sympathetic understanding. Students are very much in the public eye; let us not become a cinder therein. It must be remembered that we are supposed to have reached years of discretion and are not at kindergarten but college. We need fun and University spirit; we have the true spirit of sport and loyalty to our Alma Mater. Let us not display a counterfeit.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

In 1919 the alleged benefits of Daylight Saving were enjoyed by the people of Canada until nearly the end of November, and last year by Toronto citizens until some time in October. This year, to the delight, we understand, of mothers who have to send their children off to school and of some who go in for nine o'clock lectures as a habit, the city reverted to standard time in September.

One very serious result of this, as far as the University is concerned, is the great curtailment of the time which can be given to sport. The man or woman whose lectures finish at four o'clock is not so seriously handicapped because it is possible to get an hour's exercise before the day is gone, even when one has first to change for Rugby. But the unfortunate who work until five are prevented from getting their exercise and recreation at the time when coaching and assistance of other kinds are to be had, unless it be at the expense of their work.

Talk is current at the present time of a scheme tantamount to the re-introduction of daylight saving for the University. This, we are inclined to think, is for the present hardly feasible, because of the dislocation of the relations of the University with the outside world. We are not a self-contained and independent community. The Superintendent's Department, the various Commissioners, to say nothing of several thousands of professors, lecturers and students, who cannot all persuade their wives, parents, and landladies to begin the day an hour early. But the greatest difficulty lies in the Faculty of Medicine, which is so largely dependent on the Hospital, the time-table of which, like certain ancient oriental laws, is not a part of the general flux of ever changing things and ideas. Inquiry elicited for us the information that the general scheme in Medicine allows for three one-hour periods in the morning and two two-hour periods in the afternoon.

But none of these difficulties is insuperable. If the students are united in their desire for an adequate opportunity for exercise and recreation in the open air and the sunshine, and the authorities agree in the opinion that the students ought to be encouraged in this desire, the interchange of a one-hour and a two-hour period necessary in the Medical Faculty and the adjustments required in other Faculties ought to be quite possible. We don't advocate this change for to-morrow morning. But the afterwards will be no longer in future years and men will still need exercise and sport to make them the type of citizens that this University ought to produce. The suggestion demands our serious consideration, and an effort to find the best possible means of improving the present situation.

LET US STOP THIS IMPOSITION

Every rose, they tell us, has its thorn and men who accept positions of high honour or great responsibility have to put up with many things which detract from the kudos gained therefrom. But there is one annoyance which every player on all of our Senior Teams has to put up with that should at once be stopped. That is the constant stream of people who, taking advantage of their acquaintance with one of the senior stars, continually dun him for tickets for games.

There are many cases of men, particularly on the Hockey Team, who give all their spare time to training and playing for the glory of Varsity and yet owing to their good nature and the insistent demands of "friends" never have a ticket left for relatives or people to whom they most wish to give them.

And here let us whisper a terrible thought but it is true nevertheless. The worst offenders are not undergrads, because a player can explain to a class mate more easily than he can to the demonstrator who takes his attendance in the labs, that he wants at least one of his six tickets for himself.

Keep behind Jack. Add to the morale of our several teams by not annoying them for tickets. Go down to the Arena and line up now for a season ticket or next winter take a sandwich with you and brush elbows with the proletariat for a couple of hours. Don't tell the hobo next to you that you are a lecturer in Political Economy and your dignity will not suffer in the least, and you will enjoy the experience. You may get rugby season tickets now at Mr. Reed's Office if you look alive, but let us all make a New Year's resolution (retroactive to October the seventh) that we will never again add to the burden of worry on the shoulders of any of our rink or gridiron heroes by mentioning the word ticket to him.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Under the heading of U.C. news in this issue is an appeal to all students to turn out to put the U.C. Lit. on its feet. We wish them every success, and feel sure that a College which has given its best efforts to every branch of sporting, social, political and journalistic interests will back up Mr. Lorne Hutchinson in his effort to make the Lit. representative of the men of U.C. The members of other faculties take the greatest pride in their common interests with T.C. and hope that the old order will change on October 11th. Get behind Lorne and next year keep behind his successor.

Varsity Staff Holds Meeting

That THE VARSITY should strive to be not only the mouthpiece but the moulder of student opinion was the view expressed by the Editor-in-Chief, Mr. F. G. Lightbourn, at the joint staff meeting held yesterday afternoon. Discussing the aims of THE VARSITY for the coming year, Mr. Lightbourn proposed that an attempt be made to give the student body a clearer idea of the history and workings of student government in the University, giving particular attention to the functions and powers of the various governing bodies.

With regard to the advertising question, which aroused considerable comment last year, it was announced that the advertising rates had been raised, which action would enable THE VARSITY to get along with less advertising this year. Also, advertising contracts had been altered so that advertising might be withheld from any issue on account of lack of space.

By a unanimous vote, it was decided to discontinue the marking system, which was in use last year. A record will be kept, however, of the work of each reporter. Detailed instructions were given local editors and reporters regarding the handling of copy, reporters being particularly requested to get their copy in early. A general discussion followed, during which several valuable suggestions were made.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB TO HEAR MR. F. H. KIRKPATRICK

Course of Lectures on Public Speaking Will Be Given

A programme of activity in the Political Economy Club has been prepared which, it is hoped, will be of real interest and benefit to all Honour Economics students. The Executive feel that the Club can be made the centre in which the present troubles of civilization may receive serious thought and some one inspired to discover and apply the remedy. Each member would plan to take an active and intelligent interest in the meetings—by this way alone can he expect to obtain the full return.

The Club is making arrangements with Mr. F. H. Kirkpatrick, Ph.D., Specialist in Speech Education, to give a short course of three or four lectures on Public Speaking.

Each student will be expected to put the theory he has learned from Dr. Kirkpatrick into practice. A series of oral discussions which will be designated as "Present Discontents." Under this heading, "The Law," "Group Government," "Education," "Taxation," will be considered.

A member of the Club specially interested in one of these subjects will be asked to prepare a fifteen or twenty minute talk on it. A speaker, who is a specialist on the subject, will be at the meeting and will give twenty-five to thirty minutes to give his opinion. An open and informal discussion will follow. A printed programme will soon be ready for distribution. Members can help by subscribing the membership fee of one dollar as soon as convenient.

Watch THE VARSITY for the opening date.

BURWASH MEMORIAL LECTURES

Following the Marquet Lectures N. W. Powell, K.C., will give the Burwash Memorial Lectures in Convocation Hall about the end of October. The Burwash Memorial Fund, founded on the anniversary of Chancellor Burwash's 80th year in Victoria College, provides for a sum of $50,000, the interest of which will be used to provide these lectures. The subjects on which Mr. Powell will speak are "World Peace" and other kindred topics for which he is especially adapted both because of his scholarly ability and his former work in the League of Nations. Those who recall his former address in Convocation Hall a year or so ago on the League of Nations will be assured of the high standard of these coming lectures.

An announcement of the exact date will be made in an early issue.

AIDS TO STUDY

A few well-chosen reference books on the student's study table are an immense help. They are the tools by which he gets work done. The selection should include dictionaries, one, of course, in English, and one each in other languages being read, a good work on synonyms, and one on quotations. He would do well to add Brewer's "Handbook" and Roget's "Thesaurus," and, if possible, a good general Encyclopaedia. In our reference department all the foregoing may be found as well as many others.

A NEW ENGLISH DICTIONARY

Winston's Simplified Dictionary is recent, and may be recommended highly. It includes all the words in the English language as used to-day, and is fully illustrated and beautifully printed, bound in leatherette, thumb index, $1.95. Examine the reference books at your leisure.

Can Queen's Do It Again?

No Labour Trouble in Kingston This Year

THE VARSITY of October 25th, 1893, contains the following interesting item:

"RUGBY."
 The Varsity III, played the R. M. C. II, prior to the big match and succeeded in winning by a score of 9 to 4. The junior scrimmage, under the able direction of "Jack" Connell, the heavyweight quarter, put up a strong game.

Upon the conclusion of the junior game the veterans took the field, and then began one of the roughest matches in the history of the Rugby Union. Owing to strikes among the stone masons as well as the employees of the Kingston Street Car Company, Queen's were enabled to place their strongest team in the field. The personnel of the fifteens was—

Queens—Back, Wilson; Halves, McRae, Curtis (Capt.), Farrell, H.; Quarter, Fox; Scrummage, White, Kennedy, Baker; Wings, Ross, Moffatt, McLennan, McComman, Farrell, Rayside, Horsey.

Varsity—Back, Gilmour, W.; Halves, Campbell, Gilmour, J.; Quarter, C.; Quarter, Barr; Scrummage, Lash, M.; MacMillan, Bradley; Wings, Claves (Capt.), Lash, N., Laidlaw, Boyd, Kingston, H.; White, McArthur, N. J.; Referee, Ballantyne (Osogood); Umpire, A. Watson; Line Umpires, Dr. Clark, R. S. Strath; Varsity; Goal Umpires, Slater and Waddell.

At the close of the first half the score stood 6 to 7 in favor of Queen's. In the second half Varsity scored only one more point, while Queen's succeeded in piling up twenty. Both in scrimmage and on the wings Varsity was outplayed. Queen's wings continually broke through and thus prevented Barr from playing to his halves. This, to a great extent, accounts for Varsity's defeat. However, the boys are continuing to work up for the defeat in the return match next Saturday.

DR. FRASER CAMPBELL ADDRESSES KNOX STUDENTS

Tells of Spread of Christianity in India

A meeting of exceptional interest took place in Knox College last evening, when Dr. Fraser Campbell addressed the members and friends of the Student Volunteer Band. Dr. Campbell, who is one of the pioneer Presbyterian missionaries, being the first missionary of the Presbyterian Church in Canada to go to Central India, spoke in a most interesting way of things both political and religious.

Speaking of the government of India Dr. Campbell said that he knew of no better government in the world, not excepting our own Canada or Great Britain. The men at the head of this government, however, are only human and mistakes have been made. Speaking of these men he said there is no country where there have been men with such high ideals and earnest purpose as in the Indian service, and he took a very optimistic view as to the outcome of the present disturbances.

In turning to the position of the missionaries in India Dr. Campbell said he believed a crisis had been reached. Never before were the people so open to approach and willing to hear the message that the missionaries were bringing. At the present time more Bibles were being actually bought, not simply accepted as gifts than ever before. Many other instances were cited to show the spread of the Christian influence. Since arriving home on furlough Dr. Campbell received a letter from one of his workers in Rutlam to say that that leading native paper, which like all the native papers, had been very antagonistic, had asked for a short life of Christ to be written by one of the men at the station for publication.

In closing, Dr. Campbell urged any who thought of missionary work to remember India and its need. Although Dr. Campbell is no longer a young man in years, he is greatly curtailing his furlough to get back to his work.

Williams Breaks Record in Mile Walk

Every possible circumstance was favourable for the Dental Track Meet on Thursday afternoon. Perfect weather, splendid track, plenty of equipment, an enthusiastic crowd of spectators and a good turn-out of athletes made it a wonderful event.

Promptly at 1.45 the starters' pistol got the boys away to the first heat of the 120 yard dash and the relay race ended the meet at 4.25. It was imperative that we be off the field to let the rugby team continue their practice, and this was accomplished by the co-operation of the staff of officials who carried out the programme without a hitch.

The outstanding performance of the day was that of Mr. Frank Britnell, D.F.C. of A Class, 273, who won the all-round championship with four firsts and a second. Mr. Crawford Craigie, of B Class, 273, was second with four firsts and a third, and Mr. Vince, of the Dental Class, third with two wins.

B. D. PARTBRIDGE WINS VIC COLLEGE TRACK MEET

Some Good Records Made

The Annual Athletic Meet at Victoria was run off in fine style Thursday afternoon. The success of the meet was largely due to the efforts of Mr. V. E. Reynolds, the University middle distance runner, who coached the boys and was Chief Slave-driver. 273 carried off the class honours, and the individual championship went to B. D. Partridge, 273, who won four firsts and one third. C. Marr, also of 273, was second with four seconds and three thirds, while W. Reynolds, 274, and F. Bartlett, 273, were tied for third place with two firsts.

The Freshmen Class carried off the Inter-Class Championship with twenty-four points, which speaks well for the future of athletics in Dentistry.

A Class, 273, who won the coveted Inter-Year Cup last year, was second with twenty-three points, and B Class, 273, and the Pre-Dentals tie for third place.

Four records were broken today. Russ. William's time, in the mile walk, of 7 minutes 50 seconds flat breaks not only the Dental record, but the Inter-faculty record as well.

Frank Bicknell broke three records by pole-vaulting 10 feet 4 inches, jumping 19 feet 5 inches in the running broad and 5 feet 4 inches in the running high.

Following is a summary of events: 100 yards—Vince, Virtue, McLean. 220 yards—Vince, Virtue, Wilkinson. 440 yards Bicknell, Campbell, Wilkinson.

880 yards—Craigie, Leitch, Wood. Mile Run—Craigie, Byron, Hamilton.

Shot Put—Turner, Lappin, Wood. Mile Walk—Williams, Hall, Finlay.

High Jump—Bicknell, Stock, Wright. Broad Jump—Bicknell, McVicar, Turner.

Pole Vault—Bicknell, McVicar, Miyachuk. Hurdles—McVicar, Bicknell, Leitch. 3 Miles—Smith, Balmer, Craigie.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION MEETS

Will Shoot at Long Branch on Saturday Afternoons

The annual meeting of the U. of T. Rifle Association was held in the Lecture Room, Hart House, at 1 p.m. Tuesday, October 4th, Capt. Cochrane presiding. Captain Cochrane outlined the work accomplished last spring in getting the Association reorganized, and pointed out that, with the splendid miniature range at Hart House and the Association's privileges on the service ranges at Long Branch, no undergraduate interested in rifle shooting should miss the opportunity of being a member of the Association.

After an open discussion the meeting decided that the yearly enrolment fee should be $2.00, payable to Professor Henderson, Dept. Pharmacology, Medical Bldg., who has the enrolment sheets and members are not required to repeat the oath or sign the sheets.

The election of officers for the coming year produced the following result: Captain Cochrane re-elected Captain. Captain Kendrick re-elected Treasurer.

Committee: Arts—Perry, A. Vic. I.; Miller, W. C. U.C.

Med.—Dill, J. L., Delamere. S.P.S.—Archibald, S. W. (Sec.); Dilworth, H.

Forestry—Kensit, N. F. Practices will be held on the ranges at Long Branch on Saturday afternoons until the ranges close. All interested in rifle shooting are urged to join immediately to make the range practice successful.

The DeLury Shield, for Inter-faculty competition, will be shot for at the close of the outdoor season.

Hart House range will be opened as early as possible, being allotted by Faculties as follows:

Monday—S.P.S. Wednesday—Arts and Forestry. Friday—Meds and Dents.

DR. NOBLE ADDRESSES
ACADEMY OF MEDICINESays The Day of The General
Practitioner is Returning

On Tuesday last the Academy of Medicine held its annual dinner at St. Queen's Park. This marked the opening of the new auditorium known as the Old Room, which is to be dedicated to Sir William Osler. Among the two hundred guests present were: Sir Robert Falconer, Hon. R. Grant, Hon. Dr. Cody, and many others of note. The dinner was followed by the regular meeting of the Academy. Dr. Noble, President of the Academy, delivered his inaugural address. In opening his address Dr. Noble paid tribute to those who had done so much to secure such a desirable location as they now had. The younger fellows, he said, had responded, although the ranks of the Old Guard, which had stood by them in the early days had been sadly broken. "For many years to come, we must busy ourselves in the growth of the Academy of Medicine Foundation Fund, which is approved by every one and wisely endorsed by Council, so that at an opportune time we may launch forward the erection of a large and more imposing structure."

Dr. Noble then dealt with the care of the General Practitioner. "I am sure that every right-thinking man feels that whatever the goes, the General Practitioner must stand. . . . Probably, the most disturbing factor in the tendency to belittle the General Practitioner is the multiplicity of specialists. This could be more largely prevented by a rigid standard being set for all specialists. . . . Nor is there anything quiet so contemptible as the man who chooses a specialty not on account of his fitness for it, but because it brings him a good financial return. . . . If I read the signs of the times aright, the time is not far distant when the General Practitioner will come into his own, and just as quickly as he has been belittled, he will quickly win the foundations of our profession be made doubly secure."

In speaking to those who were engaged in teaching, Dr. Noble said, "As an interested onlooker it would seem to me that the present day appalling lack of respect for youth for age, of junior for senior, which seems so characteristic of our time, has invaded even our halls of learning. . . . There are no critics more exacting than a body of modern students. They quickly pick out the defects, but at the same time are just as quick to discern merit in the man who has a real message for them. . . . I would like to see our students graduate a broad-minded general practitioners, with a useful practical training that will enable them to meet the real problem of their profession. Once in practice, their viewpoint will gradually widen, and they will develop into us 14 men with large experience, who can advantageously turn their hand with confidence to any one of the specialties, to which they find themselves best adapted."

The Junior ladies were shown of noted deceased practitioners of Toronto, Dr. Noble expressing the hope that they will make clear the high type of men wanted in the profession. "We must all strive to copy those who have stood the test and proved themselves worthy," he added.

CONVOCATION CHOIR

Remember to meet for practice at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday—and then the choir, at 3.30, for old members and new. Everyone is promised a good time and plenty of eats.

Come and help to make your choir a success!

C.O.T.C. BAND

The annual meeting of the pro-pective members of the University of Toronto Band was addressed by Major H. H. Madill on Wednesday afternoon. The response so far is very encouraging and it is expected that the membership will be considerably greater than it was last year.

Major Madill pointed out that the band members at hand practice are accepted instead of the compulsory physical training for those in the first and second years. The question of securing University engagements was brought up and it was decided to interview the Athletic Association with regard to playing at the rugby games.

It is expected that before the next meeting the services of Captain J. Slater, Bandmaster of the 48th Highlanders' band, will have been secured.

Trinity

The Trinity College Science Club began its year's programme with a business meeting on Tuesday evening. J. A. Johnson, President, occupied the chair and Rev. Canon Rollo, Honorary President, also attended the meeting. An outline of the coming season's activities was drawn up, and subjects for discussion at future meetings were suggested. Refreshments were served when the business was terminated.

An interesting talk on the S.C.M. summer conference marked the opening meeting of the Trinity College Missionary Society on Wednesday evening. E. M. Serson, the Trinity delegate to the conference, spoke at some length on the meeting at Elgin House, and outlined the course which the S.C.M. proposed to follow. Several other speakers who had been present at the conference added to Mr. Serson's words, sketching the aims of the S.C.M. for the benefit of those new to the University.

Dentistry

So general was the response to our appeal for designs for the heading to this column that from the twenty-four designs submitted the judges have chosen one of a larger and more imposing structure. Of judges are to be called in to make a final choice of one. We hope to announce the winner in Monday's issue.

ALL MEMBERS

All men who won a first, second or third at the Dent Track Meet yesterday please report at once to Mr. Reed's Office to enter for Monday. Or hand in your names to Mr. R. A. Williams, B Class 273, EARLY FRIDAY MORNING.

THREE ARTS CLUB WILL HOLD FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the year will be held on Wednesday, October 12th, at 4 p.m., at the Union. It is a meeting for all who are interested in the progress of this Club. Fred S. Haines, A.R.C.A., the patron of the Three Arts Club, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Charm of the Etcher's Art," after which tea will be served.

I.C.D.U.

A meeting of the executive of the Inter-college Debating Union took place in Hart House yesterday. Plans for the season's debating, and the schedule for the first round of debates discussed. A fuller announcement, giving the draw and the resolutions which will be debated, will appear in an early issue of THE VARSITY.

Menorah Society Announces Program

During the summer months the executive of the University of Toronto Menorah Society was diligent and one result of their efforts is the arrangement of an ambitious programme for the session 1921-1922.

Their season opens on Sunday, October 16th, at 8.30 p.m. in the Zionist Institute, when Simul Margosches, Ph.D., the new local Zionist leader, will address the Menorah Society on "The Present Status of Jewish Culture." Dr. Margosches comes from New York, where he graduated from Columbia University and also from the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He has also lately returned from an extensive tour of both Canada and Europe and therefore will have much to tell of his impressions of Jewish life and culture, especially in the war-ridden areas of Central and Eastern Europe.

The Society has arranged to hear on November 20th, Rabbi Barnett Bruckner, of this city, on "Elements, Comparisons and Differences between Jewish and Christian Theology." On December 11th there will follow a lecture by Mr. Archibald Bennett, M.A., on "Zangwill as a Thinker."

Programme for Easter Term

The Society will open its 1922 term on January 21st with the annual debate between representatives of the Menorah Society of McGill and representatives of the University of Toronto Menorah Society. The subject has yet to be chosen, but whatever it will be the fight promises to be very keen since McGill captured the 1920 debate.

Professor DeLury has promised to speak to the Society on February 19th. His address will be on "Jewish Contributions to Science." The closing lecture will be on March 19th, when Professor W. R. Taylor, of U.C., will speak to the Society on "Moses Mendelssohn."

Between the various lectures the Society is arranging for a few dances, the first of which is to be held early in November in the Metropolitan Assembly Rooms. Study circles are also being planned, which the undergraduate members will be asked to participate.

WOMEN'S LIT. SOCIETY

Announces Date of First Meeting

The first meeting of the U.C. Women's Literary Society will be held at the Women's Union, 83 St. George Street, on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. An interesting programme is promised and it is hoped that as many as possible will be present. Freshettes will be specially welcomed.

Medicine

The Medical Student Volunteers and Mission Study Group will meet on Sunday mornings at 9.40 in the Common Room of Knox College. The Medical Y.M.C.A. has requested that this group be responsible for "Mission Study," so all who are interested in this are particularly invited. The aim will be to look at world problems from the standpoint most interesting for the medical profession. Next Sunday, Miss D. Kilpatrick, of India, a charming speaker, will address the group.

The results of the election of officers of the First Year in Medicine are as follows:
President, Mr. Ferrie.
Vice-President, Mr. Campbell.
Treasurer, Mr. Jeffries.
Secretary, Miss Mulock.
Athletic Rep., Mr. Secord.
Y.M.C.A., Mr. Hutton, Mr. Hefering.

On Saturday afternoon the Dean of the College of Education and Mrs. Pakenham entertained the students at their home on Spadina Road. Almost every member of the class availed themselves of this opportunity to meet the Dean and members of the Faculty in this delightful informal manner. Graduates from Toronto, Queen's and Oxford mingled without need of introduction since each guest was ticketed with name and college. This is the first of these delightful gatherings and we are all looking forward to the next one which is to be held in the University Training Schools at a later date.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN

Probably nothing in the Marllett Lectures delivered last week before the members of this University brought the personality of the great statesman, whom they were privileged to hear, so forcibly and vividly before the students as the fifteen minute speech which Sir Robert Borden made to the men in Hart House Lecture Room on Friday afternoon. The keynote of the address was "service," and one could not but feel that Sir Robert, of all men, was qualified and had a real right to speak on this subject. For as one reviews the recent history of Canada, in which he has played so great a part, one sees the person of Sir Robert Borden, always serving his country, always the "Minister" of the People.

His most active opponents have never been able, nor have they often endeavored, to show Sir Robert in any other light than this. One and all have acclaimed him a man of high ideals who is true to his conscience. His whole life has been an embodiment of the ideal of service. The picture of such a man, brilliant and capable, to a most unusual degree, who is willing to forego the material advantages, which can be gained in private life, in far larger measure than in the public service, and the comfort and leisure which success in business affords, but which success in public life entails, and is willing to throw all his efforts and the force of his character and high ideals into unselfish service, cannot fail to inspire any right-thinking man or woman.

None of us have a life which we will ever develop—the ability of Sir Robert Borden. But we all have the opportunity, and for that reason on our shoulders rests the responsibility, of making the standards, the ideals, the visions that have made his life of service not only a possibility, but a fruitful actuality, our own standards, and ideals, and visions.

Any observant person has noticed that, in every gathering, there are a few leaders and a great number of followers. The leaders are usually in the minority, which is both fortunate and unfortunate—fortunate in the sense that a clash of wills is thus divided and the main issue at stake is carried out in peace and unity; unfortunate because discussion among many original thinkers would result in clearer conceptions of fundamental questions and truths.

A leader must have many varied attributes of character, but one of his most essential possessions must be an absolute faith in his convictions. In other words, he must believe; and, what is more, he must know why he believes.

A man has grasped the essence of leadership when he realizes that he must have a logical assortment of ideas and a clear conception of fact before he can convince or impress his belief on others.

College should be a splendid training for leadership. A student learns the value of accurate knowledge, and he also observes the influence of individual upholding definite beliefs which he has carefully analyzed. The average student frequently gathers together accurate information but, mentally indolent, refuses to allow his brain to react upon the knowledge acquired, thus he fails to forge out his own belief or opinion. He is dependent on the opinion of others; he believes but he does not know why he believes.

Learn to reason out your policies and beliefs while at college, and do not fail to uphold what you believe. It is in this way that you foster the qualities of leadership which the country rightly expects from its university students.

DEFEAT

"Sweet are the uses of adversity." Tragic though the event of Saturday afternoon was it must not fill us with dismay or cause us to be downhearted. With Browning the spirit of Varsity cries "I was ever a fighter," and as last year our Hockey Team, after an unsuccessful beginning, by means of hard, conscientious work on the part of every player, untiring, self-sacrificing, and sympathetic effort on the part of the coach, and real, united, and consistent support on YOUR part, became the greatest team in history, so our Rugby Team may accomplish untold feats. But we can't achieve success unless each of us contributes his part. Don't worry about the Team and the Coach. We will do their part, if every man and every woman in the University of Toronto shows them that the whole student body is with them "for better or worse." We must all do our part. We must not fail them now.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Field Day at the Stadium this afternoon is a University event. That should mean one hundred per cent. present.

Victoria

"Victoria College Orchestra" will hold its first rehearsal in the Recreation Room of Annesley Hall at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 12th. It will be under the direction of Mr. Frank L. Blachford, who has conducted it for two very successful years.

The Orchestra is open to students of all Faculties and Colleges of the University of Toronto. All who are interested are cordially invited. Bring your musical instruments and your musical ability for the good of your University.

Those who have not seen the Orchestra "Notice" on your bulletin board, please watch for one. Any further information may be obtained from Lorne Brown, Business Manager, North House, Burwash Hall.

UNION LITERARY SOCIETY

The Union Literary Society of Victoria held its regular weekly meeting on Saturday night in the Alumni Hall, Mr. Jack Kell occupying the chair.

A bill which was introduced at a previous meeting by the Government, was taken up. It provided for the suspension of the Collegians' Debating Society with a view to its abolition, and for the holding of inter-year debates within the Union Literary Society.

After two hours of debate on the question it was put to a vote and the proposition, re-inforced by a large number of freshmen defeated the measure by a small majority.

Another hall was brought in providing that all Victoria College news should be gathered systematically by a staff of Victoria reporters on the Varsity under the guidance of the Publicity Committee.

The bill was passed with the understanding that the Minister of Publicity would have to get the assent and co-operation of the executives of the various other societies and organizations in the college.

THE FRESHMAN DENT
HIS FEELINGS PENT
TO WRATH GAVE VENT

On Slaughter Bent, His Clothes Were Rent, Poor Malcontent

The annual initiation of freshmen by the sophomore class of the R.C.D.S. staged at Willowdale Park on Friday afternoon, will go down in the annals of the college as the most memorable and successful scrap ever held. The Sophomores outnumbered their opponents more than two to one, having with them a large number of students who served in the Pre-identical Class last year and who rode the degree train in 1920.

It was not a pink tea party. "Treat 'em rough" was the slogan, and the weather elements being controlled by Jupiter Pluvius, the appearance of the warriors after the fray made it seem much rougher than it really was.

The Fresh laid down a barrage of election cries on the approaching hordes and swinging blunderbusses, (stockings filled with mud and lamp black) when the contestants lacked breath. For two or three minutes there was a mêlée of struggling humanity. The Sophs, grouped in twos and threes, singled out their men and at the expiration of six minutes victory was in their grasp. The first year men lay bound hand and foot on a floor of mud.

Step number two consisted in lining up the captives, and for fifteen minutes, white wash brushes, lamp black artists and tanglefoot operators worked quickly and effectively on the bodies of the poor freshmen. Release was then effected and opposing forces lined up for the camera men.

Hundreds of residents in the vicinity of Willowdale watched the initiation ceremonies with keen interest and scores of citizens cheered the ragged, mud covered army.

To show their appreciation of the sporting spirit of the 2T5 class, the sophomores were hosts that evening to a theatre party and supper after the performance.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN
VISITS HART HOUSEService the Keynote of the Ex-Premier's Message to U. of T. Men

Although he had refused many other invitations to speak Sir Robert Borden had consented to take lunch with the students in the Great Hall of Hart House on Friday and gave them a short talk in the Lecture Room afterwards. Over 300 students attended and many more were unable to get in.

Sir Robert told the gathering that he considered it a duty, as well as an honour, to be able to speak to the younger men of Canada, because as an older man he got inspiration and a new strength by contact with them. "The grave responsibilities which now rest upon the shoulders of the older men should shortly fall upon yours and as the pick of young Canadians, your share of this great task is no small one."

"Prior to 1914, the thoughts of Canadians were turned toward the striving after commercial wealth and material development. With the outbreak of the war there was a great transformation in feeling and the idea of service was upper most in the minds of every one."

"In the hands of the young men of to-day," he continued, "there lies a great heritage, and they must be inspired by the same spirit of service that inspired people during the war." He felt that the spirit of patriotism which had been born during the war period would continue to exercise its influence upon the future welfare of our country. When the young men had reached the age of three scored years and ten they would, he told them, look back with more satisfaction upon whatever service they had rendered to their country than they would upon any material pleasures they had enjoyed.

The magnificence of Hart House interested him and called forth his admiration. It would stand as a monument for years to come, but it was not eternal, and he wished to place in the minds of the assembled students this great thought, that their influence upon Canada was eternal, and would grow and spread in the days to come.

He called upon the university men of Canada to work in their country's interests. They were wealthy in that they had lives and opportunities lay before them, while the older men had utilized their wealth variously. It was up to the younger men to see that theirs was used to the best advantage.

In closing Sir Robert expressed confidence that the future of Canada would be safe in the hands of its young men and wished them Godspeed in the great life work which lay before them.

AIDS TO STUDY

A few well-chosen reference books on the student's study table are an immense help. They are the tools by which he gets work done. The selection should include dictionaries, one, of course, in English, and one each in other languages being read, a good work on synonyms, and one on quotations. He would do well to add Brewer's "Handbook" and Roger's "Thesaurus," and, if possible, a good general Encyclopaedia. In our reference department all the foregoing may be found as well as many others.

A NEW ENGLISH DICTIONARY

Winston's Simplified Dictionary is recent, and may be recommended highly. It includes all the words in the English language as used to-day, and is fully illustrated and beautifully printed, bound in letterette, thumb index, $1.95.

ernment which is termed democracy and which has attained its most advanced development in English speaking countries, and in one or two other states, has held the stage but for a moment in the long drama of human affairs. Its permanence is not a foregone conclusion. It is highly probable, but it is by no means assured. Other types of social organization after enduring for centuries have disappeared, undermined by inherent excesses or overthrown by the onset of outside barbarism. Democracy is a great and worthy experiment. Even if it should fail the world will be the better for what it has accomplished. But how shall democracy be assured of the moral fibre, the intelligence, the self-control, the active interest, the spirit of service, and the capacity of developing effective leadership, that are essential to ensure its permanence?

"It is easy to rail at the imperfections of the party system through which democratic government is carried on, or to expose the inequalities and inequality which it may engender; criticism is so easy that it has become almost a commonplace. The tyranny of the majority may not be less oppressive than that of the despot. Men whose service would be most valuable to their country may be excluded from office through long continuance of their party in opposition. When there is no real difference of principle in parliament the struggle degenerates into a battle between 'ins' and 'outs.' Legislation may be influenced by the desire to secure popular support and not by real interests of the country. Independence of thought may be discouraged, politics may become degraded, and upright men may be prevented from allying themselves with either party. Public office may be used as a reward for party service; civic and municipal affairs may be unworthily affected by party issues.

"But all these are imperfections of human nature rather than of the system. And no one has invented any practical substitute for the party system; the party system merely intensifies its imperfections."

"Another tendency which does not make for efficiency or stability in government is group representation in parliament. Before Confederation there was experience of that tendency in Canada, administrations succeeded each other with startling rapidity and stable government became practically impossible. "With all the difficulties which have been, or which may be pointed out, democracy possesses elements of stability which no other system has hitherto afforded. It is premature to speak of the failure of democracy, it is still far from having said its last word and no one can foretell what that last word may be."

Affiliation With The T. & D. Football Association Secured

The Interfaculty Soccer Series begins next Tuesday afternoon and each manager should see that the necessary certificates have been signed and handed in to the Secretary of the Athletic Association before the game.

This year there are eleven teams in the Interfaculty Series and they are divided into three groups and O.A.C., who will enter the semi-finals playing the winners of Group H.

Affiliation with the T. and D. Football Association has been secured and in all probability there will be an exhibition game next Saturday between the First Team and a team from the T. and D. That means that the first team should be selected during the week. There are three practice hours during the week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5:15. As many men as possible are requested to turn out and give the managers of the first and second teams a chance. Mr. Bickerth, the Warden of Hart House, is helping when he can, with the coaching and the more material out the better. Another attempt has been made to get McGill and Western into the Intercollegiate Series, but it is impossible for Western to enter it this year although they held out better promises for next year. McGill have not yet been heard from.

WOMEN DISCUSS ATHLETICS

A large number of girls interested in all branches of athletics were present at a mass meeting held in the Lillian Massey Gym. on Thursday, October 6th. Miss Conway, the Physical Training Director, gave a thorough and interesting explanation of the various classes, such as Fencing, Dancing, Physical Training and Swimming. Every girl present showed an eagerness to join one or more of the classes.

SEATS FOR MCGILL GAME

Two hundred seats for the Varsity McGill Rugby Game in Montreal next Saturday will go on sale at the Office of the Athletic Association, Hart House, at 9:30 this morning. The seat sale will close Wednesday at 5 p.m. It is expected that Varsity men will buy these seats quickly so don't put it off, buy yours now. If you are going to buy a single fare ticket, C.F.R., to Montreal. Then go to Convention Hall, McGill University, on Saturday morning, October 15th, and secure a certificate which will entitle you to half-fare coming back. This arrangement makes the return fare $17.85. Thirty or forty Varsity men can secure good accommodation at cheap rates at the Central Y.M.C.A. Montreal, by special arrangements made with the "Y" by the U. of T. Alumni Association of Montreal. Varsity will send a cheerleader with lots of song sheets and there will be a band at the Motion Stadium to play the Varsity songs. If we are to beat McGill YOU must be there. Buy your ticket now.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

We have been beaten by Queen's; beaten fairly and decisively; beaten by Queen's for the first time in years—and Queen's is football mad. The shock to Varsity men is great, the disappointment keen—to be beaten by Queen's, an incredible thing, but one of the best boosts Intercollegiate football ever got. But the disaster of the present should not obscure our view of the future. We are far from beaten yet; the championship is still within our reach; ours but grasp it. The team has awakened to the urgent necessity of a double victory over McGill. We must beat McGill right in Montreal in the midst of the greatest festival McGill has known. We can do it and with the support of every professor, student and janitor in the University we will do it. Varsity has been beaten before and Varsity has come up more determined than ever. Varsity was beaten on Saturday but here we are fighting, determined and equal to the occasion. Don't knock your team and say, "They're no good, we're licked." Don't knock your coach and give him the blame. Your team and your coach are there a thousand ways and with your support they'll prove it. Go to Montreal on Friday if you have to hock your text-books and your clothing. Go to Montreal and watch your team and support your team and leave the rest to them. Hit the line with Jack and hit it with all the weight of Varsity's glorious past, her still glorious present, and a future that depends upon you.

COMPETITION KEEN IN TRACK EVENTS

Arrangements For Track Meet Complete—Caput Declares Half-Holiday

Arrangements have just been completed to make the Interfaculty track and field meet this afternoon one of the most successful ever held at Varsity.

There are approximately 150 entries. This is not quite as many as last year, but by those on the inside this is taken as a good sign. Most of the entrants are men who have been conscientiously training for a number of weeks and consequently there will be far more lively and keen interest not only from the contestants but also from the spectators' point of view.

New Track Better Students of Varsity will have their first chance of seeing an Interfaculty Meet run on a regulation track.

All the details in the rebuilding of the track were carefully studied and the U. of T. track bids fair to be the fastest in the Dominion.

Records to be Smashed There are several events in which the "dope" seems to point to broken records. In the three mile event McLaughlin of Dent is going to make a great effort for the record, which is now held by Dr. E. H. Campbell who in 1913 set it at 15 minutes 56.15 secs. In the High Jump there is going to be great competition, and many believe that the record will be broken, but dare not pick the winner. The High Jump record has stood for some years as set by "Stew" McKenough at 5 ft 8 1/2 in. in 1913. There is also a very good chance of the Discus and 10 lb. Shot being broken, the former being 115 ft. 10 in. and the latter 39 ft. 9 in.

The Quarter Mile

The Quarter Mile is well known as being one of the hardest races on any programme, it calls for all three of the "big" qualities of the track speed, endurance and strength. Although it is doubtful whether a record will be made in this event on the new track it is expected that the race will be one of the keenest and hardest fought of the day.

In last year's Intercollegiate Meet it will be well remembered that there was a good deal of "jostling" of positions at the start and that many men did not feel that they had been able to do their best, putting this down to the fact that too many men were in the race, thus overcrowding the track. In order to have this all-important race run under the best of conditions the executive has decided to run heats. There will be three heats, the man winning the fastest heat being the winner, the winner of the second fastest heat will be second man and the winner of the remaining heat will be third man. This arrangement will prevent overcrowding at the turns and will also mean that every man will get a fair start; whereas in former year the contestants were started in two or even three ranks, which is obviously a great disadvantage to the majority in a race so short as this.

Big Attraction The greatest attraction of the day will be the 1000 Yard Exhibition run by Joe Ray of the Chicago Athletic Club, who is at the present time world's champion mile runner. Students of all ages and faculties should derive a great benefit from this event. The grace and ease of style will leave little wonder that this is one of the greatest runners in the world to-day.

New Interfaculty Event After much deliberation the executive has decided to make the Interfaculty programme as a regular event. But as the case in any new event which is being introduced it is hardly likely that there will be a very large entry. To guard against too few entering this event to make any real competition, the executive decided that there must be five or more starters.

QUEEN'S DEFEAT VARSITY

Patterson showed up as well as any for the losers. His running back of punts was sensational. His chief fault was his inability to get the ball out to the end man and thus cause Rolph, Fisher and Bartlett tackled well in spite of the slippery going. Taylor and Ferguson, were very strong on the line. Somerville and Snyder played a consistent game on the half.

Although the loss for Varsity is a hard blow and makes a big dent in their new season yet there is no need for any show of pessimism. Varsity has a good team and a victory next Saturday, which is something which can well be expected, will give the season an entirely new aspect. Next Saturday's game is the one that counts. With a win packed away against McGill in Interfaculty Varsity again look like champions. The team showed on Saturday that with a little more practice they can put it over and with the confidence and support of the University behind them they will do it.

The victory for Queen's means a great deal to the Interfaculty and therefore for the Intercollegiate Union. They made a supreme effort and won, proving in a concrete manner that they are a team to be reckoned with at all times. They have shown in a definite way that the Intercollegiate is not a two-dub affair but is a three-cornered contest. They are to be congratulated on their success over good fighting men.

Rifle Association

The gallery range in Hart House will open for the use of the U. of T. Rifle Association this afternoon. Practices will be conducted by faculties each week as follows:

Monday: Science
Tuesday: Arts and Forestry.
Friday: Meds and Dents.

The service ranges at Long Branch will be available on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Saturday mornings until October 22, and thereafter every afternoon until October 29.

The Interfaculty competition for the Delury shield, and a competition for the medals to be presented to the four best individual shots will be conducted on a date to be announced shortly.

Undergraduates wishing to join the Association should get in touch with their faculty representatives at once.

Forestry

The enrolment this year in the Faculty of Forestry is the largest in history. Twenty-two men have registered in the freshmen year, 13 in the second year, 10 in the third year and 12 in the fourth. The 4 occasional students bring the total number up to 61. The fourth year men are at present at the practice camp in the Temagami district, with Prof. Miller in charge. The camp work began on Sept. 1 and the students will return about the end of this month.

Last summer 11 Forestry students were employed by private lumber companies, 31 by the Dominion and Provincial Governments and 6 in other positions.

Dean Howe states that although the opportunities for permanent employment with private lumber companies are practically non-existent, prospects for graduates in Forestry are bright as there is a dearth of men for some of the higher positions. The need for trained men in pulp mills will create a demand for the future while the government service will also provide openings.

Three Forestry men who served in the R.A.F. during the war have been engaged in aeroplane patrol work for the government and have expressed themselves as very enthusiastic about the future of the aeroplane in fire protection.

Dean Howe thinks that the chances for obtaining a new building within the next two or three years are very good.

Knox College

K.C.U.A. ELECT OFFICERS

Unprecedented enthusiasm, which augurs well for the year's activities, marked the annual elections of the Knox College Undergraduates' Association last Friday evening. Much praise must be accorded L. R. Ballantyne, the retiring Vice-President, and his staff of scrutineers for the creditable manner in which the vote was taken. Generous applause greeted the verdict of each successive ballot with instant demands of "speech, speech," which served to remind the victorious ones of "a little story."

Of good omen was the well-merited election by acclamation to the positions of president and convener of the House Committee of J. F. (Jack) Anderson and G. ("Tiny") Rintoul respectively, both of whom have been tried ere now and not found wanting. The other officers were closely contested, no small amusement being occasioned in the case of the Athletic Committee, when among the numerous names on the board was "MacIntosh"—but no initial.

Now that it happens to be three of that clan in old Knox and no one knew which was meant. But John, of basketball, rugby, lacrosse, and basketball fame emerged on top. All felt they couldn't go wrong with a name like that—especially since Kenneth McRithe at the last moment had withdrawn from the lists!

Members of the House Committee may in all probability be compelled to take a course in dietetics, if one may judge from the short-looks already launched at them by the House. It seems to have the colour of the soup changed and the milk pitchers enlarged. As "Tiny" solemnly— for him!—announced: "It's an office which should be taken seriously," for henceforth every stalwart who arrives in time to see the grave dish drained will wait upon the convener to ask: "How come?"

The people have spoken—and here be they whose portraits will be long hang with "the heroes of old" in Common Room or Corridor. They stand before us and likewise bow. They have our eye.

Men who signed on as VARSITY reporters—please do not forget to pay a visit every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday to the Hart House Office to consult the assignment book.

TRACK ENTHUSIAST AGAIN DONATES MEDAL FOR MEET

For the sixteenth consecutive year Sergeant J. W. Geddes has donated a gold medal for one of the events at the Inter-faculty Track and Field Meet. Last year the winner was Mr. Leslie Uren, of Meds, who captured premier honours in the quarter mile. This year Mr. Geddes, who is an old-time walker and distance runner, is giving the medal for the mile walk.

He has competed in over three hundred races during his career and never failed to win a prize in any one of them, and although sixty-four years of age he is still competing. He claims the honour of being the first man to run two miles over Varsity's new track. At the age of fifty-three Mr. Geddes finished forty-second out of one hundred and fifty of the best distance men in America in a modified marathon held in Toronto.

He is also the proud possessor of the Sterling Humanity Medal, which was given to only three athletes on this continent for stopping in a race to pick up another competitor in distress and assisting him until he was able to get to a place where medical attention was available.

Mr. Geddes will again act as Field Judge and Judge of Walking at the Inter-faculty Meet on Monday. People who believe that athletics are especially a pastime for high school boys would do well to have a talk to Mr. Geddes.

St. Hilda's

W. A. TEA.

The W.A. of St. Hilda's College held its annual tea on Tuesday afternoon in the Common room. Many outsiders were invited and attended, which added much to the pleasure of all concerned. Tea was served by the executive committee of the W. A., and a thoroughly enjoyable hour was spent.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The Tennis Tournament is well under way. The schedule has been made out and posted, and the St. Hildians are busily matching their skill one with another. The list of entries is exceptionally long, so a good season in the sport is expected.

RECEPTION

On Thursday evening the first Reception of the year was held. The guests were received by Miss Cartwright, assisted by Miss Ferguson, Head of the Reception Committee. The upper years underwent quite a strenuous time in their efforts to make all the Freshettes and Freshmen known to each other at one and the same moment. Dancing was the form of entertainment, and it should, of course, be added that refreshments were served.

AUTUMN TEA

Arrangements are now being made for the Annual Autumn Tea which will be held in East and West Halls, University College, on Saturday afternoon, October 18. At this tea the University College women students have an opportunity of meeting the wives of the Faculty and of becoming better acquainted with each other. Every University College woman is urged to attend this social function which aims at fostering college spirit. Freshettes are especially invited as the Autumn Tea is their official college welcome.

Dentistry

Will all men who are interested in rifle shooting turn out to-morrow (Tuesday) at 12.15 in the Board Room? Come on, you old shock troops and snipers, and let's make arrangements to add the Delury Shield to our 1921-22 plunder.

Dents! We are getting a half holiday to see the Inter-faculty Track Meet. Joie Ray, the greatest miler living positively will appear. Let us hope that 832 Dents will be out to see him and cheer the Hya Yaka entries in their efforts to bring points to the R.C.D.S.

Swimmers! Don't forget the swimming and water polo practice every Tuesday and Thursday noon from twelve to one at the Hart House Lake. We must get busy at once if we want to land the Fitzgerald Trophy and hold the Eckhart Cup.

Applied Science

As announced in Friday's "Varsity" the elections for Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and Athletic Representative of School 275 were held in the First Year Drafting Room on that date at 8 o'clock. Those elected were: Vice-President, B. Lillie; Secretary-Treasurer, J. W. Ryan; and Athletic Representative, H. Pollock. A meeting of the Executive Committee of the above and President H. L. Norman will probably be held to-day to draw up a tentative programme, which will be put before the Class for their approval at a meeting called later in the week.

A change of time table to go into effect this morning was announced Saturday morning for members of the First Year, Faculty of Applied Science. Copies of the new time-table are posted in the Engineering and Mining buildings.

NOTICE

WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Women's Literary of University College was held on Saturday evening at the Women's Union, and judging from the large number present and the keen interest taken in the programme, the Society promises to have a very successful year.

The President, Miss Mary Needler, made a brief speech welcoming the freshmen, and after the business of the meeting was concluded, Miss Eleanor Hishop delighted the audience with two piano selections.

The paper of the evening was on Joseph Conrad. Miss Janet McCullough who prepared the paper showed a fine insight into the writings and character of Conrad, bringing into her paper that breezy and invigorating air of the sea which so characterizes Conrad's work. Unfortunately, Miss McCullough was unable to attend, and in her absence the paper was read with keen appreciation by Miss Margaret MacLellan. After the reading of the paper, the meeting adjourned for refreshments and an informal chat.

It was decided that fees should be taken in the Women's Classroom on Monday morning and that on Tuesday, the voting for the first year representative and on the amendment of the Constitution should take place.

NEW SOCIETY WILL PROVE ADEQUATE TO MEET U. C. NEEDS-PROF. JACKSON

But Present Year will Prove a Critical One in History of This New, but Old Association, says Honorary President

Literary and Athletic, U.C.
The first meeting of the Literary and Athletic Society of University College was held last night in West Hall. The room was crowded for the inauguration of this new society which will control practically all undergraduate activities.

The first speaker of the evening was Professor Jackson, the retiring honorary president. He mentioned that the opposition which the newly-constituted society was likely to encounter and considered that it was best for the society. He hoped that no antagonism would be a detriment to their success.

Professor Jackson, the retiring honorary president, spoke in complimentary terms of his predecessor. He spoke of the U.C. difficulties as a non-residential college. Societies were restricted as a result of the day routine of studies. The party system is out of date, and some new organization to take the place of the Unionist party will have to be formed. He advised participation in athletics, but it should not be carried to an extreme. President F.L. Hutchinson stated that the Mock Parliament was not to be held, but that a substitute would be held instead. The "Stage" dinner is to be held on October 29.

He reminded the audience of the fact that University College is the Senior College in the major faculty of the University. In conclusion, he stated, "We hope to put her in the place where she belongs."

Principle Maurice Hutton in the course of his speech stated that University College was in need of new buildings. That U.C. should be distinct from what is shown to the visitor as the main building, where the management of the University is carried on. Students should be divided into two classes, Scholastic, Semicholastic and Athletic. The presidents of the literary societies should belong to the second class.

Mr. Purcell, the Director of Athletics, claimed that the "Poor Arts," has eaten its way into the very stones of the building. It is hoped that this would be altered.

VARSIITY VETERANS PLAN SMOKER

Major Jimmie Hahn to speak on Veterans lay down the opening barrage of their fall campaign. This will take the form of a smoker, to be held in the Lecture Room, Hart House.

The ranks of the Association is being combined now for musical talent, and some good vaudeville acts have been secured. "Smokes" will be plentiful, and Capt. Kerrison, who is responsible for the "cats" promises his fair share of vaudeville, and sandwiches. The feature of the evening will be a short talk by Major Jimmie Hahn, D.S.O., M.C., on "Observations from an old soldier." All officers of the outstanding intelligence officers of the war, and will give some of this interesting branch of the Service.

All returned men, from every faculty are heartily invited.

DONOR MAY REPEAT FABIAN ESSAY PRIZE

Arrangements Are Being Made To Hold a Second Competition

Arrangements for the Fabian Competition of 1921-22 will be completed in the near future, when Mr. J. L. Counsell, of Hamilton, visits this city to confer with Professor Jackson, of the Department of Economics. It is not definitely known what form the competition will take this year, but announcement will be made at the earliest possible date. Mr. Counsell, the founder, was justly proud of the work brought out last year, and he would like the same substantial prizes, in an effort to direct student thought towards the vital issues of the day in the Social and Economic World.

Admiring Hundreds Congratulate Bashful Mr. Connolly

PREFERS HOT AIR TO GAS

Connolly, 215, S.P.S. has been announced as the winner of the contest for the best design for a heading for the Dental column in "Varsity." Mr. Connolly's work was chosen as the best from over a score by a board of five judges. His heading will appear in "Varsity" as soon as it returns from the engravers. The prize in contest was a choice between one year's subscription to GOLLIN, the Rolls-Royce of college publications, starting immediately, or a Twin set of books to be delivered sometime between now and July 15, 1922. On being interviewed by the President of the Dental Parliament, Mr. Connolly stated that he had "asked a man who owned one" and had decided to choose Gollin.

He has since received messages from the Salvation Army, the king of the newboys and the Amalgamated from Workers of America congratulating him on his good taste.

BUSY YEAR PLANNED BY MEDICAL EXECUTIVE

The regular meeting of the Medical Society Executive was held on Tuesday, October 11th, at the General Hospital. An energetic committee was appointed to look after the entertainment of the Meds in the open meetings which are held periodically throughout the year. The committee is in the capable hands of Mr. M. H. McFarland.

"Daffyd Night" plans are already in hand, and from the enthusiasm shown this year's event bids fair to surpass the wildest expectations in the matter of entertainment, in the coming performance. The very thorough plans of the initiation committee of Second Year once approved by the Executive. It hardly seems credible that such atrocities are about to be perpetrated in this enlightened age.

The executive is in a quandary as to where to find a cup for this year's Daffyd competition. The last cup was purchased by the present Fifth Year, engraved with the names of the winners, the Dean, and other members of the Medical Building (North Lecture Room) of the Faculty of Medicine. Here is the opportunity for some opulent Medico to send his name down to posterity by doing a new cup. Don't pass it up! One at a time!

Professor J. J. McLeod, Assistant Dean, was unanimously elected Honorary Treasurer of the Medical Society.

An open business meeting of the Medical Society will be held in Room 19, Medical Building (North Lecture Room) on Friday, October 14th, at five o'clock. This meeting is to discuss plans for the coming year and Meds of all years are urged to be present. Get together and make the Medical Society the best organization in the University.

Something must be done about the accommodation at the various hospitals in which the Meds hold clinics. There is a great lack of space for coats and hats, and the crush entering and leaving the cloak rooms is as bad as a rush for a tube in war-time. Greater facilities for wash-basins would be very appreciated. The usual steps are being taken, with better, we hope, than the usual results.

NOTICE

Graduates of K & W. Collegiate are urged to turn out to-night to the first meeting of the Kitchener Old Boys' Club in the South Comm. Room at 8 o'clock. First year men are especially urged to be present.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION REMINDER

All students in the first and second years are reminded that their registration is not complete until they have taken the physical examination required by the Board of Governors. As a number of the students in each of the faculties have not yet made appointments, it is requested that they are urged to do so at once at Hart House. They will then be enrolled in one of the gymnasium classes held by a well known Physical Director. Failure to make an attendance of 80 per cent. of these classes will result in a "star" on the year's work.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN GERMANY DESCRIBED BY TORONTO PROFESSOR

Mr. Kemp, of Department of Political Science, Tells of a Recent Trip Through Former Enemy Country, and of Its Rehabilitation

After spending three and a half months in Germany doing relief work, Mr. Hubert R. Kemp, of the Department of Economics, has returned to the University. Although most of his time was spent in Berlin, Mr. Kemp made several visits to East Prussia, including in his travels Memel, Danzig, Cologne, Eisenach, Sonneberg and a number of other places.

The Toy Industry

While in Sonneberg, which is situated in the Thuringian Woods, he spent several weeks with the Landrat and the Mayors of a number of the small towns going through the houses where toys were being made. Most of the toys, he said, are of wood, of which there is a quantity handy. Other toys are made from paper, papier mache, porcelain, slate, and clay. The centre of the toy industry in Germany is Sonneberg, a great centre for the manufacture of dolls. One of the few factories in the town is devoted exclusively to the manufacture of dolls. The toys are made by hand, and the voices of the dolls are very highly perfected, some of the dolls saying "mama," when turned on one side and "papa" when turned on the other. The voices of the animals are also imitated successfully.

The domestic manufacture of toys has been about 900 marks (at the present rate of exchange less than 80c) per week. The overworking is horrible. Two rooms provide the sleeping and working accommodation for families of from 4 to 8 people. The beds, which take up the whole of the room, are of only bed-clothing, have to hold from 2 to 4 people. In the mask makers' rooms are found piles and racks of masks, drying. An odour of glue prevails. The people usually work from sunrise until 8 o'clock, but often on one or two nights they work through so as to have the toys or masks ready for the buyers on Saturday morning.

In one week the average family would have about 200 marks (at the present rate of exchange less than 80c). Their diet consists largely of potatoes, with meat as a special treat on holidays. The clothing is poor and most go about barefoot both at home and in the street. "Before the war Sonneberg alone used to produce one fifth of the toys in the world's market. It still produces all the toys produced in Germany. Most of the toys were made for the export trade, but this was interrupted by the war, and has not since recovered.

"In this way the war struck Sonneberg very hard, for on account of the mountain clothing industry, which all the toys could not turn to agriculture. The children were very badly off from malnutrition."

Mr. Kemp said that there was less unemployment at present in Germany than a year ago, only 300,000 being unemployed. He is in progress of the legislation of the Republican government is responsible for the comparatively small number of work. The new law provides that no one may be dismissed until all are working half-time. That is a 21 hour week. There are approximately 2,000,000 people on half-time employment.

Germany has had great trouble with her public finances, the continually falling value of the mark leading to a loss in the cost of foodstuffs, a large part of which had to be imported. Rates of wages in Berlin are very low, a skilled man working full time, that is an 8 hour day getting about 1,500 marks a week.

The U. of T. Women's Press Club will meet in the Women's Varsity Office (Room 82, Main Building) at 4:15 p.m. on Friday. All members are urged to attend. Tea will be served.

Anatomy Building Will Supply Much Needed Accommodation

Modern Structure Being Erected in Rear of Medical Building Will Relieve Congestion

Immediately at the rear of the Medical Building is a very large vacant building, the foundation laying of an additional hall of learning, the new Anatomical Building. The government has granted the University $500,000 for the erection of this building, which was necessary in order that the Carnegie bequest of $1,000,000 be finally presented to the University.

The building will consist of four stories and a basement and will be connected with the Medical Building by the entrance of the latter. It will have a stone front facing Queen's Park, which the plans show to be very beautiful and picturesque and will provide a welcome relief from the dingy appearance presented by the rear of the medical students' building.

The north end of the new building will contain a large lecture room and below this will be a suite of rooms for experimental surgery. The remainder of the building is to be chiefly devoted to

NOTICE

Holders of Matriculation or Undergraduate Scholarships in the Faculty of Arts are requested to call at the office of the Registrar of the University and sign the Scholarship roll. Delay in doing so may cause delay in the payment of the Scholarships.

C.O.T.C. MEDICALS ARE COMING IN FAST

The result of recruiting for this company has so far been most encouraging. Two meetings have been held at which the senior years were represented. It is hoped that the officers of the C.O.T.C. for the company may be chosen from those who have seen service overseas. As the organization of the company must be completed at an early date will any member of the fourth or fifth years with the necessary qualifications, who can spare two hours a week, see Mr. Cosbie or Capt. Linton any time, Room 3, Pathological Building.

POPULAR COURSE OPENED IN HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS

The new Extension Course in Household Science instituted this year has attracted large numbers of women to the lectures given at the Lillian Massey Building. So many attempted to enrol that registration had to be limited. An especially inviting feature of the course is that it is open to any woman, not merely to the graduate or the student. It is not a University course nor one leading to a degree, but a practical course on a comprehensive and useful study of diet and food values and their relations to health.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO GLEE CLUB

A meeting of the executive of the Glee Club will be held on Friday, October 14th, at 5 p.m. in Room 82, Main Building, to discuss matters of importance for the coming season.

It is hoped that we may commence rehearsals of the chorus next week, and we hope to make this a banner year for the Club. We should like to see as many as possible of our old members at the first practice, in which will appear in the Varsity shortly.

All Freshmen and Freshettes of vocal ability are cordially invited to join the Club, and to keep it in mind when selecting their course of social activities for the year.

FORESTRY

There will be a Foresters' Club Meeting in the Faculty Building to-night (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. A drawing for a prize out is requested as the draw for the Montreal trip will take place and other important business must be transacted.

The Interfaculty Meet starts at 1:15 p.m. at the Varsity Stadium. Get behind the men who will represent YOU against McGill, R.M.S. and Queen's.

Students Directory Goes To Press Soon

The Students' Directory will go to Press this week. So far only one Faculty has sent in its list. Heads of Students' bodies are urged to see that a list of their members is sent in at once. Also the names of the President and Secretary of each year and Society. Address: The Editor The Students' Directory, S.A.C. Offices, Hart House.

TORONTO ALUMNI GO TO MCGILL

Mr. E. W. Beatty Becomes Chancellor and Dr. Laing Dean

Mr. E. W. Beatty is the new Chancellor of McGill University, having been re-elected from a similar position in Queen's University, after some negotiations to succeed the late Hon. Sir Robert Laird Borden. It is especially interesting to students of the University of Toronto to know that Mr. Beatty is an alumnus of Varsity, having taken his degree before proceeding to the study of Law at Osgoode Hall. He was born at Thorold, Ont., and called to the Bar in 1901, entering the Law Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., where, by his marked ability, he rose from one position to another until he became President. For several years he had been actively identified with McGill University, and in 1919, the chancellorship of Queen's became vacant, he was chosen to succeed the late Dr. James Douglas. Now he returns to McGill to assume the chancellorship of that University.

McGill has also a new Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Dr. Charles E. Laing, who is also a graduate of Toronto, and a former lecturer in Latin and Greek here. He succeeds Dr. Charles E. Moyses at McGill, coming here from the University of Chicago.

MANY NOMINATIONS BY U.C. FIRST YEAR

Principal Hutton Addresses Green Ones on Frosh and Initiations

West Hall presented an unusually brilliant spectacle this afternoon when the "Frosh," with their lion, a cap of red and white and the "Freshettes," with their green bands, gathered for the annual nomination of officers for the Freshmen year. Principal Hutton's address of welcome was a recital of the history of forty years of Freshmen, contrasting these forty years ago with the Freshmen of to-day. Principal Hutton went on to explain the derivation of Sophomore—wise fools. In conclusion he stated that the initiations of to-day were nothing but a "superfluity of nonsense." Following the address the nominations were held.

THE "LIT." IS DEAD—LONG LIVE THE "LIT."

Last evening was held the opening meeting of the first session of the Literary and Athletic Society of University College. For many years the Literary and Athletic Society was one of the great forces in the life of this University. For many years, the old Society was the melting-pot of student thought and the clearing-house of undergraduate opinions. It was the nursery of great statesmen and of brilliant counsel. And it is no more. There is something tragic in the passing of such an organization. Even now there are among us those who remember the stirring sounds of "Down with the Unionists—U.P.V.!" Hurrah for the grand Old Lit. Parade! There are those of us who remember the excitement of elections, when party feeling ran high and grads. as well as undergrads, joined in the contest. Then the lawyer left the court, the medico his consulting-room—since the elections were never held on Sunday, the parson did not need to leave his pulpit. But those days are gone. All the wealth of history, of the tradition that makes nations, has been cast aside and the "Lit." is not.

But has the "Lit." gone? Have the traditions and history been so lightly regarded? It is not more true that we to-day are also making history? Are we not also true to the traditions of which the "Lit." was so justly proud and which its members so jealously guarded? The old "Lit." is dead, and from its ashes has arisen a new "Lit.", full of the life and vigour of youth, full of ambition and the highest intentions. It is well that it should be so. The old Lit., for all its history, for all its traditions had outlived its usefulness, and in the changing conditions of university life it was necessary that it go. It was ever thus:

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new,"

And God fulfils himself in many ways,

Least one good custom should corrupt the world."

The best institutions must give place to others—not better, but better-adapted to new conditions. The charm of the old is not second to the charm of the new, and venerable old age is no less inspiring than virile youth. The new "Lit." is, and is going to be, great and growing, a worthy successor to its worthy parent.

The "Lit.", as we knew it, is dead, but its spirit lives on—lives and will live, unless the present generation of students betray the trust handed down from the past.

The "Lit." is dead—Long live the "Lit."!

THE CALL OF TO-DAY

The youth of the twentieth century, especially the students of Canada, possess more advantages than was the lot of other generations. We are sprung of a hardy pioneer stock, men and women who had a great faith in God and in the possibilities of their children and their adopted country. It is owing to their ceaseless labour that we are to-day what we are—a young nation with ideals, gazing with clear eyes into a bright future. Our grandparents and great-grandparents sowed the seed to-day we are reaping the benefits. They struggled to lay a foundation for our future, and education is within the grasp of all. Do we ever pause to think of our great privileges—privileges unknown to the pioneer forefathers, but from whose hard hands we receive them. In a word, they have passed their responsibility on to us. It is for us to say whether Canada shall advance or decline; we are the trustees. How shall we fulfil the trust? Have we made the best use of our advantages, have we risen to our full height? Canadian youth rose in fearless answer to a call in 1914, shall we not rise in answer to the less thrilling but none the less imperative demands of the present day?

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

How many students at Varsity held positions this summer, calling for the type of training with which they are now preparing themselves or of the sort which they intend ultimately to accept? Beyond divinity students we have met few who were so employed, who were receiving, not pence, but recompense.

Many of our courses call for a certain amount of practical, or shop work, to be put in during the vacations. On the other hand, many of us deem it advisable to undertake work such as we shall ultimately be engaged in, that we may not enter upon our professional careers absolutely green. But in all these cases the result seems to be the same, viz., the employer appreciates the situation, and knowing that the "training," if there really is any to be obtained, is sought after more than a salary, pays just as much as will retain his man, and then deliberately sets about to pick his brains, and generally to make capital of him. This state of affairs is one which will exist as long as our present system, whereby students are left to their own devices during the summer, prevails.

But it does not follow that a civil engineer is wasting his time because he spends his summer in business rather than in a surveying camp or machine shop. Frequently, the breadth of vision obtained from an acquaintance with other professions is far more valuable than seeing how the pure science of our professors is applied to the conduct of some particular firm's business. We learn continually, no matter what our employment, provided always that we take an intelligent interest in it. Again, particularly in the first and second years, we are likely to be impressed by attractive offers of high salaries, short hours, and so forth. Hard-headed business men will not consciously pay a student more than an expert salesman expects, nor will they offer a greenhorn a comfy position as "superintendent of construction," or any other of the high sounding situations which are so prominently advertised in the dailies each April. If they do they have ulterior motives.

Our best advice to the present freshman is to cast about carefully soon after Christmas and to choose some "job" where he will come in contact with men and women, and stand a chance to pick up knowledge and information. If it is possible to join a staff as a vacation supply, so much the better, as in this case, by sacrificing a little in the way of salary at the start a situation to which one may return three years in succession is often assured, with a fair promise of an increase in salary each year.

Of course, there are the fortunate individuals whose fond fathers or uncles undertake to place them, usually where their questionable services are useless, and where the salaries are high. This, again, is an evil which will live as long as the present "devil-take-the-hindmost" attitude on the part of the authorities, as what usually happens in such cases, is that the chap who can well do without the money receives it in place of a needy student who is fully prepared to make a full return for value received.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Jupiter Pluvius is not a sport. He seems to be doing his best to spoil the tennis tournaments and the University Track Meet. The Students' Administrative Council might have some influence with him.

Correspondence

Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,
 I wish to call your attention to a matter which has been causing considerable trouble of a serious nature in University College. The practice of the Freshettes, who are wearing their Sunday clothes to lectures on week days is decidedly odious to the girls of senior years. We do not wish to appear as knackers, but simply to point out that these newcomers are outraging the customs and traditions of old Varsity.

Take the case of one of my chums in Queen's Hall. She has always dressed both simply and tastefully, and is an all-round sport. During the last year she has been receiving marked attentions from a member of 212 Vic. By chance, he was introduced to a Freshette who goes round the halls with a "straight from Paris" look. Since then he has been taking her to every conceivable place of amusement and neglecting my unfortunate friend.

This is only one instance of the misunderstandings which result from this misuse of the word "straight." I hope our first year friends will see the thing in its proper light and leave Sunday things for the Sabbath.

Sincerely yours,

FAIRPLAY.

DEAR EDITOR:

Is it within the right of a humble and very unimportant traveller of the paths of learning to ask the why and wherefore of the continual theft of coats and hats from Hart House wardrobe, and the whole University. Foolish question, I hear you say. But is it after all? There must be some solution to this problem which causes the "Lit." to be rescued from the depths of under-Hart House gloom and placed in some more conspicuous and convenient place to the joy of him who has one small hour, only, for the noon-day repast.

With the meekest of apologies for this piece of daring in the field of Hart House government.

I remain,

Yours sincerely,
SLIPSTICK.

month. An unskilled factory labourer would receive about 1000 marks for the same period.

The work of the Society of Friends, with which Mr. Kemp is connected, consisted for the most part in providing extra meals for school children between the ages of 6 and 14, and for mothers with infants who were endangered from undernourishment. An average of about 500,000 children were handled in one day, while for a period of two weeks nearly 1,000,000 were being cared for. The work is expected to continue for several weeks yet. The medical examinations still disclose the fact that there are a great many children, who, although not in immediate danger of starvation, would be seriously handicapped by malnutrition.

"That Little Hand"

That little hand!
 I hold it firm in mine
 And scan its outlines fine.
 My eyes expand,
 And grow with love intense and strong;
 I gaze upon it fond and long,
 That little hand!

That little hand!
 It is so smooth, so pure and white,
 And covered o'er with diamonds quite,
 In beauty grand.
 Oh, how I love it! See me press
 It to my lips in fond caress,
 That little hand!

That little hand!
 There are no others fair as you!
 I lay you down, and gladly, too,
 With manner bland.
 It is a diamond flush and straight!
 Soon may I hold its charming mate!
 That little hand!

MEMORIAL AT MCGILL

It is expected that His Excellency the Governor-General will unveil the Memorial Tablet, which has been erected at McGill in honour of the undergraduates, graduates, and members of the Faculty who saw service in the Great War. Arrangements have been made to have the ceremony performed on Thursday, October 13th.

AIDS TO STUDY

A few well-chosen reference books on the student's study table are an immense help. They are the tools by which he gets work done. The selection should include dictionaries, one of course in English, and one each in other languages being read, a good work on synonyms, and one on quotations. He would do well to add Brewer's "Handbook" and Roger's "Thesaurus," and, if possible, a good general encyclopaedia. In our reference department all the foregoing may be found as well as many others.

A NEW ENGLISH DICTIONARY

Winston's Simplified Dictionary is recent, and may be recommended highly. It includes all the words in the English language as used to-day, and is fully illustrated and beautifully printed, bound in leatherette, thumb index, $1.95. Examine the reference books at your leisure.

"HERE AND THERE AND EVERYWHERE"

A Wanderer in Hart House

During a rather aimless wandering around Hart House the other day I was struck by the variety of occupations in which the students were engaged. What seemed most of all seemed to be the studied care with which men did things in rooms intended for doing other things. For instance, I saw a few men naked and unshowered wander into THE VARSITY Office. I'm sure it isn't usual! Again, the number of men who manage to read in the library is astonishing—surely it should be the other way around—or the boot should be on the other foot, so to speak. In the Sketch and Art Room I found a group of gentlemen with red ties, evidently possessed of vivid imaginations, gazing with open mouths at the bare walls. There were still more gentlemen—with green ties this time—in the Pool Room. They thought it was the tank, judging from their scanty attire and their general attitude. I suppose the name deceived them.

U.C. Freshmen seemed to enjoy most of all the Concert Room, where they could jazz and shake a wicked shimmy to the wild notes banged out on the piano by someone who had missed his audition, he ought to have been turning the handle of a street organ. (Incidentally, why should Ragtime be played in the Music Room? On the other hand, why shouldn't it be played in the Music Room?)

Next I saw a pensive gentleman, wrapped in thought and wearing a wrist-watch, standing in the Barber Shop. I gathered that he intended to get a haircut, but he had put up his umbrella. I may have been mistaken—the evidence was not conclusive. Had he been carrying a sponge or a piece of soap I should have been better satisfied.

At last I got to the Theatre. There I found a man sitting fast asleep. When I made a loud noise he stood up and felt for his Hyman Book and money for the collection simultaneously. He was considerably startled to discover that the congregation had left and he hurried out like a frightened rabbit.

By this time I was very hungry so I went up to the Dining Hall. Here the waiters beggars description. The game seemed to be to gulp down as much food as possible in as little time as possible regardless of appearance. Most fellows succeeded excellently well as there are so few rules and they are intended to be forgotten. There was only one casualty. A poor fellow choked badly owing to a slight difficulty he had in eating, drinking, and talking at the same time. I was assured that it could be done but required much practice. I feel sure I shall master the art in time.

St. Michael's

AT LORETTO

For one week the Freshettes of Loretto Abbey College had won the green badge of servitude, and freshness and the label of insignificance. "Insect," but their trouble reached its height on Saturday last when the Sophomore Year held the Annual Initiation.

Each Freshette having been ordered to appear in costume, a motley crowd of witches, fairies, Mary Janes, babies, and cow-girls, were seized, blindfolded, and led by a squad of obnoxious Sophomore girls to the auditorium. Here, hoisted to the floor before their judges, the unfortunate ones found their heads immersed in pans of water. Then followed many tortures, and well-planned horrors from which the Freshettes finally emerged damp and ruffled, but undaunted.

In appreciation of the splendid spirit of the Freshettes during their term of probation, and in accordance with their annual custom, the Sophomores concluded the evening with a dinner, during which both classes entertained those associated with clever parodies and College yells.

INTERFACULTY TRACK MEET TO-DAY---SPECIAL RATES TO MONTEREAL SAT.

Dentistry

All veterans who wish the Alumni loan or return of fees must fill in forms at once, which are obtainable at the Library.

The Regular 273 Monday Class Meeting was held this morning in the large Lecture Room with President Ray Wilson in the chair. This was the last meeting of this year in the college, and a great deal of business was done. The First Annual "Whizbang" Informal Ball will be held on December 10th, at Columbus Hall.

Many technical matters were dealt with, affecting the welfare of the class as a whole. Men were chosen to go to Montreal to cheer the Blue and White to certain victory next Saturday. When the name of Mack Starnes, Manager of the Dent Rugby Team came out of the hat, as one of the lucky four, the enthusiasm of the class knew no bounds. The only thing to dampen their enthusiasm was that he could not be prevailed upon for a speech.

Despite the many wet-kelton croakings to the contrary from the graduated years, the Whizbang Class still keep their initial enthusiasm for any and all social athletic and executive functions. The rifle enthusiasts met to-day in the Board Room with Mr. R. A. Williams in the chair. Mr. Lorne Smith was elected to represent our college in the shooting game and will address a similar meeting at the same place Thursday noon at 12.15, telling us full details and plans for the year.

The October meeting of the Students' Parliament took place Monday at 8 p.m. in the large Lecture Room with President Dunlop in the chair.

Thirteen Hundred Dollars was granted for all sports except Hockey, which will be dealt with later. The Royal Dental Society, and the Y.M.C.A., were not forgotten, nor was Hya Yaka. Mr. J. S. Ritchie, M.A., the Editor-in-Chief, stated that the first issue would be off the press promptly on November 1st. All copy must be in by the 15th.

Messrs. J. A. Boyd and R. A. Williams, were chosen to represent the R.C.D.S. in the forthcoming debate against S.P.S. Full information soon.

The attendance was not as good as it should have been. More men turned out to the 273 Class Meeting than to the Parliament.

Manager Jack Staughton of the Dental Rugby Team wishes through the columns of The Varsity to express his appreciation of the sportsmanlike action of Manager Stan Douglas of the Medical Rugby Team, who, at the request of the Dent players, postponed a game which was scheduled for a date upon which four privy men of the Dent team could not possibly have been present. We could say a great deal more on the subject but it is only necessary to point out a case of this nature, to show that all the sportsmanlike acts are not confined to the field with hundreds right there to cheer.

HELP WANTED

Any students who want to make money at clerical work on Friday see Mr. B. Dunlop, Lecturer in the Lecture Room to-day. This will also add a worthy student activity.

"TORONTONENSIS" BOARD SESSION 1921-22

AGENDA

Photographs—

1. Make arrangements with photographer for class sittings, so that appointments may not clash with lectures.
2. When all sittings have been made have the proofs returned promptly in order that the selected photograph may be furnished the Board.
3. As soon as the finished pictures are ready to be turned over to the Editor, each representative should call on the photographer and identify each member of his class, writing the name plainly on the back of the print.

Note.—The deposit left with the photographer by each graduate provides a print for the year-book.

This portion of the work must be complete by December 1, 1921.

Biographies—

1. Distribute blanks to each member of class.
2. Recommend brevity and originality, following the special instructions on each form.
3. Extra forms are always available at Varsity post office in the Rotunda.

Arrange to have all biographies submitted by December 1.

General—

1. Class executives, etc., may go to either of the "Torontonsenis" photographers for sittings.
2. Clubs, athletic associations and all social organizations should be notified by their respective members about having pictures taken and sending in their copy early (not received after December 1, 1921).
3. Sororities and fraternities should be specially requested to submit— their copy before December 1st. The fraternity lists should be classified as:

Fraternities in Facultate.	Fraternities in Bello.
Fraternities in Universitate.	Fraternities in Urbe.
4. Class histories and write-ups should be in by December 1st and members of the board are asked to make this generally known.
5. Reservations for "In Memoriam" pages should be made with the Business Manager as early as possible (not later than December 1, 1921).

Cut this and keep for future reference.

Knox College

"Music Hath Charms—"

Without denying the power of music to soothe savage beasts, many within those walls will nevertheless demand, "But what makes 'em savage?" And the answer is, "Music," and again, "music." For music possesses irritant as well as soothing qualities, and at the same time, which sounded so plaintively romantic out on the beach at Wingham, last summer, only brings naughty words when you hear it dolefully plunking across the quad the sobbing strains of "They're wearing 'em higher in Hawaii." It sounds different, somehow. Doesn't fit in with, say, Hobbes' Leviathan.

Knox appears blessed with more than her share of the musically inclined this year. The chief offender in this respect is probably the energetic virtuoso, sometimes dubbed "the cruel MacGregor," for the punishment he hands out to the piano. He sits down with a sliding motion, runs a hand through his hair to give the old wax wearing, and then comes out with a shrill, alluring, and a great deal of getting into condition! Mac punches out the arpeggios and grace notes and all that with a driving power and abandon that would make Dempsy jealous. At Mac and Mac makes room for him on the seat for a duet. It is wonderful when they both hit their stride. Did you ever see a jazz whistler? It's a combination of the old pop-corn bag flute and a bicycle pump. By shooting the piston in and out so quickly, he gets in some surprising effects with his warbling—somewhat like a trombone, only more so, if you understand what we mean. There is this much to be said for "Slim" and his whistle. It takes your mind off the cruel MacGregor.

Let us pass lightly over Harry Lummon and his ukulele. After all, Queen's Hall probably suffers from it more than we do. Personally, we've often wished we could play the thing ourselves. We'd tie a ribbon around it and sling it over our neck and sally forth to serenade our lady like the troubadour of old. Only her father is really such a massive looking man. But Harry doesn't need to worry over that!

However we must put in a word for Bill Kitchell, who has owned a fiddle for two years. Bill is a self-made violinist. He picked it up himself. You wouldn't think so, though. You'd think a caddy had wished it on him. Ask Chas Wetter what he thinks about Bill's execution. He's in favour of it!

Old Bob McEwen is convicted of owning a banjo, but he keeps it out of sight somewhere. Anyway he's gone in for vocalization more since spending the summer with Napoleon and Julius Caesar in Whitney. He goes around now singing this monotonous refrain (Piano-sing) "One, two, three" (forte crescendo) "Whoooo—ee—ee." It is thought that he got discouraged when he found out we'd really have composed on our floor. Oh, yes.

Some of the boys visited him the other night and he was found in the throes of composition, working out a sonorous sonata in F sharp. "When do you figure on trying your piece out?" they asked by way of marvel. "Oh, probably around supper-time to-morrow," he said in the tone one granting a favour. This was

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

One of the largest and greatest games in the history of rugby will be played on Saturday when Varsity meet McGill in Montreal. A victory in this game is very essential to Varsity as they practically have to win it to stay in the running for the Intercollegiate title.

THE VARSITY, when interviewing members of the team, the coach, and executive found nothing but a spirit of confidence. It understood by all that the game will be a hard one but then Varsity always fights best when faced with greatest odds.

To obtain an idea of the enthusiasm in the team one only needs to review their daily programme. Up at six or six-thirty they arrive at the Hart House and are on the Campus at seven a.m. There is strenuous conditioning and signal practice till eight. Breakfast, lectures, lunch and at three p.m. they are back on the Stadium again for another strenuous practice until six o'clock. This is followed by dinner and then a chalk-talk which leaves about half-an-hour before bed time.

It is easily to be seen from this programme that life in the Senior Rugby Team is not all gravy as some are inclined to think. This is what each member of the team is doing to bring victory out of defeat for the University. What is being done by the rest of the students?

From five thousand students there are surely two hundred who can go to Montreal on Saturday. Out of the two hundred seats sent to Varsity there have been fifty sold. Are you going to be one of the other hundred and fifty? The team needs your support.

Applied Science

School Freshmen gained a close insight into the various branches of work carried on in the Mining Building, and incidentally the Sophs evened the score on the S.P.S. in the Sophs' rock War, when the latter distributed the Fresh outer clothing throughout the length and breadth of the above mentioned building, while the owners were being subjected to a lecture in dynamics Monday morning. When the Frehs discovered their loss they immediately instituted a rigid search for the missing garments, and soon green was predominant even in the remotest corners. Assuming a bold face for the occasion they advanced into the sacred precincts of the senior men and tore things loose generally in an attempt to locate their truant haberdashery. Finally, after missing the greater part of one lecture most of the clothing was recovered and the Freshmen returned waving victory flags. It is rumored, however, that members of 273 who do not lose some of their personal effects, are plotting a scheme for retaliation.

ORIENTAL CLUB

The first meeting of the Oriental Club for this term will be held this evening at 7:30 in Hart House. Dr. McLoughlin, of Victoria College, will speak on "The Value of Semitics to Men Entering the Ministry," and Dr. Taylor, of U.C., on "The Cultural Value of Semitics." This should be of special importance to all men in the University who are taking Hebrew and it is hoped that every one will turn out. Come and learn why you should take Semitics as a preparation for the ministry.

All Presbyterian students of Arts, Meds, and Science and their friends are cordially invited to attend the reception at the Memorial House, 415 Jarvis Street, given by Old St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening, October 17th, from 8 to 11 p.m. A very interesting programme is expected.

SNIPERS SHUN

An enthusiastic meeting of Dental Students was held in the Board Room on Tuesday at noon. Among those present were several Dominion Champions and one member of a Bilexy Team. We have still room for a few crack shots, so come along and help us make the Dent Shield a certainty for Dents. The next meeting will be held to-morrow (Thursday) in the Board room at 12.15. All information will be available regarding practices at Hart House and Long Branch.

OPEN MEETING—ARCHITECTURAL CLUB

Tonight, at 8 o'clock sharp, Mr. H. S. Brightwell, Service Engineer of the Indiana Lime-tone Quarrymen's Association, will address the Architectural Club on "Indiana Limestone." The meeting will be held in Room 22 of the Mining Building, College Street, and the lecture will be illustrated by slides and three reels of motion pictures. All students interested in the geology, quarrying or structural use of this stone are invited to attend as all these branches of the subject will be thoroughly discussed.

JOIE RAY TO BREAK CANADIAN RECORD ARGOS WILL ARRIVE THIS MORNING

TENNIS PLAYERS

The draw announced in Monday's issue will be played as soon as the courts are available. McGill and R.M.C. are now ready to play. Keep in touch with the tennis courts so that no time will be lost when they are playable.

VARSITY WOMEN GOOD ATHLETES

Many Classes Conducted in Various Departments

The good old Varsity sporting spirit does not seem to be lacking among the women of U.C. this year. Already they are away to a good start in every department of women's athletics.

In being interviewed Miss Coventry, the director of women's indoor athletics, said that the lists for the various gymnasium classes are being filled rapidly and that the most important of these classes are the remedial classes for body-building, and to correct physical defects. Members of these classes are students recommended by Dr. Gordon in charge of the physical examination of women.

The credit classes in physical training give thorough training in calisthenics, apparatus, in gymnastic games and in dancing. The dancing classes include training in technique, classical, interpretive, and national dancing. This course in physical training also includes swimming lessons. The credit classes are divided into two parts, elementary and advanced. Each part occupies three periods per week. If a student attends 60 per cent of the periods she will be allowed to try a final examination test at the end of March.

Miss Coventry is also conducting a fencing class, a dancing class, and a basketball class for beginners. The latter will meet on Mondays from 11 to 12 noon. The part II of the credit class will meet on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 2 to 3 p.m. The hours when the other classes will meet have not yet been arranged.

As the U.C. Basketball Team expects to play favourably in a few weeks, many would-be members of the team have turned out to practice. There is much promising new material, and also several members of last year's team. The rules decided upon by representatives of Toronto, Queen's and McGill will be used this year. Practices are on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, and a Saturday morning.

The swimming tank opened a week ago Tuesday and is now to be open every afternoon from 2:30 till 5:30. The instructor, Mr. Conroy, will be there on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. Several of last year's swimming champions are absent, but many girls are turning out and showing great interest.

The tennis tournament has been interrupted by the rain, but will be carried on later.

Two Relay Teams Leave Tomorrow to Compete Against McGill

The Interfaculty Track Meet, which was originally scheduled for Monday afternoon, will take place to-day. It was hoped that by postponing the date better weather conditions might prevail which would give our men a fair trial at the records. Although the track is still heavy further postponement is impracticable as Varsity is sending a relay team to Montreal which will run on Friday, and also on Saturday during the intermission of the football game. All the arrangements announced for Monday will be the same, including the exhibition mile-run by Joie Ray.

JUNIOR RUGBY SCHEDULE

Sat. Oct. 15—McMaster at O.A.C.
Wed. Oct. 19—Varsity at McMaster.
Sat. Oct. 22—Varsity at O.A.C.
Wed. Oct. 26—McMaster at Varsity.
Sat. Oct. 29—O.A.C. at McMaster.
Sat. Nov. 5—O.A.C. at Varsity.

INTERFACULTY MEET TO BE HELD TO-DAY

On account of the very bad weather last Monday the annual track meet was postponed until to-day. The rain, however, has not affected the Stadium track, which is still in first class shape.

O.A.C. Have good men.
Approximately thirty-five entries have been received from O.A.C. They are represented in every event and are going to make a fair bid for the overall championship. Waugh, the O.A.C. representative in the pole vault, has been clearing 10 feet 10 inches and will, therefore, be our worst watcher. In the three mile carbon, the man who ran such a plucky race last year, is entered and will be one of the strongest contenders. But the crown of the O.A.C. team is their entrant for the one-mile walk, who has been walking it in seven and a half minutes. Waugh, however, is a good metal having Varsity. In the relay race O.A.C. will also be a prominent feature. The four relay men are: Hurlicks, Lindall, McMillan and Wilson.

HARRIER CLUB

A meeting of the Harrier Club executive was held in the Varsity Faculty representative was held in Hart House last night. The coming Harrier season looks very promising though last year did. The Inter-faculty competition for the Broderick Cup will be keener than ever. Dents, Meds, Trinity and U.C. are all hot foot after it, while Whymsey and Pharmacy are expected to make very strenuous efforts to pull the prize away. The interfaculty Harrier run is to be held on October 10th at 10:30 a.m.

SWIMMING CLUB

The annual meeting of the University of Toronto Swimming Club will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Athletic Directorate Office. The schedule for water polo games will be drawn up and a new captain for the University Swimming Team will be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. Huxley last year. An announcement regarding the starting of gym classes will be made in the Friday issue of THE VARSITY.

Secretaries of various sports desirous of having their meetings reported in "The Varsity" are requested to hand their copy in to "The Varsity" Office in Hart House addressed to Sporting Dept.

HART HOUSE MASQUERADE

The House Committee of the Hart House announces that the date for the Hart House Masquerade will be November 17, 1921. Watch "The Varsity" for further announcements.

ANGLO-SCOTT STUDENTS

St. Michael's

FRESHETTES WELCOMED

When Freshette is scheduled to meet Sophomore on an October night every one knows the proceedings. The same thing and more of it was the programme of Thursday night's activities at St. Joseph's when the Freshies officially became members of St. Michael's College. At eight o'clock they were met in the Common Room upstairs and after the frightened youngsters had been temporarily blinded and made to resemble very dirty, unkempt wails, they were brought downstairs to the gym, by a hasty drawn-out method to partake of "lumpy" tubs prepared by the Sophs for the Freshies alone. When any nausea which may have been occasioned had run its course still blinded they continued on their journey to other regions where in several ways they were made to act like the children they are. When the ruthless Sophs thought that they had meted out somewhat more than they had received in that long ago and almost forgotten period of October 1921, they desisted, and conquerors and conquered buried the hatchet in the dining-room where the newcomers have evidence that in spite of at least they did not rank below their seniors.

Victoria

Promptly at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday morning the Freshmen of Victoria College left their appointed rendezvous in a body and made their way to "Vic." Campus to meet the eager Sophs in a fierce hand to hand struggle. A few feet up a large elm tree was the Landmark sign, "Poor Frosh" and around this tree the eager Sophs were ranged. Several yards away the Frosh for a moment stopped, then moved forward and rapidly forming themselves into a huge battering ram. An instant later all that could be observed was a struggling mass of humanity. For a moment the Frosh seemed to be getting the worst of it and they struggled in vain to put a ladder against the tree and carry off the sign.

On one side the Soph girls assembled and cheered the out-numbered Sophs. On the opposite side the Freshettes, not to be outdone, returned the cheers with a shrill "Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah!" Urged in the cheers each side redoubled their efforts, but soon the Frosh murmurs were up and the "scrap" was officially ended. Former bitter enemies immediately became the best of friends and together they marched to a nearby restaurant where sandwiches and other eats were attacked with the same energy that Soph had for Frosh a few minutes before. To about one-third of the Froshmen the scrap was only a small part of the whole affair. The night before the strap, about thirty University Freshmen the way he had secured and taken to the Victoria College White Building for initiation. The fore-locks of all were first clipped followed by a beaming of paint on the Frosh. A branding stamp was then carried out. Later it was found by a test that not many like oysters, that is not cold oysters served up to blundered Freshmen. Running the gamut of twelve lines of Sophs, who were armed with tarred staves, was the next step in the initiation. All were required to swear allegiance to the King of Burwell and the Queen of Annesley Hall. An amateur Freshmen concert was then staged for the hospitable hosts and the initiation ended with a parade around all the girls' residences.

"Y" RECEPTION TO FROSH

The battle cry of the University College freshmen rang through Common room and Corridor in Hart House on Friday evening, on the occasion of the U.C. "Y" reception to Arts freshmen.

The ever popular song was led by Roy H. Rickard and this was followed by games conducted by Bruce Gray, associate secretary. Yells were headed by Harry Lennox and Ernest Taylor.

Short addresses were given by Roy Rickard, F. L. Hutchinson, president of the U.C. Literary Society, J. B. Bickert, Warden of Hart House, A. H. Vaughan, for the Bible Study classes, E. J. McCain, for the Social Service Workers, A. C. Taylor on behalf of the Mission work and A. A. MacKenzie, President of the U.C. "Y", on whose shoulders the burden of the work preparing for the evening's fun largely fell.

W. Mansen was chosen class cheer leader and a class organization meeting is being held to-morrow, Tuesday, Oct. 12.

Dentistry

The Royal College of Dental Surgeons boast of many track and field men in their day and every dental met finds them in the job.

The Seniors surprised everybody by coming in first, on one point behind. Some men who won points for the Seniors never competed at a University meet before. Let us hope that no more undeveloped talent will be dormant around the College. If you can do anything in sport, come out and find out how much it is.

The Verdant Frosh

Perhaps some Frosh has, in his dreams of what the Sophs are going to do to him, seen a huge reptile with immense legs and tail, a towering back of gigantic proportions, and a head that would put a gorgon to shame. If said Frosh has dreamt of such a monster, he will be greatly enlightened to know that it is kritosaurus incuvimus, of the herbivorous trachodont group belonging to the mesozoic era.

The skeleton of one of these, namely a dinosaur, has been placed in the Royal Ontario Museum, awaiting the admiring eyes of all good students of natural history. It was found by Professor Parks in the Red Deer Valley in Alberta in 1918. Considering the old chap's age (a trifle of three million years) he is in very good condition. The fore feet, in particular, are almost intact.

Professor Parks also found the hind legs, tail and another tail of similar beasts. These are being carefully unpacked and assembled, and will, in time, be added to the interesting collections of the Museum.

The first meeting of the Literary Society took place Friday evening last. The main topic of discussion was the co-ordination of the three Societies of the College—the "Lit.", the Students' Mission Society and the Athletic Association. The purpose of this change is to enable each society to be more devoted to its own particular line—the business of all three being handled by one executive.

The "piece de resistance" of the evening was the annual concert presented by the "Gentlemen of the First Year"—otherwise known as "Frosh." The programme was conducted in a more or less respectful manner, each receiving his deserts.

The evening concluded with a repast supplied by the above named gentlemen, and the crowd dispersed with College yells.

Having received in good condition one copy of the University of Toronto Handbook we wish to express our eternal gratitude.

DAD SAID "I AM A VARSITY MAN"

A very prominent business man whose son is now attending Medical School called us up and pointed out to us that as he is still a student since he studies "The Varsity", he wanted the same proposition that we offer Varsity men in our $12.00 valet contract for 1921-1922. He is a business man, saw a good thing, and wanted it.

Have us call for the next suit you need pressed. We'll show you how to save the price of a new suit this term.

RECORDS WERE BROKEN AT INTERFACILITY MEET

Joie Ray Failed to Break Record Owing to Weather

FUTURE STARS UNEARTHED

School Men Scored Most Points and Pharmacy Man Breaks The Three Mile Record

The nineteenth annual Field Day was held Wednesday in spite of inclement weather and adverse conditions. The track was icy and a stiff wind hampered the runners. Despite these handicaps many remarkable feats were performed. Keith Carruthers, S.P.S., added a total of sixteen points to his faculty's already large quota. School rolled up 49 points, which placed them far ahead of Dents, their nearest rivals. M.A.C., U.C., O.A.C., Pharmacy, Vic, and Trinity followed in more or less dignified fashion far behind these favorites.

Keith Carruthers broke two inter-facility records. He hurled the discus to the amazing distance of 119 feet 5.18 in. In the hurdles he clipped 1.5 of a second off his own record of 16.35. McLaughlin of Pharmacy showed his contempt for the miserable attempts of the elements to make records impossible, by running three miles in 15 min. 59.4 sec. This performance stands out as the most notable achievement of the day. It eclipses Dr. E. H. Campbell's long-standing mark by 3 sec. McLaughlin lapped four of his opponents with his easy, ground-covering style.

Joie Ray, the world's most consistent mile runner, ran the mile in 4 min. 38. sec. He was prevented from exceeding any records by the coldness of the day, the slowness of the track and the strong head wind. However, he demonstrated his beautiful stride which has gained him such fame. He was paced by four other runners, Burnett, Stephenson, Dr. E. H. Campbell and Croll.

The weight events were split up between the three S.P.S. giants—Bell, Carruthers and Langford. Since each of the three had a chance in the neighbourhood of six feet six, they presented a rather imposing spectacle with their Titanic efforts.

The pole vault save saved for a long time between Bicknell and Reynolds of Vic. This time it was excellent under the prevailing conditions. The winners of the various events were:

Discus—Carruthers, S.P.S.; Bell, S.P.S.; Langford, S.P.S. 119 ft. 5.18 in.
Hurdles—Campbell, S.P.S. 16.35 sec.
Pole Vault—Bicknell, Dents, Mac-Vicar, Dents, 10 ft. 10 in.
High Jump—Walker, Dents; Hall, Dents; Junkin, Vic. 8 min. 9.35 sec.
3 Mile—McLaughlin, Pharmacy; Moran, O.A.C.; Carson, O.A.C. 15 min. 59.4 sec.

New inter-facility record. Previous record held by E. H. Campbell, Dents, in 16.35 sec.

Running Broad Jump—Lively, Meds; Turner, S.P.S.; Mair, U.C.; 20 ft. 4 in.
Hurdles—Campbell, S.P.S.; Bicknell, S.P.S.; Mac-Vicar, S.P.S. 16.35 sec.
New inter-facility record. Previous record held by Cressler in 1920.

Put. Ball—Carruthers, S.P.S.; Langford, S.P.S.; 32 ft. 9.34 in.
Mile Run—Thompson, S.P.S.; Reynolds, Vic; Miller, U.C.; 4 min. 40 sec.
High Jump—Walker, Dents; Hall, Dents; S.P.S.; Carruthers, S.P.S. 6 ft. 4 in.
400 Yard Run—Sparrow, U.C.; Davidson, Trin.; 55.15 sec.

100 Yards—Gould, Meds; Vince, Dents; Argue, Pharm.; 10.45 sec.
220 Yards—Rumble, S.P.S.; Vince, Dents; Gould, Meds; 24.25 sec.
Half-Mile—Fraser, U.C.; Davidson, Trin.; 2 min. 13.45 sec.

Hammer Throw—Bell, S.P.S.; Langford, S.P.S.; Carruthers, S.P.S.; 87 ft. 11.2 in.

UNIVERSITY TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF DANTE

The six hundredth anniversary of the death of the Italian poet Dante, which occurred last month, will be celebrated in the University of Toronto on November 25th, according to plans being formulated by the Department of English.

Professor G. H. R. Shaw, who is in charge of the arrangements, announced that while the programme was as yet incomplete, it was hoped to have a series of English lectures on Dante, the most noted living authorities on Dante, present. The programme, which will be given in the Hart House Theatre, taking a musical and a literary form, and the Toronto Dante Society will participate. It is expected that the programme will be announced by the first of the month.

The Hart House Committee meets to-day (Friday) to definitely decide upon the date of the Annual Masquerade Ball. The committee have been appointed and plans are being worked out to make the dance one to be remembered. Further announcement will be made shortly.

PHYSICAL TRAINING BEGINS OCT. 17

Academic Standing Affected By Non Attendance

The classes in Physical Training begin Monday, October 17, and students of the first and second years must attend at the hours indicated on the time table. Eighty per cent. of attendance is required and students are warned that their academic standing is affected if they fail to attain the required standard.

The work will be short and snappy, the period being divided so that there will be allotted fifteen minutes to calisthenics with music, fifteen minutes to apparatus exercises for ten minutes for a group game. All class work will be over by 4 o'clock so that those wishing to indulge in games from 4 to 6 p.m. may have an opportunity to do so.

Students who are unable to swim will take one period per week with the swimming instructor and one period gymnasium work. Students able to swim who wish to take the course in Life Saving may take one period per week with the swimming instructor and one period a week in gym work.

Students are reminded that they may take the course in Military studies and the Officers' Training Corps in lieu of gymnasium work.

SERBIAN COMMISSION AT FACULTY OF MEDICINE

Observes Methods of Clinics

The Serbian Commission, which is visiting the Faculty of Medicine in order to observe methods of clinics, arrived yesterday and have registered at the King Edward Hotel. The Commission, which consists of Dr. George J. Molodtsov, Under Secretary and First Medical Officer of Health for Serbia; Dr. Georges Ivanovich, Professor of Pathological Anatomy; and Dr. Radenako Stankovic, Professor of Internal Medicine at the University of Belgrade Medical School, will be in residence in the General Hospital Friday. On Saturday they will meet the heads of the departments of Medical Pathology, Bacteriology, Physiology and Hygiene and will be shown through the Medical Building.

A number of surgeons from Detroit are also expected on Friday and in the morning will be shown cases in the General Hospital while in the afternoon they will visit the Sick Children's Hospital.

SEMITICS NECESSARY FOR THE MINISTRY

Oriental Possess Basis of Knowledge For Bible

A number of youthful rabbis assembled in an art course on Wednesday evening for the opening meeting of the Oriental Society. The president, Mr. D. C. Hill, in a few minutes of remarks, said that which Dr. McLaughlin of Vic. gave an address on "The Value of Semitics as a Preparation for the Ministry." He showed how a course in Oriental languages lays the foundation for a thorough knowledge of the Bible, the minister's first requirement. A man can never be a true and sympathetic interpreter of a nation's literature," he said, "unless he first becomes acquainted with the history of his country and the customs of its people."

Following this address, Dr. W. R. Taylor of U.C. spoke on "The Cultural Value of Semitics." He pointed out that the Semitic Course offers a man the best of the Pass Course in its options. It is a course in Oriental languages, a subject in one field. He said that the man of culture is not the man of encyclopaedic knowledge but the man who has learned to be a specialist in one field. He said that the methods of dealing with a subject. He has never known a man who took Oriental to be a failure in the ministry. He then went on to say that an interest in the classics releases one's mind from the thralls of the present. It takes him back to the origin of everything and helps him to see the present in a new light.

Western Asia has been the centre of world politics since 1,500 B.C. The religions of two-thirds of the world come from there. How then can we claim to be a people of culture if we know nothing of the people of the East? The East is still influencing the politics and religions of two-thirds of the world? The course in Semitics gives a man an opportunity to study this influence from its beginning right down to the present.

Considerable discussion took place among the other members present and everyone went home thoroughly convinced that the Oriental Course is the best one in the University.

Sunday Sermon By Dr. Seager

On Sunday, October 16th, at 11 a.m., the Rev. Canon Charles Allen Seager, D.D., will deliver the University sermon in Convocation Hall. Dr. Seager, who has just been appointed Provost of Trinity College, was recently the rector of St. Mark's Cathedral. Attendance at the sermon will be worth while as Dr. Seager is a deep scholar and a very eloquent speaker.

CONVOCATION CHOR

Regular practice on Saturday at 12 o'clock. Every member is expected to attend to this first practice with our new leader.

Edward W. Beatty, LL.D.

Who Has Been Appointed Chancellor of McGill

NEW MCGILL CHANCELLOR WAS ABLE VARST STUDENT

Torontonensis Gives Interesting Insight Into Former Student's Life

Mr. E. W. Beatty, the new Chancellor of the McGill is a graduate of this University. Political Science, '98 and Osgoode, '00. His sphere at Varst was not a noisy one, as would appear from his epitaph in Torontonensis. The elementary humor of his biography may not, perhaps, be out of place here.

"In his quiet home at Thorold, Eddie Beatty was born at a very early age, and from that time to this home has been much less quiet than before his arrival. At school he was always a good little boy and passed his entrance examinations without a hitch."

With marvellous avidity he devoured the stores of learning on the intellectual shelves of Harbord College Institute, and in the fall of '04 when the University gates opened, Eddie, school-bag in hand was the first to rush in. In the Political Science course he was one of the Professors' favorites. He was a member of the Rugby team of his year, and as a quarter back and captain of the Moleculer Club. With his natural ability and enterprising manner he has always taken a lively interest in the University. Director of his class, he was elected secretary of the Faculty of the Football Club in his final year. He is also councillor of the Senior Class and Secretary of the Technical Science Club. With his natural ability and enterprising manner there is good reason to hope that Eddie Wentworth Beatty, LL.D., will give Kitchener himself a run for his money.

Other graduates of his year, who are known around the University now, are Professors J. H. Royce, and Curran, of the Royal Ontario Museum, and the Rev. J. G. Inkster, of Knox Presbyterian Church. It is not surprising to find to the report of his student life given in Torontonensis, and in a recent issue of the Varst. He is one of the increasing number of new graduates who have shown the value of University Education in business life, and he is certainly a graduate of whom we may be proud.

Conversation Is Basis Of Public Speaking —Dr. F. H. Kirkpatrick

"Public speaking to-day takes of the simplicity and directness characteristic of all forms of expression," stated Dr. F. H. Kirkpatrick on Wednesday afternoon. He was the speaker at four lectures on Public Speaking to be given by him to the Political Economy Club. Dr. Kirkpatrick went on to explain that the secret of good public speaking was formerly considered inseparable from public speaking. Such a form of speaking, he pointed out, was, however, and therefore ineffective. The demand to-day, he said, is for natural, frank and purposeful speeches. As an example of the change in taste in forms of expression other than public speaking, the speaker compared the simple and direct poetry of Robert Frost, a war-time poet, with the highly artificial poetry of the Victorian era.

Conversation is the basis of public speaking, stated Dr. Kirkpatrick, and the secret of speaking in public lies in the analysis of conversation. To speak effectively, he said, the speaker must establish a personal relationship with his audience, regarding the latter as a group, but as a unit. Dr. Kirkpatrick expressed the opinion that the best speech is the one that is given in the box orators, because they understood how to get people to listen to them. A general discussion followed, and Dr. Kirkpatrick gave some valuable hints on voice control and how to overcome self-consciousness in speaking. Mr. R. Stewart presided at the meeting.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN UNIVERSITY CALENDAR

New Scholarships—Changes in Political Science and Commerce and Finance Courses—S.P.S. Fees Are Raised

The Registrar has issued an announcement of amendments and changes to the Calendar of the University of Toronto. Of principal interest among these is the ruling of the Board of Governors, that commencing with the session 1922-23 every male student in attendance proceeding to a degree will be required to pay Burschen annual fee of $5.00 for Physical Training.

There is also an announcement of a Bursary worth $25 per year and open to all Faculties to be awarded to the son or daughter of a killed or permanently disabled soldier, sailor or member of the Air Force by the University of Toronto. In the Faculty of Arts, Department of Modern History, a scholarship has been established to enable a student to continue his studies at one of the English Universities. There have also been created the John Moss Memorial Fund, the purpose of which is to enable the University to give to students of the Faculty of Commerce and Finance who have been successful in the examination of post-graduate work, preference being given to members of the C.E.F. for the first ten years, and the Daughters of the Empire Post-Graduate Overseas Scholarship of the value of $1,400.

The courses in third and fourth year Political Science and Commerce and Finance have been revised in such a way as to provide for the varying needs of students who propose to specialize in several lines of work after law.

Commencing with the session 1921-22 every male student registered in University College will be required to pay an annual fee of $2.00 for the maintenance of the University College Library and Athletic Society. In the Faculty of Medicine and in the Faculty of Applied Science, fees of $2.00 and $1.00 will be imposed for the support of the Medical Society and the S.P.S. Athletic Society respectively.

INITIATIONS

The institution generally known as "the initiation" is one that in past years has come in for a great deal of criticism from the Faculty, from members of the student body (both senior and junior), and from the non-university public at large. Undoubtedly, much of it has been deserved; it has been simply the logical outcome of the substitution for the vital principle, of an entirely wrong idea. So that the average individual, if asked "What is a University initiation?" would smile and reply that it was an opportunity for the students to cover each other with rotten eggs and shoe blacking, and nothing more. Certainly, if such be the underlying principle the initiation is deserving of the most severe censure and absolute condemnation.

When we consider, however, that the vast majority of our Freshmen come up from high schools and collegiate institutes, generally lacking that respect for the privileges of others, and that, "esprit de corps" which is necessary to the life of a student community, and furthermore that the true meaning of the word "initiation" is "an instruction in the first principles" of University Life, the theory, that the Freshman must undergo some disciplining, is at least justified. And as for carrying it out that may be done, like everything else, in a proper or an improper manner. "An institution in the first principles" of University Life is as necessary as a course in the languages or the sciences, and it may be "intensive" or "extensive," effective or futile, impressive or farcical, according as those upon whose shoulders it falls to give the "instruction" realize their responsibility, and as those who receive it recognize its true purpose.

The true purpose of the initiation is not to give the men of two classes an opportunity for a display of brute strength, nor is it to demonstrate to the world at large the power of buffoonery latent in the student. The purpose of the initiation is to "instruct" the newcomer in the ways and traditions of the society into which he is being received. It follows that the initiation ought to be valuable as a means of persuading or compelling the Freshman to conform and live up to these ways and traditions.

When the initiation accomplishes this end, it is a useful institution. When it fails in this respect, it may be a thrilling pastime for those who take part and an amusing entertainment for those who look on, but as an initiation it is practically valueless.

CO-OPERATION

A most gratifying example of co-operation between the executives of two of the University's major athletic clubs has been brought to our attention. The two clubs are the Rugby Club and the Tennis Club. The Tennis Tournament has been regarded considerably by unfavourable weather and as a consequence the executive had decided to rush the doubles competition through in order to reach the final round by Saturday noon. The Rugby Club Executive brought to the attention of the Tennis Club the fact that several competitors in the doubles purposed accompanying the Varsity Team to Montreal on Friday. Mr. Wales and Mr. Guillet, President and Secretary of the Tennis Club, immediately agreed that these Varsity rosters should not lose their chance of making the Tennis Team by going to Montreal for the big game. Therefore, they decided to finish the singles competition tomorrow and start the doubles on Monday morning when all the players could be on hand. This action on the part of the Tennis Club officials is highly commendable and clearly demonstrates that Varsity men are "Hitting the Line with Jack," just as they "Got Behind Laddie."

ARE COLLEGE STUDENTS SNOBS?

Modern Society is composed of many classes, each a little wheel in the great machinery of civilization, each with its own useful function. But there is one class in society which has no agreeable or necessary function—that is the class of Snobs. This class is a hardy perennial, ubiquitous and is divided like Gaul, into three parts—the moral snob or Pharisee, the social snob and the intellectual snob. Certain atmospheres are more favourable to one variety of this class than to another.

Does the atmosphere and life in college foster any one of the three varieties of Snobs? The moral snob is conspicuous by his absence. Students display an easy tolerance, not caused by any lack of principle. But owing to a desire to live and let live. Each one is entitled to his own opinion, theory or doubt provided it be honest. Each student is free to pursue his own course of action, within the bounds of decency. No one will impose on him a moral code or a course of action.

Unfortunately, the social snob is not so rare as the moral snob. Although supposed to have outgrown such a childish attitude social position is the main consideration with that class. "My grandfathers drew a good bow at Hastings" causes them not only a just pride but a feeling that on account of grandfathers' achievements they, in some mysterious way, are a shade above others. The general feeling in college is, that it is not what a student's forebears are, or what they possess that counts, but what he himself is, stands for and does. The world judges you on your own merits; it has no time to consult Broadway or turn over the pages of history. Birth and tradition are pleasant and inspiring possessions, but they are not fundamentals in the make-up of a man.

The intellectual snob is the most common of the three varieties in College. The consciousness of a better education is prone to creep in and colour our attitude to others who have pursued a different course in life. We are sometimes inclined to take ourselves, our opinions and theories a little too seriously, forgetting that probably thousands of students have thought and theorized in the same way long before our advent. The attitude of mental superiority is sometimes displayed. People about us are not impressed or cowed by a parade of knowledge or a few iconoclastic or Bolshevistic theories. They laugh, for this is the mark of the raw beginner in the field of learning. We are all learning education is to enable us to work more efficiently, not to cause a barrier between ourselves and our neighbours—for "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

MR. TACEY TO LECTURE AT WOMEN'S UNION

Mr. Tacey, secretary to Arthur Henderson of the British Labour movement will speak to the students on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Women's Union, at 85 St. George Street. Those who heard him at Conference will be delighted at the opportunity of hearing him again, and those who have not yet heard him should not let this chance pass by. Mr. Tacey has a message for the students of the University. The meeting is held under the auspices of the International Forum. Turn out everybody!

KITCHENER OLD BOYS ORGANIZE

The first meeting of the Kitchener Old Boys' Club for the academic year 1921-22 was held in Hart House on Wednesday evening.

A speaker will be held in Hart House on November 10th. Cards, hats and a good programme will be arranged. A special effort will be made to get every graduate of the K.V. Collegiate in any way connected with the University out for the event. Further information may be obtained from the Secretary, T. A. Hilliard, at South House.

Correspondence

Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,

Accusation and counter-accusation have run riot in 212 Vic in consequence of Fairplay's letter in your issue of October 12th. Stout denials are the rule, and searching inquiry has thus far failed to reveal the miscreant who wandered from the fold of worth to those of wickedness.

If any member of 212 Vic chooses his companions on the basis of outward adornment and not of character as revealed in face and general appearance, he may safely be left to the punishment of that nemesis which sooner or later overtakes the shallow-minded. A man in the upper years should have enough sense of proportion and ability to distinguish the true from the false to avoid falling into the error of wanting a pretty toy just because it is new.

Perhaps he was not entirely to blame. From the tone of Fairplay's letter the unfortunate seemed to think more of the amusement than of the man. No enduring companionship can be maintained on such a basis.

I have always found it interesting to watch each incoming year for evidences of general characteristics. The Freshettes are quite up to the average in looks, manners and taste, but certainly not beyond it, and there is a little of the mad riot of fashion so noticeable during the years immediately after the war. The main charm of a Freshette is her newness rather than her natural good looks and disposition, and in the latter respect, most of the girls of the upper years, so far from lagging behind the procession, could easily put on a green ribbon and pose as super-freshettes.

Yours,

"212 VIC."

Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,

In THE VARSITY of October 12th there appeared a letter from one who mis-called herself "Fairplay." We object to certain statements made by her, and at the same time extend our sympathy to the "unfortunate friend" of Fairplay for having confided in one who has proved unworthy of confidence and who cloaks an envious spirit in a seeming charity.

Now, if serious trouble has been caused who not take the matter to someone in authority? How are we "outraging the customs and traditions of old Varsity?" Is it not the privilege, and we might even say, the duty of every woman to appear her best? Not that we wish to infer that a "struggle from Paris look" is always admirable, but we should like to remind Fairplay that this season the styles from Paris are remarkable for their simplicity and tastefulness. Therefore they conform to her idea of a college girl's week-day attire. (Of course, modern people make little distinction between Sunday and week-day clothing.)

As far as the last paragraph is concerned it is of course. What is meant by "the misunderstandings which result from this misuse of the wardrobe?" and "I hope our first year friends will see the thing in its proper light?"

To say that a University College woman would go to "every conceivable place of amusement" is untrue and is an insult, not only to the Freshettes, but to every woman in the College and to the University of Toronto itself.

Sincerely,
JOHANNA AND JANE.

Editor of VARSITY.

Dear Sir—

On 11th of the Freshette so caustically referred to in last Wednesday's Varsity, I would like to state that she will not ever use such an obvious system of attraction again—the man wasn't worth bothering with—besides there's some one nearer home.

Hoping this may be consoling to Fairplay's sadly misused friend, I am
Yours reverentially,

The Book Worm

THE BOOK OF HART HOUSE: published by order of the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto.

To many students who wish to carry away with them some tangible reminder of the many happy and useful hours spent in Hart House, as well as to many people who have not the privileges enjoyed by the male undergrad, of this generation, the news of the publication of this book will indeed be welcome. The book is very largely given up to views of the House, sixty-four being included in the collection. The photography was done by Mr. G. D. Haight, whose work shows a keen appreciation of the artistic, especially in respect to the light which he obtains and the angles from which the photographs were taken.

The engraving and printing has been done by Rous and Mann, Limited, of Toronto, and this work, as well as the arrangement of the book, is beyond criticism.

Of no less interest and importance than the views of the House are the Prayer of the Founders, and the address of Mr. Vincent Massey, the Vice-President of the Massey Foundation. He said, in part: "Let us hope that not only will the House serve the interests of the active members of the University of Toronto, teachers as well as undergraduates, but that it may help to bridge the gulf of time and space which too often separates the graduate from his University. Here will be a place where the present and the past generations may meet, and here, let us hope, may be fostered the lasting loyalty and the esprit de corps which are essential to any seat of learning." "The Book of Hart House" ought to be a useful channel for bringing the House to those who cannot themselves enjoy the fruits of the generosity of the Massey family.

The book, beautifully bound in buckram, is on sale (price $2.00) at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer of Hart House. Incidentally this is one of the few offices in Hart House which are open to women.

AIDS TO STUDY

A few well-chosen reference books on the student's study table are an immense help. They are the tools by which he gets work done. The selection should include dictionaries, one, of course, in English, and one each in other languages being read, a good work on synonyms, and one on quotations. He would do well to add Brewer's "Handbook" and Roget's "Thesaurus" and, if possible, a good general Encyclopaedia. In our reference department all the foregoing may be found as well as many others.

A NEW ENGLISH DICTIONARY

Winston's Simplified Dictionary is recent, and may be recommended highly. It includes all the words in the English language as used to-day, and is fully illustrated and beautifully printed, bound in leatherette, thumb-index, $1.98. Examine the reference books at your leisure.

TENNIS SINGLES
REACH SEMI FINALS

U. OF T. SINGLES DOWN TO SEMI-FINALS

Ham, Guillet, Scott and Larkin

The U. of T. Singles advanced to the semi-finals Thursday. Art Ham and Jack Scott, of Meds., Ed. Guillet of Vic. and Sam Larkin of U.C. all won their fifth round matches in straight sets, thereby making a place on the Varsity Intercollegiate team to go to McGill. The following were the scores:

Guillet defeated Allen, 6-3, 6-3.

Ham defeated Hanbury, 6-1, 6-3.

Larkin defeated Arlene, 6-4, 6-4.

Scott defeated Gordon, 6-5, 6-3.

The semi-final games will be played at 1:30 Friday at the Toronto Club courts. No doubles until next week.

Water Polo Practice
Hours Arranged

The Interfaculty Water-Polo Series will begin Tuesday, November 1st. The schedule of games will be announced later. Practice hours have been allotted to the various teams as follows:

U.C.—Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, 1 to 4:30 p.m.

Vic.—Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, 4:30 to 5 p.m.

S.P.S.—Monday and Wednesday, 5 to 5:30, Saturday, 11 to 11:30 a.m.

Dents.—Monday and Thursday, 5:30 to 6, Saturday, 11:30 to 12 noon.

Meds.—Wednesday, 5:30 to 6; Thursday, 5 to 5:30; Saturday, 12 to 12:30 p.m.

Owing to the limited time available for practice it is important that each team be ready to enter the water promptly at the beginning of its practice period.

The Varsity Senior Water-Polo Team will practice Tuesday and Friday 5 to 6 p.m. A large turnout is essential as we are to beat McGill. Every one come and do his bit.

MEDICAL WOMEN ATHLETES ORGANIZE

Girls Urged to Use Privileges

The Athletic season for the Women Meds. has opened in an encouraging manner under the able direction of Miss E. Nesbitt, president of the Association. A hike, one afternoon, was greatly enjoyed by our walking enthusiasts and served as an occasion to enlighten new students regarding the aims and aspirations of the Medical Women's Athletic Association.

The following week a corn roast was held at the Victoria Park, giving an opportunity to make new friends and renew old acquaintances. A brief business meeting was slipped in painlessly between supper and songs.

The first formal meeting of the A. A. was held in the Lillian Massey Gymnasium Sunday evening. The Basketball, Swimming, Hockey and Tennis prospects were discussed. Special mention was made to the privilege extended to us by the Annesley Tennis Court from eight to nine every evening. It was especially stressed that the association strives to supply athletic work for every girl, each to her favorite sport, in classes suitable to her strength.

It is the sincere wish of the executive of the M. W. A. A. that every girl will avail herself of this chance to find health and happiness at the Lillian Massey gym, every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., which time is reserved for Medical girls.

Mr. Halbus left for Montreal Thursday night with the following track men: Sparrow, Davidson, Uren, Rumble and Carruthers. They will run in a medley relay at the McGill Interfaculty meet. This relay will be composed of two 220 men, one quarter and one half mile. Between halves of the rugby game they will compete with the McGill relay team. In this case, each man will run the quarter mile.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

Jack Maynard's Varsity Team, accompanied by club officials and rooters, left this morning for Montreal for the game of the century. The players are in high spirits, hitting on every cylinder and determined to beat Old McGill right in her own backyard. The coach is confident that Varsity can do it, as Varsity teams have done it before, and this should be the spirit of every Varsity man and woman. When the referee's whistle blows for the beginning of the contest on Saturday afternoon the most representative crowd in the history of Intercollegiate sport will settle back to watch a game that may be epoch-making. The Varsity supporters, 200 strong, will be there with band, song sheets and cheer leaders, so Duncan's warriors will not lack support. Confidence and determination are invaluable assets and with them Varsity's cup is filled to the brim. If we are beaten, we shall be beaten with the knowledge that our coach and players gave us their all. If we win, the Blue and White will add another garland to her proud collection. Varsity Team of 1921, we send you away with a cheer.

SOCCER

Varsity II Soccer Team will play their first game in the Intercollegiate Series with O.A.C., on Saturday morning, October 16th, on the back campus.

VARSITY SOCCER TEAM
TO PLAY BRITISH IMPERIALS

The Interfaculty Soccer Series was opened on Wednesday afternoon by a game between Meds. and Wyckiffe in which Meds. were victorious by a score of 2-0. The playing of both teams showed a marked lack of practice, which is not to be wondered at considering the large number of teams which have to be accommodated on the one playing pitch. However, with the teams playing a double schedule the brand of ball will improve rapidly.

There will be a game on the back campus on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. between the Varsity Senior Team and the British Imperial, a T. & D. team. Varsity have a speedy lineup and a good game is expected. A goodly number of rooters is also expected so don't be numbered among the missing.

We feel certain that the soccer players at least would appreciate the kindness if the rugby players would keep the field clear when there is a game in progress.

RUGBY NOTICE

All candidates for Varsity III turn out tonight at the Stadium. Signal practice and scrimmage with Seconds. Remember the first game of the season is with McMaster on Wednesday, October 19. Everybody out!

Interfaculty
Harrier Meet

Interfaculty Meet has been arranged for Saturday, October 20th, at 10:30 a.m., from Rosedale Lacrosse Grounds. Dressing rooms have been arranged for at St. Andrew's College for that date and also for trial runs by the faculties by applying to the janitor, St. Andrew's College, any afternoon.

Dressing rooms not available before 7 p.m. Everybody out and make a good Intercollegiate Team.

The Y.M.C.A. Book Exchange will not accept any more books for sale after Tuesday, October 13. It will still be open for the sale of books from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

Milk To The Swift
Spuds To The Strong

Wherein Lean and Hungry Presbyterians Are Seen Sowing Wild Table D' Holes

That "Lean and Hungry Look" It still lacks ten minutes of the appointed hour. In the Common Room some fifty men are seated or standing, while from the piano come the symphonic notes of the "Wang Wang Blues." Out in the passage beyond, the overflow are perched precariously upon the dizzy heights that overlook the vestibule, or lean against the wall. Two theologians are engaged in a heated controversy. Their voices rise higher and higher. Round each disputant are ranged bitter partisans and awed freshmen creep nearer to catch what pearls may fall from Olympian lips. Some knotty point in logic is perhaps being cleared up, or the late of church union? Then Joe clinches the argument: "He means to-night. We'd the syrup yesterday!"

The air seems charged with electricity. Every one is on his toes. The more fortunate make a hasty retreat at reading old newspapers or a tattered Literary Digest. But their thoughts are elsewhere and ere long they cock an appreciative ear. Never did poetry more earnestly strain for the clang of the bell.

At last it rings—and with the first clatter of the door is a wild rush for the middle of a bar. Milling and surging, the throng press on, muffled for the user. On the other side, a trembling band cautiously releases the book with a broom handle and sole-steps quickly as the hungry horde sweeps through. For the weaker must go to the wall in the three daily battle for existence. The milk is to the swift and the spud to the strong. It is the survival of the fittest!

Before saying another word, we wish to point out that the remarks do not apply to the polite gentlemen with whom we consume our rations. Let that be distinctly understood. In a recent issue we had occasion to pay our respects to certain musicians and meanwhile the seating arrangements were altered. To our dismay, at the next meal we found ourselves flanked and fronted by the aforesaid artists. They took a mean revenge. Gave us a double helping of macaroni and we've been marooning ever since.

But at the other table we found a shocking lack of consideration. Once, when we had thoughtfully matched three pieces of toast, just to be safe, ere the waitress could lay the plate down, what do you think an ignorant fellow did? Some one down the line yelled, "Any more carbon up there?" And our neighbor carelessly passed our plate down. Before we could retrieve it, the damage had been done.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESS

Another time some one enquired, "How's the row?" So as the pitcher passed our usual forethought noticing that our glass was only three quarters full, we carefully filled it before raising the jug. And when it reached the chape, it was empty. "Glad there's something you'll let by you," he snarled. Some people are so grumpy.

However, we're at a good table now. They're nearly all athletes, you know. Always keep in condition and all that. So when the milk comes along, they turn down an empty glass.

It's bad for the wind, they say, makes you corpulent and wheezy. Last night we had some nice mixture of oranges and apples and pears 'n' everything. We turned to our neighbor and said confidentially, "Harry, old boy, I feel it my duty to warn you. That's bad for the wind. 'But I'm not in training, o —' but he gave us the glassy stare. So we tried our other side kick. "Allan, you ought to pass that stuff up. It displaces your diaphragm. 'Now, I'm not in training—' but he merely drew the water in closer to him and put the water bottle between us. We'll report them to the Athletic Committee. Poor college spirit, don't you think?"

Lastly, as the theologians say, what awful hypocrisy this spirit of grab is getting. And we pass over in silence, mark you, the deprecating and perfectly to some have sunk in their efforts to satisfy the inner man, such as rolling their eyes at the waitresses and even following them to the kitchen with their nuts, imploring gaze. Certain of them even tarry long over their cups, when all but they have fled, and—what what?—there's some chap wouldn't hesitate to break a trusting heart—to get another piece of pie!

But what we have immediate reference to is the spirit in which some men say grace. They don't always say what they mean. It is not "the soul's sincere desire." For instance, recently a stout young man sat sipped upon. He bowed his head low between his hands upon the chair and made the conventional allusions to the kitchen with their nuts, imploring gaze, and "blessing them to their intending use," concluding with a subdued and reverent amen.

Then he pulled out his chair, looked at the celery and cheese, and exclaimed, "Suffering catfish! Is that all we get to-night?"

The Guest Book, recently presented to the Hart House by Rous & Mann, Limited, is an extremely interesting example of the book-making art. The greatest care was taken to make this book harmonize, in period, with the character of the building, and it will fulfill excellently the purpose for which it was intended. The book is bound in calf, with exquisite blind stamping on the front and back cover. It is hand sewn, and closed in true fourteenth century style with wrought iron gothic clasps. While the book is delightfully ornamented, still it has a practical appearance, and doubtless will stand the wear and tear for all time, even improving with age. The title and dedication pages are illuminated in color and burnished gold, and the others throughout carry the seal of both the University and Hart House. The charm of the work lies in the delightful manner in which the Fourteenth Century Gothic Period has been adhered to, and in the pleasing way in which the book will fit into its surroundings. The design and illuminating is the work of Mr. Frank Carmichael, O.S.A., member of the Rous & Mann Art Department. Although more elaborate books have been made in Canada, it is doubtful whether a good, practical, useful book such as this one, has ever been made here reflecting so much workmanship and fidelity to period.

Aside from the beauty of the book, which really beggars description, the imposing list of illustrious names already appearing inside, is something to wonder at, considering, of course, the short time that the book has been in our possession. Among the many signatures, are those of His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, Sir John Hendrie, Sir Robt. Borden, His Honor, the late Lionel H. Clarke, and many others of slightly less prominence.

Mr. Bickersteth, the new warden of the Hart House, commenting on the book, stated that it compared favorably with any of the medieval bibles and prayer books to be seen in Mr. J. P. Morgan's collection, which he visited this summer. A hundred and fifty years hence the Hart House Guest Book will be one of the most cherished of University treasures.

The University of Toronto Menorah Society is making active preparations for their inaugural meeting of the present session to be held in the Zionist Institute, Sunday Evening, October 10th, when Dr. Samuel Margoshes, Ph.D., will speak on "The Present Status of Jewish Culture."

The Society is not only extending an invitation to every student attending Varsity to come and hear Dr. Margoshes, but is very keen to have present all the freshmen of every faculty.

The elections will be held on Tuesday, October 10th, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the College, the place to be announced later.

A CORRECTION

An impression has become prevalent among the Freshmen of U.C. owing to a recent article appearing in "The Globe" that the "Skull Cap" Act has been annulled. This rumour is entirely incorrect and unfounded. Freshmen are reminded that they will be given authorized notice when they may discontinue wearing the red and white headgear.

Dentistry

Tuesday evening witnessed the Annual Dental Freshman reception at Hart House and although the elements frowned upon the occasion by sending heavy showers of rain the spirits of the goodly number in attendance were in no wise dampened.

In addition to the large percentage of Freshmen present the other years were also represented.

The reception was held under the auspices of the Dental College S.C.A., Mr. Snelgrove, President of this organization presided.

The programme which had been prepared by Mr. W. McBaun, of the S.C.A. Executive, opened with singing, led by Mr. Roy Rickard, the general secretary of University Y.M.C.A. Much of the evening's success was due to Mr. Rickard's infectious congeniality and energetic conducting of the opening number as the community song seemed to sweep everyone into a swift current of enjoyment. Indeed, such was the mood of the gathering that we were certain every Freshman was ready and willing to forgive the Sophs for the gruelling ceremony of their initiation a few days previously!

Dent. Veterans Loan

The Loan Committee elected by Dentistry to look into the matter of financial aid to Dent Veterans announce that all troops wishing to obtain deferred payment of fees must submit application to the Superintendent's Office not later than Saturday, October 15th. Application forms may be obtained at Library wicket. Absolutely no applications will be considered after Saturday, October 15th, at noon.

NEWMAN CLUB

The first of the Club Afternoon Dances will be held at Columbus Hall on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Club members are urged to attend.

A very successful "get-together party" was held for the girls of the Club on Wednesday night. An especially clever skit by Miss McGrath and Miss Pickett of "What Might Be Said in a Co-Ed's Room" was put on by some Loretto girls and was quite effective in breaking the ice. Refreshments and dancing brought the evening to a close.

The Toke Orchestra held their first practice of the year in C. 22 on Thursday afternoon under the able direction of "Scottie" Hamilton. Several engagements have been secured already. Watch Toke, Oike.

Medicine

WHY WE ARE A SIX YEAR COURSE

In an attempt to fathom the activities that are to engage the energetic class of 215 the scribe stood before the variegated sign board in the Medical Building Hall. We have distributed our efforts over fourteen different options, many of them ranging in the "Field of Arts." Can you imagine the old-called "Dirty Meds." invading the sacred precincts of Mathematics, Economics, Philosophy, Dietetics and French. Let us not your academic soul shudder but realize that we are on the way to being "really intellectual" and proud possessors of a "background" that even "B.A.'s" of the past, and without the experience in adjustment necessitated by time-table arranging is such as to make organizing geniuses of us all.

St. Hilda's

A meeting of the St. Hilda's Literary Society took place Monday evening, with Miss McCongie presiding. After the calling of the roll, song sheets were distributed, and in the delivery of the songs every one took part. The main feature of the evening was a discussion on the coming Dominion election. Miss Lizard first read a paper on behalf of the Conservative Party, emphasizing the ability of its leader, Sir Arthur Meighen. This was followed by a paper in support of the Liberals, which was delivered by Miss Ramsbottom. Lastly, Miss Ferguson spoke on behalf of the U.F.O. Party, giving her hearers a very plain and interesting account of the development of that party, and also the chances of its platform. An open discussion then took place, which was followed by the critics' remarks. The meeting closed with Metagona.

VICTORIA

The House Management Committee of Victoria Women's Residences brought something in a maternal way to an otherwise dismal Tuesday afternoon, when in the Union and Common Rooms of Annesley Hall, they served a tres recherche lunch to all the women students. The artistic autumnal decorations of marigolds and leaves, together with the kind smiling faces of the hostesses, were most inspiring and greatly appreciated by the many girls who were privileged to attend.

The Victoria Orchestra held their initial practice on Wednesday evening in Annesley Hall. The twenty-three members present augurs well for a successful season for this live organization. Under the direction of Mr. Blatchford a short practice was held, followed by refreshments and a business meeting, at which plans for the season's work were discussed.

Hour of Crowded Life With Knox Rugby Clan

Wherein the Scribe Tries to Make Team and is Dropped Upon From Great Height

Jack will have to "hit the line" without us this fall, and, what is more, we'll keep a long, long way "behind" Jimmy or whoever is coach next year. Even if the Capt. and the Pedes and the whole Corps. Studentatorium clamour for our presence on the gridiron, we shall remain obdurate. We had all we want of this rugby diversion. Give us the cycles with Kathie any old time in preference to "one glorious hour of crowded life with Mr. Knox's Mulock Cup hunters."

Previous little she would see of us if we continued attending Brother Maxwell's 6 a.m. services on the back campus. Why, you wares, to have put the Sunday sun on the hanger before some enthusiasm is switching on your light and raving about a couple of hours' light work-out before breakfast. Light work-out! Stone-pile, where is thy sting?

However, we did turn out the other morning about the time when the milk men break and the shadows lie away. We were clad in the conventional attire, supplemented by one pillow (S.S.), and one cushion (N.C.). It was not enough. They knew what the future held of marvel and surprise we'd have contrived to tuck the bally mattress in too.

Lighly and lightly we tripped along to the battlefield and finally dropped to the forms of the other athletes loomed in the mist. The manager shoving us into one of the remaining lines. "Your key number," he said, "is five." It really is E. 307 but we didn't trouble to contradict him. A man isn't responsible for what he says at that time of the night.

The other side had the ball. We distinctly hear some one yell "Hike!" and the next moment a huge juggernaut with a black monstache bore down upon us. Before we could hike out of the way his head took us in the stomach. He tripped all over us. Several others did likewise.

Slowly and painfully we arose—to see the manager shaking his fist over us. "Hey," why didn't you get down low? Get down low after this." Now, what do you think of that? Get down low! Does he think we carry any cutting tools? If any one could have been lower, more prostrate, supine and generally flatter than we were—

Then he had some one work tackling. When our turn came the chap with the ball looked pretty hinky. He was coming fast and stopping high. We took a diving dive to one side of him. As we rolled over he heaved the ball and said, "Good try," he said heartily. "Silly ass!" Did he think we wanted to interfere with him? However, we tried to enter into the spirit of the thing, and our fingers in our eyes growled, "Get you next time, you big stiff!" But we won't—not if we can help it!

After a while the manager said cheerfully, "You guys are rotten—don't leave your feet. One of you lie down, another stand six feet or so back, and the rest make the charge on the chap and get him." We hastened to play the part of the man on the ground. We felt qualified as we had been in that posture most of the time anyway. It seemed the simplest task.

We lay on our stomach and waited with ill-disguised relief to watch the last, mess each other up. A momentary misgiving seized us as we noted that mountain of a man, Sandy Nicholson, preparing to take a "float." It was a feeling somewhat like holding a nail for someone else to smite with a sledge hammer. Then Sandy set sail.

There is a portion of the bloomers approved for rugby which is not padded. The sporting gods people have not provided for every contingency. They have considered only the problem of a frontal attack. Sandy, after a preliminary hop and skip, came down with all his 200 odd pounds upon that section of our apparel and after that the dark. When we opened our eyes the sun was rising over Hart House. Somewhere a whistle was blowing and over on Spadina we heard the familiar rattle of a street-car. Surveying our position we saw that the boys had unbent the greater portion of us and a few tugs did the rest. The world had never looked so fair and merry and bright. We were glad that we were alive in it and not wandering around on a higher or lower plane.

Any one wishing to purchase a complete rugby outfit will secure a bargain at 307 East-House, Knox. Almost as good as new—with the exception of some slight perforations in the bloomers.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club will meet in the South Common Room, Hart House, Wednesday, October 19th, at 8 p.m. This is a very important meeting as the captain and the players for the Varsity Chess Team will be chosen at the end of the evening's play. Everybody interested in chess is invited to come out and get acquainted.

WANTED

Volunteer Cross Country Runners to take group of boys out on Paper Clases, Treasure Hunt and Hikes, next Saturday. Line up and leave your name with Roy Cardard, Y.M.C.A. Don't all come at once. A good afternoon's fun with the kids.

NOTICE

TOBIKE ORCHESTRA
Practice will be held in C22 on Monday, October 17th at 4.30 p.m. Everybody must turn out—please.

A meeting of the Executive of the First Year, Faculty of Applied Science, will be held this afternoon in the Dugging Room.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

The greatest struggle in all Canadian Rugby annals has passed into history. Before fifteen thousand frenzied spectators and fighting against seemingly hopeless odds Jack Maynard's Varsity team was weighed in the balance, and when the crucial test came our team was not found wanting. Top-heavy favourites to win and with all the confidence in the world, the McGill players started to the game with an onslaught that seemed to insure a Red and White victory. Beaten by Queen's and considered out of the running, the Blue and White fourteen staged a comeback that no one who saw Saturday's game can ever forget. They smashed the McGill line to pieces, stopped all "Shag's" trick plays and made the points necessary to tie the score. Never has a team more valiantly upheld our colours than did the team of 1921 in the breathless moments of the last quarter on Saturday. Never has a coach handled a team more perfectly than did Jack Maynard on Saturday. Never did an athletic contest provide such thrills as that of Saturday. Now we are back in the running. We have an equal chance with Queen's to win the title. Our chance is better than that of McGill and if the players continue to train faithfully, the Intercollegiate Championship may again be ours. Now, if ever, we must support the coach and the team. We have no place at U. of T. for the knocking variety, but Varsity has ever a warm spot in her heart for the booster. Watch for notices for Routers' Practice. Support the team by supporting Cheerleader Weaver and by so doing make October 29th and November 5th red letter days that will live forever in our history.

INTERCOLLEGIATE MEET

The Intercollegiate Track Meet is to be held this coming Friday at Queen's University.

The track at the Varsity Stadium is reserved for the men mentioned below. These men must be out every day between 4.30 and 5.30 p.m.

The men are as follows:—Caruthers Bicknell, Langford, McVicar, Bell, McAuliffe, Leigh, Stevenson, Ivelly, Turner, Rowell, Rumble, Vince, Gauld, Thompson, Reynolds, Sparrow, Davidson and Fraser.

Mr. Halbus, the Hon. President and Coach of the Club has set down the following special time-table for this week: 4.30 p.m. Sprinters (100 yds., 220 and 440).

4.45 p.m.—Middle Distance, (440 yds., half mile, and one mile).
5.00 p.m.—High Jump, Broad Jump, and Pole Vault.
5.15 p.m.—Weight Men.

Attention! U.C. Women playing in the Tennis Tournament should consult the schedule of games posted in the Women's Cloak Room each day.

PHYSICAL TRAINING

Physical training in the first and second years will commence next week and all students in these years will attend at the hours indicated in the subject time-table. These hours have been fixed by the respective faculties and colleges and students will be required to attend 50 per cent of the classes.

Water-Polo

The Varsity Water-Polo team will practise in Hart House pool every Tuesday and Friday from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. A large number of players, in particular, are urged to be on hand at every practice. Bell, Bennett, Blackwell, Booth, Conklin, Dertis-shire, Dyer, Galt, Harston, Higgs, Hatfield, Johnson, Keeler, Keenly-side, Little, Mellett, Murray, Mason, Sade, Sattell, Reilly, Helyear, Riley, Rowan, Porter, Schinberg, Tudhope, Webster, Wells, Wood, Wright.

DENTISTRY

The initial enrolment of students of R.C.D.S. in the Rifle Association took place Friday noon and over twenty members linked themselves together and after duly sworn in by Professor Henderson. This marked the formal laying of the proverbial cornerstone of the Dent & Rifle team. That Dents are going to be fast and high for Dr. Lury's should, emblematic of Interfaculty Championship at the ranges, is indicated by the splendid enthusiasm shown by Mr. Lorne Smith, his colleagues, who, at the same time, but took the first opportunity, and held their first practice at Long Branch Range on Saturday. The weather was ideal for the shoot and results obtained were quite favourable to put it mildly.

The next practice takes place Tuesday afternoon so we want all you shoot-rats to get in line—Machine guns are barred so get used to the rifle and see Lorne Smith 21's, at once.

VICTORIA COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

The practice scheduled for Wednesday evening, October 19, will not be held till Thursday evening at the regular time and place. This is to allow those who wish to do so to attend the Galt-Curti Recital on Wednesday. There was a record attendance of twenty-two at the opening concert, but there is a possibility of room for others. Come! join the Orchestra! the finest organization in the University—Thursday evening, October 20, Amesley Hall Common Room.

Medicine

An opening meeting of the Medical Society was held on Friday, October 5, in the Big Lecture Room. The re-union of the students of the Faculty of Medicine should turn out at all possible, to every meeting.

The most interesting item of business was the proposed organization of a new benefit fund, whereby for the sum of fifty cents, any Medical student is insured against sickness for the current year. He will be carefully looked after by the most competent Doctors in the city, all of whom, of course, are on our staff. This will include good medical accommodation. The scheme is undoubtedly worthy of the support of every student.

A competition is being opened for designs for a coat to be placed at the head of this column. This should embody something distinctly medical and so arranged that it will look well in one column width, and three-quarters or one inch in depth. Entries for the competition may be submitted up to the end of this month, addressed to the President of the Medical Society and R.F. at the Secretary's office in the Medical Building. A prize of Five Dollars is offered to the successful competitor.

Several minor changes were made to the constitution of the Society with the unanimous approval of the meeting. General meetings of the Society will be held every month, the hour and date to be arranged by the executive. These will be held at night in order not to conflict with busy athletic and dinner hours from five till six. Each meeting will have some special attraction. Every effort is being put forward to make them as interesting as possible and will be more or less in the form of smokers. Watch the Varsity and the notice-boards for dates.

VICTORIA vs TRINITY RUGBY

The Victoria vs Trinity Rugby game—Mulock Cup series scheduled to be played last Thursday has been postponed until Wednesday of this week, October 10th. The game will be played on the Trinity campus. Play will commence at 1.15.

CLOSE FINISH IN RELAYS AT MCGILL

Varsity Loses Both Races by Small Margin

The relay teams which competed against McGill on Friday and Saturday were beaten but to an unenviable degree. The McGill relay race, held during the McGill University sports on Friday, furnished the thrill of the day. Caruthers, the leader by several yards, started, Caruthers finished just ahead, passing the baton to Rumble, who was just beaten out by Hays. In the next start of the race McGill had their star quarter miler, Johnston. Against him was running Sparrow. These two started with Johnston in the lead by several yards. An unfortunate accident occurred here, one of the competitors dropping a dressing-gown on the track which hampered the progress of the Varsity man. Johnston finished, giving Hamilton, the last McGill, a lead of something like fifteen yards. The race finished with McGill about ten yards in the lead.

In the mile relay held between the halves of the football game McGill was able to win by about fifteen yards. The time for this race was 3 min. 31 sec., which is within 2.5 sec. of the Canadian record. Both Sparrow and Davidson of Varsity are to be congratulated in their running of this race. Sparrow, who was the lead off man for Varsity, was caught at 52 sec. for his quarter.

TENNIS FINALISTS HAM AND GUILLET

Finals to be Played This Morning

Singles Final Monday 10 a.m. Guillet vs. Ham. 1.30 p.m. Armstrong and Robertson vs. Ham and Beckett.

Hardard and Klinek vs. Guillet and Banbury.

Winners of First Round Doubles must be on hand at 1.15 as Second Round must be played off then.

Important—Watch Tuesday's Mail and Globe for announcement re challenge for positions on U. of T. team.

UNIV. COLLEGE NEWS

There will be a business meeting of the Literary and Athletic Society tomorrow night in West Hall, at 8 p.m. The budget for athletic connection will be presented for approval of the Society.

In addition there will be a short humorous skit.

Remember the U.C. Banquet in Hart House on the 25th of the month.

New Rugby uniforms are now being given out to the players. More are wanted for the teams, especially because.

RUGGER TEAM WINS BY SMALL MARGIN

On Saturday, Varsity English Rugger played the Toronto Welsh in the Mulock Cup series. The game was a very close one, with the Varsity team winning by a small margin. The game was played at the Varsity campus at 5 o'clock.

The Varsity line-up was: McVicar, Ross, Doris, Almonson, Lyle, Brummett, Chene, Johnson, Hall, Sims, Russell, Dyer, Murray, Kingmill, Russell.

The scrum worked well and got the ball out to the halves in fine style. The three-quarters did some very nice running and passing, and both try-scoring as a result of the quick play and speed of the Varsity three-quarters.

The team is working hard in preparation for the Intercollegiate game, and a practice with the Toronto South has been arranged for Tuesday afternoon on the back campus at 5 o'clock.

The Varsity line-up was: McVicar, Ross, Doris, Almonson, Lyle, Brummett, Chene, Johnson, Hall, Sims, Russell, Dyer, Murray, Kingmill, Russell.

CHARTER DAY LINKS PAST WITH PRESENT

Alumni Reunite in Victoria College

Thursday, October 15th, will go down to the future students of Victoria College, as one of the biggest days in the history of the institution. It was an harmonious blending of Victoria Past and Victoria Present, when the men assembled to do honour to their Alma Mater and revive the Alumni Association attended the Annual Charter Day exercises, held in Burwash Hall. The Hall was well filled, with here and there a flashing yellow tie to relieve the monotony and remind the Alumni of their own Freshman days.

Chancellor Bowles occupied the chair and delivered a short address of welcome to the Graduates. Dean Robertson gave a short outline of the Academic work of the year and spoke with pardonable pride of the relation of Victoria to the other Arts and Divinity Colleges.

But the feature of the afternoon programme was the unveiling of the Royal Standard of Queen Victoria recently presented to the College by Mr. Vincent Massey. The Standard is a handsome gold coloured frame, bearing a small crown from the royal yacht, and will hang over the high table in the Hall. The College is greatly indebted to Mr. C. T. Currie for these and other priceless relics.

After a short intermission in the ceremonies, which was put to good use in looking up old friends, the Alumni met in the College for the dinner at 7 p.m. It was, indeed, an impressive gathering. Men of world-wide fame were present, graduates in Law, Arts, Divinity and Medicine. Men from all over the world were there, and letters have been received from every Province in the Dominion, nearly every State in the Union, and from Great Britain itself, expressing hearty sympathy with the formation of a new Association, and sincere regret at inability to be present.

Well over two hundred Graduates were at the dinner, at which Dr. G. H. Locke, '04, City Librarian, presided. The toast to "The College" proposed by Mr. A. E. Ames, was responded to by seven graduates, one from each decade since the sixties. They were: Hon. J. J. MacLaren, '02, the oldest graduate present; Dr. A. P. Coleman, '76, Dean of the Faculty of Arts; Mr. J. R. L. Starr, '87; Prof. C. T. Currie, '98; Mr. C. R. Carsoe, '01, on farfetched from China; Maj. T. W. MacDowell, V.C., '14, and Mr. J. C. Eastcott, '21.

Other distinguished Alumni were: Dr. Hamilton Fiske Biggar, '05, of Cleveland, Physician to John D. Rockefeller, and founder of the Hamilton Fiske Biggar Scholarship.

Dentistry

A great many Dents attended the students' reception at College Street Presbyterian Church on Thursday night and a most enjoyable social evening was spent with our costudents of other faculties. A cordial welcome was extended to one and all and I am sure many Dents will avail themselves of the opportunity to link up with such a desirable congregation which bids for the attendance of the young people. It may be added that the Dental nurses were present in a body and as this was their first social affair to attend "en masse" it is given this promise—yes, Joe was there too!

There are still some applications for remittance of fees outstanding, kindly see that these are in at once to ensure early consideration. Thank you!

BOYS' WORK TRAINING CLASS

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, there will be the opening session of the Toronto Boys' Work Board Training School in Boys' Work at Knox College. This school is composed of men who are interested in boys' activities, especially Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys. The leadership is Toronto's best, and here is the programme, they have to offer.

8.00-8.30. The Psychology of Adolescent Boyhood—Prof. F. Langford.
8.35-9.05. The Mid-week Session—"How it operates."—Rev. C. M. Wright Teaching the Lesson or Interpreting the Bible to Boys.

9.15-10.00. Physical Education—Instruction Gym Work—Major Fred. J. Smith.

The opportunity of a life time for U. of T. students.

S.P.S.

The following are the individual scores of the four S.P.S. men who proceeded with the Dents to Long Branch Ranges for practice shoot Saturday morning.

J. D. Burbank, 59
J. R. Almond, 50
S. L. Greenbach, 50
A. H. Greenwood, 40

These scores are out of a possible 70 on the 100 and 200 yard range. The weather was great and we look forward to many similar practices before the Interfaculty Shoot comes off. Everybody in line for this, please.

Throughout the "School" there are many deeply interested in the multitudinous questions of a "religious" nature which confront one at the present day. Every man has ideals on these basic problems. Realizing that, in this continual search after the truths of life, we may reach satisfactory conclusions more easily by sincere, open-minded and free discussion, in small friendly groups; the S.C.A. has secured the services of several trained men, up to date in their thinking, and with fresh ideas, to meet and talk over with School men, these most vital problems.

HAS A FRESHMAN A SOUL?

Whether or not a freshman has a soul is undoubtedly a debatable point, individual verdicts depending on the point of view. At the monthly business meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society, to-morrow night, Oct. 18, in West Hall, members of the staff will be present to debate the question on the floor of the House. Profs. G. O. Smith and W. D. Woodhead will open the debate and will be followed by other members of the faculty. Students will be given a chance to speak to the question and thus the men of 215 will have a chance to defend themselves, Tuesday, Oct. 18, West Hall.

Women of University College, do you consider settlement work worth while? If you do line up and sign the lists posted in the Women's Cloak Room. The U. of T. Settlement is on the corner of Peter and Adelaide Streets, and voluntary workers are needed badly there for afternoons and evenings. U. C. has the largest registration of women, therefore, the college should be well represented in this vital work. Miss Jean McQueen, convener of the Social Service Committee will give any further information.

Sir George Foster will address the opening meeting of the U. C. Alumni Association, on Friday, October 21, in the Mining Building. After the meeting a reception will be held under the auspices of the Alumnae for Sir George and Lady Foster. The President of the Alumnae Executive is also entertaining Lady Foster at a luncheon. Although seating accommodation is limited, the Alumnae has kindly extended an invitation to the Undergrads of U. C. to hear Sir George Foster.

Varsity Vets Smoker

Thursday, October 20.

Veterans, "shun!"

The first gun in the social campaign of the University ex-service men will be fired this Thursday night at 8 p.m., in the Hart House Lecture Room. Under cover of a smoke screen Major Jimmy Hahn, D.S.O., M.C., Canadian Corps Intelligence will speak on "Observations from an O.Pip."

In order to preserve for all time the battle hymns, songs and parodies, that helped while away many dreary hours on active service, the Varsity Veterans have compiled a song sheet, which will be used for the first time Thursday evening, and it is hoped that every "bon soldat" in the University will be there to join in the choruses.

A special committee got busy during the summer, and from various sources collected all the old favorites. Many of them had to be "deleted," but they will carry the troops back in spirit to the "Old Estaminet Days."

There will be special vaudeville, eats, and smokes, but the big feature of the evening will be the opportunity given the troops to renew old acquaintances.

Varsity Veterans

There will be an important meeting of the Varsity Veterans Executive in the Lecture Room, Hart House, at 5 o'clock Tuesday next. All representatives are urged to be present.

Old St. Andrew's Church (corner Carlton and Jarvis Sts.) extends a cordial invitation to students of the University to an informal Evening Party at the Memorial House, 415 Jarvis Street, Monday, October 17, 8 p.m.—11 p.m.

Order No. 7

Contingent Orders by Colonel W. R. I. Commanding U. of Toronto, C.O.T.C.

184 College Street,
October 15th, 1921
No. 7 Examination, Stanley Barracks

Reference Contingent Order No. 6 of 11th October, the date of this Practical Examination should have read FRIDAY, 21st October and NOT Tuesday 18th. The party will assemble at H.Q. at 13 hours on that date and proceed to Barracks under the charge of a N.C.O. Dress: Drill Order.

Sd. H.H. Madill, Major
Adj. U. of T.
C.O.T.C.

NOTICE

At a meeting of the officers held at Headquarters on Thursday, 13.10.21, the commissioned personnel of the three companies was arranged as follows:
Arts Company—Major W. S. Wallace, Lieuts. Lightbourn, Bannerman, Dugan, and Kirkwood.
Medical Company—Major W. F. Cosbie, M.C. and Captain J. A. Linton, M.C. (Subaltern officers not yet selected).

Applied Science Company—Major J. R. Cockburn, M.C., Captain W. J. T. Wright, M.B.E., Lieut. B. H. Miller, Lieut. W. A. Sullivan (to act as assistant Adjutant).

The two latter units expect to secure a company room in the Medical and Science buildings respectively, from which they will be administered; the Arts Company will use Contingent Headquarters. Students are reminded that work in the O.T.C. may be taken in place of a Gymnasium Class, and it is expected, at the hours allotted for the former, an officer from the corps will attend the first meeting of each compulsory P.T. class to answer any questions regarding the military option. It should be noted, however, that O.T.C. training is not confined, by any means, to students of the first two years. Those taking Military Studies are ipso facto members of the corps, as are many others of the senior years.

Several enquiries have been made as to the period of service. While this is normally 3 sessions, it has never been the policy of the Corps to retain on its strength anyone unwilling to serve.

CHEMICAL CLUB DINNER

The Industrial Chemical Club are holding their Annual Dinner at the Walker House, on Wednesday evening, October 19.

A good old School programme has been arranged including "beaucoup eats" and the Toke Oike Orchestra.

Bring your knitting and spend the evening freely.

Terrific Struggle

fast enough and Flanagan's kick carried over their heads to Varsity's 25 yard line. This was the first time McGill had been close in this series. It will be noticed that Varsity forced the play against the wind, holding McGill scoreless and counting two themselves.

Score at end of third period: Varsity, 2; McGill, 4.

Varsity now had the wind and was kicking at every opportunity. A ter several exchanges of kicks Snyder kicked one to the side of the field and it bounded far into McGill territory. McGill had two bucks and the yard-stick judge was called to use his tape. Six inches were needed and McGill tried to buck but the Varsity line was as tight as a drum and so secured the ball on McGill's 40 yard line. Ambridge replaced Lazier and Sommerville took Hobb's place on the half line Hobb's motion to quarter and Murray went off. Patterson was playing on the line, Snyder and Sommerville back. An offside of McGill's brought Varsity in possession at the 25 yard line from where Snyder kicked a rouge. Varsity, 3; McGill, 4.

Excitement was intense as it was evident that time alone would save McGill, who were fading fast. Penrlman's old cut forced him to retire and Fisher took his place. Lazier replaced Ambridge.

Sommerville now dividing the kicking with Snyder. Offside by McGill forced Flanagan to kick. Sommerville received but tried to kick with his left foot and sent it out of touch. A fumble on the line gave Varsity the ball. Snyder kicked over the line but Anderson ran it out. The steady kicking was wearing down the outsiders and Ralph and Fisher were relieved by Prendergast and Haines. Flanagan was hurt and replaced by Carroll, whose fine kicking staved off defeat for McGill in the final moments of the game. The next play saw Sommerville boot over the line, forcing a rouge. Varsity, 4; McGill, 4.

Norm. Taylor replaced Ferguson. The rest of the game was a punting duel between the two half lines. No breaks occurred, however, and the game ended with McGill in possession about 15 yards out. Final score: Varsity, 4; McGill, 4.

McGill choose not to play the game off. This was to be regretted from the Varsity standpoint as our team was fresher and forcing the play.

FOURTH YEAR ELECTIONS

The results of last week's strenuous fourth year election campaign are announced as follows:

Vice-President—B. H. Johnston, Sec. Treas.—J. G. Spotton, Varsity Rep.—L. J. Robinson
The President, S. L. Coulter assumed office after the general elections last spring.

MINING AND METALLURGY

The Mining and Metallurgy Club is planning an interesting and comprehensive programme for this year's activities. At the first meeting of the term held recently, the club's policy was outlined and members of the freshmen year introduced.

The following officers were elected: Vice-Presidents—A. H. Stratford; Sec. Treas.—W. R. McQuinn; First Year Rep.—J. Whitton.
Chairman, Entertainment Committee—Pat Lyle.

The president, J. Drybrough, was in the chair.
Members of the fourth year are urged to make early arrangements with Mr. Charles Aylett, the official class photographer, so that the graduate pictures for 1940-1941 may be got together as soon as possible. Mr. Aylett's studio is at 40 Yonge Street. Phone MAn 1098.

THE FOURTH YEAR

Already the executive of 272 has been formed and preparations are under way to leave S.P.S. with a flash of brilliance that will be remembered for a long time. Mr. Coulter, the president, is sure that 272 is the finest fourth year that School ever had and he says he will prove it to the freshmen by making it a year to wait and wonder. Further developments are promised shortly.

The new executive is as follows:
President—S. L. Coulter
Vice-President—B. H. Johnston
Secretary-Treasurer—J. G. Spotton
Varsity Rep.—L. J. Robinson.

Jack Coulter, the retiring Secretary-Treasurer of 271, made a short programme of remarks during the election. He pointed out the welcome information that there was a goodly sum in the treasury.

The new president, John Farley, informed the class that he had been able to secure an option on Columbus Hall for Friday, November 22nd, and the class was to rally there at 10:30. This was done and unanimously supported by the class.
The President then called for nominations for the officers of 272. Several men were nominated, and on Thursday afternoon the elections took place.

The new 272 executive is as follows:
President—John Farley
Vice-President—F. W. Huggins
Secretary-Treasurer—C. A. Norris.

271 School promises to make things quite interesting for the Freshmen at the "Annual Reception" of the hall, which will be held early in November, but beyond promising something, naturally, Mr. Drybrough would not commit himself concerning the nature of the "entertainment." 271 intend to make this the simplest initiation in the history of "School."

A meeting of the year, which was held early last week, the following executive was elected to assist Mr. Drybrough:
Vice-President—T. S. Kingston
Secretary-Treasurer—E. M. MacQuinn.

THE FIRST YEAR

First year School is decidedly full of "crisp." Although not great in numbers the Freshmen are enthusiastic to a degree. Even references to the impending initiation cannot dim their spirits. Mr. Coulter, the President, already has plans in mind for the "entertainment" to be given to the Sophomores after the initiation. Like all first-year boys, the chief duty of 272 is the arranging of the finances. The executive, however, do not anticipate any trouble in this direction.

This appears not to be a year that will include plans of the old "School spirit." However, one cannot compare them with any other Freshman year in School history, because comparisons are, of course, and any way 272 has not graduated yet.

The present executive for 275 follows:

President—Norman
Vice-President—V. B. Lillie
Secretary-Treasurer—J. W. Ryan
Athletic Rep.—S. L. Pollock.

A young dog, of an extraction known to the initiated as "mongrel", who wandered into the First Year Draughting Room, yesterday afternoon, was the innocent cause of much amusement on the part of the Freshmen who were occupying the room at the time. With a sort of insane gleam the young dog came, and went through all the motions which are usually carried out at a meeting of the kind. Finally the bright young dog, who had been conceived of as a dog, was finally carried out of the room. With infinite pains he carried out a large circle of cardboard with a hole in the centre, and on it wrote "Pee Squat". After much struggling he and his co-plotters tried this around the dog's neck. Forthwith they laid him down and he died. Finally, showing him into one of the Second Year C.E. rooms they left that locality with greatly accelerated speed. It is not known what became of the dog, but it is rumored that he was handled over to the Vets to have the collar removed along with other sections of his anatomy.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

University College, Initiation Friday

The University College Initiation of Freshmen will take place in the Old Gym, behind the Stadium on Friday evening. Freshmen are cordially invited to meet the Reception Committee there at 7:30 p.m. Their names will be checked off at the door to make sure no man comes twice, so don't miss the party.

Come to the Autumn Tea

The time honoured function of University College, the Autumn Tea will take place in East and West Halls, U.C. on Saturday, October 22nd from 3 to 6 o'clock. The wives of the Faculty and the wives of the students will join in an official welcome to the women of 275. Every U.C. woman is urged to be present; it is a College function. The women of the fourth year, and some of the third year are asked to consult the lists in the Women's cloak room.

U.C. WOMEN'S LIT.

The second meeting of the U.C. Women's Literary Society will be held on Tuesday evening, October 25, at eight o'clock in the Women's Union, 85 St. George St., and not in April House, as previously announced. Kindly note this change. The speaker and programme will be announced later in "THE VARSITY."

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE STAG DINNER

Arrangements have been completed for the U.C. dinner on Tuesday next. A good programme, comprising a few short speeches, musical selections and a sing-song has been arranged. All male students in University College should obtain tickets at once from their year president or in the rotunda.

Dentistry

Hyia Yaka has come to press and will be out in about ten days' time. This promises to be a good issue, but let us make the next one a better one by starting right now. Short snappy stories, original jokes, grins, whizz-bangs, and any news related to the R.C.D.S. will be heartily welcomed.

DENTAL DANCE

The first big school dance is to be staged at Columbus Hall Friday, October 21st. Most of the tickets have been picked off, but there are still a few left. Get in touch with the St. Home representative, buy that last ticket, speak to the girl, don't worry about the taxi, and be at the corner of Sherbourne and Linden at 8:45 sharp.

RIFLE TEAM

The Dental Rifle Team is going strong but there are still a number of men who were the crossed guns on their arm who haven't enlisted. Get in touch with the Dental Rifle Team, and see the Delury Shield resting in the R.C.D.S.

WATCH SENIOR DENTS ON FRIDAY

Senior Dents were a few points behind Senior School in the rugby game played Monday afternoon, but the same teams clash again on Friday, the same place at the same hour and we expect different results. Jack Stoughton, who there was nothing to it so let every Dent supporter be on the job and cheer the gang on to victory.

Duties of School Freshmen

Notice for fatigue work for the 1922-23 term has been given to School Freshmen. It will be necessary for S.P.S. 275 to furnish one deputy from now till the end of the school year, who will report at the office of the Engineering Society at 9 a.m. on the day of his appointment to run errands, and customers, and make himself useful generally. The names of the class have been listed alphabetically, and the list will be gone through from A to Z. Yesterday was the first day of fat work.

Wycliffe

The early hours of Saturday morning were disturbed by Neptune taking the President of the Sophs, supported by his trusty gang of Greek slaves, etc., hauling their victims to the lower regions where they were tied together in Indian file. It was suggested that it was a fine night or rather morning for a murder so the whole band was led out to its doom. Escaping, however, the dangers of the upper world each fresh found himself hastened before an august assembly, where he was tried and found guilty to an accuser pointed out by the god Pan's pipe. The most popular sentence seemed to be to ride a certain fiery steed. This steed by popular assent assumed later the form of a roasting oven. Soon the grisly band found themselves all behind the bars and it only took the splendid repast to conclude the ceremony.

The vow was broken—likewise the rope,
And another drop he took.

RE THE DINING HALL

The Editor, Varsity.

Dear Mr. Editor,

Permit us to offer a few suggestions re Hart House meals. We believe in variety spirit, but in comparing the meals at Hart House with those served elsewhere for the same price and for profit we are forced to acknowledge that improvement can be made. For example, let us refer you to Eaton's thirty-five cent Cafeteria lunch and the meal served us by The Hydro at Chippewa for forty cents, etc.

We think the following suggestions might not be out of place to the Hall Committee:

1. A suggestion box cleared frequently.
2. A daily menu to be posted at the Hall Porter's desk.
3. Catsup or some form of pickles.
4. More and a better quality of meat.
5. An electric potato peeler to eliminate the skin game going on at various meals.
6. Compulsory attendance of the Hall Committee at all meals.

In conclusion, we don't advocate cheaper meals, but believe they can be improved at the present rate. At present the convenience and associations seem to be the only attractions of the Hart House dining hall.

Yours very truly,

S.P.S. 272-5.

VARSITY ROOTERS

Get behind your team and turn in some really snappy ideas for yells and parodies. We want pep punch and point to every number on the song sheet. If you have any ideas put them on paper and hand them in at the Athletic Office to-day. DO IT NOW.

MASQUERADE SUBSCRIPTION

A subscription list for the Hart House Masquerade will be opened in the Supply Dept., Thursday, October 20, at 9 a.m. To ensure fair and quick distribution four lists will be provided, one for each year. The number of tickets allotted School is limited, so a few year representative in the Supply Dept. as early as possible.

A prominent speaker, well versed in the facts of the case, would address the meeting.

The critic's report was given by Mr. R. H. Harstone, B.A., reporting Government business well conducted, and the programme good. The meeting then adjourned to the Lit. Common Room, where all partook of a bun feed.

FRESHMEN BE PREPARED!

The phenomenon of the step-up transformer may be considered to scientific eyes, but it will look very simple to the Frosh of St. Mike's after to-night. The Sophs have invented a very original transformer for the purpose of initiation, and after each freshie has been helped up its various steps by their gentle hands, they will be transformed into men worthy to bear the honour of the "Double Blue Varsity."

At the finish of the initiation the results of the First Year elections will be announced.

Senior School surprised Senior Dents by defeating them 12-5 in an interesting game. The feature of the game was the running and kicking of E. Baird, of School. The Engineers' points were scored on Dent fumbles behind the line and on ranges.

ARE COLLEGE STUDENTS SUFFICIENTLY INTERESTED IN CURRENT EVENTS?

It is a fact that the majority of college men and women are not sufficiently interested in the daily occurrences which make history. College life is so complete within itself that one can easily become so engrossed in its many activities that the doings of the great world outside are forgotten and neglected. Courses in Science and Medicine occupy the greater part of the student's time, while the Arts student is inclined to ease backward, not outward and forward. There are clubs and societies whose purpose is to stimulate interest in the affairs of the day, but their members are few in comparison to the registration in this University. Speakers come to us to try to draw us out of our shell, but on the whole, the average student attends lectures, is absorbed in some sport and goes on his way not caring particularly about a crisis in Europe or an impending railway strike.

If we are to be worthy of the name of student, we must be intellectually less selfish and uninterested, we must broaden out in our interests. How many of us read the daily newspaper? If we do read it, is it not to the sporting news that we devote our attention to the total neglect of the editorial page? Very few students in residence subscribe for the dailies. The newspaper is our medium through which we keep in touch with the world. How many of us could discuss intelligently the coming elections and know the issues at stake? Shall this be left to the students of history alone and shall the economic problems be left for economic students? Canadian students must cultivate world-wide interests. It is essential to know what is going on about us. Canadian citizens, especially of our day and generation, must find time to become familiar with current events and so gain a broad outlook and sympathy.

SUCH A LITTLE THING

In days like these, when the world and we who are, of course, up-to-date are travelling at a pace probably unprecedented in history, we are prone to overlook some of the little things an account of the emphasis which we very rightly place on the greater and more essential things of life. "Big things for big men" is the cry of the moment, and he is a poor type of human who does not aspire to the right to be classed among the big minds. But there is no big thing that had not a beginning, and the beginning was in most cases a small thing. This is so much an age of utilitarianism, of a very worthy utilitarianism, the foundation text of which might be "By their fruits ye shall know them," that nothing which does not justify itself by its utility is considered as of value to men.

But there are many things in the world, the value of which is demonstrated indirectly rather than immediately. In this connection it is interesting and encouraging to note the growing appreciation of Beauty among the people of this continent. Possibly we are just beginning to catch up to the peoples of the older lands, who, mayhap, have not been travelling so fast on the road of Progress, and so have had more time for the contemplation and appreciation of Beauty. Those who have lived in Toronto for fifteen or twenty years must have observed the great strides that have been made in the beautification of our city. Trees and shrubs, flowers and decorative architecture have been encouraged and developed in a marked degree. And this is not limited to Toronto. Throughout the length and breadth of Canada and the United States, the same phenomenon has been observable. May we not be encouraged to hope that this is an indication of a growing love for Beauty? May we not also look for an improvement—an improvement sadly needed—in the realm of manners? In some respects, our manners have been passing through a period of decadence rather than of progress—witness, for instance, the behaviour of men in street-cars.

Much of the hardness, the cruelty, the inhumanity and the borishness of the past has grown from the soil of an insufficient hatred for the ugly. Men have been so keenly bent on progress, development, advance, what you will, that they have overlooked those little things, the value of which seemed to be largely aesthetic and have become crude, even grotesque, in their materialism. But those things have their value, a value no less than that of other things because it is not realized directly. Evil communications are not the only things that corrupt good manners, and good morals into the bargain. The absence of that which men call Beauty makes life, which should be in every department a thing of beauty—a hard and sordid thing.

Dr. Drummond was right when he wrote that Natural Laws are operative in the Spiritual Life. Let us sow such seed of Beauty in thought that we may raise the plant of good manners, bearing the flower of true morality, and yielding for fruit a life that is in all truth a thing of Beauty.

Trinity

A programme for an active year's work was drawn up by the Trinity College Dramatic Society at its first general meeting of this term on Monday evening. For some time past the Dramatic has been a dead letter among the college society this year group activities have been planned, culminating with staging a play at Hart House Theatre. The officers who will be in charge of this work are:
Honorary President—Rev. Canon Seager, Provost of Trinity.
President—Gordon P. M. Sparling.
Secretary—H. J. J. Abbott.
Treasurer—Professor Harris.
Assistant-Treasurer—E. L. Weaver.
Curator—A. L. Ambrose.
Committee men—T. C. Duely.

A new system of membership has also been arranged. By this, all the students of the college are associate members, and the active members will be chosen from this body. It is expected that under this method the society will come into its own once more and again do the good work that it carried on during the years of the war.

Medicine

Meds 274 elected the following of their members to supervise the arrangements for their coming annual dance.

President—R. M. Wainborough
C. A. Elliott
N. Macdonald.

Mr. G. B. Chisholm was appointed to the position of director of the Daffodil Night stunt. The year is to be commended for the discrimination used throughout.

S. P. S. DEBATING CLUB

Everybody out to the first lecture by Professor Greaves, upon public speaking, Monday, October 24, at 8 p.m., in the Lecture Room, Hart House. This is a lecture which is fundamental to the rest of the course so that everyone who signed for the course in all the years must be there.
The division into groups for the remainder of the course will be made at this meeting, also the election of the third year rep.

A McGILL GRAD. WRITES

To the Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

As a McGill graduate of twenty years' standing, who was back for the reunion, I want to express my appreciation of the splendid way in which the Toronto team and rosters fitted into the first of the occasion of the game on Saturday last.

I know that thousands must have been impressed by the fine courtesy of the Toronto men in putting up the balloons with the McGill colours. Everything we can do to develop the spirit of true sportsmanship and intercollegiate "manners" is very important in our day.

With high regard for the fine way in which the game was played and the spirit of it all, I am

Very truly yours,
GEORGE IRVING.

International Committee, Y.M.C.A.,
347 Madison Avenue,
New York.
Oct. 17, 1921.

PASSING THE BUCK

The prevailing factor in some people's lives seems to be "Passing the Buck"; what I mean by that is shirking responsibility or "Letting George do it."

Now the Rugby teams are in need of practice; in fact in need of men who will turn out not thinking of their individual glory but of how much they can contribute to the glory of their faculty.

There is need for players, rosters, and rugby clothes. Contribute which of these you can. Show your faculty spirit and quit "Passing the Buck."

DON STREIB, Mgr.,
Jr. Meds. Rugby Team.

Hart House,
20-10-21.

Editor, THE VARSITY:
Dear Sir:—It is not time that something was done about the compulsory Physical training? Admitting for a moment that it should be so, should the particular form of exercise be regulated for those who are medically fit? I do not think so. No one will put as much energy into a form of exercise that he does not like as he would into one that he is fond of. Consequently he will get less good from it.

The morning when we arrived at Hart House we were informed that if we wanted our attendance taken we had to go into the link. Personally I detest swimming, and even though I can swim, therefore, along with a number of others I did not attempt to have my attendance taken.

No doubt there are others who prefer swimming to floor work.

Surely university students are old enough to know what they like and what they don't like and to be allowed to have some say in what they have to do and not be treated like school children.

Yours respectfully,
S.P.S. 274

HART HOUSE MEALS

Oct. 19, 1921.

To the Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Mr. Editor:
In your last issue there appeared a letter re the Dining Hall, signed S.P.S. 274. The complaint was made against Hart House to those at Eaton's Cafeteria and at the Chippewa construction camp; neither of which are fair comparisons, as any one will realize upon careful consideration.

Some of the suggestions, however, are certainly worth taking up. The daily menu, posted at the Hall Porter's desk, would be quite in keeping with the practice followed by many restaurants. Catsup and pickles, no doubt, could be secured by asking for them. With regard to the meat I certainly beg to differ from the writer. The quantity is sufficient for any normal person pursuing a sedentary occupation, while the quality, on the whole, has been all that one could desire.

The suggestion re peeling of the potatoes is a stroke of genius, the gem of the whole letter, and will meet with unanimous approval.

S.P.S. 272 now descends from the sublime to the ridiculous. He would have compulsory attendance of the House and Hall Committees at all meals! Does he suggest a three-day parade? We trust not, as it would be absurd, to say the least, and would find favour with very few.

If S.P.S. 272 has any further grievances or suggestions let him address them directly to the Hall Committee, via the Hall Porter's desk, and they will certainly be taken up forthwith.

The Hall Committee is there to see that the students are well served in the matter of meals, and it is fair to this Committee that suggestions or complaints be sent to it direct and not through the medium of THE VARSITY. Reading some one else's complaints is poor recreation, in any way, both for THE VARSITY readers and also for the long-suffering Hall Committee.

Yours very truly,
NGYNYR.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The First Year Drafting Room was visited yesterday afternoon by two Y.M.C.A. representatives who announced that a man was needed from School 275 to represent the class in their organization. Nominations were called for and after five men had been named the voting began. After this was completed it was announced that C. A. Booth was the successful candidate. Booth after thanking the class announced that he would do his best to assist in the good work carried on by the good old "Y."

University Settlement

Good work is being done by the University Settlement in educating those who cannot afford the time and expense of a regular course.

The University Settlement is conducted in conjunction with the Social Service Department, under Professor Dale and Burton. It is located at the corner of Adelaide and Peter Streets, and is directed by Miss Turkel. For a very moderate sum they give tuition in various lines.

This department covers a field heretofore neglected, and is greatly improving the standard of education among those with whom it deals. The number of those taking the courses is steadily increasing, and it is to be hoped that this work will enable many more to enjoy the benefits of education.

SOCCER

DENTS I MEDS O

In spite of the bad condition of the field and a heavy north-west wind a fast game of soccer was played on the back lawn yesterday afternoon, between Meds and Dents, which was won by Dents by the close score of 1-0.

The play was close throughout the game and the marries had a hard time. The only score was tallied as a result of a scrimmage in front of Meds goal.

Macregor and Underhill were best for Meds while Langtry starred for Dents.

The entire allotment of two hundred tickets has been sold for the first R.C.D.S. Dance this term, which is being held this evening in Columbus Hall, commencing at 8.45 p.m. under the patronage of Mrs. Walker Secombe, Mrs. N. T. MacLure, and Mrs. A. J. McDonald. Music will be furnished by Jordin's Orchestra.

Despite the threatening of the elements, there was a good turn out of the Rifle Club at Long Branch Ranges yesterday afternoon. Much interest is being taken in the beautiful outdoor sport, and some of the best marksmen being developed. The next practice will take place on Saturday morning—the car leaving Sunnyside station at 9.00 a.m.

An important meeting of all members of this Club is called for noon to-day in Lecture Room 3. This is imperative that each member be on hand at this meeting.

Dents and S.P.S. have their second meeting in the intercollegiate Rugby Series scheduled for 4.15 p.m. to-day on the back campus. Dents ought to win this time! Let's all go!

Dents are now the coveted holders of the Echart Cup for Water Polo and this year we are out to win it again. In this connection we want the support of all available material in the R.C.D.S., and urge a larger turn out on the regular days for practice, which are Mondays and Thursdays at 5.30 p.m., and Saturday morning at 11.30 a.m.

The Fitzgerald Cup for speed swimming should appeal to the interest of a number of Dents.

Dental members of the Newman Club are reminded of the smoker being held to-night at the Club. A good evening's entertainment is promised. Come and make a lot of stag friends!

At the executive meeting of the Engineering Society Executive the following chairmen of committees were appointed:

Supply Committee..... Mr. Morris
Programme "..... Mr. Morrison Alumni "..... Mr. McIntosh
"Spams" "..... Mr. Carson
Publications "..... Mr. McKeown
Finance "..... Mr. Coulter
Dance "..... Mr. Drybrough Dinner "..... Mr. Coulter

A letter was read from Mr. W. J. Francis, secretary of the Alumni Association, expressing appreciation of "Transactions" published by the Engineering Society.

A service committee will also be appointed to aid the Alumni at the coming Reunion.

In order that School Class plus may be of a distinctive design in future, Mr. Norman, first year president was appointed chairman of a committee to deal with the matter. The design will remain the same, but the figures of the different years will be imprinted.

A book-keeper will, also, be employed for the Society.

Everything is in shape for a "bang-up" year, School men, so give your support.

Varsity to Meet Queen's in Intercollegiate Soccer

On Saturday the first game of the Intercollegiate Series will be played between Queen's and Varsity on the back campus at 2:15 p.m.

During the war the Intercollegiate Soccer Series was called off but in 1919 it again reopened and Varsity won the Championship in both 1919 and 1920. This year, with practically the same team, that won last year Varsity hope to win the honours again. If Queen's soccer team shows the same improvement that their rugby team has shown a good struggle should result.

The Varsity line-up will be:
Goal—Evans.
Backs—Johnston and Neilson.
Half-backs—Smilie, Underhill and D'Easum.
Forwards—Lang, Greer, Nash, Johnstone and Spaulding.

Spaulding—Grant, Lucas.
With the exception of Nash and Johnstone the team are the same as last year's. Nash is no stranger to the Varsity eleven having played centre-forward for them in 1919. Johnstone also played that year, but owing to an injury he had to quit the game and this is the first time that he has played with Varsity since.

If you want to see a good game of soccer come out on Saturday afternoon and help Varsity to beat their old rivals.

Varsity Graduates Hold Annual Meeting

Plans For Coming Year Membership Drive Begins

Varsity Rugby, Rugbyettes and McGill meet to-morrow afternoon at the Stadium in the first Intercollegiate Rugby game ever held. It is hoped that next year a league will be formed with Queen's, R.M.C., McGill and Varsity.

There are several novel characteristics of the "mother game" which will be new to followers of Canadian Football and which in the opinion of many critics make it a better game. In the first place no pads are allowed to be worn and the absence of a cumbersome uniform makes a speedier game. There are no points given for fouls or dead-lines.

The game is featured throughout by the striving of the "pack" in the "scrum" as they endeavour to heel the ball out to the expectant backs, the dribbling of the ball by the forwards, and the running, passing and kicking of the backs which is developed to an extent not found in the Canadian game making it highly spectacular from the spectators' standpoint.

The Varsity team have been practising hard and faithfully and have demonstrated that they are no weaklings by defeating one of the strong city teams, 8 to 0.

It is up to every Varsity man to support this team in the final struggle with McGill. Reunions—Saturday, October 22 at 3:15 p.m., immediately following the Toronto-Parkdale set-to.

U. of T. TENNIS
Rain Thursday again held up the challenge matches for places on the U. of T. Tennis team. The games must be played at the first opportunity. Endicott, Burrows, Alexander, Best, Purcell and Wood must be ready to play at any time that the courts are in shape, Friday afternoon 1:30 at the Toronto Club courts if possible. Call up Ed. Guillet N. 8425 or Will Crossen N. 6083 if in doubt as to the condition of the courts, as the games will be defaulted if the courts are good and the above men not on hand to play.

Guillet and Banbury Win U. of T. Tennis Doubles

The U. of T. doubles tournament was concluded yesterday and resulted in a decided win for the Victoria College pair, Guillet and Banbury, over Wood and Hewitt. The scores were 6-3, 6-4, 6-1, the winners having the game well in hand at all times. Guillet and Banbury will be the U. of T. best doubles pair in the intercollegiate meet, and should give a good account of themselves. Their style of game is hard to fight against, and both men are particularly steady in the pinches.

Rain in the afternoon held up the challenge games for positions on the team. One round was played in the morning. Endicott, Burrows and Alexander winning their matches. These men will play Best, Purcell and Wood respectively as soon as the weather clears. The winners will then play Larkin, Ham and Scott respectively for their places on the team. All players should be in readiness to play at any time, as the team for the intercollegiate meet must be settled as soon as possible.

As it had been found necessary to re-organize the U. of T. Tennis, Hockey, and Gymnasium Clubs, a meeting was held for that purpose in Lilian Massey, on Wednesday at 5 p.m. Miss Dorothy Trap took the chair, and Miss C. Wallace was nominated Secretary pro tem. It was carried that the clubs should accept the constitution of the Basketball Club, the necessary changes to be made by the various executives.

The following representatives were appointed:

TENNIS CLUB
Miss A. MacDonald (U.C.) Pres.
Miss Moore (St. Hilda's) Vice-Pres.
Miss Snider (Vic.) Secretary.
Miss Burridge (Med.) Treasurer.

University College

On Wednesday, October 19, a fast game was played on a heavy campus which proved a watery grave for Dental ambition. MacDonald, for Arts, was the outstanding player, while Campbell, of Dents, showed a great deal of skill and a gameness hard to beat. The spirit of the game was exceptional in the face of bad weather.

First Quarter
U.C. kicked off, later secured the ball and kicked to the dead line. Dents bucked their way into U.C. territory, kicked and secured the ball in a scramble behind the line. U.C. 1, Dents, 5.

Second Quarter
Dents kicked for another point and U.C. kicked and dropped on a fumbled catch behind Dents' goal line. U.C., 6; Dents, 6.

Third Quarter
After a hard struggle between the two lines U.C. bucked up the field and MacDonald kicked for another point. U.C., 7; Dents, 6.

Fourth Quarter
U.C. obtained the eighth point in the first five minutes and the rest of the period was passed with uncertain play and tense moments when either team might have scored.

Final score—U.C. 8; Dents, 6.

LINE-UP

ELECTION RESULTS OF U.C. FRESHMEN YEAR

The election that was held Tuesday in West Hall was one of the quietest in years. Not a "Soph" dared show his face for 275 as there is force and ready to guard the ballot box. The following will form the executives for 275:
President—Mr. Gerald Smith.
1st Vice-Pres.—Miss Nan I. Denoon
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mr. J. C. Porter.
Secretary—Mr. S. A. Snyder.
Treasurer—Mr. C. S. Thomson.
Proprietor—Miss Helen Brown.
Historian—Miss Helen Brown.
Gentleman Councillor—Mr. S. E. Leary.
Lady Councillor—Miss Marion Tilley.

U. C. 272! ATTENTION!
Don't forget the Halloween party to be held at U. T. S. on Saturday evening, October 29. Thrills and novel surprises are in store for all who come and a jolly time is guaranteed each member of the class. Reserve the date!

U. C. HARRIERS
Men of U. C. who wish to run turn out. There will be trial runs over the course every afternoon till next Wednesday, at 2:30, starting from St. Andrew's College. Dressing room and showers up there.

Trinity Victorious in Mulock Cup Game

Score 14-3

Wednesday afternoon the Trinity Rugby squad defeated the Victoria XII, the present holders of the Mulock Cup, to the tune of 14-3. The game, which was played on Trinity campus, was well fought and, despite the fact that the field was heavy and covered with pools of water, the passing and tackling was of a high order. Although the rain had not abated to any appreciable extent when play commenced, the ardour of the many rooters who turned out to cheer on the teams was not in the least dampened. Victoria, Trinity and St. Hilda's Colleges were well represented among the spectators.

Throughout the afternoon Trinity was fortunate in its end runs, for which the work of the halves and Harper at quarter was particularly worthy of mention. Chaffie, at right middle, played a hard game and was responsible for one of the two touches gained by Trinity. Brilliant play on the part of Harper resulted in the most outstanding players on the Victoria team.

During the first two quarters the play remained almost entirely in favour of the Anglicans as evinced by the score at the end of the first quarter, Trinity 3, Victoria 0, and at half-time when it was 14-1 with Trinity still in the lead. Victoria rallied to some extent in the last half. They managed to keep Trinity scoreless, but themselves made little headway in their attempt to score. Unfortunately for the Methodists they lost one of their best men in the last half when Chant was laid out for the rest of the game. The final score: Trinity 14; Victoria 3.

The Teams:
Trinity: F.W., Thomson; Smith, F. A.; Mills, C. H.; Greer, L. H.; Cayley; Henderson, J. H.; Harper; Telford; Snip; Spenser; Bell; Knox, L. M.; J. de Penster; Flavell, R. M.; Chaffie; Hudson, L. O.; Harshaw; Ferguson, S. Brown; Brewer, Subs; Seron; Bates, Ross; Lee; Watson, McMillan; Sloan, Smith, L. H.
Referee: H. Ketchum.
Umpire: T. de Penster.

Soccer Notes

School and Vets, indulged in a very "lippy" game of soccer Wednesday afternoon. No one could describe the game quite so adequately and any one who happened to notice the condition of the field can well understand the reason.

Of course no one expected a fine exhibition of football but the players showed a great interest in the game in appearing at all. Even the weather man was forced to smile on the proceedings and allow the sun to have a glimpse of the contest for a moment.

The game was very one-sided and the score at full time was 6-0 in favour of School. However, the Vets should not let that discourage them because a game played under such conditions is quite likely to have almost any kind of an ending.

St. Michael's

St. Michael's College defeated Western Union in the first intercollegiate match of the season in the intermediate series on Saturday last. The final score was 15 to 1 with St. Mike's holding the long end.

A large number of fans were present to witness the match. The Western squad were, apparently poorly drilled and St. Mike's seemed to have everything their own way except on one occasion when Western held the ball but a yard away from the goal line.

Le Bel 24 starred for St. Mike's. He was by far the best ground guard and scored both touchdowns. McKee also did good kicking after Farmer had been hurt.

The teams—Western—Heard, flying wing; Lindsay, Cline and Trynor, halves; McVahon, quarter; Callahan, centre; Fisher, Jarrot, outside; Cowley, Sifton, middle; Dundas, Dingle, outside; Williams, Lewis and Simpson, spares.
St. Mike's—Ford, flying wing; McKee, Le Bel and Forner, halves; Brown, quarter; Dore, centre; Lynch, Hiteches, inside; Caron, Bur, middle; Dillon, McKee, outside; Mahon and Kennedy, spares.
Final score—St. Michael's 15, Western 1.
Referee—A. Brown, Hamilton Tigers.
Umpire—C. Little, London, Ont.

Basketball Executive Meets

On Wednesday, October 19, the first meeting of the Basketball Executive was held. It was decided to enter teams in the Senior, Intermediate and Junior Basketball League. If enough good material develops a Juvenile team may be entered later.

The arrangement of an Intermediate Intercollegiate League was discussed, and it was decided to open negotiations with Western University, O.A.C., Queen's and McGill.

The practice hours for the first team were arranged. They will be 5 to 6 on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 12 to 1 on Saturday. The first practice will be held about the 1st of November.

Secretary.

PSYCHOLOGY TEST FOR FRESHMEN

GENERAL KNOWLEDGE EXAM.

Certain members of the first year in Arts at the University of Toronto have undergone no intelligence tests conducted by the psychological department. While not absolutely a new thing at the local institution of learning, this work has not been done on such an extensive scale before, nor has it been so generally applied to the entire student body.

While not affecting the standing of the scholars concerned, the examinations, which included the writing of a general knowledge paper, and the making of measurements of the various senses and faculties, it is hoped at some future date to make this a requirement for the completion of registration, just as is done in certain universities across the line.

We cannot give details of the subjects or tests," Dr. Bott, of the Department of Psychology said, "as this would upset the conduct of those upon whom they are being made, and would interfere with the course of the experiments."

Records will be made of the performance of the different pupils dealt with, who were picked out as typical examples in cases, and deductions made for application at some instant date to the teaching methods of the University, it is understood.

S.C.I. OLD BOYS' HUNT!

Don't forget the meeting of the Sigma Chi Alumnae Association in South Common Room, Hart House, on Monday, October 24th, at 7:30 p.m.

CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION

Where the intellectual and the social conditions there are at the most interesting and profitable. The Classical Association offers the dual purpose of assisting all degrees of intensity are invited to attend the first meeting of the Association this year to be held at the home of Professor Dull, 53 Woodlawn Avenue West, Monday evening next, October 24, at 7:30.

Professor N. W. De Witt, of Victoria College, will read a paper on "The Roman in France."

St. Hilda's

Last year, a series of mission study groups, was instituted at St. Hilda's, taking place between the hours of two and three Sunday afternoons. These meetings proved so profitable and interesting that it has been decided that they should be continued. Two have already been held. At the first, Miss Cartwright gave an address on the S. C. M., and the place of the St. Hilda's W. A. in the S. C. M. At the second, which took place last Sunday, Miss MacPherson, '23, gave an interesting talk on Missionary Work in the Northwest. She spoke particularly of two Missions situated on the Pacific Coast of Northern British Columbia, and emphasized strongly the need for new workers in this field. An open discussion followed.

Very interesting accounts of the S. C. M. Conference held last September at Elton House, Muskoka, were given at a meeting of the St. Hilda's W. A. which was held last Tuesday evening. The reports were much liked by the three delegates sent by St. Hilda's to the Conference. Miss Ferguson, the first speaker, took us through the early days of the Conference, when only the delegates had arrived, while Miss Potts and Miss McConville dealt with the later events. Each of the three reports was remarkable in that it really carried the minds of its listeners to the scene of the Conference, and through the various pleasures which the delegates themselves had experienced.

GRADUATION PHOTOS

Members of the fourth year who have not as yet made appointments with Mr. Aylott regarding their graduation photos, are again requested to attend to this matter at their earliest convenience. Appointments may be made at the studio, 96 Yonge St. or by phoning Main 1098.

NEWMAN CLUB

To-night there will be a smoker for all the men. Father Burke has gone to considerable trouble to make this surpass any other in the history of the Club and a large turnout is expected. Several new features are to be introduced.

PROFESSOR COSGRAVE RETURNS SPEAKS OF IRISH PROBLEMS

Trinity College is enthusiastically welcoming back the Rev. Professor Cosgrave, M.A., B.D., Dean of Divinity, who has just returned from England where he has been making a study of the problems of certain theological colleges, particularly those connected with the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. As Professor Cosgrave had been granted a year's leave of absence, and returned somewhat unexpectedly at the request of the Provost, his work is not completed.

Speaking of Ireland, Professor Cosgrave said that when the truce had been brought about there had been actual and not simply guerrilla warfare going on; it is hard to conceive of the condition of the country before July. At present, neither side wished to resume the contest, and, the Professor thought, the Irish would be willing to accept the offer of the British Government if the controlling forces would permit them to.

DEATH OF JACK MULLIKEN MEDS POPULAR STUDENT AND SPORT

On Tuesday evening about eight o'clock there passed away at the General Hospital Mr. Jack Mulliken, formerly of 275 Meds. His death was sudden, following an acute attack of typhoid fever leading to pneumonia. The late Mr. Mulliken was one of the most popular members of his year, a very quiet and efficient student winning the affection of those with whom he came in contact by his unassuming steadfastness of purpose and truly noble character.

In addition to his scholastic prowess he took a keen interest in all sports and played good hockey for Junior Meds. last season.

Jack hailed from Renfrew, Ontario, and leaves besides his parents, five sisters to mourn the loss of the promising only son. The heartfelt sympathy of his friends in his year and of the whole faculty of Medicine goes out to the bereaved ones at home in their hour of anguish.

Requiescat in pace!

RUGBY SEASON TICKETS

Any season tickets remaining unsold after the subscribers' sale will be on sale Saturday morning at the office of the Athletic Association.

ANGELIC CLUB

The second meeting of the Anglican Club will be held on Thursday, October 27, at the Deaconess House, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Anglican Women please keep this date open and watch for further notice.

HALLOW E'EN AT DEER PARK PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Hallow E'en, the evening of cheerful smiles and good fun, is nearly here. The Deer Park Church, realizing this, has appointed a committee of about fifty live wires to arrange a party on the evening of Thursday, October 27th, at 8 o'clock.

A very cordial invitation is extended to readers of this paper and it is expected that several hundred students will come and occupy themselves with pumpkin pie and apples and such like. There will also be a multitude of smaller attractions.

Deer Park Church is on the south side of St. Clair Avenue, a few steps east of Avenue Road. The Avenue Road car will take you right to the door.

FITTING!

She—John! Can't you at least wait till we get home?—UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA PUNCH BOWL.

KITCHENER OLD BOYS NOTICE

A smoker will be held in the West Common Room, Hart House, on Wednesday, October 26, at 8 p.m. Snokes, cards, music, eats and a good programme will round out the evening. Every graduate of the K. & W. Collegiate in attendance at Varsity is urgently requested to turn out to this first meeting.

The total enrollment at Amherst is 510. Of this number, according to The Amherst Students, 82 per cent. are members of Fraternities.

Graduates of McGill University planned to raise an Endowment Fund for their Alma Mater at a meeting held last week at the Centennial Celebrations. At the Convocation which was held, degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred on the Rt. Rev. Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto, a Trinity graduate, and a member of the University Senate, and on Professor Wrong, of the History Department.

GOD IS LOVE--THE UNSHAKEABLE CORNER STONE OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH

Bishop Anderson of Chicago Delivers Powerful Message-- Christianity a Real Force in Solution of To-day's Problems

"Christianity in its relation to present day problems," was the subject of a masterly sermon at Convocation, by Bishop Anderson of Chicago, who took his text from the fourth chapter of the First Epistle of St. John. "Beloved let us love one another for love is the seed of God and the love of God is the love of the world."

Love, he said, is the only explanation of the intricate and bewildering universe. It is the source of life, and its great moral law to which we must attain our lives or invite catastrophe. Science shows us a world so vast, so limitless, we lose our sense of personal relationship and responsibility to God. That we cannot conceive the importance of the individual in the universe of the whole, is because we persist in measuring spiritual values by material standards, forgetting that one moral fact is worth more than a hundred physical universes. The one absolute and unquestionable fact, the unshakeable corner-stone of Christianity is that God is love.

His second essential is summed up by St. Peter: "Honour all men and love the brethren," yet most of us fail to attain the breadth of sympathy of the apostle who said, "I am a man and therefore nothing that is human can be foreign."

Famine and misery, revolution and unrest, the spectacle of one civilized nation plunged into barbarism, make this a period of dreadful solemnity in the history of the world. We feel that we have entered a hostile world under the pressure of a moral necessity but the very existence of that necessity was a terrible warning of something fundamentally wrong somewhere and the present widespread strife and bitterness testify that the wrong has not yet been righted.

Our three great problems are international relations, industrial relations, and Church relationships and for all of these Christianity has an answer. We must have co-operation among nations and among industrial classes and these can have no common meeting ground of trust except Christian fellowship. We may hope that the Churches are pointing the way. Religious unity is making enormous progress, especially in our own country and although it has, as yet, no structural shape it can be measured by the growing trust among the different organizations.

The whole world has been making a trial of brute strength and all parties have failed. It must be saved, not by cunning and diplomacy, not by intellectualism, but by those sentiments and emotions which principles which Christianity alone has inspired."

WEDNESDAY A BIG DAY IN CANADA

"Goblin" To Be On Sale In Every Canadian University

After a delay occasioned in the first place by the fact that the New Cheltenham type was late in arriving in the city and secondly by the unavailability of the printing situation, "GOBLIN" will make its appearance on the Campus Wednesday morning.

Many changes in the little fellow will be noted by those who had the opportunity of watching his development last year. Besides the new type there is a new and enlarged page size and the paper will be of different and more satisfactory quality than that utilized last year.

Of this issue, 8,000 copies are being printed and sent to be placed on sale in every university in Canada as well as on the news stands of some of the larger centres.

The cover design for this month, which is by L. V. Treble, is of a unique and striking character, while the rest of the art work by Guy Rutter, K. C. McGowan, Dorothy Forrester, Jocelyn Taylor, Walter Howard and others is all of an excellent standard.

"GOBLIN" will go on sale at nine o'clock Wednesday morning, simultaneously in all departments of the University. An early and heavy rush for copies is anticipated as, this being the initial issue, the interest and excitement will be intense and speculation has been aroused that with regard to the issues of last spring.

RECITAL IN MUSIC ROOM

Hart House members will not forget the time to be held to-morrow in the Music Room at 5. In addition to the programme outlined in Friday's Varsity, Mr. West will be assisted by Mr. Morgan, vocalist, and the Musical Committee are hoping for a splendid attendance at their first recital.

THREE ARTS CLUB

On Wednesday, October 26, the second meeting of the Three Arts Women's Union at 4 p.m. Mr. Arthur Lismer, A.C.A., will speak on "Colour and Canadian Art." Mr. Lismer is one of the most eminent exponents of Canadian art this will be a very interesting lecture. The programme will be accompanied by practical demonstrations, and after tea will be served. All members of the faculty, graduates and undergraduates, are cordially invited to attend.

ORDER CONVENING COURT

To All Whom It May Concern: Notice is hereby given that the Students' Court of the University of Toronto will sit in the Lecture Room, Hart House at 4 p.m. on Friday, October 28th, to hear the case of The Student Body of the University of Toronto vs. First and Second Years, Medicine.

BY ORDER OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE COURT.

FINAL REGISTRATION FIGURES ANNOUNCED

University College Has Largest Number in History

The registration this year is as large, if not larger, than last year in all faculties with the exception of Dentistry, which is seventy less. The figures are as follows:

Arts	2,121
Medicine	1,072
Science	804
Engineering	4,877

University College has a total of 1,205, which is the largest registration in the history of the College. It might be mentioned here on account of the size and accommodation of the College all the year divisions are many times larger than the previous years. An interesting fact is that the women outnumber the men 605 to 600. This was true during the war but was not the case last year. First year also has the honour of breaking the year's record of 427. The figures are:

1st Year	509	3rd Year	225
Occasionals	45

The attendance at Victoria has increased this year and is 540 while there were 520 in 1920-21. Another noteworthy fact is that there is a much larger percentage in the Honour Courses than formerly.

1st Year	110	3rd Year	30
2nd Year	47	4th Year	30
Occasionals	10

Trinity College has practically the same registration as last year which is 140. The figures are:

1st Year	50	3rd Year	30
2nd Year	30	4th Year	20
Occasionals	10

The Medical College figures are:

1st Year	143	3rd Year	6 (yr.) 146
2nd Year	190	4th Year	222
3rd Year	372	5th Year	159

The Dental College is 70 below last year's total of 888. The figures are:

1st Year	106	3rd Year	310
2nd Year	107	4th Year	181

School of Science has the same number last year, though in a different distribution. The figures are:

1st Year	179	3rd Year	288
2nd Year	189	4th Year	153

Forestry has surpassed last year's record of 65, having a total of 62. The figures are:

1st Year	21	3rd Year	11
2nd Year	13	4th Year	12
Specials	4

REMEMBER THE DATE OF THE HART HOUSE MASQUERADE

When in Hart House, conversation turns to a discussion of amusement the chief topic is the Hart House Masquerade, which is already a tradition.

In a university of large registration like Toronto it is hard to establish a feeling of fellowship so evident in universities whose students are less scattered by outside attractions and non-resident life.

To overcome this the Hart House Committee has instituted the Masquerade Ball, which they hoped would help to centre the interest of all faculties and colleges.

The magnificence of the gift of Hart House, needless to say, deserves commemoration which is also provided for in this event because it is also a birthday party and held near the date of the opening, November 11, 1910.

CHESS CLUB

The regular meeting of the Chess Club will be held in South Common Room, Hart House, on Wednesday at 8 p.m. We had a big turnout last week, but we want a bigger one this week. Come and learn the details of the students' chess tournament. Everybody from a chess novice to a beginner welcome.

ANGELICAN WOMEN!

Come!
We Call!
Welcome!
Well Come!
To the second meeting of the Women's Anglican Club to be held at the Deaconsess House, 179 Gerrard Street East, on Thursday, October 27, at 4 o'clock. We had a big turnout and help us to help others--an interesting afternoon is assured.

VARSITY VETS HOLD SUCCESSFUL SMOKER

Old Memories Revived By Speech of Major Hahn

The Varsity Veterans commenced a bombardment of social events with a smoker held in the Lecture Room, Hart House, on Thursday evening. This is the first of a series of events extending over the academic year and all present agreed that the troops are off to a good start.

The programme left no room for "napping." Shortly at eight o'clock Roger Bickerton, president of the Varsity Veterans, brought back those old times in France, and the hearty way in which they were sung showed how much they were enjoyed. An outline of the work of the Varsity Branch of the General Staff was given by Major Jimmie Hahn, D.S.O., C.M.C. He then proceeded to tell us of his own experiences and cleared up the mystery of the German "up" behind the lines. To hear Major Hahn was certainly a treat and his talk could not have been made a more valuable programme in itself.

The act put on by Fleming, Shoul and Higgins was splendid and would have stolen the show from the whole of the party they so easily initiated had any of them been present.

At the motion pictures were shown the Sinclair-Hendley aggregation, rendered several selections on their stringed instruments. Several times one caught oneself losing the thread of the picture while the music took one back to the Harts in England. One could see in the dimly lighted hall--lit by the glare from the stage and a few wax candles here and there--men seated around the stove, holding forth on the floor near the fire, and in the centre of the group were two men, the speaker and his audience. How their playing appealed to a lonely soul!

And that is why the smoker was such a success. It was a chance to get back to the old times, to the old friends, to the old places. The lecture room was a regular estaminet. Some gathered around the piano and sang to their heart's content, others in groups held forth on the floor near the fire, and a few sat at the table, drinking and eating. The only thing the coffee lacked was the odd drop of cognac.

The songs of Mr. McQueen were greatly appreciated, as were the "Overtures" of the Varsity Veterans. The speaker, a comedian, put the finishing touch to an excellent programme.

But the main thing to remember is that the Varsity Veterans are not just a bunch of enthusiasts. They are a group of men who are doing all they can to make the University a better place.

STUDENTS' COURT HOLDS SESSION FRIDAY P.M.

Parade by Meds. After Initiation Proceedings Rouses Ire of City Police

As a result of their parade down George Street following the Med. initiation on Friday, Oct. 14, the First and Second Years in Medicine have been summoned to appear before a session of the Students' Court, to be held in the Lecture Room, Hart House, at 4 o'clock next Friday afternoon. When interviewed, Mr. Hutchinson, Clerk of the Court, said to the Varsity that the case had arisen as a result of the City Police Authorities complaining to Capt. Christie, who in turn, had laid the matter before the Court. He emphasized the fact that no attempt was made by the Court to prosecute the Med. men, but that it had no alternative in the matter.

The grounds on which the City Police complained were that the parade was unauthorized, and that Yonge Street was closed.

"No Man Liveth Unto Himself Alone" --- Sir George Foster

Distinguished Public Man Addresses Men Students in Hart House on Friday

On the invitation of the Warden and Stewards of Hart House Sir George Foster, K.C., M.P., gave the students a short talk in the Lecture Room afterwards. Sir George recalled his own student days at the University of New Brunswick. There the number of students was small and the curriculum narrow but the students were in close touch with one another and with their professors. In his opinion the students at a large university are too far removed from the personality of the professor.

"When I was a student in New Brunswick," he said, "New Brunswick was the ideal of the New Brunswick. Now-day Canada is the ideal of every Canadian student. This is a wonderful stimulus and attraction to the student and it broadens his mind."

Referring to a remark made by Mr. Bickerton that the speaker was not invited to Hart House as a politician but as one of Canada's leading public men, Sir George said to the students: "I would like to appear before you as a politician, but not as a partisan. He then called their attention to the fact that politics in its genesis, in its real sense, is a synonym for the finest in all human enterprise and warned against a flippant or inadequate conception of the subject."

"The older I grow, the more I realize that lack of co-operation between our political parties is reacting upon Canadian life socially, morally and spiritually, in a harmful manner," he continued. "You have no right to go through life without lending service to your country. We live with its principles which we could not have but for our ancestors. We owe a debt to the past. We must pay it by making the future better for those who are yet to come."

"If your ideals are pitched rightly and you try to live up to them, you will pay my ideals, but I have done better by trying to live up to them."

"In conclusion, let me leave this thought for you, 'No man liveth unto himself alone.' No man liveth unto himself alone. Try it and instead of success you may find glitter and glare. But it will be as bitterness in your mouth."

WELL KNOWN CANADIAN ADDRESSES U.C. ALUMNI

In Forceful Speech Emphasizes Danger of Indifference in Election

That Sir George Foster's power and vigour as a public speaker is by no means on the wane, was simply demonstrated in his address to the U.C. Alumni on Friday night. In a speech full of vitality and force, yet free from offensive partisanship, Sir George expounded some of the political problems of the day.

In his introductory remarks the speaker emphasized the fact that if democracy fails, its complete abandonment will be owing to the indifference and apathy of a large portion of the people. If a democracy is to be successful it is essential that the people should be not only honest and intelligent but public-spirited and militant. Nor is this all. Something of spiritual power and vigour is absolutely necessary.

Turning from the general to the more specific, Sir George dealt with the political situation in Canada at large. In the coming election the vote will be an absolute electorate of one half the voting power.

This new woman vote is largely untapped and, unless the community urged the necessity for a wise and reasoned decision on the part of all women. Prejudices, misconceptions, narrowness of view should all give way before the desire for truth.

The history of the three parties, their platforms and their leaders should be studied and compared. The personality of the head of a government is a matter of great importance, although the speaker was careful to point out that the personal qualities of a leader will never make up for a wrong and harmful policy. (At this point Sir George facetiously remarked, "I remember, I am not saying, 'No my choice is, nor am I asking yours.'")

At the request of the Alumni, the question of the tariff and its relation to Canadian development was gone into thoroughly. The position of the three parties on this question was outlined and the reasons for the present policy of a "tariff for protection" were stated with great clearness and precision. In this connection the necessity of having respect for one's environment, for external as well as internal conditions, and the necessity of keeping one's roots in the past were emphasized. Although the speech was on the whole singularly free from party bias the speaker benighted the fact that he was pledged not to discuss party politics.

While Sir George could not refrain from one or two casual allusions to some "glittering generalities" in the platforms of the opposing parties, he was careful to keep the meeting on a high plane. The meeting was well attended and all present had the privilege of meeting the distinguished statesman and Lady Foster.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE DINNER POSTPONED

Owing to circumstances beyond their control the committee in charge of arranging the dinner at the University College, which was to have been held in the Great Hall, Hart House on Tuesday, October 25, have seen fit to postpone the event.

This could have been avoided by the Executive of the Literary and Athletic Society, when the committee presented to it a number of reasons therefor, each sufficient in itself to make it most desirable to stage the Dinner at a later date. In the event, however, the committee has decided to postpone the dinner to a later date.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

The Modern Language Club will meet this evening at the Union, 85 St. George. Prof. De Champ will speak, and there will be music, refreshments and dancing. First Year please turn out strong and nominate your Representatives. Don't forget, 8 o'clock this evening at the Union.

VARSITY OUTCLASS QUEEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCCER

First Game of the Series Ends in 7-1 Score for U. of T.---Visitors Never Had a Chance

In the first Intercollegiate Soccer game Varsity outplayed Queen's in all parts. The score at half-time was 2-0 in favour of Varsity and in the second half Varsity were able to add another five goals to their credit while Queen's only got one.

Varsity won the toss and elected to play the first half with the wind, which was very strong. During the whole period Queen's were never dangerous and the play was at Queen's end of the field the whole time. Nash was the star for Varsity during the period and both goals were scored by him.

In the second half Queen's had a very strong wind in their favour and were able to get within range of the Varsity goal a few times but on the whole the result was much in favour of Varsity as the score indicates. During the period Ben Johnson scored twice and Greet also got two goals to his credit. Tracer's second goal was a beautiful shot from the wing against the wind. Both of Varsity's outfields started. It is very hard to centre the ball on a windy day, but Lang and Spalding seldom failed. Glover, who substituted for Underhill, played well. Neilson and N. Johnson, at full, whom Evans, in goal, had very little to do, but had only one goal against him. It was a very hard shot from close in. D'Easum and Smilie always made their presence felt on the half-line and the Queen's wings were unable to get away from them.

The line-up:

Goal	Evans
Left	Neilson
Right	D'Easum
Centre	Glover
Left	Smilie
Right	Spalding
Centre	B. Johnson
Left	Tracer
Right	Lang
Subs	Lucas and Grant

The intercollegiate games on Friday were quite one-sided. Varsity defeated Pharmacy by the score of 14-0 and Knox outplayed Weidie, the final score standing at 7-0. Dents and Knox meet on Tuesday at 4.15 p.m. and a close game is expected.

C. O. T. C.

The C.O.T.C. Band will commence its regular practice this week. These will be held twice weekly, beginning Wednesday, October 26, from 5 to 6 p.m. at Corps Headquarters, 181 College Street.

Capt. John Slatter will be in charge of instruction, which has in itself is an assurance of success. There are vacancies for good musicians who wish to avail themselves of this valuable instruction and prospective members are invited to attend this practice. If you have an instrument bring it with you.

UNTO HIMSELF

In every phase of that great complex of many processes which we call life we are to-day realizing more and more the truth that no man can live unto himself or the unto himself. Each is but a part of a great organism and the integral factor in humanity is not the individual. True as this is, it is but a partial truth, for not only can no man live unto himself, but no group, no institution can live unto itself.

We have progressed beyond the petty idea of "College Spirit" that made the University second to the College and made charity and every other virtue begin at home and end there. We have seen that the College can be only as great as the part it plays in the University. So, too, the University can be only as great as the part it plays in the greater student commonwealth. This or any other university cannot live unto itself.

In economic life we have left behind the idea of "every man for himself" which is the motto of individualistic competition and have found that in union is strength—the idea of co-operation. This is as true in other realms. We do not wish to suggest that the self-consciousness of the individual college or university ought to be suppressed, but it certainly ought not to be fostered to the exclusion of the larger spirit. College competes with college, and university with university, in scholarship and in sport. But the spirit of the competition should be that of "boosting" one's own college or university rather than that of "knocking" the other.

We are only as big in ourselves as we are in our relations to others.

WELCOME, MCGILL! WELCOME, QUEEN'S!

Before the war the thing that put Intercollegiate Athletics far above a mere competition was the spirit of good fellowship that existed among the players and officials of the three great universities—Queen's, Varsity and McGill. The suspension of Intercollegiate sports during the years of the war necessarily created a break in the old order of things, and a few years ago when athletic competition was resumed, the representatives of the different universities, being unshackled in the ancient traditions of Intercollegiate athletics, maintained an attitude of indifference towards each other that was not beneficial to the Intercollegiate Union. But time has accomplished what nothing else could have done and the old order has returned. Once more we see the teams of the Tricolour, the Red and the Blue playing the game for all its worth, but preserving the spirit of good fellowship and good sportsmanship which is the very basis of true competition. With what delight the old graduates must look on the restoration of the Intercollegiate Union to its proper place! What pleasure we, as undergraduates, feel to have the knowledge that we are playing a part in this upward movement. When our teams play against McGill and Queen's they are playing against opponents, not foes, and opponents worthy of our steel. When the game is over our players fraternize with the man of McGill and Queen's as only true men and true sportsmen can. Within the next two weeks we shall have as our guests the rugby teams of our two sister universities. Varsity looks forward with pleasure to their coming and Varsity welcomes them, as they have welcomed us, as the standard bearers of the true ideal in athletic competition and the representatives of institutions to which is entrusted Canada's future.

THE ACQUISITION OF THE LIBRARY HABIT

Every student of the University knows the location of the University Library and we find ourselves automatically full-fledged members when our fees are extracted by the Bursar.

We vaguely realize that in the said library are stored many of the reference books advised by our professors; there also is to be found that font of comprehensive knowledge, the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Occasionally we venture in to search for material for an essay and once and again we seek the reading-room as a refuge from an impending shower.

But it is not until the spring drive of examinations that we realize the vast importance of the library. Then we spend arduous hours in the reading-rooms in frantic search for information. We seek the open shelves and discover interesting facts on such a varied range of subjects that we groan, "If we only had time to read this! Why didn't we start sooner?" We carry ponderous volumes home each night and say solemnly, "Next year we will visit the library consistently and not wait until it is absolutely imperative."

It is hard to adhere to our good resolutions when out-of-doors is so inviting and there are so many things to do. But the reference habit is worth acquiring and we should refuse to be content with mere surface knowledge. Let us become active members of the library by delving into its contents, by making use of its open shelves and by becoming addicts of the "night-slip" habit.

ATHLETIC DIRECTORATE ENTERTAIN PLAYERS

British Rugby Clubs at Dinner
Saturday Evening

The Athletic Directorate of the University of Toronto entertained the members of the McGill and Varsity British Rugby Clubs at dinner on Saturday evening last at seven o'clock. Sir Robert Falconer, Mr. Bickersteth, and Mr. T. A. Reel introduced by Mr. Meekison, President of the Varsity British Rugby Club, each spoke a few words of welcome and encouragement to the guests. Their presence and speeches were much appreciated by the teams. Following this, Mr. Norman Kemp, a former Varsity man and Captain of the McGill team, expressed his thanks for the reception of his club, and assured the Varsity squad of one equally hearty upon their arrival in Montreal next Saturday. Mr. Hugh Ross, the Toronto Captain, fittingly brought the list of speeches to a close by voicing his appreciation of the splendid and sportsmanlike game put up by the McGill Rugby team. After a McGill yell by Varsity, and cheers for Varsity by McGill, the company broke up to enable the Montreal boys to meet their several engagements for the evening.

St. Michael's

St. Michael's College Alumnae entertained the undergraduates and faculty at the annual Autumn Tea on Saturday afternoon. It was held this year in St. Joseph's College Auditorium and the students of both Loretto and St. Joseph's were given an opportunity of meeting one another, as well as the graduates and faculty. Autumn leaves and chrysanthemums prettily decorated the tea-table, at which Lady Winkle presided. Piano and vocal solos were greatly appreciated and a short dance also followed the refreshments.

tion of the splendid and sportsmanlike game put up by the McGill Rugby team. After a McGill yell by Varsity, and cheers for Varsity by McGill, the company broke up to enable the Montreal boys to meet their several engagements for the evening.

Correspondence

Editors Note—To secure publication all correspondence addressed to the Varsity must be signed by the writer. If desired a pseudonym may be used and the writer's name (furnished merely as an evidence of good faith) will not be published. Sorry we cannot use "Cask" letter to-day, but it will appear in Wednesday's issue, if he will be good enough to leave his name at the "Varsity" office in the meantime.

THE SWIMMING TANK

Toronto, Ont.
Oct. 20, 1921

The Editor, Varsity.
Dear Mr. Editor:
May I be permitted to use a little of your valuable space in bringing to light one of our little grievances, namely, the keeping out of men from the Hart House plunge while swimming classes are going on. Also, from approximately a quarter past five until a quarter to six, the most convenient hour for general swimming, the men are barred from the pool while the senior water-polo team practice.

While the situation remains thus, men from P.S. and other faculties, having a full curriculum, are practically prevented from using the tank all as they "cut."

I hope that those in authority will see the matter in this light and take immediate steps to remedy this state of affairs.

Very truly yours,
TADPOLE.

HART HOUSE SHOWERS

The Editor, Varsity.

Dear Sir:

We are informed by lesser lights around Hart House that there is no use in making complaints about affairs that need adjusting in any department to the committee in charge of the section concerned. It seems that the only way to get results is to air our grievances to the Varsity. The particular grievance registered is in regard to the condition of the Hart House showers. A great many of them reminds one of the old whizzing affairs we used to see at Cateau de la Hais and other rest resorts. A good cleaning of the outlet apparatus, or a repunching of the holes might help things considerably. The untidy condition of the locker rooms deserves mention. A little more care on the part of those using them would improve the appearance of the place.

Still a further suggestion before we break off. How about removing the fence around the front campus? Surely it is no longer necessary.

Yours, etc.
Von Populi

ROOTERS' YELL

To the Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Mr. Editor:
It distressed me and others with whom I have talked, to note the change in the spirit of the Varsity songs and parodies within the last two years. In the old days—up to 1914—the idea was to glorify our own team individually and collectively, to express our appreciation of their work in both ups and downs (no pun intended), and perhaps to scoff a bit occasionally at the enemy. The last year or two, however, we seem to have been singing a kind of modified "Hymn of Hate."

Can any of you think back with me as far as 1909, '10, '11 and '14 when Hugh MacLennan, Smilie Lawton, Laddie Cassels, and other historic characters played and won championships for Varsity? In those days we sang "Come on and see, come on and see, Jack Maynard's football band, They can buck a line and catch a ball and punt it to the sky," etc., and "The Queen's men have a rugby team of fourteen husky men, When they were champs, why they were champions, On that we'll bet a vowel," etc., and "Look out, look out for Varsity's half back line," etc., and "Put your arms around him, Bobby, hold him tight," etc., and at the famous game in 1914, "Poor McGill, we pity poor McGill, McKenzie kicks the ball so high, The outside wings they can't get by, Gammy gets down on his knee, Wonder what we're going to see," etc.

None of it is very nice and certainly it is vile verse, but it made the students of the University take a personal and intimate interest in the players, and certainly it did not hurt it necessary to be like the opposing team in order to bring out the merits of its own. The new spirit seems to come out in songs like:

"Montreal is wavering, her pride's about to fall, Montreal is wavering, she cannot kick the ball," etc., and "What's the matter with old McGill? Down and out," etc.

Even the "Doxology" displays anything but the most sportsmanlike spirit. I am not blaming any one in particular, but I wonder if our rising young poets and authors in submitting parodies and yells for the big game on the 20th cannot forget McGill a bit and remember our own team and coach and the work they've done. In other words, "Boost for all you're worth, but don't knock!"

Sincerely,
F.T.F.

FOURTH YEAR DANCE

8.30 p.m., November 11, is the time, the Metropolitan Assembly Rooms the place—we leave the girl to you. Duncan's Orchestra has been secured for the occasion. Informal. Further notice later meanwhile keep the date open.

TOIKE OIKESTRA

Toike Oikestra will practice at 7.30 to-night in C.22. Every School musician is expected to be on hand as the Alumni Reunion, at which the orchestra is to perform, is to be held in the near future. Music for "Spasms" must also be discussed and arranged.

APPLIED SCIENCE GRADUATION PHOTOS

The Torontonensis Committee again request all members of Fourth Year School who have not as yet made appointments, with Mr. Aylett, the official class photographer, to give the matter their attention as soon as possible. Appointments may be made at the Studio, 96 Yonge Street or by phoning Main 1098.

S.P.S. DEBATING CLUB

All years must turn out to-night to the first lecture in Public Speaking by Prof. Graves, of Victoria. This is a general lecture and is open to everyone but is obligatory to those who wish to take the course afterwards. It will be in the Lecture Room at 8 p.m., Monday, October 24. There is important business to transact, so everybody must be there.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

All School vocalists and those having aspirations to the title are asked to turn out at 4.30 this afternoon in C.22. "Spasms" is not very far in the offing and if the success of School's debut in the realms of art (?) is to be repeated, all those musically interested must begin work at once. A quartette will be picked out this afternoon and though their identity is not yet known they are already scheduled for an engagement on Thursday evening.

MINING AND METALLURGY CLUB

There will be a "scene of revelry by night" in the East Common Room of Hart House beginning at 8 p.m. this evening (Monday, October 24). The function is the first general meeting of the Mining and Metallurgy Club and will take the form of an informal social. Proceedings will open with an indoor baseball game, which will give the "ex-muckers" of Kirkland Lake and the Hollinger an opportunity to display their reputed prowess. One of the most interesting events of the evening will be a talk on the Mackenzie Oil Fields by a fourth year man who has first-hand knowledge on the subject. Every miner and metallurgist is cordially invited to rally round and make the first smoker of the season a big success. Yes, there will be eats.

275 CLASS PINS

President Norman, of 275 S.P.S., announces that a prize of Five Dollars will be given by his class for the best design submitted for a class pin. The contest is open to all Varsity students regardless of faculty, and designs should be in the President's hands as early as possible. The Engineering Society Executive are desirous that the design should be of a permanent character so that in future all class pins will be alike except in the number of the graduation year. Fuller particulars will be given in notices posted in the Engineering Building. This contest should form an excellent opportunity for "Dents" to even the score on the "School-Kids," one of whom was the successful designer of the heading of the Dentistry column.

BLUE AND WHITE WIN FROM MCGILL IN FIRST OF BRITISH RUGBY SERIES

Varsity Defence Too Much For McGill - Score 6-0

Varsity played the first Intercollegiate British Rugby game, the Blue and White emerging victorious 6 to 0. The game was fast and made great demands on the condition of the players. There was a good deal of reckless passing and the kicking throughout was up to the mark, neither side getting distance to their kicks.

First Half
Varsity kicked off against the wind and the ball was returned into touch at mid-field. From the throw-in Varsity forced the play and dribbled the ball into McGill territory several times only to have Anglin relieve by booting to centre. The Varsity forwards showed a marked superiority over the Red and White in hooking the ball out of the scrum. Play saw-sawed up and down the field. Varsity worked the ball to the McGill end and on a family play one of the McGill halves a Varsity man secured and went over for a try which was not converted. Score, Varsity 3, McGill, 0. McGill pressed from the kick-off and aided by poor kicking by McNiven, kept the play in Varsity territory. Varsity were penalized but McGill failed to score in the free kick and a Varsity three-quarter touched down, the ball being kicked off from quarter way. McGill gained ground on two more penalty kicks but were unable to score, and the period ended.

Second Half

Play was very even in this period with the Varsity three-quarter line showing a slight superiority. Cline made some nice runs and Cable got in some clean tackling.

HARRIES ATTENTION!

All managers and men intending to run in the Brotherton Cup Race are reminded that certificates of eligibility, to be obtained at the Athletic Association Office, should be filled up and handed in at once.

SR. DENTS DOWN S.P.S. IN MULOCK CUP GAME

FINAL SCORE 9-1

On Friday afternoon, October 21, under ideal weather conditions Senior Dents and S.P.S. played their second game of the Muloock Cup Series. A large crowd of rooters from each faculty were there to cheer their team on to victory.

In the first quarter S.P.S. roused twice. Sidenburg, Dents' brainy little quarter-back, was injured but was able to continue after a few minutes. In this quarter the play was mostly in S.P.S. territory, both sides playing good rugby and making few errors. Quarter ended, Dents 2, S.P.S. 0.

Early in the second quarter Dents were penalized for interference. With this advantage S.P.S. pushed the ball down the field, kicked and forced Dents to rouse giving S.P.S. first and only tally. Campbell was injured and replaced by Smythe, Johnson replaced by Linghorne. Quarter ended, Dents 2, S.P.S. 1.

Shortly after beginning of the third quarter Coons made a spectacular run of about 50 yards to within 4 yards of touch line. Dents made first touch on third down, Sidenburg carrying the ball over himself. Coons failed to convert. Shortly after S.P.S. were forced to rouse. Quarter ended, Dents 3, S.P.S. 1. Dents had things very much their own way in this quarter.

Varsity got another try in this period from a clever passing run. Varsity failed to convert. McGill forced the play but the Varsity defence strengthened and play was at mid-field when the whistle blew. Final score: Varsity, 6; McGill, 0.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

Varsity calls on you now as she never has called before. For the crucial games that are to come we need your assistance. Varsity needs you at the Rooters' Practices Tuesday and Thursday nights and you will say "Yes!" Don't come merely because you can secure Rooters' tickets by so doing but come with the idea of supporting Varsity in the way the men of Queen's and McGill support their representatives. Come with the idea that you will help your team to play the game and win—and Varsity we're going to win, we're going to beat McGill and Queen's and win the title again. McGill's triumphant victory over George Avey's twelve on Saturday shows us that we must give our all if we are to win. But we have done it, we can do it, and we will do it—with YOUR help. The importance of the assistance that can be rendered by each individual Varsity man and woman cannot be over-estimated. If each man leaves it for someone else to be at Rooters' Practice our cause is lost. If each one shoulders a share of the burden, the result of Saturday's game will show you the value to a team of a united undergraduate Rooters' Club. Tuesday and Thursday at 5 o'clock in Examination Hall—those are the dates; remember them.

VARSITY SECONDS DEFEAT WESTERN McGILL WINNER IN TRACK MEET

Interesting Game Gives Varsity Victory—22-5

In an Intermediate Intercollegiate Rugby game on Saturday the Varsity Second team defeated the Western University twelve by 22-5. From a spectator's point of view the contest was very interesting, the huge difference in score, not at all indicating the respective merits of the teams. Fumble by the Western halves proved costly, while no score resulted directly from the mistakes of the Varsity half line.

However, Varsity deserved the victory because of their never tiring efforts. On two occasions they bucked from their own 15 yard line for a touch, while defensively they more than held the Western line.

The Western back division certainly deserve credit for their showing. Traynor's kicking and Cline's running featuring the Western team's play.

On the Varsity team Ketchum played brilliantly, kicking two pretty field-goals, while Cline handled the team with precision.

Carruthers Breaks Discus Record

Bright sunshine and a stiff cold wind vied with each other to make it mar the initial Intercollegiate Track Meet held in the new Stadium of the Tricolours at Kingston last Friday.

Despite the cold, championship form was shown throughout, and the breaking of two records by Blue and White competitors made it a meet of special note.

The phenomenal performance of McAniff, who broke the Intercollegiate three mile record by thirty-three seconds was the event of the meet. His time was fifteen minutes and forty-two seconds.

Carruthers, in spite of his injuries, captured two firsts and a third and in winning the Discus threw broke the old record by over four feet. He also romped in first in the Hurdles with Rowell an easy second.

The individual star of the meet was undoubtedly Johnston of McGill, who not only won first in the hundred, two hundred and quarter, but also made a creditable showing in the Relay, which was won by McGill. He was closely pressed in all three events by Hay of McGill, who also ran in the relay. Hamilton, President of the McGill Athletic Association, made a splendid showing the mile and half mile with a first and a second respectively. Bicknell, of Toronto, easily won the Pole Vault and Turner carried off first honours in the Running High. Lively won the Running Broad, so although the Red and White were returned winners with a score of 71 against Varsity 54 we can not be other than pleased at the Blue

ST. MIKE'S DEFEAT GUELPH IN INTERMEDIATE RUGBY

FINAL SCORE 14-4

St. Michael's defeated O.A.C. by 14 to 4 in the Intermediate Intercollegiate game played at Guelph on Saturday.

A strong wind blowing down the field made kicking and passing uncertain. Both teams played splendid rugby and the issue was in doubt until the last quarter. The O.A.C. team appeared much heavier than St. Michael's.

In the first period O.A.C. took advantage of the strong wind and scored points. St. Mike's lost much ground by poor passing.

Former opened the second period for St. Mike's by kicking a point from his own twenty yard line. O.A.C. ploughed up the field twice without result, St. Mike's driving them back for a point each time. With O.A.C. in possession on their own ten yard, McGee broke through and intercepted a pass, going over the line for the only touch of the game. Lebel converted.

In the third quarter both teams tightened up and play became very strenuous. Former kicked well against the wind. O.A.C. obtained possession on St. Mike's ten yard twice, but lost on downs trying for a touch.

Wildman finally kicked the last point for O.A.C. Immediately after, Dillon broke through for a spectacular run for a point.

At the beginning of the fourth period, Lampligher cirked the end for fifteen yards and Former kicked another point. The O.A.C. obtained possession on the dead line. Claus, Patterson and Haggie made yards twice for O.A.C. but Kennedy and Lebel came back for twenty yards on an end run and Former kicked another point. From quarter way Haggie maneuvered a pretty twenty yard run. Another point by Former completed the scoring. The only serious casualty was Caron, who had his knee twisted.

Dillon was the star of the game, his ball carrying and tackling being a treat. F. McKeown, Lebel, Kennedy and Former were also in evidence for St. Mike's. Haggie, Claus, Patterson and Cockburn played well for O.A.C. the tackling of the latter being particularly effective.

St. Mike's—Halves: Lebel, Former, McKeown, inside: Haggie, Cockburn, middle: Bart, Caron; outside: M. Lampligher, rover: Kennedy, snapback: Dore; flying wing: Dillon, subs: James, Lynch, Brink, McGee.
O.A.C.—Halves: McMillan, Wildman, Dawson, inside: Coon, Snyder; middle: Claus, Patterson; outside: Cockburn, Lampligher; rover: Lindal; snapback: Mutrie, flying wing: Paulin; subs: Smith, Haggie, Beatty, Purdy.

ATTENTION! HARRIES

On Saturday, October 29, the Intercollegiate Harrie Race will be held over the old course, starting from Rosedale grounds at 10:30 a.m. As it is from the result of this race, that the Intercollegiate team is chosen, every man should be working hard to make this year's team the best ever. Every man must sign an eligibility certificate and these must be filed along with all entries in the Athletic office before 5:00 p.m. (Wednesday, October 26).

I stubbed my toe and swore, just once; 'Twas as we walked the track.

She slipped me hard upon the mouth And then I slapped her back.

Romp Home on Long End of 7-4 Score

On Saturday morning, October 22nd, the Varsity III's invaded the stronghold of Drury's henchmen and came home on the long end of a 7 to 4 score. The Aggie's senior team outwitted the Varsity team by many pounds and the light stalwarts of the blue and white found the going very heavy.

There was a very strong wind blowing down the field and the Aggie's won the toss and had the wind at their backs for the first quarter. Soon after the quarter opened, the O.A.C. centre half lifted a high punt into the ozone at centre field and the wind carried the ball far over Varsity's dead line. O.A.C. were playing hard and fought to take advantage of the high wind when outside Varsity's quarter line. The play was inside Varsity's quarter for most of the period. Despite the fact that O.A.C. had the ball within Varsity's five yard line for three downs, they failed to add to their score. The quarter ended with the score O.A.C. 1, Varsity 1.

As soon as Varsity had the wind at their backs, they scored on every down and soon had O.A.C. on the defensive. The O.A.C. wings worked hard and plowed through the Varsity line for yards again and again. However, Varsity was not to be denied and before the quarter ended Coleman kicked to the deadline for a point, leaving the score at half-time, O.A.C. 1, Varsity 1.

O.A.C. took the field at the beginning of the third quarter with the wind behind them and kicked on every down. The high wind carried the ball around in weird style and the Varsity halves found the ball very hard to judge. Before the quarter ended O.A.C. had forced Varsity to rouse twice and gained their fourth point with a kick to the dead line. The third quarter ended with the score standing O.A.C. 4, Varsity 1.

With the wind at their backs in the fourth quarter, Varsity soon assumed the offensive and it was only the good work of the O.A.C. wings and halves which prevented the blue and white from running

It is important that the success of the Medical Company that all attend.

GRADUATING CLASS IN MEDICINE TO GIVE DANCE

The fifth year of the faculty of Medicine are planning to hold their graduate dance at Columbus Hall on November 2. The final year has always opened the social season with the Meds. with a grand ball on the highest order, and this year promises to outshine even the brilliant function of last. The pleasant memories of the last graduation dance still linger in the minds of those who were fortunate enough to be present, and if the one in the offing is going to outpoint its predecessor, well comment is hardly necessary.

We are told that all this is going for the medical students. Tickets may be obtained from any of the year presidents or Wally Wilson, Ly Gordon and T. L. Boyes, all of the hall. Reservations should be made early.

MEDICAL INITIATION

Can ghosts walk? Ask the "Med." freshmen! Since Friday night they have been in a state of mind on the question. On with it, and I'll describe everything as it unfolded. Procession at 8:15 p.m. at the Union the first initiation freshie was dragged through a salt bath and ashes and thirteen piglets before the count down to the time of ominously clanking chains and cracking fire. The saved and wiser freshies eventually entered fully initiated into the great secret of the cult. Once on the inside of the cult they proceeded to enjoy their life to the hilt as their seniors. Sapper was served by the Sophomores, and with Miss McLatchie of 211, as the toastmaster, a variety of toasts were given. Dr. Duff, Dr. Goss, and Miss Waddington both spoke splendidly as well as various members of the undergraduate body. The last toast was most interesting, that she had planned a fifty page toast, including a caput, corpus and cauda to speak, biologically, questions from the great poets, and much advice to Freshies. Unfortunately, she had omitted to bring the fifty odd pages and the audible sigh of disappointment was heard. The freshie doctors were very significant. The party was completed by the giving of the Toronto, Medical and individual class yell, with a lusty tiger for the Sophomores, the hostesses of the evening.

MULOCK CUP SERIES

Beginning Monday, October 24, the referee for each Mulock Cup game shall be appointed by the Rugby Executive. The referee shall be a paid official and shall have complete control of the game. The umpire shall be appointed by the captain or managers of the opposing teams. He will not be paid. His duties, as defined by the C.R.U. rules, are as follows:

(1) (3) The umpire shall have power to stop the game by sounding a whistle for any infringement of the rules regarding offside, charging, kicking, obstructing, or rough or unfair play, but the penalty, if any, shall be inflicted by the referee only.

Managers please note that "within 24 hours after a game the manager of each team must file with the Secretary of the Athletic Association (Mr. Reel) a report of the game containing the names of the players participating, the names of the officials and the score.

Referees for the week of October 24 are: Oct. 24—Sr. Meds at Sr. School, W. A. Hewitt.

Oct. 24—Knox at St. Mikes, J. W. Douglas.

Oct. 25—Jr. Arts at Jr. School, W. A. Hewitt.

Oct. 27—Forestry at Knox, J. W. Douglas.

Oct. 27—Jr. Meds at Jr. Arts, referee to be appointed later.

Oct. 28—Jr. Dents at Jr. School, J. W. Douglas.

Newman Club

The first Newman Club smoker of the year was held in the Clubhouse at 97 St. Joseph Street, on last Friday night. Mr. George Brennan, the President, gave a few words appropriate to the occasion. He then called upon Mr. Sinnott for a solo.

The President next introduced Mr. J. Lohrke, who took it upon himself to amuse those present.

Mr. F. Phelan, an old friend of Newman Club, spoke of the opportunity afforded by Newman Club. "The Club," he said, "gave to those who took advantage of its opportunities the social life so stressed by Cardinal Newman."

Rev. J. Burke, the rector, spoke of the generosity of the previous speakers and entertainers, and appealed to the members to be worthy of the Club and its high ideals.

Mr. Paul Ward, also a graduate of the University of Toronto, asked the assistance of the members in the coming campaign for the Federated Charities of the city.

275, U.C. NOW IN FULL FELLOWSHIP, EXIT CAPS

Sophomores Receive The Guests Informally

On Friday, October 21, at 7:30 p.m., the male members of the Twenty four family held a delightful informal reception for Messrs. Toothythree and Toothytoo assisted in the reception of the guests, all of whom looked very smart in their striking and original costumes.

One at a time they came through the narrow portal, and promptly abandoned hope and nearly everything else. Such as still cling fondly to their two-coloured headgear were ruthlessly dragged by the savage guardians of the gate.

A continuous deafening clatter arose from the frenzied knocking of Freshmen's knees as they were handed along the straight and narrow path, losing on the way all that portion of their raiment that lay north of the equator, and with it the last shreds of human dignity.

For lo, marvelous to relate, they went on all fours, even as the beasts of the field, or as lambs to the slaughter. Yet for all that they were not all slaughtered. In fact gentleness was the order of the day. They were even carefully dragged that they might suffer less. And if they didn't have a sweet time it wasn't for lack of molasses.

As their pilgrimage proceeded they advanced rapidly in the scale of evolution, rising in a very short time from the level of creeping and crawling things to that of the painted savage. "Save the surface and you save all," was the cry. At any rate, each one sported as much paint as the alleged Freshie, and all the powder that would stick on.

A mighty "Toronto" raised the rafters a few inches, thereby putting the lights out of business (my own explanation; commentators do not accept it). After the lights went out everybody else followed.

Trinity

"That as a means of Christianizing the world the foreign mission system has lost its usefulness," was the question that was already discussed of the first regular party debate of the Trinity College Literary Institute on Friday evening. The affirmative was held by the Government, represented by John Lowe, while W. A. Brown led the negative. Both speakers were exceptionally good in style and language, but Mr. Lowe's arguments were the stronger, and when the vote was taken the Government Party was upheld.

Dentistry

Great enthusiasm was shown in the Pre-Dental Elections held on Oct. 20. Every man—and both ladies—turned out to vote. The following were elected: President—Myles. Vice-President—Myles. Sec. Treas. (acclamation) Miss F. Cowan. R. D. S. Rep. Edmonds. S. A. Council—Bollen. Garland. Leach. Track—Vince. Swimming—Sprule. P. R. Porter. Boxing, Fencing, etc.—Brown. Basketball—Day. Soccer—Lennox. A cordial invitation is extended to all men graduates, undergraduates or members of the faculty, who are in any way interested in the Fine Arts and more particularly the Graphic Arts, to attend the first open meeting of the Sketch Club. This meeting will be held on the evening of Tuesday, October 25th at 8 o'clock in the Club room at Hart House. An outline of the activities of the club for this season will be forthcoming, together with the announcement of the conditions of the competition to take place immediately. Mr. C. W. Jeffery, the well-known Toronto artist, has consented to speak on "Canadian Art," a subject which should be of special interest to us all.

An urgent request is also made that all former members of the club be on hand to attend a short business meeting which will start at 7:45 o'clock sharp. Advertise this notice among your friends and bring a crowd with you.

up a big score. Before the quarter ended Sprule fell on a loose ball which an O.A.C. half fumbled and Teagle rounded the left end on the first down for a touch down. Coleman converted. There was no further scoring and the game ended with the score standing, Varsity 7, O.A.C. 4.

The outstanding players of the day were Smith, C. A. and Heggie, of the O.A.C. team, while Coleman, Sprule and Teagle played well for Varsity.

AUTUMN TEA

A most successful autumn tea was held in East and West Halls on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the W.U.A. In the opening address the toastmaster, Miss Waddington, expressed her appreciation of the honour of representing the W.U.A., the real centre of the college interests and activities.

Miss Adelaide McDonald responded to the toast "Our College." "Play the game," she said, "choose the line of action in your college life to which you are best suited and do your best."

Mrs. Grant Brown, speaking for the wives of the faculty, stated their desire for closer touch with the girls, for which purpose a series of faculty teas will be given, beginning Thursday, November 3.

A keen appreciation of U.C. was expressed in Miss Gretchen Gladman's response to "Our Sister Colleges."

The toast to the "Alumnus and the New Buildings," declared Mr. McCrae, "linked sentiment with practical effort and augured well for the success of the undertaking."

The most interesting programme was concluded with a toast to the Freshies, responded to by Miss Maude Standing.

AND WHY I CAME TO COLLEGE

For some time past it has been the custom of the Department of English in this University to give the first year students this subject for their first essay. "Who I am and why I came to College." No one could experience difficulty in answering the first clause, but even after four years at college, it is difficult for some people at least to answer adequately and honestly the second question. Why do we come to college? Some young people are sent by their families; not, as they imagine, for the negative purpose of being rid of them or of keeping them out of mischief, but that they might spend four impressionable years surrounded by that which is best and most progressive in science and literature. In this atmosphere they should grow up, mentally, and learn to think for themselves.

Often we find in our midst men and women who are not real students but who merely sit in a good time with a minimum of work. These people have reversed the purpose of a university which is study first, then play, not amusement, first, last and only, with study in the few odd moments left. However, the registrar usually disposes of these individuals before they go very far.

Others come of their own accord to college, often working their way, for they realize clearly the great value of a college education and of college life. If these students follow a profession such as the medical or legal, they leave college fitted to enter that profession, their life work is awaiting them. If they acquire a liberal education which leads to the responsibilities of a life. After that race is run the physical benefits of the training for a race. After that we have forgotten the actual facts we learned in college the benefit in the developing and broadening of our minds and sympathies lasts as long as life.

THE FRONT CAMPUS

It has gone. The unsightly fence around the front campus is a thing of the past, and for the first time in eight years the "Varsity Lawn" looks itself again. The front campus, in years past one of the most beautiful lawns of its kind in the country, but it required a great deal of care and work to keep it in condition.

With the outbreak of war both the "Lawn" and the "Campus" were of necessity sacrificed to the great cause, as were many similar playing fields in the Old Country, and the fields that throughout many student generations had rung again and again with the tramp of the twenty-two men resounded to the tramp of hundreds. The war won, we all looked for a return to the old peace-time conditions. But it took many months of toil, repeated ploughing and harrowing, involving great expenditure, and then the sowing and many further months of careful watching to restore the broken field to its one-time grandeur.

It was not with a primary view to the removal of the fence, but to accommodate those students who have occasion to use the field for games. It is to be sincerely hoped that all members of the University, whatever their standing, will remember that the Campus is not intended to be used as a thoroughfare, and will refrain from making paths across it.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE VARSITY is very glad to welcome GOLDBIN, who makes his first appearance for the year 1921-22 to-day. It is, indeed, living up to his reputation.

NOTICES

Correspondence

To the Sporting Editor of Varsity.
Dear Sir:
Would you kindly explain, through the columns of your paper, why rugby is called a "gridiron sport"? I have asked several people who know the game, but they were unable to give me information on this point.
Yours truly,
J. C. McL.

Modern Language Club

The Modern Language Club held a most successful and enjoyable meeting on Monday evening at the Women's Union, 85 St. George Street. As this was the first meeting of the season the large attendance was very encouraging and showed the increasing interest which is being shown in the Club.
After the reading of the minutes, the new President, Miss Dorothy Arthur, gave a short address in which she welcomed the members and briefly outlined the programme for the coming season. The annual play will be given shortly after Christmas.
Nominations for the first year representatives were then received. The following were nominated for Lady Representatives, Miss Emma Wallace, Miss Margaret Craw and Miss Doris Johnson. Mr. McNaught was elected General Representative by acclamation.

Professor de Champ gave a very interesting address on "Maria Chapdelaine," a French novel by Louis Hemon, a well-known French-Canadian author. During the evening Mr. Grant, of S.P.S., rendered a pleasing vocal solo.
After the meeting adjourned a very pleasant evening was brought to a close by refreshments and dancing.

C.O.T.C. MEDICAL COMPANY

The members of the Medical Company, numbering over thirty, met for organization purposes at the corp headquarters, Medical Corps lines, along Army Avenue, on Monday, October 24. The meeting was addressed by Colonel Lang. The purpose of the meeting was to select drill periods and to elect officers and to begin that work as soon as permission is received from Ottawa. Indoor baseball teams will be organized in each company and it is expected that a corps team will be chosen to represent the University at the barracks where they were champions for three consecutive years.

Victoria

The Orchestra is away to a good start this year, having already had two practices with over twenty members present. It is interlarded in interest as the members represent Arts, S.P.S., Forestry, Meds. and Dents. There is still an opportunity, however, for as many more who care to join. Come and enjoy it once at least, and you will always come! Thursday night, Annesley Hall Common Room.

University College

272 U.C.
The members of the class are requested to make an appointment to have their photograph taken with Mr. Aylett, 98 Yonge Street, the official class photographer, as soon as possible. For your special convenience the afternoon of Friday, October 28th, and Monday, October 31st, have been reserved, and you are recommended to make your appointment for one of those times.

Biographical forms, which have to be filled in by each member of the class for "Torontoensis," may be obtained from members of the "Torontoensis" Board from the U.C. Post Office, and should be returned to either of these sources when completed.

Don't forget your class party on Saturday, 7:30 p.m., in U.T.S. Let's show the other years we haven't forgotten the slogan we came in with "Pep." Leave your dignity and pessimism behind and you'll have one of the best times you've ever had.

BRITANNICA BARGAIN

It is not often that a set of the latest edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica can be bought at a bargain price. Just now we find two or three sets slightly rubbed. They will be sold at a liberal reduction. Come early if you want a set.

MINER'S SMOKER

The first general meeting of the Mining and Metallurgy Club was held in the East Common Room of Hart House on Monday, October 24 at 8 p.m. The meeting was in the form of a smoker, but was preceded by an indoor baseball game in which 272 and 273 attempted to demonstrate the fine points of the game. 272 gave up attempting early, and the smokers won in a romp. The score? We forget—anyway the score keeper was too long for 273.

After the game the "smokers" adjourned to the East Common Room where the ratons were brought up and the members went over the top. After reaching their objective they proceeded to mop up.
When everybody but 274 had eaten their fill the Freshmen were called on for their little act. This consisted of lining up and yelling the "Psalm of Life" at the top of their voices, apparently regardless of the music. It is said that the quartet for "Spasms" should not certainly have been picked from these rising young musical geniuses.

The piece de resistance of the evening came when the emcee miners vied with one another in the telling of many interesting stories. These sidelights on the profession were followed by singing and the meeting broke up shortly after 11 o'clock with school and college yells.

TOIKE OIKSTRA

There are still a few openings in the string section of Toike Oikstra for those who can qualify. The last practice was highly encouraging to the executive but a still larger attendance is looked for at 8 p.m. on Friday in C-22. Every School musician came prepared for a strenuous session as selection for the last approaching Alumni re-union must be got ready at once.

E. I. C.

The commencement of the meetings of the Toronto branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will doubtless be of interest to School men. Since full membership in the Institute represents the highest form of professional recognition, it would be wise to join the Institute now as a student member for a small fee, thus enabling the future engineer to be in personal contact with those of proven ability and wide experience.

At the next meeting, Thursday, Oct. 27, in room 22 of the Mining building, a lecture will be given on "Nickel Production and its uses," by C. E. MacDonald. It will be illustrated with motion pictures.

GLEE CLUB

As result of a meeting of S.P.S. vocalists held Monday afternoon, it has been decided to form a School Glee Club. There is no reason why such an organization should not be an immense success. School has the talent and School has the pep. All that is needed is a little enthusiastic publicity work by those already interested in the proposal. If the enthusiasm shown at the first meeting has been as a criterion of the general feeling in regard to the formation of a musical club, its success is already assured. Messrs. "Steady" Hamilton and "Tim" McQueen, the originators of the idea are assembling suitable songs for male chorus work and expect every School man who can sing, or think he can, to turn out at 4 p.m. Friday in C-22.

All freshmen of University College are requested to come on Thursday morning with $2.00 and get their membership card from any member of the executive.

TENNIS TEAM CHOSEN --- ROOTER'S PRACTICE TO-MORROW 5.00 P.M.

SR. SCHOOL DEFEATS SENIOR MEDS

Score 5-0

To begin with the School squad were nearly half an hour late in making their appearance. Added to this—The day was cold, ah, bitter! raw!

My new fall hat felt like a straw. Meds elected to defend the North goal. School kicked off. The kick was returned and when School lost 15 yards for interference and then failed to get their kick away they left themselves in a bad position. Opportunity knocking at the door found the Meds at home and they forced a rout. School again failed to get their kick off but McCallister relieved with a 15 yard gain through middle wing. Two good kicks by School took the ball to the other end but a fine run by Luke brought the ball back to centre from where Allan kicked for another rout.

Meds continued to press and Bell was called upon to run the ball out from behind the School line—he responded. Although Meds were playing against the wind they kicked to the dead-line. Instead of kicking on their third down School tried to buck for the necessary yards and failing to gain them, lost the ball. Meds promptly kicked another dead-line.

Second half—Meds had difficulty getting started. First they sent their kick-off into touch and then on their second attempt they were offside. School kicked and gained possession on a Mel fumble. They then tried an onside kick but the man who grabbed it wasn't outside so they lost the ball. With darkness stealthily creeping over the field Slim Bell made a fine kick. Most of his looting, however, was patterned after himself—high and thin.

In the fourth period School picked up and would have had a sure point if they hadn't been greedy and tried to stretch it into five.

VARSITY TENNIS TEAM FOR MONTREAL

The challenge matches for positions on the U. of T. Tennis team have been completed, two out of three of the team defending their positions successfully. Burrows, of Forestry won a place by defeating Ham, of Meds, the defeated finalist in straight sets 7-5, 6-3, 6-2. Scott of Meds held his place by defeating Wood of U.C., 3-6, 3-6, 2-6, 6-2, after a three hour match. Larkin of U.C. also held his place by defeating N. Endicott, of Victoria, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4.

The team expects to go to Montreal this week but the date is not yet settled. As Gullett won in both singles and doubles only five men will be on the team. The singles players will be Gullett, Burrows, Larkin and Scott. Gullett and Banbury will be the first doubles pair while the second will be formed from the other three singles players.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

At last the student body is to have a chance to see their champions of the gridiron in action. Saturday will be a gala day around Varsity. Are you going to be there?

Last year Varsity had the largest crowd that ever witnessed a rugby game in Canada. There were 13,000 people in the Stadium to see Varsity down McGill. This year McGill broke this record when they had 15,000 people there to see Varsity hold their stalwarts to a tie score. By the sale of tickets Varsity is going to go over the top again. The large stand has been completely sold out, by season tickets. The small stand at the end has been entirely sold. The reserved bleachers are almost gone. The rest of the bleachers will be sold out to the Rooters' Club.

The Varsity women have been given 600 of these tickets. That means that 600 women have practised the Varsity songs and yells faithfully and are going to attend the game on Saturday to lend the team their lusty support. That means that about 60 per cent. of the women will be there.

If the men turn out in the same proportion there will be about 3,000 at the Rooters' practices this week. That means that there will be about 3,600 students in the bleachers cheering their champions on to victory. That indeed will be a real support. It will prove in a no mean way that there is a real substantial thing called Varsity Spirit.

It is one thing to be present and sit in the bleachers and watch the game. It is quite another thing to sit there and play your part as a member of the Rooters' Club. The job of cheer-leading is no mean undertaking. It is a case of a sure man drawing simultaneous and intelligent support from several thousand individuals. It is quite obvious that this task is impossible unless each individual co-operates with the leader in obtaining this result. Therefore, it is necessary for each and every member of the Rooters' Club to give his utmost on Saturday in order that the best results might be obtained. Let's hear from you.

ANNUAL MEETING OF INDOOR BASEBALL CLUB

The executive of Indoor Baseball Club held a meeting on October 24th in order to get an early start for the season. It was decided to hold the Annual Meeting early in November.

Nominations for the following officers will be accepted up until November 2nd at the office of the Athletic Association. Hon. President, President, Secretary, Assistant Secretary.

All nominations must be handed in to the office of the Athletic Association and signed by two of the voting members. The voting members are:

- Members of last year's executive.
- Two playing representatives of each faculty having a team entered in the Spaulding Cup Series, to wit—Trinity, U.C., S.P.S., Dents, Victoria, Wycliffe, St. Mike's, O.C.E.

NOTICE—BASKETBALL

A meeting of the basketball managers of every faculty intending to enter a team in the Sutton Cup-series will be held in Hart House, opposite Athletic Office, on Monday, October 31st, at 5 p.m. As the grouping, schedule, etc., will be arranged at this meeting, it is imperative that a representative from every team be present. In the case of U.C., Meds., Dents, S.P.S. and Vic., both Senior and Junior divisions should be represented.

HARRIER NOTICE

Remember the time and place. Saturday morning, October 29, at 10.30 o'clock. The Brotherthon Cup Race starts from Rosedale Athletic grounds. Entries close at the Athletic Office, Hart House, at 5.00 p.m. Wednesday, October 26. All contestants are requested to be on hand at St. Andrew's College, not later than 10.00 a.m. Saturday in order to receive numbers.

JR. ARTS OVERWHELM JUNIOR SCHOOL

Score 23-8

Jr. Arts overwhelmed Jr. School on the last campus last night to the tune of 23 to 8. The game was interesting at all times. MacDonald and Pequequet, of U.C., ran well while Skathi's kicking was sensational. He had punted U.C.C. to the champion-ship of the little Big Four last year. He threatens to land U.C. high in the mts. already by night.

Sorby was best for School. His fifty-five yard run for 1 to 6, known was a dandy. "Bills" Hewitt handled the game nicely.

Jr. U.C.

KNOX TOO STRONG FOR ST. MIKE'S

Score 22-9

Knox College Mulock Rugby team proved too strong for St. Mike's Monday afternoon on the Vic. campus. There was a large crowd of rooters from the two clans.

Although the final score was very decisive, Knox did not carry off the honours without a hard fight to the very end.

St. Mike's were the first to draw blood, scoring three points in the first period. The weight of the Knox line, however, gradually told on their lighter opponents and in the second period locked over for two tries, one of which was converted. In the third period the Knox line again came into prominence, scoring their third try. In the final period the determined efforts of St. Mike's were rewarded with a touchdown which was converted, making the final score 22-9.

For Knox, Nickelton, McLenan and Anderson were best, breaking through for a number of long runs. For St. Mike's the punting of Vibey and the running of Murphy saved them from a much larger score.

INTERMEDIATE RUGBY STANDING

The game between St. Mike's and Varsity II has been postponed from Wednesday, October 30th to Thursday, 27th. St. Mike's and Varsity II are so far tied for the leadership as both have defeated O.A.C. and Western.

St. Hilda's

The informal dance held last Thursday evening at St. Hilda's in aid of the college Athletic Society was a decided success. The shelter installed in the hall cheerfully robed the guests of their gold as they entered. Miss C. W. Wright and Mrs. D. G. Wright acted as chaperones, while the guests were served by Miss Gretchen Tolman, H. J. of College, and Miss Phyllis Young, President of the Athletic Society.

A talk on France, "was the chief item on the programme of the meeting of the St. Hilda's Literary Society which took place Monday evening. As the speaker, Miss Scott, has just returned from a three months' sojourn in France, her address was extremely interesting. Assuming that the majority of her hearers would at some time or other visit France, Miss Scott gave many suggestions which should prove helpful to the stranger in that country. Miss Robertson delivered two very fine readings, while selections from a "Ukulele Trio" completed a very enjoyable programme.

The Annual St. Hilda's Sale will be held in the Common room of St. Hilda's College on November 3, from four to six. Do your Christmas shopping early by visiting the Fancy-work and Art Tables, at which many dainty trifles as well as useful articles, may be purchased. Tea will also be served between the hours of four and six.

Medicine

From the flood of applications received for tickets for the Fifth Year Dance, the attendance is going to break all records. Its success is now completely assured and those desiring to attend are strongly advised to see Wally Wilson, Boyer, Ty Gordon or any of the year presidents as soon as possible. Columbia Hall on November 2, the day are afraid, will not hold everyone in the Faculty, and it will be a question of first come first served. The Faculty, Girls, etc., are practicing hard for the event, and the referees are working far into the night seven nights a week devising new dilemmas for the various classes of the guests.

We were pleased to see so many Meds at the Rooter's practice last evening. It is a fine for Saturday. We still lack some fifty-even of the requisite seven hundred and fifty, and those must be on Friday. It is going to be a great and glorious day and you will never forgive yourself if you miss it.

Juniors and Senior Meds Rugby team have both won games. They deserve your support Meds. Watch the Varsity for future dates and turn out and give them the old Roystons.

A big open meeting of the Medical Society will be held in the House on Thursday evening at 7.30. Professor J. J. R. Macdonald, the assistant Dean will be the speaker of the evening. This will not be a lecture. Refreshments will be served and the whole evening will take the form of a smoker.

New Publication For Trinity

A new publication has made its bow to the students of Trinity College in the shape of the "Western Wail." The first issue appeared Monday morning. Although the circulation was not great and the size of the paper was small, the welcome given the first issue augurs well for the paper's success in the future.

One has only to pursue the list of the editorial staff to feel sure that the publication will provide many wafts of wit and wisdom.

The next issue of the Western Wail will appear on Friday and its advent is being anxiously looked forward to.

HERBERT TRACEY ON LABOUR PROBLEMS

Mr. Herbert Tracey will address the students in Knox College this evening discussing labour problems of the day. All interested are cordially invited. 6.30 sharp.

U.C. 2721 ATTENTION!

Don't forget the Halloween Party to be held at U.T.S. on Saturday evening, October 29th, at 7.30 p.m.

The first twilight recital held in the Music Room of Hart House yesterday at 5 p.m. was an undoubted success. The committee are certainly to be congratulated on the excellence of their choice of artists. Mr. Holt, the Hon. President, was more than pleased with the excellent attendance notwithstanding the many counter attractions. Mr. Harold West, of the Toronto Conservatory, pianist, assisted by Mr. Ernest Morgan, baritone, provided the interesting programme.

Mr. West chose for his first number a Gavotte by Gluck-Brahms, and very favourably impressed his audience. Mr. West has improved since last season. His playing is never harsh to the ear and technical difficulties seem perfectly mastered.

Mr. Morgan followed Mr. West with a group of three short songs. The first, "I Love Thee," by Grieg, amply demonstrated Mr. Morgan's fine vocal ability. He possesses a well-trained baritone voice of smooth quality and he sang difficult intervals with a satisfying surety and perfect intonation. The sombre melody of "The Double" by Schubert, was well sustained, and Mr. Morgan gave this selection a sympathetic interpretation. The dramatic possibilities in Mr. Morgan's voice were shown in his third number, "The Asia," by Rubinstein. It is a song, oriental in colour, and the singer gave it a quite suggestive rendition. In fact, it proved so popular with the audience that he was prevailed upon to give an encore. He responded with an old English folksong, "He Stole My Tender Heart Away." Mr. Philip Clark provided a very sympathetic and subdued accompaniment and lent not a little to Mr. Morgan's success. Mr. West concluded the programme.

VARSITY VETERANS INFORMAL DANCE
NOVEMBER THE NINTH AT THE ARCADIA

with a group of four selections. The first, a List Etude in F minor, demonstrated again Mr. West's polished technique. Well finished trills and sparkling scales featured this number. "The Dance of Puck," by Debussy, proved quite popular. The whimsical, fleeting harmonies so typical of Debussy were in evidence here, and Mr. West featured his performance with good attack and pure crisp staccato. Mr. West completed his interesting programme with the List Rhapsodie No. 11. Its technical difficulties were apparently of no moment to Mr. West for he gave the number a fine sustained rendering and made its beautiful melodies so popular with the audience that they demanded an encore. He very graciously acceded to their request and completed a most interesting and delightful programme.

Applied Science

The next regular meeting of the E.I.C. is to be held in Room C-22 of the Chemistry and Mining Building on Thursday, of this week at 8.15 p.m.

Mr. C. E. MacDonald, formerly of International Nickel Co., will deliver the address, entitled: "Nickel Production and Uses."

The production of nickel alone, involves many branches of engineering, and its uses still others. So the subject on the whole, should prove of real interest to a large number of "Ye Budding Engineers."

S.P.S. DEBATING CLUB

To a large attendance of the School Debating Club Professor Grears of Victoria delivered the first of a series of lectures on public speaking.

This lecture was a bird's eye view of the subject and in his humorous manner the Professor showed many of the common mistakes made by platform speakers in the tone of voice. Another point he emphasized, was that the speaker must, himself, appreciate his subject and concentrate upon it.

In speaking on tone he clearly showed that throaty, nasal and rasping voices are painful to the audience as well as himself. Although, he said, a man might break every rule and principle and still succeed through sheer force of personality.

At the conclusion of his lecture Professor Grears told the members that at his next lecture he would expect every one to read and he would criticize their mistakes.

The coming debate with the Dents was announced. It will be held on November 2nd in one of the lecture rooms of the Dental College.

The "spirit of sportsmanship" might be given as the subject of a short talk by Professor C. H. C. Wright to School men. The Dominion, he said, looks to the universities for their examples and it is our duty to set these. He recalled many instances of sportsmanship displayed by Varsity rooters in pre-war days. The deference shown the opposing teams by Varsity and other universities is most commendable and is different to the spirit so noticeable on the baseball field. The McGill team should be treated as guests.

Dentistry

In each of the past four issues this column has been written by a different member of the Dental repertorial staff and a duty poster has been drawn up by the Dental Associate Editor which will ensure a full column each issue without the burden of the work devolving on one man. We need more reporters, especially in the years other than 273. Any one with journalistic ability or ambitions is welcome. See R. A. Williams of Class 2 B. 273, the Dental Associate Editor, and talk the matter over. A prize will be given for the best column each month. Responsible this issue—H. P. Mang.

Next issue, W. A. Miller.
Monday, October 31, W. L. Meldrum.
Wednesday, November 2, J. H. Edgecombe.

If you have anything of interest that should be told see the man responsible for the next issue.

R.D.C.S.! Columbia Hall!! Jardine's Orchestra!!! These are the magic words which proved so effective in bringing together two hundred Dents and their lady friends on the evening of October 21. Many days in advance of the occasion all available tickets had been taken for this the first of the Dance of the season.

Under the kind patronage of Mrs. Seombe, Mrs. McDonough, Mrs. McLaurin and Mrs. Grant and with Dr. Seombe acting as representative of the faculty the function could not have been otherwise than successful, and this event too, has given the enjoyment characteristic of our social events of former years. Mr. Renton, President of the At Home Committee and conducting the affair in such a highly efficient manner and everyone is looking forward to the recurrence of such a happy event.

In a game replete with many thrills, the Dental soccer eleven took the Knox College team into camp by a score of 4-0. The play throughout the game was very close and strenuous. For the first ten minutes Dents could not get going and were being pressed by the opposing forwards. After twenty minutes of play Dents rushed the ball by nice combination play towards Knox goal and scored after a scrimmage in front of the goal. The outstanding features of the game were Griffin's stellar performance in goal and the combination play of the forward line. The Dental goalie made some sensational stops and came to the rescue of what looked like sure goals.

Robinson, the speedy centre man, notched two beautiful tallies while Crichton and Rowland scored one a piece on passes from the wings. Rintoul, Dreyer and Mitchell were the stars for Knox.

Dents lined up as follows:

GREAT OPPORTUNITY OFFERED BY BRITISH COLONIAL OFFICE

Sir Robert Falconer is in Receipt of Communication of Interest to Overseas Men

POSTS VACANT IN PROTECTORATE

Age Limit Between Twenty-two and Thirty-Five

Sir Robert Falconer has received from the British Colonial Office a memorandum outlining a scheme for opening to graduates of Canadian Universities positions of an administrative, medical, and scientific nature in certain of the colonies and protectorates of the British Empire. The memorandum points out that applicants for these posts must have thoroughly the Great War or must have thoroughly satisfactory reasons for not having done so, and that they should be not younger than twenty-two years of age nor older than thirty-five.

The President suggests that students who are interested in this proposal should watch for a further announcement which will be ready within a few days and that they should send him their names with particulars of their qualifications.

The following paragraphs from the memorandum referred to may be of interest:

"There is a good deal of evidence that the interest of Canadians in other parts of the Empire, and particularly in the problems of administration in native countries, has been greatly quickened by the war, and it is probable that if the opportunity were offered a certain number of young Canadian University graduates of the highest stamp might be ready to help in peace as they did with such marked effect in war. The most practical and interesting field for their activities would seem to be in the various services which administer the colonies and protectorates of the Empire.

The main advantages of such a scheme would be:

(1) The opening of a new and interesting field of work to a certain number of young Canadians, giving them experience of life in new countries and under entirely novel conditions.

(2) The Colonial Service would undoubtedly gain, if the system of selection were sound, by the inclusion of picked representatives of the great Canadian Universities, whose powers of leadership and organization were so conspicuously proved in the war.

(3) The inclusion of Canadians in the Colonial Service should tend to a definite increase in Canada of a real knowledge and understanding of the problems and achievements of the Empire amongst native races, the burden of which has heretofore been carried almost exclusively on the shoulders of Great Britain.

(4) If Canadians took a definite share in such work the bond between Canada and the rest of the Empire would be tightened in a modest but highly practical fashion.

The colonies and protectorates for which such posts are open from time to time are briefly the following:

(a) Tropical Africa, comprising—(On the east side of Africa, Kenya, Uganda, Nyaland, Somaliland and the Tanganyika Territory (the German East Africa), Zanzibar, (On the west side, Nigeria, the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone and the Gambia, (In Eastern Colonies and Protectorates, etc., e.g.,

Ceylon, Hong Kong, the Straits Settlements, the Malay States, Weihaiwei.

(c) The West Indian Colonies, e.g.—Jamaica, Barbados, Windward Islands, Leeward Islands, Trinidad, etc., together with British Guiana and British Honduras.

(d) Fiji and other islands in the Pacific, (e) Cyprus, Gibraltar and Malta, in the Mediterranean.

(f) Various islands, e.g., Mauritius, Seychelles, Bermuda, Falkland Islands and St. Helena."

COLOUR SCHEME
All taking part in the White Sewer Colour Scheme must be at the South-West entrance to Stadium at 12.30 p.m., sharp on Saturday or will have to take regular line-up.

S.A.C. REPRESENTATIVE TO BE ELECTED BY 273

There will be a mass meeting of the year's old dining hall on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock for the purpose of electing a representative to the Students' Administrative Council. Nominations addressed to the Secretary must be left at the Post Office not later than Tuesday, November 1st, before 10 a.m.

ROOTERS' NOTICE

Registration Cards must be presented when buying tickets. One ticket only per man.

Masquerade Tickets On Sale To-day

Committee Insist Upon the Wearing of Costumes

At last the lucky members of Hart House who have been fortunate enough to be able to place their names well on the subscription lists can secure the bit of pasteboard that will admit them to the "event of events." Conceding by all to have been the premier social event of last year, this year, the Masquerade will be the one event of outstanding importance in the social world of Varsity, and not only in Varsity, but also in our sister universities, for invitations will be sent to McGill, Queen's, R.M.C., Western and O.A.C. to send delegates to the Annual University. At Home.

It is indeed fitting that, in such a large University as ours we should gather once a year, without distinction either of Faculty or of year, to the great feast of the spirit and good spirits. It is too, a suitable way of showing our gratitude for the splendid gift of Hart House, the second anniversary of whose opening commemorates. What is there that will linger so long in the mind, as the memory of our fine new home, filled with the beauty and the cheer of the University? What could be more entrancing than the sight of so many gallantly bearded couples dancing smoothly to the strains of a wonderful orchestra, and illumined by many coloured lights?

We are indeed favoured, for we are making history. Perhaps, who knows, fifty years from now, our grand children will take part in the Annual Hart House Masquerade, a custom by that time will become so old that its beginnings will have grown somewhat hazy against the background of the homey old building which will have begun to accumulate traditions of its own.

So we hope that in that far off day the price will still be only a dollar and a half for a double ticket!

The tickets for the Masquerade will be placed on sale Friday at noon. Owing to the immediate demand for them the House Committee have decided to increase the number of invitations issued to 600. The student body believed that all those who attend will do their utmost to avoid any congestion in the halls, especially those near the big stage.

Faculty Members	53
Stewards	10
Total	600

By mistake, Victoria College, and the Ontario College of Education, were omitted from the list of those entitled to tickets, published on Wednesday.

The Committee wish again to emphasize the fact that the guests must come in costume. This may involve some slight difficulty to a few, but the consensus of opinion in the University is that the costume gave a delightful air of beauty and of charm to the Masquerade last year, quite different from that of other University functions, and that to maintain this feature of the Ball, it is quite worth while for everyone to go to a little extra trouble. There are several theatrical supply companies to be found downtown, one of whose advertisements will be found in this issue.

EXTENSION CLASSES FOR OTHER CITIES

U. of T. May Operate in Ottawa and Fort William

The first social evening of the members of the Central "Y" Extension Classes took place on Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock, when classes were over for the day. Conventional introductions were dispensed with by labelling each person so that every one of the seventy students present knew each other by the time the affair was over.

After a short time had been spent in meeting one another, Dr. Reisman called the meeting to order, welcoming all to the informal get-together and introducing the speaker of the evening, Mr. Dunlop, who is in charge of extension work at the University.

Mr. Dunlop described the great demand for education at the present time, telling how a course for farmers was first instituted, then courses for journalists and teachers were started, and finally the request came for university training giving credits to business men. In response to this request the University of Toronto had thrown open extension courses not only in Toronto but also in Hamilton. Mr. Dunlop emphasized the fact that our university was the official university for the whole province and that for this reason the opening of new extension classes in Fort William and Ottawa in the near future was quite probable.

The speaker then discussed at length the experimental value of the Central "Y" Classes; the Correspondence School type of education was usually a failure because the student did not attend in person. The great asset necessary for education was perseverance and this asset could be attained only by personal contact with one's instructors. For this reason Extension Classes were ideal for the man with very little time. In closing his address Mr. Dunlop complimented the class on the large number in attendance and offered any assistance that his department could give.

The election of officers for two years was then held, resulting in the appointment of Mr. Stocks and Miss Elliot as President and Secretary of the first year, and Mr. Evans and Mr. Chidley as President and Secretary of the second year.

UNABLE TO COME
Word has been received that the resignation of women students from McGill which was to have come to Toronto for the game, will, owing to unforeseen circumstances, be unable to attend. All plans made for their entertainment will therefore be cancelled.

UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT MAKES REPORT ON THE YEAR'S WORK

Young Varsity Captures the Juvenile Championship of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association

An interesting report of activities at the University Settlement, 95 Peter Street, has been received at The Varsity office from Miss Florence Campbell, Head Worker of the Institution. The Settlement is one of the most important of the University's contributions to the Community Welfare, and plays an important role in the life of the neighbourhood as a social, recreational and educational centre.

Every afternoon there are meetings of the various clubs. The classes are so numerous that each individual boy or girl has an opportunity to take part in any activity for six hours. Folk-dancing and sewing are taught the girls by competent instructors and there is a dramatic club for all dramatics inclined. A children's branch of the Toronto Public Library is situated in the Settlement Building, and books may be taken out today a week. At other times it is used as a reading and study room.

In the evening, the young men and women attend their club meetings, and

ECONOMICS OF VITAL CONCERN TO SCHOOL

Dean Mitchell in Optimistic Mood Addresses Engineers

"Students of applied Science are more concerned in the future economic development of Canada than any other students of the University," declared Dean Mitchell in his address on Trade and Engineering within the Empire, last Wednesday to the Engineering Society.

Canada, he said, has gone through a long period of development from total dependence on the Old Country in technical matters to almost the opposite which in 1914 had reached the peak. Being essentially an agricultural country, the next in importance is the profession of Engineering. This he explained was due to the immense problem of transportation which has been discussed so much of late and essentially this is a problem to be solved by Engineers and will take probably the next ten years. Highways and power are also outstanding problems for the profession.

Municipal Engineering is proving itself a steady field for work as evidenced by the building in progress throughout the country.

In the necessary lines manufacturing is in a satisfactory condition but the non-base industries which were operating at a greatly above normal speed are still suffering from depression. Prosperity is returning, continued the Dean, which is proved by the re-opening of a large plant engaged in the manufacture of agricultural implements.

Other industries have been given great impetus of late, Mining and Prospecting are again attracting great attention and it is possible that Canada will become one of the world's oil producing countries. Another interesting fact is the turning of former munitions for the Chemical Industry.

We are still depending on the Old Country for the production of some of the best hydraulic equipment which may surprise some who think that the best is made on this side of the Atlantic.

For further development Canada needs people and money which will possibly be partially supplied by the credit relations within the Empire recently announced by Lloyd George to the British House.

WAS PROMINENT AT DES MOINES

One of the world's greatest missionary statesmen in the person of Rev. Samuel Zwemer, LL.D., F.R.C.S., will visit the University of Toronto next Sunday morning to preach in Convocation Hall at 11 a.m.

Dr. Zwemer was born in Michigan, U.S.A., about half a century ago. He graduated in Arts from Hope College, Michigan, in 1887 and in Theology a few years later. His Alma Mater honoured him with the degree of D.D. in 1914, and a doctorate in Divinity in 1915.

Dr. Zwemer has spent most of his life since graduation as a missionary under the Reformed Church of America among the Mohammedan people. He spent a number of years at Buzrah, Bahrain, and other places in Arabia and Persia, and was organizer of the Mohammedan Missionary Conference which was held in Cairo, Egypt, in 1906.

At a low moment he travelled extensively as Dr. Zwemer. During the Arab rebellion in 1902 he visited Sanaa, in Yemen, there and it was only through his life's work. He has visited Hadramout, in East Arabia, where he has written a number of books. He is a member of the Royal Asiatic Society and for the exceptionally valuable information which he has procured during his long and prolonged journey through Arabia he has been made a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society.

Not only has Dr. Zwemer travelled extensively among the Mohammedan people, coming in intimate touch with their life and religion, but he has recorded the discoveries which he has made in several well-known books. Among the first books written by him are "Arabia, the Cradle of Islam" and "Topsy Turvy Land," written with the assistance of Mrs. Zwemer. Some of his later books are "Mohammed or Christ," published in 1915, and "The Disintegration of Islam," published in 1916. His latest book, which has just recently come from the press, is "The Influence of Islam on the West and the West on Islam," a masterpiece published quarterly in New York, being a review of current thought in Arabia.

WORLD PEACE, SUBJECT OF FAMOUS LECTURE

The Burwash Memorial Lectures for this year will be delivered by Hon. N.W. Rowell, B.C., in Convocation Hall on the evenings of November 22, 23, 24, 25, 26. The general subject of the lectures, "World Peace," is one which Mr. Rowell is singularly qualified to speak upon, not only by his wide experience in Canadian politics, but also to the prominent part which he has played in the deliberations of the League of Nations. The subjects of Mr. Rowell's four lectures will be as follows:

Nov. 22—"The League of Nations and World Peace."
Nov. 23—"The British Empire and World Peace."
Nov. 24—"Canada and World Peace."
Nov. 25—"The Church and World Peace."

The Burwash Memorial Lecture-series was founded by friends of the late Chancellor Burwash, during his lifetime, with the avowed object of commemorating his connection with Victoria College and of securing for the future an agency through which the truths, studies and causes in which he was vitally interested, may from time to time find such further exposition as scholarship can provide and coming generations may require in order that "The Truth may make them free."

The first lectures under this endowment were delivered by the late Chancellor himself in this city. "The Early Days of Victoria College." These lectures form the first part of his history of the College. No lecturer has since been made, but the second series, that Hon. N.W. Rowell, whose scholarship and high ideals are universally recognized.

Although these lectures are all being given for the auspices of Victoria College, the lectures are not open only to members of that College. Tickets may be obtained free of charge on application to the Bursar, Victoria College.

WATER-POLO

There will be a game of water-polo at 5 p.m. next Tuesday between Meds. and Dents. The Meds. have a good team and one that is well worth supporting. Let us see a good crowd on hand to cheer them on to victory.

FORESTRY BEATS KNOX, 7 5.

On the back campus to-day Forestry managed to beat Knox to the tune of 7 to 5. The game was very close and the result was in doubt to the last minute. During the first quarter Stewart of Forestry kicked for a rouge. There was no further scoring till the third quarter, when Forestry kicked for another point. The final quarter each team got a try. Stewart of Forestry fell on the ball on an inside kick. Maxwell of Knox broke through for a 40 yard run and scored a try. Neither of the touches were converted. Knox were pressing at the end but were unable to even the count.

Stewart and Waldron were good on the Forestry team while Knox had no outstanding stars.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

On that memorable day two weeks ago when Varsity played McGill in Montreal the Molson Stadium was a mass of Red and White streamers and the wearer of every streamer was a loyal supporter of Old McGill. McGill men, by that display of colour, showed just what the sporting spirit of McGill is. They showed us a wonderful spirit that is going to take some beating. But we, too, have colours to show. To-morrow every Varsity man and woman should wear the Blue and White. To see their colours displayed boldly in the stands is a great help to our team. It shows the players what they are fighting for and what their success means to every Varsity man, graduate or undergraduate. Don't be ashamed of your colours. Give them the prominence they deserve and let all the world know that the Blue and White of Toronto University stands for true sportsmanship. Above all things be there yourself but next to you we want your colours.

WOMEN'S TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Preliminary Round—M. Everson defeated M. Roach; M. Chisholm defeated A. Wilson; M. Thomas defeated H. McKenzie; H. Kramer defeated M. Walsh.

First Round—M. Chisholm defeated M. Everson; D. Wood defeated H. Mullett; J. Fraser defeated E. Chant; P. Young defeated G. Mehan; R. McLachlan defeated A. Hilliard; M. Burridge defeated A. Bryans defeated M. Pickford; M. Coffee defeated M. Baker; C. Yates defeated F. Burwash; M. Thomas defeated H. Kramer.

The following is the draw for the second round: (1) M. Chisholm, D. Wood. (2) P. Young, J. Fraser. (3) M. Burridge, M. Hilliard. (4) M. Moore, W. Snider. (5) B. Boyle, G. Stanley. (6) H. Smith, E. Ryan. (7) M. Coffee, H. Bryans. (8) C. Yates, M. Thomas.

The second round must be played off before one o'clock on Saturday.

SWIMMING

We have been fortunate in finding a coach for the swimmers.

Roy Lowndes, an old Toronto Varsity boy, has volunteered his services. Roy has had a great deal of experience, both here and at Columbia University, in swimming.

Starting to-day (Friday, October 28th) our new coach will be out to help the boys who take an interest in swimming.

Turn out every day between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock and Roy will give you some pointers.

MCMASTER JUNIORS BEAT U. OF T.

Crashing their way through the University of Toronto team in the last few minutes of play to score a try which was later converted, the McMaster University Intercollegiate Football Union juniors yesterday scored a 12 to 8 victory over the Blue and White. The ultimate winners were not conceded much chance to outscore the last Queen's Parkers, but they surprised the talent by taking an early lead, and maintaining it through the final period, when the U. of T. line-plungers swept all opposition aside, and by scoring a try gained a two-point lead. This appeared good enough to settle the affair, but McMaster showed indomitable spirit, and fighting back in the face of great odds, snatched victory from defeat.

In kicking and open field play the winners had a wide margin of the Blue and White, but the latter were on top in line-plunging. U. of T. were favored to win with something to spare, but McMaster upset the dope by outplaying their opponents in the first two periods. In the third season there was little to choose, both sides presenting strong defenses, and the goal lines were seldom in danger of being crossed. U. of T. adopted a plunging game, but their gains were nullified by the good kicking of the McMaster halves.

U. of T. continued the pressure in the final period and soon had McMaster on the run. Time and again the line-plungers dashed through for long gains, and when they finally succeeded in putting their team in the lead, 8 to 6, McMaster's supporters conceded them the verdict. But the McMaster team fought back harder than ever, and with about two minutes to play, a backfield player found a hole in the line and ran twenty-five yards for a try, doing six of the U. of T. team while on his way.

JR. MEDS. DEFEAT JR. ARTS 12-11.

On Thursday afternoon on the back campus, the most exciting game of the series was played. Jr. Meds and Jr. Arts faced each other for the last game, with a tie in a former contest against each other and no losses to date. This game probably decides their group and so excitement ran high. In the first quarter, Uren, for Meds, made a 20 yard run and scored a touch. Then Skait for U.C. made a rouge and a pretty drop kick. Score Meds 5, Arts 4.

In the second quarter, Skait made another beautiful drop kick. Stringer for Meds made a touch and Irwin rouged. Score Meds 10, Arts 7.

In the third quarter Skait again made a pretty drop and Meds in a scramble kicked to the dead line. Score Meds 11, U.C. 10.

The final quarter saw Meds and U.C. both get a dead line kick. Final score: Meds 12, U.C. 11.

Skait, of Arts, was the star of the game because of his beautiful kicking. Uren, of Meds was a close second for stellar honours. Both teams played well and as the score indicates, the game was very close.

Line up, Meds—Second, Bier, Fielden, Stringer, Uren, Irwin, Campbell, Duncan, Watt, Soanes, Connell, White. Spares—Waddington and Bell.

U.C.—Northy, McDonald, Pequegnat, Skait, Walker, Stone, Lash, Mathews, Shaw, Griffith, Carr, Thompson. Spares—Richards, Wallace, Simpson, Bailey, Turnbull.

Referee: James Douglas. Field Judge, Mr. Plaxton.

SOCCER NOTES

On Wednesday Victoria played U.C. for the second time and defeated them 4-1. It was expected that the game would be closer. U.C. have strengthened their team a good deal since they played Vic the first time but Vic also seem to have improved. Victoria practically have their group won already.

School and O.C.E. met in the soccer series on Thursday and School were victorious by a score of 5-1. It was a lucky victory for School as they got no lucky breaks. However, O.C.E. have done very well for a small faculty since it is their first year in the game. Campbell played very well for a man who has played the game as little as he has. This win decides the group winners as School have only one game to play and have three to their credit.

NOTICE—BASKETBALL

A meeting of the basketball managers of every faculty intending to enter a team in the Sifton Cup series will be held in Hart House, opposite Athletic Office, on Monday, October 31st, at 5 p.m. As the grouping, schedules, etc., will be arranged at this meeting, it is imperative that a representative from every team be present. In the case of U.C., Meds, Dents, S.F.S. and Vic., both Senior and Junior divisions should be represented.

BRITISH RUGBY

Varsity British Rugbyists travel to Montreal to-night for their return match with McGill to-morrow. The fifteen has been practising faithfully every night this week and are confident of defeating McGill right on their own grounds. As will be remembered, Varsity won last week by two tries to nil but their margin of superiority in the play was very slight, and all things point to a close, hard-fought game to-morrow. With Stag's team playing the Varsity twelve here to-morrow the Blue and White have a splendid chance to score a double victory over their old rivals.

SWIMMING POOL

For the past month there has been a great deal of talk about a swimming pool being built at St. Michael's. Father Carr confirmed this rumour and stated that the proposed plunge is to be the same size as the Hart House tank.

Work on the pool will be begun after the alterations at present under way have been completed. The changes now being

VARSITY VICTORIOUS OVER VISITING TEAM

Snyder and Somerville the Stars of a Superior Squad
RECORD CROWD WAS AT THE SEASON'S FIRST VICTORY

Duncan and Philpotts Injured in Colossal Combat

The team representing the University of Toronto, by very judicious selection of mode of play and by the remarkable kicking and running of half-backs Snyder and Somerville, defeated McGill by the score of 16 to 2. This score represents the superiority of the Varsity line up. The Varsity enabled them to offset the carefully planned shift offensive of McGill. At one time in the second period "Shag's" men threatened to score by adopting a new shift offensive which has been so successfully used by the University of Minnesota and all other American teams.

"Never-it" spirit by a defensive on her own five yard line which overwhelmed the offensive of the McGill men and proved to be the turning point in the game. Varsity stuck strictly to a kicking game and by using this style of play amazed the overwhelming score. Somerville's toe acquired a total of eleven points, "Sandy" landed three very pretty field goals and a couple of rouges. Snyder's remarkable punting and kicking from back in the "hall of fame." He proved himself to be the greatest half-back in the intercollegiate and one of the best in Canada. McGill were hampered by continuous succession of minor injuries to her men. Indeed at one time almost every play was followed by a foul on the part of some of the McGill men. The Varsity defensive was as aggressive as usual. Her famous wings snatched every attempt of the Red and White to run back or return the lofty punts of Snyder and Somerville. "Shag" is reported to have said that the heart of the Varsity team was her remarkable outside wings. Their efficiency is revealed by the fact McGill returned only one kick. Carroll, of McGill, fought valiantly to cool and consistent booting. The running of Snyder and the returns of Snyder offset his good work. The teams lined up as follows:

Varsity	McGill
Duncan	F.W.
Somerville	Halves
Taylor	Carroll
Hobbs	Flanagan
Murray	Quarter
Snag	Back
Reilly	Insides
Warner	R. McCombe
Carroll	Middles
Wheeler	Outsides
Fisher	Murphy

Varsity—Prendergast, Perlman, Smith, Bartlett and Weaver.
McGill—Rutherford, Robertson, Lazier, Philpott, Crain and Stearns.

The Play by Periods

Immediately after Anderson received Hobbs' return of Anderson's kick-off, McGill tried to rush Varsity's defense. Baillie preceded each offensive play with a "Hip, hip, hip" which was soon echoed by the Varsity. Anderson, Varsity's star captain and head tackling flying wing, tore a ligament in his hip which caused his withdrawal from the game. He was replaced by Bartlett. Carroll tried a drop which hit the goal posts and bounced out into the field. Somerville and Snyder started the game with a long drive the ball slowly back into McGill territory. After several manoeuvres Somerville landed a very pretty field goal. The Varsity's defence was strong. McGill D. This quarter was featured by Varsity's kicking and wonderful outside wing work. Score at the end of the first period was Varsity 3, McGill 0. McGill started off the second period with a vigorous plunging offensive which gained yard after yard. Somerville's defence then the Varsity defense stiffened and assuming an impassable "Verdun" front on her own five yard line. McGill tried an American placement kick using a gunter. The kick failed. Snyder kicked out. A major penalty against Varsity enabled McGill to score a rouge. Carroll fumbled on his own twenty-five yard line. Ralph fell on the ball. Ambridge and Livishin were laid out by the Varsity's defence. Somerville's defence was strong. Varsity 6, McGill 1. Two brilliant runs by Snyder and a successful Varsity offensive kick put Somerville in scoring distance again. He replied with his third drop from the field. Varsity 9, McGill 1. Another marvelous run of Snyder's and return by Somerville enabled Varsity to score another rouge. Varsity 10, McGill 1. Varsity's wings forced Carroll to safety touch behind his own line. Score at half time: Varsity 12, McGill 1. Westman kicked off for Varsity. Snyder's remarkable work in shattering McGill's defence, three of whom were laid out, netted Varsity a substantial gain. Philpott ran out Snyder's punt over the goal line very nicely. Prendergast replaced Ralph and Leon Smith replaced Warner, who was injured. "Sandy" Somerville returned Carroll's kick and forced another rouge. Varsity 15, McGill 1. After McGill were penalized and Carroll's kick blocked Snyder kicked over the deadline for another point. Varsity 16, McGill 1. After exchange of kicking, Somerville ran his own kick inside and Varsity gained possession. Philpott's arm was broken at the joint. A series of plunges landed the ball on McGill's three yard line. Varsity's attempts at a touch failed. Somerville essayed another drop, but managed to route only. Varsity 16,

ROUTERS' NOTICE

Rooters' Practice for the Queen's game will be held on Thursday at 6 p.m. in the Drafting Room behind Convocation Hall, at which exchange tickets will be given out. Tickets will be on sale Friday at the Hall Porter's Desk, Medical Building, and Engineering Society from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Registration cards must be shown when purchasing tickets.

McGill 1. At this point of the game Snyder was doing marvelous work for Varsity. On two different occasions he grabbed a bounding ball when surrounded by McGill players and made gains. On almost every plunge he laid out his tacklers. His condition seemed to be superhuman. He was working like a Trojan and showing no signs of fatigue. McGill first had a most enthusiastic several times managed to force Snyder to rouge. His attempt to run it out was very spectacular and almost successful. McGill's defence was strong. After a struggle Snyder unleashed a prodigious punt which sailed from midfield over the deadline. The game ended with the ball on McGill's forty yard line and Varsity steadily advancing. Final score: Varsity 16, McGill 2.

DENTAL SOCIETIES RESUME ACTIVITIES

Western Club and Ukedents Hold First Meetings

On Tuesday, November 1, there will be a reorganization meeting of the Western Club held in Lecture Room 3 at noon. This Club which was organized last year for the purpose of socializing and promoting a larger and better year has been reorganized with social functions, theatre parties, and general good times promised. At Christmas last year a pool was held among the members of the Club for the purpose of sending one man home to enjoy the best season of the year in his own home. It was a great success. The pool was held on a Saturday and the winner held this year and for a day or two excitement will run high in particular among the home-sick Fresh in who have not yet become accustomed to the Grassy Spoon.

All true Westerners are invited to attend meeting as plans will be laid for the season and officers elected for the year.

Wednesday evening "saw the first glimpse" of the Ukedent Orchestra this season under the leadership of Mr. Westlake. Last year the wizards of the string achieved great success in their performances. On several occasions they were invited to act as the star turn in programmes put on in some of the larger churches at the week-end. The members of the fairer sex who happened to be present and when this was spread broadcast among their fellow students at the R.C.D.S., they were a much envied lunch of boys.

This year with such a name established there should be no lack of "like" players but anyone who can tickle the national instrument of the Hawaiian is asked to turn out.

DR. ZWEMER AT HART HOUSE

Rev. Samuel Zwemer, F.R.G.S., has accepted the invitation of the Warden of Hart House to lunch in the Great Hall and to speak for a few minutes in the Lecture Room at 1.30. This is an opportunity to hear one of the outstanding men of the East.

FINES TO BE PAID BY MEDS WHO MADE A STREET PARADE

Sad Was the Blow That He Should Throw Away His Dough
POOR MEDICO!

On Friday afternoon fines of $50 and $100 respectively were imposed upon the first and second years of Medicine by the Students' Court for holding an unauthorized street parade after the initiation on Friday, October 14. The trial, which was held in the Lecture Room of Hart House, is the first since the revision of the constitution of the Court last year. It was attended by an interested, and perhaps, curious group of students from all faculties who observed with becoming reverence the sanctity of the court room.

The conduct of the trial was most impressive. After the court was convened the trial judges marched into the room in academic robes, the assembled students standing respectfully until the court had taken their places. The trial was opened with a formal charge read by Mr. F. L. Hutchison, Clerk of the Court, stating that in holding their parade the students had violated one of the rules of the Students' Administrative Council.

In reply the presidents of the two classes, Messrs. David Pratt and K. E. Ferry, pleaded guilty, and asked that leniency be shown. Mr. F. C. Hastings, B.A., prosecuting, on behalf of the Students' Administrative Council, then proceeded to cross-examine the two presidents. To the request, "Tell what you know about the parade," the counsel replied that he was not present at the parade and that the parade was not organized by the initiation committee, but was entirely spontaneous. There is some respect in this University for a parade, he asserted.

Mr. Pratt, president of the second year, in his evidence brought out that the initiation committee had, without knowing that parades were forbidden, changed their plans so as to do without one on the advice of Prof. Macleod, who pointed out to them that some damage might be done. "I myself put forth efforts, as did Captain Christie, to prevent the parade," he testified. Mr. Hastings took part, only about seventy-five, Mr. Pratt, acting as his own counsel, called on Captain Christie, who testified that no damage had been done and that there had been no clash between students and the police. He said that the police had been in the grounds that they had received no warning and that the students had used Yonge Street, which was closed by traffic. Captain Christie admitted having said that the initiation was orderly and well-conducted but said that by remarks had been made before the parade that the class president had done all he could to prevent it.

Mr. Ferry, acting as his own behalf, made the assertion that freshmen were not University students until after initiation and put in a plea for pardon as this was their first offence. The president of the Court, in reply to the query, "How can the Rules of the S. A. C. be ascertained," said that notices were posted in all the buildings.

In summing up the case for the prosecution, Mr. Hastings said "Damage to the University as a whole does not lie in the parade, but in the fact that the students of the University into disrepute in the minds of the public. Following the parade, being in the University a year, ought to know the rules regarding street parades. The first and second years of Medicine should be no exception. The parade was held in the face of warning they defied the rules. The punishment should be such that the students and the public may know that there is some respect in this University for law and order."

The Court then withdrew to consider a decision, and after their return, twenty minutes later, brought in a verdict of guilty and imposed fines as already stated. The fines must be paid to the Bureau before December 1, failing which the students will not be permitted to write their examinations. The money will go, not to the Students' Council, but to the general funds of the University.

The President of the Court, in closing the trial, drew the attention of the audience to the various points in its constitution. The Court acts under powers vested in it by its constitution and approved by the Senate. The Court has the power to fine any student, class or body of students, within its jurisdiction and to recommend the suspension of any student from the University for one year.

The Court is the only Court of Appeal. No student shall be permitted to write on the examinations until he has complied with the verdict of the Court.

"The Court," Mr. Thompson said, "felt that the second year was more culpable and therefore imposed a heavier fine. Any further infractions will be severely dealt with. On certain occasions parades will be arranged and forbidden, for instance after the winning of an important Rugby or Hockey game. But it is not for any body of students to go on a parade downtown on their own accord. We want the students to do all in their power to prevent this sort of thing."

R. C. I. LECTURE ON DANGEROUS INSECTS

Dr. O. L. Howard Speaks on Economic Entomology

"The Economic Aspects of Entomology" was the subject of a most instructive address by Dr. O. L. Howard, Chief of the United States Bureau of Entomology, in Convocation Hall on Saturday evening. The lecture was the first of the annual series to be delivered under the auspices of the Royal Canadian Institute. Prof. J. C. Fields, the President, occupied the chair.

"People must get away from the idea that men who collect insects are fools or idiots," Dr. Howard said. "During the last thirty or forty years there has been growing up a class of men known as economic entomologists."

The annual budget in the United States for combating the insect pests is nearly two millions of dollars, while the destruction caused by insects each year amounts to about two billion dollars," he continued.

The lecture was illustrated with motion pictures showing the fight against the bark beetle, which, the speaker said, caused as much damage to standing timber as forest fires.

Dr. Howard said that as the problems of the northern states were similar to those of Canada, that the two governments were able to cooperate with great advantage to each other.

At the close of the lecture Prof. Fields announced that the Governor-General, Lord Byng, had consented to speak at an early date.

A CHORAL SERVICE FOR SOLDIER DEAD

Trinity Remembers Men Who Are Gone

In honour of the members of Trinity College who lost their lives in the Great War the annual memorial service was held yesterday in the College Chapel, with the Rev. Dean Duckworth celebrating the Holy Communion, assisted by the Rev. Professor McGraw, and the Rev. Professor Morris. The service, which was fully choral, was beautifully rendered by the choir, who also sang as the anthem, "The Souls of the Righteous."

A well-known graduate of the College, Major the Rev. Canon Baynes-Reid, L.Th., D.S.O., Rural Dean of Toronto, was the special preacher, and delivered an extremely touching and forceful sermon, linking as he did, "Their Name Shall Live Forever." He emphasized the fact that the dead are always near us, enjoying a well-earned rest, and that the Church teaches that we should pray for them as they do for us. He related several moving incidents among his experiences in France, showing the effect the war had on the spiritual character of the soldier. In speaking of the results of the war, Canon Baynes-Reid said that we should not be disappointed by the apparent absence of good effects for all our sacrifices, as there had been only started a great movement which might take generations to develop. Following the sermon, the names of those who fell were read, while the large congregation stood in silent prayer.

TRIPLE BILL OPENS DRAMATIC SEASON

Splendid Settings For Season's First Plays

Perhaps one of the most interesting programmes ever produced in this University is that which the Players' Club put on in Hart House Theatre this week. Three short plays, each of them decidedly fantastic in its theme, but with entirely different plots worked out in ways distinctive of their respective authors, make up the bill; the presentation of the plays is quite up to the standard set in former years.

The Syndics have been able to retain the services of local painters for the designing of scenery. The sets for these three plays, each of them decidedly fantastic in its theme, but with entirely different plots worked out in ways distinctive of their respective authors, make up the bill; the presentation of the plays is quite up to the standard set in former years.

The first play is Dunsany's "Night at an Inn," a grim little tragedy dealing with three sailors, who have unfortunately stolen the jewel eye of an Indian god. It is decidedly a play with a moral, but the moral is neither objectionable nor unnecessary; and the manner of its treatment is quite terrifically improbable enough for the most sympathetic in the audience. Mr. Raymond Massey, Prof. E. A. Dale, Charles Thompson, and Dixon Wagner, play leading roles in this adventure among the absurd.

The second play, "Pantolon" by Barrie, is a treatment of an old tradition which is both novel and, as might be expected, whimsical. The basis of the old Harlequin stories is used, but the imminent tragedy has been averted by the intervention of the good Columbine. After putting down a couple of rascals under a spell; the old melodramatic surprise scene which gives such a thrill in Faglar's has been removed, and another ending is put on the story, showing the old home of Columbine and Pantolon some years later. In this finely imaginative piece leading parts are played by Miss Phyllis Strath, Miss Lorna MacLean, Mr. Vincent Massey and Prof. Hodder Williams.

The final piece will be "White Magic" a collaboration by Algernon Blackwood and Mr. Forsyth, the nature of which was not disclosed, except that it is quite of a piece with the rest of the bill. This will be but the first of a long series of premieres, several of which are promised for performances later this season. The musical part of the programme is perhaps the most ambitious yet attempted. Dr. Willan has composed special music for this, and we have been assured that his work has reached a higher standard of excellence than heretofore. It will be noticed that the greater number of those who were interested in the Players' Club in former years have rallied round the new director, and Mr. Forsyth is confident that the co-operation which is so necessary in the production of plays, will be forthcoming.

Of Nationalism, Bertrand Russell says that it is to be reckoned with Mohammedanism, not with Christianity and Buddhism, for they are personal religions, while the first two are practical and material. Mohammedanism has extended its sway over Caucasian, Persian and Turkic peoples, while in Islam, Mohammedanism has a league for Egyptian and Turkish Nationalists, Indian extremists, Afghan patriots and all the others who are interested in furthering an alliance against Imperialistic interests.

Mohammedans and Bolsheviks have four points in common. Both groups desire to undermine the sanctity and ideals of the Anglo-Saxon Christian home. 2. Both groups desire to destroy the sanctity of property, and wealth. The Bolsheviks maintain that their wealth should be taken from the rich, while the Moslems maintain that the property of all who are not Moslems.

3. Both are frankly blasphemous, both groups blaspheme against God and threaten against Christian faith.

4. Both have a great world programme, the barrier to its success being the British Empire.

With such aims, Bolshevism has no hope for the world.

Nationalism vs Imperialism
Of Nationalism, Bertrand Russell says that it is a struggle between the white races and the other peoples. Every heart sings the line which heads the editorial page of the Chicago Tribune, "My country, 'tis of thee, and usually adds "my country right or wrong." When this is the case, the world is divided into two camps, one to be conferred on Egypt, and the British to be drawn from the country, it would mean the undoing of all the good effected there in the last one hundred years.

Imperialism, which is the antithesis of Nationalism, began in the East. Nineveh, Tyre and Babylon were the first to rise as the Imperialism which started the world war and which did not die even at the peace table. The day has passed for the imposition of western government on the countries of the East, unless it is done in the way Christ would have used - that is, in having him who would be master, be servant of all. If Imperialism be self-sacrificing in projects and methods, it may be a blessing, otherwise it is a curse, for democracy has been let loose now and will stay.

The Greed of Commerce
Now that the war is over, Commercialism is rampant. Every man who is not for personal gain is flooding the East. To further their advancements, they bleed the lands of the East. The world is divided into two camps, one to be conferred on Egypt, and the British to be drawn from the country, it would mean the undoing of all the good effected there in the last one hundred years.

Christ and the Eastern Need
As for Christianity, millions are looking to us for help. The only hope for the East, for the world lies in Christianity, which is rising above the storms in the heart of man, proclaiming the peace of Christ. The other movement are superficial, and most of them have had their day. Christianity on the other hand is deep and lasting, we can still picture Peter, Paul, John, and the others who followed them, making their sacrifices to establish this kingdom of Christ. In Smyrna,

VICTORY—DEFEAT. SPORTSMANSHIP

We expected great things from that team—we hoped for great things, and they far exceeded both our expectations and our hopes. "We can do it!" Of course one expects truth from this paper, even in the realms of prophecy, but even the VARSITY was pleasantly surprised on Saturday. Too much credit cannot be given to Dr. "Jack" Maynard, to Gordon Duncan, and to the members of his team for their untiring effort and the ingenuity and tactical ability shown in the play of Saturday's game. Nothing but the hard grind through which the team was put could have produced the results that were attained. Herein lies the moral of the story—Work! In Rugby, as in Life, the uphill fight best indicates the true mettle of the fighter. Varsity was down and now is up—and will stay up.

But the credit cannot all be given to Varsity. McGill played a great game from whistle to whistle. Never did a team put up a better fight. Never did a vanquished team evince a finer spirit than that displayed by our neighbours from Montreal throughout the game and in the moment of defeat. Never did two teams of Canadian gentlemen give a better demonstration of Canadian sportsmanship than the two who lined up for that great struggle. The mere fact that there were no penalties does not indicate the calibre of the play. There was nothing that even savoured of the objectionable. The game was rough, but that is no fault. For clean, genuine Rugby. The game was rough, but that is no fault. For clean, genuine Rugby. The game was rough, but that is no fault. For clean, genuine Rugby.

And the spirit of the supporters of both teams was excellent. We were genuinely glad to have the McGill people with us—particularly glad were those of us who had the privilege of meeting some of them—only wish there had been more, for it was a pleasure to be able to entertain such guests. We felt somehow that there was a spirit of genuine fraternity abroad, we were somehow greatly refreshed by that game, not merely because we won, but because the world, thanks in some measure at any rate to sport, is a very good place to live in.

THE STUDENTS OF EUROPE

From the jubilation of the hour of victory we draw our reader's attention to the lot of hundreds of thousands of our fellow-students who are now in dire need, some of them are, it is true, reaping the fruits of the "sins of the fathers," some the fruits of their own share in those sins. They are reaping those fruits in the harvest of defeat.

There has been much discussion regarding the relief work being carried on among the students of Central Europe, in countries that were our allies, in some that were neutral, and also in some that were our enemies.

We all agree that the students of nations with which we fought side by side, students who are not blessed with the advantages which we enjoy, and many of whom are destitute—are deserving our aid in the fullest measure. We might grant grudging assistance to the neutral peoples. But how about our enemies? They started the fight for an unrighteous cause, they did not play the game, they broke every rule in the Book, but we beat them at their own game—it cost us a lot, but we beat them—and now they are down. Let them stay down, let them starve or get along as best they can! Let them work out their own salvation, as they have already worked out their own condemnation. It's their own fault—they made their choice and they must pay the price. Besides, if they had beaten us—

It sounds very reasonable does it not? The philosophy of the "other cheek" has not many adherents in a nation that has passed through such experiences as we have endured.

If they had beaten us—that is the crux of the whole matter. During the war we were always denouncing them for what they were going to do. We were always patting ourselves on the backs for what we were going to do. We were going to establish world peace, international good-will, and universal brotherhood. We thought they were fighting to establish Hell on earth, we to usher in Utopia.

International good-will—let them starve! Universal brotherhood—leave the brutes to their own devices and to the fruits of their folly! It does not seem to fit, does it? It, perhaps, is not quite so reasonable as we thought.

Three questions arise in our minds as we think of this: Were we sincere in the statement of our objects during the war? If so have our ideals changed since then? What is the sporting attitude to a beaten foe? These three demand our very careful and thoroughly conscientious consideration.

"THE DAILY" VISITS "THE VARSITY"

On Saturday morning, Mr. J. L. O'Brien, B.A., and Mr. H. O'Hagan, respectively Editor-in-Chief and Managing Editor of "The McGill Daily," paid The Varsity the honour of a brief personal visit, during which matters of mutual interest were discussed. The fact that "The Daily" is one of the leading publications in the field of Collegiate Journalism is proof of the ability with which Messrs. O'Brien and O'Hagan preside over their paper.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE VARSITY congratulates Mr. H. G. Thompson, Chairman of the Athletic and Discipline Committee of the Students Administrative Council and his associates on the excellent manner in which the work of the rotters was arranged and in which the parade was handled.

The University of Toronto women, who were in the bleachers for the great game on Saturday, wish to thank that officer of the police force who so efficiently cleared the way for them and allowed them to obtain seats in their rightful section.

ALL HALLOW'S EVE

The Editor, THE VARSITY.
Dear Sir:
For many of us the last day of October is only Hallow E'en. Few of us realize that this interesting but usually very enjoyable festival had an even more interesting origin. Hallow E'en, as it is now almost universally known, is the Eve or Vigil preceding All Saints' Day, a feast still observed by the Church of Rome and the Church of England. In some quarters at least, the "spooky" entertainments of Hallow E'en are associated with the spirits of those who are commemorated on All Saints' Day. But the Festival of All Saints is more than a mere time for light-hearted amusement. It is one of the most sacred days in the Church year. We of the British Empire have a new Saints' Day, the eleventh of November, which will be duly observed, but the older festival is one which is very real to some of us, and has a decided message for all of us, whatever our religious affiliation. IN MEMORIAM.

ELEMENTARY PHILOLOGY

Editor, VARSITY.
Dear Sir:
I was very glad to see in last Monday's issue an inquiry from some unlettered Neoclassic concerning the origin of the term "griddle" as applied to rugby.

Perhaps the easiest way out of all problems of nomenclature is to use the process immortalized by those noble specimens of English scholarship, Holofemes and Nathaniel, and since used by no less remarkable scholars as the professors of Anglo-Saxon in this splendid citadel of unnecessary learning.

Need I remind you, sir, that Philology noble science, tells us that griddle is derived from such a word as "griddle" (famous for cakes) and that again from craticula, a Latin word of common use and meaning. Greek carries on the wondrous trail, and we at last approach common sense. "Krat," a Greek root, has numerous meanings, varying from "head" to "strength," into showing brains and muscle are both used in the game.

However, sir, scholars are more inclined to favour the Latin derivation as being more direct and naive.

Critic in the tongue of Cicero meant:

(1) The interlocking of shields in the testudo or scutum formation.

(2) A common agricultural implement, the harrow (either referring to the bloodiness of the spectacle or the curious cast of the jettisons on the soles of the boots of the players).

(3) An ancient mode of punishment whereby the delinquent was deposited in a huddle and pressed to death with large stones.

This last theory is now in favour.

I have merely sketched the outlines of what might prove a long and entertaining piece of research into elementary Philology. I would only warn the ambitious student that he might well avoid any reference to Aramite, Persian, or Zend, as well as to anything at present in contemporary use in the game, as its history, penetrating into the impossible muck of Etruscan antiquity and the traditional terminology of the game is irreconcilably irreconcilable with the present-day softness of heart and muscle.

Yours in all compliments of duty,
273 CLASSICS.

VARSITY STATUS

Editor, THE VARSITY.

Is THE VARSITY a newspaper or is it not?

What is the status of the tri-weekly fourth page edition of Toronto University's undergraduates? Should it be accorded the ordinary privileges of the press or is it to be considered of too little significance in the newspaper world to be given such privileges? Friday evening last sixteen badges were issued to press representatives to report the political meeting of the National Liberal and Conservative Party, addressed by Premier Meighen and others, but a representative of THE VARSITY was flatly refused such a badge.

THE VARSITY has the largest newspaper staff in Canada. Has the word newspaper any significance or is it a misnomer?

In accordance with a suggestion of a recent editorial that undergraduates took too little interest in the problems of the outside world and that many did not read regularly downtown newspapers it was decided to report the Toronto speeches of the leaders of the three political parties.

In the way it was felt students would be brought in touch with at least one of the questions which should be of interest to all Canadians. Many undergraduates will record their votes for the first time. To cultivate a spirit of true Canadian citizenship intelligent thought and consideration of political questions seems essential.

University men and women, every leader in Canadian life delights to tell students when addressing them, will be the leaders of to-morrow and THE VARSITY recognized the influence it might have in suggesting lines of thought on political questions.

It is true it deals essentially with University news but occasionally reports of events or meetings of outstanding importance to students it was felt was not beyond its scope.

But such was not to be. "Sorry, we have none for you," was the reply by those in charge of the Committee Rooms of the National Liberal and Conservative Party to a request for a Press Badge.

"Why should THE VARSITY not be accorded the privileges of other newspapers?" was greeted with a smile. Does this represent the downtown attitude to the University's publication? It is only a year or two ago that THE VARSITY received due recognition from University organizations.

Apparently the next step in its progress to becoming a real force in the newspaper world is recognition by those organizations outside the University.

A MEMBER OF THE STAFF.

"ORATIO CO-EDUCATAE"

Dear Lord send me to Varsity To Victoria or Trinity

To old St. Mike's or dear U.C.

Let me study Arts, Dental or Meds., Or even Science with the two Co-eds.

After I've gone through the four years' rant And have been cursed with the odd "Star" I'll know at least what mere men are!

Dear Mr. Editor:
The Mannikin has written—I must take up the cudgels. His contribution does not merit my recognition, or that of my sister co-eds. It lacks that delightful humour and nicely chosen English of our dear old Boss Drummer, with whom we occasionally condescend to argue, but I fear his attitude is shared by many college men, the mere printing of his letter is an insult to the Varsity staff.

A woman goes to Varsity to develop that intelligence God has given her, that she may fit herself more perfectly for that state in life she may choose. If her state should be that of sparring partner to a mannikin, her prayer (and we exhort all co-eds to pray) had not been answered—and she's just out o' luck.

Editor, VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

In your last issue there appeared a letter from "Mannikin" with whom we beg to disagree on a few points.

"Mannikin" asks us if we can imagine a co-ed making down Daddy's trousers for "little Willie". We cannot; neither can we imagine one of the lords of creation, especially a university undergrad, admitting that he does not expect to be able to buy trousers for "little Willie". If he admits that much already we think that co-ed would do wisely in acquiring an education to fall back upon.

He says that co-eds come to Varsity either for remunerative purposes or for social standing. Why, ask, do men come to Varsity?

"Mannikin's" attitude towards home training for girls has not even the saving grace of originality. We wonder if "Mannikin" has ever been told that there are Household Science Courses which might help to enlighten the ignorance of the poor co-eds.

At least a few co-eds who do not consider marriage the chief end of woman. The discovery of a man's idea of a successful marriage is revealed by "Mannikin" may do something to strengthen their stand. We do not attempt to emulate the gems of poetic art which flow so freely from "Mannikin's" pen. We are not poets, only.

CO-EDS, 273.

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

Far be it from me to enter the lists to champion the cause of Women's rights. The day is past when there was need for that. But I fail to see why co-eds are condemned as incapable of being good home-makers.

Woman, especially the co-ed, is a very complex creature, capable of interest in matters social, economic, and political, as well as those included in the so-called "woman's sphere." This, I suppose, will always be incredible to the average man.

I admit we do not discuss publicly how long we leave our bread in the oven, or what kind of cookies we bake, or how we make cream of tomato soup, that would be too distressing to men, who never did enjoy hearing the domestic wheels go round. But certainly it does not follow that the co-ed cannot and will not make her home successful and home-like of homes—when necessary. Simply because the sphere of woman's interests has widened is no reason for saying that it does not include the one originally allotted to woman.

In this age of specialists and efficiency experts, sewing and cooking are not such unpardonable mysteries as they may have been formerly. Making pants for Willie turns out to be not such a difficult task as one might think who has never tried it or even seen it done.

We are forever being told that study disciplines the mind, making us systematic and more able to cope with the difficulties that may confront us. Why should this not apply to house-keeping? The University graduate should have no difficulty in synchronizing housework as well as anything else. As for the co-ed who knows nothing of such things, her trained mind will readily grasp the rules of cooking and mending and all that is involved in house-keeping.

To the University girl home-making is not and never will be drudgery. It is a not unpleasant round of regular duties, easily done and by no means overshadowing the business of living.

272 Co-ed.

Dear Editor:

Oh, why did you ever publish "Mannikin's" effusion? You have ruined my chances around here forever.

Although I had just escaped from the monotony of home a few years ago, still I was planning to get into another one just as soon as I could. And I had at least six men persuaded that I would never let the toast burn. And now "Mannikin" has given everything away and not one of them will ever take the chance.

And anyway, how does he know the dishes sit in the sink? I always put mine in a pan under the table.

And besides, why should I make pants for a potential Willie when the stores will give two pairs with every suit?

Oh, yes, please whose home is he going to look in.

FORNER AND FORD WIN FOR ST. MIKE'S

Third Victory of Season--O. A. C. This Time

Sr. Michael's College defeated O.A.C. for the second time on Saturday. This makes the third win of the season for the saints. A number of the fair sex from Macdonald Hall at Guelph graced the side lines of the St. Mike's Campus, along with several hundred others. O.A.C. was much the heavier team of the two.

First Quarter

O.A.C. kicked off. St. Mike's returned the kick to centre field. By a series of plunges O.A.C. carried the ball to the 20 yard line and then kicked for the first point of the game. Forner, of St. Mike's, then kicked some 60 yards and Ford, then plunged and kicked followed by both sides until Forner scored. St. Mike's first try was blocked. O.A.C. carried the ball on a kick over the line. Coughlin, of O.A.C., was injured and replaced by Haggie, O.A.C., fumbled on their own 10 yard line. St. Mike's also fumbled. St. Mike's kicked over the line for a touch point before the quarter ended. Score: St. Mike's 2, O.A.C. 1.

Second Quarter

A series of plunges, some brilliant kicking and two or three flying tackles, got the second quarter away to a good start. O.A.C. fumbled. Kennedy made an on-side kick. Le Bel got it and carried it across for the first touchdown. Le Bel converted it. Midman, of O.A.C., made a spectacular 20 yard run. O.A.C. punted. Kennedy, of St. Mike's, went for 30 yards around left end. Then the ball was carried back and forward by both teams without much result. Midman kicked for O.A.C. and scored their second point. Troy recovered O.A.C.'s fumble and the whistle blew. Score: St. Mike's 6, O.A.C. 2.

Third Quarter

St. Mike's kicked. Edwards ran it back to his own 30 yard line. O.A.C. kicked. St. Mike's returned it and scored another point when Troy prevented O.A.C. from bringing it out. Forner again punted about 30 yards. Edwards fumbled the ball. Dillon recovered it and scored St. Mike's second touchdown. Le Bel converted it. In this play both Edwards and Ford were hurt, the latter being out for the rest of the game. Lanphier replaced him. Edwards kicked off for O.A.C. A series of plunges, end runs and punts followed. MacMillan made a sensational 35 yard run when he caught St. Mike's kick. St. Mike's punted for another point. Score: St. Mike's 10, O.A.C. 2.

NOTICE--BASKETBALL

A meeting of the basketball managers of every faculty intending to enter a team in the Sifton Cup series will be held in Hart House, opposite Athletic Office, on Monday, October 31st, at 6 p.m. As the grouping, schedules, etc., will be arranged at this meeting it is imperative that a representative from every team be present. In the case of U.C., Meds., Dents., S.P.S. and Vic., both Senior and Junior divisions should be represented.

J. LOWE.

Fourth Quarter

Bart was hurt. Replaced by Brick. O.A.C. failed to gain on plunges. Lynch, of St. Mike's, doing great blocking. O.A.C. fumbled. Brick recovered. Le Bel got away for one of his 40 yard runs. Lanphier recovered. Kennedy's on-side kick scored a touchdown. St. Mike's failed to convert. Throughout the game Haggie and MacMillan proved themselves O.A.C. big men while Forner, LeBel and Ford were the big guns for St. Mike's. Final score: St. Mike's 21, O.A.C. 2.

Referee--K. Foreman, Guelph, and H. Beck, Toronto.

MCGILL WIN AT ENGLISH RUGGER

McGill were successful in defeating Varsity at English Rugger but Saturday in Montreal. The score was 12-3. As the team is not home yet a more detailed account is impossible.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

Jack Maynard, by his handling of the game on Saturday, has justified the extraordinary confidence vested in him by the undergraduate body, alumni, and supporters of the University of Toronto. He not only out-generalled "Shag," but presented a team which was in better condition and inspired with his own supreme confidence in the invincibility of Varsity. Although even the intercollegiate season is not yet over we can now be more confident than ever that the "Earl Grey Trophy" will rest for another winter in Hart House.

REFEREES FOR MULLOCK CUP SERIES

October 31st--Sr. Dents at Sr. Meds.--J. W. Douglas.
October 31st--Sr. Arts at Trinity--W. A. Hewitt.
November 1st--Jr. School at Jr. Meds.--J. W. Douglas.
November 1st--St. Mike's at Forestry (Vic Campus)--W. A. Hewitt.

VARSITY RIFLE ASSOCIATION

The Varsity Rifle Association held a very successful meet Wednesday afternoon. Dents won the DeLory Shield with a score of 420 out of a possible 525. Science came second with 394. Meds, U.C., and Vic came next in their respective orders. The winners were McDonald, Robertson, Currie, Wilson and Allen with scores of 88, 87, 85 and 83 respectively. Schemmatt, of Science, won the O.R.A. Silver Medal with a score of 88. He tied with McDonald, of Dents, but was awarded the prize because he made a higher score at the 600 yard range. The winner of the Forestry Medal for tyros will be published later.

Professors Lash, Miller, Cockburn and Needler, former Captains of the Varsity Rifle Association, were present. Captain W. S. Dymond, District Musketry Officer, supervised.

Varsity Basketball Practices, Tuesday and Thursday at 6 p.m. All those wishing to try out for the Varsity teams, turn out Tuesday, November 1.

Again have the women proved themselves to be supporters of the Blue and White. Their full quota of tickets was sold out two days before the game and many anxious crowds were forced to accept a regretful "sold out" because they put off getting one until the last minute. We heard of one who worried every time she heard the phone ring for fear that some man was going to ask her to go to the game after she had bought her own ticket.

VARSITY LOSES TO MCGILL IN TENNIS

McGill Wins Both Singles and Doubles in Hard Matches

McGill University tennis representatives were successful in defending the Intercollegiate Championship honours when they defeated the University of Toronto tennis team.

Guillet, playing No. 1 for Varsity, was beaten by Ramsay of McGill in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0.

Scott, playing 2nd on the team, was the only Toronto man to survive the first round. He defeated his opponent 6-2, 6-4.

Larkin met defeat after a very hard and long tussle. Morris defeated him 4-6, 10-8, 6-0.

Burrows was also defeated in a three set match. The set scores were 1-6, 6-2, 6-2.

In the doubles Ramsay and Douglas defeated Guillet and Banbury. Score: 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

Urkun and Burrows won their first round but were defeated in the finals by Ramsay and Douglas. Score: 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

In the singles, Scott, who had reached the second round, fell before Ramsay, who played off the finals with D. V. Morris, also of McGill.

WESTERN WALLOPED BY VARSITY SECONDS

Overwhelming Score Rolled Up By Moore and Skaitth

Varsity II scored a decisive victory over Western University on an Intercollegiate Rugby game on Saturday at the back campus, Saturday morning. Varsity outplayed their opponents at all times and if they had not been weakened by the absence of several players who were subbing for the Seniors would have made many more points.

For Varsity, Moore was the outstanding wing man, going over for two touches and bucking well all the time he was on. Baker also bucked well and paved the way for the touch in the last quarter. Borsook and Sproule, the outside, got in some nice tackling and were well up on the kicks. Stuart did the kicking and judged his distance and power was also the pivot of some nice end runs. Skaitth who was playing his first game for the Seconds, fitted in nicely on the half line and scored on a very pretty drop kick.

Western's best were their two outside, Baily and Campbell and Cowley who did the kicking. Western were considerably handicapped by the absence of Line and Traylor who started in the game Varsity played at Western a week ago.

First quarter. Neither team showed to much advantage in this quarter. Varsity were present at the time, but could not score. Henderson hurt his ankle and was replaced by Skaitth. Score at end of quarter Varsity 0, Western 0.

Second Quarter Varsity got going better in this quarter and by continually forcing the play kept the ball in Western territory. Moore went over for a touch shortly after the quarter opened and Stuart failed to convert. After the kick off Varsity carried the ball down the field and Moore bucked over for another touch which Stuart again failed to convert. Half time score: Varsity 10, Western 0.

Third Quarter--Varsity forced the play again in this quarter but did not score much because of loose ball carrying. Stuart kicked to the deadline for a point and a little later a safety touch resulted from one of his long punts. Score at three-quarter time: Varsity 13, Western 0.

Fourth Quarter--Varsity showed their best rugby in this period. Skaitth started things going by a very pretty drop kick from 35 yards out. After the kick-off two end runs and a buck by Baker carried play from half way to Western's 5 yard line. Baker was slightly hurt and was replaced by McCulley. When play resumed Cuto went over for a touch which Varsity did not try to convert. Game over. Score: Varsity 21, Western 0.

JUNIOR DENTS WIN, 9 TO 8

A drop-kick by Gordon McVicar, with less than ten seconds to go, returned Junior Dents the winners in the Mulock Cup game yesterday at Varsity Campus over Junior School by the score of 9 to 8. As the score indicates, the game was hard and closely fought all the way and the winner in doubt all the way. McVicar, on the winners' half line, and Sorby, on School's back division, were the outstanding players of the game.

PHYSICAL TRAINING FEE

The Varsity learns that the Physical Training fee of five dollars which, as announced in a previous issue, is to be imposed by order of the Board of Governors, will be charged against only those members of the University who are taking Physical Training. As only first and second year men are obliged to take P.T. the third and fourth years will be in no way affected.

NOMINATIONS FOR MANAGERS FOR HOCKEY

Nominations for the positions of Intermediate and Junior managers will be received in Mr. Reed's office, Hart House. State previous experience, if any, of nominee. Managers should be second year or higher.

Molasses and Mildness The Welcome for Frosh; The Schoolmen's Old Wildness Hasn't Left Them, By Gosh!

A large number of new members were recruited into "School" last Friday evening in the presence of an equally large number of innocent, gentle Sophomores. It was a most enthusiastic and thrilling affair and in every way up to the dignity and traditions of the "Old Guy".

To suit the occasion the infants donned a special evening dress of original and attractive style. As each one entered the door he was received cordially by two sophs and had his name checked on a prepared list. From there the verdant was advanced to a stamping table to receive the brand of his class. His next feat was to crawl through a tiny aperture to a welcome of palm-tree warts and molasses sweetness, all to the tune of howling-gentleness and murderous mildness. Following this was a rest upon a couch where he was sprinkled liberally with sawdust and again proceeding on his stomach through a barrel for a soothing application of varnish. With this the new member was initiated into the mysteries of the neophyte house. After the operations he was massaged and champagne with style and taste as well as a liberal supply of paint. From whence the transformed one travelled haphazardly over a floor of peas and down a girl-side, now a full-fledged School man.

When the initiation proceedings had ended the throng adjourned to the amphitheatre in rear of Convocation Hall where the chart race was held and the gladiators boxed, scrambled, and yelled their hearts out, cheered and aided by the quelling of many drachms of cider. At the conclusion Dean Milt addressed the assembly and congratulated them on the success of the evening saying that such an affair needed not only a good second year but a better first to ensure success.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO GLEE CLUB

WANTED
100 singers to join a good club with a good reputation previous to and during the winter. Sopranos and altos are immediately wanted. The Glee Club practices in West Hall on Mondays and Thursdays from 4 to 6 p.m. Those who cannot get there owing to studies at 4 p.m. are just as welcome at 5 p.m. A university as large as this one should easily be able to support a Glee Club of 150 members. Think it over. Think of the number of students attending this great institution and find the number that this number must be divided by to get 150. Then ask yourself if this is unreasonable? The executive of the club will meet at 4 p.m. in West Hall Monday to discuss business.

The Masquerade

The Editor THE VARSITY.

With reference to the letter by "S.O.L." in Friday's issue dealing with the limitation of the number at the H. House, the Masquerade de and also the question of the number I would like to inform him as follows:
The House Committee have given the matter every thought and had already secured three orchestras for the evening of the ball, but they have been reserving the announcement until the proper time had arrived.

It is indeed the aim of the House Committee to make the ball as much an all-university function as possible. No one regrets the limitation placed upon the number of guests by lack of accommodation more than they do, but it is their opinion, based upon the experience of last year, that the numbers, as stated in Friday's issue cannot be much exceeded, but if it should become apparent at any time that more tickets could reasonably be issued, the committee will, of course, consider the matter.

Yours, etc.,
PUBLICITY COMMITTEE OF HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Victoria

UNION LITERARY SOCIETY

The Union Literary Society of Victoria College met Saturday evening in Alumni Hall, the chief feature of the programme being a debate between the Third and Fourth Years on the subject, "Resolved that immigrants should not be allowed to come to Canada during the present period of industrial depression." The judges' decision was given by Professor Angus in favour of the Fourth Year, who upheld the negative side of the debate. The debaters were: Affirmative, W. E. L. Smith, 23; C. C. Oke, 23; Negative, R. E. Nurse, 22; F. R. Pakoniam, 22. The judges were: Professor Angus, Professor Robins, and F. R. Murgatroyd, B.A.

In the literary session H. E. Hazlewood led in the singing of several songs, and this was followed by an instrumental duet by M. A. Coyley, 22, and L. W. Brown, 22, and a vocal solo by O. G. Lawson, B.A.

The report of the committee on tickets was received and its work was highly commended on account of the highly successful affair.
A joint meeting of the U.S. and W.L.S. was announced for November 9th. A committee was appointed to receive entries for the Oration Contest which takes place on December 10th.

The U.S. was won on record as favouring the point system in college activities, and a committee was appointed to approach the other colleges on the subject.

E. P. Condon, B.A., was critic of the evening, and Vice-President J. A. C. Kull occupied the chair.

Three basketball teams will play in Ontario Basketball Association this year. The Varsity II in Senior O.B.A., the Third in Intermediate O.B.A., and the Junior O.B.A. series.

Trinity

Spirited oratory marked the regular meeting of the Trinity College Literary Institute on Friday evening, when the resolution that "a protective tariff was in the best interests of the country," was discussed. E. L. Weaver took the affirmative side for the question. While E. B. Harshaw led the arguments for the negative. Following the discussion from the floor, the question was voted on and the opposition who sustained the negative received a small majority. Rev. John Todd, critic of the evening, then commented on the excellent quality of the debate.

TRINITY-WYCLIFFE DEBATE

Last year's finalists in the I.C.D.U., Trinity and Wycliffe, are matched for the second of the University debates, which will take place on Tuesday next in Convocation Hall, Trinity College. A subject of vital importance to the Church, and of interest to every layman has been selected. "Resolved that as a means of Christianizing the world the foreign missions system has lost its usefulness." J. D. Ketchum and A. B. Browne will defend the affirmative, while W. F. Barfoot and J. W. Bell have been chosen to represent Wycliffe in the negative argument.

Mr. Justice Hodgins has consented to act as chairman, and the judges will be Prof. G. S. Brett, M.A., S. H. Hoole, M.A., B. D., and M. W. Wallace, M.A., Ph.D. Judging from the splendid quality of the arguments last year when these two classes clashed and Trinity emerged as champions, this debate promises to be well worth hearing.

VARSITY VETERANS ARMISTICE DANCE

Armistice Day celebrations this year will take the form of an informal dance given by the Varsity Vets. Wednesday, November 9th, is the date, and the scene of the festivities will be the Arcadia. One has but to recall the success of all Varsity Veteran functions—particularly the two informal dances held at the Pavilions—to realize what a treat it is to have on November 9th. The best jazz orchestra in town will supply the music, the catering in the most capable hands, and special Armistice features are to be provided.

Nearly one thousand troops will be clamouring for a limited number of tickets, which go on sale to-day. Two dollars is the price from your Faculty Representative or Hall Porter's desk, Hart House.

VARSITY VETERANS LAUNCH MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Canvassers Out To-day

This morning the Varsity Veteran trumps sounded the call to arms and the rush to the colours has already commenced. For the next three days an intensive canvass will be made, and by the end of that time every "hon soldier" in the U. of T. should be a member of the Association. The representatives making the drive are armed only with application blanks and membership tickets. No arguments are needed, the proposition sells itself. Every returned man knows the necessity of such an organization and the benefits to be derived from it. Social gatherings of the troops are thereby made possible, and the welfare, social and otherwise, of the ex-service men is looked after.

This year an ambitious programme has been arranged, and paid up members naturally receive first call at these functions. Every one remembers the difficulty in procuring tickets for the formal and informal dances last year. This season the demand will be greater. Even though not interested personally in the social affairs all should lend support to a movement which is making life pleasant for old comrades in arms.

The membership fee is one lonely dollar so sign up. Join the Varsity Vets, and keep the old fires burning.

BROTHERTON CUP GOES TO O.A.C.

McAuliffe of Pharmacy Leads Harriers

Making the course of about six miles in 34 minutes and 32 seconds, McAuliffe, of the College of Pharmacy, won the inter-faculty cross-country run staged under the auspices of the University of Toronto Harriers' Club here this morning. By landing four men, two of them second and third, respectively, among the first seventeen to finish, the Ontario Agricultural College captured the Brotherton Team Cup, presented by Mr. J. Brotherton, who started the runners on their long grind.

Weather conditions were ideal, and out of 88 entries about 80 started, and almost all of them finished.

TEACHERS TRAINING CLASS

The Third Teachers' Training Class for Canadianization is being conducted by Dr. Reaman of Central Y.Y. This course consists of six lectures given by Dr. Reaman and is a preparation for taking charge of classes of foreigners in Canadianization.

Not only do students taking this course gain an education in itself, but when they become qualified to teach they receive remuneration for their services. This is a new field open to University students and one that many have already taken advantage of.

where the oldest church is situated, the issue is still burning. If any one has a promise of fruitfulness, it is this acre which has been drenched in blood since the war began, but which is occupied by love and faith and undying hope. The only ones who are not discouraged with the situation in the near East are our ambassadors there—as they see the other promises which they can say with joy: "I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."

John the Divine says that our Leader, with the old sword of the Spirit, the word of God, on His white horse, defies bestiality, terror, the forces of evil. And He will be crowned Lord of Lords first in the near East.

Dr. Zwemer concluded by asking who would go to be a door keeper there, and by appealing to the young people of the University, for their presence out there in the east where they would help on the work that is being done.

University College

Every man and woman in 215 is requested to get in touch immediately with any member of the executive and leave with him two dollars. This will buy one membership card in the year, without which card no one will be admitted to the sacred portals of U.T.S., on Wednesday, November 9th, when the "frosh" and "froshettes" will hold their first class party.

U.C. 274 CLASS PARTY

Don't forget to be on hand for our first class party at U.T.S., on Wednesday, November 2nd, at 7:30 p.m. sharp. Just show your membership card at the door, and a sunny smile, and the social committee will do the rest.

The ghost of Halloween walks to-night at Bloor Street Presbyterian Church. To Students is being held. Invitations numbering over 600 have been issued, but fully twice this number are expected to attend. Bloor Street Presbyterian has been long recognized as a "Home Church" for students of that denomination and the Annual Halloween function has always proved an outstanding event on the College Social Calendar.

University College is the host to-morrow night in their debate with Osgoode on "Resolved that the state should prohibit race track betting and gambling." According to reports, Osgoode Hall is sending up a good quota of men to support H. M. Cody and A. Buchanan, who have the affirmative. U.C. men and women should see to it that the hosts outnumber the guests and afford C. P. Halliday and R. I. Ferguson a good backing. Principal Grant, of Upper Canada College, Professor Currelly and Dr. F. W. Merchant have kindly consented to act as judges. This is an open meeting, and co-eds are welcome, in West Hall, to-morrow night at 8 p.m. sharp.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF MEDICAL SOCIETY

Prof. Olmstead Delivers Interesting Address

The second monthly meeting of the Women's Anglican Club was held on October 27th, at the Deaconess House, 199 Gerrard Street, the president, Miss David, presiding.

After the business of the meeting had been attended to, Miss Bowman was called upon for the informal address which she had promised the Club. While Miss Bowman was speaking the members continued their work, which was the making of surgical dressings for Miss Macrae's department. Miss Bowman has recently returned from Japan and is very well informed on the subject on which she spoke the expression of her pleasure at seeing so many Anglican women gathered together, working so eagerly. She said that she had found that many people had a very wrong idea of Japan. She admitted that the Japanese are notoriously unprincipled in matters of business. She attributed this, to a certain extent, to the influence of the feudal system in Japan. Miss Bowman expressed the belief that, in two generations, with proper training and education, a great advance could be made. The problem to be faced by the missionary is not, however, commercial but educational. Education is a difficult thing to obtain in Japan. Of three hundred students competing and competitive examinations are unfortunately necessary for entrance to a high school, only one hundred can be admitted. The young women, influenced by their wider education and recent acquaintance with Eastern life, are entering all kinds of business. Usually this necessitates the leaving of home and the problems and temptations of these girls are innumerable. One after the other, they are reaching out for something to cling to, and many of them find the needed support in Christianity. The greatest need in that country is for women missionaries to get into contact with these girls.

Miss Bowman stated that the better educated women were beginning to band together and to receive the respect always paid by the Japanese to higher education. In closing Miss Bowman said that, in looking about the room, she could not but wish that among the women present, there might be one or two who would make Japan the field of their work.

Several members then asked questions relative to the subject, to all of which Miss Bowman in a very interesting manner replied. The address was altogether delightful; it gave one a clearer insight into the educational condition of Japan and was very heartily appreciated by the Club.

Before the meeting broke up the announcement was made that the Club expects every Anglican to do her duty in the coming campaign of the Federal Community Service for funds. The drive is to be held on November the ninth, tenth and eleventh. After an appeal for canvassers it was moved that the meeting adjourn.

PROFESSOR ALLCUT NEW APPOINTMENT

The professoriate and students more directly interested will be glad to know enter upon his duties as Associate Professor in the Department of Thermodynamics. Professor Allcut has had a most distinguished career in England. He is a graduate of the University of Birmingham, taking the B Sc degree with honours in Chemical Engineering. Later he qualified for the M Sc degree, the Bowdler Research Scholarship, and the Heslop Gold Medal of Birmingham University.

He was engaged in research on products of combustion, and was a lecturer before the Institution of Mechanical Engineers. For 15 years he was lecturer in engineering in the Smithsian, Munitions Research Institute, where he was director of the school of meteorology and chairman of the Debating Society.

Professor Allcut is an associate member of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, the Institution of Civil Engineers, and the Royal Aeronautical Society. For some time he was engaged in experimental aerodynamic work on the Hushell & International Aero Engine Co., Ltd., at Rugby, Avery, Ltd., of Birmingham, acting as manager of the engineering and testing machine department, which was the original design of the old firm of James Watt & Co.

During the war Prof. or Allcut designed a large number of tail fin arrangements for the Royal Air Force, and the construction of aeroplanes, aeroline engine Company of Northfield, as Chief Inspector of Materials and last year went to France to reorganize the company's tractor manufacturing plant near Paris. Previous to coming to Canada he was in practice as a consulting engineer.

Professor Allcut has done considerable writing for engineering papers and has two books on engineering in course

MUSICAL TREAT DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE

On Tuesday at 5 p.m., a large and appreciative audience attended the first annual recital of the year. Mr. F. J. Moore, University Organist, directed his annual recital, featuring a variety of musical programs, ranging from the classical to the modern. The program included a selection of Mendelssohn and Liszt to the modern Spanish style of Urquiza.

The first number, "The First and Last," was a remarkable example of the composer's style, reminiscent of the style and expression of Bach's familiar fugue, particularly in the central part of the composition. The second number, "The First and Last," was a Sonata in C Minor, which occupied the second place in the program. This magnificent composition, which was a full-length work, was its solo prelude, more animated and sparkling all over and majestic figure.

The meditative, almost mystic melody, which was a full-length work, was its solo prelude, more animated and sparkling all over and majestic figure.

One of the most charming pieces was Tomaric's "Madrigal," with its pensiveness and sweetness of minor harmonies occasionally punctuated by charming bell-notes.

The programme was brought to an appropriate and impressive close with the crashing chorals of Uribe's postlude, the "Salida in E major."

CONGESTION IN THE MAIN BUILDING

The Main Building of this University has, at present, two uses. It is an administration building since the university offices are there and it is a college, for in it the greater part of the University College lectures are given. The registration of University College is twelve hundred and fifty, however, not all these students have all their lectures in the Main Building. Yet granting this, the building is not large enough for its twofold purpose. As an administration building only it would be ideal, for it is central and presents a magnificent outward appearance, but as a college it is inadequate in classroom accommodation and in hall space. The classrooms are neither numerous enough nor large enough and the atmosphere of one is that of torrid climes while a neighbouring room is polar in its coldness. Moreover, the ventilation system is not effective.

However disagreeable this may be to professors and students alike the lack of hall space is even more deplorable. The corridors of the Main Building at ten, eleven or twelve o'clock must present an odd, if not unique, sight to an onlooker, especially if GOSLIN or VARSITY has just come out. Men and women rushing and crowding, the greatest number in the least possible space; little knots of co-eds on the stair leading up to the women's cloak room, crowds of students at the cross-halls, and large groups of men in the rotunda, especially in the way of all who hold life so cheaply as to try to effect a passage through, and a survival of the fittest atmosphere prevailing over all. Rugby tactics are necessary to get near the table where GOSLIN is selling "like hot cakes."

The authorities realize and deplore the congestion in the halls, but they can do nothing unless the student body co-operates with them. An effort is being made in regard to the distribution of VARSITY so that congestion in the rotunda will not be so great. Yet even this measure, when it comes into force, will do little to relieve the situation, it is entirely in the hands of the student body. Every student has it in his or her power to increase or decrease the congestion. Let it be realized by every one that stairways and cross hallways are not for conversation between periods, they will be crowded enough without that addition. While the rotunda is the only meeting place the men have in the Main Building, and therefore it will be crowded, yet its lawful occupants could help matters a great deal, if, at the time of the exodus from the classrooms, they would try to leave a clear passage way through the rotunda. The whole matter is purely a question of being a little more thoughtful and a little less selfish. If the twelve hundred and five students really wished it much of the congestion in the corridors and the unpleasantness arising therefrom would be avoided.

LABOUR AND THE BRAIN WORKERS

By Herbert Tracey, of the British Labour Party

Three years ago a new phrase became current in the organized working class movement of Britain, the full significance of which is not understood by those who regard the Labour movement as one confined to the manual wage-earning class. Leaders of the movement began at that time to speak of "the workers by hand and by brain," and the phrase was embodied in the constitution of the British Labour Party to define the wider conception of the relationships that should exist between those who were actually responsible for the carrying on of the nation's industries and services, as distinct from the relationships existing between them and the small class or group who merely "owned" those industries and services through the investment of their capital therein. To unite in one movement the manual workers with the brain-workers, the man who uses his bodily strength and skill in the production of wealth, with the technician, the supervisor, the administrative worker who directs the wealth-producing processes, has become the conscious and deliberate aim of the leaders of British trade unionism. Labour is a term which has acquired a wider connotation. It is no longer signifies the man who works only with his hands, but includes all who are engaged in productive work, whether of hand or brain, and excludes only those who do no productive work but live idly on the labour of others.

Earlier, the propagandists of Guild Socialism coined an expressive word to apply to the class referred to as brain-workers. This class in Guild Socialist literature is called the "salarist," meaning that large group of workers whose earnings are called salaries, but who are, like the "proletariat" whose earnings are called wages, subject to exploitation under the capitalist system. The salariat fall into the category of employed persons equally with the wage-earners, though the salariat have hitherto identified themselves rather with the class that exploits than with the class that is exploited, mainly because they wear clean linen and are on terms of social equality, within limits, with the controllers of industry who employ them. Much class-prejudice has still to be overcome before all the brain-workers will feel worthy to join the organized working-class movement; and it may be frankly admitted that the prejudice is not all on the side of the brain-workers; there are, in fact, two barriers dividing the working people from all other classes—one, the barrier raised by these other classes, and the other, probably more difficult to surmount, raised by the working people themselves. But it is extraordinarily significant that organized Labour is reaching out to a better understanding with the brain-worker and is seeking closer co-operation with those employed in the administrative and technical branches of industry, on the basis of their common economic interest as producers of the wealth whereby the nation lives.

The desire of organized Labour to further the organization of the brain-workers and to establish closer relations with them has arisen from a recognition of the fact that without their co-operation the democratization of industry cannot be carried very far; without the help of the technicians, supervisors, and administrative workers, fundamental changes in the conduct and control of industry in the direction of more democratic methods and the dethronement of industrial autocracy cannot be adopted with much hope of success. Labour quite frankly admits that at the present time it lacks the knowledge and experience necessary for the efficient management of the great industries and services to which it is nevertheless determined to apply democratic principles. It is not content to demand the transfer of these enterprises from private to public ownership; it claims for the workers engaged therein a share in the management, and a voice in determining the conditions under which they shall be carried on. It is as much opposed to the bureaucratic administration of industry as the strongest in individualism can possibly be; it sees no point in substituting control by the politician, who knows nothing about it, for control by the private owner who often possesses technical knowledge and first-hand experience of the day to day problems of management. But Labour is definitely asserting its right to a share in the control of industry, and by entering into closer association with the brain-workers who are more directly concerned with technical organization and administration, hopes presently to be in a position to assume entire responsibility for the conduct of industry. And with workers' control will come far-reaching social transformations.

The relations of the brain-workers with the manual wage-earners are, therefore a matter of vital interest to university men who are preparing for careers as technicians, supervisors, and more or less specialized administrative workers. It is also of interest to those who are preparing for professional careers not directly related to industry, including medicine, and scientific research, the ministry, and the arts, as well as politics, the civil service, and public administration. For all who propose to enter upon such careers, the question of Labour's aims, and of their relations to Labour, is a matter of importance. It is no longer possible to plan even an individual career with an entire disregard to the challenge that organized Labour is making to the established order. The artist, the research worker, the doctor and the teacher, are finding it necessary to come to terms with this movement, not less than those who will be concerned with problems of industrial management; and not only as citizens and members of society, but as professional workers themselves. For this movement is working towards fundamental changes in the economic organization of society that will affect all classes, will profoundly modify social relations, and will change the focus of life for every one and alter even the nature of personal ambitions and individual aims.

As a social protest, the existence of the organized working class movement cannot be ignored. It can be, and has been, misunderstood and misrepresented. Much of the opposition to Labour arises from a misunderstanding of its methods rather than from any disapproval of its aims. Labour's aims are revolutionary. But its methods, as they have been defined by the British Labour Party, are constitutional and not revolutionary. Labour seeks to win popular support for the economic changes it proposes, and to effect these changes by legal enactment when it has secured political power; and it desires the co-operation of other classes whose work of hand or brain enriches the community and contributes to the well-being of society. Labour is concerned with the moral welfare of the community as well as with its economic reorganization. It seeks to put an end to the strife of classes arising out of economic exploitation, and to set free for creative work in every department of life the best powers of mind and spirit in the possession of all classes and both sexes.

THE MORAL ISSUE

If Labour tells the brain-workers as a body that they too are the victims of economic exploitation, as much as the manual workers, it is not for the purpose of intensifying class bitterness. Why a propaganda which aims at uniting the producing classes in one movement for constructive ends should be denounced as a gospel of social hate is not difficult to understand when the consequences of such a union of producers are clearly seen. It means the end of the system of private ownership of the sources of wealth and the machinery of production, and the transfer of power from small groups to the working masses who form the bulk of the community. Class antagonisms exist. They have produced the social crisis. The breakdown of the industrial system is an obvious and immediate consequence of them, just as certainly as the collapse of the world's economic system is attributable to the hideous hatreds and antagonisms of nations. Labour desires to remove the causes of strife between classes and between nations. The restoration of stable conditions will be possible when we have recovered our moral sanity and deal with the problems of relationship which give rise to class strife as a matter of conscience and commonsense, as Labour honestly strives to do.

In Labour's challenge to the existing order there is both a moral and an economic significance. And for that reason it speaks to all other sections of the community in accents of appeal as well as of warning. The class conflict of the present time arises from the economic antagonism between the masses of producers and the small controlling groups, and from the moral antagonism of the workers to the system of production for profit, under which their labour is treated as a commodity to be bought and sold like iron or coal or any other raw material of industry. No one can understand the nature of the present crisis who does not realize that industry has lost the good-will of the workers. Its manning, therefore, is broken. Within the industrial system all relationships have gone awry. Here is the seat of the trouble. This is the source of the prevailing unrest. From it flow the destructive forces which imperil the stability of society. The organized working class movement aims not at the destruction of society but at its reorganization. It seeks to apply new principles in the control and conduct of industry, and to establish new relationships between those who carry on the actual processes of wealth production. It will accept the co-operation of all who see the need of new methods and new motives in industry, who believe that democratic principles are valid in their application to industry as they are admitted to be in politics and social life, and who will join in the effort not to destroy but to fulfil the promise of a better social order which has brought together in the fellowship of a common purpose and a generous passion the masses of working people everywhere.

MOVEMENT DOES NOT CLAIM INFALLIBILITY

To multitudes of common folk the Labour movement is equivalent to a religion. It is a faith as well as a force. Its leaders often make mistakes, its organized masses sometimes act precipitately and are not always united either in action or in spirit. It falls short of its ideals. It does not claim plenary inspiration, and like Christianity (in the words of Disraeli) it has suffered more from its stupid friends than its lively enemies. Nevertheless, it is the most vital and vigorous of modern movements, and in it men and women of good will can find a comradeship and an opportunity of service not to be found elsewhere. Its appeal is specially addressed to brain-workers because their co-operation is necessary for the realization of its aims.

In the British Labour movement remarkable progress has been made in enlisting the help of men and women of this class. In most of the English universities, moreover, Labour has become a serious rival of the orthodox political parties for the support of the student body, and University Labour Clubs, which recently formed a federation for the purpose of affiliating to the Labour Party, have a large undergraduate membership. Much of the propaganda literature issued by the movement is written by intellectual adherents who, in quite recent years, have come to feel that with Labour lies the hope of the future. In connection with the British Labour Party a series of advisory committees has been set up upon which experts upon the various problems investigated, many of them of high academic standing, are willingly serving in order to give the National Executive of the politically organized movement the best possible advice and information to guide its action on every question of public importance with which it deals.

Recent reforms in the administrative machinery of the trade union movement, sanctioned only last month by the Trade Union Congress, are intended to serve a similar purpose in regard to industrial problems. Labour is equipping itself with the General Staff it requires for effective attack and defence. At the same time, a movement is on foot to organize the supervisory, technical and administrative staffs employed in industry, and a federation of professional unions embracing every grade of brain-worker has been formed. An illustration of the process at work in the Old Country is afforded by the decision of the professional union to which the writer belongs, the National Union of Journalists, to affiliate with the Trade Union Congress; and as this union is also affiliated to the federation of the printing and kindred trades it supplies a good example of the union of hand and brain to which reference has been made here. The process of uniting the producers can be carried just as far as the brain-workers are prepared to go. Labour has opened wide the door.

SENIOR MEDS TOO MUCH FOR SENIOR DENTS

Final Score 14-10

Showing marked improvement on their former game with School Sr. Meds downed Sr. Dents by 14 to 10.

The weather was good but the field was fairly muddy. For the winners Luke and Allen were the outstanding men with Carson, Sidenburg and Campbell standing for the losers.

The ball was kicked off at 4:20 p.m. Meds worked the ball down the field and kicked from Dents' 36 yard line for a first point. Soon after Dents took lead when Sidenburg secured a fumbled ball and ran forty yards for a touch. Coons failed to convert.

In second quarter Meds secured lead when Allen kicked a field goal and Dents were forced to rouse twice.

Half time—Meds 6, Dents 5.

Early in the third quarter Meds secured the ball on Dents' 20 yard line due to a fumble and there buckled over for a try. Allen converted. Before period was over Meds kicked for two more points.

Score 14-5.

In the last quarter Bill Carson raised the hopes of the Dental supporters by one of the most brilliant runs ever seen on Back Campus. Allen kicked from 25 yards out, and there was a fumble over the line on his own line, and ran the entire length of the field, eluding the whole Meds' team for a touch, which was not converted. This ended the scoring for both sides.

Line-ups were:

Meds—Gauld, Allen, Luke, Everest, Harkins, Paulley, Truss, Graham, Pritchard, Swan, Mahaffey, Allan. Subs., Cosgrave, Gossage.

Dents—Langtry, Campbell, Mallory, Wright, Lyons, Johnson, Slaughter, Sidenburg, Clark, Coons, Carson, Finmark, Spares—Smythe, Linghorne, Dundas, Arthur, Sims, Alliston, Morrison.

TRINITY WINS FROM SENIOR ARTS

Makes Three Straight Wins

In a Mulock Cup fixture played Monday afternoon on the Trinity Campus the Sr. U.C. rugby squad was decisively defeated by the Trinity team. Although the field was slippery as a result of recent rain yet play was not slow for both teams worked hard. Nevertheless the better team won. The U.C. twelve could not stand up against the backs of the Trinity team, and the superior running and kicking of its halves. For Trinity Harper's tackling was particularly of a high order as was the work of dePencier, Bell and Moore on the line in bucking right through and making yards. Bell and Moore were responsible for the two touches gained by Trinity in the second and third quarters respectively.

Although neither team scored in the last quarter the play, generally speaking, remained in favour of Trinity and, in fact, there was never any real doubt after the first few minutes of the game as to which team would emerge victorious. To the final score was 14-0. This makes the third win in as many games for Trinity thus far this season.

The teams:

Sr. Trinity—Flying wing, Baker; halves, Sher, Reburn and Matchett; quarter, Deaton; snap, Bone; insides, Bell and Geddes; middles, McKewen and Woodland; outsides, Ryrie and Ross; substitutes, Elliott, Sparrow, Johnston and Stanton.

Trinity—Flying wing, Moore; halves, Smith, F. A. Grey, Thomson; quarter, Harper; snap, Lazier; insides, Bell and Weaver; middles, Chaffe and dePencier; outsides, Harshaw and Smith, L. H.; substitutes, Spencer, MacMillan, Serson, Morrison, Patterson.

Referee—W. A. Hewitt. Umpire—H. A. MacLennan.

C.C.I. GRADUATES

Don't forget that re-union in Collingwood on Thanksgiving Day, November 7. Let's go. Rugby and basketball in the afternoon and banquet and dance in the evening.

Will the following graduates of the Collingwood Collegiate Institute turn out for rugby practice on the Back Campus 5 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday of this week: E. Connolly, G. Prentice, D. There are two medals—first the Bronze Medal which a good many of the boys received last year, and second, the "Award of Merit." Turn out, or you are missing an opportunity also part of your education. Take advantage of it and indulge in this clean and beautiful sport.

CHESS CLUB

The regular meeting of the Chess Club will be held in South Common Room, Hart House, to-night at 8 p.m. This is the last night for entering in the students' chess tournament, so be sure to come and give your name in.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

There is another line to hit. "Shag's" beaten warriors are now but a memory of yesterday. Before us lies a task that should command all our attention. Here it is.

Beat Queen's. Remembering the disaster that was our lot at Kingston a few weeks ago, we can not face this game without a feeling of respect for one of the greatest teams Queen's has ever developed. Both teams will line up for the kick-off with the knowledge that the loser will be virtually out of the race. If we lose, all our hopes of Trophies and Championship are futile. But we won't! If you, Mr. Rooter, support your team in the same manner as you did last Saturday, victory will be ours. The players rely on you to be there. If you are going home for Thanksgiving, postpone your departure until after the game. Don't look upon this important Intercollegiate contest as a mere formality; don't consider that the stage is all set for our victory; remember, oh! remember, over confidence ruined ROME! The Intercollegiate Union is composed not only of McGill and Varsity but Queen's is also a most important member and we cannot overlook the indomitable fighting qualities the Presbyterians have always shown. The game is equal in importance to that of a week ago. Your presence is equally necessary.

INTERFACULTY SWIMMING MEET

A great deal of interest has been evident throughout the University this year in swimming and water polo. We hope, therefore, that this announcement will have a personal interest for every one connected with the University and that the forthcoming event will have your support and your active participation to make it a real success.

On Friday, December 9th, the several faculties of the University will meet in Hart House to compete for the inter-faculty championships in swimming. We will notice in the following list a new event, namely, the 440 yard free style swim. This is a new departure and should prove an interesting event.

The events in the order in which they will be run off are:

1. 50 yards free style.
2. 50 yards breast.
3. 50 yards back.
4. 100 yards free style.
5. Fancy diving.
6. 200 yards free style.
7. Long plunge.
8. 440 free style.
9. Relay race. There will be four men from each faculty, each man to swim 50 yards.

Each man is allowed to enter in no more than three events.

All entries must be handed to Mr. C. M. Wark, secretary of the University Swimming Club, or to Mr. Winterburn one week before the date of the meet.

Mr. Wells has written O.A.C. asking for their entries and we expect some lively competition from them.

There is about one month left in which to train and the meet would be wise to start now.

Every night between five and six o'clock Mr. Roy Lowndes will be present to coach any man wishing good advice. Mr. Lowndes has many new ideas and it would be well to have a talk with him.

SCHOOL LOSES TO MEDS

Junior School lost again last night, 22-0 this time to Junior Meds. As usual they have a good excuse to account for their poor exhibition they gave. Sorry, of touch-down fame, and Parker, two of their best men, were in their usual positions owing to injuries received in the grueling game with Junior Dents. The men subbing in the vacant positions were taken from the line and therefore could not grasp the signals and execute the plays with the snap and dash of the absent halves. This, together with a weakened line, was responsible for many School losses, and the failure to prevent numerous touch-downs.

By the way, if you are a School man, what have you done to help your team win? Have you turned out to every game played by Junior School to root for your team? Or after our first loss did you suddenly become interested in something else? This seems to be the case with a great many, for since our second game School rooting has been conspicuous for its absence, and brilliant plays by members of the team have only been greeted by a few scattered "Atta-boys." Now Junior School has only one more game to play—that with Junior Arts. If Sorby and Parker are back in the lineup the game will be played—otherwise it may be defaulted. In the latter case you may continue as at present. But if we play, turn out and back up Smed and Sorby, and the rest with a good old "Toke Oke." Surely after so many reverses School will show 'em how, and retain the good name of former years. Your backing will help ensure a good showing. Come on gang—Frosh, Sophs and the rest—let's show 'em that School isn't so dusty after all.

JR. MEDS WALK AWAY IN JR. SCHOOL GAME

Uren and Irwin, Med Stars

Score 22-0

Junior Meds and Junior School met for the second time yesterday afternoon. The School men were no match for the heavier Medical squad, nevertheless they tried hard the whole game. Uren and Irwin did most of the line plunging and running for the winners; the latter, kicking also was of great assistance to his team.

School kicked off. Meds in a series of plays carried the ball to their opponents' 10 yard line and kicked a dead line. School tried an onside kick which went out. Meds made their yards twice then went over for a touch which was not converted. Neither team made yards in the remainder of the period; both teams kicked twice and the period ended with Meds in possession of the ball at centre field. Score: Meds 6; School 0.

In the first minute of play, Meds after two spectacular runs went over for a touch, which was not converted. School kicked; Meds returned it and School failed to make yards in two downs, then kicked to Irwin who made a fifty yard run. Meds kicked a doozey. School kicked and Meds got ball on the former's 35 yard line, then made yards twice and went over for a touch which was not converted. School kicked and the period ended with Meds in possession of the ball on their 35 yard line; Meds 17; School 0.

The third period was a little more even. Meds kicked off and School after two downs kicked. Meds lost 5 yards on interference. School got the ball and failing to make yards, kicked. Meds were nixed in their 25 yard line but succeeded in making their yards three times then kicked and School got the ball on their 5 yard line. School failed to make their yards and kicked. Meds ball on their opponents' 25 yard line. Meds had interference and lost 15 yards, consequently kicked. The period ended with no further score.

In the last period Meds put on all their substitutes. Meds in a series of plays carried the ball down near to School's goal and kicked it in but School ran it out and kicked on their first down. Meds made yards twice and tried an onside kick which School ran back 25 yards. Meds were offside and were penalized, consequently kicked. School returned it and Meds made a 50 yard run to their opponents' 5 yard line. Meds made a touch on their first down which was not converted. The game ended with the score 22-0 in Meds favour.

DENTS IN WATER-POLO BEATS MEDS 13 TO 1

Team-Play Weak

Dents met Meds in the first Interfaculty Water Polo game of the season. The score was Dents 13, Meds 1. Meds were noticeably weak in their team play. They worked hard but showed lack of knowledge of the game and poor defence work while the forwards did not follow through. They have good material however, and with practice should be able to give a much better account of themselves in future.

Line up—Meds—Higgs, Hatfield, Lang, Bull, Barton, Morr, Derbyshire, Paton.

Dents—Woods, Reilly, H., MacBeth, Rowan, Nuttal, Bennett, Wright, Riley. Judge of play—Waldron; Referee—Winterburn.

Interfaculty water polo games for the Eckhart Cup are played Tuesday and Friday of each week. On these days Hart House tank is reserved for the games from 5.15 to 5.30 p.m., and from 5.40 to 5.55 p.m.

Water polo practices of faculty teams will not interfere with the general use of the tank. The teams use only the west end of the tank.

All students who intend applying for Rhodes Scholarships are reminded that, in order to give the judges ample time for the consideration of each candidate, they must forward their applications at once. It is imperative that this be done immediately, or else it will cause great inconvenience to both the candidate and the judges. Of the accepted candidates, those who applied first will have a better chance of choosing their own college, at Oxford, so if you are considering applying please do so now.

THE SPIRIT OF QUEEN'S

On Saturday it will be Varsity's privilege and pleasure to entertain the rugby team of Queen's University. We know and expect that Varsity men will treat the Tricolour's representatives with the same measure of cordial good fellowship that McGill was accorded on the occasion of their visit here last Saturday. The position of Queen's in the Intercollegiate Union is one that every one must regard with respect and admiration. The smallest college in the Union, they cannot hope to win the same number of titles as the athletes of McGill and U. of T. Nevertheless they place them in the field which never fail to provoke the largest institutions with stiff opposition. Queen's may well be proud of her representatives who have made such a fine showing in Intercollegiate football this year and Varsity is indeed proud to have them as guests. It is these visits of the men of one university to the men of another university which are the most potent factors in cementing the feeling of good-will between the universities that has put college athletics on their present high plane. We, in the universities, have led the way in the past and we shall lead the way in the future. The future of real sport in Canada lies with the universities, therefore, we must set a standard worthy to be followed and justify the confidence that is placed in our hands. This we can do by ever remembering that we are not sportsmen but sportsmen, not men, but gentlemen, and that it behooves each individual one of us to act as such.

"O WAD SOME POWER THE GIFTIE GIE US"

"Two great lanes of humanity are self-conceit and the laziness coming from self-conceit," says Matthew Arnold.
We all recognize these as failings of humanity but seldom do we search our own minds to find if the aforesaid qualities are rooted there. We flee from the pompous person who radiates self-satisfaction and whose conversation centres about that glorified "I." He has the most obnoxious form of self-conceit and a gradually quantity of egotism as well. We shake our heads and suffer an agreeable glow of satisfaction as we think "At any rate we know better than to boast of our achievements, our intellect and our popularity."
But is this "holier than thou" attitude justifiable? Common sense prevents us boasting of our abilities to others, but we may still be self-conceited. Perhaps we think with a certain amount of smug content of the important executive positions we fill; we may be little "tin gods" of a day and glory in the fact. This feeling of self-satisfaction will vanish when we consider the truth of the cynical French proverb, "Il n'y a pas homme nécessaire."

Laziness is a product of self-conceit for complete satisfaction with our abilities prevents us from developing them. College is no place for the conceited person as we are here to improve our powers, not stultify them. Let us use one and all have proper self-respect but let us beware of that "bane of humanity," self-conceit.

THANKSGIVING

Throughout Canada next Monday will be observed as a day of National Thanksgiving. Is Thanksgiving Day now anything real or is it a mere empty show? Is it more than an excuse for doing no work on a particular day? What is the meaning of the day to us?
Every nation has its national holidays. Those distinctively Canadian are Dominion Day and our Thanksgiving Day. Why should we observe them? Not merely because we need a rest. Canada stands to-day as the realm of sports. They look with pitying tolerance on the spectacle of an open-air initiation or a parade following such festivities. But no person in his senses can fail to regard the interruption and marring of a dramatic production of high calibre, whether the students be the whole audience or merely an incidental part of the audience, as anything but childishness. A letter written Professor Dale's is a timely denunciation of behaviour that is unworthy not only of university students, but of any thinking people. The occurrence of Wednesday afternoon at the Royal Alexandra is merely a repetition of an old story. A few students who are lacking in real college spirit cannot refrain from bringing the University into disrepute.

EVERYTHING IN ITS PLACE

The citizens of Toronto join with sympathetic enthusiasm in a vociferous demonstration by the students on the occasion of a great victory in the realm of sport. They look with pitying tolerance on the spectacle of an open-air initiation or a parade following such festivities. But no person in his senses can fail to regard the interruption and marring of a dramatic production of high calibre, whether the students be the whole audience or merely an incidental part of the audience, as anything but childishness. A letter written Professor Dale's is a timely denunciation of behaviour that is unworthy not only of university students, but of any thinking people. The occurrence of Wednesday afternoon at the Royal Alexandra is merely a repetition of an old story. A few students who are lacking in real college spirit cannot refrain from bringing the University into disrepute.

Correspondence

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Under the new constitution adopted by the Inter-University Debating League it is hoped that debating contests will take a more prominent part than heretofore in inter-university contests.

This year two Varsity teams of two debaters each will be pitted on the same night against both Queen's in Kingston and McGill in Toronto.
An urgent appeal is now issued to those men of the University who are interested in debating and who would like to make Varsity's debating team. The four men comprising the team will be selected within a short time, so it is essential that those contemplating entering should make their applications at once.

Leave name, address and telephone number in the Students' Administrative Council Office, Hart House, and a notice will be arranged. When possible it would be advisable to secure the endorsement of the I.C.D.U. representative of your particular college or faculty.

E. B. HARSHAW,
Chairman, Literary Organizations, U. of T.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY—

Dear Sir,
Is it not deplorable that that some of the students of the University of Toronto should show such lack of taste and we might even say of common good breeding, as to act like rowdies in one of the best theatres of the city?

At the matinee of Wednesday last when "Romeo and Juliet" was being staged at the Royal, by the world's foremost interpreter of Shakespearean plays, the audience was subjected to a disgusting and annoying "by-interpretation" of some of the most tragic and solemn scenes of the play.

We make no pretension to prudishness but we must say that as fellow-students of Toronto University we felt thoroughly ashamed of these other members who after giving undeniable evidence of their association with Varsity, did not hesitate to disgrace their respective colleges by their unbecoming conduct.

Sincerely,
"Students of Shakespeare."

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,
May I suggest that there are times and places where Varsity yells are not in good taste.

At the presentation of "Romeo and Juliet" at the Royal Alexander Theatre, Wednesday afternoon, there was ample evidence that Varsity students were there in large numbers. During intermissions, between acts, various yells were given. The general public, as a rule, exceedingly tolerant of such student chaffs, but when yells are so ill-timed as to interfere with the play, it seems to me that students are guilty of marked discourtesy and lack of consideration. Surely the "honour of U. of T.," about which we shout so vociferously, should be more than a mere empty phrase.

Another very objectionable feature at that particular performance was the way in which part of the audience (presumably students) received the interpretation of certain impassioned parts of Romeo's speeches. To be explicit I refer to the loud snacking emanating from the gallery during the kissing episodes. It is a disgrace to the University that some students should think it necessary to act the boor merely because they are not in the humour to appreciate the actor's interpretation of these passages.

Indignant.

MANNIKIN—PRO AND CON

Editor, THE VARSITY.
Poor Mannikin! Another sacrifice on the altar of honesty. He attempted to do the impossible! But how can a mannikin do better than facing fearful odds! Armed with glimmering truth of idealism he fearlessly strode into the inevitable abyss of failure only to crash mid the flutter of geranium petals, while over his anguished form hovered a lingering memory of lavender and quince and a duplicitous cloud of impalpable talcum lingeringly veiled the wisdom of a fool.

To speak the crystalline truth, robbed of its palliative sugar-coat which chivalry demands, he disregarded all the strategy of discretion and welcomed an enflaming fire of open criticism.

Know, O Mannikin, a man may not criticize with success, he can only flatter,

Far better had you moulded your remarks after this fashion: The modern young lady undergraduate despises her home and sacrifices those ennobling trivialities for the more widely advertised but soul-constructing activities. In doing so we cannot fail to commend the spirit which denies itself that character-building sphere of advantages for the small recompense, the petty glamour of short-lived popularity and the scorched wings of a butterfly's romance.

But to mention little Willie's necessities, to court the familiarity which breeds contempt, were to dash your head against the screeching rocks of female opinion. JUST A SYMPATHIZER.

The Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,
I have just read a letter in THE VARSITY by "Another Co-Ed" in which she asks the question: "Do the men of the University agree with Mannikin? If so, then chivalry is indeed dead." May I state in reply that it is my honest opinion that chivalry is not quite dead in Toronto University yet.

This particular Co-Ed complains that she cannot understand why it was that Mannikin's letter was only answered by E-Eds and not by any of the university men. I believe the reason for this lies in the fact that the majority of university men did the same thing that I did—they read it, laughed at it as a huge joke without believing one word of it and then forgot it as trash.

As to the matter itself which is being debated in the columns of THE VARSITY with such volubility, I may say that I entirely disagree with Mannikin. I also believe that this is the general attitude of the majority of university men. Mannikin's ideas upon woman's sphere in the world belong to the Old Stone Age. When I proceed to choose a partner (which will be his best chance) I will look for a companion and not a housekeeper. What do I care whether she makes a few disastrous mistakes in the preparation of the meals? What do I care whether she can make over my trousers for young Willie, which I sincerely hope she never has to do for Willie's sake because I remember when I was younger when I needed a new pair of trousers I wanted a new pair and not Dad's old things made over. No, what I want is a companion. Now by a companion I mean a girl who is equal, mentally, physically, socially, and every other way. I want to marry a girl for love's sake, for what she is as a girl and not merely for a housekeeper.

Now what in the wide world is going to develop girls into women who are decent companions more than a young woman, go to it with all your might. Get all the education you can. A good many men talk like Mannikin but they can't compete in any sphere with a woman because she outstrips them every time and so they get jealous and rave. I wonder if Mannikin has had a taste of this lately in his career at Varsity?

But I must close for this time which is extremely difficult to do as the subject is so interesting. I wish the young ladies of Varsity who have the sanitation and push to get a higher education every success in all their activities and studies. Here's to you, ladies.
Yours sincerely,
AN UNDERGRADUATE

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,
A few days ago there appeared in your paper an article signed Mannikin, and from the protests which rose against it, one would be tempted to think that his opinion is generally held by the men students of Toronto University. Another Co-Ed seems to think so, as in Nov. 2nd issue she says: "If the men of the University agree with Mannikin, then chivalry is indeed dead."

I was indeed surprised to read the letters, written by the Co-Eds, regarding Mannikin's outrage, because silent contempt is one of the best methods of combating a writer of his stamp. Had he been ignored he would have seen that his letter was of no account. But there has been such a storm of protest, he is likely gloating over the thought that his letter struck some people very hard.

Now, Co-Eds, treat Mannikin through the columns of THE VARSITY in much the same manner as ladies, "in the days of old when knights were bold" treated renegade knights.

NEW LEAGUE FOR BASKET-BALL PROBABLE

Annual Christmas Tour

The coming basketball season appears full of promise and the achievements of the first one should be more than duplicated. The first practice for the Varsity teams was held last Thursday. On Monday the managers of the various Sifton Cup teams got together in Hart House under the presidency of John Lowe and discussed plans for the intercollegiate series. As fall comes on and the rugby schedule is completed the various teams will buckle down to real work at the great court game.

Varsity will again have several teams in the field. The first team should be at least as strong as last season. Captain Graham will have Logan, Bell and Tuffill for centre and defense. Leon Smith, the star of last year's team, should make one forward position, while Stewart, MacDougall and Holmes will try out for the other. Seven men and the manager will go on the annual Christmas and New Year's trip through New York state, playing games in New York City, Troy, Rochester, Buffalo, Syracuse, and other places. Under the able management of Al Dickson this trip has become one of the features of the basketball season, and it certainly has had much to do with bringing home the Intercollegiate Championship two years straight, since it gave an opportunity to perfect teamwork and accustomed the men to playing teams with different styles of play on strange courts. Since the opening of the Intercollegiate League in 1920 Varsity has won out five times to McGill's four. McGill will certainly make a desperate effort to even the count, and only patient, hard practice will bring the third straight championship to Toronto.

The second team will be entered in the Senior Section of the Toronto and District Basketball League, which is affiliated with the O.A.B.A. Should it win the section it will be entitled to enter the Ontario semi-finals and finals. Plans are on foot to organize an Intercollegiate Championship League with Varsity, Western and O.A.B.A. in a western group, and Queen's, McGill and R.M.C. in an eastern group. Last year the second team won the western group without a defeat, but no eastern group was formed. The two series will not conflict, as the schedule of the 1 and 2 Leagues ends fairly early in the season.

The third team will be entered in the Intermediate Section of the T. and D. League, and if it wins will enter the Ontario semi-finals.

A Junior Varsity team composed of men under 20 by January 1, 1922, will be entered in the Junior Section of the City League, and should enough good material turn out a Junior Team will be entered.

HOCKEY NOTICE

Nominations for the positions of Intermediate manager and Junior manager will be received in Mr. Reed's Office, Hart House. Nominations should be second year or higher. Nominations will be received until Wednesday, November 9th.

REGISTRATION OF HOCKEY PLAYERS

Hockey players who intend to try for positions on the Senior, Intermediate or Junior teams must fill out an application form to be obtained at Mr. Reed's Office, Hart House. This matter should be attended to at once as hockey practices start next week. Those who are playing on any of the rugby teams should register now and they will be given a chance later.

in the Juvenile Section. Juveniles must be under 18 on January 1, 1922.

The second and other teams offer an excellent chance to get experience and training in a type of game a little faster than is met with usually in intercollegiate contests, and serve as "farms" for men who in time expect to try out for the first team. At the same time a man who plays on them is not prevented from playing for his own faculty, as only first team players and spares are so barred.

All who expect to play Varsity basketball should turn up. Every man will be given a full chance to show what he can do and will then be assigned to the proper squad.

Further information as to Varsity basketball may be obtained from H. H. Caple, Secretary of the Basketball Executive, 142 St. George Street, Coll. 8884. Other officers of the Basketball Club are: President—W. H. Duffill, 537 Palmerston Boulevard, Coll. 878. Vice-President—J. Lowe, Trinity, Coll. 3501.

The Vice-President has charge of the Sifton Cup Series.

First Team Manager—R. P. Stewart, Gate House, Buryash Hall, North 8126. First Team Captain—J. D. Graham, 17 Wells Street, Coll. 1109.

The managers for the other teams will be appointed shortly.

BOXING CLASSES

Boxing classes for beginners will commence Tuesday, 9th inst., at 5 p.m. Learn the p.m. in a group class and then you'll be ready for free work. Students who can box may secure gloves from Sgt. Dunlop, any time from 9 to 6 p.m.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

Before we turn our eyes too far into the future where Championship Mugs and Applauding Thousands obscure our view of realities let us consider with due reflection the task that is immediately before us. We have not by any means cinched the Intercollegiate title, let alone Dominion honours. The chief obstacle in our path at present is George Avey's Kingston Klan and this obstruction in the thorny road to titular honours is not of the picnic type. Let us be candid. Queen's have a good chance of beating us right here on our own field before you and the other Varsity supporters who will crowd the Stadium on Saturday. Here is the dope. Queen's beat Varsity 9 to 5 in Kingston and showed themselves to be a first-class team. Then they were soundly beaten by McGill in Montreal and McGill in turn were decisively defeated here last Saturday. This would indicate that our margin of superiority over the Tricolour is a large one. However, there are two factors that we must not overlook. The Queen's team that was defeated by McGill was a team of sick and disabled players who could not do themselves justice. Moreover Queen's will play us at our own game, kicking and open field play. Lastly, Harding and Campbell will be worthy opponents for Snyder, Semoville and Hobbs and the game should be highly spectacular. We are not pessimistic over the outlook but it is better by far to face a game of this nature with an apprehensive feeling than with the over-confidence that has lost many games in years gone by. We're behind Jack and Gord. And we must show that we are by attending in full force on Saturday.

VARSITY SECONDS DEFEAT ST. MIKE'S

Break Tie For First Place

Under ideal football conditions, Varsity II defeated St. Michael's College, on Wednesday, at the Stadium, to the tune of 19 to 5, in an intercollegiate intermediate fixture, breaking the tie which existed for first place.

Shortly after play commenced, Ketchum took the ball around the end for 15 yards, which was converted. Lebel was forced to rouge. St. Mike's soon after scored on an extended run, Troy taking the ball across the line. The touch was not converted and the quarter ended, 6 to 0 for Varsity.

In the next period Varsity broke through and smothered St. Mike's trick play. The loose ball was carried over for another unconverted try. Lebel and Troy rouged and Varsity kicked to the deadline, ending the period half-time score 13 to 5 for Varsity.

Third quarter. Young, Stewart and Ketchum each in 20 yards, but lost some ground on bad punting. Troy showed his class in running back punts. Troy, whose high ability is questioned, was forced to retire and Campbell replaced him. Lebel was forced to rouge on Stewart's kick. Varsity stole the ball and scored another deadline. Brock replaced McKewen. The best football of the game was produced in this period.

Three-quarter time, 15-5. St. Mike's gained yards on an onside kick but lost the ball. Ketchum kicked to the deadline and later again rouged. On Varsity's onside kick the ball went to the deadline. Haines replaced Al Moore for Varsity. Dillon gained 20 yards, and the period and game ended Varsity forcing another touch, making the score 19 to 5.

The brand of football displayed certainly deserved better support. The Intermediates' halves gave a brilliant exhibition and Ketchum and Stewart both kicked well. For St. Mike's, "Nig" Lebel showed his forte, broken field running, while Troy and Dillon proved able ball-carriers and tacklers. St. Mike's have another game with Varsity and hope to make a "seven Steven."

SOCCER SEMI-FINALS APPROACH

Vic. Wins Group

Med's won their second game from Knox by a score of 1-0. The play was rather even throughout. The score was made near the end of the game. The first time Med's won from Knox it was considered a lucky win for Med's, but Knox were fairly beaten in the second game. If Med's can win their next game from Dents on Thursday they will be tied for group honours unless Wyckie can win from Med's, which is hardly expected. Med's and Dents played a close game when they met before so the game on Thursday should be worth watching.

On Monday Pharmacy rather upset the game by winning from Arts by the score of 2-1. Arts were handicapped by only having ten players out.

Victoria and Pharmacy played the final game in Group No. 2 of the intercollegiate soccer series on Wednesday. Victoria were winners by a score of 1-0. The game was close, as the score indicates, especially when the goal was scored on a penalty kick. The game had no bearing on the group results as Vic. had already won the group. Pharmacy have been getting the best support from their faculty of any of the teams in the series.

School and Vets. played a game in Group No. 3 on Wednesday and School won by a score of 3-0. The game was very one-sided. Bishop, of School, got five goals to his credit. The ball seldom got near School's goal at all. School have a well balanced team and should give a good account of themselves in the final.

The semi-finals will start next week. The winners of Group No. 1 play off with winners of Group No. 3. Victoria have to play O.A.C. in the semi-finals. These games should provide some good football and will be well worth watching. All the interested in soccer are sure to be on hand to do a little rooting and help along the sport.

GYMNASIUM CLUB

The executive of the Club have been very pleased with the number turning out for practice this season. Work has just started and the officers of the Club more than welcome any one who cares to take up gymnastic apparatus work. Those with previous experience are especially invited to turn out Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at five o'clock. Intercollegiate competition in this sport was just started last year, resulting in a win for U. of T., and this year we intend to make a strong bid for honours again. This year's executive will be announced later.

U.C. vs. School

Friday, November 4th. To-day U.C. plays school. We expect a very severe test of skill and endurance as the two teams are well matched. School will be well represented in the gallery and it is hoped there will be enough to drown the cheers of the U.C. supporters.

SR. MEDS 11—SR. SCHOOL 3

Sr. Meds won their group honour by defeating Sr. School in a hard-fought game, 11-3. The game was very even until the last period when the superior weight of the Medicals began to tell and play was almost continuously in School territory. Alvin kicking to the deadline several times after the ball had been worked up the field by line plays. Twice in the final session the plucky School team held their heavier opponents for three long downs on their own side line. The game was featured by the splendid punting of "Chuck" Alvin, and the line-playing of Pritchard and Graham. Rudy was the most effective player on the School team and was always in the line, together with Goudie who made several good gains on the line. The only touch of the game came in the first quarter when Everest of Meds grabbed a ball pass near the School goal and fell across the line for a try, which Alvin converted.

Line-ups: Sr. Meds—Quarter, Harkins, Flying, Gould, Hayes, Alvin, Bell, Everest; Snap, Alvin; Inside, Mahabury, Swan, Middle, Graham, Pritchard, Outside, Paddy, Truax; Spares, Gratz, Congrove.

Sr. School—Quarter, Baird; Snap, Pollis; Halves, Bell, Rudy, Longworthy, Langlois; Outsides, Baird, Hamilton, Goudie, Johnson, Stokes, Ross.

ORIENTAL CLUB

On Wednesday evening, November 9th, M. C. Sauerbrey, of Wyckie, will address the Oriental Club at Hart House on "Babylonian Parallels to the Old Testament." Here is a chance to find out if there is any truth in the claim that the stories of the Creation, Deluge, etc., come from Babylonian sources. All men in the University taking Hebrew are requested to turn out in force and make this the best meeting yet. And remember that a real meal is to be served in the Faculty Union. Every one will meet outside the Faculty Union at 6:20 p.m.

Trinity

The interest which students are taking in spiritual matters was plainly illustrated by the large attendance which was present at the initial meeting of the Trinity College Theological Society on Monday evening. The meeting opened with a short talk by Bishop Hamilton, of Mid-Joplin, who gave some interesting facts about the work of the Church in the East, emphasizing the need of university men to assist in it. The essayist, J. A. Philip, read a very clever paper on "Religion, Real and Conventional," in which he pointed out the need for thought on the fundamental ideas of our faith. The two set speakers, K. W. Hill and J. F. Davidson, then gave equally good talks on the subject, after which the discussion was thrown open to the house, and many new opinions were voiced. Walter Beckett, of Hart House, and Rev. W. Clark, of St. Augustine's Church, visitors of the Society, took part in the discussion. The meeting ended with valuable comments on the subject by Rev. Professor Duckworth and Rev. Canon Robt.

DENTISTRY

The Executive of the "Dental Nurses' Alumni Association held a meeting, Tuesday, November 1st, at the Annie Laurie Tea Rooms. During a very delightful dinner plans were discussed for their coming dance which is to be held in the near future in aid of Dental Research work. It was also announced that Dr. A. Webster had kindly consented to speak at their next monthly meeting, which is to be held at the R.C.D.S., on Tuesday, November 8th.

CHESS CLUB

At the meeting of the Chess Club last Wednesday evening Mr. Freeman played five of the members present in simultaneous chess, winning by the score of 3-1-2 to 1-1-2. The entries for the annual tournament were closed, and the draw announced. There is a gold medal for the winner of the tournament, somewhat similar in design to the medal for the winner of the City Championship, which is being presented by Mr. R. G. Hunter, one of the leading chess players in the city. The draw is as follows:

Group 1	Group 2
F. B. Coles	A. B. Doran
H. Weiss	A. B. Doran
F. B. Coles	I. Kenen
W. W. H. Coulter	E. W. Dalton
J. P. Dandy	A. F. Hunter
Group 3	Group 4
H. Miller	E. Cowan
C. E. Lewis	B. Shaffer
J. D. Barank	A. C. Thrupp

Each player will play two games with the others in his own group, and they are requested to play these games as soon as possible.

CONVOCAION HALL CHOIR

A number of voices, especially for the soprano, alto and tenor parts, are urgently needed for the Convocation Hall Choir. All members and any others desirous of joining the Choir are requested to attend the practices every Wednesday at 5 p.m. in West Hall and Saturday at 12 noon in Convocation Hall.

U.C. 2T6 ELECTIONS

The election for the first year representative on the Students Administrative Council will be held in West Hall this morning (Friday, November 4th) from 11 o'clock to 2. The two men nominated are Robert Jay and C. S. Haines. Every man be out to vote.

inst., and not on November 2nd as erroneously reported in the Varsity a few days ago.

Applied Science

The Fourth Year School Smoker held Tuesday night at Hart House proved one of the most successful social functions as yet credited to the class. The big event of the evening was the much-heralded ball game—miners, civils and metallurgists vs. the rest of the year. Considering that the Gull Lake stars were far from the home ground their showing (or rather their lack of same) may be diplomatically accounted for. Even so, the final score of 14-0 did not, in the conventional parlance, represent the play. When the demands of the inner man had been somewhat appeased the programme was resumed in the Common Room. "Bull Durham," the unofficial class yell, was revived with great gusto by the old original as were also the war cries of IT9 and IT8. The evening broke up with an old-time sing-song.

S.P.S. DEBATING CLUB

ANNUAL SCHOOL ALUMNI REUNION GREAT SUCCESS

Predominance of School Spirit Marks the Two-Day Programme

The annual reunion of the School Alumni was an unprecedented success, according to reports from the executive. The old School spirit, which has been the subject for comment by many authorities in the University, was distinctly predominant throughout.

On Friday at 4 p.m. the reunion commenced with the official opening of the new Electrical and Applied Mechanics Building. The Alumni registered at the main entrance and were received by President and Lady Falconer, Dean and Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. C. R. Young. After inspecting the laboratory and research rooms the guests partook of refreshments on the top floor and were entertained by the music of the Toile Orchestra. Many notable guests were present, as well as Alumni, who have gained great prominence in their profession but more noticeable was the spirit of fellowship which existed between those who have risen to the height of success and those who have not been quite so fortunate. This marked the attainment of one of the chief objects of the reunion.

In the evening a dinner dance was held at the King Edward and was a jolly affair. The annual meeting of the Association was held Saturday morning. President W. J. Francis, in his address, assured Sir Robert Falconer of the loyalty of Science students to the University. He spoke with great reverence to the late Dean Ellis and complimented Dean Mitchell for the way in which he has carried on the work.

Sir Robert Falconer said that no faculty showed more loyalty to Varsity than the School. He suggested that a record of the successful graduates be kept since many of the best engineering feats of Canada had been performed by School men.

Referring to the status of men who had left the School after three years' study under the old system, he said that a resolution would be introduced in the Senate to the effect that these men would be given all the privileges of those who held degrees.

Dealing with the question of a post-graduate course in Hydro-Electric engineering Sir Robert said that no university was better situated for the purpose. Dean Mitchell expressed delight at seeing many old friends and pointed to the fact that the strength of a university was not in numbers but in the loyalty of its graduates. He said he was anxious to note the number who had entered the School "ad eundem statum" in order to get a Toronto degree. Post-graduate work has been raised by means of scholarships. Several subjects will be added to the courses which will be of a cultural value to the students.

Saturday afternoon was taken up by the Queen's Varsity game and a reception by Professor Falconer. The annual banquet was held that evening with many distinguished guests, including the Lieut-Governor, present. Sir Robert Falconer, in his address, said that such was the enjoyment that words cannot describe it.

Mackenzie King Addresses Enthusiastic Audience

TARRIF REVISION IS DISCUSSED BY LEADER

Before an enthusiastic audience that filled Massey Hall to the topmost gallery and made an overflow meeting necessary in the Labour Temple, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Finance, spoke for an hour and a half Saturday night. After an extended criticism of the Meighen Government, his speech was mainly a statement of Liberal policies to be pursued should his party be returned to power.

No one man should have the right to decide the issue of an election and the deciding issue of the day is not as Mr. Meighen has stated, the tariff, but is whether the people are to have a voice in the administration of the country. Since the election of 1911 the people have not been consulted as to their wishes and the present administration attacked the Prime Minister for conducting the Government in such an autocratic manner for the benefit of powerful interests who, he said, are not without influence. Liberal Government would be for the mass of the people, not the favoured few. As regards the tariff, Mr. King contended that public ownership must be given a fair chance. He was not in favour, however, of consolidating the Canadian National and Pacific railways. Competition is but a stimulant to strong growth and Canadian railways will thrive on it.

With an annual revenue of 500 millions of dollars required there is not the slightest possibility of free trade, nor does the General Tariff duty, he felt, the Party does want a revision of the tariff, and when it is revised it will be revised in a manner that will protect the producers and consumers of the country and not the special interests, mergers, combines and monopolies. The tariff can be made a wall about a country which prevents any entering goods from entering to the great profit of a small number of manufacturers within the country, or the wall can be made so high that the height, allowing certain articles and commodities into the country that, while in no way injuring any home industry, would tend to lower prices to the benefit of the consumer and the worker. This second condition is the aim of the Liberal Party.

Mrs. H. H. Carpenter, President of the Women's Liberal Association of Ontario, spoke briefly on the death of Lady Laurier and then proceeded to bring the present condition of the country to the credit of obtaining the enfranchisement of women, one of the accomplishments of the Liberal Party. The expensive advertising of the Conservatives also received due attention and the speaker gave it as her opinion that the money would be better spent on the unemployed and the soldiers.

An extended ovation was given James Mackenzie, Liberal candidate for South Toronto, as he arose and launched into an arraignment of the Government for its attitude towards the delinquent Board of Commerce. Mr. Mackenzie gave a detailed account of his connection with the Board and charged that through the deliberate neglect of Canadian and Ontario interests the Board was deprived of its power to act against profiteering or put into effect the Combines and Fair Prices Act. Without the leadership of a Chief Commissioner the Board was useless. Despite strong representations Ottawa would not appoint the necessary man. "Hard times," Mr. Mackenzie quoted, "are produced by profiteering with the Commandments." "Men in high places," he continued, "are permitting special and protected interests to steal, from the people of Canada, unfair profits. They are violating the spirit of the Eighth Commandment."

SKETCH CLUB PLANS INTERESTING YEAR

On Monday next, November 14th, at 8 p.m. there will be a meeting of the Sketch Club in Hart House.

A short business meeting will start the fun and announcements of interest will be made. The speaker for the evening, however, is Mr. Bertram Forsyth, director of the Theatre in Hart House. Mr. Forsyth has been very generous in accepting our invitation as all his rehearsals are at night, so come along. It will be very interesting.

The Sketch Club, contrary to a general feeling, is not an exclusive club. A man does not have to be an artist or an architect in order to become a member. But any gentleman who has been interested in art or hopes to be interested in the Fine Arts, more particularly in pictures and so forth, is cordially invited to come out and have a good time. The present members of the Club are very keen and the activities of the Club bid fair this year to surpass in pep and real enthusiasm all others.

The business of arranging the yearly exhibition of paintings in Hart House is now in the full charge of the Sketch Club and, well—we're really doing things this year.

The opportunities of such a club in this large university—nearly devoid of art education—are unlimited. Toronto is rapidly becoming quite an art centre, and the Sketch Club is aiming to establish a genuine interest among university men, undergraduates, members of the faculty and graduates.

Talks and practical demonstrations by leading Canadian artists will be current throughout the year. Mr. Wylie Grier, R.C.A., conducted the Club through the Grange last Thursday evening and his talk on the exhibits was very much enjoyed by all.

Members are here reminded that designs for the University Christmas Card must be handed in, name and address on the back, by Friday, November 11th at 5 p.m. These drawings will be accepted at Post Office, Engineering Building, or the Post Office, U.C., or the Hall Porter's desk in Hart House.

Come on Monday and bring any who are interested. An evening of genuine interest and enjoyment is in store for YOU.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB

Dr. Kirkpatrick will give his last lecture on "Public Speaking" next Wednesday, November 10th, beginning at 4 p.m. in the Graduate Union, at the University Library. All Honour Economic students are invited to be present.

Members of the staff of University College and their wives are saving tea on Thursday of each week in the Graduates' Room of the Library, and will be pleased to see any of the students who would care to come in.

LOST—On Saturday evening, October 29, in U.T.S., at the 212 Class Party, Gold Monogram from Grange Phi Beta Society tip pin. Finder please return to Room 82, Main Building.

In union with vast multitudes throughout the British Empire and the Allied nations, we of the University of Toronto at last express our protest against the conclusion of the Armistice, and shall again call to remembrance those who laid down their lives to ward off a deadly peril, by standing silently for a few moments here we may happen to be, in class-room or laboratory, immediately before eleven o'clock on Friday November the eleventh.

May we also keep in mind and further in every possible way the success of the Conference on Armistices about to be held in Washington

Campaign For Building Fund To Be Launched

Need for Women's Residence Stressed by Committee

In view of the campaign which is about to be launched among the women of the first second year for the U.C. Building Fund, it is essential that the imperative need for this Fund should be known to all the students.

Some two years ago a body of graduates whose interests in the fortunes of University College did not cease with their graduation, organized a committee for the accommodation for the women of U.C. which was hopelessly inadequate. Such residences as existed were far from ideal, and what was much worse—only a small proportion of the women could be accommodated therein. It was decided to start a drive for funds among the graduates and undergraduates. Not until these had been thoroughly canvassed would the General Public be invited to subscribe. Each undergraduate was asked for five dollars a year for three years, and graduates twenty-five dollars a year for three years.

As a result of efforts to date, a total amount of $30,000 has been subscribed, of which $15,000 is in cash. The number of individuals who have done their bit is seven hundred and seven. Corporate bodies in the University such as Sororities have given great assistance, considerable sums having been raised by means of dances, garden parties, candy sales, etc.

Some undergraduates have not yet paid the subscriptions promised, and to these an urgent appeal is made to do so at once. By practical co-operation and prompt payment of dues the work of the committee in charge will be greatly facilitated. The publication of the official figures of registration in University College for 1921-22, shows that the need for new quarters is greater than ever. Each year the registration of women students has steadily increased, with no corresponding increase in residential accommodation. The number of students in U.C., 400 women students, and of this large number only some 175 are in residence. These figures surely speak for themselves. In view of the increased need the committee confidently expects that the women of the first and second years will not outdo the rest in the necessity of their response. Sympathy and Freshness, let not that hard working committee be disappointed in you!

BURWASH MEMORIAL LECTURES

The first of the Burwash Memorial Lectures to be delivered by Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., LL.D., will take place in Convocation Hall on Tuesday evening, November 9, at 8 o'clock. The following is the programme for the series of four lectures to be delivered:

Tuesday, November 9—The League of Nations and World Peace.
Wednesday, November 10—The British Empire and World Peace.
Thursday, November 11—Canada and World Peace.
Friday, November 12—The Church and World Peace.

Tickets may be obtained free by writing to the Bursar of Victoria College.

One more week to the Masquerade! As the time of the Ball draws near there are many announcements to be made. If every one is to enjoy the dance to the fullest possible extent, everybody must take cognizance of the last minute instructions and act upon them.

Since the dancing must cease at one o'clock without fail the dance will positively start at 8.30 p.m. The orchestra will start playing the first dance at half-past eight, whether there is any one on the floor or not, and there will be no extras of any sort, either at the first or last supper.

Dancing may take place, of course, as it did last year, in the Upper and Lower Gyms, which will be served by J. Wilson Jardine's 21-piece orchestra. Two auxiliary orchestras will play—one in the East Common Room, the other in the Reading Room on the first floor. The guests will not only aid the House Committee but will certainly greatly increase their own enjoyment by making considerable use of these two rooms for dancing. As these orchestras will be directly under Mr. Jardine's command the quality of music will be very high, and the three orchestras will be connected by buzzers so that they will all play the same dance number at the same time.

The rendezvous, which will be announced in Friday's issue, will be numbered from A to K inclusive. It is requested that no one make any arrangements to meet friends near the door to the swimming pool, nor in the passage outside the big gym as these are the points most likely to be congested with traffic.

Varsity Veterans Plan Big Night At Arcadia

The Varsity Veterans Annual At Home is generally recognized as one of the smartest dances of the University, if not the whole city. As in the day of yore, when the troops went over the tapes in preparation for the big offensive, tonight the Varsity Vets are having a rehearsal of their big show next February.

The Armistice Dance to-night will surpass any function previously put on by the Association. In keeping with the financial stringency a minimum cost of two dollars buys the magic paste-board, but it has not been found necessary to make sacrifices in any department. This is made possible by the large number attending.

To-night's orchestra is a real find, the jazziest thing ever heard at a University dance. The rations are very distinctive and are bound to find favour with the crowd. A novelty dance is being introduced, and also snatches of vaudeville throughout the evening.

Every faculty has taken up its quota of tickets, but no one will be left out.

So roll up, my lucky, lucky lads. Armistice must be celebrated, and where can it be done more fittingly than with your comrades-in-arms at the biggest and best informal dance.

Programme for Varsity Vets' Dance (to-night, Wednesday) at Moshers' Arcadia:

DOROTHY STEVENS TO SPEAK TO THREE ARTS CLUB

The next meeting of the Three Arts Club will be held Wednesday, November 9, at 4 p.m., in the Common Room of the Women's Union. Dorothy Stevens, the well-known painter and etcher, has consented to speak. Miss Stevens has just recently returned from Spain, where she spent some time, and made not a few delightful sketches. Her experiences in that picturesque land will form the theme of Miss Stevens' address. Tea will be served, as usual, after the lecture.

Masquerade Attractions Grow As Zero Hour Approaches

As to the supper this will take the form of a buffet lunch. The tables in the Great Hall will be formed into a swastika, and will be lighted by large candles. There will be no seating capacity arranged for, and guests are asked not to remove their dishes from the Hall, but to partake of the refreshments while standing in the room. The Great Hall will be open for supper from 9.30 to 12.

The supper will be very simple and yet delicious, and so our medical authority informs us, very much better for the health than the somewhat heavy suppers usually provided at more expensive functions. There will be Punch and Ice Cream, and Cake—the Fruit will be refreshing, but the piece de resistance will certainly be the Chocolate Ecstacy in our youth we once consumed, oh well, no matter.

The function will be honoured by the following patronesses: Lady Falconer, Lady Walker, Mrs. C. H. Mitchell, Mrs. Vincent Massey and Mrs. Primrose and their guests. They will preside over the judging of the costumes in the Grand March. As to this last, every one must, of course, reserve it for their own partner, and do everything possible to keep it in its appointed route. The committee can only make the best possible arrangements, but as to the success of the Masquerade itself, no one but the guests can say. Shall we not, as University men and women all, make this dance one of outstanding brilliance and enjoyment, but yet one of a certain proper reserve? Power is best expressed by restraint.

FIRST AND SECOND TEAMS BOTH WIN OVER WEEK-END

Varsity and Queen's Clash Burlesquers Amuse Crowd

Some "dope-ters" who anticipated the result of rugby games by a comparative analysis of the scores received a distinct shock when Varsity, who had overhauled McGill, failed to pile up a score on Queen's, whom McGill had snowed under. This was principally due to the fact that the style of play adopted by Queen's proved more effective against Varsity than the plunging play of McGill. Again the piling on and high-tackling of the Presbyterians showed up the Varsity backfield with the exception of Snyder. The Queen's secondary defence seemed to be solidly employed in scrambling men who were tackled by the first line of defence. These tactics seemed to disorganize the Varsity team who never combined as smoothly as they had on previous occasions. Although Varsity led all the way they did not seem capable of "putting the game on ice" as they had done with McGill. The game was marred by numerous penalties on both sides. It is interesting to note in this connection that no one was ruled off the field in either of the McGill games. Snyder, as usual, starred. His seventy five yard run for a touch-down was a marvellous bit of work.

The most interesting feature of the game was the burlesque game staged at half-time by the Engineering Society. The Goliaths of the University were stacked up against the Davids. The puzzling shift formations, accurate converting, and black-jack tackling enabled the "Wee Uns" to win. The game was exciting at all times. Seventy-five yard runs were numerous. The burlesques were always funny and avoided any attempts at amateur clowning. It was a clever, commendable performance.

EMBRYO THESPIAN HAS HARD LUCK

Power of Suggestion Proved Fatal

The Director of Hart House Theatre was rehearsing a tragedy, "When the clock strikes eleven and you still have no news, a book of unutterable anguish must be read, and the hero, "Laten, he implied, "Imagine you are out of work, hungry, ill clad, wife sick, children starving." More misery. Still the director was not satisfied. "Imagine had lost the war," he ordered, but still the hero's efforts were dead. In despair the director played his trump card. "Imagine that you are unable to attend the Varsity Veterans' Dance." The ruse worked. "Now we have the proper look which will make our play a success," said he triumphantly. But his joy was short lived. The very thought of such a fate had broken the hero's heart.

Varsity II Win Section in Intermediate Rugby Series

When Varsity II defeated St. Mike's 5-1 on Tuesday afternoon they won the Western Section of the Intermediate Intercollegiate series, giving them the right to play off with R.M.C. for the Intermediate Title. Varsity won this last year and should repeat. The first of the home and home games will be played next Saturday at Toronto. The Seminals are to be congratulated on the way they have come through with their group title. Six straight wins and no losses is a real fine record. The seconds have scored no points to their opponents. They have played four hard games in the last 10 days. Tuesdays' game was very close and in doubt until the whistle blew for time. St. Mike's gave a better argument than a week ago in spite of the loss of Troy their star half. Former of St. Mike's was by all means the star of the game. His long punts were very effective and kept play in Varsity territory for a large portion of the game. Leibel and Dillon were well used and from Mike's the former getting off to some nice runs and the latter tackling well and often. For Varsity Ketchum, Young, and Campbell wrote letters. Ketchum was hit and kicked well, Young did some nice line plunging and defensive work and Campbell wrote letters on the kicks and stopped several punts and runs. Campbell was back in the game at quarter and handled his team well and by dropping back scored several of St. Mike's short and onside kicks.

First Quarter
Varsity evaded six punts and defended the north end. St. Mike's forced the play but were able to score only one point—when Former returned a kick and the ball rolled into touch behind the Varsity goal line. This kick was from half way and the return was nicely done. Play was in the centre of the field for most of the time. Leibel got some nice runs and runs but when St. Mike's was in striking distance they lost the ball for inexperience. A quarter of Varsity hurt the big which had been troubling him for some time and was replaced by Skith.

Second Quarter
Varsity evaded six punts and scored after the teams changed ends. Catto was onside and gained 20 yards for his team. Skith then kicked and by doing so, up to the ball in goals and from Catto was kicked to the deadline. Varsity gained yards on line plunges by Moore, Young and Ketchum. Former was in striking distance they lost the ball for inexperience. A quarter of Varsity hurt the big which had been troubling him for some time and was replaced by Skith.

Third Quarter
Varsity kicked off. St. Mike's returned the ball and scored a try. Catto made 8 yards. Varsity lost the ball in a fumbled pass and got it again when St. Mike's did the same thing. Play went up and down the field for a while but teams doing a lot of kicking. Former doing some nice work for St. Mike's and Catto for Varsity. Catto was in striking distance they lost the ball for inexperience. A quarter of Varsity hurt the big which had been troubling him for some time and was replaced by Skith.

Fourth Quarter
Varsity lost 25 yards when Young failed to give yards. Young made seven yards. Varsity got the ball when it went into touch off a St. Mike's man, but fumbled lost them the ball. Several plays were successful through St. Mike's left wing. St. Mike's tried desperately to even up the score but Catto grabbed a couple of onside kicks which helped Varsity considerably. Play ended in centre field with Varsity in possession.

Full time score, Varsity 5; S.M.C. 1.
Varsity Seconds—Flying Wing, Heyland; Halves, Young, Stuart; Ketchum; Quarter, Catto; Snap, White; Inside, Byrd; Centre, Catto; Backs, Skith, Outside, Campbell, Borsak; Spares, Grant, Skith, McGillibon, Gratt, Druce, Leibel, Heston, Stroule.
St. Michael's—Flying Wing, Dillon; Halves, Kennedy, Former, Leibel; Snap, Dore; Quarter, Brown, Outside, Buck, Leibel; Inside, Skith, Heston, Borsak; Middles, Brad, McGee; Subs, Lynch, Mason, Sheehy, Dunn, Spow, Roder, W. A. Hewitt; Umpire, Mike Rodden.

WOMEN OF UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Beginning Friday, November 11, you will receive your Varsity in Room 82, in the Graduate Union, Main Building. This measure is purely experimental, but it is hoped that by this means the serious overcrowding of the halls and roundabouts will be relieved. Every woman will get her Varsity on Friday in Room 82.

Victoria Defeats Trinity In Mulock Cup Fixture

Superior Half Line Spells Victory For Methodists

In a Mulock Cup fixture played on Vic. Campus on Friday last, Trinity was defeated by Victoria by the score of 11 to 4. The winners trotted out a new half-back in "Tanky", Rowell of U.T.S. fame and to his boot, Trinity over their loss.

The first period produced only one score, a touch by Grey when Rowell booted over. Early in the second quarter Grey returned the compliment and Harper made it 4 to 1 for Trinity with a pretty drop. Vic. snatched an unconverted try on Grey's fumble between two runs and the period ended 8 to 4.

The third quarter was marred by injuries to the players of both teams, the only score resulting when Chant plunged over for an unconverted try.

Trinity came back strong in the final stanza, but lacked the scoring punch while Rowell added another point.

The teams were well matched on the line, but there was a wide difference between the two rear guards. Grey's kicking was very poor, while Rowell got height and distance to his punts. Trinity lacked the steadiness and cohesion of their former games, but are confident the decision will be reversed in the group play-off, provided that Vic. win from Senior U.C.

Rowell, Chant, Hudson and Ferguson played good football for Victoria, while A. Smith, Bell and Harper were representative of Trinity's best.

Line up:—		Trinity
Victoria	Position	Moore
Miller	Flying	Grey
Rowell	C. Halves	A. Smith
Henderson	R.	Thompson
Marr	Snap	Lazier
Ferguson	Quarter	Harper
Tufford	Insides	Weaver
Watson	Insides	Bell
Knox	Middles	de Pencier
Hill	Middles	Chaffee
Chant	Outsides	L.H. Smith
Hudson	Outsides	Harshaw
Turbull	Spares	Morrison
Bates	Spares	Patterson

SOCCER PRACTISE

Would the following please turn out at 4.15 Wednesday to play Varsity Team: Brown, Lucas, Campbell, Gray, Cook, Dreyer, Hyles, Mitchell, Wingfield, Underhill, Bishop, McEllan, Sanderson, Leavoy. Varsity II team goes to Guelph Saturday so this is important.

C. P. Breuls, Manager.

Varsity II Trim O.A.C. Fifth Win For Seconds

Saturday morning Varsity II's won their fifth straight Intermediate Intercollegiate game when they trimmed O.A.C. 14-5. Throughout the game a strong wind was blowing from the north which helped the line defending the north end as several times the ball was blown over the opposing halves' heads and then rolled more than a score of yards to the dead line. The game itself was not an exhibition of the rugby that Varsity teams usually play. The Seconds were decidedly off colour, fumbles being fairly common, line bucks not getting their holes, and in addition they were off-side several times. This trouble is probably explained by the fact that they were playing their third game in a week, and were minus regular subbing for the seniors. The Aggies were best on the line and Heggie's backs yielded yards quite often. Wildman kicked well with the wind behind him and scored four of his team's five points by punts which went to the deadline. For Varsity nobody was extra good. Moore bucked well at times and McGibbon and Young did some good work at secondary defence. Stuart and McVicar made some nice runs but were not sure when catching the ball and kicked rather poorly.

First Quarter

Varsity won the toss and defended the north end with the wind behind them. Play was fairly even with Varsity fencing a little when Borosok grabbed an inside kick on O.A.C. 10 yards line from where Moore went over for a touch which was not converted. Varsity, with the wind, forced the play but could not score as the halves fumbled and kept the play about midfield. White did some nice work stopping O.A.C. backs. Score, Varsity 5, O.A.C. 0.

Second Quarter

With the wind behind them O.A.C. kicked at all chances and kicked to the deadline five times. Play was on Varsity territory for all but the last few minutes of the quarter when Moore relieved the tension by a long plunge and the ball ended with the ball a few yards from O.A.C. line. Score, Varsity 5, O.A.C. 5.

Third Quarter

Varsity kicked off. Gratz replaced Bruce. With wind behind them Varsity drove play into O.A.C. territory. Varsity tried an inside which went to the deadline. Campbell grabbed a loose ball and galloped twenty-five yards for a touch which Stewart converted. McGibbon returned the kick off from Varsity's 40 yard line and the ball rolled from O.A.C. 20 yard line to the deadline. Varsity 13, O.A.C. 5.

Tigers Defeat Varsity

Tigers defeated Varsity 1 to 3 in an exhibition game at Hamilton on Monday. An unusually large crowd was present despite the cloudy day. The field was wet but heavy grass kept it from being muddy.

Due to the tremendous game on Saturday Varsity was unable to present its strongest line up. The team was weakest on the line where the absence of Westman, Carey and Reilly, etc., was felt. Much of the work was thrown on the secondary defence where Hobbs, and in the latter half the game, Patterson, played remarkably strong games. While Tigers had the stronger line Varsity could have won had she been content to luck when within scoring distance.

The game was clean and no further injuries were inflicted on the squad. As the game progressed Varsity put on a stronger team but did not start their rally soon enough.

Tigers—McLenn, rover; Elford, McKelvey and Crocker, backs; Burton, quarter; Ireland, snap; Reid and Gatenby, insides; Turk and Cox, outsidels; Cuyner and Bowman, outsidels; Bowman, McFarlane, Manson, Morris, E. Smith, I. Smith, Rohmer, Evans and Greigell, spares.

Varsity—Kutchen, rover; Somerville, Patterson and Hobbs, backs; Murray, quarter; Weaver, snap; Humes and Hyde, insides; Tuck and Cox, outsidels; Perlman and Prendergast, outsidels; Houston, Taylor, Snyder, Ralph and Fisher, spares.

Fourth Quarter

Varsity with the wind against them made a score the only point scored at the north end when Skaitch, who replaced Stewart, attempted a drop which rolled to the deadline. O.A.C. forced things for a while and were helped by Varsity being off-side twice in succession. On the kick O.A.C. wings were not down and McVicar carried the ball back to midfield. Backs by Heggie took play to Varsity's quarter where the game ended. Final score, Varsity 14, O.A.C. 5.

Varsity: Flying wing, Heyland; halves, Young, Stewart, Henderson; snap, White, Quarter, McGibbon; Wings, Campbell, Borosok; Grant, Druce, Moore, Baker; Subs, Skaitch, Catto, Greig, Gratz, Sproule McVicar.

O.A.C.—Flying wing, Lindala, halves, Dawson, Wildman, Heggie; snap, Murrie; quarter, Edwards; wings, Cockburn, Harnes; insides, Sussler, Coon, Patterson, Claus; spares, Spencer, Beattie, Parry, Fornum, Pauley.

Referee—W. A. Hewitt.

SCHOOL DEFEATS U.C.

IN WATER POLO

It was a splendid game and very closely contested. The players are to be commended for the clean sportsmanship shown throughout the entire game. Cleverness in both offensive and defensive work was characteristic of the play in both ends of the tank. In fact School and U.C. united to give a magnificent exhibition of water-polo as it should be played.

Several of last year's intercollegiate water-polo players were in the winning team, namely: Curtis Wells, "Chief" Harston, Alexander, Fitzgerald, Bell and Keeler. Wells, Harston and Keeler each scored for School.

Waldron was undoubtedly the star on the U.C. team. The one goal of U.C. was scored by Blackwell after a very neatly executed pass from Tudlope Roberts, the U.C. goal-keeper, played a very steady game and saved the score from being too one-sided.

Final score: School 3, U.C. 1.

Team: S.P.S.—Wells, Harston, Fitzgerald, Shinklin, Conklin, Matson, Bell, Keeler, U.C. Roberts, Blackwell, Waldron, Tudlope, Litchford, Rycka, Vennels, Haines.

Referee—W. Winterburn.

Judge—Frank Wood.

WATER-POLO

The game between Vic. and Dents scheduled for Tuesday, November 8th, has been postponed until Wednesday, November 9th. This was agreed to by all concerned in the matter.

HOCKEY PRACTICE TO-DAY

There will be a hockey practice at the Arena to-day from 5.40 to 6.30 for the following men:

Aggies Defeat Forestry

O.A.C. won the first of home and home games to decide the winner of Mulock Cup group No. 3, when they outscored Forestry 6-5. O.A.C. scored the only point in the first quarter by a kick to the deadline. Forestry went to the front in the second quarter when Walton kicked a pretty drop. Later the same player kicked to the deadline for another point.

Play was very even in the third quarter, both teams tried hard but could not score. Finally Walton tried a drop but it went wide and a deadline was the result.

Forestry had O.C. on the latter's 5 yard line when Purdy broke through and ran 75 yards before he was downed. The last quarter started with play a few yards out from Forestry's goal and on the first down Smith went over for a touch which was not converted. O.A.C. forced the play for the rest of the game and scored a point when an attempted drop went wide. For O.A.C. Heggie and Beatty were best. Walton of Forestry was the best man on the field in spite of his smallness and scored all his team's points. Jenkins did some nice tackling and Parsons was also good.

Forestry plays O.A.C. at Guelph on Thursday and should reverse the count. They were handicapped by the absence of three good players who are playing with the Seconds against St. Mike's. Forestry has only a registration of some 60 odd and show by the way they go in for athletics that they are a very good crowd.

Music

This year the University Glee Club are again holding their meetings every Monday and Thursday from 4 to 6 p.m. in West Hall. Many more members are needed to make the Club a success, especially alto and tenor voices. However, if you make even a pretence at singing, turn out and join the Club. You will spend a profitable and enjoyable winter such as you shall not regret. Remember this is a University organization and as such is entitled to your co-operation regardless of which faculty you are enrolled in. Remember, also, the time and place of meeting, and turn out on Thursday next.

Professional Secrets of Photographers Revealed

Some fifteen years ago we were forcibly dragged within range of the photographer. Our loving relatives, in referring to the event said "I had our picture taken". The other day we were compelled to endure a similar experience. But this time the process is styled "having a sitting in So-and-so's studio". The difference between the sitting and business and the having your picture taken is in the main a pecuniary one. The setting, perhaps, is a little different but the ultimate result is the same. It leaves us, with the chest and humble spirit begotten of gazing upon what you are forced to admit are your own features on those pink horrors called "proofs".

Let us look back down those long years to that dismal day on which we were arrayed in our Sunday clothes amid the critical inspection of the entire family. We were forced to put on shoes and stockings, and that abomination of the twentieth century old male—a frilled blouse with a hand-down collar and under it a sash tied in a big bow. All forenoon a fond mother had tried to brush our hair into a "lick" on our noble brow. Our protests were futile. At the worst, we expected some extra-special "company" for the day—a number of friends. But after dinner, when we had been again scrubbed and rubbed and brushed and combed and whisked and polished, they led us down town and into the photographer's place.

We had never been in there before and regarded that worthy as an impostor, a fresh nut as the doctor or dentist or the village "con-table". So we lifted up our voice and wept. But between promises of candy and a trimmer we submitted. The room into which we were propelled was hung with all sorts of pictures. Family groups, wedding groups, infants with very little hair, young ladies with apparently not much more, and stern gentlemen with feet crossed, one hand on the brim of their coat and the other gracefully clutching a chair. In the corner was a little table with a broken comb and a scantily-braved brush.

The photographer came from behind a curtain and welcomed us with a friendly smile. Two of our relatives immediately recommenced groaning and the rest looked about nervously. He asked for prices and all that. There was no unseemly haste about it. Everybody seemed anxious to make the thing a success. The photographer was a man of unalloyed vigor but he tried to beam up us. "Come in here, my little man. My word, you have a pretty little bow. The first little chap I ever had in here. You really must be a nut. I just showed you. So a dozen, a little extra, but you will always be proud of them." Ah, yes, he was as wise in his day as the modern artist in his studio.

We haven't forgotten the scenery. There was a scene with trees painted on it and sashes and all that. How many in that town have never seen a tree? The noble tree! The photographer roared around in a corner and brought out a rocking-horse. He was for mounting us upon the steed but we refused point-blank. So the good man produced a gaily coloured ball for us to hold. Such effeminate playthings were not for us. We denuded him "proudly" one. He was at his wit's end when our parents held a brief conversation with us. So we took the miserable thing.

Then he ran up his things mag-jig and ducked under a cloth. We were urged to "look pleasant—that's a good boy—be a jolly little higher please—now look at the little birdie." After considerable of this we were finally released. Just outside we encountered a crowd of friends of our youth. They followed us with taunts of "Yah, swell-head, swell-head, got his picture taken, swell-head got his picture taken" repeated at intervals. Yes, it was rather an event in those days. Times have changed. Recently we had to confront the camera again. We felt the need the studio for an appointment. Oh, no, one does not speak of the "photographer" now. And you don't just ramble in with all your relatives and a sweet voice answered, "Yes," she said, "we can give you a sitting at 7.15." "Oh, yes," we faltered, "we have breakfast here at eight." "Oh, I meant at night, of course." "What," we ejaculated, "at night?" Why, the last time our family waited three weeks for a bright enough day." She explained a lot about indirect lighting but we were still incredulous. We held out for daylight and daylight it was.

Well, the fatal day dawned. We did our best. We donned a bold shirt, a hard collar and bow tie. We bought ourselves a hair-cut, shave, shampoo and Violet rays. We found the studio, pulled our handkerchief a coy inch out of our pocket, and entered. It didn't look like a photographer's place at all. There were Chesterfields and easy chairs and rugs and a fire place and a grandfather clock and a Victrola and "other articles too numerous to mention." On the table lay all sorts of reading, from "Luluemas" to Plato's Republic. It was such a nice place. But we feared the "overhead" would be awful.

A young lady approached us. "Have you an appointment?" she enquired. We showed our savior face. "Yes," we said, "I came to it." "Are you in Medicine?" "No, just Arts," we ventured apologetically. "Would you care to make a deposit?" We made a deposit. We pushed open a door—and ducked out. A damsel was putting on the finishing touches. We concluded it was not our place to sit. We tried the next place. It was very daintily appointed—dresser, military brushes and all that. We waited a decent interval and came out the fair lady told us to sit down outside another door. We were getting lots of practice in sitting.

After an eternity, when as to drowning man our past life rose before us, the door opened and the lost welcomed us. He draped a gown around us and sat us upon a chair. Over our shoulders he hung the breezy hood. Let Jimmy do his worst. Our picture shall go down to posterity clad in the sheepskin.

The artist had a lot of fans mounted on stands. He placed one behind us, one behind us and so on. "Look here," he said. "Thank you." He turned us around and shifted the fans. Look about there and thank you. Another shifting of the fans and it was all over. We arose. It had taken approximately three minutes.

We've seen them. The young lady says that the finished creation will look ever so much better.

Applied Science

With all due respect to the fame of any other function staged by any other faculty, the annual School Dinner has won unquestioned distinction peculiarly its own. For the dinner is much more than a banquet—it is a tradition, a heritage, an annually renewed its ancient glory and gains added prestige as the years go on.

Forty years have passed since the mighty men of old, abandoning all thought of Fink trusses and kindred worries, foregathered, each, all, and severally round the original festive board. Since that time the "board" which accommodated a score or so with difficulty has grown and increased until to-day the Great Hall itself is sorely taxed indeed, overflows, when School assemblies in full force. Forty years have brought many changes—the yells, the songs will be different on December 6, 1921 to those of '81, but the spirit of the gathering will be the same—the inimitable spirit of School. Let pseudo-sophisticated seniors annually believe that "the old School is not what she was," this one traditional event with equal regularity refutes their senile prattle.

As to the "vitals"—but 'twould be criminal to divulge, beforehand, the secrets of the menu. Suffice it to say that this part of the program will be of the same standard as the speeches that follow it. The latter, by the way, will have the added virtue of levity.

Remember the date, School, 7 p.m. on December 6 at Bingham's downtown. By unanimous approval the event will be informal.

E.I.C.

At this week's meeting of the Toronto Branch of the E.I.C., Mr. V. P. Dobson, who is the chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission testing and research laboratories, will be the main speaker. His address, entitled "Hydro-Electric Power Commission Standards," will deal, in a general way, with the functions of, and the part played by the laboratories under his charge, in the world's greatest electrical development and distribution system.

All students are invited to attend these meetings, which are held every Thursday evening at 8.15 in the Engineers' Club, 90 King Street W.

SCHOOL 276, PLEASE NOTE

As yet only three entrants have been received for the class, but the competition although it has been announced for some time. This is a matter of importance to your year for these designs are to be judged by the whole class as a smoker to be held immediately following the party to be given to the sophomores. Plans must be made for this party and the freshmen are requested to forward their fees to Jack Ryan, the Treasurer, as soon as possible. Don't wait for a private message, help your executive to start the ball rolling in your year activities.

Varsity Defeats McGill Shooters Intercollegiate Rifle Championship Decided

Another Intercollegiate Championship for Varsity over the week-end. The long talked of Intercollegiate Rifle Meet took place Thanksgiving Morning at 1000 a.m. at Long Branch, and resulted in a decisive victory for the Blue and White Rifleman with a score of 665 to McGill's 608.

Early Monday morning Captain Cochran and his team of thirteen marksmen (two of them were absent owing to illness) gathered at the Ranges to compete for the highest honors open to University sharpshooters, viz.: The Intercollegiate Title.

The weatherman did not favor the contestants. The sun shone at intervals, but a cold gusty wind precluded the possibility of a true figure score. Snow and sleet also added to the discomforts of the team, but in spite of these drawbacks a very creditable score was made.

Captain Cochran and Captain Diamond were in charge of the meet and Sgt. Hawkins, ex-world's Champion was an interested spectator.

The shooting took place at three ranges, 200, 500 and 600 yards, and the three times which resulted in the eight high scores were determined by a comparison of each man's score at 600 yards, the decision going to the higher score at the longest range.

Fifteen men were allowed to shoot, but the eight highest only were allowed to count for points. Those eight make the entire team of fifteen representing the highest scores at the recent Intercollegiate meet.

Appended are the scores of the Varsity team. The figures of the McGill team are not as yet available:

Medicine

The regular meeting of the Medical Society Executive was held on Tuesday at 5 p.m. at the General Hospital with a full attendance of the members.

The following men were selected as the DuPont Committee for the coming theatrical season:

Chairman: Duncan Kilgour, 273; Stage and Props: Sandy English, 274; C. Lanterns: Arch McKay, 274; Epitaphs: L. Symington, 275; Secretary: Chas. McLennan, 272; Treasurer: Bob Lowry, 272.

If we may be pardoned for saying so, it looks very promising.

Here comes another prize competition! The Medical Society want a song sheet for use at the open smoker Meetings. They are offering a prize of One Dollar for each one published. Parodies of popular songs, young or old, are wanted, written from a strictly Medical point of view. Turn your efforts in to the secretary's office addressed to the Medical Society Executive.

We wish to point out to the Meds. that they are not tuning in sufficient copy for this column. Last week the graduating class held a very enjoyable dante. Such a thing naturally rests with the Fifth year to report. Nothing came in. Last week the First and Second years held their banquet. From what we hear, it was a huge success. Nobody reported it. Allow us to exhort each year in the faculty of Medicine to report their own events and turn their manuscript in to the Secretary's office in the Medical Building addressed to the Medical Editor of Varsity. It will be collected there before each issue and every effort will be made to get it published.

The first hockey practice of the season will be held to-night at the Arena from 5.30 to 6.30. All Meds. who expect to play on a Varsity team this year had better be on the job. Turn out and keep on turning out regularly. If you can't play hockey, turn out and be a rail-bird. We must all get behind the best hockey organization that ever chafed a puck.

A big turn out of Meds. is looked for to-night at the Varsity Veterans' informal dance at the Arrada. 274 please note.

LOST

On Saturday, November 5, at Stadium, bunch of keys with belt clip. Will find! please return to 111 Burk, North Residence.

Wycliffe

The annual open meeting of the Students' Mission Society of Wycliffe College was held in the Sheraton Memorial Hall on Thursday, November 3 at 8 o'clock. The president, Mr. F. H. Wilkinson in the chair.

The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn and a Scripture reading and prayer read by Prof. Fletcher. This was followed by the President's remarks, explaining the purpose of the Society, and the Secretary's report.

Mr. L. Hwang spoke giving his impressions travelling through the country for the Bible Society. Mr. W. G. Suter represented the men working in the Diocese of Ontario during the summer. Mr. E. O. Gallaher, B.A. gave his views of how a young incumbent should carry on and Mr. G. R. Calvert described summer work in the Diocese of Rupert's Land.

Rev. H. W. K. Mowll, M.A., showed some slides made from snap-shots, taken on his visit to some of the graduates and students in their work in the west.

Rev. Canon Gould, M.D., D.C.L., brought the evening to a close by giving us a glimpse of the general principles along which the missions of the world were trying to be conducted and the impressions which should be created in foreign countries.

Musical numbers were rendered by Miss Matheson, of Haverhill College and Mr. H. H. Marsh, B.A.

ANNUAL MEETING

Indoor Baseball Club at Hart House To-day

The annual meeting of the Indoor Baseball Club and election of officers for the year will be held at Hart House at 6 o'clock to-day. Open to all students. Privilege of voting limited to two representatives from Trinity, U.C., S.P.S., Vics, Dents., O.C.E., St. Mike's, Wycliffe and members of the executive.

CHESS CLUB

The regular meeting of the Chess Club will be held to-night in South Common Room, Hart House, at 8 o'clock. We want a big turn out this week. The ranking system for the Club is almost ready to be started. Come out and learn about it.

NOTICE

Students of the First Year in the Faculty of Arts are requested to call at the office of the University Registrar, Main Building, and secure the Matriculation certificates which they submitted with their applications for admission.

ST. HILDA'S NOTES

St. Hilda's Annual Sale took place on the afternoon of Thursday, November 3. In the Communion room, booths for the fancy-work, art, candy, pennants and home-made cooking were tastefully arranged. Of these, the candy-table was especially note-worthy. A fortune-telling cavern was very much in evidence, as was also a fish-pond. Tea was served in the Communion room, library, and dining-room by waitresses wearing shiny caps and aprons of white with black streamers attached. Miss McCough, as Head of the Sale Committee, deserved much credit for the very capable manner in which the Sale was managed. In the evening, a very enjoyable dance was held, which came to a close at eleven-thirty.

NOTICE

Holders of Matriculation and Undergraduate Scholarships in the Faculty of Arts are requested to call at the office of the University Registrar, Main Building, and secure the certificates of attendance necessary for the payment of the first instalments.

276 U.C. SEUN

To-night's the night! Remember our Class Party at U.T.S. at 7.30. Every one be there. Membership tickets must be presented. If you haven't already bought one they will be sold at the door.

An executive meeting will be held in Women's Union to-day (Wednesday) at 1 p.m. All members are urged to be present as meeting is of utmost importance.

DENTISTRY

Let's go. The sophomore dance starts with a bang at 8.45 to-night. The orchestra is in charge of Mr. Stuart Nicholson, former pianist of the P.C.C.I. First class dance numbers are assured, and the committee has promised a surprise. During the intermission refreshments will be served.

The patronesses are: Mrs. A. E. Webster, Mrs. A. D. A. Moberg, Mr. J. A. Bodwell. This is to be the best dance of the year. Mr. W. R. Prouse is in charge of arrangements. Don't miss it.

"Dent" water-polo team play "Vic" to-night at 6 p.m. The boys are working hard. Come along and do your bit.

Representatives of Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing of the various years will meet in Room 24 at 11.45 a.m. November 9.

There will be a meeting of the representatives of the various years of the Royal Dental Society in Lecture Room 3 at 12 o'clock Thursday, November 10. All the members are urged to attend so that plans for the activities of the society for the coming year may be discussed. The President of the Society, Mr. J. A. Boyd, regrets that the large lecture room, No. 3, was not large enough to accommodate the crowd last Wednesday night, and he assures us that if in the future this room is found inadequate arrangements shall be made to hold the meetings in Masey Hall.

In the meantime the freshmen and pre-freshmen are advised to get in touch with their debaters if they want to get sweet revenge for the inaction the sophomores administered.

Maskerade tickets on sale at Fee Office at 12.15 on Thursday noon. Please arrange to be present. Numbers one to 100 will be the lucky-lads. If you can't be there yourself a written order given to a friend will secure you a ticket. Price, $1.50.

LORD BYNG

Late G.O.C. Third Army, B.E.F.
Governor General of Canada

Prize Is Offered For Torontonensis Frontispiece SHOULD TYPIFY "LEADERSHIP"

Book to be Dedicated to Baron Byng of Vimy

At the last meeting of the Torontonensis Board arrangements were completed for the Art Competition for frontispiece and dedication pages for Torontonensis, 1922. This competition is open to any student in the University of Toronto and the prize in each case is twenty-five dollars. Drawings are to be submitted for judging on or before January 15th, 1922, and are to be delivered to the office of the Students' Administrative Council, Hart House or to the office of the Women Students' Administrative Council, Room 22, Main Building.

The keynote of Torontonensis, 1922, as decided upon by the Board is, "Leadership." It is desirable therefore, that the frontispiece should bear out the idea of "Leadership," with an endeavour to link up this idea with that of Reconstruction and progress from the point of view of Citizenship. The drawings should be so drawn to scale as to reduce properly to size 9 x 7 inches, which is the type size of Torontonensis pages.

The dedication drawing should be of the same size as for the frontispiece and is to include the following motto, in verse: "THIS BOOK IS DEDICATED To his Excellency,
Baron Byng of Vimy
and
To all those who by their loyalty in the past have guided the destinies of our country, together with those who in the future will occupy similar positions of trust and leadership."

CANON SCOTT WILL PREACH ON SUNDAY

Popular Padre This Armistice Season
Is Specially Welcome

WILL MEET OLD FRIENDS HERE

Pass the word "Canon Scott will speak at Convocation Hall on Sunday morning." Perhaps no padre who served overseas was known to as many men as Colonel Scott of the "Red Patch" division. Whether one met him on patrol duty in No Man's Land, in the trenches or out, in Rest Bells, this genial and energetic padre had a cheerful word to pass along.

His message on this Armistice occasion is sure to be of interest and inspiration. The College's Sermon Committee is to be congratulated on their excellent choice of speakers and few will be more eagerly welcomed than Canon Scott.

On Sunday afternoon between 3.30 and 3.50 Canon Scott will be glad to meet any old friends in the Music Room of Hart House.

Canon Scott's Message

To the Students of The University of Toronto.

My Dear Friends:

Your dear friend has done me the honour of asking me to write a letter to you for the Armistice Number of THE VARSITY.

I accept this invitation with the greatest pleasure, because it was my privilege, in the war, to get to know the spirit of your Alma Mater by coming into contact with those graduates and students of the University of Toronto who were fighting at the front.

As I write names and faces of those on your glorious Honour Roll come before me. I should love to specify the friends whom I knew most closely and whose courage, efficiency and devotion to duty will always cast a splendid light on Canadian war annals.

Time and space, however, will not permit of this, but it is your proud distinction to know that the honour of Varsity was nobly upheld in the bitterest of wars by those who left ranks to fight for the Empire on the fields of France and Belgium.

No other campaign called for such courage and self-sacrifice as did the Great War. Never before have human beings confronted by such hideous engines of death. Yet in the face of ruthless and scientific destruction your brave comrades never flinched.

The old valour of the race shown forth in fresh glory and higher ideals were set before the coming generations of Canada.

Great as were our losses in the war, bitter as was the experience, we can feel that they were worth while, if they have graven upon the heart of our young country a message of many determination and consecrated self-control to be her watchword and inspiration for all time.

DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL HELD AT HART HOUSE

Mrs. Symonds and Miss Burford
Charm Their Audience

Judging by the quality of the Hart House Musical this season, the Musical Committee are determined to offer the Members nothing but the best. Great credit is due Messrs. Carson and Weldon for Tuesday's delightful recital. It was a happy inspiration that prompted the invitation of lady artists as their reception amply testified. Mrs. Symonds, vocalist, together with Miss Burford, pianist from the Toronto Conservatory, delighted the large audience with a well arranged classical programme. The Musical Committee are especially indebted to Miss Burford for consenting to play on such short notice. It had originally been their intention to have Mr. Peaker play, but as he unfortunately sprained his thumb, Miss Burford kindly consented to take his place.

The programme was opened by Miss Burford with a group of three widely varied selections—"Allmande" by D. Albert, "Gavotte" by Muetz and the celebrated "Arensky Etude" in F sharp. That Miss Burford is without doubt a fine musician, was fully demonstrated in the Arensky Etude. Her scale work was quite brilliant and technical difficulties seemed of no moment. Miss Burford seemed equally capable in fortissimo and pianissimo passages, and was able at will to produce smooth shading effects. She followed her first group with a spirited rendition of "Country Gardens" by Percy Grainger and judging by the warm applause she quite conquered her audience.

Mrs. Symonds followed Miss Burford with a group of three songs by Liza Lehmann. She possesses a mezzo soprano voice of pleasing quality and she gave a happy interpretation of the three lullaby songs. Her enunciation was very good indeed and her clear pure tones were delightful to hear.

Miss Burford again favoured her audience with a group of three songs without Words by Mendelssohn. It was here that Miss Burford demonstrated her ability to play the most delicate runs with astonishing fluency. Most notable perhaps, was her performance of the Spinning Song, which made a great impression on the audience. She graciously responded with the well known Prelude in C minor by Chopin, which she played with much distinction.

Armistice Issue

Insistent Call To Service Still Sounds

GENERAL CURRIE APPEALS TO MEN TO LIVE UP TO IDEALS

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.

You have done me an honour in asking me to address a message to my old comrades on this anniversary of Armistice Day.

Three years ago this morning we were in Mons, and the last shot in the great world war had been fired. The course of that war for the British Army on the western front was from Mons, where in August, 1914, the Old Canadian Division had first met the advancing and confident foe, to Mons, where in November, 1918, our own Canadians, true heirs of the old line, most bravely closed their superbly magnificent fighting record. It was a long, long way—a way of suffering and toil, of agony and bloody sweat, of heroism and sacrifice, of matchless endurance and tremendous glory, the record of which must serve as an inspiration and a challenge to future generations of Britons as long as our Empire endures.

It will do no harm to recall why Canada entered the war and prosecuted it with all the vigour at her command. We did not fight for territory, nor for power; we did not fight for increased trade, nor for an indemnity; we did not seek to impose our will upon those weaker than ourselves, nor had we the cold steel scars of might, the strength of which we wished to demonstrate. No, not for any of these things did we exchange the blessings of peace for the horrors of war. First, we saw that our Empire was in peril and to save it we would require the utmost effort it was in our power to render. And it was quickly realized that, though vast material and political interests were endangered, great moral issues were at stake. We did not fight Germans or Germans as such, but we fought the thing Germany stood for. We saw that Democracy was once more engaged in a death struggle with its ancient foe—militaristic autocracy—that civilization was menaced by barbarism, that liberty was endangered by tyranny. If truth and honour and freedom were to prevail, if decency and justice and faith in God's mercy were to endure, if progress and civilization and Christianity were not to perish, we knew that Germany must at all costs be defeated.

It was largely a moral issue. It was an issue we fought for, and the greatest mistake we can make to-day, my comrades, is to think that those ideals, those moral principles are not endangered in peace. Ideals are never won save by striving, the struggle to possess and secure them is perpetual, and in that struggle we must all take sides. In the defence of those principles tens of thousands of our comrades shrank not from death. If we hesitate to live for the same great ends for which they gave their lives, we render ourselves unworthy of their service and we annul their sacrifice. That is the challenge, which comes to us to-day. Can we say—

"Tell them, O Guns, that we have heard the call,

"That we have sworn and will not turn aside,

"That we will onward, till we win or fall,

"But it will keep the faith for which they died."

Now how did we win? Was it not by each one of us, making himself proficient in his daily task, by doing what he had to do with all the strength of body, mind and soul he possessed, whether private, non-com, or officer? Was it not by standing together, by co-operation, by mutual support and confidence? Was it not all for one and one for all, over there? Were we not one complete, well-trained, well-organized, well-disciplined, machine—infantryman, gunner and engineer, stretcher-bearer, signal man and supply man, machine gunner, and so on and so on—did it not all make the machine and to win the battle? We could not have won without splendid unity, without unflinching courage, without unselfish devotion to duty, without generous sacrifice, and we cannot win to-day, individually, collectively or nationally, without a display of these same virtues.

Armistice Day calls to us in quadruple times of our festive holiday.

(1) To be true and loyal citizens of our country.

(2) To maintain the standards for which our comrades gave their all.

(3) To cherish their memory and to be worthy of their sacrifice.

(4) To stand together.

I wish to add one thought more, and it is because I am addressing old comrades who are university men.

This day must be one of inspiring challenge. The great world without is waiting for leadership. The people will be ready to follow the commands of those who know; all ages are witnesses to the truth that the multitudes stand loyal behind the men who are capable of leadership. So much is this so that Carlyle has declared that "universal history is but the biography of the great men who have lived and laboured here." In his judgment the leadership of the leaders is as all important. If we realize our privilege in this being called to shepherd the flock, if we know that here are the powers for our task, then with what assiduity will we apply ourselves to the preparation.

To our hands are committed the treasures of the past—we hold them in trust for the people. To our studies we bend all our energies with one supreme purpose to beckon us on. Not primarily that we may walk among our fellows and be hailed as cultured men, certainly not that we may walk apart from them as superior beings, nor that we may draw riches and honour to ourselves because of our greater skill and knowledge, but that we may serve, rejoicing in every opportunity to bring some happiness, contentment and peace to hungry hearts. Wherever you go in the future, you will be known as university men. In the community you will be sought to help every young particular profession as to that cut of your sympathy the general welfare of the people. Keep in mind now the larger influence which your abilities will win when you to exercise and thus you will see the necessity of enlarging your vision of life. It would be a sad thing if your experience at the university were to narrow your outlook and restrict your usefulness. You can only avoid that unhappy fate by keeping wide your sympathies and broad your vision.

Specialists are necessary to-day, but the danger of all specialization is to make men hard and narrow. That can be safeguarded by entering into the larger life of the university. Let there be a genuine "esprit de corps" among you. Health of body and mind are alike necessary. So I would urge upon all students the necessity of keen interest in all the activities of college life. The field will give vigour and cleanliness; the societies will save you from social exclusiveness, the comradeship with students will make you more human, the lectures will add to you to fellowship, with the great of all ages—the whole of your personality will thus be affected, enlarged, vivified.

These are critical days for you all. I do not wish to be optimistic, but I must not omit to say that all the other years must wait on you of the present. You stand between great powers and great tasks. Behind you are the examples, standards and traditions of the long, long years. Before you the gates are opening into unprecedented spheres of service. The future is yours as well as the past. This is the hour that you are to use, that a great future will be built out of it.

"Wider and wider yet.

The gates of the nations swing,

Clearer and clearer still

The wonderful prophecies ring,

Go forth ye hosts of the living God

And conquer the earth for your King!"

A. W. CURRIE.

IN THANKFUL REMEMBRANCE

In unison with vast multitudes throughout the British Empire and the Allied nations, we of the University of Toronto shall express our thankfulness for the conclusion of the Armistice, and shall again call to remembrance those who laid down their lives to ward off a deadly peril, by standing silently for a few moments where we may happen to be, in classroom or laboratory, immediately before eleven o'clock on Friday November the eleventh.

May we also keep in mind and further in every possible way the success of the Conference on Armaments about to be held in Washington.

R. A. FALCONER,

President.

Prime Minister Wires Message

To the Students of the University of Toronto, who I trust are happy, etc., I send on this, the third anniversary of Armistice Day, in expression of thankfulness and pride, and as well a message of kindly wishes and warmest hope of peace and progress to the students and graduates of the University in the great struggle, pride in its splendid history, and in its strength, and confident hope that its future may compare with the future of Canada in wholehearted growth and useful achievements.

ARTHUR MEIGHEN

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

Lt.-Col. John MacRae, B.A., M.D. (Tor.)

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky,
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead, short days ago,
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up the quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands we throw
The Torch; be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

THE HART HOUSE MASQUERADE PROGRAMME AT LAST ANNOUNCED

A NIGHT TO LOOK FORWARD TO AND REMEMBER LONG

BUGLER BLOWS "FALL IN" AT EIGHT-THIRTY

At last the programme of the Masquerade is announced, but do not forget while you are making it out that you will see many of your friends at the dance that you did not know were going to be there. Copy it into your Y.M.C.A. handbook, but more important still, jot down all the other instructions both in this and succeeding issues, in your mental notebook, underneath your hat. Of course, we as an engineer do not need to do this, as we are the proud possessors of a slide rule, but all ordinary, ahem—mortals, please take warning.

Here is the programme:

- |               |               |
|---------------|---------------|
| 1—Waltz       | 9—Fox Trot    |

| 3—Fox Trot    | 11—Fox Trot   |
| 4—Moon Waltz  | 12—Fox Trot   |
| 5—Fox Trot    | 13—One Step   |
| 6—One Step    | 14—Fox Trot   |
| 7—Fox Trot    | 15—Fox Trot   |
| 8—Grand March | 16—Waltz      |
- and all important also, are the rendezvous, be sure to state them when making engagements—
- A—The Big Gym
B—The Upper Gym.
C—The Wrestling Room.
D—The Boxing Room.
E—The East Common Room.
F—The West Common Room.
G—Reading Room, 1st floor.

Everyone is asked, not to make any appointments in the halls near the pool or near the big gym.

The dancing will take place in A, B, E, and G, while Punch will be served in C, and also in the alcove where the coat racks are, near the C, D and F will be sitting-out rooms, the Pool, the Library and the Music Room are also available for this purpose. What could be more entrancing than sitting out by the white-tiled pool, with the soft blue glow of the water strongly reminiscent of a certain unforgettable night last summer.

The decorations and lighting effects are to be of the dancing, but the Boys' Naval Brigade, they will sound the "Fall In" at the start and will sound the "High C" at the finish of each dance, as these notes go to the brain through the ears, no one can fail to hear them, but to make matters even clearer there will be the number of the dance in progress at the time, posted at the following points in the building:

By the Reading Room, first floor, at the eastern end of the northern corridor; in the Reading Room; in the East Common Room; and by the orchestra in the Main Gym.

Programmes will be issued on the evening of the dance, but the boys' Naval Brigade, they will sound the "Fall In" at the start and will sound the "High C" at the finish of each dance, as these notes go to the brain through the ears, no one can fail to hear them, but to make matters even clearer there will be the number of the dance in progress at the time, posted at the following points in the building:

SACRIFICE

It is well that on this anniversary of the signing of the Armistice we should remember very particularly those of our number who, by reason of their devotion to duty and their fidelity to the great cause of freedom, are not now with us in the body. They were fired with a great ideal and they were not fearful to put their ideals into action. They staked all that they had in the greatest gamble in human history and they won. Are we ever foolish enough to feel that they lost? Let it never be laid to our charge that we place physical life and earthly possessions before the great spiritual values—freedom, equality and righteous dealing—among men and nations. Those men, whom we at times mourn as departed, have but risen to greater and higher things. We, in our ignorance, are apt to feel that the taking of such men as the leaving of such ordinary, such comparatively worthless people as the ourselves, points to injustice on the part of the Almighty. Why, when "the one is taken and the other left" should the one whose life seemed to be worth most and seemed to contain most of the possibilities of great things, be the one to go? We have all heard this question asked a hundred times, have all asked ourselves the question, and finding it unanswered have said, like the Fool, "There is no God, for no God could permit such injustice."

But was it not ever thus? Has not all the progress of the human race been built on the sacrifice of our best? Throughout all ages, the finest and noblest members of the race have spent themselves and have spent for the good of their fellows. The fact that they died, that they completely spent themselves, is not inconsistent. Their death is but an incident, the greatest, the most glorious incident in their service of sacrifice.

They died. Thank God they were able to die and to die gloriously, fighting, as fought the martyrs of old, for the emancipation of humanity from the thralldom of sin. For they were engaged in the great fight that was the Business of the Son of God during his life in Palestine nineteen centuries ago. He, too, spent himself for His fellows, and so served, struggling against unrighteous authority, establishing a new way of life, and preaching Peace on Earth and Goodwill among Men, so served and so fought that His life ended in the only possible way in death at the hands of those whose authority and lower morals he opposed. But life won. In that day of His death, He opened the way to a newer and higher ideal of service and sacrifice, and sanctified to all eternity the sacrifice of those who give up their possessions, their homes, even their lives, in the struggle which was His life. He was able to say in all truth, "It is finished."

"They are dead, but they live—their death has made life better, more noble because they have given us a glimpse of Jesus Christ, the great master of self-abnegation and of subjection to the will of God. Obedience to that will may bring death at the hands of one's fellows but it can never bring defeat."

"Oh Death where are they stung? Oh Grave, where is your victory? The stung of Death is sin, but thanks to be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

"Now is fulfilled that which was written. Death is swallowed up in victory."

BUT HOW ABOUT THE REST OF US?

We who are left can ill afford to fold our hands in admiring contemplation of the example and sacrifice of those whose high privilege it was to give their lives for humanity. As Sir Arthur Currie says, the great spiritual ideals for which we fought are endangered as much in peace as in war. We who "took up the quarrel with the foe" have still a war to wage. The foe is now no less powerful but is more insinuating than the enemy of the war years. To-day our principles are in danger of being drowned in the flood of materialistic and selfish commercialism. The ideals which were so real to a Nation and Empire are enthusiastically engaged in the prosecution of a righteous war have become the everyday platitudes so casually accepted by a Nation and Empire complacently engaged in the pursuits of peace. Herein lies great danger. The man (or group) who put self before fellows during the war was despised. He (or it) is no less despicable now. We owe it to those who found Canada and their ideals worth dying for to see to it that we feel that Canada and those ideals are worth living for. We must keep the faith.

GOODWILL AMONG MEN

One of the great objects of our Empire during the war was the establishment of universal goodwill among men. We fought to liberate the oppressed, to give to all humanity throughout the world an opportunity to live the life that God intended humanity to live. We fought for the under-dog. Are we not bound, if we be true to our ideals, to endeavour to raise the under-dog to abolish the distinction between him and the top-dog, both in our social relationships and in international relationships. We do not plead for the ignoring of past differences and errors. Nothing can be gained by that. But the appeal to us of the more fortunate nations to help those who, by reason of their heritage of hate and hardness, have fallen into the ways of their forebears and have received their reward, to regain their feet and to gain something approximating more closely to the ideals which we have inherited can not be ignored. To keep a beaten foe down is to deny our ideals and to render ineffective the sacrifice of those who died to raise us to higher ideals of life.

The appeal to the students of the Anglo-Saxon race to assist those of Russia, the Near East and Central Europe is a plea for the establishment of universal brotherhood and goodwill among students.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE VARSITY has received from the Governor-General's Private Secretary a letter expressing His Excellency's regret that he is unable to send us any special message for this issue.

The Editor offers no apology for the fact that this Armistice Anniversary Number is distinctly religious in tone. To-day, of all days, is one on which we ought to remember with loving real thanksgiving to Almighty God, the service and sacrifice of our fellows—thanksgiving that, as in times past, our race still produces such men and that we have the opportunity of following their example and of carrying on their service in the days of Peace.

Correspondence

AN OUTSIDER ANSWERED

Dear Sir:—I dreadfully serious play-geer has written you an earnest appeal for less laughter from an audience when seeing such "high tragedy" as was presented at Hart House Theatre last week. I admit that laughter is out of place at times, and that for an audience to laugh at the actors when they are doing their best with a play that is manifestly beyond them (as in the case of a Shakespeare Company which visited us a year or so ago) is not only a lack of intelligence, but is also a tragedy. The plays in question are so entirely tragic as to make it impossible for the audience to see them as anything but serious. They are miserable specimens, with neither brains nor backbone, trusting in the murderous cleverness of Tolstoy. Any one who would ask for more than an unsympathetic smile at the deservedly terrible doom of such wretches must have in himself a potential kleptomaniac. Laughter, unrestrained, is perhaps unbecomingly at the end, but the fearful timorousness of the actors, Tolstoy's trick at the end, and the terrible sight of the sailor and the two dead priests in front of the window is little else but humour, grossly magnificent perhaps but in itself a tragedy. The same sort of Hamlet.

Barrie's "Pentagon" speaks for itself. The life of all of the characters is wrapped up with the tragedy and the laughter; they are not happy with them, and laugh first with one and then with another, and then we are sure to find some one who is not happy with them. "Where M. Gie" is different again. Perhaps more easily in this play can the comic element be dispensed with, but there is in the Anglo-Saxon character a tendency to be amused at "Self-deception." Some of the great characters in our literature are remembered chiefly because they fooled themselves. I need only mention Falstaff, Malvolio and Don Quixote to draw at least an internal smile from Outside. When Ezra picks up the imaginary baby and remarks on its extraordinary lightness he draws a laugh—the fault not of him nor of the audience but of the playwright—who, perhaps, wanted it for relief, much as we recall someone else needed to bring a porter on the stage to ease the strain on an audience whose minds are full of murder.

I am sorry, Mr. Editor, to use so much space for such a trifling argument, but I feel that I and the others who found occasion to laugh on Saturday night are not blocks nor stones, nor yet utterly insensible; and that, as we were moved to this rather elementary means of expressing a great variety of emotions, I must attempt to show that the reproach is not entirely deserved. Defend me, generous Heaven, from those persecuting spirits who make no allowances for these workings within us.

N. P. H. BROWN,
U.C. 275.

The Editor, THE VARSITY.
Sir:—Having also attended the production of "Romeo and Juliet" on November 2, we have read the letters appearing in recent issues of THE VARSITY with much regret and when we find ourselves confessing to having participated in the "demonstration of College spirit," but as far as "any outburst of 'audible kissing'" is concerned we must plead absolute innocence. It is regrettable that certain students, and even a professor, by their declarations, should mislead the public into believing that Varsity students are guilty of such rowdiness. We know for a fact that on our left—where no Varsity students were sitting—certain members of the audience exhibited the "lack of the simplest elements of decent conduct." Undergraduates represented a small minority of that large audience yet certain individuals delight to attribute this unbecomingly conduct to that same minority.

We, as members of that audience and of Toronto University, strongly protest against these unwarranted attacks.

We are, as ever and always,
PATRONS OF THE "GODS."

NO DISCRIMINATION AGAINST WOMEN

To the Editor of "THE VARSITY."

Dear Sir:—While congratulating the correspondent who wrote the report of the meeting of the Toronto Council of the S.C.M. on Wednesday last, I wish to register a protest against the part of the headline used in publishing the article in the last issue of your paper. "Money will be raised chiefly for others than women." Not only is this inconsistent with the whole spirit of the campaign, but it is grossly misleading as no mention was made of such a discrimination by Dr. Mott.

At the present time I am heartily in sympathy with the campaign, but were it to take the line suggested by the headline I should immediately cease to be a supporter of it. The primary object is not to raise money to help starving students, but to realize those things for which we fought. It is the spirit of Russianism against which we fought to tread underfoot a beaten enemy.

We hear a great deal to-day about a League of Nations, World Brotherhood, etc., unless these are merely catchwords they must have a meaning for us. There is no better way of reaching these goals of world peace than by a practical expression of the spirit which gives rise to them. Why then this discrimination? Yours very sincerely,

E. L. WASSON.

THE MASQUERADE AGAIN

The Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:—In reply to the letter of 275 U.C. re: tickets to the masquerade may I be permitted to say: which is composed of older and wiser heads than I, in regard to this statement that the eleven tickets that were allotted to one year were only sufficient for the executive and a chosen few, this is quite as valid a statement as the rest of his letter.

The tickets were given out to the first eleven names on the president's list and only one went to any member of the executive.

If "275 U.C." wishes information or has any complaint to make in regard to any matter which he thinks are made by either the year executive or the College Association, let him go to the college governing body where he will receive all the consideration he is entitled to.

Thanking THE VARSITY for its consideration in publishing this letter.

On behalf of 275 U.C. Executive

A. EDWARD LEARY.

TREAT IT CAREFULLY

Dear Mr. Editor:—Through your correspondence column I would like to put forward a plea to the users of the Music Room in Hart House for the proper treatment of the new piano installed there.

To keep the grand in form for recitals it was necessary for the committee to limit its use, and because of this enforced limitation the committee petitioned the Finance Committee for another piano for "general use."

However, as we expect to have some concert work at our recitals we would ask the players and embryo players of the house to treat the piano as they would their own. It will be covered but unluckily at all times. It is only a matter of about two minutes to close and cover it when the player is finished and if this they will keep the piano in good condition and greatly lengthen its lease on life.

Thanking you for the space, I remain,
Yours very truly,
Thos. A. Stone,
Sec. Music Com.

COME ON HOCKEY PLAYERS

Season Starts Soon Everybody Out!

The hockey season will open with the first S.F.A. game in about two weeks. Not only are men needed for new Junior and Intermediate teams, but two or three good men are needed for the Seniors as well. These positions must go to the best men, and every man will be given a chance.

Don't be too humble—show the old-time Varsity spirit and try for a place on one of the teams. Names should be handed in at Mr. Reed's office, Hart House, Practice at the Arena to-night at 6 o'clock sharp, for the following:

H. A. W. Plaxton, C. Beatty, H. D. Wilford, R. White, W. Clifford, E. Lindsay, G. Brule, J. E. Mayne, K. G. Jensen, B. E. Park, A. H. Duncan, J. C. Campbell, W. J. Weston, R. E. Kirk, B. C. Falby, J. L. Johnson, A. J. Secord, J. A. Smith.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

Tuesday, Nov. 15—West End at Varsity, Central, bye.
Saturday, Nov. 19—Varsity at Central, West End, bye.
Saturday, Nov. 26—Varsity at West End, Central, bye.
Saturday, Dec. 3—West End at Central, Varsity, bye.
Wednesday, Dec. 7—Central at Varsity, West End, bye.
Saturday, Dec. 10—Central at West End, Varsity, bye.

VARSITY BASKETBALL PRACTICE

All candidates for Second, Third and Junior teams will turn out 12-1 Saturday. Every Second team man must be out, as the first game (West End at Varsity) is next Tuesday.

ATTENTION!

Everybody out Friday, November 11th, 1921 at 8 p.m. Victoria College to a programme given by Rev. Ernest Thomas and Mrs. Thomas on "The Bonds of Society," as seen in Tennyson's Stories and Songs. The soloist for the evening will be Mrs. Mary R. Scott, Trinity Methodist Church Choir. The small admission of 25 cents will go to the European Students Relief Fund. Come! Everybody welcome!

Victoria And Trinity Tie In Their Group

When Vic. Beats Sr. Arts 13 to 0

By defeating Sr. Arts yesterday 13-0 Victoria tied Trinity for the group championship. The game was played on a snow-covered field and the efforts of the two teams to play real rugby under unusual conditions afforded much amusement to the spectators. The Victoria line was much the stronger and repeatedly broke through to block the kicks. Rowell was the outstanding player on the field and his kicking and running paved the way for Victoria's points. Matchett started for U.C.

Vic. scored a touch in the first quarter and forced two runs in the second. In the third quarter, when Sher attempted to return a punt from behind the line the kick was blocked and a Vic man fell on the ball for another touch which Hudson converted. Shortly after Vic forced an another run and the scoring ended.

Line-ups:
Sr. Arts—Flying, Baker; halves, Matchett, Reborn, Sher; outsiders, Rytie, Stanton; middles, McEwen, Woodland, insides, Geddes, Ashworthy; snap, Johnson; quarter, Deaton; spares, Bones, Elliot, McNamara.

Victoria—Flying, Miller; halves, Chant, Rowell, Henderson, quarter, Tufted, snap, Ferguson, insides, Watson, Knox, middles, Hill, Bates; outsiders, Hudson, Turnbull; spares, Chamberlain, Prentice, Shaver, Flavell.

WOMENS LIT. SOCIETY HELD SECOND MEETING

The Women's Literary Society held its second regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Wallace, 91 Walmer Road, on Tuesday evening, November 8. Two very interesting papers were read and discussed. The first was given by Miss Margaret Rosebrough on Frank Swinnerton. Miss Rosebrough explained that Swinnerton's novels were objective rather than subjective; he seeks to present life and not to interpret it. His characters are drawn from the middle class, with which he is most familiar from personal experience. One of his rare gifts is his extraordinary insight into feminine psychology. Miss Rosebrough illustrated her paper by readings from Swinnerton's masterpiece, "Nocturne."

Miss Constance Charlesworth read the second paper on Maurice Hewlett, the great romanticist. Miss Charlesworth discussed Mr. Hewlett's work in chronological order, then read several charming passages from his finest book, "Earthwork out of Tuscany."

DENTS DEFEAT VIC. AT WATER POLO

Dents were again victorious when they met Vic. Wednesday night. It was decidedly a one-sided game.

Wood and Reilly scored 8 for Dents. Williams scored a well-deserved goal for Vic in the second quarter and they secured another in the last quarter.

Vic worked hard and although they had some very fine swimmers wasted their energy and ability. They would do well to watch their cheeks more closely and pass the ball more rather than attempt one man plays.

Score: Dents 8, Vic 2

Team:
Vic—Kieby, Dwyer, Flavell, Webster, Williams, W. Wood, Stewart, Morrow, Dents—Wright, Rowan, H. Reilly, F. Wood, MacBeth, Burnett, Porter, Nuttall.

Referee—W. Winterburn.

Judge—F. Waldron.

SWIMMING

Four weeks from to-day the Inter-faculty Swimming Meet will be held in Hart House.

A short time ago a notice of the events for this meet appeared in THE VARSITY.

Any information regarding the meet can be obtained from Messrs. Winterburn, F. Waldron or Wells.

There are just four weeks left in which to train.

Miss Helen Brice, of the University, has been awarded the Diploma of The Royal Life Saving Society. She now has the highest award given by this society.

INDOOR BASEBALL

The reorganization meeting of the Indoor Baseball Club was held last Wednesday in Hart House. The following officers were elected:

President—H. Westren.
Vice-Pres.—H. E. C. Reburn.
Secretary—J. Ford.

It was proposed that the Inter-faculty Series be started early in December in order that more games may be played and to finish in good time. A picked team will be sent to Montreal this year with the Gynnasium team to play McGill.

Managers are requested to watch THE VARSITY for notice of the schedule.

Is Music Shunned At Varsity? GLEE CLUB NEEDS VOICES

The other day while indulging in a shochie, a rave and slumpee in the Barber shop, the tranquility of our mind was disturbed by the rumour that a strong organization has been formed, for the purpose of banning music from the University—especially vocal music. Our informant, who appeared to have "inside" information, said that the work should start with the Co-Eds, as it had been noticed there was a marked lack of interest on their part in musical organizations. The reason for this was unknown, he said, but the general belief was that it is due to prohibition.

Being alarmed by the rumour we hurried to the studio of Mr. J. M. Sherlock, the conductor of University Glee Club. Mr. Sherlock knew nothing of the organization, but said that there was not a large turnout of the fair sex, or of tenors, in the Glee Club. He attributed this to a lack of knowledge of the activities of the Club rather than to lack of interest.

He claimed that in the Glee Club it was not necessary to be a Jenny Lind or a Cuckoo, but anyone with an average voice was welcome there. Tenors and alto especially are wanted, but there is room for many more basses and sopranos too. So come on students, get behind the Glee Club and drown your cares in music. Practices are in West Hall on Monday, 4 to 5 p.m. for ladies, 5 to 6 p.m. for men; and on Thursday 5 to 6 p.m. for both.

Christmas Card designs should be handed in to the Hall Porter, Hart House, Post Office, U.C. or Room 31, Engineering Building, before 5 p.m. to-day.

'Art In The Theatre' Subject of Address

MR. BERTRAM FORSYTH WILL SPEAK TO SKETCH CLUB

All Students Are Welcome

A meeting of the Picture Committee of the Sketch Club was held in the Sketch Room Tuesday afternoon, November 9th. The purpose of this committee is to arrange for a collection of pictures to hang in Hart House this year. Mr. C. W. Jeffreys was elected chairman and Mr. L. G. Magee secretary. The committee decided, upon Professor Sandford's suggestion, to postpone the choice of pictures until after the Royal Academy Exhibition. It was also decided to set aside a certain portion of funds towards purchasing pictures.

Mr. Bertram Forsyth is to be the speaker at the Sketch Club meeting to be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. This is one of the first opportunities the students have had of hearing Mr. Forsyth speak, off the stage, and should be extremely interesting. Mr. Forsyth's subject will be on the relation of art to the theatre. Every male student is invited to attend in the Sketch Room, Monday, at 8 p.m.

Christmas Card designs should be handed in to the Hall Porter, Hart House, Post Office, U.C. or Room 31, Engineering Building, before 5 p.m. to-day.

S.A.C. REPRESENTATIVE FOR 214 U.C.

As a result of the election held in the East Hall last Wednesday morning, C. S. Gubston will act as the representative of U.C. 214 on the Students' Administrative Council. Mr. Gubston is taking the place of I. M. Wylie who was elected by 214 last year and will remain in office for one year. Mr. Gubston's opponent was K. S. Waldron.

212 HONOUR SCIENCE

The first meeting of 212 Honour Science Club will be held to-night, Friday, November 11th, in Argyle House, 100 Queen's Park, from 8 to 11 p.m. Every member out for a good start, an enjoyable programme. Good time for all. Short meeting. Cards and dancing. Eats.

WHY DO NOT NICH DEES HIS EYES FOR THE SERVICE OF GOD?

Canon Scott Asks, "Is It Because It Is A Poorly Paid Profession?"

DO NOT CHOOSE YOUR PROFESSION FOR ITS REMUNERATION

What Higher Remuneration Could One Ask Than Bringing a Human Soul Into The Presence of Our God?

It is the vision of Isaiah which the First Canadian Division, who preached in Convocation Hall on Sunday, took his text from Isaiah, chapter 6, verses 1 to 8. Canon Scott said that there was nothing new in the doctrine of man with God. Religion was unpopular because men were disinterested. In this day new avenues of thought, science and progress are being opened up but this message from the Book of Isaiah still holds for us something which we need.

The vision of Isaiah is perplexed. The people that surround him are unclean. Israel alone stands as a witness to the true God. God reveals Himself to Isaiah and this vision is an encouraging and sustaining force in Isaiah's life. When Isaiah saw God he was filled with the sense of his own unworthiness and the greatness of God. To-day we feel the need of a living God, and are loathe to accept the God of the past.

The reason that we are failing in our Christian duty to-day is because we withdraw ourselves from our fellow-men and do not bother to serve the needs of their lives. All that is highest and most glorious in this life is summed up when we look at Him who is all beautiful—Eternal God. Just as long as we have the vision of Almighty God shall our scientific, political and individual lives be all that they ought. Take God out of our lives and there is no hope.

When we have that feeling of sin can we go out and speak of God?

Even as to Isaiah with the placing of the live coal on his lips, first cleansing and the power to speak to it with us. The live coal symbolizes divine grace, that invisible power which cleanses and to do the will of God. Here Canon Scott told the story of one boy at the front who, through his grace, had become a man and another who, in somewhat similar circumstances, was brought through this prayer, "I can do all things through Christ Jesus which strengtheneth me." God can make a success of all lives if we only trust in Him.

God has not given this grace for nothing," continued Canon Scott. "He has a purpose behind it. Who will go? God knows that He is only working of men through men. Referring to modern times the 'Patriot' said: 'Not since the birth of Christ has such a thing as that which is taking place in the south of the line been thought of. All nations wish to be united in peace and happiness in one big family. As a little 'leaven' the 'new jump' has been felt throughout the earth. The great world is calling for men to give to human life sympathy and brotherly love, to right economic wrongs, to alleviate pain and to preach the living God. How many rich men's sons are in the ministry? It is a poorly paid profession but it is the only one which could ask that in bringing a human soul into the presence of Him who is our God.

"Do not choose your profession for its remuneration, but let us choose the path of least resistance but having chosen, trusting in grace, kneel humbly before God and say 'Here I am, send me.'"

TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF Y.M.C.A. FOUNDER

Centennial Anniversary of Sir George Williams' Birth

One hundred years ago one of those laymen who has made a most valuable contribution to the religious life of men and boys throughout the world was born near Bridgewater, England. This man is Sir George Williams, the founder of the Y.M.C.A. When fourteen years of age, Sir George was sent to the Y.M.C.A. where he was working to put in an apprenticeship of five years in the drapery shop of Hiltcock and Rogers. He remained in the firm until his death in 1902. It was on June 28, 1844 that the Association was organized. Its beginnings were very humble. Twelve men gathered in an upper room near the corner of Bridge and it was here that the possibilities of such an association kindled the imagination of a few men. And today the Y.M.C.A. has spread into almost every country in the world. For his valiant service in initiating such a movement and giving such a life to the Y.M.C.A. Sir George was knighted in 1894, just fifty years after the organization of the Association. He was buried in St. Paul's and today in Westminster Abbey a memorial window is being unveiled in his honor. It is a combined tribute to the Empire and Church for the splendid service of the Y.M.C.A. during the war.

The life of Sir George Williams was one of complete abandonment in the service of men. He had a real position in life they happened to be. He was successful in having passed through Parliament several Factory Acts which would do much to abolish distasteful labour conditions.

His watchword was "Go Forward, Expect Great Things from God."

R.M.C. GAIN VICTORY OVER VARSITY IT'S

Go Home With Single Point
Lead Over Blue and White

In the first of a home and home series to decide the Intermediate Intercollegiate Title in which points are to count on the round, R.M.C. emerged victorious with a one point lead.

R.M.C. jumped into the lead in the first quarter, when they scored seven points on a rouse, rouse and a convert, but they were held scoreless the rest of the game, although the Cadets threatened several times. In the final quarter, Carruthers huddled the Scarlet and White line for an unconverted touch and thereby enabled Varsity II to get within one point of tying R.M.C.

Despite the snow-covered field, the game was a good one and the winners after an excellent game. The Cadets plunged for gains time after time in the first half, but in the second half the Blue and White team got into their stride and came back with a punch.

R.M.C. pressed in the first period and had the play in Varsity territory most of the time. Ketchum was forced to rouse early in the period and the winners took advantage of Varsity fumbling and kicked frequently. McPherson bumbled one over the line to Ketchum and the latter passed to Skelton, who fumbled and Hamilton fell on the ball for a touch which was converted. This ended the R.M.C. score.

While Varsity improved as the game progressed, the Cadets held their own and there was no scoring until the third period. In the final quarter Varsity kicked once frequently and aided by several fumbles on the R.M.C. back division worked the ball towards the Cadets line. Finally Skelton threw over one of the Cadets and grabbed a Varsity tackle who had crossed the line and referee Hewitt awarded Varsity the ball one yard out.

Ketchum had gained a foot Catto gave Carruthers the ball and he topped the Cadet line in one stride and scored a touch.

PHYSICAL TRAINING GROUPS COMPULSORY

Attendance Required From All
But Varsity Team Men

By order of the Board of Governors each male student proceeding to a degree must take Physical Training during the first and second years of his course.

This training will be given in classes under the direction of the Athletic Directorate. A minimum attendance of 80 per cent. will be required, and each student will be responsible for the record of his attendance, which will be taken by roll call at the classes.

Exemption from this training will only be granted to members of the First, Second or Third University teams (not including Varsity) and to members of the Directorate on a statement signed by the Manager of one of the said teams that the members thereon are engaged in regular practice in that particular line of sport.

And further, this exemption will only be granted for the period during which these practices are in progress, after which students must enroll in the gymnasium classes.

HART HOUSE THEFTS RESULT IN ARRESTS

Two Non-Students Accused of Stealing Overcoats

Two arrests have been made in connection with the recent overcoat thefts in Hart House. Thomas E. Carroll, charged with theft, and Edwin Andrews, charged with receiving stolen property, have been taken into custody by the city police at the request of Capt. Christie. Both men are non-students.

Capt. Christie is anxious to get in touch as soon as possible with the man who lost a dark green overcoat from the back near the Great Hall, Hart House, on October 12.

Short Story And Play Read At The Women's Press Club

Original productions in the form of a one-act play and a short story were read at the meeting of the Women's Press Association on Friday afternoon. The play, entitled "Happy Days," was a selection from rather than a representation of, life in a women's residence. It proved very entertaining and was unique in being the first one-act play written for the Press Association.

The short story, entitled "Cupid Calls for Help," showed excellent character and was a selection from rather than a representation of, life in a women's residence. It proved very entertaining and was unique in being the first one-act play written for the Press Association.

GOBLIN WILL BE OUT IN TEN MORE DAYS

The Little Sprite Still Welcomes
Your Contributions.

GOBLIN. Sure. Be out in about ten days. Pretty darn good. I think Snappy cover, done by a girl. First time since the French Revolution. Printing 9,500 copies, 1,000 more than last time. Still need contributions, and need them bad. Got till Tuesday to get your stuff in.

At present rate, it looks as if some chips were going to go to prizes. Fellows on the staff are not eligible for prizes, you know. That makes it different. Art work needed most. Great opportunity for the young idea to get in print.

Sparling has a nifty frontpiece. Real highbrow stuff. "String" Bielen and "Ken" McCarthy strong. Helen Cross, Ruth, business as usual. Helen Cross, Alm VanEvery, Walter Howard, S. H. Barlow also feature.

Let work be good too. Bunch of great new jokes. Logan and Coombs putting over a good one. I hear. Hermit Reeves is back again with a bunch of up-to-date dope. Joe Layton is better than ever, and that's going some. Poetry is the best yet.

Lots of room still though. If you have any live stuff, GOBLIN wants it. Send it along. You know where he is, 8 University Avenue. Ring and walk in. If you don't like the walk, leave it with Tommy, the hall porter, or at the U.C. Post Office or Engineering Society. All ways waiting. Some of the one-time and some of the office furniture.

Under this arrangement each university is contributing a group of members, which is made up of the above universities, will on the 14th night, debate upon the same subject, each university will in Toronto maintain the affirmative, while the other two universities of the group will maintain the negative.

Group 2 of the league is not at present certain, but will in all probability comprise Ottawa College, Loyola College (Ottawa) and Bishop's College (Sarnia). Ottawa College is a certain being a member of the original four comprising the league. Neither Loyola nor Bishop's College are yet officially members of the league, some minor details remaining to be settled, but it is expected that they will be satisfactorily adjusted within 15 hours.

Three judges are to preside at each debate, and the university receiving the greatest number of points for its affirmative and negative teams will win the championship of its group, and the following week the winners of the two groups will meet in a final debate, which will determine the championship of the league.

Arrangements are at present under way for the formation of a third group among the Western universities, with a view to making the league an Inter-University Debating League of Canada in the future.

As a result of this year's reorganization, societies of the different universities comprising the league are confident that through the extension of its activities a new interest will be stimulated in inter-collegiate debating which may within a few years justify an international debating league by the inclusion of some of the more prominent American universities, which have already indicated proposals toward the formation of such a league.

The downfall of the Government featured the recent meeting of the Trinity College Literary Institute on Friday evening. The question of "Resolved that capital punishment and penitentiaries should be abolished in this country" was the subject of the debate.

The subject was discussed from all angles by the members of the Institute, while the crisis of the debate was reached in a final debate, which will determine the championship of the league.

LAST NIGHT'S INSTRUCTIONS FOR HOLLER VARSITY MASKERS

Masquerade Committee Have Made Every Possible Arrangement For Your Convenience--Lucky Ticket-Holder!

With the Masquerade only two short days away there are many last minute instructions to be given. In a function of such magnitude these must be carefully noted and observed, for otherwise much confusion might result, tending to slow up the progress of the whole dance.

This can be more readily appreciated when one reflects that between four and six hundred cars must discharge their human cargoes within the short space of half an hour.

But courage and the men up by the same staircase and move towards the large corridor outside the Great Hall, there to find their partners once more. It is especially requested that no one will try to meet his partner at either the Hall Porter's desk or at the Punch Booth at the foot of the south-east stairs, as the traffic along the south corridor will be heavy at the beginning.

By this time it will probably be 8.30, and the orchestra will start. If your watch is wrong you will be perfectly safe in setting it to 8.30 for they will start precisely on time.

For the benefit of the few who may not have seen the programme in Friday's issue:

1. Waltz 2. Fox Trot 3. Fox Trot 4. Moon Waltz 5. Fox Trot 6. Fox Trot 7. Fox Trot 8. Grand March 9. Waltz 10. Moon Waltz 11. Fox Trot 12. Fox Trot 13. One Step 14. Fox Trot 15. Fox Trot 16. Waltz

And the rendezvous: A.—The Big Gym. B.—The Upper Gym. C.—The Wrestling Room. D.—The Boxing Room. E.—The East Common Room. F.—The West Common Room. G.—Reading Room, 1st Floor.

The dancing will be in the two Big Gyms, the East Common Room and the Reading Room, while Punch will be continued on page 4.

Having detained, kindly enter the House and present your ticket (it is unnecessary to say that no one will be admitted without one), and receive your programme cards. This formality over with the evening really begins. The ladies proceed upstairs by the south-west staircase and east along the corridor to the Lecture Room, which will be used as a checking room for wraps. Should this room become full at any time the tide will be diverted downstairs to the Sketch Room and the cloak room there.

The men will go down by the south-west stairs and past the Billiard Room to the regular coat checking establishment. The locker rooms will be closed up entirely and will not be available for dressing in. Then the ladies will come down from the second floor by the south-east staircase and the men up by the same staircase and move towards the large corridor outside the Great Hall, there to find their partners once more. The four debaters who will comprise Varsity's two debating teams in the Friday afternoon chosen by the University of Toronto Literary Organizations Committee. They are: J. Friend Day, G. E. Hern, G. P. Halliday, and J. G. Endicott. These four men were selected from the many who made personal application and from the nominations of the different colleges and faculties representing the Inter-Collegiate Debating Union of Toronto. All four are men of outstanding ability and all have had considerable experience in their respective societies.

Day and Hern are the two debaters who last year won the Kerr Trophy for Trinity, emblematic of the Inter-Collegiate Championship of the University, from Victoria College, which has established its reputation in the University College Literary Society and in addition is a first-class honors man in the Department of Political Science at the University. J. G. Endicott, of Victoria College, has a splendid record in his debating at the Victoria Lit, and this year represented his college in their debate against Knox. He is a nominee of the Vic Literary Society and is recognized as one of the ablest debaters in the university.

The subject to be debated is "Resolved that a substantial reduction in taxation in Canada should be made by the incoming Dominion Parliament," a subject which, owing to its timeliness, is of greatly increased interest.

Arrangements are now under way which it is hoped will result in the holding of the debate prior to the coming election. Under the new constitution, which was drawn up at a recent meeting in Ottawa, all the universities in the league will, upon the same night, debate upon the same subject, each university having one team at home and one to travel, the home team upholding the proposition and the visiting team opposing it.

Under this arrangement each university is contributing a group of members, which is made up of the above universities, will on the 14th night, debate upon the same subject, each university will in Toronto maintain the affirmative, while the other two universities of the group will maintain the negative.

LEADERSHIP

Readers of THE VARSITY will in all probability have noticed in last Friday's issue a statement that the key-note of TORONTONENSIS this year is to be "Leadership." The Editor and Board, who bear the responsibility of arranging the Year Book, have wisely made choice of a subject which is very much to the fore in the minds of thinking people at the present time. It is interesting to note the sequence of thought in the post-war volumes of TORONTONENSIS. "Reconstruction," "Progress," and now "Leadership."

The great primary essential in every department of life following the war was Reconstruction. To a very large degree even our thinking has undergone reconstruction. There is a danger of the change of ideals, moral and social conventions, however, to those who would tie the present and the future together, generation down to mid-Victorian standards of behaviour. They cry aloud the need for a reconstruction of the "good old days." On the other hand there are those who, seeing in changed conditions a certain progress, hail with joy the emancipation of humanity from the shackles of tradition, and regard the changes as a wholly beneficial development that is in itself the desired reconstruction. In a sense both are right, and in another both are wrong. While recognizing the necessity for change, we must guard ourselves against being carried away by an unthinking radicalism. There is a danger of this in every walk of life, but to no one does the temptation come with greater force and more insistent, in-mating attractiveness than to the student. He is not so apt as most of his fellows to be hide bound by traditional thinking or traditional non-thinking, but he is at times strongly tempted to go to the other extreme.

The necessity for an intelligent reconstruction of thought (for many of us it may be only the initial construction) is one that makes an insistent demand of every conscientious man and woman. Many old ideas and old ideals will not hold in the present age. By what are they to be replaced? Shall it be by something no more useful and far less attractive than the old? If so the Reconstruction that we make can never be considered as the step of Progress.

Here the necessity of right Leadership, in work, in play and in thought becomes apparent. We have heard repeatedly that of us will be required the leadership of the future. The statement is far more than a mere platitude. Of whom may the country more rightly and more justly demand those qualities of intelligence and resourcefulness, of energy and application, of conscience and high ideals, which alone make for real leadership than of the university-trained man or woman? To us come the example of the past and the challenge of the future. The correlation of the two in thought and action is the task of the present.

The power of leadership can be to a very large extent developed. The period of university life, more than any other, the time during which the development must take place. And this development, as with any other development, requires training and practice. There is in the multitudinous activities of our life an opportunity for every student to first be led and so to learn both how to lead and how not to lead, and then himself to lead in some of the affairs of the society of which he forms a part. Leadership in thought demands primarily conscientious and systematic habits of fearless and incisive thought.

The direction that our leadership will give to the thought of the future depends on the thinking we do, and the habits of thinking that we form now. Really liberal thinking must be progressive, but should be tempered by a reasonable conservatism.

WOMEN STUDENTS AND THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES

Appropos of much criticism of late to the effect that the feminine element in the University is much too frivolous and light-headed, a novel suggestion was recently made. It was proposed that every student sometime during the first year should be subjected to an oral test for the purpose of discovering her capacity to appreciate and profit by a University education. (The most enthusiastic advocates of written examinations acknowledge their inadequacy.) All students failing such tests would be sent home "unwept, unhowled and unsung." If this plan were feasible great would be the benefits accruing from it. The University would be held in much higher esteem by the outside world, for the product of the University would reflect more credit upon it. The lack of a sense of responsibility on the part of many students is deplorable. Too many students are parasites. To have a good time and to work as little as possible during the year, and at the end to get through exams somehow (preferably by using the fruits of the labours of other students—this seems to be the attitude of not a small number of the student body. It seems beyond the conception of such people to realize that much is demanded from him or her who has had advantages and opportunities beyond the reach of the majority.

Speaking of the responsibility, it is surely not too much to expect that students should be public spirited and interested in affairs of government. Yet there are not many who are indifferent and apathetic toward the coming election? Do not many exhibit a lamentable lack of information on the great public questions of the day?

Recently Sir George Foster in speaking to the U.C. Alumnae stated that at the coming election, owing to the enfranchisement of women, there would be an addition to the electorate of one half the voting power. His earnest appeal to the women to exercise their intelligence and to become public spirited citizens should be heeded by all, but it is especially incumbent on University women to do so owing to the special training and opportunities they have had.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The victory of Queen's on Saturday gives Varsity the Intercollegiate Rugby title. There are now only two games between us and the Dominion Championship, but they will be hard nuts to crack.

We are glad to welcome PATCHES' first issue for this year and to congratulate the Editorial Staff on the splendid results of their efforts.

Two items in this number are worthy of special note. Professor Wrong's letter on the much-debated subject of initiations will provide food for serious reflection, while the review under the caption "Book-Friends" introduces our readers to one of the significant books of the day, written essentially from the viewpoint of the student. It is our intention to continue this Book Review from time to time as books of interest present themselves, and since THE VARSITY is in more than one name "The Undergraduate" Newspaper, we shall welcome the contributions, by any of our readers, of reviews of books which ought to be more widely known of and read.

INITIATION RITES

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.
Sir: I confess to many unpleasant impressions at the outbreak of this year of new forms of supposed discipline for freshmen. I had thought we had grown out of this sort of thing. In order to learn what was the situation in the better class of universities in the United States, I asked a distinguished professor at Harvard, who is also a Canadian, for information. Here is his reply dated at Harvard University, October 31, 1921.

"We have no hazing at Harvard and no initiation rites for freshmen. Many years ago we had both, but they have been gradually eliminated until now the whole thing is merely a memory. Getting rid of these things was not a matter of discipline but of the thing itself. This was done, in the main, through the creation of a representative body known as the Students' Council, which has been a valuable instrument in moulding student opinion along the right lines. Faculty discipline strongly seconded the activities of the Students' Council and helped to certain. Our experience is that more can be done from below than from above."

In many of the small colleges on this side of the border, and in some Western institutions, these antics still persist. So, when you find that your freshmen are compelled to wear a yellow tie and to wear a Turkish turban, you may see in that merely another example of the savagery to which the United States according to North Land. Thus do law impose its influence on Ontario and Freshwater College on your part of the University. My advice, based on nearly twenty-five years of observation, would be to have the disciplinary authorities and some representative student organization join hands to stamp the whole thing out of existence. To day every one at Harvard looks upon such things as childish and rural. Were any such thing attempted nowadays the student opinion would from upon it most heartily.

You will observe that all sorts of initiation rites have died out except in the I know places. So in the same sense, have they in England except, I believe, occasionally in some medical school. The best judgment is, I am quite sure, that these things belong to a rude and childish stage of culture.

The only influence which will stop this in Toronto is that of the students themselves. If public opinion among the undergraduates demands the sort of thing they all have and severe pressure from above is likely to make matters worse rather than better. And if the thing is to be taken in hand, the remedy should be thorough. The whole idea is vulgar and barbarous. Its continuance here has been due to the University of Toronto being regarded as primitive and half-civilized.

Yours truly,
GEORGE M. WRONG.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.
Dear Sir:

As manager of the Y.M.C.A. Book Exchange I should like to call your attention to a regrettable fact which concerns all students making use of the exchange. In the six weeks which the Exchange remained open books to the value of $85.00 disappeared from the shelves without being paid for. This loss has to be made up out of contributions so that the injury falls on other students. The Y.M.C.A. operates the Exchange solely for the benefit of students, and a rule of payment is made. The commissions taken on the sale of books are only sufficient to cover the cost of operation. The system which it uses relies on the integrity of the students in order to be a success. The Y.M.C.A. authorities realize that the Exchange is cramped for space, and that during the first few days in particular, a man may have to wait some time in order to get his books checked off; but that is scarcely sufficient excuse to take books without paying for them. This defect, which has been growing from year to year with the growing business of the Exchange, can be remedied by only the students themselves. It is up to every one to do his part to remedy this in future years and to uphold the honour of his University.

Yours respectfully,
E. J. MCGIRR.

THE GLEE CLUB

Editor of "THE VARSITY"
Dear Sir: Like many others, I suppose, I see and read things which make no practical influence on my mind. But at last I have learned that conspicuous notices in the Varsity hold great surprises and possibilities.

For several weeks I've noticed Varsity Glee Club posters here and there and have read their notices for more members. Yesterday it dawned on my consciousness that this meant me. I hadn't thought of that before. However, I went to their practice in West Hall last Thursday afternoon from 5 to 6 and received the surprise of my life. From now, I'm an ardent Glee Clubber with the rest.

I found there Mr. J. M. Sherlock (one of the best chorus conductors in the Dominion) with about fifty student singers, practicing some very classical choruses. I certainly was surprised. I also found a live wide-awake executive headed by Mr. C. B. McQueen, of S.P.S. as president.

On inquiring, I learned that about 150 more members are required to make a complete chorus, also that they are planning some social events in the near future and that next spring, there is every probability of the club visiting some of the nearby cities.

Last year the club was organized for the first time, I believe, since the war and was a great success. This year the executive and members, like all other Varsity organizations, seem to be doing their utmost to surpass all previous attainments, both in membership and chorus work. The club's whole spirit seems to be "over the top for bigger things."

Personally I think the Club to be one of the best musical organizations in the University and student singers would do well to join it.

Warbler.

AN INSIDER ANSWERS

To the Editor of THE VARSITY (with the usual apologies).
Dear Sir:

As for me, during Friday night's performance of the "Night at an Inn," I lounged frequently and fervently for at least an 18-Pr. Q.I. where with to silence from the audience. I had clattered forth from all parts of the audience.

"One may well laugh in 'Pantalone,' or 'White Magic,' as Mr. Brown has so graciously shown, but who would laugh during the 'Night at an Inn' such an one as would double up with merriment at the rolling thunder of the Ancient Mariner, or, better, on the stage a band of real-life savages, thoroughly torturing a captive to death, would your forth belows of innocent mind in floods surged only by the gulls into which he would dissolve at sight of the real thing.

It is well enough to scoff at those who would take the thing seriously. But, what is an entirely different thing, it is most absolutely necessary to take it soberly. One does not take seriously a grotesque ghost story, told in a hushed voice beneath darkened lights, but if one fails to take it soberly the whole delight of it is lost.

This is the unpardonable sin of the clackers. They rob themselves, and to some extent others, of the true, the real pleasure of play, which is immeasurably greater than any they can substitute. It is necessary to "enter into the spirit of the thing," to play as play is, and above all, silently. Certainly we must enjoy it thoroughly, one must leave the theatre altogether, enter the inn itself, and accept everything unquestioningly, and above all, silently. Certainly we must not ask for more than an unsympathetic smile. We would prefer much less. We must not mix the styles, especially in so short a work. Humanity may be one of our clearest humors, but it is not here that he shows it. It is a curious and inadequate and ghastly judgment that sees only the ridiculous where the terrible is. The struggle between the sailor and the priest is as ghastly as if the dead men had actually risen against him. The grotesqueness only adds to the horror. I admire such the patience and fortitude of the actors in that they did not often throw something—anything—anything hard or heavy—at the audience.

Speech indeed is silver, and silence unbroken gold, but laughter is too often only the rattling of an empty tin can.

INSIDER.

Editor, THE VARSITY.
Is there any rational reason that the Varsity women students should not be given the privilege of acting as ushers for the Players' Club productions at Hart House?

In downtown theatres women are used almost exclusively, and yet in the University they are barred from this opportunity. Their inability to wear a stiff shirt has been suggested as a probable reason, but could this not be overcome? Thanking you for the opportunity of expressing this suggestion, I am,
Sincerely,
N. G. Mackenzie.

"WANT AD." CRITICIZED

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.
Dear Sir:

In the last issue of Varsity I noticed an advertisement for a partner in the Great Masquerade. I have talked to many of the girls and they all feel that a great deal of the womanhood of the University has been perpetuated in classifying them with want ads, etc. We are sure if the gentleman (?) in question would go about it the right way he could obtain an introduction through another one instead of through the Varsity. Hoping that the Advertising Department will improve its type of advertisements.

I am,
One of the Insulted.

LAST MINUTE INSTRUCTIONS

served in the Wrestling Room and in the above near the South-East staircase.

Speaking of Punch, the committee, of course, feel that at a University function of this kind at which ladies will be present the following warning hardly needs to be given, but everyone must be on their very best behaviour at the Masquerade and on no account must there be disorderly conduct of any sort.

Unwinking must not take place until the end of the Grand March; everyone must, of course, keep this dance for their partner. The parade will form up, with its head in the Big Gym and will start back past the Great Hall. It will march past the patronesses at the west end of the Big Gym and then will be marshalled west, past the Boxing and Wrestling Rooms and up the north-west stairs, it will then march south past the Music Room and the Library on the second floor and down the south-west stairs, returning past the Great Hall to the Big Gym.

It will pass the judges' stand a second time, during which review the wearers of the prize winning costumes will be called out to receive their prizes, the march in the meantime continuing its way along the same route as before past the Music Room on the second floor and breaking off when the head of the column reaches the Great Hall. The prizes will be distributed immediately afterwards, and the orchestras will play several encore dances to the Grand March.

The committee hope that every one will do his or her best to follow the above plan to the letter as its success depends entirely upon the co-operation of all.

For the benefit of those bringing girls from the residences the 13th dance will start at 12 midnight so one may find out programmes accordingly. At the end of the dance, which will be exactly at 1 p.m., the taxis will call at either of the southern doors.

And, so that Hart House members may plan accordingly, the activities of the House will cease at 6 p.m. and the whole House be closed at 7 for this one evening which it is hoped will not inconvenience any one.

VARSITY AGAIN INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONS --- R.M.C. BEAT SECONDS

VARSITY BASKETBALL BEGINS ON TUESDAY

First Game Against Fast West End Aggregation

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock Varsity meets West End Y.M.C.A. at Hart House in the opening game of the Senior Toronto and District Basketball League, an organization affiliated with the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association.

This will be one of the most interesting games of a season which promises to be full of good basketball. The strong second team of last year, which easily defeated O.A.C. and Western University, is practically intact. Burgess, the new captain, plays centre. He is one of the best jumpers and ball-handlers in Toronto, and his fast combination work and clever passing count for much in attack. Cosgrove, Code and Caple will play at guard. Last year Cosgrove and Code were extremely hard to get past, and this year they are working together better than ever. MacDougall, the fast, heavy Sarnia product, will probably be at right forward, and Stewart will start at left forward. There will be no lack of good forwards to force the pace and wear down the opposing defense. Al Dickson's injured wrist has needed sufficiently to enable him to get back in the game; Duncan McLean, the London star, is back this year; Gordon of last year's thirds is showing good form in the early practices; and a new man, Brown, who has played Y.M.C.A. and college basketball in the West, is revealing considerable promise.

The West End have a strong team, and the contest will be desperately fought from start to finish. McCoulland, playing forward, is one of the best in the city, and he is especially to be feared under the basket. Reports are that Tait, the star athlete, is doing better work than ever at guard. Walker, at centre, is an extremely dangerous shot, and does his best work in emergencies. If Varsity is to win and get a good start for the Ontario Championship the team will have to play fast, hard basketball from beginning to end. At the practice last Saturday it showed very good form, and apparently is right on edge for the game.

DOWN JUNIOR DENTS BY A SCORE OF 8-1

Junior Meds won the championship of their Molek Cup group by defeating Junior Dents at the Stadium on Friday. The "Medals" got a converted try. Alex. Dunn and Campbell of Junior Meds were the stars of the game.

Senior Meds have won their group and now that Junior Meds have won theirs, there is going to be a lot of fun around the Medical Building for the next week or so, because both teams feel confident that they are going to win the Molek Cup. However, there are two other groups to be decided yet. The group that Junior Meds won has provided a lot of good rugby this fall. Junior Arts and Junior Dents and Junior School all going strong and battling all the way.

NORMAL MODEL OLD BOYS

The ex-pupils of the Normal Model School have arranged for a dinner to be held at the St. Charles Hotel, Bay and Richmond Streets, on Thursday, November 17th, 1921, at 6:30 p.m., under the auspices of the Normal Model Old Boys' Association.

Tickets may be had from W. Robert Connors, Secretary-Treasurer, 140 Spadina Avenue, or Hall Porter. Tickets $2.00. Members 50 cents.

University College

The regular meeting of the Literary and Athletic Society of University College will be held at the St. Charles Hotel, Bay and Richmond Streets, on Thursday, November 17th, at 8 o'clock. Business of the society will be brought up, followed by a debate: "Resolved that the present letter system should be abolished." The speakers are for the affirmative, D. C. Wells and C. S. Gulston, and for the negative, H. H. Gulston and L. Baker.

The programme will include musical numbers by Roy Stewart and G. Hewitt.

There will be a meeting of the University Women's Basketball Club on Friday, November 18 in the Lecture Room of the Household Science Building.

Most of "Iron Men" Hockey Team Again In Harness

Despite the fact that the hockey team at present occupies the limelight, the hockey teams have started practice. Wednesday night the Allen Cup winners held their first workout for the season. True they had one previous skate over the surface at the Arena still it was hardly a serious practice. As usual great numbers turned out. Some of these were of first calibre, others may represent the intermediates and juniors while some may seek more humble laurels on intercollegiate teams. Of last year's "Iron Men" Ramsey, Brown and Langtry appeared. Ramsey as usual showed up well. Stan Brown who has been skating regularly proved veritable whirlwind. By present indications he should eclipse even his form of last year.

"Old Hawk-eye" Langtry stopped all possible shots. He ought to be good for another ten years or so. Ned Wright gave the boys the "once-over" from the rail and predicted great things.

No newcomers of established line appeared although several showed surprising form for so early in the season.

White and Brennan, of North Bay left a very favorable impression of their hands. Most of the newcomers were hardly tipped by the size of the surface, dull skates, etc. A whole raft of juniors swarmed over the place. Conny Smythe and Westman were back at college. A pretty fair nucleus for another Allen Cup team. Joe Olson, Peter McIntyre and Frank Sullivan will not return. Pete and Joe graduated, while Sully succumbed to the strategy of the faculty. However there seems to be plenty of material who will develop into stars to replace them.

Of the intermediates only Grant Gordon, Ferguson and McDonald survived the rigorous exams. However all those who failed their years are eligible for O.H.A. Louis Hudson, the former Dental star is now in second year Medicine, if he gets into condition he should prove good enough to stay on anybody's hockey team.

Judging from present indications Varsity should again repeat their last year's success and prove even more definitely that they are the finest amateur hockey team in the province.

At 6:00 p.m. Everyone is exhorted to come, as this is the only meeting this term and important business and the amendments to the constitution will be discussed.

SOCCER

In their return game with O.A.C. Varsity II's won 4-0. In the first half Varsity had the edge, due mainly to the open playing and the exceptionally good work of Bishop. The first goal for Varsity was the result of the prettiest play of the game, when Sanderson, securing a pass, ran down the side and shot to Bishop. The three remaining goals of the period and of the game were made by Bishop also.

Jess, Paton and White for O.A.C. played well. Varsity's best men were Bishop, Hiles and White.

FORESTRY STUNT NIGHT

The little Faculty building on the East Shore of Queen's Park was the centre of a lively on Friday evening, when the Forestry Club of the University held their Annual Stunt Night. At 8:30, in accordance with time-honoured custom, the ladies from Queen's Hall retired as the guests of the evening, and shortly thereafter, the entertainment opened with a number of musical selections. Mr. McLachlan also gave an admirable rendering of two of Drummmond's Habitant poems, the effect of these being enhanced by the picture-que bush costumes affected by the men of the audience.

Dr. Howe, Dean of the Faculty, gave an illustrated address on the subject of biological curiosities that burnt the forest fastnesses in the Rocky mountain region and the far north. Many of these are never seen by the ordinary Forester pursuing the calling in distant corners of the wilds.

After the lecture the party adjourned to the gymnasium where a supper to partake of the delicacies prepared by Cook Sharpe and his gang of fundies. The problem of providing supper for over one hundred people with only a small tent and a battered cook stove under the open sky as equipment is no sinecure and "Frankie" deserves the utmost praise for the results he achieved. Incidentally it is rumored that he has received three offers of matrimony since Friday night but he will neither confirm nor deny this statement.

Dancing featured the remainder of the evening until, all too soon, the witching hour arrived and the Club's guests and neighbours had to redeem their time passes.

In spite of the fact that inclement weather prevented the usual "santa's" in bushcraft and the customary gathering around an open bonfire in the garden, the night was perhaps the most successful in the history of the Faculty and, as such credit must be given to Messrs. Reid, Connors and Cram who formed the Committee in charge.

VARSITY III'S WIN THEIR GROUP TITLE

At Rosedale field on Saturday morning the Blue and White Junior aggregation won their group and as a result they will meet Queen's Juniors in Kingston next Saturday to decide the Junior Intercollegiate title.

Neither team tallied during the first half but in the third quarter McMaster romped. In the fourth quarter Varsity gained a loose ball and went over for a try which was converted and gave Varsity its six points.

McMaster out-kicked Varsity, but the Blue and White half-time made up for their weakness in that department by running the ball back for greater distances than did the McMaster halves. The latter pointed but very little from their good footing as they fumbled time after time on returns. Both teams did excellent tackling, especially when one considers the uncertain footing. Teague for Varsity and Platus for McMaster starred in this department. Hughes, McMaster's centre-half exhibited some wonderful booting, while Code was Varsity's best ball carrier.

The teams—McMaster—Smith, Dosdelle, W. Hughes, Hughes, Calmore, Price, Freeman Houghting, McGrath, Platus, Jones and McVynah, spares—Webb and Taylor.

Varsity III—Sorley, Pequegan, Code, Calmore, Teague, Lapping, Curlake, Snyder, Smith, White, Brethnach and Johnston; spares: Reid, Billings, McCully, Brule, Munroe and Leary.

Officials—"Joe-Joe" Stitt and "Ducky" Tufford.

"TORONTONENSIS" BOARD SESSION 1921-22

AGENDA

Photographies—

1. Make arrangements with photographer for class sittings, so that appointments may not clash with lectures.
2. When all sittings have been made have the proofs returned promptly in order that the selected photograph may be furnished the Board.
3. As soon as the finished pictures are ready to be turned over to the Editor, each representative should call on the photographer and identify each member of his or her class, writing the name plainly on the back of the print.

Note.—The deposit left with the photographer by each graduate provides a print for the year-book.

This portion of the work must be complete by December 1, 1921.

Biographies—

1. Distribute blanks to each member of class.
2. Recommend brevity and originality, following the special instructions on each form.
3. Extra forms are always available at Varsity post office in the Rotunda.

Arrange to have all biographies submitted by December 1.

General—

1. Class executives, etc., may go to either of the "Torontonensis" photographers for sittings.
2. Clubs, athletic associations and all social organizations should be notified by their respective members about having pictures taken and sending in their copy early—(not received after December 1, 1921).
3. Sororities and fraternities should be specially requested to submit their copy before December 1st. The fraternity lists should be classified as: Fraternities in Facultate. Fraternities in Bello. Fraternities in Urbe.
4. Class histories and write-ups should be in by December 1st and members of the board are asked to make this generally known.
5. Reservations for "In Memoriam" pages should be made with the Business Manager as early as possible—(not later than December 1, 1921).

Cut this and keep for future reference.

"The Foremost Civilization of Ancient America." The Maya, was the subject of an illustrated lecture given by Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley before a large and appreciative audience in the Physics Building on Saturday evening.

Dr. Morley, who is a graduate of Harvard University, and who has done considerable exploration work in Costa Rica, British Honduras, Panama, and Salvador, is regarded as an authority on the deciphering of Mayan hieroglyphics. Latterly, Dr. Morley has been engaged in field work under the auspices of The American School of Archaeology in Central America, and his lecture was a fascinating account of a wonderful civilization which has passed.

The first part of the lecture was devoted to views of the cities which Dr. Morley visited, and the monuments that were found there. Before 700 A.D. the Mayas lived in the inland country of Central America, and it was in this region that some of the earliest monuments were discovered—some of them dated as far back as 68 A.D. and were found to be in a fine state of preservation due to the fact that in filling, they fell face forward and to were not subjected to the ravages of vegetation and the elements.

Dr. Morley referred also to the ball courts which were ancient Maya cities. Their ball game, resembled closely the game of basketball of the present day. The player was obliged to use only his hip, elbow and head. There were two rings, one at each end of the court and hung high upon the wall in such a position that the players rarely succeeded in putting the ball through the ring. Whenever this feat was accomplished, however, the spectators were supposed to reward the successful athlete by slinging upon him articles of wearing apparel.

Dr. Morley made the observation that it is only a question of time before we will have a more complete account of this ancient civilization than that which we have of the ancient cities of Greece. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the evening was moved by Dr. Curley, who, in the course of his remarks, brought out the difficulties that an archaeologist is called upon to face in Central America, where dense vegetation, insects, and diseases have forced many students to forego the study of the Maya civilization. This vote of thanks was warmly conducted by the President, Sir Robert Falconer.

MONTREAL PLAYERS
IN LOCAL EFFORTPerform Drama of Former Vic.
Girl in Hart House

Next Saturday afternoon and evening the Community Players from Montreal will make their first visit to Hart House. The first play, to be given on Saturday night, is a Toronto girl, Marjorie Pickthall, who was connected with Victoria College, 141 years ago. She is a master of form and delicate language which few other Canadian authors have, and with this Carmen may be placed at the head of Canadian poets. Her first production in this theatre will be observed with considerable interest.

The Montreal Players are a group of people interested in doing things that are worth while for their own sake, and as such are worthy of support as our own dramatic artists. They are a looking to make money from their visit here, but the expenses of transportation and production are very heavy and must be met from the proceeds of their visit here. Mr. Harold E. Key will be in charge of the music for this production, and the same shifting, etc., will be looked after by our own staff.

Another short play, "The Little Stone House," by George Cadden, an English author of considerable prominence, will be presented, and Sir Andrew MacPhail, the English man of letters, will deliver an address on the "Business of the Theatre," which should be a great attraction.

A special rate for students of 75 cents per seat is offered, and it is hoped that Hart House will have its usual crowd to welcome our Montreal visitors.

VICTORIA '21 CLASS
PICTURES UNVEILED

The pictures of Victoria College Graduating Class and Theology were unveiled at a joint meeting of the U.L.S. and W.L.S. Wednesday evening, when Alumni Hall was crowded to the doors. A fine literary programme was rendered and two spirited debates took place.

President A. E. F. Gilroy of U.L.S., and President Miss Grace Armstrong of W.L.S. were joint chairmen. The literary programme consisted of songs led by H. Marchwood '23, a "sermon" preached by R. G. Agnew, B.A., a vocal solo by Miss Howard '23, a piano solo by Miss Edith McGilvary '23, and a monologue by M. A. Cayley '23.

A debate took place on the question of whether the extra academic activities of the students should be recognized on graduation by a suitably engraved certificate. The discussion was a lively one and when the vote was taken a majority favoured the idea.

A discussion, which produced a great deal of merriment, was the debate on the subject of extending co-education to the dining halls. The motion to have the fair coasts of Annesley rub elbows with the stewards of Burwash at the meal hour was lost.

Professor C. E. Auger unveiled the pictures of Theologians and Grads of '21, and these will adorn Alumni Hall.

A strong appeal for support for Acta Victoria was made by D. Gibson '22.

The critics' reports were given by Miss J. V. McInnes '22 and E. P. Congdon, B.A. Following this all repaired to Annesley Hall Reception Room, where refreshments were served. Mr. Roy Rickard led in some lively songs, and the various yells concluded the meeting.

Jolly Old St. Nicholas
Passes The UniversityLEAVES POLAR REGIONS TO GLADDEN KIDDIES HEARTS

An interesting illustration of how times have changed is found in the present conduct of Santa Claus. From time immemorial up to at least ten years ago the jolly old Saint stayed in his castle at the North Pole all the year through, keeping his assistant elves busy making toys for good little boys and girls in Christendom. He made a tour of the world, drawn by his span of reindeer, dashing down chimneys to make interesting deliveries of toys and stockings. And if any little boy or girl stayed awake to even so much as peek at Santa at his labours—well, there was the awful possibility of an empty stocking in the morning!

But nowadays, how all this has changed! Santa Claus arrives, in Toronto at least, sometimes more than a month before Christmas Day. He is as progressive of the progressives, arriving one year in an aeroplane, transferring to a walrus coach, and the next year, behold he has a new chariot in the shape of a gigantic fish. It is even said that he holds receptions for his young friends, and they tell him what they want for Christmas, doing away with the time-honoured method of sending letters (with many qualms) up the chimney.

Whatever we may think of this radical change in the habits of so long a lifetime is the fact, however, that good Saint Nicholas always holds a warm place in our hearts. He represents the spirit of cheerful faith, and the memories of Christmas past centre around his round figure. So the University greets Santa when he arrives with a lusty "Toronto Toronto" (into Varsity) to show them that even in its halls of learning his appeal is still powerful, and the trumpets of his heralds can summon students, and even professors, to do him honour.

Applied Science

Judging from current announcements and reports regarding dances, sports, and around the University we are beginning to feel that the constituents of the most ordinary functions are flowing superlative descriptions such as, "The Best Dance of the Season," "The Most Enjoyable Party Yet Staged," "The Most Brilliant Evening of the Year."

With all due respect to the beautiful charm and music of our language, and to the best attempts of other joy-makers, we must, as engineers, say, "You've got to show me."

So—members of the slip-stick brigade—park the Jib Crane and the elusive Planet Number on the shelf and "contend."

273 is going to hold its first dance of the year on Wednesday, December 25. It is coming off in Columbus Hall, which has been renovated especially for the occasion, Monsieur le Capitain Filby, the noted jazz band leader, is the master of ceremonies, bringing his boys around. The catering will be handled by Cole, so E.A.L. members of 273 will be approached immediately by their Department representative with tickets. Don't disappoint him.

We extend the heartiest welcome to all of those of other years. Tickets are already on sale and may be obtained from the Engineering Society—get yours now, before it is too late. Watch for further particulars of THE DANCE DE LUXE.

The eighty members of fourth year School who were present at the Annual Year Dance held at the Metropolitan Assembly room on Friday night were unanimous in voting this, the last, as also the best of the series of informal class parties.

The old-time waltz music, the "Paul Jones," the lucky number dance followed by the strains of the bridal march as the fortunate couple were presented with prizes were the features of an evening that will linger long in the memories of all present.

This account would not be complete without some mention of the masterful way in which Mr. "Spide" Thompson, Toronto, and "Talkie Oke," the patronesses of the evening were Mrs. C. H. Mitchell, Mrs. C. H. Wright, Mrs. P. G. Galt, and Mrs. T. R. Loudon. Prof. Cockburn, the honorary president of the year was also present.

S.P.S. DEBATING CLUB

Owing to the illness of Professor Greaves he will be unable to meet his Monday night group to-night, so that it has been arranged that the Monday group be held on Friday, November 18, instead. It will start at 7.30 p.m. in the Lecture Room, Hart House. Please come prepared to read, preferably something of a good virile nature, such as stirring poetry, or from a play.

Some misunderstanding has arisen about the division into groups: the Monday night group is comprised of those who preferred Monday to Friday night, and contains the bulk of the Fourth Year men, with a sprinkling of seconds and thirds. But for this special occasion the Monday nighters must come on Friday, while those who generally come on Friday need not turn out for this lecture at all.

Y.M.C.A. BOOK EXCHANGE

The Y.M.C.A. Book Exchange in Hart House will be open for payment of text books, sold every day this week from 1 to 3 o'clock. As a notice is possible the following schedule will be observed: Monday—Numbers below 1700. Tuesday—Numbers 1700 to 1900. Wednesday—Numbers over 1900. Positively no payment will be made without receipts given out when books were taken into the Exchange.

Book-Friends

Books are like people. Some books one never wishes to meet again. There are some that engender a sort of snobbery. You feel a certain inner glow of superiority by being able to announce that you "know them, and possibly you hint at an intimacy which marks you out as one of the "best people." There are books like crowned heads, at once to be known and to be despised. One can never expect nor wish to know them. There are friendly books, books whose titles invite, whose dress allures. Sometimes they disappoint. You find their friendliness is superficial. They do not get inside you. But sometimes a real event when it happens—you fall in love with a book. It returns your love, a life-long friendship is formed—indeed a friendship that may outlast death.

It is difficult to say on the first appearance of a book whether it will belong to that rare small class, whether in the welter of utterances that pour daily from the world's press, it contains that deathless thing, some fragment of God's life, that will abide.

A. Herbert Gray, who is widely known to the students of Great Britain, has written a little book which seems to have something of this fascinating and mysterious quality of friendliness. Not a hearty, slap-you-on-the-back sort of friendliness but rather a shy, reserved, yet intense and fiery kind of friendliness, a thin clear flame. It is called, "The Christian Adventure." Possibly the word "Christian" in the title will put some of us off at once.

Adventure may be all right, but what has this thing to do with Christianity to do with adventure? What is it but the negation of life? I think that quite a number of people, at a certain place called Elgin House, discovered this year that the thing called Christianity is the most interesting, challenging, friendly thing in the world, the very antithesis of negation. To them at least Mr. Gray's book will come with all the friendliness born of that experience. At any rate a university, a place where students are supposed to congregate, should be a place where no intellectual challenge may be refused. Mr. Gray's book at least challenges the student and is worthy of the friendship of the best minds in the University.

The Christian Adventure, by A. Herbert Gray. S. C. M., 90 cents.

The University of Toronto Y.M.C.A. has opened a lending library and book department in the General Secretary's office, Hart House, where titles and many other books treating of topics of real interest to students may be either borrowed or purchased.

NOTED BOY'S WORKER TO SPEAK

The University Y.M.C.A. have arranged for Taylor Statten to speak in the Lecture Room, Hart House, on Wednesday, November 10th, at 1.30 p.m. Mr. Statten is the Big Chief of Boys' Work in Canada and one of this country's most gifted speakers.

Time is so arranged that no one need be late for 2 o'clock engagements.

DENTISTRY

There are still a few men who signed for Masquerade tickets and have not come for them. Remember that 5,000 untaken members of the U. of T. who did not get them will be glad to take them off our hands. See Jack Renton two-tee-tout toute de suite.

Dents are well away in regard to inter-faculty hockey. An enthusiastic crowd assembled on Thursday and with H. Cooke, of 273, in the chair, the nomination of managers were made.

Harris of 274 was elected manager of the Junior Dents while Lee Kilburn will act as temporary manager for the senior group. That Dent will make the other faculties step lively is an assured fact.

The Oriental Club of R.C.D.S. will assemble for luncheon at 12.30 Tuesday, November 15th, on the second floor of Hart House. As an added attraction Dr. Webster will address the meeting.

The Dent Conservatives held an enthusiastic meeting Friday, November 11, the liberals will hold another on Monday, November 14, while the Progressives will hold theirs on Tuesday. These meetings will take place in Lecture Room 2 in preparation for Meek Parliament. Every body out.

Education

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION NEWS

A very enjoyable meeting of the Students' Christian Movement was held Thursday afternoon in the Library of W.T.S. The year's work was outlined and the real programme of this department begun. Judging by the enthusiasm shown at to-day's meeting this important phase of student work will enjoy a successful season.

On Friday, at 4 p.m., a tea is being given by the members of the staff and their wives. A large attendance is hoped for. On Tuesday, November 15th, comes our first class party. This will take the form of a kindergarten story (seminar for children), at which all participants must appear in abbreviated costume.

The Masquerade

The Editor of VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

Though it might be said of me, "He rushes in where angels fear to tread," I would like, through the medium of "our newspaper," to offer a suggestion to the committee responsible for the well balanced programme for the Masquerade.

It seems to me that the foster responsible for the most enjoyment at a masquerade is the concealment of the identity of the masked, leading to quite a lively speculation as to "who's who." Now when dances are exchanged in the usual manner this interest in one's partner is nil. I, and I feel sure I am voicing the opinion of quite a large number of "paste-board holders," would suggest that a "Paul Jones" be inserted as an extra somewhere before the Grand March. Extras are conspicuous by their absence so perhaps one might be permissible and in this instance quite apropos.

This novelty dance would not lower the "tone" of the Masquerade attended wholly by "nice people" and perhaps would add considerable to the jollity of "The Varsity Masquerade."

Thanking you for the space, I remain, yours,

A PASTE-BOARD HOLDER,

274 Meds.

FOURTH YEAR DANCE

The Fourth Year Dance will be held in Columbus Hall on December 2nd. Excellent music is assured as the Committee has fortunately been able to secure Linton's Orchestra for the occasion. Tickets ($3.00) may be obtained from the year presidents this week.

SKETCH CLUB HEARS FINE ADDRESS ON THE RELATION OF ART TO THE THEATRE

Mr. Bertram Forsyth Speaks—Winner of Christmas Card Competition Announced

A very successful meeting of the Sketch Club was held in the Sketch Room on Monday evening when Mr. Bertram Forsyth addressed the Club. Much enthusiasm in Club affairs was evoked by the large turnout and great interest was shown in the ambitious plans which the executive have mapped out for the coming season and it can be clearly seen that the Club is on the eve of a great advance—that of taking its rightful place in the furthering of art interest in the University. Mr. Forsyth's subject was the relation of Art to the Theatre. He spoke in an interesting and humorous manner, covering the subject through the social emphasis to the history of the English stage during the last few centuries. He then turned his audience over to Mr. Coventry who gave details of the 22nd work in connection with design in the theatre. Mr. Coventry extended a cordial invitation to any member of the Club to take part in any phase of the work of designing sets.

In connection with general business of the Club it was decided that Miss E. Nason, student in fourth year Architecture, was the winner of Mr. Hamilton's twenty-five dollar prize in the Christmas Card Competition. The judges, Messrs. Jeffries, Robson and Bridgen made their decision after a lengthy deliberation. Nearly all the designs submitted showed real merit and originality of idea. These cards will be on sale shortly at the University Press at a low rate.

A report on the work of the Picture Committee was given by Prof. Farley. He explained that the Committee were arranging to hold the annual exhibition of pictures in Hart House as soon as the Royal Academy Exhibition is over. He also announced that the next meeting of the committee will be held at the latter exhibition on Tuesday, November 22nd.

A competition for the design of a vase or crest for the Club was announced subject to the following conditions:

1. The vase to be of simple, striking character of rectangular shape.
2. The design must be handled in such a broad manner as to give the impression of a vase, the greatest dimension of which shall not exceed one inch.
3. Pen and ink designs are preferable to pencil.
4. Designs will be called shortly, the precise date to be announced later.

It might also be noted that the competition for prizes in the Fortenness has already been announced and that all members are always welcome to bring their work to the club and have them criticised by any artist present.

The president announced that Mr. Bridgen, member of one of the best firms who specialised in reproduction work in the city, will address the Club early in December on the instructive and timely subject of drawing for reproduction. The exhibition will be held in the very near future and that actual working evenings will start shortly under the able guidance of some of the best men in artistic circles. Further notice will be made about this on Friday.

After the meeting the members went down to the theatre with Mr. Forsyth to view his interesting collection of theatrical relics and to get a glimpse of the work that the designing and sketching staffs are at present engaged upon.

MONTREAL PLAYERS HERE SATURDAY

Marjorie Pichthal's First Play Will Be Produced

Some years ago Mr. J. E. Hoare, of Montreal, conceived the idea of starting a company in the city to produce plays which, for one reason or another, are not found among the repertoire of commercial companies. He wrote a social drama, "Squirrels," and his company played that; they have also produced several other good plays, notably "Houghton," "Huddle Wakes," and "The Players' Club," and these productions have recently reached an excellence not often found among amateurs. Lacking a permanent theatre, and Professor Dale, of the Players' Club, asked them to come to Toronto and present an all-Canadian bill, as a climax to the other activities of "Canadian Authors' week." Mr. Hoare will see their advent here, not in an all-Canadian bill, because two suitable one-acters could not be found, but a programme which should prove attractive to every one. Marjorie Pichthal is well known among Toronto book-lovers, and her first play will be watched with considerable interest. Mr. George Calderon is an English dramatist who is always interesting, and the short address by Sir Andrew MacPhail on the "Business of the Theatre" will be equally engrossing.

Lord Byng of Vimy To Visit Toronto University Monday Next

The first official visit to the University of His Excellency Lord Byng of Vimy will take place on Monday, November 28th. His Excellency and party will arrive at the University about 11 o'clock and will visit certain of the principal buildings, reaching Convocation Hall at noon. Arrangements are being made with the War Veterans Association to have a large representation of the returned soldiers meet in the foyer of the Hall to welcome His Excellency. The special Convocation exercises will commence at 12:15 p.m. The galleries of the Hall, accommodating over nine hundred and fifty persons, will be reserved for representatives of the students of the various Colleges and Faculties. Lectures and Laboratory Classes will cease for the day at noon in order to allow the staff and students to welcome His Excellency.

After the Convocation exercises His Excellency and party will be entertained at luncheon by the President of the University in the Music Room, Hart House.

Further particulars respecting the assignments of tickets to the various Colleges and Faculties, and the arrangements in connection with returned soldier students will be announced later in VARSITY.

ST. MIKES ORGANIZE DEBATING SOCIETY

Student's Parliament Inaugurated With Keen Debate

At St. Michael's College on Monday evening a meeting of the Arts was held to inaugurate a Students' Parliament with Mr. E. McMahon, president of the Students' Council, in the chair. The object and form of this new institution was explained by Mr. McMahon.

In past years debates have been held within and between the various years, but with little success, owing to lack of support. Moreover, there were no much overhead view in preparing debating schedules and searching for suitable topics, that this time it was decided to adopt the new, different arrangement. The Students' Parliament, he explained, would be modelled after the Federal Government. The Platform of the various parties would be presented to the Assembly by capable speakers and later an election would take place. The Party receiving the majority of votes would then form the parliament.

The chairman now introduced the leader of the Conservative Party, Mr. E. Francis Simpson. This worthy speaker did even as much as Sir Arthur Meighen could have done to hark the sins of the present government, to extol the Grand Old Conservative Party and to stress all their only hope for the future, "The Tariff Policy."

Mr. Daniel Simpson, second speaker for the Conservative Party, was unable to lend his assistance owing to an infection of the throat.

Mr. May, leader of the Liberal Party, was next called upon, and from the outbursts of applause at the opening, and at various times during his speech, the popularity of his party was simply indicated. Mr. May began with a few well-directed and desecrated accusations which he did not run the Conservative platform, at least weakly many planks thereof. He then began to show from positive evidence why every citizen should back the Liberal Party in the coming elections. Mr. May's delivery was undoubtedly the best of the evening and his speech was enthusiastically received by the audience.

Mr. Martin, second speaker for the Liberals, looks promising for one of St. Michael's first debaters when experience has won off a few of the rough edges.

He very ably expounded the Liberal policy with regard to Returned Soldiers, the Railway Question and the Progressive Party.

The Progressive Platform was next set before the audience by Mr. O'Shea. He rather weakly in delivery, the hum of his speech made it very effective with the wearying audience. He explained why the Farmers had decided to form a party and exactly what that Party advocated.

Mr. Page, a second speaker for the Progressive Party, then proceeded to discuss the matter of the two platforms, set down by the opposing speakers, were almost indistinguishable.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS TO THE MASKERS-- TO-NIGHT WILL BE GALA EVENT OF SEASON

"Varsity's Beauty and Chivalry Will Be Gathered There" A Good Time Assured

The following points are among the most important to remember, for the full enjoyment of the dancing to-night. The committee has made every possible arrangement, yet the smoothness and ease with which it will run, depends upon the cooperation of the maskers. The programmes will be given, two of them, to each gentleman as he presents himself to the ladies last night. A pencil with you, preferably two or three, for John will be sure to have forgotten his.

The Checking

Once inside the building the gentlemen are to repair to the usual cloak room in the basement near the Great Hall, to check their coats. The ladies check room will be in the Lecture Room on the second floor, near the St. Michael's St. W. entrance to the basement to take any overflow. After having checked the wraps, please meet your partner in the corridor outside the Great Hall. Do not try to meet by the Hall Porter's desk, or even at the foot of the South Eastern stairs, as the traffic will be very heavy there for the first half-hour.

Where to Dance

Everyone is requested to use the East Convocation Room and the Reising Room for dancing as much as possible, as to balance the number of guests equally between the two. The committee will consider it a great favour if this is done, as it will justify their decision to admit more guests than were permitted to last year's event. Two buglers will sound the "Fall In" at various points in the House at the beginning of each set, while the light "C" will be the signal that the dance is ended. As the dance is being run strictly according to schedule, please do not ask for too many corners to the first dances. The number of the dance in progress will be posted at the following points: outside the front entrance to the first dances; the Common Room, at the eastern end of the southern corridor; near the door to the Great Hall; and by the orchestra in the Music Room.

Supper will be served from 10 to 12, and will be a buffet lunch, no seating

DR. WATSON AT ROYAL ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY

"Astronomy in a Poet's Life"—The Subject Discussed

The members of the Royal Astronomical Society were favoured on Tuesday night by a paper by Dr. A. D. Watson on "Astronomy in a Poet's Life." Dr. Watson stated that poetry and Astronomy were both akin, and that to be a great astronomer, one had to be poetically inclined, while to be a great poet, one had to look beyond his earthly environments into the heavens, the limitless fields of thought for his inspiration. The lesser astronomer, like the minor poet is easily satisfied and having no motives for attempting to reach a new field, he never gets out of the beaten track, and whether in poetry or astronomy devotes his life to his task and puts his soul into the work gains a place among the immortals.

Astronomy, he showed, is the quest of new laws, and although the poet did not seek laws for the purpose of proving them, he often preceded the astronomer in deriving truths which were later shown to be correct. The harmony between astronomy and poetry has been proven by the work of Tennyson, or our Canadian poet Bliss Carman who have produced gems of thought as far as poetry is concerned, but which do not diverge in the least from scientific facts.

In conclusion he pointed out the fact that the three original sciences were poetry, medicine and astronomy, and stated that he thought that one of the needs of today was a close linking of science and poetry.

The meeting was closed after a number of the members of the Society had expressed their appreciation to Dr. Watson, and it was announced that on November 29 a lecture would be given by Mr. John A. Patterson, K. C. M. G., on "Perceval Lowell." This talk will be given at the regular meeting of the Society in the Physics Building and the public are invited to attend.

Father McCarroll then made a few critical remarks, particularly about the attendance at these meetings. He explained the co-operation that was necessary from each student and exhorted every one to lend his support in making the Students' Parliament a success.

Several of the students then took the floor to discuss the Parliament in general and the parties in particular. During this discussion it was pointed out that the Parliament will supply the interest in public affairs which the Varsity in a recent editorial claims is lacking among the students.

Mr. McMahon, after warning the students to hold their own meetings for the electing of officers, called an adjournment till the evening of the election.

The Grand March

As the outstanding feature of the evening will, of course, be the Grand March, everybody is asked to make this success. Reserve this dance for your partner and form up in a line "two deep" with the head of the column in the big gym and the body stretching down past the Great Hall. The parade will march through the big gym, past the Wrestling and Boxing rooms and up stairs by the North-west stairs, then south past the Music Room and the Class Room and down by the South-west stairs, thence back to the Great Hall and the big gym. By this means a complete circuit of the House will be made. The procession will pass the judges as they will come for you and take the same route as before, dismaying as the head of the column reaches the Great Hall. The second round is to arrive at the judges to pick out the prize winners from the parade. The prize distribution will take place immediately afterwards in the big gym where the whole parade will be held. Unsmiling will not take place until after the judging.

The Finale

The dancing will conclude promptly at 1 p.m. and taxis will call at either of the south doors. Tell the traffic officer your number and he will pass it to the parking space on your call will come for you. Please do not keep it waiting an instant as all the cars must be away from the building by half past one. If there is any delay, walk to them instead of driving up to the House, it will greatly relieve congestion.

If the back campus will be in too soft a condition to permit parking cars upon it, the roads near Hart House and around the front campus will have to be used. Supper, to-morrow, will be served in the Great Hall from 5 to 8. The Billiard Room and Butler Shop will close at 12:30 and the whole of the whole of the House will be closed to all but the Committee and those working in the building at 7.

SENIOR MEDS. VICTORIOUS OVER O.A.C. IN RUGBY

First Game of the Semi-Finals Ends in 7-1 Score Game in Guelph Thursday

TAYLOR STATTEN AT HART HOUSE TO-DAY

Taylor Statten, of the National Boys' Work Board, will speak for a few minutes in the Lecture Room, Hart House, at 1:30 p.m., to-day, under the auspices of the Varsity Y.M.C.A.

MR. CHAMBERS OF POLAND INVITED BY S.C.A.

Will Meet Friends Over Week-End

The Student Christian Movement in Toronto have invited Mr. Chambers of Poland to be their guest over the week-end and many students and members of the Y.M.C.A. will welcome the opportunity of meeting him. Mr. Chambers is a graduate of the University of Manitoba. Shortly after graduation he proceeded to Poland to do some post-graduate work. After completing his post-graduate studies he returned to his native land, where he is now a Polish priest in Winnipeg.

When the Polish Army took ship four years ago he went again to Poland under the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A. in company with several other Canadians who went at that time. Mr. Chambers is an intimate friend of Mr. Rose, Canadian who is now one of the Poland's leading educationalists and whom many Toronto students will remember. Mr. Rose and Mr. Chambers have been associated in the administration of the Student Christian Movement in Poland and during the last year have been associated in the administration of the Canadian branch of the movement. Mr. Chambers has also been associated during the past year with Mr. Margaret Wrong, who is so well known to a large number of Varsity men and women.

Mr. Chambers is home from Poland for a few weeks to bring greetings from the Polish students in that country and to bring to the students of Canada and the United States a statement of the situation in Poland, Germany, Austria, Russia and other countries in Central Europe, where students are doing much of our generous assistance.

WESTERN MEDICAL BUILDING
Western University, London, is opening its new Medical Building on Thursday, November 17th. This marks an epoch in the development of the Faculty of Medicine of a university that is fast taking its place as one of the foremost in the Dominion. U. of W. may be represented at the event by Professor J. J. McKenzie of Professor J. P. McMurray.

Mr. Meds played O.A.C. II on the back campus yesterday and secured a six point lead to take to Guelph with them on Thursday. The score was 7 to 1. All the points were secured as a result of kicks.

The teams were:
O.A.C. II—Flying wing, Ziegler, halvers, Present, T. Smith, Haggie, quarters-back, Haggie, amos, Shepherd, insides, Tolton and Beattie; middles, Richmond and Hamilton, outsides, Parley and Pauley, Spares—Moran, Haddon, Dickson and W. Smith.

Senior Meds—Flying wing, Gault, halves, Allen, Luke, Everett, quarters, Harkin, snub, amos, Swain and Mahaffey, middles, Richard and Graham, outsides, Traub and Pauley, Spares, Gray, Ballantyne, Keith, Gilder-on, 1st and Carroll.
Referee—W. A. Hewitt.

First Half

The field was of course, very slippery, but in spite of this both teams put up a fast brand of rugby. O.A.C. won the toss and immediately began to press. The Meds halved made no errors and kept their team from being scored on until P. Smith, of O.A.C., attempted a drop. The field failed to cross the bar but a rouse resulted. Meds came back strong and before the end of quarter three Man's thirty left footed long the yard to the dead line for Meds first point. The half was over.

In the second period, Meds continued to press but O.A.C. were able to tighten up when they were on their own line. The first kicking of Graham featured this period.

Half-time score: Meds 3; O.A.C. 1. Meds forced the play in the second half, although O.A.C. threatened now and then when they broke away for or twice. Meds looked for four more points before the game closed. Once they were within striking distance of a touch, but O.A.C. held them on three downs. Luke made a spectacular run on a Mad line play. O.A.C. bringing him down about ten yards from the line. This was the most sensational play the game saw. Allan was very much in the limelight with his kicking.

NOVEMBER 19, RETROSPECT AND PROSPECT

On Saturday afternoon Varsity will meet the Argonauts, champions of the Interprovincial Rugby Union in the Dominion Semi-Finals. It is interesting to remember in this connection that eleven years ago on Saturday, November 19, 1910, the Varsity team, under Hugh Gall, met and defeated the Hamilton Tigers for the Dominion Championship at the Hamilton Cricket Grounds, and that almost exactly one year later the U. of T. aggregation, captained by Jack Maynard, was equally successful in dealing with the Argos. There has probably never been a player in the University whose contribution in the making of Varsity Rugby has been of greater value than that of Jack Maynard. He was one of the out-standing half-backs, not only of his own day, but of the whole history of the game in this country. As a captain he displayed resource and ability to handle a team on the field, second to none. It was with perfect confidence that the Varsity predicted that he would also be one of our greatest coaches. We feel that our confidence was well placed and that the wisdom of the "Powers that be" in asking Dr. Maynard to coach our team this year has been completely vindicated.

The players of the University rallied around the coach as they have done since the test of the "good old days" that the oldest grad can remember, and since they found their stride, nothing that the Inter-collegiate has been able to produce has found its way to break it. But Saturday's struggle will in all probability be the stiffest that the team has had to face, and it will require every ounce of energy and determination that we can muster to keep the Blue and White on top. We shall meet one of the strongest teams that have ever taken the field in Canadian Rugby, but there is one advantage with which we, who cannot play, can provide our representatives, and which may be the determining factor in the game. We can make the student body of the University a solid mass of united support, a factor not to be disregarded among those that make for the success or failure of a team.

The support of the team is of paramount importance. The Roster's practice to-morrow should be no matter of mere formality or means of getting a cheap ticket. Every man who can possibly do so owes it to our team and to our coach, who have given much time and hard work to their task, to be there and to make his part in the game a real success, to join in the cheers and yells with real enthusiasm to SUPPORT the team in the fullest sense of the word.

SERVICE

The keynote of the twentieth century is Service—a truly unselfish keynote, for it shows that man has become less occupied with himself and his petty individual interests and has gazed out on the world and has called his fellow creatures brothers. Service goes hand in hand with Leadership, for who are leaders but the followers of a great ideal and servants of their fellows in greater or in less degree? Leadership implies service, a selfless, self-centred man cannot lead, but the one who spares not himself, his time, thought, energy, means, his very life, he it is who will achieve greatness.

The war has given us a glorious ideal of service and has hallowed it. Youth may be thoughtless, yet the appeal of service is a very insistent one, and Youth answered it in nineteen fourteen. It was not fame he coveted, nor gold, but the feeling of having "done his bit," of having served faithfully and fully. We are heirs of this great ideal, we dare not fall behind. If we would only realize this, College training find its true purpose. Yet we are not barred from service until we graduate; there are ways of serving our fellows in College. To worthy causes we can devote our time, money, sympathy, and greatest of all, our enthusiasm. Every day appeals are made to us, real opportunities to help, small, but not so insignificant that we can pass them by if we pause to think. Then when we do step out into the world we only enlarge our sphere of service. The truly successful life is the life of service. Money and the plaudits of the crowd do not count; they are secondary. The man or woman who chooses a profession primarily and purely for the money in it degrades that profession. The greatest of their fellows have received little or no praise and less gold. In them is exemplified the saying: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." What does count in the final analysis, what gives real glowing satisfaction is the knowledge that one has played the game squarely and has served his fellows to the best of his ability and as far as in him lay.

CLEAN PLAY COACHING FOR LIFE OUTSIDE

Under this heading "The Pullman," of the Washington State College, publishes some remarks of their coach, Gus Welch, who is one of the most successful in the Western States. He says, in part: "I coach my men not so much for the present as for the future. What I am looking at is what these lads will be when they are business and professional men ten and fifteen years from now. I tell them, 'It is a fine thing to win a football game, but that is not the only thing. Nobody wants you to win more than I do. I want you to get out there and fight your hardest every minute of the game. But fight cleanly, and remember this: Ten years from now, if you have played dirty football, you will look back and regret it all your life. . . . What I want to make is men first, football players second.'"

We believe that this has always been the ideal of the men who have guided the destinies of our teams. Deviation from the pursuit of this ideal has meant the downfall of more than one great team, as well as of many a sportsman, and it is our privilege and duty to maintain the University of Toronto in her present position as the Champion of True Sport. If we cannot be that there is little merit in being champion at all.

University College

The 275 Discussion Club held the second of its weekly meetings on Monday, November 14th. The debate for the day was on the subject, "Resolved that victory for the present administration in the coming elections would be in the best interests of Canada." The affirmative was represented by Messrs. McVeigh and Fleming, won the decision over Messrs. Ross and McCullough after an extremely interesting discussion. Following the debate the elections were held.
President—Mr. McVeigh.
Secretary—Mr. Fleming.
Councillor—Mr. Johnson.
The subject for next week's debate is "Resolved that this Club favours a radical reduction in the tariff." All members are requested to be present, as well as any other who would care to attend. The meeting will be held in Room 3 of the Library Building on Monday from 3 to 4.

Victoria

The Collegians Debating Club of Victoria College held the first meeting of the year on Friday, the 11th, in Alumni Hall, Victoria. The year's activities were opened with a swinging address from the president, N. Endicott, and by the debate, "Resolved that the Canadian people are too fond of sport." G. E. Riddolls and I. O. Kaine, took the affirmative against H. E. Douglass and D. R. Argue, 275 Arts. Both sides presented their views in an efficient way, the speech of Mr. Argue being especially good. An open debate on the subject of the world while the judges were making their decision. The affirmative won by a narrow margin.

McGILL FRESHMAN DEFENDS INITIATIONS

The following letter on the subject of initiations, taken from The McGill Daily of November 12th, should be of particular interest to students of the University of Toronto in view of the very widespread discussion of the matter which this year's "receptions" to freshmen have created.

Dear Sir—It is with much interest that I have watched the controversy that has been raging for some time on the defilets and effects of the present system of initiation. Now I have been through the mill recently, and I got more than most, so that it is still fresh in my mind. I feel that my debut in this city was eminently successful. I was one of the centre of interest in a large crowd of Montrealers. I was shown where the principal streets lay, as well as several of the dark alleys, where I crawled, hoping against hope that no Soph would see me. I got free admission to the Bluebird, Jardin-de-Danse, Roseland, and the Vestrelin Gardens. I learnt two yells, a regular McGill yell and an irregular one, all in addition to getting some good sprinting practice. While I was enjoying all this, I noticed that some of my fellows were, for some unaccountable reason, trying to get away. They seemed to feel that they were being abused in the way of their fellow men, whereas the address fellow men would not recognize them in broad daylight and with their faces washed. There were many who walked along with a poor, broken, dejected expression, the Sophomores had caught them, and now, being forced to submit to the initiation, they were in a regular bind. I noticed that the coming generations at McGill will not have to endure a dignified initiation, with an orderly procession on the campus, and a nice solemn oath of allegiance to wind up with, in the place of the thrills of the last year, but the joy of an initiation at the hands of the half-witted savages of humanity found in the African forests and in the islands of the South Seas," as "R. K. L." says then.

I thank you,
FRESHIE.

HART HOUSE THEATRE

Editor of Varsity,
Dear Sir—
We have heard outsiders and Mr. Brown on the subject of comedy drama; now let us hear Common Sense.
Insider would turn the theatre into some such scene of blood as the garden of the last year, but the reference to the laughing of the audience, and by a marvellously clever turn makes it seem as if the laughter were intellectual rather than merely a reflex action. Mr. Brown, in spite of his obviously impressive knowledge of Shakespeare, will laugh when and where he likes, and hold himself in truly intellectual agnostic fashion, responsible to no one.
Obviously, to enjoy a "Night at an Inn," one must be able to be inside the Inn, "well in," as said the March Hare. We must have faith to take a play in the proper frame of mind. We must take it as a comedy, with a tale of sentiment with sobs, and a comedy with the crackling crackle of a crowd of Co-Eds. We must not mix the drama.
It is a curious inadequate and perverted education which has left Insider so totally ignorant of the classics as to see that this little play is not much more than a burlesque on the Greek tragedy as popularized by Sophocles. We have the same struggle with fate, the same inevitable inconsistency of the inhabitants of Olympus; and underneath the sanguinary splashes on the doorstep, lies the same sterile promontory, the same majestic roof fretted with gold fire, there is something in this more than natural, if philosophy could find it out. Dunsany has found comedy, and with his Celtic spirit, I believe he could find comedy in such a serious person as I am sure Insider is.
Can science? Thou assist us in no case of this kind, and thou puzzlest us in every one.
Yours Infrequently,
Decider.

AID TO STUDENTS

To the Editor of Varsity,
Dear Sir—
The reading of the matter re financial aid to students of Central Europe has aroused mingled feelings and suggested some questions which are very potent, particularly at the present time. Is it compatible with the normal Christian experience of the present day Canadian student, especially those who are returned men, to expect them to contribute financial aid to students of Central Europe? (Students of Central Europe is an indefinite phrase.)
May I suggest that if it requires as many years for the students of that country, the name of which is not mentioned in the best society without offending the moral sense of that society, to lose their militarism, as it required to develop it, the excess financial energy of Canadian students would be more satisfactorily expended in Canada. You ask how? I answer, by giving that assistance to needy Canadian students.
I am an advocate of the principle that home-missionary work have priority over foreign missionary work.
I trust I am on the crest of the rapidly advancing wave of Christianity, but all waves must go through many ups and many downs before they break in silver on the golden strand.
W. O. W., 274.

MASQUERADE TICKETS

The Editor of The Varsity,
My dear Mr. Editor:
Seated in a room broken out in U.C. regarding the Masquerade tickets. We have it from one of our skulking friends in the second year that two enterprising young business-men of the College have secured, by some unknown means, an extra Masquerade ticket, for which, at the present time, they are demanding the small sum of seven-fifty. Now I ask you, Mr. Editor, as man to man, is seven-fifty enough or would it not be only justice to hold out on the boys until the price goes to $10.00?
But to be serious—can not one of the College authorities take a hand in the matter and see that these two persons are dealt with in the manner they so richly deserve?
THE SPARKS THAT FLY."

THE ENGINEER, HE LOOKETH, HOW GLADLY DOETH HE LINGER

One beautiful day around the first of the month we were surveying around the Main Building, peering through our transit at the great hall, we meant to pick up a few, and looking neither to left nor right, although School had evidently just "let out," and many of the students of the University in their Peckard limousines. As we say, we were peacefully proceeding with our business when suddenly someone dealt us a tap on the back. Looking up, we beheld a tall, dark stranger, on whose classic features was a grim look of duty about to be performed.
"Are you a student of Science?" inquired our visitor, rather brusquely we thought. "No, there it is over there," we pointed, "I asked it—brusquely than ever—"If you are a Science man."
"Mister," we said, "We cannot tell a lie. It is only too true."
"I thought so much," he returned. "And what are you doing here?"
"Surveying the contours of this noble pile with this fine machine," we gesticulated.
"And do you find it necessary to survey the contours of our co-ed students of the fair sex, through it?" thundered our interrogator.
"S a lie," he said.
"S the truth," he hissed.
We grin at each other, we prepared to defend our rights in a fistie combat, when suddenly somewhere a whistle blew. One o'clock! Quitting time.
Quick a flash! We folded up our instrument, and without looking behind, cut off across the campus to our own engineering home. On our way back to Hart House we looked for our late antagonist, but in vain. Nor have we seen him since this day.

EXIT "TOUT DE SUITE" SUCH ARE RESIDENCES

We have occasion sometimes to visit residences. In fact we have nice friends in several of these places. It is very nice to have new friends. I only we could see them longer. But residence life is not congenial to long looks of soulful devotion. In fact, we are afraid of having our heads misinterpreted in their cramped drawing rooms.
The other night one of our friends had us in on a Sunday night, and the evening being in its verdant youth, we succumbed to a importun et apical. Well, we went in. We sat and talked. We forgot now what about. We always forget what we talk about in residences. But we do remember being asked how we liked Miss Smith's new hat. Not knowing Miss Smith we didn't say. Our friend said Miss Smith was a friend of hers and awfully nice. In that case, we said we couldn't remember having seen her but we admired so much; present company excepted.
Time flew! It always flies with us especially rapidly when a residence is under consideration. We were very considerate of our sensibilities. She told us to get out before we were told to. This we understood to be a very much meaning of hearts and soulful utterances we got out, early—about five minutes early.
But there were others. Others, whose hearts could not be subdued so easily. In fact, the Matron intervened. We have a great love and respect for Matrons, especially residence matrons. They are so capable, so strong-minded with the talents of great women. You know what we mean. Well, we hung around to watch her fun. Those who were gently but firmly informed that the hour had come. Being a chemist we should say that on account of rapid lowering of the temperature they were precipitated early. None of your heating for twenty minutes to coagulate the precipitate either. The matron saw to that. In fact, filtration could have begun at it at once.
Now we are an observant man. We resolved a great resolve that from that moment we would follow our friends' advice. "Get out before you are told to."

The U.C. Lit

The U.C. Lit held a very successful meeting last night. A letter from the Varsity Rowing Club was read which asked for funds, on the strength of which the society voted in favour of an advance of fifty dollars. A list of regulations which concerned the granting of U.C. colours was read and drafted as part of the constitution of the Society. The meeting voted in favour of a room being set aside as a common room for male undergraduates; the old dining hall was suggested as the most suitable place. A new notice-board will be placed in the above east of the main rotunda. Mr. Ross Stewart rendered an excellent piano solo.
The literary programme was a debate: "Resolved that the present system of lectures in University College be abolished." Mr. D. C. Wells and Mr. C. S. Gaulton upheld the affirmative and Mr. W. F. McLaren and Mr. L. Baker the negative. Mr. Wells' speech was very much to the point and well prepared as was that of Mr. Gaulton. The upholders of the negative, on the other hand, resorted to humour and ridicule rather than direct argument to prove their points. At this juncture, Mr. G. Hewitt accompanied by Mr. R. Stewart played a very pleasing violin solo. Prof. Smith gave his opinions regarding lectures; that it was as easy to expound the passive periphrastic to one hundred as to five students. This argument carried the day for the negative.

Trinity

A meeting of the Trinity College Science Club was held on Wednesday evening with the president, J. A. Johnson, in the chair. Mr. Johnson was very fortunate in securing Professor D. G. Dewar, Department of Social Service to address the meeting. His talk was very interesting and instructive and a hearty appreciation was shown by the members of the club for his kindness. The meeting closed with a discussion and refreshments.

VICTORIA VICTORIOUS OVER TRINITY IN PLAY-OFF FOR GROUP HONOURS

Close, Clean Game Ends In A 4-0 Score For Vic.--Slippery Field Made It Difficult To Get Away Quickly

In the play-off for the Group honours Victoria succeeded in applying the white-wash brush to Trinity Tuesday afternoon on the back campus.

As the score indicates the play was very close. Both teams were greatly handicapped by the slippery going, it being almost impossible to break away fast.

In the first half Vic. had the edge on the play setting away for several long gains on running plays, but the Trinity line rose to the occasion when in the danger zone holding Vic. to two couges.

In the second half Trinity came back strong. Their line broke up the trick plays more effectively than in the first half and no score resulted until near the end of the third period, when Rowell kicked over and Smith was downed by Turnbull for Vic.'s third point.

In the last period Vic. threatened the Trinity line time and again but were not able to go over for a try, kicking to the lead line for Vic.'s fourth point just before the final whistle.

It was a clean, hard game with both teams fighting to the very end. For Victoria Rowell, Henderson, Chant and Turnbull were best, while for Trinity Greer, Harper, Smith and Moore were outstanding.

Line-up for Vic.
I.W. Mills; halves, Rowell, Chant, Henderson, quarter, Turnbull; man, Ferguson, mids, Watson, Knox, middles, Bates, Hill, outside, Hudson, Turnbull; spares, Chamberlain, Kell, Hazlewood, Flavell, Prentice, Shaver.

Line-up for Trinity:
F.W. Moore; halves, F. A. Smith, Greer, Thompson; quarter, Harper; snap, Laxier; mids, Bell, Weaver, middles, Chaffie, deVencier; outside, Brown, Harshaw; spares, Cayley, Spencer, Mac Millan, Morrison, Patterson, Ross, L. H. Smith.
Officials—"Joe" Taylor and "Red" Cowan.

MULOCK CUP DATES

On Thursday, Senior Meds will go to Guelph to play O.A.C., the return game of their semi-final round.

On Friday, Junior Meds will play Victoria. This game will take place at the Stadium if the field there is in good condition. If it is not, the game will be played on the back campus.

The finals will take place early next week no definite date has as yet been set.

HOCKEY

Senior Varsity Hockey practice will be held at the Arena from 12.30 to 1 p.m., Wednesday.

DENTS WIN GROUP I INTERFACULTY SOCCER DEFEAT KNOX 1-0

By virtue of their 1-0 victory over Knox, the Dental soccer team were returned champions of group I, in the Interfaculty Soccer Series. The game was played under anything but ideal conditions and the players found the going very difficult. Like the previous game it was very closely contested as the above score indicates. If any, Dents had the margin of the play.

The lone tally of the game was scored by Cuth after some combination play by the forwards. The play was somewhat marred by some unalled for rough tactics on the part of some of the players. After a warning from referee Winchield, clean play was indulged in. Rosland, Cuth and Leary were best for Dents, while Runtoul and Driver starred for Knox.

Dents have not yet suffered a loss, winning the group with five wins and one draw. On the season's showing they should give a good account of themselves in the semi-finals against S.P.S.

Dents lined up as follows:
Goal, Hens; Fullbacks, Harper, Grengbach; Halfbacks, Honey, Dodds, Weiler (Capt.); Forwards, Rosland, Langmaid, Robinson, Cuth, Leary.
Referee, Wingfield, S.P.S.

NOTICE

Owing to the unprecedented demand for seats for Saturday's game, there will be no Rooters' tickets for Women.

HITTING THE LINE WITH JACK

We read Lou Marsh's article in the "Star" yesterday and Lou picks Argos to trim Varsity handily on Saturday. That is one of the reasons we are confident that we are going to win. Mr. Marsh camouflages whatever he knows about sporting affairs behind a flow of slang that would do credit to a fish vendor of Billingsgate. He always makes a stab at picking a winner in everything connected with athletics but we venture to say he is more often wrong than right. Varsity will beat Argos on Saturday, but our task will not be an easy one. Maynard's men will be confronted with a team of reputed all stars. In our opinion the Argos are fifty per cent. a one man team and the one man is the far-famed Connacher and without hesitation we vote him a wonderful half back. Outside of "Conny" what have they to show--tacklers that are below par with the exception of Douglas and Cochrane and one good wing-man, Wallace. Bat-stone and McCormick are good, but no better than Hobbs and Somerville, and we can put Snyder against Connacher and have small fear of the result. Our tackling is 100 per cent. better than that of the Scullers and our line play just as good. Added to that Varsity has the two great assets of a college team--conditions and something to fight for. Argos are touted as the greatest team of all time, but we are convinced that Saturday will tell a different story.

INTERFACULTY WATER POLO SERIES

Meds Overwhelm School of Science--Dents vs. S.P.S. Friday

	Won	Lost
Dents	2	0
I.C.	0	1
Victoria	0	1
Meds	0	2

The game Friday, November 11th, between S.P.S. and Meds proved to be a one-sided game in favour of S.P.S. The Meds' team worked hard but did not show that fighting spirit which was against odds.

The final score was S.P.S. 15, Meds 0.

The teams:

S.P.S.--Wells, Harston, Schinbein, Conklin, Bell, Fitzgerald, Matson, Booth.

Meds--Higgs, Hatfield, Barton, Derbyshire, Bull, Fletcher, Croft, Westman.

Higgs, Barton, Derbyshire and Croft played the best game for the losing team.

ASSAULT-AT-ARMS TEAMS AT WORK

Important Intercollegiate Event To Be Held At Varsity

The Assault-at-Arms team has started work for the coming assault-at-arms to be held here this year. The various branches have been working steadily for some time.

The fencers have been working out under the able and enthusiastic leadership of Scott Williams. He has many promising beginners who are practising faithfully.

Gordon Hewitt, who has held the Intercollegiate Championship for the last two years, is still laying his old form.

Wale, who last year was the team mate of Hewitt, is again on hand.

The wrestlers, who have for their coach this year Mr. Durman, are working strenuously every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Practically all last year's stars by now have returned to college except Mal, v. the Pharmacy grad.

In boxing, however, the prospects are not so bright. Of last year's team Black and Rejz are the only ones who have turned out regularly. Striet, who last

SOCCER TEAM WELL ENTER-TAINED

The Second Soccer Team wish to publicly acknowledge their gratitude to O.A.C. for the splendid manner in which they were entertained on their recent trip. The dance at Macdonald's Hall will long be remembered by the fortunate ones who attended.

SOCCER FINALS SAT. VARSITY AT KINGSTON FINE GAME CERTAIN

On Saturday afternoon Varsity meets Queen's in the final game for the intercollegiate championship. The Blue and White defeated Queen's here 7-1, but since then the tricolor is reported as having been considerably strengthened. A good game is assured. The trans-actives Friday will consist of:
Goal--Evans. Backs--Nelson, N. Johnson. Halves--Lunkrull, Smidley, D. Eason, and Glover. Forwards--Spaulding, B. Johnson, Nash, Greer, Lang and Grant.

Mr. Bickerstaff, who is accompanying the team, is hoped Varsity will hold the cup for another year.

year was the heavyweight contender, but his year was not able to represent Varsity in the intercollegiate.

Coch Dunwoode has many beginners out but very few experienced men have put in an appearance. Both Queen's and McGill have been putting forward great efforts to defeat Varsity at this sport.

Since the meet is to be held here this year it behooves us to show some "pep."

Those lovers who have not turned out as yet should be sure to get out soon.

Anybody with any ability must turn out soon if they are to get in shape for the various tournaments.

The junior interfaculty tournament takes place early in December.

Serpt-Major Blake had developed some very promising talent.

Mr. Dunwoode is endeavouring to carry on. Turn out and help.

In Hart House last night, in the opening game of the Senior Toronto and District Basketball League, West End "Y" won from Varsity 11, by the score of 32-21.

For the first league game it was exceptionally good. Both teams were in almost mid-season form and the shooting was much above average.

Varsity seemed to be setting the pace at the beginning. Stewart's shooting proved very effective and secured a number of baskets after a few minutes of play. West End team tightened up and secured a couple but Varsity retained the lead throughout the remainder of the period.

Varsity, 16. West End "Y", 0.

The visiting team started the period with a rush. Securing the lead they held it until the end. The Lancaster combination kept Varsity from the basket although Varsity towards worked hard.

McCauldland, the West End's star man showed his ability by securing more than half of the points scored in the period.

Varsity, though fighting hard, seemed weak in her passing. During the period Mitchell and Code cross-fired. Both were penalized for three minutes.

Final score--West End "Y", 32, Varsity 11, 21.

West End--G. Lancaster, Tait; C. Walker, F. McCauldland, Fraser, Spares, Smith, Mitchell, Gemin.

Varsity--G. Code, Cosgrove; C. Burgess; F. Stewart, McDougall. Spares: McLean, Caple.

NOTICE

A meeting to elect managers for Interfaculty basketball team will be held on Friday at 12.30 p.m. at Hart House. Players of last year's Senior, Intermediate and Junior teams as well as new representatives from each faculty are eligible to vote. It is urgent that the managers be elected at once. So be on hand at Mr. Reid's Office.

NATIONS UNITE AT HART HOUSE MASQUERADE

The Gay, Brilliant Pinnacle of Social Events Brings Guests From All Climes and Countries

The pump is at an end. The crowds are gone. Each car and footstep still haunted by the tone . . . will remember for years to come the enchanting brilliance of probably the largest ball which has been held in Canada since the Jubilee Ball of 1907. It was quite obvious all evening that the vocabulary of the most brilliant orator could never picture the great social event of the year.

Sharply on time came the enchanting strains from a band including the gaily costumed by-players gliding gracefully over the floor of the Big Gym and the other rooms set aside for dancing. Looking down from the track to the floor the Big Gym was a sight for the gods, an historical pageant and a scene from musical comedy, portrayed by moving pictures, gay laughing cavaliers, and brilliant Pierrots and Pierettes. The halls rang from end to end with laughter and gaiety while dancing partners recoiled softly the murmurs of those in more genteel moods.

The first half of the evening was spent in recognizing friends in dress which was quite unusual. Moving from room to room one could see types of costume of most original design. The offering of congratulations would seem small talk and the richly dressed Roman gladiator with his pretty Gypsy maid, who had such beautiful long tresses, who could one think of but a camp fire and the twinkling of the future. Then came one of the mysterious Ku Klux Klan with a pretty chorus girl whose hair also bobbed in the most approved style. Every country and clime was represented. It made one think of a glorious reunion, for it was not a Crusade, but a joyous and a friendly mission from the Land of the Rising Sun and a French officer, red did not disdain the hand of a fair one of the early Victorian era. And from out of the East came wise men, Emirs, Pashas and Rajahs.

The beauty of these glorious costumes was further enhanced by the flashing lighting effects produced by the efforts of the electricians of the Hart House Theatre, to whom the greatest of credit goes.

At a dais in a corner of the Big Gym the patronesses, who were Lady Falconer, Lady Walker, Mrs. C. H. Mitchell, Mrs. Vincent Massey and Mrs. C. H. Mitchell, presided over the joyous crowd of masqueraders. At the end of the seventh dance every one fell in for the Grand March, which passed twice through the corridors and into the hall. The second time the prize-winners were chosen, but what a dilemma it was for Dr. Spratt and Mr. Ralph. Miss Mildred Taylor and Mr. C. M. McGraw were finally chosen by the judges as the best couple. They were adjudged in most original costumes and of four bags. The best dressed lady, Mrs. Gwenne Cameron, wore a brilliant Oriental costume. It must have been most difficult to choose. Miss McGraw was made of the "Cotton" and her "Stop and Go" signal in the form of his partner. An original and well acted part was played by one of the girls of an old lady and following her came a nurse with her charge. The Goblin was represented too and was in the final. The Skipper of the "Hart House" was also there but had evidently parked his chariot somewhere on the campus. The underworld was well represented by several who had either escaped for the even or possibly the House Committee out of goodness of heart secured leave for them. A bishop presided over the evening and the evening by their presence and imbued so freely of the jollity or punch that nothing but to trip it lightly. The animal kingdom sent its quota too. The judging lasted about twenty minutes.

After the Grand March the merry-making adjourned to the Great Hall, where an excellent buffet supper was served. There were delicious fruits and fancy pastries to satisfy the hunger of the hungry. Punch of an excellent variety, not of the bad-after effect type, was served. The greatest of credit is due Mr. Kerrison and his staff, who worked with such skill under great difficulties.

After supper dancing recommenced and lasted till one a.m. There were in reality five dances in progress. Each orchestra was supplied by Mr. J. Wilson Jardine, who went to considerable trouble to secure the arrangements. The first of the dances was the "Fall In" at the beginning of each dance. As this was done each orchestra played for a certain period and then the dancing continued. The House Committee is to be congratulated upon the completeness of their arrangements, which caused a total absence of confusion.

On the stroke of one the dancing ceased and one more glorious night passed into history. As the guests left the numbers of their taxis were called and in this way they were sped homeward in a surprisingly short space of time. Captain Clark and his staff, who had been so busy in the handling of traffic, which was without congestion. The Sergeant-Major and his staff entered into the spirit of the

Owing to the visit of His Excellency Lord Byng of Vimy there will be no lectures or laboratory classes held in the University after 4 o'clock on Monday, November 28. A Special Convocation will be held at 12.15 when the degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred upon Dr. H. A. Falconer, President.

LABRADOR DOCTOR PREACHES SUNDAY

Dr. Grenfell to Deliver Sermon at Convocation

Among the speakers to whose visits to Convocation all Toronto students have come to look forward are more eagerly welcomed than Dr. Grenfell, of Labrador. Dr. Grenfell comes next Sunday, November 20th.

It was in 1892 that Dr. Grenfell, who had previously fitted out a hospital ship for the Sea Fisheries in which he cruised from Iceland to the Bay of Biscay came to the Labrador and initiated the Medical Mission which has itself made Labrador a second name.

Dr. Grenfell's work in Labrador and Newfoundland has been much more than missionary in character. He has become the veritable Providence of the desolate coast which gave him his first impressions of the North American continent.

The chain of five hospitals along the coast are served by a flotilla of hospital launches. The old days of "frigate" teaching have passed away with the establishment of a series of co-operative stores. The long endured idleness of the orphans of the fishermen, whom the sea annually claims, are cared for in the orphanage donated by a son-in-law of President Wilson, while a student at Harvard.

In 1912 Dr. Grenfell saw a long-cherished object realized when the foundation stone of King George V. Seamen's Institute at St. John's, Newfoundland, was laid by means of a submarine cable from Buckingham Palace on the day of the King's Coronation.

During the summer of 1916-17 Dr. Grenfell served in France with the Harvard Medical Unit.

On Monday, November 21st, at 5 p.m., Dr. Grenfell will speak in the North Lecture Room, Medical Building, under the auspices of the Medical College Y.M.C.A.

FACULTY OPINION DIFFERS ON VITAL QUESTION—PROFESSORS GIVE PROS AND CONS OF PLAYFUL PRANKS

Representatives of Many Faculties State Views on Students Stunts—From Opposition to Tolerance

The letter of Professor G. M. Wrong, published in last Monday's Varsity, has created considerable interest on the subject of the initiations, which still take place at Varsity.

Principal Hutton, of University College, shows no interest in the subject.

"Demonstrations of college spirit" by his speech on October 1, to the Freshmen, in which he says: "In this matter of initiation our men have become women I feel inclined to say—interested in clothes and hats—and our women foolish children, present, to a certain extent. . . . Let them grow out of it," he says.

Professor DeLury says the following on the matter: "The student of having initiations and hazing, my feeling is that they are moving in the wrong direction. It is true that the average student yearns for joyfulness and mirth, but he does not find this in the classroom and naturally seeks it among his fellows. He does not want to be the greatest enemy to this mirth is organization, and we are tending more and more toward organization. To me, the ill feature of it is the jokes and impositions on the weak, and no genuine fun or laughter can go along with that. I think, however, that the better sense of the students will react against this."

Professor Macnaughton is of the opinion that men and women are not, upon entering university, completely out of their childhood. He says he would let them continue their foolish pranks, so long as it does not interfere with anything else. He says that as initiations cause considerable grief, and help to strengthen our college spirit, they should be allowed to continue. "Let them grow out of it," he says.

WORLD PEACE TOPIC OF ABLE LECTURER

Mr. N. W. Rowell Speaks on Vital Problems of Day

Students in the University of Toronto will do well to attend the Provincial Memorial Lecture on "World Peace" in Convocation Hall next week. The lecturer is the Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., LL.D.

The subject introduces the most difficult problem of human government. Never has it been such an urgent, practical problem as at the present time. Recent years have revealed the horrors of modern war and the misery of the aftermath. Wars, it appears, do not end war; they may create as many issues as they settle.

We know, moreover, that under modern conditions war threatens the very foundation of human society. The subject of "World Peace" demands more than a passing interest. Is there no sure road, however slow, to the settlement of international disputes by discussion and agreement?

Mr. Rowell's subtleties suggest certain potential factors in the cause of world peace. The League of Nations, the Empire, Canada and the Church. These are not organizations, with which we are all concerned, may work miracles but only in the direction of which we are not organized public will, which is the product of knowledge, faith and enthusiasm.

The world of today is a world of peace and as citizens of an actual work League of Nations, the British Commonwealth, which is itself the most substantial support of that wider league, born of the idealism of the war period but now weakened as the nations which originally believed in the experiment have turned into old habits of indifference.

No doubt we shall hear that on us, as students who like to regard ourselves as future moulders of national opinion, there lies a special responsibility.

PIANO RECITAL BY SIMON JOYCE

Owing to the acquisition of a second piano for the Hart House Music Room the committee in charge is able to announce more elaborate recitals than heretofore. The first of these will be given next Tuesday by Mr. Simon Joyce. Included in the programme is Liszt's Concerto in E Minor, the second piano being played by Mr. Frank Macdonald, a very well known to all Toronto music-lovers.

INSTALLATION OF PROVOST FOR EPOCH-MAKING EVENTS AT THEIR OLD ALMA MATER

Large Number of Graduates Come From All Parts For Epoch-Making Events at Their Old Alma Mater

The afternoon, interest which our graduates and friends feel for that College which for seventy years has held so high a place among the universities of Canada, was expressed by the crowd which thronged Convocation Hall last evening on the occasion of the installation of the Reverend Charles Allen Seager, M.A., D.D., as Provost and Vice-Chancellor of Trinity College.

An enjoyable organ recital by Mr. T. A. Reed preceded the ceremony, and during this processional service the hall making a blaze of colour with the variegated gowns and hoods. The audience stood when the procession entered, and when the first undergird, was in his position the organ broke forth into "God Save the King." The procession which followed consisted of the Rev. Dr. C. C. L. Chancellor of Trinity, and his Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario was marshalled by Mr. George H. Bevel, Dean Duckworth and the A.D.C. in waiting, Col. Fraser, followed. After them came the Provost and Principal Officers of Wytheville College, then the Bishops of Ottawa, Huron, Toronto, member of the Corporation of Trinity; next several visiting bishops; the Prime Minister of Ontario and members of his Cabinet; the Chancellor and the President of the University of Toronto and the representatives of the other Universities of Ontario; King's College Windsor, and of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, and many other dignitaries of Church and State.

Following the National Anthem, prayers were said by Dean Duckworth, all joining in the Pater Noster. Trinity's Chancelor then took the floor, welcoming the many visitors to the ceremony. He then read letters from His Grace the Primate of the Anglican Church, the Archbishop of Ontario, in which they expressed their sorrow at their inability to be present, and sent their good wishes to the new Provost. A telegram from the President of King's College, Windsor, sending the corporation of Trinity their greetings and wishing every success under the new Provost.

The Chancellor gave a brief historical sketch of the college, telling about the college which preceded Dr. Seager. He spoke in especially high terms of the late Provost, Dr. T. C. S. Maclellan. His words, said Mr. Rowell, were particularly impressive. A telegram from the Provost showed the respect and appreciation in which he was held by the students.

The Chancellor mentioned the great work which has developed upon the head of Dr. Seager, that of transforming the college from its old position to its new site in Queen's Park. He pointed out the magnitude of the task he declared he was confident that the Provost was equal to it. Speaking of Dr. Seager's wide experience, Mr. Rowell told of the years of his life, when he had met with every success, and this success has continued through his career, especially when he was charged with the task of transforming the college from its old position to its new site in Queen's Park. ## DENTISTRY

Dental Varsity reporters take note that on Monday evening THE VARSITY Staff Party is at Hunt's. Lads and dance. Those wishing to go type hand in names at once to Mr. Gordon Hodgson, 273, who will give a detailed explanation of the features. Will it be a good party? Ask the Dents who were there last year!

Dental Rifle Club met at twelve-fifteen on Tuesday in Room 2. Important announcements re pictures for TORONTO NEWS, also include training this winter. See I.orne Smith for full particulars if you can't be present.

On Thursday at noon a meeting of the Western Club of R.D.C.S. was held with the new President, R. B. MacDonnell, in the chair. It was decided to hold an informal dance on December 18th, and also to send a man home for Christmas on the same plan as last year. All those who have not yet paid their membership fee will please communicate with the treasurer, Mr. Strachan, at once.

The members of the Oriental Club of R.C.D.S. met this week at a most successful lunch held in the Graduates' Room at Hart House. This was the first "get-together" of the year, and it is to be followed by similar monthly gatherings throughout the college session. The Club was privileged in having a speaker of the occasion, Dean Webster, whose address, "The Oriental Club," was most interesting and well received. The Dean, in a very interesting way, showed his relation to our every-day life and activities.

Mr. Toran, the President of the Club, and Mr. Currie, who arranged the affair, deserve much credit for the success of the pleasant hour.

The most important meeting of all those interested in the coming "Political" campaign was held last week at the R.D.S. will be held today, November 18th, at 12 o'clock in Lecture Room 2. The three party leaders, and all interested are specially urged to be present as plans are to be formulated which will put this novelty in our activities over with a bang. Come and bring barrels of enthusiasm!

Is-nicht (November 18th) is the big night for our Water Polo team. The game is to be held at 8 o'clock sharp and as it practically decides the championship, the spectators' galleries ought to be packed with Dents. There will be no excuses for absence accepted! (Here! Here! The Editor.)

The members of the Newman Dental Society are reminded of their monthly meeting next Sunday morning at the Club Room. It is imperative that all those interested in Dentistry be present. When? Oh, about February 3rd.

Don't forget the soccer game on Monday. It will decide whether S.P.S. or Dents meet O.A.C. for the championship.

A meeting of the Dentantics committee is to be held in Lecture Room 3 at 12 noon, Monday. It is imperative that all those interested in Dentistry be present. When? Oh, about February 3rd.

Y.M.C.A. BOOK EXCHANGE
Quite a number have not yet called for their cheques and unsold books at the Exchange. Will those please call Friday or Monday between 1 and 5 p.m. as it is necessary to close accounts at once. Be sure and bring the receipts for books with you.

St. Hilda's

At a meeting of the St. Hilda's Mission Study group held last Sunday, Miss Prewer, 25, gave a most interesting account of life at the Indian School in Chaguan, Northern Ontario, of which she held the position of Girls' Matron. The school has a capacity of about one hundred children, most of whom enter at the age of five or six, while all are compelled to remain until they reach their eighteenth year. Although Indians of all sorts and conditions are accepted, the majority came from tribes of the wandering type, who live in tents, doing nothing but fish and hunt. And to this life they almost invariably return. The Indian girls do most of the housework of the school, while the boys work in the extensive gardens. The school is, of course, provided with a Chapel and although some of the scholars have Christian ideas before they enter, these are in the minority. The children receive their clothing from the Women's Auxiliary. Miss Prewer's address was very well delivered, and of a decidedly interesting nature.

St. Hilda's College held its Annual Alumnae Meeting and Convocation Tea Wednesday afternoon in St. Hilda's Common Room. The Alumnae meeting which took place at four o'clock was very well attended and was quite representative of the graduate years. Directly following the meeting, tea was served by the undergraduates, which was followed by the toasts. Miss Dixon, 21, ably filled the position of Toast Mistress. Each year still in college after singing appropriate songs as each toast was proposed gave their year song and yell. Of these the fresher yell was especially noteworthy. The meeting then closed with Metagons.

Victoria

Justice Riddell, one of Canada's most eloquent and well-known speakers, will be the special attraction at the Union Literary Society next Saturday evening. In view of this exceptional opportunity visitors are cordially invited to attend this meeting. A large crowd of Victoria College students is expected, especially as the government is introducing a motion favouring the extension of student government, a question of vital interest at the present time in Vic circles.

WOODSTOCK COLLEGE ALUMNI DINNER

Tuesday evening, November 22nd, has been set aside for a general reunion of all Woodstock College Old Boys who are in the city. The reunion will take the form of an informal dinner to be held at the Central Y.M.C.A. about 8 p.m. Mr. A. J. MacNeill and Dr. Wearing are expected to attend the meeting, and all those who wish to renew their acquaintances of College days are requested to be present.

Applied Science

The E and M Club are holding a smoker on Wednesday, November 23 at 8.15 p.m., in East Common Room, Hart House. Mr. Amos of the H.E.P.C. is expected to speak. Music, smokes, cats. Admission 35 cents.

273

Gather 'round, gang. Did you ever hear the one about—no—this is perfectly clean—but that reminds me—I've got a new one—however this is about the chap who had just returned from the last 273 Dance, when his room-mate said:

"How did you get that powder on your shoulder, John?"

"Well, Bill, my partner in the last moon walk had lost her powder puff."

"Yes, but why use the coat?"

"Oh! I don't know. I thought it was a good idea at the time."

Well, this coming 273 "Dans de Luxe" that every one is talking about, although not supplying the pulls, promises to supply the necessity: ladies' enjoyment.

I'm told, varies directly with the amount of powder required during the evening.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Will the young man (Faculty of Applied Science, identity unknown) who spoke to Dean Mitchell at the corner of College and McCaul Streets on Thursday 9th at 4.30 p.m. regarding financial assistance to continue his studies, please call upon Mr. Bennett, Secretary of the Faculty.

An important meeting is to be held in C22 this (Friday) afternoon at 4.45 p.m.

INITIATION VIEWS

College of Dental Surgeons, when interviewed by THE VARSITY in regard to Professor Wong's letter. "Frankly, I have little regard for the forms of initiations as practised in our own University and Colleges."

Dr. Secombe stated that while there might be but little harm in the ceremonies as conducted, certainly very little good was derived from the initiations. They may be of value in developing class spirit (and he was a believer in class spirit insofar as it also developed Faculty and University spirit), but felt that an initiation should be so directed as to inculcate important principles or truths of lasting benefit.

He pointed out that initiation ceremonies conducted by fraternal orders were along lines which taught their members vital truths, which in their application would be of material benefit in daily life.

To illustrate a form of college initiation which developed certain phases of character, Dr. Secombe referred to the U.S. Naval College, where cadets entering the Academy are not permitted to talk in the presence of senior students during the first year of their course. While this step certainly placed restraint upon speech it helped to curb an all-too-common tendency of speaking aloud before thinking. At meal times the first year cadets are not allowed to rest their hands or arms upon the dining table, or touch their backs to their chairs during a meal.

Dr. Secombe was not prepared to agree that Toronto initiations were wholly barbarous and vulgar, but considered such ideas as making freshmen wear green ties or white socks were of a foolish and childish nature.

STUDENT RELIEF MOVEMENT HAS RAISED WARM CONTROVERSY

Partisans of Both Sides Express Opinions Regarding Action Taken—Dean Mitchell Disapproves

Ever since the decision of the Student Christian Movement that there would be no discrimination between German students and others in Central Europe for their relief work a controversy has arisen in the University. One of the most zealous of the supporters of the Movement is Mr. Roy H. Rickard, the General Secretary of the University Y.M.C.A., who interpreted the spirit of the S.C.M. to the Varsity as follows:

"The spirit underlying this campaign to raise money for relief of European students is to promote a cordial understanding and good-will among all students throughout the world, and to help to remove the barriers of prejudice and distrust. It is, however, impossible to promote good-will between the students of Canada and those of other countries, including our late enemies, without first understanding each other."

Must Prove Need
"The main principle which guides the World's Student Christian Federation is the administration of relief is the proven need of the student to whom relief is given. Letters which have been received very recently from Miss Margaret Wright, one of our own University women, and statements from members of our staff, and others in Toronto who have assisted in the administration of relief during the past summer, and from Dr. John R. Mott, chairman of W.S.C.F., who is intimately acquainted with conditions in each country where there are students, are sufficient to convince one that the need is extremely great, and that in spite of the $750,000 which they propose to raise this year, a very large number of students in Central Europe will most certainly die."

"A great number of men, women and children in various centres of the world are in dire need today," continued Mr. Rickard. "One would like it possible, to contribute to every one of them, but as its purpose is the relieving of distress, but since this is out of the question, and since it is necessary to discriminate in one's giving, I think it is natural that students should help student comrades. There is developing in the universities of Canada, Britain, Austria, Germany, Poland, and other countries, what one might call a student consciousness. Any group of people who have a common purpose are naturally drawn together. There is no greater comradeship than that formed among people who are on the great adventure for the discovery of truth."

Economic Conditions Differ
When asked whether conditions were not bad in Canada Mr. Rickard continued: "It is true, but the S.C.M. University there are some of our own returned soldiers who will be compelled temporarily to discontinue their studies due to lack of funds. This the S.C.M. in our University feels very keenly. However, we hope that none of our veteran students suffer through lack of food or clothing, as is the case in Europe. Economic conditions in Canada differ from those in Russia, Austria, Poland, and other countries, where the economic system has been entirely upset, and where it is impossible not only for students to obtain remunerative employment, but also for thousands of others who are heads of families. Students are helping themselves by obtaining any work they can, but where there are numerous applicants for one position pay is very small."

"Conditions differ in Central Europe. New nations are springing up since the war."

MR. STATTEN ADVOCATES IDEAL OF SERVICE

Taylor Statten, Secretary of the National Student Work Board, was the speaker Wednesday noon at one of the popular after-lunch addresses which are being given this year in the Lecture Room of Hart House. Mr. Statten, who is the outstanding figure in Boys' Work in Canada, emphasized the ideal of service as so many of the speakers in this series who have preceded him have done. The greatest need of our nation at the present period of unrest is a National Ideal and this should be founded on a spirit of Service so that if we could develop a generation of boys imbued with this ideal of our country could face all its problems with a spirit of confidence in its future.

In general terms what Mr. Statten said was that every man should take an interest in the work of the nation at one of his Canada's national life. While at Varsity they could help with boys' clubs settlements, this gave experience and learn the value of service in life, which would prove useful in professional life. Unfortunately many men see little more than physical strength and consequently seek to assume physical distress, but the average man could render larger services through service in the nation. The ideal of self would make Canada great and we can develop a generation of boys whose lives would center around the service of the nation. Between the ages of fourteen and eighteen a boy develops the ideals which shape the course of his life. The influence of the influence on boys' lives is play. "As a boy grows so will he live." Selfishness and individuality in play will make a boy self-centred and miserly in after life, but on the other hand, if we fully appreciated the effect in building up the character of play would exert among our best boys. ## VARISITY VETERAN'S WELCOME TO LORD BYNG OF VINNY

At the Special Convocation for Lord Byng of Vinny to be held Monday, November 28, at 12.15 p.m., arrangements are being made to welcome the returned soldier students to welcome His Excellency upon his arrival at Convocation Hall. These students will line the South Foyer and will later proceed to the first gallery where accommodation will be reserved for them to witness the conferring of the Degree. It is not intended that this reception should be a formal parade; multi will, of course, be worn, but it is very desirable that each man should wear his Class "A" button.

The Varsity Veterans' Association is very anxious that as many Veterans as possible should turn out on this occasion to welcome the former G.O.C. Canadians. In order that the University authorities may be able to form an estimate of the number of students to be reserved for the Veterans, each Veteran desiring to attend is requested to leave his name and address with the Secretary of his Faculty or with his Faculty Representative of the Varsity Veterans' Association, not later than Wednesday, November 23.

CONTRAST IN STYLE OF TWO NEW PLAYS

Visiting Actors Present An Interesting Bill At Hart House Theatre

Canadian Authors' Week opened its activities in Toronto with the production in Hart House Theatre of a play by Miss Margaret Wright, "The Philosophy of Community Players." It is beautiful in conception and phrasing, but it is not essentially Canadian. Poetic conversation with complex rhyme structure is bad enough to read, but when one hears it slowing up what otherwise might have been a fine play, it is a relief. It is quite ready to be despatched at the lack of the dramatic sense of the author. Even the musical accompaniment added by Mr. H. E. Kay is not quite quite the necessary atmosphere.

The story deals with a French wood-carver and his wife, living in the backwoods of France. The wood-carver, who is tired of his wife's temperance, and seeks excitement in the love of a rather unconvincing cavalier, Louis. After a lot of wandering and a more than usual amount of poetic phrasing, which certainly proves the play to be Canadian, but is neither real nor necessary, Louis is killed, and in seeing the proper expression of his wife's face, he is satisfied with his carving. One hopes that Miss Pickhail will learn what the theatre really is, and that she will not be so ready to be despatched at the lack of the dramatic sense of the author.

Much better in many ways was Calderon's "Little Stone House." There is, of course, a story, told by the acting, but there is also an infinitely more dramatic plot and a wealth of really beautiful poetry, found in what the people do, rather than in what they talk about. The plot is very like D. C. Scott's "Pierre."

Between the plays Prof. Pelham Edgar gave a short course of the Andrew Author's Week, replacing the Prof. Pelham Edgar, who had been invited to speak on "The Theatre," but was unfortunately unable to come.

SPECIAL LECTURE TO ASSIST COLONEL LANG

Brig-General G. S. Cartwright, C.B., C.M.G., one of the Royal Engineers and a former R.C.M.C. cadet, has been appointed as special lecturer in military studies and is assisting Colonel Lang with his course for the fourth year students. The first lecture, on "The War in the West," was given on Thursday afternoon at the department Headquarters in which he took up briefly the early stages of the war on the Western front and showed how trench warfare came gradually to be evolved and from that how the defensive system was developed.

The lectures to follow will deal with portions of the war with India, Mesopotamia, Egypt, Africa and the Balkans, with special reference to the effect which British occupation and protection has had on these countries.

In the meantime the lectures will be given on Friday afternoon, 6 p.m., and all interested are invited to attend.

College of Education

A very successful party was held by the students of O.C.E. last Tuesday, when a most enjoyable evening was spent. Among those present were the Dean and several members of the Faculty.

DR. GRENFEILL LAUDS TOILERS OF LABRADOR

"Life a Joyous Venture For True Knights of God," Says Great Missioner

"Life is not a tragic drama where men play forced parts, but a joyous venture for true knights of God," said Dr. Grenfell in his interesting address to a large assembly at Convocation Hall on Sunday morning. "Judging by the acts of men of today there is a general acceptance of God," Dr. Grenfell went on to say. "One says that the lives of all real Christians should be devoted to the betterment of mankind, while at the same time one sees himself up entirely to the betterment of one's own worldly condition regardless of the less fortunate."

"He has been asked," continued Dr. Grenfell, "whether after all it is worth while saving the souls and bodies of such creatures as the Eskimo, the Indian, the north, fisherman of Labrador, much like the Apostle Peter in their simplicity and courage. Yet these ignorant people, with their faith in Jesus Christ, are doing more for the world than the idle, wealthy class who care nothing about the happiness and improvement of their fellow men but who merely drink and die."

"The game of life," the speaker stated, "is like a football game where the greatest joy is in contributing to the action, not merely being a spectator in the bleachers." In his work he had found that his greatest pleasure was in reforming the maimed and sick to service. He felt then that something had really been done for humanity, a little bit it is true, but still adding to the general physical betterment of the world. He was glad to give his life and in spite of our many fears and temptations that he can be victorious over all difficulties.

Dr. Grenfell then mentioned the great need of helpers in his work in Labrador. He said, at the eager response of students for summer work at clinics and hospitals. He used to think it important to ask pleasure-loving university men to undertake for the hard duties but in twenty years had never had a student who did not say that he felt more at home in the experience and a more comprehensive idea of brotherly love.

In conclusion Dr. Grenfell urged every student to give his life to the philosophy of life one's joys come in trying to do what God would do in our place. Unselfishness, striving to do one's duty faithfully and cheerfully, loving and fearing God, such are the attributes of true knights of Christ and as such should we honour the men of Labrador.

STAFF OF "VARSITY" HOLD GENERAL MEETING

A general meeting of the "Varsity" staff was held on Friday afternoon, in room 82 of the Main Building. When refreshments had been served, the Editor-in-Chief introduced Mr. Main Johnston, of the staff of the "Star," who had been invited to give a short talk relative to newspaper work. Mr. Johnston, a graduate of a decade ago, was at Varsity, when the official University publication was changed from a magazine to a tri-weekly newspaper.

The theme of his discourse was on the difficulty of "getting out an issue, and a few pointers on how to obtain the best results." He pointed out that the essential requisite for running a daily newspaper is, that the people should read the articles appearing therein; otherwise no matter how elevating the contents may be, it will leave the public unchanged, and the newspaper financially "in the hole."

That an editor may know what to publish he must find out what the mass of his patrons want. As an example, the speaker said that any one who reads the weekly newspaper must be left out more readers than the comic section, because that is what the people want most. Moreover, there are a few general rules which apply to all editors, regardless of their particular class of readers. For instance, the quality of the articles must always be high, the editor making any correction he sees fit, heedless of whom the author may be.

The articles should be as short as possible, and should not, as a rule, be turned over from the front page, otherwise the present reading public are inclined to pass it over. In short, Mr. Johnston explained, to successfully run a newspaper, one must study the technique of press-work.

The humorous incidents, which savoured his remarks, rendered them highly enjoyable, and the speaker was warmly welcomed by Mr. Lightbown in thanking Mr. Johnston for his very interesting address.

Newman Club

The Mock Trial at the Newman Club last Friday evening proved an interesting and enjoyable event to the large audience present. It was the first attraction of the year offered by the students of Law and Arts who form the Newman Canadian Society. The members who took the various parts showed remarkable ability and to them is due all credit for the success.

The Club was fortunate in securing Mr. J. E. Day, a prominent Toronto lawyer to act as judge.

SCIENTISTS OF TWO CONTINENTS TO MEET HERE IN DECEMBER

An organization of great and growing importance, and one of decided value to those actively interested in Science in the broader sense, is shortly to hold its meeting in Toronto.

Through its meetings and through its publications, the American Association for the Advancement of Science promotes intercourse and co-operation and the feeling of fellowship among scientists and those interested in the advance of science. North and South America are its special geographic fields, but members may be citizens of any country.

The Association has become a great affiliation of American Scientific Societies. A large number of the associated societies are now meeting in Toronto, and the facilities of the Association are always at the disposal of these societies for the arrangement of meetings, the preparation of programmes, etc.

The twenty-fourth meeting of the Association will be held in Toronto, December 28 to 31, 1921 by invitation of the University of Toronto and of the Royal Canadian Institute. A number of sub-committees have been formed to arrange the details of the meeting, and it might be expected that many Departments in the University interested in the sixteen branches of Science, and the facilities of the Association, are well represented. The Local Committee is under the Chairmanship of Dr. J. C. Fields, P.R.S. with H. L. Seymour, C.E., and A. M. S. 273, as Secretary and Assistant Secretary. The headquarters of this central committee is at the Royal Canadian Institute, 183 College Street, where enquiries may be sent.

TAYLOR STATTEN ON BOYS LEADERSHIP

First of Group Meetings Tonight

The first of a series of four Boys' Leadership Groups, under the direction of TAYLOR STATTEN, will be held in Hart House Lecture Room from 5 to 6. The Big Chief will give a work-out on Thompson's Woodcraft. In the evening, the Council Ring. The old "Pow Wow" needs 125 men who are, or expect to be, interested in boys. The idea of this Pow Wow is to give the boys a chance to entertain a group of boys on the spur of the moment by getting them all doing something. Whatever project is chosen, the boys of your community will be looking for leadership and who should be able to lead them. The speaker will be Mr. Taylor Statten. Come and get some tips and have an hour of fun and good fellowship.

DEATH OF DANTE TO BE COMMEMORATED HERE

The six-hundredth anniversary of the death of Dante will be celebrated in the Hart House Theatre next Saturday night, November 26, at 8 p.m. The President, Sir Robert Falconer, will be in the chair.

The speaker of the evening will be Professor C.R. Grand, of the University of Toronto, a noted "Dante" scholar. There will also be a short address in Italian by Professor Goggio of our University. Oratorical features of the programme will be a duet and a solo from Rossini's "Stabat Mater" sung by Mrs. Kennedy, and the recitation of a poem by Mrs. Kennedy, and a poem on Dante by Professor Grand, to be read with an Italian translation by Prof. Grand.

Admission will be by invitation tickets, which can be obtained on request, at the office of the Registrar, or at Northmead's 220 Yonge Street.

HART HOUSE MUSICALS

Members of Hart House will do well to attend the recital to be held Tuesday, November 22nd at 5 p.m. This is the first time the Musical Committee have been able to include a piano concerto in their programme. The concerto is without doubt the most interesting form of piano music and needs to be heard for its programme should prove enjoyable. Mr. Simon Jovis will play the concerto in E-flat. In the second part of the programme, Mr. Frank Wiseman, of the Canadian Academy of Music. To these members, who will be playing a piano concerto, will be the Philharmonic Orchestra in Massey Hall two years ago this anniversary will be a very special one. Mr. Jovis will give other selections of an interesting and classical character, so that the members may be assured a pleasant and refreshing hour in the Music Room.

SKETCH CLUB TO HOLD CLASSES IN DRAWING

On Tuesday evening, November 22nd, a prominent artist will be present at a special class in the Sketch Club, to which all members of Hart House are invited. Instruction will be given in the elementary rudiments of drawing and the materials which will be needed for these classes will be explained and enumerated.

No previous experience in drawing is at all necessary. To enjoy the privileges of this group, as the object in view is purely encouragement for beginners and assistance in the study of life to play with pencil, pen or brush.

No charge will be made for the tuition in their classes—think of that, free gratis.

DOUBLE VICTORIES IN SAURVARY'S GRIDIRON CLASSIC

Playing in Native Element Before 15,000 Fans Oarsmen Take Long End of 20-12 Score —Conacher Bested by Varsity Wings

HOCKEY MEETING TO-DAY

A meeting for the election of Intermediate and Junior Managers will be held at 6 p.m. in Hart House Lecture Room. All members of last year's teams are eligible to vote, as well as two representatives, from each Faculty. Candidates are asked to be on hand also.

HOW MUCH DO YOU SPEND?

"Try This One on Your Piano"—or in Your Head

A very interesting and at the same time rather challenging little card fell into the hands of THE VARSITY a day or two ago.

"WORK THIS OUT FOR YOURSELF:
YOUR expenses for Year 1921-1922:

GIVE IT TO A EUROPEAN STUDENT through STUDENT LEADERSHIP FUND TO YOU IT MEANS ONE DAY. TO HIM IT MEANS WHAT?

It's an interesting calculation. One of THE VARSITY reporters tried it and got the answer $2.74. What's your result?

R.C.A. EXHIBITION OPEN AT GRANGE

The Royal Canadian Academy opened its forty-third annual exhibition at the Grange on Friday evening. It is a larger and more representative collection than that of the O.S.A. which was held last month, and includes many and varied types of painting. Landscapes, marines, figure studies, portraits show the various moods of the artists, expressed in oil, water colour and pastel. For those who delight in etchings and drawings there are groups of mezzotints and dry point, drawings done in charcoal, open ink and some charming colour prints. In the department of sculpture, many of the artists' heads and plaster models are on display. A photograph of the Canadian Battlefields Memorial, which gives us an idea of the beauty of conception and execution with which Mr. Alward has made a fitting memorial for Canada to erect in Flanders.

The majority of the artists have gone to the out of doors in their subjects. They have depicted nature in all her moods in every season. Mr. Beatty has taken us to the mountains and the woods with him the sunlight and breathe the fresh air filled with the sweet smell of pine. There is the breath of autumn winds in "Hecchening Time," by Hume, "Autumn" by Walker.

One may turn from a waterscape of the St. Lawrence river, shown by Bertha de Clays, or to a deep blue stream of our Canadian Northland by Clarence Gagnon. Manty Muchnick takes us with him to Venice and we see a group of fishing boats, their sails narrowed in the still water, or a little town in Spain. Vastly different from them all are the blue and silver harmonies of Archibald Brown, poetry of light and shadow translated into paint.

Of portraits there are not a few. Varley has an interesting study of Sir George Parkin. Willie Grier's portrait of Dr. W. J. Macleod, shown by Chas. Grier, combined with great attention to detail. Williamson has given us a very life-like picture of Dr. J. H. Macleod, every detail subordinate to the character of the man as shown in his face. There is a charming study of a girl by Jean Munro called "Reverie," which contrasts strongly with a portrait of Miss Sybil Robertson by Hewton. Marion Long has painted a figure of a woman with the sea as background. The lighting effect is wonderful, and a real glow seems to come from within the lanterns. Laura Lysall calls a fairy child "A Sea Anemone." She is a real daughter of the furies, or perhaps of Neptune, with an exquisite expression of form and face, seated on rocks with the sea in the background. Compared to it we think of those ghost-like children in the pastels of Charles de Wolfe.

There are many more, about two hundred in all. All worthy of attention and study, most of them claiming our admiration and liking as their lawful due.

The Varsity Rugby team may now doff their muddy moccasins and turn their minds to the difficult task of outwitting the faculty. After a very successful season they were eliminated by one of the greatest gridiron machines ever collected. They went down to defeat last year by the narrow margin of one point. Due to the fact that Argos got all the breaks many people felt that we were outwitted. Despite the fact that Argos were so fortunate we must concede that they had slightly the better team. The difference in experience of the two backfields resulted in the margin of superiority. However, we will not concede that there is any better backfield player than Warren Bertram Snyder. The Varsity forward line played a wonderful game. Their only misplay unfortunately allowed Batstone to romp over for an easy try. The Varsity backs proved that Conacher could be stopped. He did not succeed in running back one kick during the entire game. For the first time in his brilliant career he showed signs of fatigue. Harry Batstone proved a thorn in the side of the men of Maynard. His heavy running and judicious passing enabled Conacher to get away for the long runs of the day. Shrimp Cochrane was the "Shrimp" of old, always helpful, encouraging and cheering his team.

To mention the individual efforts of the teams would be useless. Everybody was keyed to top pitch and everybody turned in exceptionally good games. The weather conditions were very unfavorable. The field was slippery, the ball sticky and heavy, the wind contrary and a drizzling rain falling at intervals. The heavy going favored the heavier Argos team. The stands were packed with about fifteen thousand spectators who braved the elements to witness the "battle of the century." The Varsity Rugby was enthusiastic and sincere. The Varsity well given at the conclusion of the game was a revelation of sporting spirit. No wonder the team felt hard for such loyal supporters.

CRITICISM AND RECONSTRUCTION

Constructive criticism makes for reform and progress; destructive criticism causes unrest and discontent and is often "full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." It is easy to mount a soap-box and rave—there will always be an audience. It is not so easy to tool patiently and painfully, remoulding and reconstructing a still seething world.

After every great world upheaval there has always been a dark period when ideals seem lost or overwhelmed. This is but natural, a phenomenon. To-day we are in such a period—many are losing faith in the ideals they fought for—the world seems just as cold-blooded and selfish as it ever was. The destructive critic is in his element; he is on his soap-box talking loud and long. According to him everything is wrong. He opens with a barrage of questions "Why haven't they?" but cannot offer any sane suggestion and seems unwilling to do more than talk. Thought and action are needed; ideals are not dead, reconstruction is making headway. There are still stars in the sky. It is to be remembered that readjustment is not the work of a moment.

The war has swept away barriers of class, race and creed to a great extent. Let us not assist in raising up more intolerant ones. Everything is now in a state of flux, ready to be moulded anew. How shall the world be remoulded? We should say on the basis of brotherhood, peace and goodwill. Are we sincere in this? Are we prepared to do as we hand think, if necessary giving up some prejudices and readjusting our outlook? It will be worth it. We must learn to think in wider terms, to have a cosmopolitan viewpoint. If we can do this real reconstruction will be done, not the superficial kind that the next breath of suspicion will blow away.

It has often been told us that we are the leaders of to-morrow. If this is true then students all over the world will be the leaders of to-morrow. Would it not be a great event and of untold benefit to future generations if the students of the world could come to a deep, lasting and sympathetic understanding? Let us think before we cast away an opportunity for definite reconstruction.

PEACE AND FREEDOM

"At a time when nations of great power and influence are considering the question of disarmament it seems most appropriate that recognition of the world's greatest exemplification of disarmament, viz., between Canada and the United States, should be emphasized. Since the peace treaty signed at Ghent in the year 1814, that pact has been kept unbroken, despite many perplexing problems arising between the two nations, and this is a practical and salutary lesson in international sanity."

"The people of this new world, far removed from the rivalries and jealousies of old continental Europe, may give a new interpretation to democracy, something finer than has yet been known. We of both nations can be purveyors of goodwill, not only across the imaginary three thousand mile boundary line, but also between America and the older world."

"We seek the effective mobilization of American opinion for the promotion of the better understanding that leads to closer friendship, international justice and cordial feeling, believing that such a foundation can provide a sound basis for that wider co-operation between all people moving towards world order."

"We must regret that selfish interests are forever busy endeavouring to create prejudice, jealousy and unwholesome rivalry between these two American nations for the purpose of political advantage and commercial gain, pursuing the insane policy of promoting 'love' for one's country by hating one's neighbours. We call upon the people of Canada and the United States to repudiate such sinister influences and put their trust in nobler forces, those of international unity and goodwill. Let us show our civilizing influence by the practice of magnanimity rather than by cunning and selfishness."

"Believing in the uplifting of civilization through true democracy, economic justice and social betterment, we consider it a duty to make ineffective the forces which prey upon ignorance and weakness, producing maladjustments, international hatred and distress. Among the many who seek mandates from the people for public office let us see to it that only those are selected who endeavour to establish equity and promote brotherhood."

In these words the Canadian Section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom appeals to the women of the country to promote a broader outlook and more exercise judgment in the choice of men to steer the ship of state. How far are we considering this ideal, which cannot be tied down to any party platform, in our thought regarding the election?

"THE TUMULT AND THE SHOUTING DIES"

The rugby season is practically over. As far as the Seniors are concerned it is over and our team has met defeat fighting well and gamely. We must not feel, because Varsity is out of the running for the Dominion Championship that the season has not been a success. The season has been eminently successful in that our team won the Intercollegiate Title after very keen competition and put up a splendid battle against one of the strongest teams that have been seen on Canadian fields. The development of a new and really strong senior players is also a success not to be ignored. But the real success lies in the fact that from beginning to end our men played the game and well upheld the traditions of the University. We owe a great debt of gratitude to Dr. Maynard and to the men who have worked so faithfully and have so worthily borne the standard of the Blue and White.

We look forward to next year with great expectations. We are fully confident that with the return of some of our men who were not playing with Varsity this year the University of Toronto will be able to develop a Dominion Championship team. In fact the powers-that-be foresee so much good material that there is a great possibility of Varsity entering the second team in the Senior O.R.F.U. With two teams in the running for the Senior Championship we shall look for great things. Are we down-hearted?

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE VARSITY congratulates the Argonauts on their splendid victory of Saturday. It was no mean accomplishment to down the Varsity aggregation and the Argos have good reason to be proud.

Our readers will notice that a new plate has been made for the head of the paper, replacing that which has been in use since the Varsity first became a newspaper, but which is now worn out. A new well-known Varsity head will in future be used for the Editorial Column.

Correspondence

The Editor of VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

Permit me to have a few words on a subject which has come before the minds of a number of students.

With the Christian Movement—and there is no better movement than one really Christian no matter where we find it—has come an appeal to Varsity students, and I presume to other colleges throughout the Dominion, sponsored by that movement to supply funds to help educate and relieve those students of Central Europe, including Germany, who are not richly endowed with this world's goods.

At the conclusion of a lecture one morning the class of which I am a member was addressed by an advocate of this movement. He emphasized from personal experience the desperate conditions of Poland and the Polish students and praised them for what they have themselves accomplished, but failed to mention the Germans, who are, I believe, included. He concluded with the argument that this is a movement to demonstrate to the world the international brotherhood of the student class and that that goodwill should be brought about not by labour but by intellectuals.

Now permit me to say that it is not amiss to lend our aid to such a cause. Far be it from me to argue otherwise but I think a few points I have heard my classmates question should be cleared up.

It is well known that from the German universities come the chief exponents of the famous, or should I say infamous, "kultur" for which some 60,000 Canadians including a goodly number who used to roam these halls now lie in Flanders fields, and for which many are still paying and will continue to pay till their lives end. Accordingly I would urge let it be known exactly where and for what this money will be spent. Let us have absolute guarantee, not mere hypothetical statements, that our efforts will help all needy students of Central Europe not to acquire more "kultur" in the seats where it has been taught for we are warned, and I believe, not without grounds for such warning, that the old spirit still lives in Germany, but if aid then we do let it be to acquire that culture which will never mean it itself otherwise than by service and goodwill to all men and all nations.

This, I think, is a reasonable and rational though conservative view of the question and should commend itself to all those really desirous of furthering that happy consummation, the brotherhood of man.

Yours very sincerely,

F. A. ELLIS,
273, S.P.S.

Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

Might I point out some things which a correspondent, "N. G. MacKenzie," writing in Monday's VARSITY seems to have overlooked. The writer would like women usher at Hart House Theatre.

First of all, it is not another attack of the women on Hart House. If the women get into the theatre they will find their way further into our sacred monastic domain. This point of view, of course, will not appeal to the fusers union.

Then for a very practical reason the ushers must be in uniform. I know of no more embarrassing situation than at a theatre where the ushers are in uniform to speak to a stranger who one thought was an usher only to find that we are men.

Then another thing which is not appreciated by many is the fact that ushering is a hard job. It is thankless and tiresome work. Further it must be done rapidly and with efficiency. I can imagine the fair co-ed greeting her friends and holding conversation with them as she shows them seats, and in the meantime other patrons wait, the lobby gets filled with people and the House Manager has a fit of some sort owing to being unable to adequately serve his assistants.

Now to conclude, if "N. G. M." would communicate with the Players Club (which, by the way, I understand is only a men's organization) which has to deal with ushers among other things, I feel sure that the Players Club would answer in full detail on the subject.

Yours truly,

B. J.

Dear Sir:

The point of view of W. O. W. in the matter of relief to German students is at least original. Beyond the use of the word German (which is not mentioned in the best society) his main objection to the plan seems to be its incompatibility with "Christian experience," surely a unique interpretation of "Christian life" on the subject of enemies. Of course, as he tells us, the "wave of Christianity" on whose crest he stands must pass through many "ups and downs" before it "breaks in silver," etc. Still—well, this is certainly one of the "downs."

On the subject of militarism, too, I find his little of the "baiting." German militarism before the war was only kept going by a judicious spreading of the impression that Britain held Germany and would like to destroy her: W. O. W.'s remedy for German militarism after the war is apparently to strengthen that impression as much as possible.

As to the comparative need among Canadian and German students, I am willing to take the word of our own graduates who are lacking this appeal. Is W. O. W. quite unable to trust H. R. Kemp or Bill Rose or Kent Griffin or Margaret W. O. W. or does he think they're out after something for themselves?

I know that in such an attitude he has the approval of several who hold lofty positions in our University. The daily press will assure him of that. But—just a word in his ear. Whenever youth undertakes any bold and generous enterprise, the final seal of its quality is not affixed until cautious, calculating middle age has expressed official disapproval. That is the proof of its high sincerity, that is the sterling mark of sacrifice—the frown of middle age.

That W. O. W. is sincere and unselfish himself, but he's in bad company. He's holding up the old, bad world, when he might be helping to build the new.

STUDENT RELIEF MOVEMENT

year and there is a dearth of trained leadership in the industry, in the universities, and in the professions. We have learned that no nation can isolate itself from the rest, and that in the main what is in the interests of one nation will be in the interests of all. Thus we cannot afford, as Canadian students, to let this opportunity slip by without rendering as generous assistance as we possibly can to the future leaders of those nations which are in such great need.

Cannot Discriminate in Giving
"If German students are in need we cannot afford to discriminate. It is impossible to have a true internationalism with any one nation left out. Students at the British universities have already contributed much money for this cause. They have suffered much more than we in this war. They have lost a far greater proportion of their manhood, and have seen the horrors of war brought to the doors of their own families. If they can find it in their hearts to forgive and help their enemies, surely we should be able to do so. It would be a gross misrepresentation of the facts to say that militarism has entirely died out in Germany because it has not. At the same time relief which has been administered to German students in dire distress has already created a very large number of them, and these conditions which have helped them in their time of need. It is to these students to whom we must look in the future for the operation of these principles of world peace, goodwill, and internationalism, which are now being discussed in a practical way at the Disarmament Conference at Washington."

Help Canadians First
A negative argument on this question was advanced by Brig-Gen. G. H. Mitchell, Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science, when interviewed by THE VARSITY.

It is not as a dean, but as a citizen and as a soldier that I oppose sending aid to German students. I am thoroughly in accordance with the great principle of Christian unity and helpfulness, but I think a proposal like this is misapplied. I cannot understand why we should collect money in this University to help educate the people who three or four years ago were trying to kill us. These young men, whether in Germany or in Austria, are the same ones, or are the brothers or sons of the same ones who once shot bullets at us or made munitions to kill us or gas to poison us.

"On the other hand we have a tremendous burden and a debt right here at home to our own Canadian student. Our first duty is to help him. If we are going to collect money to help in the education of students who have suffered through the war, let us begin at home where the need is just as great as in Central Europe, and where the value will remain with us in our efforts to develop and maintain our own country."

INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCCER AND INTERMEDIATE RUGBY TITLES ARE OURS

SENIOR SOCCER TEAM VICTORS IN KINGSTON

Playing on a field that was covered with soupy mud and in persistent showers the Varsity Senior soccer team won the Intercollegiate Championship when they defeated Queen's in Kingston by a 7-0 score. Varsity won the toss and Queen's kicked off against the wind. The Blue and white aggression took the offensive and kept the Tricolor defence in hot water until Reynolds' cleared. A mis-kick by a Queen's full-back let through Grier who passed to Bishop. The speedy Varsity forward beat his man easily and tallied the first counter. Shortly afterwards Lung secured and swung in to the centre when Bishop shot and made it two. Queen's bucked up and urged by their rovers attacked hotly but the Varsity defence was solid and Evans did not get the ball until shortly before half-time. Naylor, of Queen's, was injured and was replaced by Wood. Bishop secured in the centre field, beat the halves and centred to Grier who scored easily. Half-time came with score 2-0.

Varsity kicked off in a heavy shower and by this time the field was in very bad shape and accurate play was impossible but the Blue and White showed superiority over their opponents in steadfastness and control of the ball. Queen's, however, came out strong and gave Evans more work than he had in the first half. Nevertheless the Toronto team had a big edge and Bishop, Grier and Johnston each added a goal. MacLachlan, the Queen's full-back in attempting to clear slipped in the mud and sent the ball through his own goal. The final score was 7-0.

The teams lined-up as follows:—
Queens—Currie, MacLachlan, and Reynolds; Naylor, Stewart and Wallace, McKeicher, McGregor, Nelson, Cross and Runnings.

Varsity—Evans; Johnson and Nelson; Smylie, Glover and D'Easum; Lang, Grier, Bishop, Johnston and Spaulding. Spares—Lucas.

After the game the Varsity Soccer team and Junior Rugby team were tendered a banquet by Queen's and a very enjoyable time was had by all. Mr. Underhill expressed the appreciation of the Soccer team and Mr. Bennett read eloquent for the Rugby Thirds. Dr. Bruce Taylor addressed the gathering and was received with great applause. Altogether it was a very enjoyable evening. The boys then proceeded to trip the light fantastic until the train left to hear them back to Varsity—and lectures!

JUNIORS BATTLE GAMELY BUT VICTORY GOES TO TRI-COLOUR

In the deciding game of the Junior Intercollegiate title Queen's Thirds defeated Varsity Juniors on Saturday at Kingston by a score of 10 to 3. This is the first football championship Queen's have won for some time and the good material unearthed promises well for her future senior teams.

The Queen's team appeared lighter than that of Varsity but made up for this by better use of the wind. Varsity kicked off with the wind and scored first when Teagle cleared for a point.

In the second period Queen's had the wind and the best of the play. They forced the ball into Varsity territory and attempted a drop. The ball flew low and Wert, of Queen's, picked it up and carried over the line for a touch which was converted. Varsity assumed the offensive, but when a poor kick was returned Queen's scored a rouge. Before the close of period Queen's kicked for another point. Score: Queens, 8; Varsity, 1.

In the third period Varsity used the wind to good advantage and took the ball to Queen's 20-yard line. An attempted onside kick failed but resulted in a rouge. Queen's kicked into the Varsity scrimmage and the ball rolled back over his own line, bringing the score up to: Queens, 8; Varsity, 3.

In the fourth period Varsity made a determined effort to win the game. On good backs they forced the play to Queen's 30-yard line. When attempting to kick for a point, Ritchie, however, stole the ball, and Queen's kicked out of danger. Final score: Queens, 10; Varsity, 3.

The line-up:—
Varsity—F. wing, Doris, halves, Code, Coleman, Penquait, quarter, Teagle, snap, Johnston, inside wings, Lappin and Carlsake, middle wings, Naylor and Smith, outside, Drummond and Bruchman, subs, White, Leary, Montman, McCully, Reid.

Queen's—F. wing, Bell; halves, Smith, Quinn, Holt; quarter, Dolan; snap, Young; inside, McNeil and Whitton; middle, Albeck and Ritchie, outside, Luons, Carmichael; subs, Wert, MacLachlan, Houston, Brocken, Noonan. Officials—B. Heeney, McGill; Dud. Ross, McGill.

UMPIRES WANTED

Anyone willing to act as an umpire for Indoor Baseball is requested to communicate with H. Western, Hk. 2100 or better still be at the meeting this afternoon.

Notice elsewhere.

MULOCK CUP FINAL
Senior and Junior Finals will meet in the Mulock Cup Final in the Stadium at 2.30 on Wednesday, November 23.

EVERYBODY ONSIDE!!

What d'ya mean, "on side?"

Why, on the same side as Bill! Who is Bill and what is his side? Well—Bill, as he is affectionately known, is officially Dr. W. A. Dafee, and he is the little "Big" coach of Varsity's speedy hockey sextette.

It was Bill's untiring work that brought back the Allan Cup from the West last year. Most people haven't heard of him but he is there every minute of the day. Already, this season he has been rounding up likely puck chasers and he's been exercising them in their native haunt at the Arena for the past two weeks. When we polish up the old mug next March to present it officially to Jack Langtry for the U. of T. Hockey Club for another year, it will again be greatly due to the same Billy.

He is entitled to all the support of every student in the University from today until the gang frame their sticks over the mantel-piece next spring. We have three teams playing hockey, and playing real hockey, this year and we want each team to add some silver to our collection. Bill is coaching the first two and Connie Smythe another unrecognized worker, is putting the Juniors in shape. They class with those great men and coaches, Laddie Cassels and Jack Maynard. We got behind them.

Now for Bill and Connie —
Let's go!

SOCCER SEMI-FINALS. SCHOOL vs. DENTS

The first of the semi-final games between School and Dents was played to a scoreless draw last Wednesday. The second game will be played this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the front campus. This game will decide who is to play O.A.C. in the final, and will be well worth seeing.

JR. MEDS 4. VICTORIA 2

By defeating Victoria last Friday Junior Meds earned the right to enter the Mulock Cup Finals. The game was keenly contested throughout by two evenly matched teams as the final score of 1-2 in favour of Jr. Meds indicates.

INDOOR BALL CLUB

A meeting of the executive of the Indoor Ball Club together with the managers of all teams entering the Spaulding Cup series will be held at Hart House today at 5 o'clock.

The Athletic Association of the various colleges and faculties entering teams are urged to see that their managers or at least a representative is present as important matters, including the drawing up of the year's schedule, will be discussed.

"Y" TEAM IS AGAIN SUPERIOR TO VARSITY

On Saturday evening Varsity II Basketball Team went down to defeat at the hands of Central "Y" to the score of 31-10. The Blue and White now hold the cellar position in the Senior T. and D. series, as West End won from them last Tuesday.

The Y.M.C.A. quintette played a much faster and surer passing game which the Seconds helped along by their accurate shooting. The Kod Squad was again the pick of the Varsity crew, and although the entire team, especially Burgess, played well in spots they have not the cohesion and mastery of the short passing game which marks the superiority of the two "Y" teams.

Manager Caple is determined to overcome this deficiency as the Seconds will have to win their two remaining games to remain in the running.

Varsity line-up:—
C. Code, C. Grogan,
F. McDougall, Stewart,
C. Burgess.
Spares—Robinson and Caple.

I.C.A.F.U. MEETS

An enthusiastic meeting of the Intercollegiate Association Football Union was held in Kingston on Saturday, November 19th. It was intimated that McGill were desirous of entering the Quon and that Western University would also enter a team. This year soccer has boomed throughout the whole country and particularly among the student bodies. A decision was reached to hold a general meeting at the same time and place as the I.C.R.U. and draw up a schedule in connection with the Rugby schedule so that the dates would not clash. Several excellent suggestions were discussed and held up for consideration by the four University executives until the General Meeting later on in the year. The election of officers will also be held at this meeting.

TRACK

There will be a meeting of the Track Club on Saturday evening, November 20th at 5.15 p.m. in Mr. Reid's Office, Hart House.

VARSITY INTERMEDIATES CAPTURE CHAMPIONSHIP

Varsity Seconds showed their metal when they beat R.M.C. Saturday 12 to 6 and won the round for the Intermediate Intercollegiate Rugby Championship 18-12. Varsity entered the game one point down and because of the showing R.M.C. made in Toronto many thought the Caders would easily win the round. But the Seconds went out on the field full of the old Varsity fighting spirit. Every man gave all he had and R.M.C. could not stop their combined efforts.

The game was played at the Richardson Memorial Stadium in a sea of mud. Rain started after only a few minutes' play and lasted for the rest of the afternoon. The condition of the field was a great handicap to open play. The ball was wet and soggy and very hard to hold, but in spite of this both sides were fun and games and they were nearly all in centre field. The game was held up every few downs because of casualties, but fortunately nobody was seriously hurt.

"Chuck" Allen did the kicking for Varsity and certainly played a fine game. He outkicked the R.M.C. halves at all times and won in nearly with the other halves. Catto, at quarter, handled the team well and the outside kicked nicely. On the line R.M.C. were a little better but the Varsity line tightened when their opponents pressed. The R.M.C. half line got away to some nice runs, but were outkicked, which lessened their advantage. For R.M.C. Swabey, McPherson and Mundell played well. Zimmerman also turned in a nice game in spite of injuries which kept him off the original line-up.

First Quarter
R.M.C. won the toss and kicked off with the wind behind them. At first R.M.C. forced the play and gained fifteen yards by a nice end run. R.M.C. lost the ball and Varsity made a yard from two on-side kicks. Allen kicked to Mundell, who failed to get out. This was at first thought a six-six touch, but Referee Ross at half-time said it was only a rouge.

For a while it was all Varsity and they seemed headed for a touch when they were marched back fifteen yards for interference. Allen then kicked to the dead line for a point.

Quarter time score—Varsity, 2; R.M.C. 0.

Score on round—Varsity, 8; R.M.C. 7.

Second Quarter
Down a point on the round R.M.C. started off the second quarter with a crash. They gained yards twice on kicks and again on an end run. McPherson kicked to Allen and R.M.C. got possession of the ball on Varsity's ten yard line. Zimmerman reclaimed McPherson, who was hurt in a scrum. When play was resumed R.M.C. went out for a touch which Mundell failed to convert by a fraction of an inch.

Varsity kicked off and R.M.C. kicked for 15 yards and then lost the same distance for interference. Allen kicked to Zimmerman, who was behind the line and the latter made the longest run of the day when he splashed and slipped along for 35 yards.

Half time score—Varsity, 2; R.M.C. 5.
Score on round—Varsity, 8; R.M.C. 12.

Third Quarter
When the third period commenced the rain was pouring down and both teams were soaked through and covered from head to foot with mud. Varsity kicked off. R.M.C. made some nice gains, only to lose the ball on a fumble. Young went over for a touch when R.M.C. fumbled near their own line. Varsity failed to convert.

Down again one point on the round R.M.C. played hard and McPherson kicked over for a dead line.

Third quarter score—Varsity, 7; R.M.C. 6.

Score on round—Varsity, 13; R.M.C. 13.

Fourth Quarter

With the score a tie on the round both teams fought desperately to make a point. Both kicked on the first down in the hope of a fumble which did not come. Finally an R.M.C. man kicked into touch near his own line. From here Allen went over for a touch, which was not converted. R.M.C. fought gamely for the rest of the period but could not get away and play was kept in their territory by Allen's good kicking.

Final score: Varsity, 12; R.M.C. 6.
Final score on round—Varsity, 18; R.M.C. 13.

THE BURWASH LECTURES

It is probably rather a truism to say that the two great problems of today are those of the relations between employer and workman in industry and the relations between state and state in the complex process of international life. The question of World Peace, which is the subject of Hon. N. W. Rowell's four lectures under the Burwash Lectureship is one that at the present time engenders the attention of the world's greatest statesmen, and is one that none of us can afford to ignore.

The desire for world peace is finding formal expression in the League of Nations and the Disarmament Conference, but the success of these endeavours is dependent upon the will of the peoples of the world towards peace. It is only if we really and intelligently desire peace to such an extent that differences and prejudices may be put away that any really strong and lasting understanding or any League of Nations that is more than a merely nominal power can become a fact.

We are privileged to have an opportunity of hearing not only one of the leading Canadian statesmen, but one of our representatives to the Assembly of the League of Nations, a man who has given a great deal of time and thought to the work of the League, and who has been an indefatigable worker for its aims.

At this time, in many respects quite as critical as the war years, in view of the possibilities that it holds for good or evil, we can ill afford to miss the opportunity of listening at first hand from a man who knows the subject thoroughly, a discussion of the problems and prospects of World Peace.

STATING THE CASE

Riga, Sept. 11, 1921.

The university is granting complete exemption from tuition, or partial exemption, to over 1,000 of the 4,500 students, but the Rector says that this does not meet the need. The university is too poor to equip and run a hospital built before the war. The library has been carried away and the shortage of books is terrible. The students are crying out for books and for heated rooms in which to study. I wish some of my books were here. As it is, the best thing, I think, is to get money and buy in Berlin. The exchange at present is very fluctuating—1340 rubles to £1 it was the other day. £1 will pay for a room for a month for a student (an interior room). If you should run across any one who would care to send a little money, it can be spread out to go a very long way here and is desperately needed.

"The students are hoping the relief fund will make a grant towards a student centre. There is a student kitchen helped by the American Relief Administration and run by the students. They want some rooms near it for study and a library—a sort of union I think it is. This is one of the great needs, I believe."

Warsaw, Sept. 20.

"Students had no place in which to live, and there are about 15,000 in the University of Warsaw. About 40 per cent. of them, I believe, are women. The Relief workers took up the matter, and the Government offered a group of old barracks on low ground near the great bridge which crosses the Vistula. No rent is paid, or only a nominal one, but the Government undertook no cleaning or repairs. People who saw them last winter said that they were so filthy that they were not fit for cattle. However, the dirt was scraped and scrubbed off and now there is accommodation for about 700 students. Each student has a bed and a chair—perhaps 25 beds to a room—and there is a dining-room, club-rooms, etc. One longs to improve them, but money is so scarce that double windows and mending broken panes are a problem, and the stairs are very worn. On the top floor is the clothing store, where clothing bought through relief is sold. Co-operative schemes are being developed and the students are very independent and courageous. The real Pole seems a charming person, artistic, refined, a good linguist."

The above are extracts from letters of Miss Margaret Wrong, M.A., late of this University, now Secretary to the World Student Christian Federation. Miss Wrong has been an eye-witness and her remarks need no comment. The students of Canada did their bit in the war—here is another chance to do our bit and help establish a lasting peace founded on goodwill.

STUDENT RELIEF CAMPAIGN

The campaign to raise funds for the relief of European students begins to-day. Every man and woman in the University is to have an opportunity of making his or her own choice as to whether or not the greatest good can be served by demonstrating our goodwill and desire to help our fellow students to acquire and develop the ideals of universal brotherhood—the very ideals for which we fought and which, we believe, has prompted the Student Christian Movement to inaugurate this campaign. It is well that every student should choose for himself. It may not be the right thing, and no gift that is grudgingly made or that is not the expression of a genuine interest and goodwill is of real value. But on the other hand, no one has a right to dismiss the question summarily without thought. It is a very easy thing to turn aside from a difficulty by dismissing the whole question, especially when it means saving money. But this is not the action of a real student.

In this issue will be found a number of letters, all, we believe, written in absolute sincerity. Every student ought to read them and weigh them in his mind before taking a definite stand. There are arguments on both sides. No one is worthy of the name of man who will not honestly consider both sides of the question. The canvassers will call on every one in the near future and the least we can do to lighten the burden of those who are from the highest motives giving much time and energy to this work is to receive them well and consider their case. No one has a right to dictate to another how he ought to act.

One of the sports at U. of T. which does not receive the support which it merits is swimming. No finer place could be imagined than the Hart House Pool and yet only a corporal's guard turn out to witness the annual Interfaculty Meet. Perhaps the reason for this is twofold—the prohibitive fee which would turn away any but an ardent fan and the fact that it is always, for some inexplicable reason, held on a Friday night. It has been scheduled this year for Friday, December 9th, but perhaps it is not too late to change to a night when a fair-sized crowd might reasonably be expected.

Correspondence

Dear Mr. Editor:

Recently one of your correspondents has chosen to consider that criticisms levelled at the "Help the Home Movement" were out of order because they cast a slur on the returned men behind the movement. This attitude common to a great many supporters of uplift movements is what galls the man on the street more than anything else, and if to-day we may say they are in the ascendancy it is rather in spite of them because of their claim to immunity from criticism.

No, Mr. Editor, we don't doubt the sincerity of the proponents of this movement; we merely differ in opinion. We do not even expect to convert them to our point of view. We are quite satisfied to be called Philistines. But we do object to being called heathen and barbarians by every man whose interpretation of either the codified or the common laws of humanity differ from our own.

I am reminded of the dear good people having votes, Mr. Editor, just as you and I, who, when the perpetrator of a particularly despicable crime has been convicted and is about to suffer the penalty, flood the office of the Minister of Justice with petitions for a reprieve on the grounds that the prisoner has repented. Of course he has. They all equal when they are caught. But is there not a proper time and place for everything?

Now to the case in hand. Fritz and Franz have attempted to reach the world a great deal, and I believe they have succeeded, but not to the degree that they expected. If they have taught us nothing else they have demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of many that they cannot be trusted.

The S.C.A. need not feel downhearted, being fired with zeal for their cause they won't anyway. At no point out, however, that they have good company. We don't call Lord Dunsany a traitor, we call him a very good man. We were unfortunate in our choice of Ministers this fall. We might call the large body of the British public who wouldn't listen to "Robert" foolishly stupid. It's a matter of opinion, that's all; but facts rather exonerate "Roberts" now don't they?

But to a great many troops this is plain. While the news-papers have been raving about who won the war, Fritz sits complacently back with his industries all intact, his money still in the bank, and the edge on the export market in his favour. He weeps crocodile tears it is true, like stage money, however, they don't pass. Fritz knows who won the war and any time he doubts it he takes another look at Northern France, reads the account of British labour troubles and is reassured.

Mr. Editor, if I suspect that a poker game is crooked I don't spend good money verifying my opinion. Maybe the sharks need money but I need more. Perhaps the "come on" is innocent but I just keep clear. The full force of this simile will be lost on those who don't know the difference between a Royal Flush and a bob tailed straight but it is meant for those that do.

In closing let me say that we don't doubt the sincerity of those who are trying to do what they believe to be a good and noble work but should we be duped because they are?

Yours sincerely,
DOWNIE, S.P.S.

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

The Student Christian Movement in Canada, like the older movement in Britain, is a unit in the World's Student Christian Federation. The constitution of the Federation, which embraces Student Christian Associations and Movements throughout the world, has laid down certain fundamental principles of action. The attitude of the Student Christian Movement, both in Britain and in Canada towards the present desperate need of European Students, is determined by these principles. The two main aims laid down in the constitution of the W.S.C.F., which express the attitude of the Student Christian Movement everywhere towards the question of relief are:

1. To further either directly or indirectly, those efforts on behalf of the welfare of students in body, mind and spirit, which are in harmony with the Christian purpose."

11. "To bring students of all countries into mutual understanding and sympathy, to lead them to realize that the principles of Jesus Christ should rule in international relations, and to endeavour by mutual doing to draw the nations together."

Long before the war the Student Movements in the various countries involved in the war had been quietly creating a fellowship which embraced and transcended national spirit, a far deeper internationalism than that of the Labour Movement. When the war broke out many members of the British Student Movement, believing that any war is unchristian, refused to fight and took the consequences. The majority, however, threw themselves into the war as a fight against militarism; very many of them a conference in Holland remained unbroken, each respecting the sincerity of the other's motives. After the war the first movement towards reuniting the broken fragments of common life in Europe came through the Student Christian Movement in England. Members of the British Movement met in Christian fellow-ship at a conference in Holland members of the German Student Christian Association against whom they had fought.

As soon as the intense need of the students of Central Europe became known the Student Movement in England immediately recognized its responsibility to fellow students in all those countries in Europe which had suffered in the war irrespective of the side on which they might have fought. It threw itself unreservedly into the work of the European Student Relief Scheme launched by the W.S.C.F. In 1920 the British Student Movement decided to support the work of the Universities' Committee of the Imperial War Relief, and sent out an appeal to the members entitled "The Student Movement and Student Movements Relief Work in Europe." Between October 1, 1920 and September 1, 1921, the British universities and their friends contributed to the Universities' Committee roughly £1,000,000.

The Canadian Student Movement in supporting the European Relief Scheme is, therefore, following what it firmly believes to be the Christian principle of action in recognizing its responsibility to fellow students in Central Europe. It is acting in fellowship with other Student Movements of Great Britain and the United States who have adopted the same line of action. The need is undoubted. A recent letter from Miss Wrigley, who is travelling in Central Europe for the W.S.C.F., speaks of the need of Central European students as "indiscreetible," and her report is too abundant to quote.

The policy of the European Relief Scheme has been throughout to avoid overlapping and to support local schemes of relief in the various countries affected. Eleven countries, besides refugee students, have participated in the relief contributed by twenty-one countries.

1. Relief is administered impartially with no regard to race, nationality, creed, or any other criterion than proven need.

2. The relief agencies at work are operating with scrupulous discretion, refusing help so long as the student can possibly make shift for himself, and aiming first and foremost at encouraging self-help along sound economic lines.

3. Close co-operation with existing agencies. By co-relation of effort the maximum of relief is provided at the minimum of overlapping.

It may be said in conclusion that appeal is being made only to those who feel the force of the Student Christian Movement position, and who believe that by giving they are furthering the very cause for which thousands of students died.

Yours truly,
S. H. HOOKE.

The Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

I wish to thank the Varsity men for giving up three hundred of their tickets for the world's last Saturday's game. Even if we didn't win we appreciated being there and undoubtedly had we known of it before Friday evening there would have been a larger force on our side.

SCHOOL WINS SOCCER SEMI-FINAL---MULOCK C.P. FINAL TO-DAY AT 2.30

EXCITING SOCCER GAME WON BY SCHOOL

Record Crowd For Interfaculty Soccer Attends

S.P.S. 2---DENTS 1

By eliminating Dents on Monday School of Science entered the finals for the Interfaculty Soccer Championship, O.A.C. won their semifinals from Victoria and these two teams will probably meet on Saturday in the first game for the honours.

Both teams started off at top speed, and after about ten minutes of play, Dents secured the ball from a scramble in front of the Dunt goal and scored on a well-placed shot. The course of the ball was slightly altered by one of the Dents players or Griffin might have been able to save the goal. There were no more scores in the first period, but both teams played excellently at half through School had a little the better of the play throughout the period. An unfortunate occurrence, which led to a good deal of controversy, occurred when the ball struck a spectator and glanced into School's net. The goal, however, was not allowed but it is understood that Dents intend protesting the game.

In the beginning of the second half Dents came half stronger than ever and Broene of School was called on to stop several hard shots. School defence then tightened up and the play was very evenly divided for the rest of the game. Dents got their only goal on a corner kick, which was well placed by Rowland and when the scramble cleared away the ball was in School's net. Dents were then playing hard to gain the ball but on a free kick for School, which Wingfield headed into the net, School again took the lead and held it until the final whistle.

It would be very hard to pick out any outstanding stars on either team, but Campbell, at back and Wingfield on the forward line, looked a little the best for School. Scott, who played centre in place of Bishop, got in some nice work. Leary, at outside right, was also good.

Dents were a little handicapped when Harper sustained an injury to his knee and had to retire in the first half but Langtry, who was changed to full back, played a good game. For Dents H. Leary and Crish were the best on the forward line, while Langtry and Weiler were the pick of the defence.

On one or two occasions the referee, Ben Johnston, was called on to award free kicks for some plays which looked rather shady from the standpoint of clean sport, but on the whole the play was clean.

The line-up:
School—Goal, Browne; defence, Campbell, Lucas (Capt.), Berrish, Morris, Cooke; forwards, E. Leary, Dunbar, Scott, MacLellan and Wingfield.
Dents—Goal, Griffin; defence, Harper, Grenzschach, Langtry, Dodds, Honey, Weiler (Capt.); forwards, H. Leary, Crish, Robinson, Langmaid, Rowland.

Basket Ball

The FIRST TEAM dates in the Intercollegiate Basketball League will probably follow the hockey schedule.

SECOND TEAM

Senior Section, Toronto and District League

Tuesday, November 15—West End at Varsity.

Saturday, November 19—Varsity at Central.

Saturday, November 26—Varsity at West End.

Wednesday, December 7—Central at Varsity.

Another round will be played after Christmas, but the dates are not yet settled.

Intermediate Section, T. and D. League.

Saturday, November 19—Varsity at West End.

Wednesday, November 23—Chalmers at Varsity.

Wednesday, November 30—Varsity at Metropolitan.

Wednesday, December 7—Melrose at Varsity.

Another round will be played after Christmas, but the dates are not yet settled.

JUNIOR TEAM

Junior Section, T. and D. League

Saturday, November 19—Varsity at Central.

Wednesday, November 23—Broadview at Varsity.

Saturday, December 3—Varsity at West End.

Wednesday, December 7—Garrett at Varsity.

Another round will be played after Christmas, but the dates are not yet settled.

INDOOR BALL

The following teams have entered the Spalding Cup Series.

Victoria
Ir. U.C.
Sr. U.C.
Sr. Dents
Jr. School
Sr. School
Trinity
Forestry
Wycliffe
St. Mike's
O.C.E.

Any other teams wishing to enter should have a representative at the adjourned meeting of the executive and managers, which will be held this afternoon at Hart House at 4.30. The rules will be further discussed, schedules arranged, etc., at this meeting.

Teams desiring practice hours should see Mr. Barton at once.

The following hours may be used for practice in the gym. This week only: Wednesday, Thursday and Friday 4 to 5.

WOMEN OF "VARSITY" STAFF

There will be an important meeting of the women of the staff on Thursday at 8 o'clock SHARP in Room 82, Main Building, to discuss the women's issue of "Varsity." It is imperative that every woman on the staff be present.

VICTORIA COLLEGE CO-EDS DEFEAT ST. MICHAEL'S

On Monday night the Victoria College girls defeated St. Mike's team in Basketball with a score of 55-12. At half-time the score was 22-2 and in the beginning of the second half, the St. Mike's team began to add to their score, making the game more interesting. The entire Vic team was good, although special mention might be made of D. Oaks and Winnie Snider. Betty McGrath played a good game for St. Mike's in the second half.

INFORMAL DANCE AT LILLIAN MASSEY

An informal dance is to be held on Saturday evening, November 26, in the Lillian Massey Gym. This is under the auspices of the Medical Women's Athletic Association with the patronage of Dr. and Mrs. Ryerson.

Guests are requested to gather at 7.45 to arrange programmes as Jurdine's Orchestra will "discuss" sweet strains at 8 sharp.

Our famous brew of punch will be dispensed by the fourth year. We are only charging $1.00 a couple and expect a good crowd out for a good time.

You won't make a mistake if you bring "the girl" to this jolly informal social affair.

The Interfaculty Swimming Meet is scheduled for December 9. It is urged that year representatives get a line on the available material, and in the names of all such to Pat Riley as soon as possible.

The FitzGerald Cup for Speed Swimming would be a good addition to the Dental Sporting Silverware.

NOTICE JUNIOR U.C.

There will be a baseball practice for the Junior U.C. team to-day at 11 a.m. in the Upper Gym. If you have ever played before on hand. A special call is made for pitchers.

OH YOU MEDICALS!

Every Med., whether man, woman or child, should be at the Stadium this afternoon at 2.30. Of course Meds. can't help winning, but which Meds.? Ah, that is the big problem that it has been disturbing the vicars around the balls.

Senior Med. supporters point to their sterling kicking ball, "Chuck" Allan, and immediately feel confident of the issue. There is little doubt that the Juniors will be outkicked. Allan has been leaving the seniors to victory all season and, incidentally, played a great game for the Second XI on Saturday. Luke, his side-partner, is a shifty ball carrier and will bear a lot of watching.

The Juniors, headed by Les Upton, who has been starting all season, will be the man to watch. The Juniors have also due out another member of the back line, Dunbar. If he is used the Juniors will have a half-back that will turn up the field. Young, who has been playing for the seniors all season, is also going to lend a hand. On the line Somers and Secord are good, while Kelly, who played for St. Mike's, when the war was in its infancy, is coming to turn out. The Juniors have a well-drilled squad. With their great speed and pep they hope to rush the ball off their feet.

Now you have the dope. Be there at 2.30 and see a really fine game.

The Annual Meeting of the U. of T. British Rugby Club will be held on Monday, December 5, at 8 p.m. in Hart House. Nominations for the various offices, signed by two voting members, must be in the hands of the Secretary of the Athletic Association not later than Monday, November 28.

GYM. CLUB ELECTIONS

At a recent meeting of the Gym Club, the following executive for the season 1921-22 were elected:

H. H. President, D. Heuts, B.A.Sc.
Hon. Vice-President, G. E. Kirkman, B.A.Sc.
President, S. Williams, S.P.S. '22.
Vice-President, P. J. Robinson, Med.
Captain of Team, R. J. Williamson, S.P.S. '23.
Secretary-Manager, M. Wolke, S.P.S. '25.

They want more recruits at once. If in doubt as to your ability in this line, get in touch with one of the above named or better still, come up and see us on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon in the big gym. Do your part to develop in a University a strong intercollegiate gym team.

At the same time, there is much diversity of opinion as to whether the Eastern or Western style of football is the better. In the east, the end, or wing, is considered to have won his battle, if he has turned the play between himself and the tackle.

In the west it is the duty of the end to spill the interference and give the defending backfield a chance to get the man.

Last year a certain Western team proved itself superior to a supposedly better Eastern team. The University of Washington had a coach, one Gil Dwyer, several years ago who built up a record of ten successive seasons with out a single defeat, a record which has never been equalled.

Admittedly this year's rugby game is better than last year's. This is because of allowing the center to pass the ball directly

VARSITY III RUGBY TEAM

A photograph of the team in uniform will be taken on Friday, November 26, at 12.30 p.m. Everybody be ready at 12.15. The team will meet in the locker room.

AMERICAN RUGBY

Toronto, November 21
Editor of VARSITY.

The letter from H. H. Brown 271, of Cornell on the comparative merits of Canadian and American football interests me very much. I have seen American football played for a number of years in Western U.S. Universities and have followed the sport very keenly. May I give you a few of my impressions?

As to the matter of interference, it is obvious that one man can do little in the matter of advancing the ball, unless five or more opponents address him in an organized player. There are such men in the Canadian game and their plays are spectacular. However, it is not difficult to defend against such interference if used over and over, the passing several men on one play makes it nearly even number of opponents. Fair, isn't it? In the American game no man can do more than I did last year, I can afford to let him alone.

The forward pass, as used in the west, were invented from the game more or less as a way to break through the use of the old line. I had the pleasure of attending the U.S. school in the "Wich" Huddle, who put it in the game. It is a very good play, as I have said, it is a marvel at passing and could place a fourth it is certainly a fifty yards in the air, a man can do it with a little distance.

It is passing is still called in a certain Western Agricultural College. I agree with Mr. Brown that there are a number of excellent players in the American game, but that much of scoring would slow up the game. Is there anything so thrilling as to see your own team hold the opponents for downs on the end zone? It is frequently done. The team giving it just once in its own back yard. As for tackling, I've often longed to have MacSwain or Dan Warner from U.C. on Varsity against McGill to show some tackling.

MacSwain, I think, MacSwain, MacSwain but then higher than the ankles and they always knew they had been some place.

States, there is much diversity of opinion as to whether the Eastern or Western style of football is the better. In the east, the end, or wing, is considered to have won his battle, if he has turned the play between himself and the tackle.

In the west it is the duty of the end to spill the interference and give the defending backfield a chance to get the man.

Last year a certain Western team proved itself superior to a supposedly better Eastern team. The University of Washington had a coach, one Gil Dwyer, several years ago who built up a record of ten successive seasons with out a single defeat, a record which has never been equalled.

TRACK MEN ATTENTION

Indoor Track Meet to be Held in January—Coach is Mr. Halbus

Intending members of the Track Club, for their indoor meets this year, will welcome the news that the track has been reserved for their use on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 5 to 6. This applies only to those who intend to take up track work as one of the major sports, and who desire coaching in their particular branch from the supervisor, Mr. Frank Halbus. The latter will be present at the above mentioned hour, starting Wednesday, November 21.

For the rest of the term special emphasis will be put on form. That is to say that players will be taught the correct form in taking the starting mark, quickly, how to take the curve of an indoor track and how to finish. Juniors will experiment with various styles of modern jumping to see if a new form of attack will not give them a slight by leaving the body more nearly parallel to the line.

Men who have not specialized in any particular form of track or field events will find the standing broad jump and the long, and put events very satisfactory, one equal chance as very few have done them before.

"TORONTONENSIS" BOARD SESSION 1921-22

AGENDA

Photographs—

1. Make arrangements with photographer for class sittings, so that appointments may not clash with lectures.
2. When all sittings have been made have the proofs returned promptly in order that the selected photograph may be furnished the Board.
3. As soon as the finished pictures are ready to be turned over to the Editor, each representative should call on the photographer and identify each member of his or her class, writing the name plainly on the back of the print.

Note.—The deposit left with the photographer by each graduate provides a print for the year-book.

This portion of the work must be complete by December 1, 1921.

Biographies—

1. Distribute blanks to each member of class.
2. Recommend brevity and originality, following the special instructions on each form.
3. Extra forms are always available at Varsity post office in the Rotunda.

Arrange to have all biographies submitted by December 1.

General—

1. Class executives, etc., may go to either of the "Torontonensis" photographers for sittings.
2. Clubs, athletic associations and all social organizations should be notified by their respective members about having pictures taken and sending in their copy early—(not received after December 1, 1921).
3. Societies and fraternities should be specially requested to submit their copy before December 1st. The fraternity lists should be classified as: Fraternities in Facultate. Fraternities in Bello. Fraternities in Universitate. Fraternities in Urbe.
4. Class histories and write-ups should be in by December 1st and members of the board are asked to make this generally known.
5. Reservations for "In Memoriam" pages should be made with the Business Manager as early as possible—(not later than December 1, 1921).

Get this and keep for future reference.

TROUSERS

We have found from experience that every man has a good coat and vest which need a good pair of Trousers.

We have over 5,000 different patterns representing the total stock of all the wholesale houses of Canada and are in position to match anything.

We matched coats and vests for 400 of the boys last term. Bring in your vest and let us match it up for you.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY TO-DAY
Mr. C. L. Clark, Chief Engineer of the Toronto Harbour Commission, and Chairman of the Toronto Branch E.I.C. will address the Engineering Society meeting to-day at 7:30 p.m.
He will speak on the organizing of Engineers, pointing out the need of a powerful organization in the Engineering profession, its possibilities, and ultimate objective. He will also point out the personal advantages graduates and undergraduates may derive from association with an organization of this kind.
This is a subject of intense interest to all school men, and it is hoped that a very-one who is in the hall will take the opportunity to hear Mr. Clark.

MOONS

"What ho!" quoth the varlet, "where is my wand'ring buff, smutter, 'my dance, 'not 'mme, 'smutter--" stake back your heart—I ordered the moon not to set, at two pounds per lunar lachon, biding motion of the most shimmering lumie, in whose eyes, blue as the skies, shone forth the odour of the Lotus-eaters, whose mail tucket I had borrowed without the slightest suspicion that he had procured the last waltz from the blinking Frosh with the two Carnot cycles, while her hand rested in mine and we waltzed through exquisite fragrant spring waters, until the Chaffeur shouted: "Eat 'em while they're hot," and I—on bentid knees—suddenly chanted those beautiful lines from the "I would that my tongue..."
It's not our fault. We've been this way ever since we found we could get a rub for the 27¢ Dance & Ice Cream. W. Tech-Bridge, issue for the "Announcement Extraordinary."

274 SMOKER

Who's a smoker? Ask my Second Year chemist who was at the 274 Smoker at Hart House Monday night. The Common Room was artistically decorated with signs, the arrangement and colour scheme, an engineering eye-might. During the early part of the evening, letters for dance tickets were in progress and a part of this help put against three quarters' accompaniment on the piano by that two-time "I never knew" Mr. Apple and the inevitable corn cob were much in evidence, no doubt a touch of this look to the farm movement. But the "I never knew" were disturbed slightly when Julie Brank, with the assistance of the entire company, upset all previous one-act plays in the hall when we were in retirement; they were "well—other class." After this concentrated effort of using some really jokes were contributed by Gordon, Mr. Peter Gille, and J. Roy Cockburn, also some laudations by Roy Workman. For me to satisfy the game dyspeptic shouting "We are—", etc. etc. Did we have a good time? We admit it.

E.I.C.

The Ten-to-branch of the Engineering Institute is to be launched this week with an address by C. H. Tillett on "Electricity Applied to Railway Signalling." Mr. Tillett is in charge of all signalling for the Grand Trunk Railway, and is making a special trip from Montreal in order to deliver that day-night message to the Engineers' Club, 90 King Street W.

STUDENTS' NIGHT—E.I.C.

Another new idea has evolved at "School," viz. the holding of a special "Students' Night" in co-operation with the Toronto branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

The meeting will be held in the Hart House Lecture Room, Monday, November 28, at 8 p.m. It will have as its theme, Mr. Tillett in charge of all signalling for the Grand Trunk Railway, and is making a special trip from Montreal in order to deliver that day-night message to the Engineers' Club, 90 King Street W.

ORIENTAL OSCILLATION

Out of the East came a Mystic Lantern, unrolled by geologists searching for the lost caves of Oran Outang.

Though forgotten for many a year, this mystic lantern creation of a prehistoric nation is in a remarkable state of preservation.

Cultural in shape, it stands 144 half inches in height, with a very figured design embossed on its sides. Who knows but the dragons inscribed thereon, once held away in the hand of Timbuctoo? Or that the South Sea Islanders in their fur coats.

But words fail; it will be exhibition in the Oriental dance of the 274 Dance, Wednesday, November 26th at 8:30 p.m. Tickets $3.00. "Every dance a Novelty."

SMOKER

The Industrial Chemical Club will hold their first smoker on Wednesday, November 23 in Hart House. Two speakers have been obtained for this meeting.

4:00 p.m. Weekly Tea at Graduates' Room of the Library on Thursday. Men and women students welcome.

IDENTITY

The political pot is boiling and seething at the R.C.D.S. All three political parties have launched their largest, trimmed their sails and are away with a fair breeze. Pilots have been chosen and the cheftains marshal their forces for the onslaught.

The die-hard Conservatives have called Ray Wilson 273, to carry their standard. The MacKenzie King satellites have had their colors taken up by Eddie Guest, the boy orator from the school of the future, who has entered the field under the leadership of Henry Mang, the understudy of Stephen Leacock.

With much brawny play and chattering crowing, the Progressives threw a bomb into the enemy camp on Saturday by publishing "Politico-dents," the first strike Progressive paper in Canada. In the mad rush for notoriety, the Crear-Mang party have overlooked printing their party's views on prohibition, which Ray Wilson alleges "should be given prominence in the campaign—in free trade, and have always been," declares Wilson.

"Ever since I heard Stephen Leacock last winter, I have argued against prohibition, and am still against prohibition of free trade," said leader Mang in an assumed interview.

The chief aim of the campaign is to reach the views of the nation. "Politico-dents," as a political journal is a success. It handles with light but effective the rival nomination meetings. It declares that some of the fair co-beds will be liberals because King is the best looking man of the trio, while others will be Conservatives because it means chapter hats, it is elected.

December 2, the night of the mock parliament, will be the night of the assembly of the R.C.D.S. of national importance. Hon. Jos. Boyd, president of the R.D.S. with true parliamentary dignity will don the speaker's robes and preside over the ceremony.

Few, if indeed any, evenings in the memory of students of the R.C.D.S. have created the enthusiasm that the coming Political Night has aroused.

For the benefit of those who found it impossible to attend the meeting on Friday it may be mentioned that the three parties—the Progressives, Conservatives, and Liberals—have already chosen their leaders who are now busy getting together material that will show up their rivals to advantage on the night of December 2, which is the date set aside for the big Dental Political Rally. On this occasion the leaders will explain the merits of their party's prospective parties. This Political Night is held under the auspices of the Royal Dental Society, and that fact alone is assurance of its success.

Now that the football season is practically closed all attention is being turned to the boxing and wrestling game, and with the latter Varsity athletes preparing for all incoming participants should get in trim and show the Dents are always there.

Members of the Uxekled Club are reminded of the practice to be held Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in Lecture Room 3. All members are requested to be on hand.

How about it, gang? Looks as though we were about to go to a good time, and let's hope so. Although it is but a short time since the last meeting matters of vital importance to the Club have arisen which require immediate attention, hence an immediate general meeting 12 o'clock noon Thursday, November 24, in Lecture Room 2. Great was the enthusiasm shown at the last meeting and numbers very encouraging, but we require 100 per cent attendance at this meeting.

BOXING, WRESTLING AND FENCING

The prospects of the Dents having even representatives on the Varsity Assault-Arms team is not so bright. Dadds has graduated. Kay can't make his weight. Meyer is out with a few bones broken in his hand.

However, we hope the newcomers will prove equal to the task. About twenty-five are in training now for the various events.

The R.C.D.S. Students' Parliament meets to-night at 8 o'clock in Lecture Room 3. As important matters are to be brought up a large attendance is requested.

MUSICIANS!

Students from any faculty or college who play stringed or wind instruments are invited to become members of the Victoria College Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Frank E. Blackford. Practice on Thursday, November 24, Annesley Hall, Common Room, 7:30 p.m. sharp. Come, we need you!

Music

Another unqualified success has greeted the Music Committee in a result of their splendid recital in Hart House on Tuesday afternoon. The programme consisted of the E-flat recital, selections from Mozart, Debussy and Nollot and the second movement of the D minor concerto by MacDowell. From this it may be seen that the programme was quite the most pretentious yet attempted by the committee and its warm reception was very well merited.

Mr. Simeon Joyce, the solo artist of the occasion, has improved much since his appearance in Hart House last season. His interpretation of technique and general musicianship have vastly improved. The Liszt concerto, as played by him on Tuesday, was at once a work of art and an inspiration. Liszt is noted for his difficult technical demands and the E-flat concerto was no exception. Most delightful was Mr. Joyce's mastery of touch, his fluency of fingering and his grandiose chords. The whole of the Concerto, which by the way is a long one, was played from memory and at no time did he hesitate or repeat himself. Mr. Frank Welsman, at the second piano, gave him good support and even gave suggestions of orchestration in his work in the bass. The prolonged applause of the capacity audience demonstrated their appreciation of Mr. Joyce's work.

Following the number Mr. Joyce played a group of three short selections—Pastorale by Mozart, Elegy by Nollot and Danse by Debussy. Mr. Joyce was well credited with a good understanding of Debussy's characteristic style. The elaboration of the whole tone scale was an interesting feature of the Debussy number. Mr. Welsman then announced the final number, the second movement of the D minor Concerto by MacDowell, on American music. As exemplified by MacDowell showing that we have in America some really good music. Mr. Joyce won first honours in his performance of this movement which one may say is very attractive indeed. This concluded the very enjoyable recital.

It may be stated here that at future recitals where concerts are to be played the committee will be well advised if they move the grand piano further into the room. It will give clarity to the playing.

TO-DAY, TO-MORROW AND THE NEXT DAY

These are the days of the campaign for the European Student Relief Fund. If you haven't read the literature on it, ask the canvasser for a copy of the leaflet. Both men and women are to be canvassed November 23, 24 and 25. The price of one dance or one show will provide considerable dry bread for some fellow student. If you feel the call from some worthy cause be sure you respond to it, but don't let this one suffer on the account. Draw on your amusement fun, that's all. It is really a showdown for your conception of Christianity so don't abuse the canvassers.

ROOTERS WANTED!

On Wednesday evening University College will meet St. Hilda's in a return basketball match at Lillian Massey Gym. Both teams are quite confident of victory, and it promises to be an interesting game. All interested are most cordially invited to attend, at Lillian Massey at eight o'clock. Turn out and give the team some support from the gallery. They deserve it.

Friday evening a double-header will be staged at Lillian Massey Gym when U.C. will meet the College of Education team, and afterwards Meds and Vic come together for a match. They will both be good games, well worth seeing, and a large gallery of spectators would be very much appreciated by all the players.

The Varsity staff held a most enjoyable party at Hunt's on Monday evening. Our Dental representatives thereto acquitted themselves nobly—Russ Williams, with his Ladye Fayre, winning out in the prize novelty dance, and the "Mammy" March being a feature of the programme.

Seniors are reminded that all Biography Cards for TORONTO-SENIORS must be handed in to the committee before December 1, and that Saturday, November 26, is the last day for having pictures taken.

Women's Organizations

"Never before in all my life did I see so many rays" said one faculty wife to another last Monday evening, drawing her skirts more closely about her feet. But she didn't need to worry. The rays were only the august Seniors of Queen's Hall who for once threw aside their dignity to follow, first as tars, and then as little boys and girls, the alluring music made by the Pied Piper of Hamelin.

It was Stunt Night at the Hall and the fourth year had the stage. The worthy Mayor and Councillors, the cool with her Lullie, the gossips, the baby in the cradle, the dogs, the cat, and the cheese, all made their appearance. The Juniors, being of a mercenary turn of mind, had obtained contracts from many well-known firms to advertise their wares before this notable assembly. May we recommend them highly to all prospective advertisers? One needed only to watch Aunt Jennie in real life, making her famous cakes, to know that Aunt Jennie's pan-cake flour is the only flour worthy of the name.

The improvement of the moral tone of the movies concerned the second year. They honoured the audience with a first presentation of an original production, "Wild Nell, the Pet of the Plains and Her Final Sacrifice." The situation arising are gripping and the acting and stage settings showed great versatility on the part of the exponents.

A dance at a lunatic asylum at which comical misunderstandings arose, and several patients proved refractory, was presented by the first year, bringing the programme to a close. In the good time that followed, shows and rats, fine ladies and cow-boys showed an attraction for each other not to be suspected, and everyone is ice-cream, munched apples, and partook of lolly-pops to her heart's content.

That Theology is progressive and must be studied in a scientific manner in order to gain results was the fact emphasized by G. E. Herne in his paper, "Religion and Modern Civilization," which he delivered before the Trinity College Theological Society on Monday evening. After pointing out several instances of the fallacies of the older religious theories which have been corrected by the deeper studies of more recent years he turned to the subject of spiritual authority, which, he said, must come from within rather than through any external influence. Two other speakers, L. H. Smith and H. A. Wilson, contributed equally interesting viewpoints to the subject, following which the discussion was thrown open to the meeting and much valuable information was added by the other members of the society. A short but extremely interesting talk by the Provost, Rev. Dr. Senger, closed the meeting.

St. Hilda's

"Are we, the girls of to-day, worse than our grandmothers?" was the topic under discussion at the meeting of the St. Hilda's Literary Society held Monday evening. Miss Giffard '24, upheld the affirmative side in an excellent address, while the negative view was given by Miss MacPherson '23. An open discussion followed, at the close of which Miss Cartwright compromised by saying that although the girl of to-day has much such her grandmother never dreamed of possessing yet she has lost much which is very desirable. Miss Fairweather '24 gave "Current Events," and Miss Mitchell '24 gave the very delightful piano selection, Godard's "Espagnole." Miss Pickford, with the Critic's remarks, closed the meeting.

The reception which was held on Tuesday evening in St. Hilda's Common Room, was very well attended, and everyone enjoyed himself immensely.

A LETTER FROM BYRON STAUFFER

Dear Student:

I saw them the other day, a melancholy group of six young men, handcuffed in pairs on the road to Burwash prison. It chilled my blood. The awful, perpetual procession of the disgraced is passing daily, hourly, and the prison doors close up on them.

So I have been moved to preach a sermon on "The Fatal First Step Downward." What is it? How can it be avoided? This sermon will be delivered at Massey Hall next Sunday evening.

I want to enlist you, to-morrow's social leaders, to a spirit of deep concern over our present frightful situation.

Dr. Harvey Robb's Symphony Orchestra has been recalled to our services, and will play at 6.45 sharp. Albert David, tenor, and Miss Jean Brown, contralto, will sing.

Get reserved balcony tickets at the University Post Office, or Hall Porter's Desk, Hart House.

Faithfully yours,

TRINITY ANNUAL ATHLETIC DINNER

College Dining Hall Scene of Joyful Gathering—Many Prizes Awarded

As a welcome contrast to the five-mile run over slippery pavements in the Trinity College Steeplechase in the afternoon, the Annual Athletic Dinner took place last evening in the College dining hall. The students sat at the usual four tables of the different years, while at the head table on the dais were the members of the Athletic Association, the staff of the college, and several graduates who had been prominent in sports in their day.

Following the feasting, J. C. de Pencier, newly elected president of the Association, proposed the toast to the King. When the cigarettes were lighted, Rev. H. T. P. Duckworth was called upon to propose the Toast to the College. Dean Duckworth spoke of the healthy state of Trinity under the new regime of Dr. Seager. He then read some "excerpts from freshmen's letters home" in his usual dryly humorous style, displaying a satirical insight into the student's life.

After the Trinity yells, the Provost responded to the Toast, taking as his "text" Good Sportsmanship. He particularly emphasized the duty of the then student body of incorporating into the new element, which is bound to enter when the college moves to Queen's Park, the ideals and traditions of Trinity. He pointed out that the choice for the college was either of losing its own personality at this time, or of so strengthening itself that it will profoundly affect the University as a whole. Proposing the Toast to the T.C.A.A., Professor Cosgrove congratulated the Association on their success in athletics in the past year. The president replied briefly, and announced that the Wiseman Cup, for the Year winning the largest number of points in the athletic events of '22, has been carried off by '22. This year also won the Year 13 Cup for the largest percentage in athletic turaments. The inter-year Rugby cup went to Divinity, and the Hockey Cup to '23.

The inter-year Basketball Cup was presented to '22 and the Steeplechase prizes were then awarded as follows: For Time—1, H. A. Wilson, 26:47 min. 2, H. F. Ketchum, 3, D. Wilson; 4, A. Moore.

For Place—1, H. A. Wilson; 2, D. Wilson; 3, H. F. Ketchum; 4, A. Moore. For the Year's Tennis Championship Cups were then presented to W. Adams.

Field day prizes were awarded to the following:—Highest number of points: J. Lowe. 100 yards—J. Lowe and F. A. Smith, tie. 220 yards—J. J. Lowe, 2, S. C. Ferguson. 440 yards—1, J. F. Davidson; 2, L. Lazier. Half mile—1, J. F. Davidson; 2, A. A. Brown.

One mile—1, H. A. Wilson; 2, F. H. Mason. Three mile—1, F. H. Mason; 2, H. A. Wilson.

Hammer Throw—1, R. S. S. Chaffie; 2, A. K. Kember. Shot Put—1, R. H. Herbert; 2, J. C. de Pencier.

Discus—1, J. C. de Pencier; 2, J. Bell. Broad Jump—1, J. Lowe; 2, J. Bell. High Jump—1, C. V. Kister; 2, J. L. Johnson and J. H. Thompson (tie).

Pole Vault—1, J. H. Thompson; 2, J. L. Johnson.

Inter-year Relay Race—Year '25, with the following team: C. V. Kister, C. M. Morrison, H. Lazier, J. H. Thompson.

Tokens of esteem from St. Hilda's to the different years, in the form of six huge cakes were presented to representatives of the following years:

To Divinity, received by K. Hill; to the other years, by J. D. Ketchum; to '22, by M. B. Williams; to '24, by E. L. Weaver; to '24, by J. A. M. Kister; to '25, by R. Walker, to the Trinity Veterans by A. W. Macdonald.

A lock-step college yell, yelled from every year, on '13 to '24 and the Varsity yell, and finally a serenade of St. Hilda's closed the evening's activities.

The regular meeting of the Women's Press Association will be held at Queen's Hall, 7 Queen's Park, on Friday, November 25, at 4:15 p.m. As this is Canadian Book week, the Association is to have the pleasure of listening to a talk from one of our best-known Canadian authors. This will be of extreme interest to all. A good attendance is requested. Remember the place—7 Queen's Park. (NOT IN ROOM 82.)

STUDENTS TICKETS FOR BYNG CONVOCATION

On account of the great interest which has been taken by the returned soldier students in the Convocation for Lord Byng of Vimy, an additional section of the hall has been reserved, making a total reservation for veterans of 300 seats. The tickets of admission are in the hands of the Varsity Veterans Association and may be obtained from the College or Faculty representative.

A reservation of 300 seats in the first gallery has been made for the returned soldier students and the tickets for these seats are now in the hands of the Women Students' Administrative Council and may be obtained from the College or Faculty representative.

A reservation of 445 seats in the upper gallery (exclusive of the reservation for veterans) has been made for men students and the tickets for these seats are now in the hands of the Students' Administrative Council, and may be obtained from the College or Faculty representative.

ORATORICAL CONTEST AT NEWMAN CLUB

Page and Nye Victorious in First Round of Series

The first oratorical contest in the elimination series for the men of Newman Club was held on Wednesday evening with Mr. Brennan, Club President, as judge. S. H. Page and J. H. Nye were the speakers who came first and second and are eligible to enter the final competition for the Newman Gold Medal '22.

Mr. John Boley, Medal '22, the first speaker gave an interesting talk on "Dante." Mr. Wycke, U.C. '23, expounded the Tariff issue. Mr. A. Nye, U.C. '23, of the "The Revue" for the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments." Mr. Wm. Flannery, B.A., spoke on "The Power of the Canadian Press." The speakers are to be congratulated on their choice of subjects which were highly educative and quite in keeping with the object of gathering of the Newman Club. All four speakers had splendid delivery and it was only after much discussion that the first place was given to Mr. Page and second place to Mr. Wycke by the judge, Fr. Ryder, Bro. Rogation and Mr. Walter Magan, B.A.

FAMILY QUARREL WILL DISTURB U.C.

"Sauce For The Goose" To Be Subject Of Wrangle—Men vs. Women

Who said old U.C. was dead? Have you heard the latest? It is just out! On Tuesday night, at 8 p.m. in West Hall the men of U.C. and women will take place when the U.C. women will debate with the U.C. men. The challenge came from the Literary and Athletic Society and was taken up by the Women's Undergraduate Association. The subject of the debate gives scope for all the wit and humour of U.C. "Reveals that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, or equal pay, for equal work." A deadly duel of words is assured for the older members of the U.C. and the younger members of the U.C. who will uphold the affirmative while the women will uphold the negative. Shades of Mrs. Fankhurst, Caroline Chapman, and all the other U.C. women who are coming to The Misses Adelaide Macdonald and Emma Doran will speak up for the women, while Messrs. Jasperson and Chrysler will do battle for the men. The judges will be well-known University people. So turn out, every man, woman and child, every goose and gander in U.C. on Tuesday night.

PROF. BATESON TO LECTURE ON GENETICS AND HEREDITY

Professor William Bateson, F.R.S., Director of the John Innes Horticultural Institution, and past President of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, will give a course of five lectures from 5 to 6 p.m. on January 3, 5, 6, 9, and 10, on the subject of "Genetics and Heredity" in the North Lecture Room of the Medical Building.

Professor Bateson is recognized as one of the foremost biologists of modern times and it is hoped that all those who are in any way interested in this subject will find it possible to attend the lectures.

GAME CLOSE THROUGHOUT

Uren's Runs Were Feature of Junior's Play

Thanks to the wonderful kicking of "Chuck" Allan their centre half, Senior Meds defeated Junior Meds Wednesday afternoon at the Stadium and now possess the Mulock Cup. The game was very close and not decided until the white horse, Junior Uren kept the Juniors in the struggle by his spectacular runs—quite often he would catch one of Allan's long points on the run and then carry the ball back almost to where it was kicked from. But, unfortunately for the Juniors, whenever they were in a position to score something went wrong and the Seniors kept the ball and Allan would kick out of danger. In addition the Seniors played the steadier game on the whole and were able to outlast the Juniors before the game, that the Senior Meds would plough through their opponents, but such was not the case. Senior Meds played both offensively and defensively on the line.

This year is the first time in more than ten years that two teams from the same faculty have met in the finals. Meds certainly deserved to have matters work out this way because they got their players to turn out regularly in large numbers. When the two teams came out on the field it looked more like a mob than anything else. There were twenty-two in the Senior Meds and twenty-seven in the Junior Meds. The game was a wonderful record and example and something which will be one of the large facilities should try and equal next year.

First Quarter

When the game started a strong wind was blowing from the north. Senior Meds won the toss and defended the half. Uren kicked off for the Juniors who were offside and the Seniors got possession of the ball at centre. Senior Meds started off with a rush, Graham made eight yards on a back pass, then the ball was kicked to the Seniors. A forward pass lost the ball and the Juniors kicked. Uren found a pass and the Juniors got the ball. Uren kicked for the Juniors and Allan returned the ball. Senior Meds made a nice tackle and prevented the Junior halves from getting into the game. Uren kicked at centre and Allan kicked over for a rouge. Junior Meds scrummed the ball and kicked. Uren got away to a score of more runs. Views Based on Actual Experiences in Central Europe Last Summer

Professor Graham, of Oberlin College, is in town at present and was recently interviewed by THE VARSITY in order to get his views on the "Stupid and Inhuman Movement for relief in Europe." He is a graduate of U.C. '03 and was prominent in athletics, winning a "T" on the track team.

His views on the movement are based on his experiences during the past summer, which he spent in Central Europe. He is convinced that assistance from any source is very necessary, and he appeals for our help for the following reasons:

Throughout Central Europe are located several important universities which depend for their support on the intellectual life of the country. If these universities are to remain in operation student life must be rendered tolerable. One of the most important factors in preventing such chaos as we have in Russia. Universities are the sources of Democracy which requires a class leadership in Central Europe.

There are between eighteen and twenty thousand Russian students who served in the Anti-Soviet Army living in Central Europe. Some of these began their university education eight or ten years ago prior to entering the army. At the close of the war they did not return to their own country, but migrated to Central Europe, where they are again trying to complete their education. When Polish students were thus prevented from returning to their own country, but they had nothing but their personal army equipment with which to re-enter student life. Russia, we all know, needs educated men in the worst way. Investments made to help these Russians should improve conditions in Russia as well as the world.

Polish students were handicapped by changes in the national language, as well as government restrictions in the way of financial aid. Polish students were thus forced to move to Central Europe, where they are striving to gain an education.

Dr. Priguet, head of the leading educational institution in Vienna, stated that the average professor's salary at Vienna was equivalent to $72 per year in our money. The average student has to live on $100 per year. Polish students were thus helped partially met by government and other organizations.

Students in all sorts of work to help themselves through college. They serve as street-car conductors, delivery men, street cleaners, messengers, and so on. ### VARSAITY SOCCER PICTURE

Will the following be present at 2 p.m. on Saturday in front of the Main Building: Professor C. H. Wright, Professor Jeanmaret, Mr. Bickerton, Rintoul, Wingfield, Evans, Johnson, Neilson, Lucas, Smilie, Underhill, Glover, D'East, Spaulding, Johnston, Bishop, Orer, Lang, Grant.

SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. CLARKE

Prominent Montreal Clergyman is Very Forceful Speaker

The large audiences which have attended the University Sermons is an evidence of the increasing interest being taken in the Convocation Hall services. The committee has been fortunate in securing such men as Dr. W. J. Clarke, Canon Scott and Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell, and their addresses were greatly appreciated.

Next Sunday, Dr. W. J. Clarke, of St. Andrew's Church, Westmount will be the speaker. Dr. Clarke is described as one of the strongest and most forceful preachers in the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

For some years, he presided over the Union Committee in connection with that church and by his kindness, courtesy and tact made a large contribution to the cause of Union with the Methodist and Congregational churches. He is well-known in the circles of London and Toronto, where he has held pastorates.

Friends to the city and among the student body look forward with great interest to the coming of Dr. Clarke to Convocation Hall on Sunday morning.

INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE MEETS IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 23.

Ninety-two American colleges and universities will be represented at the thirteenth Interfraternity Conference to be held at Hotel Pennsylvania, Friday and Saturday. The delegates come from every part of the country, as well from Yale and Harvard, from California, Iowa, Center, Texas, Maine, and many other colleges hardly familiar in the East. Toronto is represented.

Columbia is in the lead in the number of delegates sent to the Conference by the leading fraternities of the country, each of which designated three delegates and two alternates. Columbia delegates numbered 13.

Cornell is second with 10 representatives among them the President of the Conference, Don R. Almy, a lawyer of 10 Cedar Street, N.Y.C. is third with 11.

Illinois is the first of the more distant universities with 7, while Yale and Michigan follow with 7, Penn with 6, and Williams with 5. About two hundred colleges, fraternities men in all will be present.

The Interfraternity Conference, the advisory council of practically all of the country's men's college fraternities, will discuss a number of problems at American colleges at its two-day Convention.

VARSAITY CALENDAR TO APPEAR SOON

A new departure and really novel enterprise that is now in the last stages of completion is a Varsity Calendar, which will indeed prove the ideal Christmas gift for the student.

This calendar will be descriptive of the University as a whole and representative of each faculty. Apart from its usefulness and artistic beauty, the Varsity Calendar as a Christmas gift commands itself as a fitting medium through which outsiders may "know our University."

"Do your Christmas Shopping early" is a good motto usually, but in this case as well as in many others, it is doubly true. The calendar will be ready for distribution in the next issue of THE VARSITY.

RABBI BRICKNER TO ADDRESS ORIENTAL ASSOCIATION

Subject "The New Palestine"

Under the auspices of the University Oriental Association Rabbi Brickner, of the Holy Blossom Synagogue, will give an address on Wednesday evening, November 24, in the Alumni Hall at Victoria College. His subject will be "The New Palestine," and will deal with the Zionist movement and the formation of a great Jewish state in the Near East. This new Jewish state will have an important nation with, undoubtedly, have an important bearing on world politics, especially in the problems of the East, and it is well that we should get a thorough knowledge of its formation.

The Jews of the Near East have a right of interest to every student of the Bible. Rabbi Brickner is an exceptionally fine speaker and one of the best authorities in Canada on this subject. It is hoped that the general public, as well as the students, will be well represented at the meeting.

NATIONAL STATUS FOR CANADA

Irish Problem in Relation to British Empire as a Whole

Hon. N. W. Rowell delivered the second of the Burwash Memorial Lectures, Tuesday evening, November 22, at the Convocation Hall, Wednesday evening. That these addresses are exceedingly popular was evinced by the number of persons present and each point dealt with was received with the keenest interest.

The subject treated last night, "The British Empire and World Peace," concerns one of the most vital questions of this Nation have to face today.

Several extremely original ideas were advanced by the speaker, particularly in dealing with the Irish Problem which is vexing the best brains of our Empire at the present time.

Mr. Rowell said that liberty and self-government had distinguished the British Empire throughout its history. The Empire was based, not upon force, but upon goodwill and understanding. The stability of the British constitution had allowed the Empire to develop into a coalition of nations under a common Sovereign. "No State in history has made so great a contribution to world peace and the progress of government, and the British Empire has been the leader in the promotion of international arbitration for the peaceable settlement of disputes between nations," said the lecturer.

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE COLLEGES

There are probably very few students in this University who thoroughly appreciate the peculiar advantages that students in our Faculty of Arts enjoy by virtue of the almost unique system under which the work of the University is carried on. There are great advantages to be derived in a large university, if it is not so large as to be unwieldy and if the classes are not so large that the personal touch between staff and students is lost. There is also great merit in the small university or college, in that the life of the student body is so united, and the intercourse among students and between the students and the faculty so intimate, that a real community spirit is developed.

We, in the University of Toronto, enjoy, in a measure, the advantages of both systems, as any one who heard the speech of Sir Robert Falconer at the recent Convocation of Trinity College cannot fail to realize. We have, on the one hand, a great University in which, owing to the federation of the colleges, larger classes are, when it is desirable, brought together and men of the highest scholarship and greatest ability can be secured for the work of instruction. But we have, as well, the colleges themselves, each with its own identity in which the valuable instruction of the smaller group, and that very important factor, College spirit, are preserved.

Thus we have in the University an "esprit de corps" second to none, at any rate in this country. We have also a number of smaller groups, each living with the others in its devotion to its own centre and in loyalty to the University.

The day of small colleges is not yet past. The small college is one of the greatest factors in a university training, a factor the value of which cannot be overestimated. It is partly to supply the need that the small colleges of the Old Country universities supply that the fraternity movement has gained such ground on this side of the Atlantic, while on the other side it is not nearly so general. The fraternity does in a measure supply the need, but there is still room for the wider fellowship that neither the large university nor the fraternity can give, the other because it provides little or no intimacy, the other because the circle is so limited. All three elements are good, are very good—we need them all, even in this age of bulk production in education as well as industry.

THE ART OF CONVERSATION

The present generation is often accused of having lost the art of conversation. We can talk, but do we know how to talk intelligently? Do we really say what we are like? Graciously, who spoke "an infinite deal of nothing more than any man in all Venice?" To talk intelligently one must have ideas, must have thought about them and developed them. The art of conversation needs time and cultivation, more time than we seem prepared to give it. The speed mania has left its mark upon our ability to converse—there is no time for careful discussion. What we have to say we say pitifully, laconically and slangily. Our aim is to "say our say" and get it over. On the other hand, when there is time for a lengthy chat, frivolity or personalities are the topics on which we speak. The art of conversation lies in talking well upon subjects of general interest. We must learn to curtail the ego. How many of us, when in a circle of friends and acquaintances, are unable to make conversation general and interesting? It is so much easier to engage one in a conversation which is usually not understood by the rest of the party. This may be just plain bad manners, but more often it arises from sheer inability to do otherwise, from a dearth of broad ideas and general topics. This should not be, for the twentieth century presents much about which to think and talk.

If we neglect to exercise a faculty or a member of our bodies, we soon lose the use of it. We have neglected the cultivation of conversational powers to such an extent that when we do meet any one who is really a good talker we call him talkative. Previous generations were forced to rely more upon conversation for entertainment than we and they cultivated the art accordingly. What records they have left us of their brilliant and witty conversation should make us pause and examine our proficiency in the art. To-day we depend on the movies and the dance for amusement. They are not amusements which are conducive to conversation. Nor do the majority of plays presented offer food for real conversation. Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" is, however, one play which was wisely discussed. It is an exception. The fact remains that if we only indulge in light literature and talk we shall lose the power of appreciation of intelligent thought and conversation. We shall be obliged to depend on externals for inspiration and amusement and will lose the power and ability to say anything really worth while.

THE INTER-UNIVERSITY DEBATE

Monday December 5. Every wise and loyal student in the University of Toronto should keep that date open for the Inter-University Debate. On that evening two of our men will meet the representatives of McGill here and two more will meet the Queen's team in Kingston in debate on one of the liveliest questions of the day—"Resolved that a substantial reduction should be made in the Canadian tariff by the incoming Dominion Parliament." Coming, as it does, the night before the general election, this debate will be of great benefit to any one for whom the intricacies of the tariff question require elucidation. The debaters on both sides will be men thoroughly conversant with the subject and we can safely prophesy a complete and profitable discussion.

There is another way of looking at the debate. We have already won four Intercollegiate titles this autumn. Rugby, Soccer, Hockey and Rifle Shooting—were there any more besides? There is no more important or useful side of our college life than that of which these debates are an expression. We should be just as keen to win this title as any of the others. When our debating team went to Queen's two years ago, and another to McGill last year, they reported strong support for their opponents from the students of the other universities. This is not only the first time that we have had two teams debating simultaneously, one at home and one away, but it is also the first occasion on which an Inter-University debate has been held in Toronto since the war. Our men, Messrs. Hearn, Day, Halliday and Edicott, have been working hard for some time and will continue until the fifth of next month. Let us see to it that they are well supported.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The letter of S. M. Scott discussing the theme of a recent editorial in THE VARSITY sets forth an interesting argument and is well worth reading.

The Student Relief Campaign is still a lively question. The correspondence on the subject continues to be interesting and instructive.

THE DESTRUCTIVE CRITIC

Editor VARSITY.

Sir: "Constructive criticism makes for reform and progress; destructive criticism causes unrest and discontent and is often 'full of sound and fury, signifying nothing.'"

With your opinions on the specific question to which these words served as an introduction in your recent editorial I have no quarrel. Neither do I dispute your main proposition that constructive criticism is more valuable than destructive criticism. Yet it is the destructive critic for whom I venture to offer this slight defence. My client has been too long the target for the insults and abuse of his fellow-citizens. Presently he will lose his self-respect, cease to exist himself, cease, in fact, to exist as such, and our civilization will come tumbling about our ears. Only then, sir, will you realize the incalculable mischief wrought by your editorial, the latest of many thousands which have expressed your identical arguments by means of your identical phrases—though never, of course, nearly so well put together.

I dare to say that our civilization would perish if the destructive critic were to disappear from the earth. I believe that his work is a necessary factor in the progress of society, upon the continued evolution of which our civilization depends. Let me take the text of my proof from an authority whose value cannot be questioned. "Destructive criticism causes unrest and discontent." This your chief complaint against my client is my chief defence of him. Of course he causes unrest and discontent. Why shouldn't he? That's what he's for. It is his "raison d'être," almost his definition. Do you hold it against a hen that it lays eggs, or an editor that he writes leaders? Eggs and editorial are useful contributions to social wealth, but not one-millionth part as necessary as are unrest and discontent. "Evaluate a world without them. Can you imagine a greater calamity befalling our civilization than that we should all become contented with our lot, and settle back to rest where we are, in peace and tranquility? You cannot."

Do not imagine I am belittling your friend the constructive critic. If there were only enough of him he would be sufficient for most purposes, and my client might be abolished. But there is not enough of him. Ninety-nine per cent of us are incapable of rising to the height of constructive criticism in anything outside our own tiny affairs. The constructive critic, as rare and as precious as the pearl-bearing oyster, by himself can do nothing but raise his puny, impotent voice against the slumbers of a million stupid and contented souls. This is where the destructive critic steps in. He has never heard of the ideas which the constructive critic has evolved, and he doesn't know what he himself wants, but he knows what he does NOT want, and that is, to be hungry while others are in plenty, to be shot at for the benefit of the makers of the peace-bearing oyster. By himself he can do nothing but raise his puny, impotent voice against the slumbers of a million stupid and contented souls. This is where the destructive critic steps in. He has never heard of the ideas which the constructive critic has evolved, and he doesn't know what he himself wants, but he knows what he does NOT want, and that is, to be hungry while others are in plenty, to be shot at for the benefit of the makers of the peace-bearing oyster. By himself he can do nothing but raise his puny, impotent voice against the slumbers of a million stupid and contented souls. This is where the destructive critic steps in.

I hope I may not seem unreasonable, sir, if I ask you to reflect for a space upon the subject of your editorial. You have, by implication at least, advocated the abolition of the destructive critic. Have you afterwards really tried to fill the necessary position he occupied? If not, your criticism of him is purely destructive.

S. M. SCOTT.

The Editor, THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,

After some deliberation I have decided to reply to the thoughtful warning put forward by "Downie, S.P.S." in Wednesday's issue.

At first the obvious superficiality of his arguments and his alluded but sarcastic conviction me that nobody was expected to, certainly nobody would take him seriously; but reflection made me determine that the excuse for non-response to the appeal for Student Relief in Europe might be all too readily taken up even by practical Christians if a little "hard up" themselves and merely waiting for some such conscience-salve as this.

Such misrepresentations as "Help the Heine Movement," and the insinuation that the sometime enemy needy are soliciting our support, are too patent to need correction here. Professor Hooker's statement in the same column may have touched "Downie, S.P.S." by now with some sense of contrition for hasty if not foolish words.

Further, "Downie, S.P.S." classing himself and his colleagues with the "man on the street" in mental capacity; does he indeed, suppose that the S.C.A. is making its appeal to that type? The appeal is to students for students, made by Christian motives and with some vision (or at least hope) of a future world more cemented by brotherhood than the old pre-war one.

Thirdly, it would seem that "Downie, S.P.S." is already seeking out another "Roberts" at this critical moment—even in the teeth of the efforts being now put forth in Washington. Is this the spirit of the times? Again, students with any insight into current history superior to me newspaper familiarity, will know the real position—the deplorable state of the whole of our beaten enemies' domains to-day. Germany was indeed beaten decisively in warfare; she was prostrated by the terms of the peace treaty.

The strangest note in this evidently seriously intended letter is the fact that its author, clearly a most eminent gambler, fears to take a world with the stakes high. The stakes in this venture are the probability of a new bond of brotherhood with our late enemies and the maintenance of our support to our late allies in the hour of need—if it wins; and there is nothing but a few shekels to lose—a million to one, you might say. For a thinking student to stay out of the game means that it is his will to let the world take care of its own problems and himself to worry to our late allies and meagre existence.

Will "Downie, S.P.S." not "come across" and "take a chance" with us in this great enterprise?

Yours sincerely,

John F. Davidson.

Trinity College.

A LETTER FROM BYRON STAUFFER

Dear Student:

I saw them the other day, a melancholy group of six young men, handcuffed in pairs on the road to Burwash prison. It chilled my blood. The awful, perpetual procession of the disgraced is passing daily, hourly, and the prison doors close upon them.

So I have been moved to preach a sermon on "The Fatal First Step Downward." What is it? How can it be avoided? This sermon will be delivered at Massey Hall next Sunday evening.

I want to enlist you, to-morrow's social leaders, to a spirit of deep concern over our present frightful situation.

Dr. Harvey Robb's Symphony Orchestra has been reced to our services, and will play at 6.45 sharp. Albert David, tenor, and Miss Jean Brown, contralto, will sing. Get reserved balcony tickets at the University Post Office, or Hall Porter's Desk, Hart House.

Faithfully yours,

BYRON STAUFFER.

yard line. Juniors tried an onside on their first down and Everett got the ball and carried it back almost to mid-field. This got the Seniors out to rather a tight corner.

Score—Sr. Meds 2, Jr. Meds 0.

Second Quarter

There was no scoring in this quarter. Seniors forced at first. Allan kicked over the line but Uren ran it out. A poor kick by Junior Meds was recovered by Russell. Junior Meds tried an onside which Uren and Russell got for an advance of fifteen yards. Junior Meds tried some end runs which Second was instrumental in stopping by some nice tackling. A fumble by Luke of Irwin's kick put play in the Senior's quarter, but Allan kicked out of danger. Irwin, whose booting had been uncertain, was replaced by Clark who appeared to add strength to the Junior's attack. Clark ran one of Allan's kicks out for 30 yards. For the rest of the quarter the Seniors were on the defensive.

Half-time score—Sr. Meds 2, Jr. Meds 0

Third Quarter

When play was resumed the Seniors again had the wind. Play was in the first few minutes all in Junior territory. The Juniors kicked badly and Allan kicked over for a rouge. Seniors still pressed and when they got the ball Allan kicked over for another point. Juniors scrambled and kicked to Luke who made eight yards. Campbell was injured and helped off. Allan kicked 50 yards to Uren who caught the ball on the run and ran it back as far as it had been kicked when it was stopped. Uren then kicked his wings and Uren got away to another nice long run.

Play was now in Senior territory and the Seniors got possession when the Juniors tried an onside kick. Allan kicked out of danger again. Uren carried the ball back to the Senior's 35 yard line. Juniors attempted a field goal but it went wide. Juniors on a kick fumbled in centre field and Graham got the ball. Seniors looked to be away nicely only to be called back for interference.

Score—Sr. Meds 4, Jr. Meds, 0.

Fourth Quarter

Juniors opened with possession on their ten yard line. They kicked on the first down and Allan returned a long spiral for a point. Seniors got another point when the Juniors tried a drop kick out and Allan returned for a rouge. Juniors kicked and Luke made a nice twenty yard run. Seniors lost 15 yards for interference. Uren kicked the ball into touch at centre. Allan was too slow in getting a kick away and dropped the ball. Seniors recovered it and ran to the Seniors' 20 yard line where he was tackled with a clear field in front of him. Juniors tried an onside kick which the Seniors got possession of. Allan kicked the ball into centre field. Juniors worked a successful onside kick. Seniors fumbled a short kick and Juniors got possession again. With a minute to go the Juniors tried another onside kick which Graham caught and carried for five yards. The game ended with Seniors in possession at centre-field.

Final score—Sr. Meds 6, Jr. Meds 0. Allan was undoubtedly the star of the game. His kicking was excellent and was responsible for all of his team's points. Harkins at quarter for Senior Meds handled his team well and Keith did some very nice tackling. Uren was best for the Juniors. Duncan, Second and Clark also turned in nice games.

On Wednesday evening U.C. and St. Hilda's met in their return basketball match at Lillian Massey. At half time U.C. led by 30 to 10, and they retained the advantage throughout, emerging with a victory of 41 to 25. St. Hilda's played better than in the first match on their home court, the improvement of the work of the jumping centre being noticeable. The only disappointment of the evening was in the small number of spectators who turned out.

ROWING PRACTICE

Heavyweights Begin Training Monday--Varsity Crew For Olympic Games

The long-awaited-for and inquired-about rowing practices on the machines in Hart House are to commence on Monday, November 28th, and the Club is preparing for a very large turnout. Owing to there being more material to choose from for the heavier than the back-weight crews it was decided to have the heavy crews only turn out until after Christmas. Therefore men of 150 lbs. and over turn out on Monday.

Why such an interest has been taken in rowing is this: In 1924 Varsity is entering a crew in the Olympic games in Paris, and it will require a thoroughly trained crew to enter in such a class. The crew that is formed out of this year's freshmen will be kept intact until then. So start with the first practice on Monday night, November 28th, at four-thirty.

LIFE SAVING

Mr. Winterburn is pleased to report exceptional progress in the life-saving. He says that the interest in and ability to learn this most essential art, is particularly marked in the class held between ten and eleven o'clock on Thursday mornings. ## STUDENT FRIENDSHIP

Editor O' VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

After reading Donnie's letter in THE VARSITY on Student Relief Work in Europe I feel that I understand his viewpoint perfectly, but I maintain that he does not see the case clearly. In support of the Student Relief Fund and in refusing to discriminate between German students and others, we feel we are doing the most practical thing possible under the circumstances. We believe we, the World's Student Christian Movement, are doing more to prevent war than even the Disarmament Conference at Washington in that we are trying to get rid of the causes of war, namely, the refusal of one person to trust another and the side-stepping of the opportunity to be friends. The love which we have for these students, I assure you, is no weak sentimental thing but a practical force which, we believe, is the only force strong enough to cope with our world problems.

J. KELL, Vic. 2T3.

The Editor, VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

The question of The Student Relief Fund has undoubtedly created, in the University, a discussion which has in itself done an inestimable amount of good, if only in bringing home to us the realization, that the international goodwill and friendship in theory is one thing and in practice quite another.

Previous to the war the International Ideal in theory was not unknown. Indeed, leaders of both enemy and allied countries expressed their conviction of the Ideal of Friendship and Goodwill. But—as all way stations speak under the same words and insincerity on the part of some paved the way to the horrible climax of a war. Gone was the spirit of Goodwill and the International Ideal vanished even as the morning mist. Vanished? not quite for who will dare to say, that here and there the heart of a soldier did not catch a vision of its real meaning, as he fought side by side with men from many a clime and dimly wondered why men must die in order to win an all devouring monster? Who will dare to say that deep in the hearts of men, wrung from them in a profound sincerity, the International Ideal of the Brotherhood of man did not emerge in the words: "This must not be again."

But mark you, no longer an Ideal raises its head in theory but plants its feet firmly in practice. Its first step—the League of Nations—perfect by no means, but yet a step. A disappointing step in its attainments to many idealists, a tit-bit for the sceptics. But yet a step, a something real, something tangible. The ideal grows stronger and steps forward again into the Disarmament Conference. A perfect step? Hardly—yet one which shows the growth of the Ideal, and now comes the opportunity of a third step, a step with the power to end the life-blood of human endeavour rushing through the

BURWASH LECTURES

Canada has gradually changed from the position of a colony to that of an equal. The first step in this direction was taken in 1857 when a Colonial Conference was held in England.

Exactly twenty years later, in 1907, representatives of all self-governing colonies decided to establish an imperial conference to meet every four years. This was, indeed, a great step in equalizing the place between Great Britain and Canada, which was finally completed when the Prime Ministers met in 1917 at the call of Mr. Lloyd George.

The admission of the Dominions into the League of Nations and into the League of Nations was the formal international recognition of their new status in the British Commonwealth of self-governing nations. But up to the time, diplomatic usage had not provided for such a body. What is the answer? Should the British Commonwealth change to conform to diplomatic usage and precedents, or should it continue to change to conform to the British Commonwealth? The answer given is to let Canada and the other Dominions have the same representation as Belgium and the other small allies, and let the British Empire define the new status, not others. This proposition was accepted at the Peace Conference and sanctioned by all the nations in the league. As a result the condition of admission was changed so as to include not only the Dominion of Canada but also all the self-governing nations. This provision is probably overlooked by those who oppose the entry of the Dominions into the league.

This means that the other nations have also recognized the unity, formation of the British Commonwealth and that we are not alone when we think of it as it really is.

To-day our only real opponents in the question of our right to belong to the League are the United States and Russia. We cannot force the former to give up the recognition due to us but we can eventually persuade them; in fact, at Washington today, Canadian interests are being looked after by Mr. Baker, who has been cordially welcomed by the United States.

Canada's changed political status has now been a letter and then by Lloyd George. "In recognition of their services and achievements in the war, the Dominions have earned full national status. The members of the British Commonwealth are a coalition of free self-governing nations, linked one sovereign down to another by common sympathies, interests and life."

That Canada will, in time, separate from the Empire, is the fear of many but in fact, it is the recognition of this very principle, that has saved the unity of the empire.

We must, however, recognize that national status means that we cannot enjoy our privileges without fulfilling our duties. Our political affiliations with Great Britain should enable us to understand that better than the Americans would. On the other hand, Canada and the United States have the same interests and, therefore, we can understand the better than the English. No nation has a better opportunity to make a contribution to world peace than Canada, by acting as an interpreter between the United States and the British Commonwealth.

Mr. Rowell then went on to discuss the possibilities of an ambassador at Washington and the new functions of the High Commissioner at London.

In the question of disarmament, Mr. Rowell took the small expense per capita every year in Canada on the army and navy. While the United Kingdom spent $20.74 per capita each year on armaments, Canada's expense was only $1.69. This was due to the fact that the navy in Canadian waters was maintained by English taxpayers. When the conference at Washington is over Canada must consider what her naval defence will be, and Canada must bear the burden of the resulting expense here.

The greatest contributions to civilization do not always come from the largest countries.

It is time that Canada should render the world some service. What can Canada do? Is the question asked. What is to be our ideal and our objective?

For over one hundred years Canada has been at peace with the U.S. Our contribution must be then, the testimony based on a century's experience, that reason is vastly better than the sword in the settlement of international quarrels.

"Canada is in your keeping," concluded Mr. Rowell, speaking particularly to the students in the audience. "It will be what you are to make it. Thousands have died that you may have freedom and liberty. Yours is the privilege to live, to help in the establishment of world peace and justice."

CHEMICAL CLUB HOLDS ENTERTAINING SMOKER

Meeting Addressed by Prominent Graduates

The Industrial Chemical Club added another item to its long list of successes on Wednesday evening in the form of a smoker.

Mr. Scott, chief chemist of the T. Eaton Co., a grad. of 1911 spoke on the subject of chemistry applied to a departmental store. Mr. Scott touched on a great variety of subjects ranging from the manufacture of wooden strawberry seeds to "running bases." The problems confronting a departmental store chemist are as many and varied as the articles of merchandise on the counters, and he is never in danger of slipping into routine work.

Mr. Robertson of 273 gave a very interesting short address on electrolytic zinc refining as practised at Trail, B.C., where he was employed during the summer.

The meeting was interspersed with musical selections rendered by a sobbing saxophone soloist and a snappy jazz singing orchestra. Those present engaged in a quantitative determination of fats, carbohydrates and proteins. The determination of the members was exceeded only by the quantity of the materials.

The last hour was spent in mathematical research on the mystic number 100, and the effect of musical strains on bridge stresses.

E.I.C. Is Embryo Engineers' For One Night

Men are always on the look out for something new. It may be the latest dance, a new job, a new girl friend, in fact, something or anything that will give fresh experiences. The School men are rather worse in this respect than others. Naturally he wants to know what is new in his own profession. Throughout Canada, wherever Engineers meet you find them talking about the broader outlook for the profession and the larger sphere of public life into which its members must enter.

This will be of great value both to the engineer himself and to the community at large.

The School Committee of the E.I.C. are keenly alive to this development and have several plans to help its introduction to School. Among these is the meeting next Monday evening in the Lecture Room at Hart House. As its name, Students' Night, indicates, the meeting has been planned with the interests of the students in view, and all School men, particularly those who are not members of the Institute are invited. The programme is good and everyone who attends is assured of an evening well spent. Further particulars will appear in Monday's VARSITY.

Madison Avenue, close to Bloor, furnished room suitable for one or two students.

The subject chosen was: "Resolved that a University Education does not make a girl happy." So ably was the debate conducted that the affirmative, debating against their own convictions, was successful in winning the favourable decision of the judges.

While the speakers were collecting their opinions, and while the judges were making their decision, Miss Maund Standish of the First Year, delighted the audience with several piano selections. The meeting closed with refreshments and a song.

BARON BYNG RECEIVES HONORARY LAW DEGREE

The "Byng Boys" of Varsity thronged the South foyer of Convocation Hall to greet the great soldier who was their leader in that memorable Vimy show. While waiting for His Excellency the boys received many of the old songs of the route march, billet and entamnet.

As Lord Byng entered three rousing cheers greeted him and, removing his cap, he said, sincerely and simply, "Thank you, boys." Frank O'Leary, President of the Varsity Veterans, representing the returned men, was introduced by Sir Robert Falconer and one could hardly help noticing the fatherly tenderness which His Excellency showed in taking the popular president by the arm and passing through the crowded corridors. After the returned men had greeted His Excellency in the corridor they passed in to the section on the south bank which had been reserved for them. Roy Rickard, of the Varsity Y.M.C.A., led the boys in some of the old songs which were evidently appreciated by the rest of the audience.

Just before the ceremony many members of the Faculty, the Bishop of Toronto and numerous clergy, members of the Judiciary and others of prominence passed up the aisle to the platform. Then came the main procession, led by the Hiedel and containing such dignitaries as the Chancellor, the Hon. Mr. Meredith, who was escorted by the Esquires Bedebes, the President, Sir Robert Falconer; the Chairman of the Board of Governors, Sir Edmund Walker; Principal Gair, the V.C., Dean Coleman, of the Faculty of Arts, Dean Primrose, of Medicine, Dean Mitchell, of Science, Father Carr, of St. Michaels, Chancellor of the University, and the President of Trinity. The members of the Board of Governors present included Dr. D. Bruce Macdonald, Dr. Gody and Mr. Vincent Macdonald. His Excellency, who walked with the President, wore the dress uniform of a General and the LL.D. cap and gown.

In presenting Lord Byng to the Chancellor, the President said that a great knowledge of Greek and Latin is not necessary, nor is it needful that one be a great historian, although the President remarked that he knew His Excellency must have a sound knowledge of history. It is not necessary even to be a great scientist to obtain this degree, because the University, in its broadest sense, recognized the achievements of men in other fields. Therefore he presented His Excellency for the degree of Doctor of Laws. He also spoke of the winning of the respect and faith of the Canadian Corps by the then Sir Julian Byng. Another interesting fact is that this is the first time that the Dominion unanimously called for a Governor-General. At the conclusion of the President's address the Chancellor rose and, shaking hands with Lord Byng, conferred on him the degree. The rattle of Doctors of Laws was then presented for His Excellency's signature.

After the conferring of the degree Lord Byng, in a few well chosen words, expressed his appreciation of the honour done him. "Of the many warm welcomes which I have received since coming to this country there is none," said His Excellency, "which I prize so highly as the reception which you have given me and the honour you have conferred upon me this morning. Honours are significant not merely for what they are in themselves, but also as expression of the spirit that prompts the giver."

His Excellency expressed great hope in the future of Canada. This land is fortunate in having so far escaped many of the curses of the older countries. We have here no slums; it will be a matter not only for regret but also for cause for us, allow the slums to develop in this country.

The hope of the future lies with men and women who have had the advantages of University training. Science, as ordained with industry and rightly directed may become one of the great forces, comparable to religion, patriotism and politics, that go to build the national character.

BULL-DOG BEATTY GUEST OF CITY AND VARSITY

Admiral of the Fleet, Earl Beatty O.M., etc., paid a short visit to the Queen City to-day. The Admiral arrived at the Union Station at 8 a.m. this morning after taking the Capital by storm.

The Hero of Jutland was greeted as he descended from his car by Major-Gen. Victor Williams, G.O.C., M.D. No. 2, Major-Gen. Robert Rennie, Brig-Gen. H. Mitchell and other senior officers, Mayor T. L. Church and members of the Board of Control. Rousing cheers greeted the Empress leading sailor as, with cap tilted at the usual jaunty angle, he passed through the large crowds assembled to do him honour and to catch a glimpse of one of the outstanding figures of our day.

Immediately outside the station a picked guard of the R.C.R. was in attendance. The appearance of the Admiral was the signal for loud outbursts of cheering, while "the ruler of the Kings Navee" took the salute from Canada's crack Regiment.

The programme followed by the Admiral was crowded with events, and some what took the form of a triumphal procession. At 10 o'clock he was tendered a Civic Reception at the City Hall, following which he gave a brief public address at Massey Hall.

After visiting several points of interest about the city Earl Beatty arrived at the University at 4:30 this afternoon. The distinguished visitor was welcomed by Sir Robert Falconer and leading members of the Faculty and was taken on a brief tour of Hart House.

From the south gallery the commander of the High Seas Fleet addressed a concourse of several thousand undergraduates, some of whom had seen service in the various branches of Naval Work in the North Sea and who vociferously welcomed their late commander.

Greeted by a hearty "Toronto!" Admiral Beatty spoke briefly and to the point. He stated that he felt it an honour to be able to address the students of such an institution as "Varsity," and thanked one and all for the warmth of his welcome which he felt was very real. While his visit was entirely of an unofficial character he felt that he must deal briefly with the question paramount in the mind of our Empire to-day—the results of the Disarmament Conference.

Admiral Beatty said in part: "You have all read in the newspapers what limits are imposed upon the navies of various countries by the Washington conference, and I feel you will understand these limits are not derogatory to the dignity of the great Empire to which we belong."

"That Empire, on the sea, will be as safe in the future as it has been in the past. That is surely something for great congratulations."

JOHN LOWE, B.A., IS NAMED RHODES SCHOLAR

The Popular President of the Students' Administrative Council, John Lowe, B.A., was chosen Rhodes Scholar for the Province of Ontario by the Committee of Selection on Saturday afternoon, according to an announcement made exclusively to the "Varsity."

The choice of the Committee is one that will meet with whole-hearted approval in the student body. The man who entirely fulfils the conditions which Mr. Rhodes, the founder of the fund, expressed, namely, that regard should be paid to literary and scholastic attainments, fondness for and success in outdoor sports, qualities of manhood, moral force of character, and leadership in school and college life.

Coming to Trinity College in '16 with a Wellington Scholarship in Classics and an Edward Blake Scholarship, Mr. Lowe who was born in Calgary, Alta., but who was educated at the St. Catharines Collegiate, gained some very considerable distinction on the playing-field, where he was a member of the College rugby team and a member of records in the high and broad jumps, in the "Lit.," and academic ally, having won the Pettit Scholarship in Classics and the Hart-Morehouse Scholarship in Classics at the end of his first year.

In the fall of 1917, just after the re-opening of College, Mr. Lowe enlisted with the Signallers, with whom he continued to serve until the conclusion of the war, when he returned to Trinity to resume his studies. It is almost unnecessary to chronicle the way in which his previous record has been maintained. He has been a member of the rugby team, captained the basketball team which was the "runner-up" for the Interfaculty Championship last year and on which his play was marked to the extent that this year he was elected Vice-President of the Basketball Association. In the "Lit." Mr. Lowe has been leader of the opposition and president of the Council and he was one of the members of the team which won the Kerr Debating Trophy for Trinity last year. For a time, he represented his college on the Students' Administrative Council, of which he was this year elected president. Mr. Lowe graduated last year with first class honours in Classics and has been taking post graduate work in Philosophy and in Classics, in addition to a course in Divinity at Trinity College.

Mr. Lowe hopes to read "Greats" at Oxford.

The Rhodes Scholarship is probably the highest award which a student may obtain. It was founded by the late Cecil J. Rhodes, the famous South African pioneer. It is of the value of £200 a year and tenable for three years, subject to the approval of the College which the holder enters at Oxford. Mr. Lowe is the second Trinity man, and the ninth University of Toronto man to have won the Scholarship.

OUR GUESTS TO-DAY

On very few occasions has the University of Toronto had the honour of receiving in one day two such distinguished guests as those who are to sit at our table to-day. It is to be our privilege, as a University, to confer a degree on one of the most distinguished soldiers in the British Army, who, in recognition of the signal service which he has rendered to the Empire, has been appointed to his present high office, the highest in the Dominion. But to most of us the recipient of the University's tribute is not primarily the Governor-General of Canada, but the man who did so much to make the Canadian Army Corps, and who led it through some of the hardest and most exacting fighting of the war, the man who, in his later command, led the Third Army to many a victory, and won for it and for himself undying fame and the undying gratitude of the Empire. Those who were with the Canadian Corps, in the days when it was commanded by Sir Julian Byng, appreciate in a measure the personality of its leader, and are extremely glad and proud, not merely that he is now the Representative of the Crown in this Dominion, but that he is to become a Doctor of Laws of our Alma Mater. It has been more truly said of no man that in honouring him the University honours herself.

But that this day may go down in history as one of the reddest of red-letter days in the life of the University of Toronto we are also to enjoy the privilege of welcoming to the University not only one of the greatest sailors of our own time, but one of the outstanding naval leaders in all the annals of the Empire which for centuries has been the first Sea Power in the world. Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty has endeared himself to the people of the British Dominions beyond the seas, as to those of the Mother Country, by the work that he has done for the Empire and for the peace and safety of the world, but, even more than this, by the typically British characteristics of devotion to duty and country, and of human sympathy and interest in the welfare of his men, displayed throughout his long and brilliant career in the service of the King in the Royal Navy.

We are always glad and proud to welcome the great leaders of either service to the University, but we are peculiarly glad and proud when they are such men as our guests of to-day.

THE MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

The Modern Language Club of U.C., in its present form, has been of late the subject of much criticism and the cause of some dissatisfaction. It has been the custom at this Club's meetings to have short papers read by members of the staff in modern languages. Refreshments are then served, and the remainder of the evening is spent in dancing. As a result, the Modern Language Club has become primarily a social gathering, and for that reason many who take little or no interest in modern languages attend these meetings. Many of the faculty do not care to associate themselves with the Club as it now is, and some of its executive feel that the time has come for a change. It has been proposed that dancing be eliminated at the meetings of the Modern Language Club, and that its membership be restricted to those who are really interested in modern languages. Papers will be read as before by members of the faculty, and also by undergraduates. Other members of the executive feel that membership ought not to be limited to students of modern languages. There may be other students who would like to have a nodding acquaintance at least with modern literary productions of other countries, and who believe that the Modern Language Club will favour them with an introduction to these books. A reorganization meeting of the Club will be held on Thursday, when an opportunity will be given to all interested to express their opinions.

CONGRATULATIONS

We wish to extend our hearty congratulations to Harry Hobbs, who has been elected to the position of Captain of the Varsity Senior Rugby Team. It is hard to say which is the Premier Athletic Honour in the University, but it most certainly is a choice between the torch captaincy of the Hockey Team.

Good luck to you, Harry. We feel sure that the future of our magnificent team is safe in the hands of Dr. Maynard and yourself and in taking over this position from Gord. Duncan, who has acquitted himself so creditably in the past, we know that you are certain of the support of Blue and White undergrads and countless alumni.

MY LIFE

This Burke's Irish rhapsody will, I flatter myself, do the trick. I decided that the tales of the harp—I mean jury—are sufficiently unattractive to appreciate my eulogy of their pulchritude.

Here then is my sole true and authorized biography, my veritable "felo de se." All others are NOT the genuine aspirin. I am writing it cold in wind and limb, and as sober as I ever again expect to be, in solemn consciousness that I must shortly face my Publisher, very shortly and very short, in fact, so short that I have spoken at times of my wife and five children. I have spoken seldom even of my wife.

—presumably the sole wife and ten children. I have referred in other passages to the twenty little mouths that look to me for bread. If the children are purely apocryphal. As Professor of Political Economy I claim the benefit of Clergy for my statistics. These waves are, to put it bluntly, in my eyes. Any one who is neither a Pluralist nor a Communist, I reprobate them. Again, shallow critics on the ground of evidence have taken me to have jumped to the rash conclusion that I occasionally take a drink. How grossly they are wrong! "Sub finem" where I shall rest the secret of my life.

To begin with, I was born somewhere and some time. I have no personal recollection of it myself, but, hang it all, one must have faith, one must have vision to find together this contradictory world of reality. Let scientific determinism accuse me, let will of superstition, or even of "lucis a non lucendo." I have a vision of myself being born. That is sufficient in my eyes to establish the fact.

Over the events of my early childhood, I will draw a veil. They need it. Of my precocity I will say only this, that my father considered me at the age of ten an absolute idiot. The dear old man lived to see his diagnosis confirmed, and to share with tears of joy a part, a very small part, of my monetary success with the public. Of my adolescence I only remark that I was considered by a great grandmother of mine to have had both eyes to be an extremely beautiful youth. You would hardly believe it if you could see me now. Other times, other events and other measurements.

I shall never forget my first love affair, "Mimium to amary," as John Wesley has it. It was a terrible case of infatuation. I seemed to be hooked for time and eternity, principally Eternity. In spite of the entreaties of my friends, in spite of the heat of my own reason, I clung passionately to the object of my infatuation. Flushing to the four corners of a straight flush cost me $1.66 in coin of the realm about 1846 for $1.39, which I have never yet redeemed. This was my first warning of that hereditary frenzy which ended in first infatuation.

At the age of eighteen, I realized the marvellous opportunities of my splendid material civilization. I went into a bank at the monthly wage of $2.50 payable monthly. I would now be a General Manager and would long ago have cleaned up millions in Wall Street with the bank's money—these kind of millions certainly do not exist, mine had it not been for the hand of Fate, the finger of Destiny and the brutal toe of Dismissal. No one knows but I, I resent this constant intrusion of Destiny in my domestic affairs.

I was short two cents one year end in my salary and my bank account, and I was unanimously given the choice of capital punishment or exile. The President's name was—well, any name will do. Needless to say, I chose exile. I went to New York. Why New York? Why not South Bend, or Topka, Kan., or Bangor, Me.? Surely, reader, you are not so obtuse as to have failed to realize with what marvellous genius I incarnate the average American mentality. I went to New York because everybody was doing it and being done by it.

There I found salvation. There I first saw light or rather darkness. There I first met Bosh, the great Bosh, the only Bosh, the unrivalled Central African philosopher whose system is bound sooner or later to revolutionize all human thought, in fact, to dispense with it entirely.

He had come to America on a little matter of copyright. He found that the entire populace had stolen or rather plagiarized his discoveries. Bosh, in a spurious and degraded form, was being openly peddled everywhere. He could get no redress. He had been in his youth "chef d'orchestre" to the most polyphonic monarch Dabney ever knew. So he entered a jazz band. But his delicate Mozartian "Zanzibarian" "duces" were too subtle for the neo-barbarians of Broadway. They fired him not for making enough noise.

He was starving when I met him. He asked me for bread and I gave him a plugged quarter. Tears of gratitude welled in his eyes. "Young man," he sobbed, "I shall never forget this."

He spoke the truth. He never did get rid of it. "I must make you some return," he went on. Personally, I never could understand some people's mad impulse to pay their debts.

"I will give you my system. I will make you my American agent. I will initiate you into the mysteries of Bosh, including its sub-varieties of Bunk, Palle and Twaddle. First of all you must grasp firmly the primary principle of my comic philosophy. ALL, ALL IS BOSH."

"What?" said I. "All?" "Yes," he replied solemnly and sadly, "ALL, every bit of it."

I thanked him. It was the first time in my life that I had ever given thanks and meant it. I saw in a flash the clue to all the riddles of the universe, including Chief Justice Riddell. I had now the key to occult literature and could converse at ease, in astral gogoo, with the illiterate dregs. In a word I twigged that the whole odyssey of coin in it.

"But, master," I expostulated timidly, "there is Bosh everywhere." He retorted savagely, "Bosh! Do you call the ordinary magazine stuff Bosh! Give them the real thing. You can do it. As a starter take to Political Economy."

I took to it. Likewise it took to me. I found it the royal road to Bosh, the A.B.C. of Bosh, Bosh in its simplest and most easily digested form. It gave me my first glimmerings of the Larger Luna v. It was the first lap in my Literary Lapses. It was my first stumble behind the beyond.

I kept up a correspondence with Bosh after his return to Africa. He sent me his manuscripts in the original Bunkum. By some kind of intuitive knowledge I was able to read them at sight. With this unique access to the original sources, I easily out-distanced all competitors and became the foremost exponent of Bosh on the North American continent. Bosh and Political Economy. Political Economy and Bosh! The two will be found tattooed on my heart when the surgeons dissect me.

No, never shall I forget Bosh, the source of all my prosperity. Since our first fateful meeting, many another plugged quarter has I shipped to Foreign Missions, in the hope that, in the shape of a bottle of trade rum, they might somehow find their way to that venerable and sublime spirit, in his peaceful hermitage on the shores of tranquil Lake Tanganyika, or under some spreading Bunkum tree on the banks of the Upper Congo.

This is a most momentous literary confession. It is the TRUTH. Let me recapitulate it.

Bernard Shaw has said, "To those who know, it has long been apparent that my plays are all Dickens." Personally I would say that they are much worse than that. Anyway, in my turn I declare that by this time it is now obvious, even to Professors of English Literature, that my works are all Bosh, with a dash of Bunk and a faint trickle of Palle. But never, my Twaddle! No, thank Heaven, with all my sins I have never descended to Twaddle. I leave that to—No, I'll be hanged if I will. If there is any money in Twaddle, I, the sole literary executor of Bosh, have as much right to it as any body.

Did the tragic secret I promised earlier to reveal.

I am a PROHIBITIONIST. Not the ordinary kind of Prohibitionist who prohibits himself from truck or trade or intercourse with—prohibitionists.

Confound this Prohibition, anyway. It is a better life of Bosh than anything I have done myself. People are beginning to realize it. My sales are falling off.

In a book store, only the other day, I heard a customer ask for the funniest thing in stock.

Did the clerk recommend "Frenzied Fiction," as Stephen Leacock? He did not.

He handed out "Bone Dry America," by the Rev. Mr. Fuller Than Ever.

No wonder that I'm a Prohibitionist with a difference—a very considerable difference in my income!

STUDENT RELIEF

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,

To the majority of students the controversy about European Student Relief has failed to bring conviction on either side. The drift of the correspondence towards personalities has not helped.

To those who thoroughly approve the motives of Christian generosity and self-denial behind this movement, but are not convinced of their responsibility to help supply books, board, and lodging to the students of Central Europe, would suggest an alternative.

Eastern Russia is faced with an appalling famine. There has been complete failure of the crops in the middle and lower basin of the Volga. Thirty-five million people are faced with starvation this winter, of which number ten million are children. The "Save the Children Fund" of London, England, has undertaken to feed 150,000 children in the province of Saratov, and is urgently appealing for money in the Old Country papers. Dr. Nansen, the Arctic explorer and former Norwegian Ambassador in London, is in charge of the relief administration, and gives his unconditional guarantee that the food will not be diverted from the children for whom it is intended.

Subscriptions may be sent to Lord Weardale, chairman "Save the Children Fund," 26 Golden Square, Regent St., London, W1. One shilling a week covers all expenses for feeding a child.

There can be no debate as to the urgency of this need. It is worse than poverty. It is famine!

I am, Sir,

Yours, etc.,

R. B. Y. SCOTT,

DENTS THIRD ATTEMPT BRINGS HOME THE BACON

After a Tie and a Protested Game Dents Move up to Finals

In the replay of Monday's game Dents emerged the victors by the score of 1-0. It was a strenuous contest between two equally matched teams. In the first game that School and Dents have played there has been practically no noticeable superiority either way. However, in this game the superior combination displayed by Dents was the deciding feature. School had as much of the play as Dents, but their combination worked down when they were at the goal.

The game started off with a rush and it was not until play all the line. First one goal was threatened and then the other. Twice in the first period Dents put the ball just over the cross-bar, and Griffin, the Dents' goalie, was also called upon to save. At half-time the score was still 0-0.

As soon as the ball was put in play Dents at once whirled attack, and two minutes after Leary had made a beautiful pass to the goal mouth. Robinson was ready for it and headed the sphere into the net. For the next ten minutes School pressed hard and had several shots, but Griffin was equal to the occasion, throwing the ball out of danger on several occasions. The last part of the second half saw Dents pressing again. One Lynamid got through, but the School goalie ran out and made a good stop. Then School got their last chance on a free kick, but Griffin again scored. The game ended with Dents in lead 1-0.

For Dents the best man on the field was Jack Langley. Weir and Leary also played well. Red Wingfield, Campbell, Cook and Dunbar were the best for School. The referee, Mr. Weston, of the U.C.D., gave universal satisfaction. There was no quibbling over his decisions.

Dents—Goal, Griffin; full backs, Langley, Grembach; halves, Weir (Capt.), Doidge, Honey; forwards, Leary, D. Crich, Robinson, Langman, Rowland.
(S.P.S.—Goal, Brown; full backs, Lucas (Capt.), Campbell; halves, Dents, Moshov Cook; forwards, Wingfield, McLellan, Scott, Leary, D. Dhar.

U.C. GIRLS DEFEAT C. of E. BASKETEERS

A most interesting and exciting basketball game took place at Lillian Massey gym, on Friday evening between University College and College of Education. The play was quite even in the first half, first one side ahead and then the other. In the middle of the second period the referee called a three minute rest, as a number of the players were almost exhausted. When the game was resumed, U.C. took the lead and held it until the final whistle, winning by a score of 34 to 20. Considering that the College of Education team had only played together once or twice before, they made a splendid showing and deserve great credit.

Previous to this match the Medical women easily defeated Victoria in a well-played contest.

The next schedule game will be between Meds and U.C. at an early date.

RUGBY CLUB ELECTS CAPTAIN

Harry Hobbs of Dentistry is the Unanimous Choice

At a meeting of the electors of the Club on Friday afternoon, Harry Hobbs, Varsity's star quarter and half back, was nominated for the position of captain by Keith Carruthers, the captain of the Blue and White Track Team, and unanimously elected.

Harry is well known in Rugby circles in Toronto, having been captain of the T.R. and A.A. previous to his enrolment at Varsity in the fall of 1919. Before proceeding overseas with the 3rd Battalion Canadian Field Artillery, with whom he served for sixteen months in France, Harry was a member of the Harbord Collegiate Rugby and Track Teams. He is enrolled in the class of 213 at the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

After long years of deep thought on the matter the conclusion has been reached that a movie is a long kiss preceded by a plot. DAILY CARDINAL.

WITH BILL AND CONNIE!

Connie and his flashing Hockey Senior team Wednesday night at the local ice factory. Did you ever see our coming stars perform? Here's your chance right now. The speedy youngsters lifted the S.P.A. Junior trophy last season and are defending it in the first game against Aura Lee Juniors. Under Connie's capable hand they should make things mighty interesting for a bunch of Junior teams in this neck of the woods during the coming winter. Better get out and see low blockers' faces made.

Now after this try at you will have the opportunity of seeing the finished product, or in other words our Senior consolation, stack up against the winners of the Aura Lee-Granite game in the first of Varsity's Senior S.P.A. games. This is coming off on December 10. Bill Dafe is running the gang just as efficiently as he did last year and nobody is going to stop them. It certainly is fortunate that the season ticket situation is so tight, but the S.P.A. is more or less free from it and it is the great chance of a lifetime to see the Allan Cup Champions perform.

These intermediates are a lucky crowd! They will be able to benefit by a whole season's practice with our big guns, and what they won't learn from them won't be worth learning. Then next season when the Seniors begin to drift off into the cruel world and leave gaps in their ranks, up come the wise intermediates to hang on to the old Dominion trophy. In the meantime they spend their time getting the benefit of Bill's invaluable coaching and should bring home the odd mug. Keep it up intermediates, you're going fine!

INTERMEDIATES WIN IN GAME AGAINST CHALMERS

Weight and Condition Deciding Factors — Juniors Defeat Broadview

In the second game of their series at Hart House on Wednesday night the Intermediate Basketeers in defeated Chalmers by the score of 42-13.

The game was fairly closely contested in the first half, but in the second the superior weight and condition of the Varsity squad began to tell on the visitors. Unfortunately, too, the game became scrappy in spots. The Varsity team is constituted of a number of players who play their individual positions well and with a little real team work ought to win out in their group.

The line up — Forwards, Smith, Dutton, centre, Jennings; defense, Brewer, Shields; subs, Fraser and Brad.
Chalmers — Forwards, G. McCammon, C. McCammon; centre, Reid; defense, Jacques, Farrell; subs, Cole and Powell. The Varsity Juniors defeated Broadview in a preliminary feature.

SCHOOL STILL LEADS IN INTERFACULTY POLO

Defeats Victoria 8-0, in Fast Exhibition of Aquatic Sport

School was returned winner in the Water polo game against Victoria. The game was fast and the latter team won, but the score should not have been so large. S.P.S. had the backs and were lucky to pass the Vic goal keeper as often as they did.

Final score, S.P.S. 8; Vic. 0.
Teams — S.P.S.—Bell, Harston, Booth, Kepler, Schinben, Fitzgibbon, Wells, Condon.
Vic.—Dovee, Kirby, Howell, Williams, Webster, Wood, Stewart, Morris.
Referee—W. Winterburn. Judge—F. Waldron.

Tomorrow afternoon U.C. will meet Dents. These teams are now to be second place in the series and the game should be well worth seeing.

STANDING OF TEAMS

HART HOUSE ATHLETIC OFFICE
The Athletic Directorate is still in doubt as to the physical training requirement of "open stars" and men who have made changes in their courses. All those who are dubious as to whether they are under compulsion to take P.T. are advised to get in touch with the Registrar. An understanding will be reached at an early date, however, and the ruling will be published as soon as possible.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING CLUB

At five p.m. on Thursday December 1, in lecture room at Household Science Building there will be a mass meeting of the Women's Swimming Club to elect Swimming manager, and to discuss activities for the coming year. Big turn out is requested from all the colleges and faculties.

PITY THE POOR ATHLETIC STARR!

To you, Mr. Average Undergraduate, this expression savours of the ridiculous. Why should that bright luminary who shines resplendent on the gridiron or the hockey sheet be pined "Of course," you say "he has in 'plag' hard at his studies when the Rugby or Hockey Season is over, and thereby deserves our sympathy."

True enough, he does, but then he expected that when he went in for athletics.

What he does not expect, nor want, is the worry and trouble that you, his ardent admirer, his loyal fan, bring to him.

For every game in which he participates he has the privilege of buying a certain number of tickets and that is when his worries start.

For every ticket he has a dozen friends who want to see that game and they believe in asking for what they want. Little slips of paper are handed to him bearing cryptic letters and figures, telephone numbers which he is to call up at it he can "corral" a ticket. And in desperation our star athlete hides himself at last to the training room where he can rave and tear his hair in solitude.

Of course, you get the ticket — you're his best friend and he probably is indebted to you for covering some lecture for him or copying some notes. But don't be a parasitical friend. Don't fall into the class of whom Kipling has said:

"Nine hundred and ninety-nine of you call
For silver or gold in their dealings
But he
"Like the thousandth man who is worth them all, Because you can show him your feelings."

THE RHODES SCHOLAR

Once again the most coveted honour that a student of a Canadian University can gain has fallen to a Toronto man. It is rather remarkable that the University of Toronto seems to receive a very large share of these honours, but it is no more than right. In a university such as this, it is almost inevitable that it should demonstrate its ability and the qualities required as qualifications for the Rhodes scholarship. The choice of John Lowe, B.A., of Ontario's Rhodes Scholar for 1922 has been hailed with great approval by the whole personnel of the University. Mr. Lowe's record is really a credit to the conditions imposed. He is a scholar, having earned many honours during his undergraduate course, he is a sportsman, but more than either of these, he is a man of great personal worth. His powers of leadership have been abundantly demonstrated in the manner in which he has discharged his duties as President of the Students Administrative Council. That his sterling character has been recognized by his fellow-students is shown by his election to numerous offices in almost every sphere of activity in this College.

The Rhodes Scholar must be not merely a student, an athlete, an able leader, and a popular man, but must also evince a high moral fibre of character. Those of us who know Mr. Lowe cannot but feel that the choice of the Committee was eminently wise. He is undoubtedly a real Christian gentleman. Of course we congratulate him, but we also congratulate the University of Toronto, not only on receiving this honour, but also on producing such a man as John Lowe.

THE S.A.C. AND THE COLLEGE SOCIETIES

The statement has often been made that the relation between the Students Administrative Council and the governing societies in the various colleges and faculties is the same as that between the Dominion and Provincial Parliaments. While this is in a measure true it is rather an exaggerated statement since the governments of Dominion and Province have their own definitely drawn and distinct fields of operations. Each has certain departments, each certain powers, and whenever one requires to operate within the sphere of authority of the other some process of bargaining has to be gone through as a preliminary. This has been successfully done in certain matters of educational work which is really the affair of the provincial government) in which the Dominion House took action affecting the whole country. This was made possible, of course, by the more or less clear definition of the powers and duties of the respective Houses.

It is in just this respect that the analogy between Canada and the University fails. Our position is quite different from that in which the governments stand. Here we see the college societies often carrying on the same kind of work as the Council, but on a smaller scale. The rights, powers, and duties of the Council and the college societies are not so defined as those of governments, and it is not a rare thing to find a conflict of interests and plans.

It is inconceivable that the Students Administrative Council should be given power to legislate in the domestic affairs of any college, but it seems possible that some arrangement could be made whereby the clash between the interests of University and College might be obviated. Last year's decision of the Council in favour of uniform action in the disciplining of freshmen shows the need of and the desire for some co-ordination of the various governing bodies. It only remains for some aggressive undergraduate statesman to take the initial step.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

It is true that at present the facilities in this University for women's sports and gymnasium activities are not what they might be. Neither physical training nor medical examination are compulsory. Gymnasium work should be included in our curriculum and classes could then be arranged for the morning and not the late afternoon when one is tired. A new gymnasium would be needed to accommodate the larger classes and also new equipment. Yet these obvious disabilities should be no excuse for the women neglecting to make use of the advantages offered under the present system to the fullest. Classes are now in training under Miss Coventry and there is room for more names on the roll and for more people on the floor. Every one needs exercise; it is Dr. Gordon's opinion that the women are inclined to take too little. Exercise is necessary for good health—it helps abolish doctor bills. Earlier in the season tennis was the popular form of exercise. Now we have our choice of gymnastics, basketball and swimming. Walking and dancing are always with us as exercise and amusement. The Lillian Massey tank is a splendid task. More women should make use of it. It is only when we use our present privileges to the utmost that we can hope for greater ones.

It would seem that it is left for a few women—those on our splendid teams—to uphold U. of T. in women's sport. If you cannot be on a team you can at least be interested. Get in somewhere. It is splendid training, physically and mentally. There is a sad lack of rooters and supporters at the games. Get behind your team—it needs your support.

Correspondence

Dear "Mr. Editor,"

There are three classes of criminals in the world, says a noted criminologist and classifies them as follows:
1. Incorrigible criminals, who should receive severe punishment and who, to protect society should be imprisoned.
2. Mental deficients and those suffering from mental aberration who should be treated as such.

3. Those who make a mistake. This section comprises the per cent. of the so-called criminal class. These should have been educated to discriminate between right and wrong and should be treated as deficients. This means their punishment should be short and sharp and following such a punishment they should be shown by some helpful aid, to the matter's closed.

In Germany these classes exist. There is, however, an entirely distinct and non-criminal class.

I like it that those of the militarist group belong to class one and should be treated accordingly. The followers of Bernhardi belong to the mental aberration and, unfortunately, we cannot put them in asylums. The third class is a large one. It comprises those who by cunning propaganda and education were led into the war. They have not and still are being punished and none see the error of their ways. Now is the time to encourage their future leaders, who may be able to give them hope of a better future.

To the fourth class, the students of today largely belong, they were dragged into the war again, their will and have suffered greatly as a result of it.

Here men their credit, see that if the future is to hold in store anything in the way of peace, they must attempt to influence the other three classes. This class and the others have a difficult task ahead of them. To insure their success and our future tranquility, the far-sighted class should do their best.

However, the question of European Relief is not by any means a question of German assistance alone, for only a small percentage of our funds goes to that end. The movement involves far larger questions.

The case of Poland, which, until the Spring of this year 1921, has been a constant topic of discussion in the rest of the world. She indeed, has been a victim of the League of Nations since 1914. By so doing she has preserved our safety and our gratitude to our students who have material gifts in seeking plenty, should make our gratitude actual. To send her money which will help towards the completion of the education of her students seems the most acceptable way from a Canadian student's standpoint. Poland and other new nations are in great need of trained men to fill the many vacancies of a new democratic government.

If Canadian students can see the issue and respond, then a bond of friendship will be formed between our public men of to-morrow and ours. Such a spirit of internationalism and co-operation, the basis for peace, is only in such an atmosphere can the much desired League of Nations function.

The fact that 26 countries, including England and France, are to help us materially this movement, is indeed, significant.

Lord Byng says we have a responsibility in this movement. I believe we have a great responsibility in the movement of European Relief that should immediately be reconsidered.

William H. B. Barber, '23

MERE MEN MASTER

family, or get married at a later age than girls. Another forcible argument was that the employment of women encouraged the invention and use of labor-saving and safety devices, which would greatly assist industry. Mr. Jaspersen delivered his speech in a very straight forward and forcible style.

Miss Doran replied by saying that Mr. Jaspersen was wrong in saying that the majority of working men and women were subsisting on their family, but said they were supporting themselves. A girl of sixteen, say, is employed in an office, and after four or five years embarks upon married life, and leaves, whereas a man would remain and do of greater value.

The employment of women, she said, cause an employer additional expense in lunch rooms, rest rooms, and so on, and therefore should receive less pay. The speaker forcibly explained that for generations women have been trained not to support themselves, whereas men have and were therefore more capable at it.

In certain states women are not allowed to work longer than certain hours, whereas men can work twenty-four hours a day, so, therefore it is not natural that men should receive greater wages. The fact that a college girl's expenses vary inversely with her degree of popularity, whereas a man's vary directly, means that men must have more wages, having greater expenses. Miss Doran's speech was very well delivered, and very interesting, being enjoyed by all.

The next speaker was Mr. Chrysler. He said that when an employer furnished a lunch room it would repay him in the end, as it made the employees more efficient. The hours Miss Doran mentioned as being those in which women were allowed to work were declared to be longer than those in which any man worked.

In regard to the previous speaker's statement that men's expenses were greater than women's, he drew attention to the disparity in prices of clothes of the different sexes. Hats, $50 to $600!

This is the age of specialization and should not women specialize in that to which they are suited and receive pay, on a level with men specialists in their lines? The ordinary task requires as much if not more, effort by a woman than by a man, hence she should receive the same wages. As it is essential to economic stability to sell goods as low as possible, if men are paid more than women, they will be laid off, in preference to the cheaper woman labour, and thus a great unemployment of men will result. Unemployment of men, the speaker explained, is worse than unemployment of women, as the latter are not naturally bread-winners. Mr. Chrysler gave his speech in a very enjoyable style and was well appreciated.

PROFESSIONAL ETHICS IMPROVE JOURNALISM

"With the development of schools of journalism, training for newspaper work is passing out of the apprenticeship method of the trades into the college method of the other professions like law, medicine and engineering," said Professor Willard C. Bleyer, director of Journalism at the University of Wisconsin and president of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, in addressing the students of the Midland School of Journalism at Chicago.

"Just as with the development of professional training for law and medicine the state has gone up higher and higher standards for the practice of these professions, it is not unlikely that, because of the importance of newspapers in shaping public opinion, definite requirements will be established for admission to the profession of journalism," he continued.

"The success of our democratic form of government depends on sound public opinion, which is the composite of individual private opinions largely if not entirely on the basis of the news that they read in the newspapers."

"It is even more important to the state that the newspaper men and women who compose the news be well informed and well trained for their work, than that lawyers and doctors be qualified to practice their professions."

"The profession of journalism suffers to-day from the lack of a strong national organization of newspaper writers and editors, comparable to the American Bar Association and the American Medical Association."

"Such an organization with state and local branches, like the state and county bar and medical societies, could be of great service in establishing standards for the profession of journalism, similar to the criteria of ethics of the medical and legal professions."

C. O. T. C.

Orders 21 to 23.

Contingent Orders by Colonel W. R. Long, Commanding U. of T. C. O. T. C. 18, College Street, November 28, 1921.

21. Attachment. Authority has been granted for the attachment of the Contingent for duty of Lieut. N. P. Kirkwood, Can. Air Force (W.E.P.), as from 1st October, 1921.

22. Posting. We who have material gifts in seeking plenty, should make our gratitude actual. To send her money which will help towards the completion of the education of her students seems the most acceptable way from a Canadian student's standpoint. Poland and other new nations are in great need of trained men to fill the many vacancies of a new democratic government.

23. Promotion. The Commanding Officer is pleased to make the following promotion. No. 4027 Cadet C. R. Davis, to be Sergeant in "C" Company.

H. H. MADILL, Major, Adj. U. of T. C. O. T. C.

Miss Macdonald was the next speaker. She began by saying that the importance of her cause had not so much to do with home to her, that she would be intensely serious. Even if a woman does so the same work as a man, there are certain reasons, she said, that she should not receive equal pay.

Justice to the individual is secondary to justice to the whole, and equal pay for equal work, while attractive to individuals, causes detriment to the nation, for the following reason: Women, when receiving the same pay as men, will be attracted to industry and cause an over supply of labor and hence many men and women will be unemployed. Equal pay for equal work will, furthermore, draw many women away from the home, where they belong. Race suicide would result, she claimed. Women, although with excellent capacities for politics, should leave it to men, with their inferior qualifications, as women are absolutely essential to the home. Miss Macdonald's speech was in a very high vein throughout and very well delivered.

In reply to this, Mr. Jaspersen censured the last speaker for her too philosophical and theoretical view. He also accused her of inconsistent statements. He said that she was wrong in saying that the number of women attracted to industry would cause unemployment but, he contended, it would cause a better state of the home, by increasing the income.

He critic Mr. Macdonald, made a few mild criticisms, and then, while waiting for the decision, different people got up and gave their opinions on certain phases of the subject.

The judges then announced, to the joy and sorrow of every man in U.C., that the men were victorious—too bad, they were fighting for the women. The decision was declared to be unanimous, but by a small majority.

Our Two-Horn Dilemma

We're in a dilemma—a two-horned one—it is this:

In the first place we want everyone, old or young, rich or poor, to feel just as free to come in at all times and wander around the Ryrie Store as to look into our store windows.

To encourage them to do so we instruct our staff not to worry visitors with undue attentions, but to let them feel perfectly at home.

The other day, however, we were sorry to find one lady who thought this was due to indifference on our part. Never was a greater mistake made.

We know everyone is "at sea" just now as to "what to give for Christmas," and nothing is more likely to help you than to let you just wander around and ask questions about our silver, our diamonds, our china, our novelties, etc.

We invite you most cordially to do this, and if any attention is desired just make it known and our people will "fall over themselves" to render you quick and cheerful service—that's just what we're here for.

VARSITY JUNIOR HOCKEY TEAM DEFENDS S.P.A. CUP AGAINST AURA LEE

SCHOOL WINS SOCCER

Soccer Executive Decision Overruled

The Athletic Directorate has seen fit to exercise its authority and has overruled the decision of the Soccer Executive concerning the protested semi-final game between S.P.S. and Dents. Therefore the score of the game stands 2 goals to 1 in favour of School, who will now meet O.A.C. in the final game for the Championship. As a protest against this decision of the Directorate, the President and the Secretary of the Soccer Club have filed their resignations and the remaining members of the Executive, Messrs. Wingfield, Johnstone and Underhill are requested to confer with Mr. T. A. Reed at the Athletic Association's office in Hart House at 5 p.m. this afternoon to make plans regarding the future work of the Soccer Club.

DENTS MOVE TO SECOND PLACE IN WATER POLO

Dents won from U.C. in hard fought, their rough game by 5-3, move into second place.

Both teams were off color, but U.C. were most decidedly off in their shooting and this was the cause of their defeat. The goalies put up splendid games and kept the score from assuming double figures.

The first two goals by Woods were very pretty bits of work. Then Reilly scored a rather fluky one. This ended the score for the first half.

Play even. U.C. weak in shooting. Woods scored another which was rather lucky, to start the third quarter. Waldron notched a pretty goal for U.C.'s first score.

By moving Waldron to the forward line U.C. became much more aggressive. Woods scored again and with new spirit in U.C. Waldron scored two very nifty goals and missed another by inches. The game ended with U.C. pressing.

Final score, Dents 5, U.C. 3.

JUNIOR ASSAULT-AT-ARMS

The Junior Assault-at-Arms will be held in Hart House Wednesday and Thursday, December 7 and 8.

Any man is eligible who has not won a final event in the Junior or Senior Inter-faculty of Intercollegiate in the sport in which he desires to compete.

All men wishing to compete should hand in their names at once at the office of the Secretary of Athletic Association, Hart House.

HOCKEY NOTICE

The following will turn out for practice at 12:30 Thursday:
Burrows, Davies, Dales, Cowan, J. L. Johnson, G. F. Evans, Brule, Campbell, Fisher, Curry, Drummond, Maus, B. Johnson, Webster, Bestty.
Senior practices at 10 o'clock Thursday.

OARSMEN START WORK

The U. of T. Rowing Club officially opened their season on Monday night in Hart House at 6 o'clock. About 20 or 30 new recruits were shown the first principles of rowing besides the men who rowed last year.

But there are still some men who don't like to show up. A common excuse was "I have never been on a machine before," but when they sat down and worked under the direction of Coach Prof. London and his helpers they accomplished quite as much as the next man. So don't be backward about coming out. You must start early if you want to row and everyone is given every opportunity of becoming an oarsman if he will turn out.

Rowing practices will be every Monday and Thursday at five o'clock. Come along and don't be afraid to show yourself, but get your gym. U.C. on you don't need much and have a work out.

There will be a meeting of the Executive of the Rowing Club on Friday, December 2, at 5:15 p.m. in the Graduate's Common Room, Hart House. Member of the Executive please accept this notice.

ROWING PRACTICE HOURS

Until further notice the hours for practice will be Mondays and Thursdays from 5:15 p.m. until 6 p.m.

MED GIRLS WIN GROUP

Monday night's basketball game between S. Michaels' and Meds resulted in a distinct victory for Meds with a score 42-16. The game was open and fast. It might be mentioned that the Meds centre simply passed the ball to Dorothy Trapp to score. Blacky St. Mike's have played good basketball, this being their first year in the league, and have shown steady improvement. Meds are now the winners of the Meds-Vic-St. Mike's Group and will play off with U.C. for the Inter-faculty Championship.

SWIMMING MEET

FRIDAY, DEC. 2

Managers of the various Faculty Swimming Teams are reminded that all entries for the Inter-faculty Swimming meet must be handed in to Mr. Winterburne or to the Secretary of the Club not later than Friday, December 2. The entry list for the various events is already large. Teams from the following colleges and faculties will compete for the FitzGerald trophy: S.P.S., Meds, Dents, U.C., Victoria, O.A.C. and Forestry. O.A.C. is sending down a strong team and all indications point to close competition in every event when the teams meet in Hart House on Friday, December 5.

Onside With Bill And Connie!

At 8:30 to-night our Junior puck-chasers will open the local hockey season. In defending the S.P.A. Junior Trophy against Aura Lee they will be meeting one of the best junior teams in Canada. Not content with the cream of last year's team Coach Marsden has unearthed enough new material to put two good teams on the ice. He has already brought a chance to shine the silverware and his only worry is who to place on his line-up. Well he had better worry. In the past the great deeds of our Senior Team have occupied so much of our attention that the Juniors have been neglected a little. With this in mind more time has been devoted to the Juniors and with thorough coaching they have developed fast. The exams are so far away you can't see them so be there at 8:30 to give the Juniors a good send-off on a successful season.

JUNIOR U.C. BASEBALL

The regular practice will be held to-day at 11 a.m. The team for Thursday's game with Victoria will be chosen from those at practice.

ROOTERS WANTED

Whether you are deaf, dumb, blind, or insane, you are needed! Thursday, 4 p.m. Lower Gymnasium, Hart House.

Boxers, Wrestlers and Fencers. Get into good training for the Inter-faculty in February.

Boxing—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday at 5 p.m.

Wrestling—Monday, Wednesday, Friday 5 p.m.

Fencing—Tuesday and Thursday at 5 p.m.

S.P.S., Meds and Dents are already working hard. U.C. show a little life.

NEW RULES ISSUED RE LILLIAN MASSEY TANK

There has been a great deal of needless difficulty concerning people using the Lillian Massey tank who have no right to do so.

In future, no one may enter the tank without signing the attendance lists posted on the notice board near the swimming pool.

Strict watch is going to be kept over this list and girls are warned that swimming officials will feel free to come at any time and question every person in the tank.

The Athletic Fee of $1.00 must be paid in at the Bursar's Office before December 10th, after which date Athletic receipts will be required to be shown before any one may enter the tank.

Every one is asked to make the best use of the tank by using it only when she has a right and by aiding the officials in every way possible.

ARTS BANQUET

The annual Arts Banquet will be held in the College Dining Hall on Wednesday evening, November 10. Day students are especially requested to reserve this date.

The Hart House Sketch Club will visit the Grand Thursday evening, December 1, at 8:15 to view the Royal Academy Exhibition. All gentlemen are cordially invited.

WYCLIFFE HARRIERS HOLD MEET

The Annual Cross-country run after being twice postponed on account of the weather was held over the Inter-faculty Harrier Course at 3:30, Friday, November 26th. On Monday evening, the prizes were presented by Dr. O'Brien and the cake by Mrs. O'Meara as follows:
L. A. Pocock received the new cap and shield for first place; Atkinson, the silver medal for second place. Cakes were received by R. H. Perry, Alexander, Garrett, Bell, K. H. Perry, Jenkins. Miss Rogers presented her cake to Kobayashi.

BILLIARD PLAYERS PLAY YOUR GAMES!

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

The draw is already out for the first round of the Billiard Tournament and there are several who have not yet put in an appearance to play. If the following men are not on hand by Wednesday night their games will be lost by default:

Whicker
Armstrong
Leguay
Robinson

CNIEE UNIVERSITY CALENDAR

When I first by me this mystic page was seen,
An I when I read them in my Freshie day,
I used to grasp my tortured brow and say:

"Whatever do these cryptic writings mean?"
But now no more a Freshie small and green

I live such useless ponderings away;
For those who read these ever go astray,
And no one in thy pages light hath seen.

Poor souls who strive in these some help to find,
To and then through four years of mental pain,
Or seek some knowledge of their work to gain.

Stray like lost sheep, and cry with doleful bleat,
Like those who went to death in pathways blind
Within the gloomy labyrinth of Crete.

TORONTONENSIS, 1922

Class Executives and Representative Student Societies of the University, who wish to reserve space in Torontonensis, 1922, are reminded that the time limit for such reservations expires on Thursday, December 1.

If reservation has not yet been made, immediate action should be taken.

The value of Torontonensis, not so apparent in the present, is enhanced with the passage of years. If those who follow are to read and see the record of the achievements of the year groups of the present, those records must be embodied in Torontonensis. Delay on the part of representatives may defeat this purpose and aim of Torontonensis—to be a comprehensive record of student activity.

FRESHMAN PLAYS FRANK ON LIVINGSTON DORMITORY

While the men on the third floor of Livingston Hall spent the other night an ingenious Freshman got out a current magazine and clipped from it several catchy phrases. To these slips of paper he applied a bit of paste, and then stuck them on the door-nick in his room.

Next morning when the sleepers awoke they read on the portals a number of humorous titles, among others, "The Master of Man," "A Brute for Punishment," "Queen of the Contented Cows," and "The King." One dormite found under his card of welcome the invitation "Come and Bring a Friend."

MEDS AT-HOME GALA EVENT FOR ALL VARSITY

Different faculties are noted for different things—School boats of its Annual Dinner, Arts has its much-heralded Ball, and Meds stake their place in the Daffodil Night. This year the Medical Society is making every effort to elevate another long-established institution to rank with the major social events of the University—the Medical At Home. For some time past the Meds have been building up a rather enviable reputation for staging informal year dances which have been the equal of many more widely advertised formal functions. Now the Medical Society is concentrating this experience upon the production of a formal At Home which will be second to none in the University.

It has been decided to hold it earlier than usual—January 25—to escape the pre-lenten whirl of events and avoid clashing with other formal dances of the winter season.

This is a point which will particularly recommend itself to men of other faculties desirous of attending the At Home and the committee is anticipating a big rush for tickets from outside sources. Fortunately they find themselves in the rather unusual position of being able to assure every man in the University, who desires to attend, that a ticket will be available for him—not only a ticket, but more important, ample accommodation for dancing or a quiet smoke in an atmosphere of refinement in keeping with an affair of this size. Naturally this has been possible only by obtaining the greatest ballroom space which Toronto offers, and to this end, the committee has completed arrangements with the King Edward Hotel for the big event. To those who are familiar with the style of the United Hotel of America, nothing further need be said, to those who are not, this offers an opportunity to become acquainted with the scene of service at a ridiculously low price. Double tickets will be sold for less than five dollars, which is far below cost. The deficit will be made up by a series of informal social parties which the committee are arranging at U.T.S. The first of these is to be held this week, Saturday, December 5, and with a good orchestra and an abundance of the famous Hart House Punch, the evening will be a most enjoyable one. Surprisingly low and the many incidents of the formal At Home. Men of all years are invited to part with a dollar, which will be the total expense at dress is to be strictly informal for ladies as well as gentlemen and taxis may with be directed in favour of the more economical accommodation furnished by the Toronto Transportation Commission.

"THAT ALL MED HOT"

A few tickets are still left for the informal dance at U.T.S. on Saturday. They may be procured from the At Home Committee Representative in your year. Let's go and make it an All Med Get-Together. There will be plenty of the famous Hart House Punch, and the music will be of the best.

"Oh, Mary, I was at a dance on Saturday night and had the best time."
"What dance was it?"
"It was the dance the Med. Girls' Athletic Association gave up in the Gym in the Household Science Building."

NOVELTIES PROMISED FOR 2T4 SCHOOL DANCE

Plans Complete For Brilliant Social Function

The day has come, but not past though the minutes slip swiftly by there yet is a chance, a golden opportunity grasp it ere the phantom slips from the sight. A noted expert in the Mysteries of Calculus has figured how large shall be the cones which hold our inflated balloons—coiled up—the moon has already started to shine and everything is in absolute readiness for "The Novelty Dance" of 2T4.

Come, come all,
To Columbus Hall
This evening late
At half-past eight.

CIVIL CLUB

There will be an illustrated lecture in C22 from 4 to 5 p.m. this afternoon by Wm. G. Hogarth, who is Chief Engineer, Department of Public Highways, Ontario. The subject of the talk is Ontario Highway System and Road construction.

This an opportunity to get first hand information on a topic which is of interest to all. Everybody out.

"What sort of a party was it?"

"Just an informal one but it was lots of fun. Jordan's orchestra—4 pieces—played the music and you know you just can't help dancing when they play. There were over so many people there—over 100 couples—and I'm sure every faculty and college in the University were represented. There were fourteen dances on the programme and they didn't seem half enough. Between dances punch and little cakes were served. The dance was under the patronage of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Ryerson and do you know it looked as if they were really enjoying themselves. It's great having them at a dance, they're both such heaps of fun and you feel as if they were having as good a time as you were. The only trouble with the party was that we had to stop at 11:30. When we were having every one said what a nice party it had been and that they hoped the Med Girls' Athletic would soon give another one since this one was such a success."

"You must have had a peach of a time. I'll surely give Freddie some broad hints when I hear of the next one."

THE BOHEMIAN ART CLUB

THE BOHEMIAN ART CLUB extends a cordial invitation to the students, to the regular Saturday Fortnightly dance to be held at THE WELLESLEY Studio, 55 Wellesley Street, December 3rd, when Miss Helen Avey will have her pictures and hand-painted cards and novelties on exhibition.

SCIENCE CLUB

The fourth regular meeting of the Trinity College Science Club was held on Tuesday night when an interesting paper on "The Life and Works of Descartes" was read by A. E. Jameson, '22, who briefly outlined the contributions of the great philosopher to the mathematical, astronomical and physiological sciences. The meeting was then thrown open to general discussion in the course of which a number of points were touched upon, and after refreshments had been served, adjourned.

The Trinity Dramatic Society has decided to present a programme of three short plays on Saturday, February 28, at Foresters' Hall, College Street. The feature play will be "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," by Anatole France, the production will be Granville Barker's.

Don't forget the three comedies which are to be given by the Victoria College Dramatic Club in the Margaret Eaton School on December 6 and 7. Tickets may be secured at the Hall Porter's Desk in Hart House. Fifty cents includes the War Tax. The plays are: "His Model Wife," "Suppressed Desire," and "How He Lied to Her Husband." Are you coming? Get busy then and buy your ticket.

The word of John Lowe's appointment to the Rhodes Scholarship for the Province of Ontario was most enthusiastically received by the members of Trinity College, where Mr. Lowe has spent his undergraduate days, and the great outburst of cheering with which he was greeted on entering the Hall last night, as well as the general hearty congratulations which he received from the student body afterwards, may be taken as indicative of the good wishes extended by the College to the popular winner of the scholarship. Mr. Lowe is the second man who has brought this great honour to the College, the other having been Mr. A. K. Griffin, B.A., who won the Scholarship in 1915.

A GREAT SPORT

We have heard more than usual this year that the country will draw its leaders of the future from the student-of-to-day. We have been cautioned to make good use of the advantages at our disposal in order to qualify ourselves for the important responsibilities that will fall to us in years to come. Most of us pay some attention to these admonitions, but few take a serious endeavour to carry them out. One of the great outside in a leader of men is that he shall be able to place his ideas in a logical, concise and convincing manner. But there are many of us who can not say this with any degree of confidence. We have not been trained to systematize our ideas and to think on our feet. The result is that we are lost when called upon to make speeches. In nearly every college, through the various Literary Societies and kindred organizations, an effort is being made to develop an interest in the art of public speaking and a desire to master it.

The Inter-University Debating Union of Toronto gives an opportunity for the picked men of different colleges to meet one another in keen competition for the Kerr Trophy, and many very excellent debates have been heard in Toronto to argue among ourselves. Some of our predecessors at the universities organized the Inter-University Debating League, of which Queen's, McGill and Toronto are one group. In this League, men chosen from the whole student bodies of their respective universities meet, each to uphold the honour of his Alma Mater.

The man who undertakes to debate for the university must be prepared to give up at least three solid weeks of his time to the preparation of his case. He must be prepared to work day and night until he has thoroughly mastered his subject. Of course, we can't all do that. The Profs might object—and we have not all the necessary ability to debate, but a representative committee, after consideration of names sent in from almost every college in the University, chose four men to represent the U. of T.

These four men, George Hearn, J. Friend Day, J. G. Endicott and C. P. Halliday, have given themselves up to the preparation of a debate on a very important and timely subject, and one the preparation of which is a prodigious task—"Resolved that a substantial reduction should be made in the Canadian Tariff by the incoming Dominion Parliament." Endicott and Halliday go to Kingston to argue the case with Queen's, while Hearn and Day will thresh it out with McGill in our Convocation Hall next Monday at 8.15.

The discussion of the subject will be of great value to any student who is in doubt regarding the Tariff issue in next week's election, but to all of us comes the appeal of the U. of T. to support the men who have been toiling as our representatives. Debating is one of the greatest of sports requiring a cool head, a nimble wit, and a ready tongue. But a team can't play without support. Don't forget there's an Intercollegiate Title at stake. Turn out on Monday evening and let our men know that we are behind them.

ON THE SUBJECT OF "BIOGRAPHIES"

Biographies have been the subject of many conversations this week. Going down the corridors of the University one sees groups of students bending over small scraps of paper with such interested expressions that one immediately doubts if the "scraps of paper" contain matter of academic importance. "Such slush!" you hear one fair maid exclaim disgustfully; another murmurs, "Delightful," and still another groans, "I really don't believe the metre of that poetry is correct. Is it 'vers libre' or blank verse?" These remarks give us the clue—the students are discussing the biographies of the prospective graduating class.

"Brevity is the soul of wit" in the matter of these biographies, for sixty words, and sixty words only, is the allotment to each person, be he ever so clever or popular. Into these sixty words must be crammed either the achievements or the general characteristics of that best friend whose biography we have the honour of compiling. Composing such a manuscript is no light task; often we bite our pencil in vain waiting for an inspiration; often we think we have the inspiration but our friend thinks otherwise when he views the result of our labour and says: "O.K. that? Never!" So we tear our hair, "scrap" our prized masterpiece and begin afresh, calling upon the Muses to assist us.

Originality in the framing of these biographies is what every one desires but few attain. Such hackneyed expressions as "Her sweet and gentle disposition won her many friends" are viewed with scorn; the present descriptions of such a "soothing syrup" variety. After all what value have these biographies? Our friends know us well and often refuse to take them at their face value; strangers regard them sceptically; we ourselves view them with amusement. Yet—who would dispense with the biographies in TORONTO'S STUDENT?

EDITORIAL COMMENT

We hear with pleasure that the students in Dentistry are to hold a Church Parade to Convocation Hall next Sunday, thereby establishing a worthy precedent for this coming generations in all Faculties.

The women of U.C. should do all they can to relieve the congestion in the rotunda. Their VARSITIES are in Room 82. The men should get their VARSITIES in the rotunda, not in Room 82.

WOMEN'S DEBATING UNION

The Women's Intercollegiate Debating Union will hold their first debate of the season on December 8th at 8 o'clock in St. Joseph's.
Just to prove that "what's sauce for the gander is sauce for the goose" the subject of the debate will be "Resolved that appeals by Canadian courts to the Privy Council should be abolished."
McMaster has the affirmative; St. Mike's will support the negative.
For St. Mike's the debaters are: Misses Blanche Laroche and Teresa Longway; for McMaster: Misses Helen Brown and Margaret Mason.

INFORMAL SUNDAY EVENING SING-SONG

There will be an informal "Sing-Song" in Wyllie College on Sunday evening at 8.30 o'clock for men and women in any college or faculty.
Mr. Victor M. J. Balaiah, a young Indian of distinction, who was educated in the United States and who for some time has been in charge of a student hostel in Calcutta, will be the chief attraction. Informally all of the recent Indian Movements in which students are interested. It is expected that the Student Christian Movement will have these Sing-Songs very frequently on Sunday evenings.

PRIMEVAL RELICS

Now it happened that these youths, these students of the infinite series, handed themselves together and formed a club, so that after they had chased up a little billion figures, they might have a little recreation in the evening, slaughter a hundred freshmen or so. And it was during one of these restful periods that an aggressive seventh year stone mechanic concocted a mixture that was destined to become world famous. He found that by diverting a portion of heat from the earth's centre to the bottom of a neighbouring lake and dumping in many native berries, a vapour came off, which, condensing in the dome and collected proved to have a most exhilarating effect on being drunk. When the rest of the undergrads learned of this they decided to hold a great celebration. They rented Bilem's Cave for the evening and brought along as much "spirits" as they could make and carry in their whale-skin flasks. Many Dinosaurs were consumed before the night came to a close.

Now as the stone tablet on which this history had been carved was broken off here, we have not been able to get further details of Prof. P. V. Dyrman's school-house, nor of his "spruced" students nor of the Dinosaurian dinner. However, even though it is centuries now since the above story took place there are still hundreds of "downier" youths who still follow up the infinite series, who still contain the original "spirit" and celebrate annually the glory of old P. V.

The old school-house was unceremoniously pulled down and now stands the centre of a great university, and although it is showing signs of weathering it is still the same in principle. The annual celebration has been held for the last two hundred years in the form of a dinner and although Dinosaurian franchise has been ruled off the menu, many new dishes have replaced it, thanks to the ingenuity of ingenious engineers. The spirits have been lost, perhaps, from a material point of view, but a great, intangible, all-encompassing force has taken their place, which has been known as "School Spirit".

Now, Gang! Let's go. This is the only big S.P.S. function of the year, where Frosh, Soph, Junior and Senior all get together and make a noise; where we all eat all we want, talk all we want, sing all we want and shout the praises of old P. V.

Tuesday night at Bingham's.

TEMPUS FUGIT

The University of the University of British Columbia issues the following salutary warning:
"No one likes to be the dismal raven croaking of disaster, or, to change the metaphor, Cassandra, prophesying evil to the heedless Trojans—or was it Greeks? Our Classics are slipping. But the mournful fact has suddenly struck us as a knock-out blow, that two weeks from today will be the penultimate day of lectures; our heads are reeling so that we see only the thoughts and crosses that will decorate our examination booklets. It is, therefore, hopeless for us to try and make the "Ubbsey" shine with its usual careless gaiety, and the least we can do is to apologize by explaining the cause of our gloom; per-adventure we may thus put our readers in mind of something that will make them appreciate our melancholy."

"Far be it from us, miserable (scholastic) sinners that we are, to sit in judgment on our erring fellow-students, and say seriously: 'On your heads be it, that you have wasted your time in thoughtlessness and in the hour of trial.' Rather we offer our sympathy, and merely this word of advice: If you have not studied a word during the term, do not hope to get up all the work in a week's hectic plugging, but offer prayers to your favourite gods on exam day when whatever comes into your head, but if you have attended a nominal percentage of lectures and occasionally tried to cover the assigned reading, sit up all night with a wet towel on your brow, memorize several pages of condensed notes as you come up in the car, don't forget a bottle of ink so that you can refill your fountain pen as you start your third booklet, and you may with luck achieve a pass mark. To the conscientious people who have worked all this fall, we are not so irrelevant as to say one word."

KNOX COLLEGE HAS NARROW ESCAPE

"NEC TAMEN CONSUMEBATUR"

When three or four fire-locks came roaring up St. George yesterday afternoon, and drew up in front of old Knox, the few faithful students in their rooms at the time had the scare of their lives. Morris Zeitman emerged first clutching a dormant and fire insurance policy. "Scouty" was not far behind him wheeling his trunk. As our gallant fire-men got their ladder into position, several more appeared in bath-rooms and all stages of negligence. Brian S. McCall even came out without stopping to brush his hair.

Soon quite a crowd had collected, and things looked pretty bad for "this beautiful building." But on reaching the roof, what had looked like smoke, was really quite innocent after all. The fire chieftains were nobly repulsed. The firemen or Ken McRichie must have been enjoying a pipe up on the donjon. But he is wrong. It was only hot air, generated in the dining room during dinner at the theologian's table.

Splendid discipline prevailed and Bailly's appeal, "Women and children first, my friends," was nobly responded to. Before the dietitians were rescued first and one of the ladies displayed a devotion to duty which must be recorded. Before leaving from the window, into a blanket held by the Programme and Scholarship committee, she threw down a case of books, exclaiming, "Three de resistance, I follow thee, O die!"

Colonel S. M. was the last to leave the popular building, grimly clutching "Peck's" Concentrate and What Every Young Man Should Know. A cheer went up from the breathless spectators as three firemen fought their way out of the pantry leaving the unconscious form of Charlie MacDonald, who had taken advantage of the panic to make for the milk and was overcome by the fumes of the night's smoke, then in preparation.

When the danger was clearly past, all showed their appreciation of the F.F.D.'s efforts by giving the stirring college yell, "Knox, cadaver!" The fire-fighters responded by singing, "Ain't we got fun?"

All are impressed with the happiness of the night's scare. It seemed as if it were to have been written for such a fiery ordeal—"Nec tamen consumebatur." Which, being interpreted, means, "Hot dog!" It wasn't burned up.

HART HOUSE PLAYERS TO PRESENT BERNARD SHAW'S "CANDIDA"

Next week the second production of this season's activities in Hart House Theatre will be presented, the play being Bernard Shaw's "Candida." It was written in 1894 and published a year or so later in the "Pleasant and Unpleasant" series. "Pleasant and Unpleasant," to which also last year's Shaw play, "You Never Can Tell" belonged.

The cast of the play has been well assigned, as follows: Candida, Miss Jean Webster; Proserpine, Mrs. Kenneth McMillan; Morell, Basil Morgan; Burgess, Frank Coomb; Rev. Alex. Mill Ernest Morgan; and Marchbanks, Raymond Mussey. Mr. Lauren Harris has added another triumph to his list, having designed this set.

SKETCH CLUB TO HOLD DESIGN COMPETITION

The next meeting of the Sketch Club will be held on the evening of Tuesday, December 6th, when the third class in elementary drawing will take place. These classes are aimed to provide the means whereby the members of Hart House who are interested in drawing or who hope to become interested will be able to obtain the best possible artistic criticism and help. Come along with paper and pencil and you will be provided with a membership card if such is lacking. The competition for the Sketch Club Emblem design will be called in on that night, December 6th, so get busy with your pencil and turn in as many designs as possible. For the benefit of the club you are not yet aware of the competition we forthwith reprint the rules:

1. This Emblem or Crest shall be the official insignia of the Hart House Sketch Club, to be used on letterheads, posters, etc.
2. The design shall be of a simple striking character of rectangular shape.
3. The design may be of any size and in any medium but must be capable of reproduction in black and white. The design of which shall not exceed one inch.
4. The Judgment Committee shall consist of three men chosen by the Executive.

VARSITY vs. MCGILL AGAIN

The Time: 8.15 p.m.
The Place: Convocation Hall.
The Subject: Resolved that a sub-tantial reduction should be made in the Canadian Tariff by the incoming Dominion Parliament.
The Object: To show to the satisfaction of McGill and Queen's that Varsity is supreme in other than athletic contests.
The Question: Are you going to get behind Your debaters? McGill has sent her best men to Toronto. Are you going to lend a lusty voice when "Spike" Thompson and "Ev" Weaver call for the college, faculty and University yells?
The Answer: OF COURSE YOU ARE! EVERYBODY, LET'S GO!
The Appeal: Which college or faculty will make the best showing? Again, it's up to you!

DENTISTRY

DENTS 266 CLASS PARTY
 Last Wednesday the Pre-Dents held their first social function of the year which proved to be most enjoyable.

They first went to Shea's Vaudeville and then to Bingham's for eats. Judging from the party the Pre-Dents class has a very happy year.

Passing through the narrow space between the Junior Leaders and the 1 o'clock late Friday morning we were surprised to find a student in a state of excitement, walking up and down, tearing his hair and crying out at intervals, "I've lost it. I've lost it. 'What have you lost, my dear fellow," we inquired, "do but tell us and we will get W.J.M.L. on its trail at once." "Too late, my dear fellow," replied he mournfully, "it's gone forever." Seeing that this was a very exceptional case we determined to make a strong effort to alleviate in some way the poor lad's sorrow. "Tell us," we said sympathetically, "what have you lost?" "My college spirit, and the rolling his mournful eyes upon us. "But how do you know it's lost," we asked hopefully.

"Because I don't intend to go to the 213 Dance at Columbus Hall next Friday," confessed the poor wretch.

University College

U.C. SMOKER TO-NIGHT
 Every man in U.C. should turn out to the College Smoker in the Lecture Room, Hart House at 8 p.m. The committee has obtained a good comedy film, good music and good eats. Tickets at less than cost from any number of the year executives—25c.

ATHLETIC CENSUS IN U.C.
 The Literary and Athletic Society of University College will conduct a census of all male undergraduates of the College with a view to finding out the different forms of athletic activity in which they can take part. Printed cards will be distributed to-morrow and on Wednesday in the lobby. These are to be filled out and returned to members of the Executive.

Newman Club

NEWMAN CLUB SMOKER
 On Saturday evening the members of the Newman Club held one of their most successful smokers. Mr. John Brazil was at the piano and conducted the programme in a very capable and efficient manner. Messrs. Green, Brennan, Howe, O'Leary and Foley contributed various songs and recitations of a high class order.

The main speaker for the evening was Mr. H. J. Daley, President of the Home Bank of Canada, who is also one of the Directors of the Newman Club. He emphasized the need for University students to take an active part in public affairs after they finish their education. It is upon the University students that the leading of civilization into safer and saner channels will fall.

Rev. Fr. Burke and Mr. William O'Brien also spoke concerning the work of the Newman Club.

St. Michael's

The second general meeting of the Students' Parliament was held in the Club Room, on Friday evening, with Mr. E. McMahon in the chair. After the leaders of the Conservative, Liberal and Progressive Parties respectively, he had briefly exhorted the students to carefully consider their particular platform, a new party was introduced to the electors, "The Independent Nationalists." The leader of the party, Mr. McGeachy very forcibly presented the platform of his party, and explained in detail the special advantage which it offered to the people of Canada.

Several of the voters then voiced their opinions, the most noteworthy of these speakers being Mr. Callaghan, also Mr. H. Blanchard, who eloquently urged everyone present to support the Liberal platform.

Announcing that the elections would be held on Monday after 9 p.m., the chairman closed the meeting.

The regular Drawing Class of the Sketch Club will be held on Tuesday, December 6, at 8 p.m. in the Sketch Room, Hart House.

BASKETBALL

The first game for the championship of the Women's Basketball League will be held at Union M.C. on Monday, December 5th at 5:00 p.m. The second game of the series will be played at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, December 8th at the same place. McGill and U.C. are the winners of the respective group and each team is confident of a win.

Medicine

An open meeting of the Medical Society is announced for Thursday, December 8, at Hart House. Everyone will remember with pleasure the last open meeting of the Society, held in October and they will be able to assure those who were not fortunate enough to be there, that they are among the most enjoyable evenings spent during the college year. It is a get-together of the whole faculty, cats and quacks forming a not inconspicuous stage of the programme.

The speaker of the evening will be Prof. J. Macleod, on "The life and works of Claude Bernard." Prof. Macleod's dry Scottish humour can be relied upon to give everyone that "after-Punch" feeling. We have an announcement extraordinary to make in addition to the foregoing. The MEDICAL ORCHESTRA will give a recital. Take our word for it, they're good!

The lecture-room in Hart House at 7.45 p.m. on December 8 won't hold the whole faculty, so come early!

MEDS.

Tickets for the McGill-Varsity Debate to-night from your S.A.C. representatives. They're free!

Varsity Athletics

VARSITY SQUASH ARTISTS PLAY UNIVERSITY CLUB

Players on the local Squash courts were able to test their prowess on Saturday afternoon when the first five available players of the University met the leading University Club players on their own courts and the next five men played the University Club second string at Hart House.

The first team, composed of Martin, Greay, Coventry, Higgins and Thompson, was unable to capture a set against the sterling play of the graduates' quintette. The second team, playing on home courts, managed to quite hold their own, Fennel and Levey, winning their sets and Glover, Williams and Croll holding their opponents to 3-2 in sets. There will be return matches Saturday, December 10 at 2.30.

INDOOR BASEBALL

Trinity, last year's champions, won the first game of their group on Friday, defeating St. School by the close score of 7-6. Munnery, pitching for St. School, kept the game well in hand until the final inning when Trinity, aided by errors, a couple of wild pitches and several walks, scored five runs and turned defeat into victory. Trinity displayed a strong defence and although the School sluggers bottled out eighteen hits they were held to six runs.

NOTICE—GYM. CLUB

Did you see our act in Spasms? If you didn't, come up to the big gymnasium and remember we want more material for gym work right away. To-day we start training for the Inter-collegiate meet and we desire that any member interested in this line of athletic activity will turn out with us on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, five o'clock till six.

DO YOU WANT TO ROW?

So many turned out for practice on the machines on Thursday last, that it has been decided to hold the practices every night except Saturday from now on, between 5.15 and 6.00 o'clock. On Thursday only two minutes could be allowed each man but with the increase of time it is hoped that it will be possible to give more individual coaching.

On Monday, a regular system will be introduced whereby each man will always report at the same machine. New men will be distributed equally to whole four. Now all you heavies, just walk down past the Barber Shop until you see the sign "Rowing Room." All you have to do is walk in.

Get in your gym clothes and try out for the finest sport a person can enter. Freshmen are especially wanted for this crew for the Olympic Games in 1924.

NOTICE

The Water Polo game between School and U.C. scheduled for Tuesday, December 6, will be postponed until Wednesday, December 7, and the game between Dents and Meds, scheduled for Friday, December 9 will be played on Thursday December 8.

"It is good to rub and polish our brain against that of others," Montaigne.
 Hear, at Convocation Hall to-night, the Varsity-McGill debaters lock horns.

The picture for "Torontonensis" of the Women Students' administrative Council will be taken at Farmer Bros. on Wednesday, December 7, at 1 o'clock. Will members please wear gowns.

Victoria

The Victoria College Dramatic Club is presenting under the direction of Mrs. F. A. Brook, three comedies on December 6 and 7, at Margaret Eaton Hall at 8.15 p.m. The bill consists of "How He Lied to Her Husband," by Bernard Shaw; "Suppressed Desires," by Susan Gaskell and "George Cook," by Miss Mabel Wile, by Helen F. Bagg. Tickets at the Victoria College office 50c. each.

Victoria 214 held a very successful class party on Friday evening in the Assembly Union at which a large majority of the year were present. The affair was an excellent one and was enjoyed by all. Too much credit cannot be given to the President, Joe Keene, and the Executive for making everything was run off. Refreshments were served and after the Sophomore yell and song, "My father sent me to Victoria," a "Hore hosts," and "Toronto Toronto," the party dispersed.

Prizes were given in the art and poetry contest, the evening contest, and the famous "hordy" contest. Prof. Robbins awarded the prizes.

The students of U. of T. will have a further opportunity of hearing Mr. J. H. B. B. on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock he will speak in the Lecture Room of Knox College. Mr. B. B. knows India and also America. Those interested in the great movements in India should not fail to hear him. After his address there will be a free and informal discussion. Turn out, everybody.

CHESS CLUB

Varsity A and B teams played St. James' Thursday night in the first league match of the season. St. James' won the A match by 4-1, and B team by 3-3. The individual scores were:

Forestry

At the meeting of the Foresters' Club held last Friday evening, Mr. G. M. Dallyn, of the Ontario Forestry Branch, gave the first of a series of talks, his subject being "Forestry Branch Surveys in Ontario." The address contained some interesting and valuable information on work being done in Ontario and was much appreciated by all those present.

At the close of Mr. Dallyn's talk club business was discussed. It was decided that the local club should unite with the Intercollegiate Association of Forestry Clubs, this being an important step in drawing the Forestry men of Universities throughout America more closely together. It is regrettable that these meetings are attended by only half the members. Don't forget the faculty spirit we are able to boast of. Come out and help to make these meetings a greater success.

CHEMICAL CLUB SMOKER

One of the most interesting smokers of the season is announced for next Wednesday evening, December 7, Hart House. Mr. C. J. Brockbank, F.C.I.C., vice-president of Exeter Co. of Buffalo, will give his celebrated lecture on "Alkalis, their manufacture and use." Over fifty lantern slides will be shown illustrating the important points of the lecture. Orchestra and eats. Admission—35c.

THE AFFIRMATIVE WINS

That U. of T. students are interested in politics and in their Alma Mater was proved Monday night when Convocation Hall was packed to the doors for the great event—the debate. For it was a great event and one to which we may look back with pride. The subject was of vital interest to all and the speakers were picked men who knew their subject. McGill was an opponent worthy of our metal and put up a splendid argument tinged with almost Llacuckian humour. As J. Friend Day said in sentencing McGill's vote of thanks to the judges, McGill and Varsity are bound to be rivals, but friendly ones for McGill men "have been jolly clean fighters, jolly good sports and gentlemen."

The affirmative, which was upheld by Varsity, won. The affirmative also won at Queen's. Varsity supported the negative there, and thus we are now out of running for the Inter-University Debating League of Canada Championship. These debates are the first since the war and mark our return to pre-war customs. It is a splendid thing to have a debating league. Such a league serves as a link between the universities and is a medium for the interchange of thought and opinion. Student opinion is not to be underestimated by political parties and will become a powerful factor in Canadian thought and action when crystallized and delivered as it was on Monday night, both here and in Kingston.

A WIDER FIELD FOR WOMEN'S SPORT

University women have always kept pretty closely within college precincts in their athletic activities. It has been suggested that it would be beneficial for both college and outside teams if challenge games could be arranged from time to time during the year so that students may have an opportunity of testing their skill in sport against that of women in other occupations. This might be tried in tennis, basketball and basketball. The coming together of students and non-students in the realm of sport would do much to promote a feeling of fellowship and understanding which is certainly to be desired.

A splendid chance to try the experiment has been given in the formation of a ladies' series of the Toronto Hockey League. Several teams have already been entered, including the Y.W.C.A., and probably Balm Beach Canoe Club and Kew Beach Aquatic Club, and several others. The U. of T. could easily enter a team which would receive some very good practice for their Intercollegiate games, and in addition would gain valuable experience in meeting new players and styles of play. This is a splendid opportunity that should not be overlooked.

WOMEN IN CANADIAN LITERATURE

On the poster which was used during the Canadian Book Week, containing pictures of many well-known Canadian authors, it is interesting to note that out of some sixty-five authors twenty-five are women. This is indicative of the part women play in Canadian life. There are few phases of that life in which women do not take a keen and active interest. Some of these women are not only familiar figures in Canadian literature, but are also distinguished in political and professional worlds, as, for example, Mrs. Nellie McClung and Mrs. Arthur Murphy "Janey Canuck." Others have found that it is quite possible to combine domestic duties with the composition of popular novels, an accomplishment which must bring joy to many ardent feminists. For the feminist's joy, too, it must be added that one of the finest bits of real literature published this year "Our Little Life" was written by a woman.

It is safe to say that where women have confined themselves to subjects and places with which they are familiar they have been quite as successful as their masculine fellow-workers. No man has written more popular books than L. M. Montgomery's books for girls. Marion Keith found her background in the township of Oro, and small Ontario towns have been faithfully portrayed by writers.

Nevertheless any one with any knowledge of Canadian literature is amazed at the many subjects practically untouched which would be peculiarly suited to women. Why has no one ever given us a real domestic novel, a study of Canadian home life? Where are the girls' school stories—and boys' too for that matter? Where are the pictures of Canadian city life or Canadian politics? We hope that the Canadian women authors will be encouraged to try their hand at some of these subjects. There is no reason why they should not be successful.

LEST WE FORGET

Just a few weeks ago we celebrated the third anniversary of the most momentous happening in history—Armistice Day. These past three living years have brought to most of us a wealth of good times, which still linger in our memory, as well as a certain amount of knowledge gained by books and experience. Yet how easy it is for us to forget to whom we are responsible for this state of peace and goodwill. In this column of the Women's Issue the women of the University of Toronto take the opportunity of paying tribute to the returned men of Varsity. Some of us who attended college during the last year of the war will remember the depressing atmosphere that clouded our life and activities. Not only were social functions and athletics at a low ebb, but there was a noticeable depression of enthusiasm and spirit that characterized Varsity life now. Many of these men left their books to shoulder a gun and then returned to pick up the thread; others came back and started in at the bottom of their profession. In a few years they will have left our midst but the University has been better and greater for their presence. They have introduced into Varsity life a spirit of camaraderie and a vital force and leadership hitherto unknown. As we pass them in the class-room, the campus or any circle whatever we instinctively notice that bit of bronze surmounted by the red, white and blue—and remember the service it represents. The women realize their debt and they will not forget.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE VARSITY wishes to congratulate E. B. (Hawk) Harshaw, Chairman of the Literary Organizations Committee of the S.A.C.; H. G. (Spike) Thompson, President of the Students' Court; and Ev. Weaver, "Varsity's versatile cheerleader," on the completeness of the arrangements for Monday's debate.

Our friends do not forget us! Two of the editorials in this issue are from Miss H. J. Dewey '21, ex-Women's Editor, and Miss D. S. Hardy '21, ex-Women's Managing Editor. Their kindness and interest are deeply appreciated.

U.C. SMOKER

University College held a very successful Smoker Monday night. Unfortunately it clashed with the Intercollegiate debate, but the date of the latter was changed after the Smoker and change could not be made. The turn-out, however, was very fair.

Mr. Roy Rickard started the evening with songs and some rounds. The usual cigarettes were handed around. A good boxing bout and a couple of pathosomic comedies finished a very good evening's programme. Refreshments were served which were enjoyed by those present and a large crowd which dropped in after the debate.

Correspondence

To the Women's Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Madam:

After remarking the frenzied borrowing of gowns for the purpose of TORONTO'SIS during the past term, one is curious to know something of the tradition which surrounds them, and why they have been practically discarded by the student of today.

The wearing of academic gowns goes back to the Middle Ages. The costume itself, doubtless, had its origin in the robes of the clergy, since the scholars of those days belonged for the most part to religious orders. We find a reference to English academics dressed as far back as the second half of the 14th century, from which we gather that "excess in apparel" on the part of certain scholars had necessitated a rebuke. Evidently the fair code of today is not the only one who has been seized by a passion for "fine feathers."

The statutes required the student to wear a "decent habit, suitable to a clerk," that is, a long gown, which in some cases must be closed in front. The undergraduates seemed to have worn a hood, but this was gradually discarded until nobody below the rank of bachelor might wear one. Sons of the nobility, and those of higher academic degree, had their own styles with fur and bright colours. The student body, as a whole, however, was required to dress in sober colours.

This custom is gradually being forgotten in our University, especially in University College, where the men have entirely discarded the gown. To our fathers, however, it meant more than it does to us, and they had many traditions in regard to it. For example, it was extremely bad taste to mend one's gown, or to repair it in any way, the worse its condition the higher the esteem in which it was held. If a new gown had to be purchased it was made to look as ancient as possible by rolling it on the dusty floor, and then tearing it in many places.

This tradition has practically disappeared. We even heard of a co-ed committing the unpardonable crime of mending a rent in her gown! In many subtle ways the humane mind evidenced in our University.

Perhaps the discontinuance of this venerable custom is another evidence of the progress which we have made. After all, if a thing has outlived its usefulness, why prolong its life? On the other hand, these apparently useless and trivial things often go to make up that powerful sentiment known as "College Spirit." We belong to a large University whose various parts are scattered, and often little known to each other, and knowledge of common traditions is one of the strongest factors in our unity, both in sport and study.

Sincerely,

TRADITION.

Women's Editor of THE VARSITY

Dear Madam:

In a conversation which took place among a group of co-eds not long ago a topic was introduced by a chance remark which produced much mirth at the time and which I have pondered since.

One of the girls said in all seriousness: "I wonder if Mannikin has a girl and if so just what she is like."

Another followed up with: "How about Gunner who had so much to say about us in 'Punch'?"

The fuse was lit. I waited for the bomb to explode. Surprisingly enough no such thing happened. Until that moment I had thought that the names of Mannikin and Gunner were the names of the college year both these names were anathema and that the mere mention of either would produce a storm of abuse. Instead of this, however, we received tolerant amusement not unminged with scorn. They discussed the subject lightly for a while and then passed on to matters of greater import.

Later, for my own amusement I tried to plan out the married life of Mannikin and Gunner.

Mannikin will, of course, marry a home body with strongly developed home instincts and no interests or hobbies outside the ample limits of her home. There will be stay-at-home mother and no work after year. Should he chance to be out "on business" or other "necessary" appointment he will find her waiting for him on his return eager to drink in his words of wisdom and hear of the doings of the great outside world from her lord and master who had snatched her from a life of boredom in her father's home and brought her to be his ever-ready companion in his comfortable abode where she cheerfully helps him to eke out a humble existence on the pittance with which his labours are rewarded.

And how about "Gunner"? Will he, with all his prejudice, choose to marry a Canadian girl or will he not go back to merry England for his bride to make sure that she will prove a freckle pet always ready to go out with him for a twenty-mile constitutional at a moment's notice. Somehow I fear that such a thing will never come to pass. How much more likely will he be to fall for one of our American cousins with her cheerful and stunning appearance. He may wonder, perhaps, if her complexion is her own but he will take no chance of exposing her to a shower to test it for in so doing he might expose himself to an outburst of her wrath. For now, I fear his ideal are too high. At some time in his career he must be brought back to earth. Let him hope some one will make a good job of it, then perhaps he may be able to appreciate the advantages of a Canadian girl even though she is a pretty toy.

Sincerely,

PATRICIA.

THE UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT

The Women's Editor of Varsity.

Dear Madam:

The University Settlement will have a week of Xmas Parties during Dec. 19. There will be parties for the little girls and boys, parties for the intermediate girls and boys and parties for the men and women. We shall be very glad to have the students assist in the preparation for these parties and we also need about Two Hundred dollars to make their Christmas as joyous and fine as we want to see it.

In the midst of all your gay parties at the University, we could not give thought to the children at the Settlement.

We also wish to thank all the students for their interest in our work. We could not carry on as we do, if the students did not assist in our clubs and classes. To those who are dressing dolls and making candy bags, we extend our thanks also. The Board of Directors and Staff of University Settlement wish the students a very happy holiday and hope that they will remember the Settlement when they return in January.

Yours truly,

Head Worker.

THANKS

The Editor-in-Chief,

THE VARSITY

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Literary Organizations of the University, I would like to acknowledge the debt of gratitude which we owe to THE VARSITY for its splendid editorials and whole-hearted co-operation with our committee in all matters pertaining to the publicity given the debate of Monday evening.

Never before has such a large audience attended an Inter-University Debate in Canada, and we are indebted to the more than three hundred whom we were obliged to turn away. We realize, and take this opportunity of expressing in some small measure, our appreciation of your efforts.

Very sincerely,

E. B. HARSHAW,

Chairman, Lit. organizations,

U. of T.

PRUSSIA AND STUDENT RELIEF

To the Women's Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Madam:

I would bring to the attention of your readers the following extract from an article in the current number of the Saturday Evening Post, by Owen Wister. It is possible that we, as intelligent students can contribute to the support of German students in the face of such irrefutable evidence that the German is and always will be a Hun—a Boche. I trust that you will see fit to publish the extract in full.

Yours faithfully,

JOHN McEACHERN, Medicine, 1923.

This speech was delivered in 1920: "General Ludendorff was at Königsberg. Upon the preceding night the students of that university had held torchlight celebrations for him, and the day after this he spoke at some ceremonies in a public square, in praise of Marshal Hindenburg. After lauding the qualities of the old German Army, which, he declared, must be imitated now by the national guard, he referred to Upper Silesia thus:

"I entertain no doubt that the destiny of our country will be decided sooner or later by a battle for that land to our east. When the hour comes remember what won us our victory at Tannenberg—the will of our leaders, our faith in those leaders, our discipline and courage in the face of death. The greater our country's need the more closely shall we rally round the flag, white and red flag of Prussia. We are proud of our beloved Prussia; we are, and we wish to be, Prussians."

Deyonyn=hokrawler

Yes, that's all one word, a most formidable looking word, and yet a most beautiful word, but don't try to pronounce it.

It is of Indian origin, and was the title bestowed by the Iroquois tribe at Niagara about the end of the 18th century upon Upper Canada's greatly beloved Governor Simcoe.

Deyonyn=hokrawler—signifying "one whose door is always open," a most fitting testimony to Governor Simcoe's hospitality.

In imagination you can see the same word over the portals and on the threshold of the Ryrie Store—the Ryrie store is always open to those who are interested in beautiful things, regardless of the question of buying.

Just now when folks are all concerned about "what to give for Christmas" such a visit will prove doubly interesting, so many tasty and inexpensive little gifts for man, woman and child. Just drop in any time and stroll around, nobody will bother you, whilst delighted to serve you should you so desire.

BASKET BALL TO-NIGHT AT HART HOUSE---JR. ASSAULT THIS AFTERNOON

VARSITY'S BASKET-BALLERS BATTLE FOR VICTORY

To night, on the Hart House Court, basketball fans will see three of the best games of the year, and all followers of the great indoor game should be out in force. The first Juniors will stack up against Central Juniors, holders of the Ontario Junior Championship, and a real battle should result. Both these teams have beaten Central handily, and appear to be well matched. Varsity Juniors will be a tough proposition on their own court. They have won three straight games, and are going strong. Porter, Butters and Lloyd are all good shots and aggressive on the attack, while Bell and Junkin can catch and pass with the best. The team has been drilled into a smooth-working machine, and has twice shown stamina by coming from behind to win by a good margin in the second half. According to the "Y" experts who have watched them in action, the Juniors are such in only.

The Intermediate Team will meet Melrose in the second game. After dropping a heart-breaking game to West End by the score of 12-10 on the latter's floor, the team has won its last two games by wide margins. The Melrose team is the dark horse of the league, and to the effect that it is very strong. It will certainly have to be to beat the Intermediates. Manager Brewer has rounded up a strong team, which works well together. All are good shots, and Smith at forward is one of the most consistent scorers in the league. Les Tren has turned out, and will strengthen the defence considerably. The game will be well worth seeing, and of considerable importance, as a win will put Varsity directly in line for the championship and entry in the Ontario semi-finals.

The big game of the night will bring together those old rivals, Central "V" and Varsity. Though Central are last year's Dominion champions and last the Senior section of the League, Varsity are by no means daunted. After a slow start they have finally perfected their team play and are all ready to upset the dope and hand Central a surprise similar to that of last year. In any case, the game will be one of the most desperately fought seen on Hart House court this year. Wells and Reeves, of Central, are two of the fastest and most spectacular players in Toronto, while the cool and scientific work of Boland and Ginsberg at guard wins game after game for their team. Ginsberg is the best foul shot in the league, and the best all-round player in Ontario. Stewart and McDougall penetrated the "V" defence last year, and expect to do the same this year. Burgess at centre has outjumped and outplayed Wells on several occasions, while the Varsity defense, composed of Cosgrove, Code and McLean, is in good condition and will hold the fast Central attack to mighty few baskets.

All in all, this will be one of the biggest basketball evenings of the whole season. Fans will seldom again have a chance to see three of Varsity's teams in action at Hart House on the same evening.

SQUASH TOURNAMENT OFF TO A GOOD START

Sixty-three squash players start off in the handicap tournament which began Tuesday, and from—4 men to 4-0 beginners there is the spirit of rivalry and good-fellowship that has boosted the followers of the sport to over 125 in 18 months. The three courts which are by the way, three-fifths of the courts in the whole city, resound at every hour of the day with the sound of racquet and ball.

The handicappers were faced by a huge task to equalize the abilities of the various players and they have done well. The first round of the tournament is to be played off this week, and all entrants are requested to play their games as soon as possible and post results upon the bulletin board for results of games watch the Varsity.

INDOOR BASEBALL

Trinity, 11. Sr. Arts, 8

Trinity won from Sr. Arts yesterday and now lead their group with two wins in as many starts. Arts piled up five runs in the first inning but were unable to hold their lead and Trinity, aided by several misplays, came from behind to win. Smith pitched well for Sr. Arts, but received poor support. Ferguson starred for Trinity. Lee was hurt in a collision and forced to retire.

Line-up

Sr. Arts—Hanan, 2B; Matchett, C.F.; Reburn, S.S.; Smith, P.; Stanton, 3B; Keeler, 1B; Mitchell, C.; Meredith, L.F.; Lee, R.F.; Hillard, R.F.

Forestry, 27. Wycliffe, 3

Forestry swamped Wycliffe yesterday by the score of 27-3. Wycliffe went to pieces in the fourth inning and Forestry piled up a safe lead, knocking Swan out of the box and running wild on the bases.

Jr. Dents, 13. Jr. School, 8

Jr. Dents outslugged Jr. School in a heavy hitting game and came out on top. Some excitement was caused in the third inning, when it was discovered that Dents had ten men on the field. Crawford pitched the last two innings for Dents and displayed good control.

Jr. Dents—Finnaker, Risbors, Dyer, Gruler, Rattle, Moses, Dutton, McMillan, Crawford, Rumball.

Jr. School—Berner, Williamson, Dickinson, Little, Taylor, Dow, Hamilton, Norman, Sayers, Baycroft.

A business meeting of the Women's Swimming Club of U. of T. was held on Friday afternoon. As enough members to constitute a quorum were not present, another meeting had to be arranged.

The Swimming Club will meet on Wednesday nights from 7 to 10, and on Monday afternoons from 2 to 5.30. The club fee is $1.25 to those who have paid their athletic fee; to all others, it is $2.00.

As the attendance at the last meeting of the club was most discouraging, it is hoped that larger numbers will turn out in future, and do their bit in making the work of the Swimming Club a success.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

We're mighty sorry to hear it. It weakens what would otherwise have been a magnificent team. The green and white of the Granites suited Goale Roach all right but the green of the St. Pat's green and white proved too strong an attraction and he was out practicing with them yesterday. We guess somebody will have to move over and make room for Lou Marsh on the Varsity bench now. However, here's hoping Granites land somebody just as good for their net as the competition makes the game what it is. Aura Lee is shaking a mean bunch of sticks, but they wear red and white and we are used to watching those colours.

Don't forget the Junior S.P.A. game to-morrow night. Say, do you know that in the three thousand fans at the last Junior game there weren't enough Varsity students to give a yell? They know that your hearts are with them, but the odd Varsity will go a long way towards reassuring them of the fact. Aura Lee and Varsity Juniors are tie for the cup. It's going to be speedy. Get behind Connie!

JUNIOR U.C. BASEBALL

The regular practice will be held to-day in the Upper Gym at 11 p.m. A full turn-out is imperative. We play Junior School on Friday. We need your support to win.

Basket Ball

The Basketball game which was played on Monday between the medical and U.C. girls resulted in a tie, 26-26. It was splendidly played and held the tense interest of the spectators from start to finish. The U.C. girls played a faster game, but their forwards were not such sure shots as were M. Burridge and D. Trapp of the medical. At half-time the score was 10-14 in favour of U.C. Meds. Burridge, M. Burridge, D. Trapp; Centres, P. Summerfield, F. Gould; Guards, B. Wilson, L. Sher; Spares, A. Nicholson, E. Chase.

U.C.—Forwards, H. Smith, E. Morden; Centres, H. Taylor, M. Asman, G. Gair, M. Donaldson, M. Waller, Spares, G. Williams, R. Harris, L. Fuller.

SOCCER CLUB

The Annual Meeting of the above Club will be held in the Lecture Room, Hart House, on Thursday, January 12th, at 5 p.m. The meeting is open to all members but voting members are restricted as follows:

(a) Players of this Club, registered in C.I.A.U. during the past season (i.e. members of the first and second teams).
(b) Two playing members from each faculty and college who entered teams in the Interfaculty Series during the past season.

(c) Members of the out going executive. Nominations must be made in writing, signed by two voting members of the Club and filed with the Secretary of the Athletic Association not later than Thursday, January 5th. Nominees must be members of the Athletic Association in good standing and at the time of nomination registered in the second or a higher year.

At a meeting of the executive to consider the resignations of the President and Secretary the resignations were accepted and the following were appointed to carry on for the year 1934-35:
President—H. E. Winefield.
Vice-President—R. Nelson.
Secretary—F. H. Edwards.

There will be a meeting of the executive and the managers of the First and Second teams and the captains of the First and Second teams on Tuesday, December 18th, at 5 p.m., across from the Directors' office.

The members of last year's Intercollegiate Championship Team are notified that the Intercollegiate Medals are in the hands of the Secretary of the Athletic Association and may be had by calling at Mr. Reed's office.

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor of the Varsity
Dear Sir:
Our Dent Soccer supporters are asking you who S.P.S. should play Guelph after they were defeated on Friday by Dent, so we will explain the situation.

The semi-final series between S.P.S. and Dents called for two games, goals to count. In the first game, which was tied, S.P.S. were fifteen minutes late in lining-up, making the last ten minutes of play in discussion with a S.P.S. spectator who disapproved of the referee. As to the duty of the referee we leave that to the large crowd of spectators who witnessed the game. The climax was reached when Dents scored a goal and the referee, instead of giving his decision at once, walked down the field and entered into a discussion with a S.P.S. spectator who claimed the ball had hit him before going into the goal. The referee then, and not until then, gave his decision and disallowed the goal, and Dents protested the game. The Soccer executive met and at the suggestion of a S.P.S. representative three neutral members of the executive, one of whom had witnessed the game, were asked to decide the protest. Both S.P.S. and Dents pledged themselves to abide by their decision, and after careful consideration they called for a replay, with Mr. Beaton, in Toronto, to referee. To handle the game Dents were could not be dispensed and this gave them the game. However, we were now informed that a protest had been entered by S.P.S. before the game disputing the committee's decision. This was unknown to the Dent team until after the game.

The matter was taken to the Athletic Directorate who annulled the decision of the Soccer Executive, and disallowed the last game, thereby giving S.P.S. the decision.

We wish them luck in their struggle for the nominal interfaculty championship, realizing however, that in the only fair game of the three in the semi-final series, we were victors.

Yours truly,
A Dent Player

THREE ARTS CLUB LISTEN TO FINE TALK ON CANADIAN WORK

"The Development of Canadian Art" Mr. Jeffery's Subject

HAS DISTINCTIVE FEATURE
Work of Canada Has Very Interesting History

Catholized about a blaring fire in the Union Common Room on Wednesday afternoon the Three Arts Club enjoyed a most interesting talk by Mr. C. W. Jefferys on "The Development of Canadian Art."

Mr. Jefferys said that in order to understand any art we must have a clear understanding of the artist's background, the habits and ways of thinking of the people who produced it before we can possibly have a sympathetic appreciation. The art of Canada has its foundations in that of older lands, its first manifestation being in the decoration and design of the French-Canadian churches of Quebec. Their designers came from Europe and so produced buildings in the Jesuit style of architecture, disregarding the Gothic, which had been discarded by the Renaissance. Though the churches were based on European ideas these churches nevertheless developed individual characteristics, such as steep roofs and a result ornamentation, which traits were a result of climatic conditions. Their beauty lies chiefly in their simplicity and proportion, their deficiency and quaintness, which qualities are distinctive characteristics of the French Canadian.

The first Canadian pictures were altar pieces sent out from France, no professional painters arising in Canada until well on in the nineteenth century.

Mr. Jefferys showed the first Canadian landscape, a quaint little drawing of Niagara Falls, as seen by the slightly mendacious Pere Louis Hennepin. This piece of work is of more value for the standpoint of historical interest than of art. The next Canadian painter was Mrs. Simcoe, whose sketches have been recently published in her diary.

The first picture to convey something of the real character of the country were those by an Englishman, W. H. Bartlett, those by a real Canadian, that we had but it is not until the forties that we find the first expression was Paul Canby and even he painted North American landscapes in a European atmosphere, though his work shows considerable artistic merit.

Berthon then set a high standard of portrait painting. Kruger produced vivid scenes of French-Canadian life and Lacroix portrayed wild forest scenes and rivers with remarkable force. At this time also came the work of Daniel Fowler and Edward Fawcett.

From this time on there has been an increasing number of Canadian artists, in 1872 the O.S.A. was founded, in 1879 the R.C.A. We have fine art galleries in Toronto, Winnipeg, Montreal and Ottawa. Mr. Jefferys then spoke of the changes made in Canada since the war, and paid a high tribute to the work of Mr. Allward, whose war memorial monument, now set up in France, will give Canadian art a real standing.

Canadian art has certain tendencies of its own. The influence of the strongly marked physical characteristics of the country is shown on our artists whose colour sense has also been greatly influenced by their observation and pictorialization of the snow, which is a feature of our landscape for many months of the year. Our clear air does not interpose a veil of grey and so the colours are keen and vivid. The Canadian artists have been keen to express a nervous energy and intensity of feeling which have not been portrayed by old methods and thus we have been forced to establish a style of our own which has put us well on the way to successful landscape painting.

The meeting closed with an informal discussion of the subject and Mr. Jefferys showed several very interesting prints of Canadian pictures past and present. The delightful informality and enthusiastic atmosphere which is invariably enjoyed at these meetings has created an atmosphere which is indescribably enjoyable and only to be understood by those who have experienced it. Those who have not are to be pitied; they are losing one of the opportunities of a life-time.

McMASTER WOMEN WIN IN I.C.D.U. DEBATE

Women of St. Mike's Defeated on Question of Appeals to Privy Council

The first debate of the Women's Inter-collegiate Debating Union was held Tuesday night in St. Joseph's College Auditorium. The subject was: "Resolved that appeals to the Privy Council from Canadian Law Courts should be abolished." McMaster upholding the affirmative and St. Michael's the negative. Both sides were well represented and delivered their arguments with great precision and clearness. Both were gifted in oratory.

Broadly the affirmative was assisted by Miss Mason, Miss Teresa Longway and the first speaker for the negative, Miss Blanche La. Rottelle. The second, the latter was probably the best speaker of the evening owing to her manner of delivery and her enunciation. A new system of judging has been started this year. The three judges, Mr. Luggins, Mr. O'Connell and Mr. Hunter, sat in different parts of the

"CANDIDA" DELIGHT TO THEATRE GOERS

Bernard Shaw Production at Hart House This Week

The play at Hart House Theatre this week is remarkable in many ways. It is Bernard Shaw, but nothing like the usual intellectual farce which, to most people, is typical of Shaw. It is a romantic tragedy in which the third and unsuccess-filled corner of the triangle leaves the scene, fearlessly and quite without the customary appeal for sympathy which marks the work of most playwrights of the revolt against convention. Last, but not least, it is perhaps the closest approach to the play of the commercial type that has yet been played at Hart House. It is to be hoped that we get no closer; competition of that sort is undesirable.

Miss Grace Webster's playing of the title role is noteworthy as an example of restraint and charm. She has a difficult part to play, especially in the last act, and her handling of the final scene with Marchbanks and Morell is charming in the extreme. Raymond Massey's playing his light and extreme brightness help to give the required effect of youth and poor health, and over and above that the passion to acting, combined with the closest approach to poetry that Shaw gives an actor to recite, makes a memorable representation of a difficult part.

Prof. Bain in a short speech thanked Mr. Brockbank, for having stridden the forefront of the importance and opportunity for development of the abrasive industry in Canada. Prof. Adolph also spoke, concluding with his customary little joke. Mons. Turner's Jazz Sextette created weird and throbbing symphonies, which proved a pleasant surprise. The orchestra brought to a close a very enjoyable evening.

McMASTER DEFEATED BY DENTS IN SECOND ROUND I.C.D.U. DEBATE--KEENLY CONTESTED

Decisively Proved That Appeals From Canadian Courts To The Privy Council Be Abolished--Williams and Boyd for Dents

By eliminating McMaster in a spirited debate, Dents ended the third round in the I.C.D.U. Series. The debate was held at McMaster Memorial Hall, the subject being "Resolved that Canada's right of appeal to the Privy Council should be abolished." The affirmative was upheld by R. A. Williams and J. A. Boyd, representing Dents, while C. H. Brisco and G. M. Henry of McMaster supported the negative.

Mr. Williams opened the discussion in his usual animated style pointing out that Canada was now a nation and recognized as such by Great Britain and all members of the League of Nations and that sending cases for final adjudication to the Privy Council was incompatible with Canada's status as a Nation. In early days the necessity no longer existed.

Canadians have proved themselves second to none in every line of endeavour, and it is a reflection on our judges to have our cases taken outside of Canada for final interpretation. He further pointed out that British investors would not fear to invest their money in Canada if this right were removed. He concluded by showing that instead of stimulating a pride in the Empire which we are a member on equal footing with the British Isles.

C. H. Brisco, the first speaker for the negative, gave a very eloquent speech in which he pointed out that it was the right of every British citizen to carry his grievance to the foot of the throne, this was a heritage and not a status. He said, "The play at Hart House Theatre this week is remarkable in many ways. It is Bernard Shaw, but nothing like the usual intellectual farce which, to most people, is typical of Shaw. It is a romantic tragedy in which the third and unsuccess-filled corner of the triangle leaves the scene, fearlessly and quite without the customary appeal for sympathy which marks the work of most playwrights of the revolt against convention. ## CHRISTMAS "GOBLIN" WILL BE ON DECK SOON

"Some of those mean men, who fail to get one, are going to go home and tell their wives." This is what the head of Hamilton's Street Cleaning Department thinks of the G.O.B.L.I.N., who is coming out next week. Inquiries are being received hourly by wire, telephone, mail, and special delivery, paying for a few copies in advance to cheer up defeated election candidates. The wife of one wrote is follows: "You know, dear G.O.B.L.I.N. (I call you dear G.O.B.L.I.N. because I think of you as a personal friend), I left to sorry for my husband, he failed to get one, but I comfort myself with the thought that G.O.B.L.I.N. will soon be out, and he will be his happy one again. Varsity's politeness are offering large sums for the sake to get G.O.B.L.I.N. in their speeches, but none of these have as yet been accepted."

MEDICAL SOCIETY MET LAST EVENING

Prof. McLeod's Address on "Claude Bernard" Orchestra and Entertainer

The second open in Mass Meeting of the Medical Society was held last night in the Lecture Room of Hart House, about 400 members of the Society being present. Prof. or J. R. McLeod furnished what the chairman described as the "piece de resistance" of the evening, which took the form of a most interesting address on the life history and work of Claude Bernard, the eminent French physiologist.

Speaking to an exceptionally enthusiastic audience, Professor McLeod related how, in spite of the most adverse circumstances both domestic and financial, Bernard had been a successful and brilliant in his researches that he had given more to the medical profession and consequently more to humanity than almost any other investigator.

Following the address Mr. Arthur Yule, the popular entertainer, highly delighted the audience with a succession of songs and stories. Coffee, sandwiches and apples were then served and after this number of those present staged a "stag" dance. The Medical Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. C. W. Maitland, gave its opening performance at the meeting and was concluded by all to be a superlative success. The students of Medicine owe much to those who have so unselfishly spent much of their spare time in forming so valuable an asset to the Society.

The next meeting will take place in January, when Dr. W. G. Gallie will give an address on the life of Lord Lister. No member of the Society should fail to be present. Watch for further announcements.

JR. HOCKEY TEAM DEFEATS AURA LEE---TWO BASKETBALL TEAMS VICTORS

VARSITY DO WELL IN BASKETBALL WEDNESDAY NIGHT---WIN TWO, LOSE ONE

Jrs. Defeat Garrett's, Former O.B.A. Champions---"Y" Quintette Win on Close Margin--Intermediates Now in Second Place

On Wednesday night Varsity's three City Basketball teams entertained on the Hart House floor.

The Juniors led off against Garrett's, last year O. B. A. Champions and drew first blood in a 25 to 16 game. The Intermediates then took on the Aura Lee team and when the frames were over the latter's goal bulged with Varsity baskets. To finish the evening, Varsity Seconds were tossed out by a single point by Central "Y," last year's unofficial Dominion Champions.

The Y.M.C.A. quintette took the floor without their star forward, "Chuck" Reeves, but at the intermission, the score stood 13-9 in their favour. Reeves arrived at half-time, but Varsity managed to sandwich in the odd baskets and crept up.

With about a minute to go "Rod" Stewart and Smith took beautiful goals, putting the "Y" up three points. Johnson the pivot of the Central attack, then topped one in with one hand. Smith's ankle was hurt in the savage play and was forced to retire. Johnson, playing superbly, dropped one in from centre floor---a most wonderful piece of work. There were then thirty seconds to go. Varsity played every man on the attack and the elusive sphere wavering on the edge of the goal caused many near heartbreaks. Central gained possession and shot the ball down the floor, just as the whistle blew, putting an end to one of the most thrilling games ever seen in Hart House.

Both teams worked like a machine and very few mistakes were made. "Rod" Stewart led the Varsity attack with 14 points. For Central, Johnson, Wells and Menzies gave us pretty an exhibition of trick short passing and shooting as one could wish to see. Ginsberg, on the defence showed his ranking as the best shot in Ontario in missing but two, but in this respect Stewart ran him a close second. Reeves and Cosgrave missed things a little too freely in the heat of the game and were given a rest.

The teams---
Central---Johnson, I. F. (2); Johnson R. F. (8); Wells, C. (4); Boland, L. G. (2); Ginsberg, R. G. (7); Reeves and Menzies.
Varsity---Stewart, L. F. (14); Smith, R. F. (4); Burgess, C. (4); Cople, L. G.; Cosgrave, R. G.; McLean, (4); Cople, McLaughlin.
Referee---H. Buscombe.

The Intermediates had little trouble in defeating Melrose and now hold second place in the League. Although held closely in the first half, they ran wild in the second. "Hippo" Smith, "Gard" Fraser and Jennings scoring at will.

The score 12-10 to 17 represents the play.

The teams---
Melrose---Thompson, I. F. (3); E. Thompson, R. F. (0); Crowe, C. (4); Barrett, L. G. (2); Creighton, R. G. (2); Squarbridge, (6); Burgess and Steiners.
Varsity---Smith, L. F. (17); Fraser, L. F. (10); Jennings, C. (10); Shields, L. G.; Brewer, R. G.; Uren, Dutton and Taylor.
Referee---Kinner Bell.

The fast well-conditioned Juniors gave a wonderful exhibition of team-play. Turner's exceptional reach gave Varsity a big jump on the ball in the first half, and Pollock in the second carried on the good work with his good shooting. Capt. Butters played a stellar role, late on the defence and on the attack. Garrett's showed some exceptionally fine basketball, but were weak in shooting.

They took exception to Leigh's rulings in the first half and to Hulme Duffell called them in the second.

Varsity now lead their league with a clean slate and have a team worthy of support from the side-lines.

The teams---
Garrett's---Burnham, I. F. (4); Lister, R. F. (3); Moore, C. (4); Levy, L. G.; Altman, R. G. (2); Phillips and Gold, (3).
Varsity---Pollock, L. F. (4); Butters, R. F. (10); Turner, C. Mackintosh, L. G. (2); Bell, R. G. (2); Junkin and Pollock (8).
Referee G. F. Leigh and Hulme Duffell.

ROWERS, ATTENTION!

We are still quite sure that there are a great many men who are missing the chance of their lives. If there is any probability that you might stay in the city next summer and if you are over 150 lbs., come down any night from 5 until 6 o'clock. Let me emphasize a few facts. You don't have to know anything about rowing, in fact you are more welcome if you don't. There are thirty or forty men starting now so you ought to get in with the beginners at once. We have a number of Varsity's champions in other sports turning out but they haven't any more chance than you. You get out now for the practices being held at present are for men who know nothing about rowing. For your own good, and for the sake of Varsity, come out now and don't wait until it is too late to get the grounding that is so essential.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Connie and his gang occupied the limelight last night. A pretty neat little outfit, eh what? Is Connie all right? You bet.

But Bill and his squad of world-beaters and Granite crushers will be out Saturday. Check 'em over. "Hawk-eye" Langtry; reliable old Beattie Ramsay; Stan Brown, slow but sure; Ned Wright, the original "burr"; smooth Louis Hudson; Bill Carson, the king-pin of the centre men; George Westman, the buffer state; and that original nuisance, Fred Evans. Aren't they the cat's meow?

All onside for Saturday night. Come on, gang. Let's go.

WOMEN HAVE GOOD BASKETBALL SEASON

Final Game Between Meds and U.C.

There still remains one more game to be played between Meds and U.C. to complete the schedule of Women's Basketball for this season. Judging from the game put up by both teams in the semi-final on Monday night, this game should be exceedingly interesting and would be worth missing dinner to watch.

On the whole, the basketball this year has been well handled, and the schedule has been followed very closely. Great credit should be given to St. Michael's College and College of Education girls, who have had to encounter even more difficulties than usual in the way of lack of time, coach and material. In spite of this the teams have turned out faithfully to practice, and fought gamely against teams much more thoroughly trained.

Meds, U.C., St. Hilda's, and Vic. have particularly strong teams, and if Inter-collegiate Basketball is possible this year, from these teams it should be easy to pick a truly representative and strong sextette. Meds. and Vic. both have splendid forwards, and the guards of all four are good, though still further training is needed to avoid over-guarding, and too close guarding. It will be quite a difficult task to pick two best centres from the eight or ten girls on the teams, who have been doing remarkably fine work.

It is a good sign to see some new material on the teams. It is too bad that there is not more. Everyone knows that the facilities for women's sports in the University are not adequate. For this reason it seems to be taken for granted that it is not worth while bothering with the facilities that there are. It is entirely a wrong idea. It is true that the Gym and Tank at Lillian Masey are not large, but who has ever seen either of them crowded, or even uncomfortably full?

If the tank is not large it is a good one and well looked after. The gym is well equipped and the work well handled, yet the attendance in classes is disgracefully small. We do not object to dancing for several hours at a stretch in an over-crowded, over-heated room. Why do we object to a few hours a week in a well-ventilated gym for physical work and dancing or fencing or basketball?

Every girl should be in condition. Many of our so-called "break-downs" are not due to over-work but to under-exercise. One girl in ten, to place the figure high, in the University takes regular exercise, apart from a little walking and some, or more often a lot, of dancing.

This is wrong. Let us correct it while we may. Get out and improve your health and support your year at faculty. By noting? Yes, if you are absolutely unable to do anything else. If you can play, play by all means and strengthen your body, raise your spirits, improve your work and gladden the heart of your disgraced sports curator. Think it over honestly. Can you afford to throw away your opportunities?

Real Satisfaction!

Enjoy them to day

DENTALS WIN JUNIOR INTERFACULTY ASSAULT-AT-ARMS. GET 6 OF 13 FINALS

Boxing and Wrestling Events Bring Out Some Good Material
Meds Win 4 Finals, Arts 2, S.P.S. 1

Dental College won the Junior Inter-faculty Assault-At-Arms last night. They won six out of the thirteen final bouts. Meds won four, combined Arts two and S.P.S. one.

The wrestling showed the faithful coaching of Mr. Jordan had been in vain. Many of these Junior grapplers were very last and possessed a rare knowledge of numerous holds. There was very little of the pulling and tugging which usually marks the work of novices.

Semi-finals

118 lbs.---Rachlin of Arts defeated Matheson of Meds on referee's decision after each man had gained a fall. Matheson who was handicapped put up a very game and efficient fight.

135 lbs.---Bradley. Dents defeated Murray of School by a fall in five minutes.

156 lbs.---Pursons of Forestry defeated Shilts of Arts in 4 minutes.

175 lbs.---All of Forestry pinned McLean of School to the mat twice in 5 minutes.

145 lbs.---Torrence of Meds obtained the decision over Elbertson of Dents in 9 minutes.

Finals

118 lbs.---Wilson of Meds obtained the decision over Rachlin of Arts in six minutes.

125 lbs.---Cooper of Dents defeated his fellow Dent, Pritchard by two straight falls.

145 lbs.---Torrence of Meds obtained a fall over All of Forestry.

156 lbs.---Bradley Dents obtained two falls over Pursons of Forestry.

175 lbs.---Hare of Meds fell 4 Farnsworth of the same faculty.

Heavyweight---Thaler of Meds obtained two falls over "Taran" McClintock of School.

Boxing

SWIMMERS' INTER-FACULTY MEET

Annual Event To Be Held in Hart House To-night

U. of T. will hold their annual Inter-faculty Swimming Meet in the Hart House, Toronto, to-night, December 29th, at 8:15. The meet promises to be a specially good S.P.S. winners of the Fitzpatrick Trophy last year, are putting in a strong team to defend the cup. There is an entry list of seventy for the eight events. In the relay race there are seven teams entered, so the event, always the most exciting, will be particularly interesting. The fancy diving, with both Wren, the winner of the Intercollegiate last year, and Wood, the second man, diving again this year, will also be exceptionally good. Fletcher Waldron, holder of the Intercollegiate Long Plunge Record, has been coaching a lot of very promising material in this event, with the result that there are eleven entrants and it is established as a new one that will take some beating. The 400 yard race, a new event in Inter-faculty swimming, is proving very popular, having six entries for Friday night. In all, this meet promises to be the best held in the city this year.

To-night is one of the few occasions on which Hart House is open to ladies. The swimming club expects a very crowded pavilion to the ladies and sincerely hopes that there will be a large attendance. The seating capacity of the swimming pool galleries is very limited, and it would be advisable to come early.

TWO INTERESTING POLO GAMES THIS WEEK

S.P.S. Win From U.C.—Dents Swamp Meds by a Score of 12-0

U.C. put up a good scrap Wednesday, but were beaten by a better team, Fitzgerald scored two and Cliff Hartston three goals for School.

Wells played a very good game for U.C. and shows signs of becoming a water polo player of more than average ability.

The final score was S.P.S. 5, U.C. 0.

S.P.S.—Wells, Fitzgerald, Hartston, Schmelein, Conkin, Bull, Kettler, Matson.

U.C.—Roberts, Relyea, Lathford, Waldron, Blackwell, Wells, Lathford, Davis.

Referee—Reilly.

Judge of play—Reilly.

Dents completely outclassed Meds in Thursday's game. Reilly and Wood who were playing decently by way of a change often left their goals unprotected and charged up the tank to score for Dents.

Higgs, Hatfield and Derbyshire all played well, but were up against greater experience.

Final score, Dents 12, Meds 0.

Dents—Higgs, Hatfield, Bull, Hatfield, Derbyshire, Barton, Fletcher, Hums.

Meds—Woods (2), Reilly (4), Rowan (1), Reilly (1), Bennett (1), Nuttall (1), Porter, Wright (2).

Forestry

Yesterday's meeting of the Forester's Club, and of the Arboriculture Association, did not materialize, primarily owing to the non-appearance of two of the executives, who were detained elsewhere. While the fact that a large number of the members were thus kept waiting, without attaining any useful purpose, is regrettable, it should be clearly understood that the meeting was called to effect changes in the Constitution and even the presence of the executive would not have enabled this to be done.

To change the Constitution requires an affirmative vote of four-fifths of the active members of the club. This means that the year in addition to the Presiding Officer, forty-nine and six-tenths members are required. Active members this year number sixty-two.

For the Club's meetings are to be held hereafter on the first and third Friday of each month throughout the two academic terms without fail. If the Club is ever to accomplish any useful purpose it must be in a position to transact business at each and every meeting.

With the meetings permanently allocated to definite days throughout the term there should be no excuse for the failure of a number of members to still continue their attendance, and that is to reduce the number required in the Constitution to carry on business and to continue reducing until it reaches a point where the attendance is normally greater than required.

The attendance record is between thirty and thirty-five. In that number there are sure to be some dissenting votes on nearly every question. This means that should a larger attendance not be forthcoming the enthusiasts (a minority) will be controlling the actions, spending the money, and expressing the opinions of the minority, and minority.

This situation is not satisfactory to either the executive or the members but for better or for ill, the situation is what it is, and as the present situation.

The next meeting will be held on January 6 at 7:30 p.m. Save that date.

Next Monday marks a general census on the part of 213 for the bookbills. In three conditions they have five various League Camps in the southern Ontario province for the purpose of obtaining data for a report on actual working conditions on a lumber camp.

These expeditions are brought to a close in time for the men to return to the city for the Christmas festivities.

Let's all go to the Junior dance at Columbus this evening. This is the last big dance before Xmas. Programme starts at 8:45 p.m. sharp. Anyone wishing to go and not having a ticket see Lee Honey, 273 B.

All Dents not attending the Junior dance are urgently requested to be present at the Inter-faculty Swimming Meet at Hart House this evening. Many Dents are taking part so give them your support. The opening event is called for 8 p.m.

There is an important Hockey meeting to-day at 12 noon in Lecture Room 2. Managers for the Senior and Junior teams are to be elected. Every Dent has a vote to turn out and select a manager for the Championship team.

Applied Science

The Publication Executive of "Transactions" wish to announce the opening of a competition for a Dedication page. A prize of five dollars is offered for the winning design.

As this year's volume is to contain an Honour Roll of the School men killed overseas, it is suggested that the wording of this page adhere somewhat to the following: "This volume is dedicated to the Memory of the School of Science men who gave their lives in the Great War."

The page upon which the design will be printed measures 5 1/2" wide by 8 1/2" high. Competition closes January 9th at 9 a.m. Drawings to be handed in at the Engineering Supply Room, marked "Transactions." If further particulars are desired, see M. A. Norcross, Dept. of Architecture.

S.P.S. DEBATING CLUB

Every body turn out Monday night to the first inter-year debate for the Segsworth Shield. The first and second years will debate upon the subject: "Resolved that equal remuneration should be given for equal responsibility, to men and women."

REPLACEMENT SALE

OF "CAMBRIDGE CLOTHES"

Our Effort to Co-operate in Providing "A Job for Every Man, Prosperity for All"

The Ontario Government is appealing to all business firms and individuals to link up with its great co-operation campaign to create more employment for the workingman. The retail trade has been asked to help by getting their prices down to a replacement basis. The idea is to stimulate buying, so that the retailer will be able to order more freely from the manufacturer and thereby create more employment.

We have been selling "Cambridge Clothes" on a replacement basis for the past twelve months. We have enjoyed a good volume of business. But, in order to induce even greater buying, to deplete our stocks so that we can order new goods, we are going further than the Government's request would justify.

The U.C. Lit

On Tuesday evening 1st, at Argyle Hall, the Women's Literary Society presented two plays before a large and most appreciative audience. The plays were "The Twelve Pointed Star" by J. M. Barrie and "The Shadow of the Glen" by Synge.

The part of Kate, the ex-Lady Sims, was excellently portrayed by Miss Elizabeth Walton, whose acting showed that she had a real understanding of the character, while the dull and pompous Sir Harry Sims was successfully played by Miss Jessie MacPherson.

The second play was a decided hit, presented as it was in a way which showed a thorough understanding of the intricacy of Synge. Miss Alice Hunter as the tramp presented one of the best bits of amateur acting which has been seen around the college for some time, her delicate touches of character portrayed being inimitable; but the highest praise must be given to Miss Grace Williams. As Nora Burke she was delightfully sincere and unaffected. Great credit is also due to Miss Williams for her powers in the field of make-up, for the dead man, played by Miss Mary McGeachy, sent actual cold chills over the audience, not only through the acting, but by his ghastly appearance. Miss Mary Donaldson, as the secretary lover, was very good indeed.

Congratulations in high measure are due to Miss E. O'Driscoll, M.A., who directed the plays.

Trinity

A record attendance marked the opening meeting of the Trinity College Glee Club on Wednesday afternoon, and plans were drawn up to make this year's concert surpass all previous ones. The President, H. F. Ketchum, announced that the regular practices would be resumed next week in preparation for the concert on February 27. Minor business was then transacted, and the meeting adjourned in favour of refreshments.

Mannikin

Mannikin wishes to congratulate the Coeds of the Varsity upon their literary talent exhibited in the Women's Issue. I have everything good to say of them in regard to their cartoons and personal references to myself and in spite of my attitude to the women in other spheres this was quite commendable.

MEDS. WIN FINAL GAME OF WOMEN'S BASKETBALL SERIES

Hotly Contested Event Results in Score of 24-21

The final game of the Interfaculty Women's Basketball Series was played off Friday evening in the Lillian Massey Gym. The score at the end of the first half was 9-6 in favour of U.C., who made the first three baskets. In the latter half of the game, however, Meds. warmed up to the play with the resulting score of 24-21 in their favour. U.C. showed an excellent working combination during the entire game but was rather weak in shooting. Muriel Asman, as centre, played decidedly well throughout, and Molly Donahoe and Marjorie Wallace made splendid guards. The forwards, Dorothy Trapp and Muriel Burdige, starred on the Meds' team. Their play was excellent, especially in the latter half of the game.

Both sides received enthusiastic support, and during the interval at half time U.C. made a valiant effort to out-sell the clamorous Meds.

The following is the line-up:
Meds. Forwards: Dorothy Trapp, Muriel Burdige.
Centres: Pearl Summerfelt, Flora Gault.
Guards: Lillian Shier, Bessie Wilson.
U.C.—Forwards: Ethel Morden, Helen Smith.
Centres: Hazel Taylor, Muriel Asman.
Guards: Muriel Donahoe, Marjorie Wallace.

U.T.S. SCENE OF OWEN SOUND COLLEGIATE ALUMNI DANCE

The Owen Sound Collegiate Institute Re-Union and Dance was held Friday evening in U.T.S., and a very enjoyable time was spent by the alumni of the school. The patronesses were the Misses Grace Edwards and Marion Laile, Mrs. Arthur Le Pan, Mrs. T. Murray, Mrs. J. F. Van Every and Mrs. H. S. McKellar. Eug. N. Jones' Society Orchestra supplied the music for the affair.

A letter of felicitation from the student body of the O.S.C.I. was read. A meeting to elect officers for the Alumni Association will be held shortly in Hart House. Watch VARSITY for announcement, and all ex-students be there! "Dum vivimus vivamus."

BOXING GLOVES

The Boxing Instructor requests that all boxers will observe the rule that gloves are to be left in the box provided and not taken to the locker room.

SECOND ROUND IN SQUASH TOURNAMENT

University Club Win at Squash Saturday

The following players have qualified for the second round of the tournament now in progress: Leny, Spence, Hewgill, E. G. Rolph, Smart, Martin Cohen, Beck, Fairly, McDougall, Williams, Heaton, Fennell, Needler, Luke, P. H. Greedy, Croll.

Dickson, Bladen, Powis, Kenist, E. G. Rolph, Wallace, Ryrie and Jaquith have not as yet played their games and in order to enter the second round must have their sets completed by Monday evening.

The second round of the tournament should be completed, if possible, before the end of the term.

VARSITY SQUASH PLAYERS ENGAGE UNIVERSITY CLUB

In a return match played Saturday afternoon in Hart House a team of six squash players from the University Club defeated the Varsity players four (4) sets to two (2). The following were the results:

Varsity	University Club
D. A. Martin...3	Chipman...1
S. Greedy...2	Robinson...3
A. Coventry...0	Bentham...3
D. Guthrie...1	Greening...3
J. W. Cohen...1	Lash...3
W. A. Higgins...3	Rees...2

At the same time a team of seven, composed of Croll, Williams, Glover, Levy, Thompson and Fennell was competing on the University Club Courts. Complete results of these games are not as yet obtainable.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Among the happy throng of Varsity supporters on Saturday night there appeared only one woe-begone face. It was that of "Dad," the Hart House Curator. "Oh, woe is me!" he wailed, "by all present indications I shall have to spend all winter polishing the silverware that team will win. I have two shifts working overtime on it now."

Well, did you see the game? If you didn't you missed a sight for sore eyes. The whole gang showed the real old fighting stuff. Dad's fears were not without foundation, for that bunch is good enough to win anybody's hockey game. They came from behind and won with a whirlwind finish. They have shown their stuff. Now, get behind and support them.

U.C. WIN FROM SCHOOL AT INDOOR BASEBALL

In a baseball game last Friday Junior U.C. put the shills under Junior School to the tune of 14-5. "Poor Arts" pulled out of more than one hot corner by clever fielding. Andrews pitched a steady game for the winners, much credit being due him for his team's victory.

JUNIOR S.P.A. CUP ABLY DEFENDED AGAINST SAINT ANDREW'S

Smith and Taylor Star For Varsity in Aggressive Game Score 8-1

As a result of their win over St. Andrews College Saturday afternoon Varsity Juniors still hold the Junior S.P.A. Cup. Varsity outscored their opponents 8 goals to 1 and this about indicates the margin between the two teams. The Juniors did not play the game they showed against Aura Lee but were on top all the time. St. Andrews tired easily and relied on individual rushes, which could make no impression on the Varsity defence. Both teams shot rather widely and tried long shots from outside the defence instead of trying to bore in—St. Andrews did this repeatedly. Smith played a good game for Varsity and scored most of their goals or made the necessary passes. Dickenson, last year with U.T.S., was tried out in goal and handled some hard shots with ease—the one that got by him was a shot from outside the defence, which hit the goal post and glanced in off it. Taylor in the Varsity defence made some nice rushes, as did Porter. For St. Andrews Carrick and Findlay were best while Cameron, in goal, made some nice stops which kept the score down.

Varsity pressed from the start and until after Smith scored a goal from outside the defence the puck did not get into Varsity territory. The Varsity forwards constantly kept in on St. Andrews' goal, but while shooting and close checking kept them from scoring. St. Andrews tried lone rushes, which were of no use.

Period over. Varsity, 1; S.A.C., 0. The second period started with faster and better hockey than the first. S.A.C. pressed for a while. Carrick broke up a rush, and rushed down for the tying goal. Play lived up for a while and Greedy put Varsity in the lead when he scored on an individual rush from centre.

Varsity kept play in St. Andrews' territory, and Greedy scored another goal on a pass from Smith. Varsity, 3; S.A.C., 1.

Varsity played much better hockey in the third period and were constantly pressing. Somerville scored on a pass from Cloutier from behind the goal. Varsity showed some speed and nice passing, but couldn't score until Smith shoved in a rebound off Cameron's pads. Somerville scored a few minutes later in a pass from Smith. Smith intercepted a pass and scored another a minute later. Cameron kept the score down by some nice stops. Ross Taylor scored the final goal of the game on a pretty rush from the defence.

Final score: Varsity, 8; S.A.C., 1.

PATCHES

Coming Shortly After The New Year—Contributions Requested

Patches will make its second appearance for this year shortly after the commencement of next term. Contributors are requested to turn all available copy in before December 10th, so that good progress can be made in reading and preparing it for the next issue during the holidays. If you have ideas, get busy and get them in shape at once, for the Editors want to have a larger and better issue than ever. Copy will not be too late if turned in directly after New Year's, but the Editors want all possible in now.

Goblin Invades Canadian Homes as The Ideal Christmas Gift

Well, Boys and Girls, "Goblin" will be with us again next Wednesday! This issue is of an exceedingly high type and will reward all who have waited so patiently and so anxiously for its arrival. The price—nine cents—though low, has been drawn by Ayscarr and the witty and humorous contents have come from almost every school and faculty. The ladies (for there are only three who contributed towards this issue) have been frightened away by "Mimikin" or possibly have been so busy cramming for term exams that they temporarily forgot our professional rule number. As many students are saying "Goblin" is out of our minds, it is decided to supply making envelopes of it to set us to those who wish them. This envelope may be obtained upon request from those who are in charge of it throughout the various buildings.

SUBJECT ANNOUNCED FOR EDIT. CONTEST

U.S. President One of Judges of Pi Delta Epsilon Competition

In order to arouse the active support of every male undergraduate in the United States and Canada to Liberal Arts courses, and to refute the popular claim that a foreign cultural colony is a time-wasting Pi Delta Epsilon, Honorary Collegiate Journalism Fraternity, has announced as the subject for its 1921-22 Intercollegiate Editorial Contest, "The Practical Value of a Cultural Education."

Thousands of editorials on this subject are expected, for the contest will, this year, be open to every male undergraduate in every college and university of the United States and Canada. Because of great interest in this subject has been manifested of late and because of the fact that Pi Delta Epsilon will award its coveted gold, silver and bronze medals to the prize-winners, as well as its Certificate of Merit to first-prize winners in each college and university represented, an exceptionally large number of entries is expected.

Harding to Make Awards
President Warren G. Harding, a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, and former editor and present owner of the Marion (Ohio), "Star," will represent the fraternity in the presentation of awards. Three prominent metropolitan editors will act as final judges.

Nation-wide publicity will be given the 1921-22 contest through the Associated Press and other news-gathering media, and the prize-winning editorials will be released in mimeographed form, simultaneously, to every college, university and daily metropolitan newspaper in this country and Canada, together with photographs of the winners.

Contest Double in Scope

This year, Pi Delta Epsilon's contest will be double in scope. At local contest will be conducted at every college and university, and each local first prize-winner will receive the Certificate of Merit of the fraternity, and will be eligible to submit his editorial in the national contest. Three prize winners in the national contest will receive the Pi Delta Epsilon medals.

Contest Rules

(1) Contest will open December 3, 1921 and will close February 15, 1922, at midnight; (2) Editorials submitted may not exceed 500 words; (3) Type, or write legibly on one side of sheet only; (4) Write an assumed name in upper left corner of each sheet; (5) On the face of an envelope, write this assumed name, an closing a sheet of paper on which is written your own name, age, home city, class, and local address and telephone number, and seal envelope, pinning or clipping it to your editorial.

The local committee will number each editorial, upon receipt, as an additional check on the identity of its author.

Significance of Contest

Philip C. Pack, Grand Editor of the fraternity, in commenting on the contest, said, "We fully expect 5,000 entries. In the past, our chapters have conducted local editorial contests and we base this estimate upon the results of these local contests obtained. It will be an event of national interest, especially among the nation's college men and women."

Local Committee

The personnel of the local committee of judges will be announced in the Varsity as soon as the appointments have been made by the Toronto Chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon.

ENGINEERS TO HOLD FORMAL FROLIC AT HART HOUSE FEB. 3

The Annual At-Home of the Engineering Society, or, in other words, the School Dance, will be held in Hart House on Friday, February 3, 1922.

As everyone knows, the School social functions are comparatively few in number and it is, therefore, the supreme desire of the committee in charge of such affairs to make the most of the limited opportunity. Although few details have been announced by the committee it is assured that another of School sports and frolics has been planned for the evening of the annual At-Home. To those who were there last year it may seem that raising of the standards of the School Dance is impossible. But "Want and Die." Already Jardine's Orchestra has been secured and will supply the best of music. As to decorations, lighting effects, etc., it is expected that the "N.Y.N.Y.S." who are doing it. What better assurance could be given, for have not the school men the artistic influence of the architect as well as the mechanical genius of the engineer?

This is one of the two affairs at which School men in meet each other and also meet many of the most prominent graduates. It is a frolic at which everyone can find the opportunity to enjoy and prepare himself for the annual festival in April. So come on School, dig up that "fish and chips" and tell the "best and most" to prepare for the time of their life.

FINAL MEETING OF LIT. AT VICTORIA ATTRACTS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Instructive Lecture by Dr. Clemens on "Hereditary and Inheritance" Enthusiastically Received

There was an extra large attendance at the Vic Lit on Saturday evening, and an excellent programme was rendered. It was the final meeting of the Vic Lit term and formed a fitting conclusion to a string of successful nights.

Very interesting and instructive was the illustrated lecture by Dr. Clemens on "Hereditary and Inheritance," and to say the least it was greatly enjoyed by all present. Dr. Clemens explained in a lucid manner how certain traits are inherited through generations, and the results of union between different types of individuals. At the conclusion of his address a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Clemens was moved by Mr. J. M. Luck and seconded by Mr. C. W. Cline.

Saturday was election day in the Literary Society, with all its attendant excitement, and the results of the voting were announced by President A. E. T. Gilroy. The Independent Party was returned to power for the Spring Term.

The following are the results:
President, J. W. Luck '22 (accl.); Vice-President, S. J. Mathers '23, Leader of Government, H. Hazlewood '23; Secretary, H. A. Hollinrake '24; Treasurer, J. F. Nelson '23.

E. P. Congdon, B.A., the critic of the evening, congratulated the Progressive Party on the excellence of the meetings it has provided during the Fall Term, and also expressed appreciation of Dr. Clemens' lecture. J. A. C. Kell '23 was chairman of the evening.

A motion was passed congratulating the Dining Hall Committee on the very high standard of meals provided in Burwash Hall, and on reduction in price.

A luncheon in the Little Common Room followed the meeting in Alumni Hall. Election speeches were given there.

Newman Club

ANNUAL DANCE ON FEB. 8

The Annual Newman Dance will be held on February 8th at Columbus Hall. The Club Executive has taken great pains to make this positively the finest and best of all the big Newman dances, and, judging from the outlook at present, it is not likely that they will fail. As yet the programme has not been announced but George Brennan, "Bill" Foley and Frank Servais can be relied upon to make it most attractive and productive of real enjoyment to all who are fortunate enough to be present. Naturally the number of the aforesaid article is limited and the men of the various faculties are urged "to buy early and avoid the rush." In fact all who wish to secure tickets will do well to purchase them immediately upon returning after Christmas and then they will be assured of admission, otherwise many might be too late and will miss this grand and glorious event. Don't expect Santa Claus to put one in your stocking because he does not carry articles of such exceptional value. See to it yourself! Remember it's February 8th at Columbus Hall.

ASK HER now.

A. U. OF P. TRADITION

At the University of Pennsylvania it is a tradition to have the President of the Senior Year become the recipient of an academic gown which has been handed down from the heads of previous graduations since the year 1880. This year it has been found necessary to provide a new gown, which was recently formally presented to the President of the University, now on exhibition in the Houston Hall Trophy Room. The new gown was presented by the President of '80.

ECHOES OF THE PAST Clippings from "The Varsity" of Former Days

ON THE STAMPING OF FEET

Many a professor has wondered why his students should at times be seized with a mania that expresses itself in an apparently senseless stamping of the feet.

He is rarely troubled by it in the course of a lecture. An outbreak at such a time usually follows an announcement of his own and is significant—according to a Glasgow contemporary—of the fate of those who carried forth Ananias. The uproar precedes, as a rule, the entrance of the professor, and ceases after he has made his bow. No amount of sarcasm has ever been able to induce a class to entirely abandon the habit.

One lecturer with a Scotch accent casually inquired on coming into his class-room one day:

"What's the matter? Feet caw'd?"

A laugh was his only answer.

Another, with a more caustic tongue, leaned over his desk and, in the profound hush that followed a particularly violent outbreak, said:

"Many years ago a celebrated paleontologist, while working in the west, discovered the fossil remains of an animal so large that it had to have a second brain in the lower part of its lumbar region. Judging by the want of control exercised by certain members of this class over their neither extremities, I should suppose that their subsidiary centres were similarly placed." Even this was not a permanent success, for it all began again a month later.

Some are disposed to date the origin of the custom back to the days of the centaurs, since the stamp of impudence is a gesture distinctly equine in character. Others are not willing to admit of this conclusion, urging that there are many missing links in the chain of evidence brought forward in its support. Those who take this stand have two explanations to offer. One is in line with the query of the Scotch professor, the other finding an origin in the polite customs of former days. The latter idea has its foundation in the form of subservient salutation in vogue during Mr. Pickwick's time. This consisted in scraping backward with the foot, at the same time pulling the head forward by tugging on the forelock of hair, grown long for the purpose. The words accompanying the salute were, "Sarvint, sir!" and of course the whole performance was taken to be complimentary to the person addressed. In support of this contention it is pointed out that the fashion still persists in certain sections north of Gravenhurst as the correct thing in saluting one's partner in the lancers. The pulling of the forelock has, however, been dropped, as well as the verbal formula.

The other explanation depends for its chief support upon the overmastering power of a habit formed in early life. As is well known the majority of students hail from the counties. They have been blessed with that first essential to future greatness—a rural birthplace. They have likewise been taught in one of the "little red school houses" to which so much reference is made during Easter week.

The Teachers' Association meets. They have no knowledge of the "fall dinner pail" argument in municipal politics, for they have carried their liberal lunches down the two miles of hilly road, so often referred to, for six or eight years. Now it is a fact that during at least four months in each of those years the question of cold feet had daily to be met. Every sort of experiment had been tried. The full stock, oil grain, kip blucher had been replaced by the split leather, telescope boot, and this again had given way to the lumberjack's sock and Granby soap-proof rubber. No one of them gave a perfect solution, so other expedients were resorted to. Of these kicking a wall or a wooden box was about the best, provided one of the objects were at hand when required. The most efficient method was the violent stamping of the feet upon the floor or by doing a "stationary run."

The stamping was the favourite method since one could sit down while doing it, thus giving the other parts of the body a rest during the process of warming the extremities. Being thus, in a measure, compelled to act during four-tenths of each school year it soon became a habit, so that the daily sessions came to begin with an automatic discharge of energy in the manner described. On entering college the subconsciousness of the student becomes stirred by the similarity of the surroundings, seats, a platform, a blackboard, a teacher. The years drop off like a plummet and aside. The lips move in an articulate effort to answer "Present!" and all the while the feet are marking fast time on the floor beneath. The past fades and the present returns. Consciousness succeeds subconsciousness and the uproar ceases—for the time. That is may cease forever the reformer must begin by warning the floors of the country school houses, for it is beyond the power of a collegian to abandon a habit acquired as a school-boy.—From THE VARSITY of Jan. 27, 1904.

KNOX MYSTERY SOLVED BY DARING REPORTER

Rare Relic of Past Ages Source of Great Stir in Best Circles

So much unwelcome curiosity and attention has been drawn towards Knox College owing to the frequent sight of a weird contraption tied to one of the trees outside the campus entrance that we have been commissioned by the Senate and Board of Governors to clear up the mystery of this relic once and for all. The staff and student body wish to disclaim all responsibility for the existence of the aforesaid object, they are embarrassed by the platoons of detectives and keepers which persistently stalk this runny-runner to its moorings, and they feel most keenly that "this beautiful building" must not rest under a cloud of suspicion through the aberrations of one inmate.

We are pleased then to present in this issue an exclusive interview with the owner of this eccentric relic, Robert MacQuarrie, a favour granted only to THE VARSITY, all serial and motion-picture rights reserved. At first Mr. MacQuarrie hesitated to give an interview, but finally broke down and confessed. It was a moving sight, the strong man convulsed with sobs, his shoulders heaving under his braces, while in a voice moist with tears he gaped out the story of how, in a weak moment, he allowed the thing to follow him home, and how he has not the heart to chase it away. But let Mr. MacQuarrie tell it himself.

"I was coming down the steps between McMaster and the Museum one night, when, to my horror, something floated out of a window in the Museum and alighted at my feet, where it stood on its hind wheels and bowed. Recovering from my fright I ventured to examine the novel vehicle and read the following inscription in short-hand hieroglyphics: 'Trolen's Garage; to the patrons and return, this measure of Corn Flakes.'"

"I said nothing about it to the Museum authorities but got a license for it the next day. I had it loaded as a motorcar, and it really runs by a powerful spring in that fifth wheel. I want that up when you think I'm trying to crank the thing. I shove it off to a running start and let it go."

"No, but I've been slapped."

down the wheel with a bump. The impact releases the coil and she moves forward under centrifugal cuthers. Once under way the spring is kept constantly whirling, what appears to be the steering wheel. Of course that has nothing to do with steering it at all. You steer it with your feet like a bob-sleigh. When you step on what seems the clutch you are really turning it to the left. The apparent brake is for sending it to the 'gee' side. There are no brakes of course. You attain that effect by dragging your feet on the ground."

Here we ventured to interrupt Mr. MacQuarrie and asked how he obtained that violent exhalation, smoke and corruption effect. "Very simple," he sobbed, reaching for another handkerchief. "Strapped under the cushions I have an almost empty Park-and-Beans can, containing a row of fire-crackers packed in some of MacCollough's tobacco. The first turn of the spring works a cigar-lighter and bungler. I used to carry a tin of gasoline for the sake of the smell, but had to discontinue that ruse. Those parlor-hands, who are forever pressing their pants downstairs, used to drain my car to sponge on their bally soap stains."

I couldn't have kept up the deception much longer. I dreaded arrest any moment on the complaint of the Museum authorities. My tire repairs were owing to the armies of squirrels which persisted in following my car and ate up my spare parts."

"I hope that any late may deter any young men who, in their anxiety to make a hit with the coeds, may be tempted to acquire a ventricle. Because, let me warn you, boys, they won't ride in the d'n thing any way."

"Now leave me, gentlemen, I beg you, alone with my grief. And wheel my pentacle back to the Museum!" So we tipped softly out and locked the door.

STUDENTS AID IN CANVASS FOR FUNDS

Students of the Western University, London, will assist in a canvass of the voters of the city in favour of a by-law granting the University $250,000 towards its new Arts Building. The campaign, which aims at approaching every citizen of London on the subject, is being directed by the Chamber of Commerce.

"Where you ever pinched for going to last?"
"No, but I've been slapped."

To All Our Readers from the Heads of the University and Colleges

The Chancellor

The world is passing through an unparalleled stage in its history. It is indeed being re-made. Never before has there been greater need for men and women of high ideals, trained intellects, and well-balanced judgment to grapple with the problems, political, social, economic and industrial, that are pressing for solution and upon the right solution of which so much depends.

The students in our universities and colleges will soon have to take part in this great work, and it behooves them to see that they avail themselves of the opportunities which these institutions afford to equip themselves for the work in which they should, and I doubt not will, take a worthy and effective part.

W. R. MURPHY,
Chancellor.

The President

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

I appreciate your kind offer to allow me a few words of Christmas greeting to the students of the University. The term that is passing has run by very rapidly and I am sure that those who have been here before, as well as those who have come to the University for the first time, have found great satisfaction and pleasure both in their intellectual work and their social activities. New friendships have been created; old ones have been confirmed. You have been discovering the value, as well as the opportunity, of an academic training. I hope that the short interval will be a means to you not only of enjoying thoroughly the pleasure of home which at this time of the year means so much to us Canadians, but that you will also, by the rest, be better fitted for carrying through successfully the work of the next term. Let me wish you all a happy Christmas season and the most prosperous of New Years when it comes.

ROBT. A. FALCONER,
President.

The President of the S.A.C.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

It is with very great pleasure that I accept your invitation to use the columns of THE VARSITY to convey my Christmas greetings to the student body.

While my activities as President of the Students' Administrative Council and in other capacities have brought me into more or less close touch with many of the undergraduates of all faculties, still in a University so large as ours there remain a great many with whom I can never come into immediate contact, and it is to them especially that I am glad to use this opportunity to send a personal message.

A merry Christmas and a happy and successful New Year to all members of U. of T. is the hearty wish of
Yours very sincerely,

JOHN LOWE,
President, S.A.C.

The Principal of U. C.

It was easy enough in 1917, when University College sent its last Christmas message to its students—students at the front to word the message. War adjourns all problems; war ignores all doubts. Life has for once an obvious purpose to carry on. "Remiculate at gossamer," et hoc nos verecimus," wrote the College to the trenches; and then voted in the only election for fifty years which has united all English-speaking Canadians, and drawn every man almost, the indifferent, the fastidious, the abstemious from politics, to the political poll.

It is just as difficult in 1921 as it was in 1917 to frame a Christmas message. We are back as we were. We are no longer at attention; we have just come out of an election where the host of abstainers, though the voters' lists were doubled, left the total vote but little altered; half the country seems to be impudently Unionist, muttering "a plague on both your parties," why can't we have the best of each as in 1917?

Peace has its delects no less distressing than war's, we are closing a year of so-called Peace, the most disturbed, the most disturbing, the most ominous the world has seen in the file of any living man.

But possibly by Christmas Day a light may be glimmering again, as there glimmered on the first Christmas Day a light which has since over-shadowed the world, and in a real and solid sense has redeemed it from what it was before.

The Conference at Washington looks like the morning star of a day of real peace, not of suspended war-preparation and national hatreds and race jealousies, even the Conference at London looks almost as if out of it at last in the Greater Britain and in the Lesser Britain "the hearts of the disobedient might be turned to the wisdom of the just" and the superscription of the omens, "Omnium Britanniarum Res" might cease to be a mockery protest.

At any rate hope for Canada, for the Empire and for the world lies in steering an even course between Scylla and Charybdis, between the gleaming rocks of shallow cosmopolitanism and the swallowing gulfs of narrow nationalism.

MAURICE HUTTON,
Principal.

The Superior of St. Michael's

The Superior of St. Michael's College and Staff have bidden happy farewell and long to the departing term and turn with open and receptive heart to welcome Christmas with all its lessons and memories. Peace and good will were the burden of its first lesson; peace and good will it has repeated through the centuries. The Superior of St. Michael's and the Staff pray that peace and good will between house and house, between member and member, maybe, as they have always been, the portion of all whom the University gathers into its fellowship.

H. CARR.

The Dean of Medicine

It is a pleasure to write a word of Christmas greeting to the students of the University of Toronto. The holiday season in mid term affords opportunity for many activities. There is time for recreation and amusement; let us hope there are none among the student body who will not enjoy Xmas festivities to the full. There is time for reflection and resolution. It is well to pause and ask yourselves whether or not we are taking full advantage of our opportunities. In the Faculty of Medicine the facilities afforded for study have never hitherto reached such a high standard. The teaching in the preliminary sciences is unsurpassed and is arranged to meet the practical requirements of the student in medicine. The recent reorganization of the Clinical Departments has provided an ideal course of instruction. The success attained in Clinical teaching and in the instruction in the co-related laboratory subjects of the final years in Medicine in the University of Toronto is attracting widespread attention. The students in attendance are fully aware of their advantages and our graduates give their loyal support to the effort made to attain and maintain in a high standard of perfection in the teaching of Medicine. We find, too, that we are attracting much attention abroad; most favourable criticism and comments reach us from time to time regarding our recent development.

The students in Medicine, and the University as a whole, are under a debt of gratitude to the donors of recent benefactions which have made our present organizations possible. The gifts received from Sir John and Lady Eaton, and from the Rockefeller Foundation, have provided the necessary means. It now remains for the Provincial Government to erect the Clinical Laboratories in the hospital grounds. When these are built our scheme of organization will be complete.

We desire to extend our best wishes to the entire student body for a very Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year.

A. PRIMROSE.

The Probost of Trinity

To the Student Body:

Never did the message "peace to men of goodwill" express a deeper aspiration on the part of the public than at this Christmas, 1921.

For an outcome of the Conference on Disarmament, now in session in Washington, which still being the age-long hope of world peace apparently nearer, the whole world intensely longs.

For a reasonable and acceptable settlement of the intensely difficult situation in Ireland, and for the development of a new stability throughout our whole social order, our Anglo-Saxon world is anxiously waiting.

Christendom cannot forget however, that the message of peace is inseparably associated with the advent of the Prince of Peace. Human fellowship can only be a divine achievement. It needs a doctrine of Total Depravity to make discerning men appreciate this fact. With all his many natural excellencies, and his more excellent potentialities of good, man finds the instinct of self-will so strong within him that, without divine aid, his noblest aspirations flutter to the ground.

On the other hand, men of discernment need hardly be told that even divine achievements are impossible except man's will be set toward their attainment.

To the men and women of the Student Body I would earnestly say "The men and women of goodwill. Set yourselves definitely toward the highest; range yourselves behind the noblest aspirations of which humanity is capable. Thus you will help (with all reverence) to aid to give the Almighty a chance to do something with this self-willed race of ours, and bring the world nearer the day when the message of "peace to men of goodwill" shall be not only an aspiration, but shall be represented by "the Holy City coming down out of Heaven."

A. HAPPS CHRISTMAS TO YOU ALL.

C. A. SEAGER.

The Dean of Applied Science

While we have passed through twelve months since last Christmas we have lived much more than the year. Many things have happened, even some of which ordinarily would crowd a similar period. But the year of 1921 has been an unusual year in Ontario, in Canada, in the Empire and indeed throughout the world. We who are here at the University must be thankful to have seen all this while surrounded by our University life, for its atmosphere and viewpoint lend greater significance to these happy things.

A year ago we thought we were slowly recovering from the effects of the war, but as the year progressed we at times had doubts and anxieties when we surveyed the turmoil and unsettling influences everywhere still visible. Now, however, as the year of 1921 closes, with conferences of international significance and with good will amongst the nations, we begin to see that the prospects for better times, for confidence in the future, and for more settled conditions, are much brighter throughout the country and the world. For these we should be thankful and of good cheer.

Let us enter our Christmas holidays, then, with greater heart and happier spirits in the consciousness that things are

Eric Druce Chosen

Editor of "Varsity"

New Chief an All-Round Man

Eric Druce, '23 Forestry, will be responsible for THE VARSITY for the year 1922, according to the decision of the Joint Executive of the Students Administrative Councils in their meeting yesterday. It was not without careful and deliberate thought that the Executive made choice of Mr. Druce from among the names submitted. The new Editor is a man well known in many spheres of college life.

On THE VARSITY Mr. Druce has done excellent service, as reporter, local editor, and associate editor. He is at present a member for Forestry of the Students Administrative Council, and, having been the Council's representative on THE VARSITY, has been closely in touch with its affairs. As an athlete Mr. Druce has distinguished himself playing rugby with the Varsity S. O. S., as well as the Forestry Mulock Cup Team. In his under Faculty he has been a good servant to the community, especially as secretary of the Foresters' Club.

Mr. Druce takes over his work not only as the choice of the Joint Executive, but also of THE VARSITY staff, who at their meeting last week chose Mr. Druce as their nominee for this post and pledged their unanimous support.

American Association for Advancement of Science

Meets Here During Xmas Week— Programme is Announced

Although the programme for the meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has not yet been arranged, a few details have been issued by the secretary.

Dr. L. C. Howard, retiring president, will give his address in Convocation Hall Tuesday evening, December 27. Dr. Howard is chief of the Bureau of Entomology, U.S. Department of Agriculture and is famous for his successful fight against cypress and Brown-tailed moths, destroyers of shade and forest trees.

On Wednesday evening Professor William Bateson, of England, will give an address in Convocation Hall. His invitation to speak is due to the importance of his work in the breeding of plants and animals.

Hydro-Electric development will be dealt with by the well-known "Hydro-Knight," Sir Adam Beck, on Thursday afternoon.

Throughout the meetings scientific apparatus, chiefly to that pertaining to Physics and Chemistry. The latest books on Science will be shown also.

Social functions have also been arranged. Thursday evening a conversation will be held in Hart House, and on Friday afternoon the delegates will see an exhibition of fancy skating by members of the Toronto Skating Club. This will be followed by a hockey match.

The various societies and sections will hold smokers, dinners, etc. Dates will be announced later.

The Dean of Dentistry

As Christmas draws near the students of the R.C.D.S., like all others, begin to think of home and loved ones. The trip home and the greetings, not to mention the season's festivities, all loom large at the present time. Some students often think that a long holiday is just what they need, but they may find at home to enjoy the company of the folks and at the same time do some studying. A holiday is only a holiday so long as it is a diversion and just as soon as study begins the holiday is over. My advice is not to even think of study or take books home or have any thought of academic work. Have a real holiday.

The Faculty is fully aware that all of a dental education is not obtained in a dental college and that short holidays, which will permit of young men seeing things from a new angle, add zest to life. For those who live too far from home to take the trip it often happens that a visit to the home of a friend during the Christmas festivities gives him a chance to see and take part in the joys of another family much to his advantage.

On behalf of the Faculty I extend the season's greetings to those who go home and those who have to remain here and to those who visit another's home. A holiday well spent is a stimulus to greater effort in duties to follow. The very cordial relations existing between the faculty and students is an earnest of progress in the calling of your choice. When Thursday evening, December 22nd, arrives we hope every student will have said good-bye to the college and his friends, bought his Christmas presents, packed his bag, and made for home to meet those who know and love him best.

rapidly taking a turn for the better.
I heartily wish all the students of the University a cheery Christmas and a Prosperous New Year. C. H. MITCHELL

Varsity Defeat Argonauts

Score four goals in first period

But Argos Finish Strong and Game Ends Six to Four

Varsity, by defeating Argos last night, still have possession of the Senior S.P.A. Cup. Argos were the weak team in the Senior O.H.A. last year, and it was thought they would not give much opposition—they didn't in the first period but in the second and third periods they played much better hockey and showed that they will have to be reckoned with this winter. Varsity were weakened considerably by the absence of Stan Brown, the star defence man who has been in the hospital since Monday's win over the Blues. He hurt it in the game against Granites and may be out of the game for sometime. He will be missed. Ned Wright, the "Burr" was another absentee and the team will be glad to see him back. Louie Hudson was the big scorer for Varsity and turned in a very nice exhibition. The rest of the Varsity men turned in the usual high-class game. Rodden was easily best for Argos. Frank Sullivan last year with Varsity, played for Argos and gave Langtry some hard shots to handle.

First Period

Both teams started off by playing a third man combination game. Westman missed an open net. A few minutes later Hudson checked an Argo man near his goal and lifted an easy one into the string. Ramsay kept the puck from the whole Argo team but could not score. Sullivan made some nice shots which Langtry easily turned away. Rodden and Louie made several speedy rushes. Hudson scored on a pass from Westman after twelve minutes of play. Hudson lifted one in from a pass at goal mouth. Carson scored Varsity's fourth goal on a three man rush.

Varsity 4; Argos 0.

Second Period

Argos pressed from the start of the period. Langtry was called upon to turn aside some hard shots. Varsity were short when Ferguson kept the penalty shot warm. Argos with the advantage, forced but couldn't score. Varsity were one man to the goal when an Argo man was off for dumping Westman but Rodden and Sullivan kept the play at Varsity's end.

Sullivan's score on a lone rush. Argos were making Varsity sit up and take notice and out-poor shooting kept them from scoring. Louie scored Argos' second goal when he took the puck from behind Varsity's play and slipped it past Langtry. Argos played much better hockey in this period than in the first and forced the play a great deal of the time.

Score: Varsity 1; Argos 2.

Third Period

Varsity started the third period a man short. Louie scored for Argos when he batted a rebound of Langtry's pads into the net. Carson pulled off a nice rush and Westie missed the pass with only the goal to beat. Argos goal is playing good hockey. Hudson made a good rush. Westman scored after five minutes of play when he took a pass from Ramsay. Argos lost chances through poor passing and wild shooting. Langtry was called upon to make several saves—some of which were very spectacular.

The Westman-Ramsay combination got another goal half-way through the period. Westman netting the puck. Langtry made one of his famous charges to save. Waller scored for Argos in a scramble in front of the net. Langtry had to come out again to prevent a goal. Varsity are certainly missing Stan Brown with his end to end rushes. With Argos a man short Varsity forced the play. Game over with Argos trying hard.

Varsity	Goal	Argos
Langtry	R. Defence	Callender
Ramsay	L. Defence	Cain
Fergus	L. Defence	Louie
Carson	Centre	Smith
Westman	R. Forward	Waller
Hudson	L. Forward	Sullivan
Ferguson	Sub.	Rodden
Wright	Sub.
Sullivan	Sub. Goalie

The School of Ancient Christmas

In these days of noise and folly, when the lights are bright and the trolleys have frightened all the folks from their beds and quiet nocks. When our frantic rush and hurry, brings night else but care and worry. And the many folks who pretend that they're old and wise.

Who've mistaken the life song, are tired and, beyond expressing, Of a season of repose when by kindly thoughts is guided, We can lay aside our knavery, and even a while to college. At the school of Ancient Christmas where the teacher is a child.

There are saints enough in reality, we can spare at any season; But then our youth of yesterday we can never part with thee, From our earliest recollection, thou has had our deep attention, And since thou art left, we mourn the loss the merry company.

There are memories we treasure, whose worth, attempts to measure By cordial memory estimate would absolutely fail, The happy evening party, with its games and laughter hearty, With the pine log in the fire-place, the stockings on the nail.

The mystery in the attic, the morning joys ecstatic, The wondrous gifts the good old saint has down the chimney brought.

The Christmas dinner glorious; the Christmas sport uproarious; The fading of this day of days as swift as passing thought.

There is wisdom in some folly, there is cure for melancholy In the spirit of the season, when by kindly thoughts beguiled, We forget our boasted knowledge, and we go a while to college, At the school of Ancient Christmas, where the teacher is a child.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

An old time-worn greeting—but one that is ever young. Time-worn? Yes, but not worn out; rather should we say tried by the ages and found to satisfy. The greeting is not worn out. We blasé, sophisticated men and women of the world can enter into the fun and the mystery and the joy of giving and being given presents. At least if we can't there is something wrong with us. Christmas is the children's festival but it is more than that. We know that Christmas means can enter into the rejoicing just as readily as the child. For Christmas is not merely a time of turkey and plum pudding—that were to reduce it to a merely animal level—but it is a great day full of joy and value to all those who realize what the birth of that Child in Bethlehem meant to the world. Nearly two thousand years ago, in the most despised province of the Roman Empire, of a poor family living in the much derided village of Nazareth, quartered during the enrolment for the census in a Bethlehem stable was born One who was to revolutionize the thoughts of the world.

What the world would have been, but for the coming of Him, whose birth we celebrate on this day of days, we have to conjecture. So much of our conception of life, not of philosophy and the cold, hard ethics, of which we have received such a heritage, but the full, rich life of love and joy and an indomitable faith in the goodness of God, in the future of the race and in the final triumph of Right over Wrong, so much of it, He came and came from Him.

He came "To save us all from Satan's power, When we had gone astray." A very real sense. He showed us the secret of life—the giving of self and substance for our fellows. That is the great truth behind the old practice of giving presents at Christmas—to a new yet old principle, the great spiritual principle. If we really love we love to give. God loved us, He gave.

A Merry Christmas? In a world snarling from the wounds of war and torn into many factions by diverse feuds—a MERRY Christmas? Doesn't it sound ominous? A Happy Christmas may be all right, but how and why a Merry Christmas? We believe that the plan of Jesus will work and that men may be brought to live together in peace and love and unity, so we join in the grand hymn of the herald-angels—"GLORIA IN EXCELSIS DEO, RE IN TERRA PAX HOMINIBUS BONAE VOLUNTATIS," and we refuse to believe that there is no sun behind the dark clouds of the present. We look forward to a new year full of great possibilities for all of us, for Canada and for the world. We see a future growing towards the plan of the Prince of Peace and we cry aloud to our readers, Faculty, graduates and students of the University of Toronto: A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS.

"WHEN I GET RICH"

How often do we hear the remark in tones registering every degree of enthusiasm or discouragement, "When I get rich, I'm going to give the University a ———." And then we are enlightened as to the one thing above all others that the University of Toronto needs. It may be anything from an arena or a new building to a comfortable chair in some particular nook or a nickel-slot machine for chocolate bars, and of course the desires of the undergraduate range from the sublime to the ridiculous.

But, after all, in these more or less impulsive aspirations there is a thought worth considering. Did the students of yesterday have similar ambitions? Did they plan to make some definite gift to their Alma Mater when they should have succeeded in capitalizing the knowledge which they had acquired in the shade of the old grey towers? Did they dream of a coming generation who should rise up and call them blessed for their magnanimous contributions to the convenience and comfort of the students and to the progress of science? Alas for their dreams! Perhaps after their graduation absorbed in the affairs of the world, and lost their "Varsity spirit" all too quickly. They got out of touch with the student body and forgot the very real needs of college men and women. Or perhaps the graduates of the University of Toronto never do get rich, and all their good intentions are lost to posterity.

We hear much of the annual rallies of the alumni organizations of the large universities in the United States, and of the very practical loyalty which they display. Our University needs the support of every man and woman who has sought the advantages of higher education beneath its roofs. As undergraduates we cannot afford to put off our debt until that vague, far-off future when we hope to be rich, but when ever we do here and now, let us aim to carry over our student enthusiasm so that the claims of the University of Toronto will always find a practical response from that ever-growing body of graduates who claim her as their Alma Mater.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

It is night, calm, clear and starlight; the moon of the orient is riding high and flooding the quiet earth with her pure radiance. There is no wind, all is hushed as in expectation, towns and villages are deep in slumber, even the watch-dog has ceased to bark. One on the bare Judean hills a few shepherds, strong silent men are watching their flocks of listless sheep. The night begins to wane, soon the dawn will flush the east. Already a faint violet shadow is seen. Stars are fading, save one luminous pendant which seems to outshine the rest and hangs low on the horizon close to the earth. All Nature waits a spell is over the world. Suddenly a gleaming light in the mid-heaven—not the dawn surely—it grows clearer, nearer, the dark hills are flooded with it, and there is music, wonderful heart-melting music. Spellbound, the shepherds gaze. What means this vision? With faces uplifted they are lost in wonder. There is a dazzling light, it grows and draws nearer, then a voice full of vibrant melody—"Unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour." Deep echoing silence, then a burst of light, the floors of Heaven seem to roll back, revealing celestial splendour, a flood of music—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, goodwill toward men." The first Christmas carol has been sung. The wondering shepherds arise to obey the vision. The first Christmas Day had dawned.

It is Christmas Eve again, centuries later. The world is older, wearier and wiser. All day the guns have boomed but now even they are still. Again Nature seems to watch and wait. The world is sad, it has forgotten the strain the angels sang, lost it in the mad rush for glory, power and place, in the centuries of pent-up sorrow and in the boom of guns. The mud-stained soldiers, picketed in the shadow of the ruined church, have almost forgotten that the glad day is approaching. Slowly the realization of what Christmas means comes to them in the silence. With faces uplifted, they gaze into the skies, expectantly, remembering that first Christmas. Suddenly a throbbing strain bursts forth from a clump of trees, a clear, pure song. For although the heart of man is too crushed with care to utter a sound or a prayer or to repeat the angel-given chant, the little nightingale sings its Christmas carol.

It will soon be Christmas Eve once more. Three years ago Peace dawned on the world, but has Goodwill come with it? Goodwill to all men is the true basis of peace. Leagues may lay down laws, conferences may scrap armaments, but all in vain for the heart of men, that strong citadel, refuses to open its barred gates to the magic of the great song, "Peace and Goodwill"—the world knows the Hymn of Hate better! May we all learn the true meaning of the Christmas carol this Christmas, and may it rise from every heart to Heaven's gate, from whence it came so long ago.

Correspondence

Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir: In reply to the criticism by Fiske of my letter concerning conduct in the Billiard Room I am interested, no doubt, along with most of THE VARSITY readers, in seeing that the Billiard Room has obtained sufficient information during its university career to be able to place himself in the correct position.

In my first letter I made the statement, although it was accidentally changed by the monotypist, that the conduct of certain members of Hart House in the Billiard Room was not conducive to the formation of a good reputation for Hart House as a University Club. Many will agree with this statement and the statement of the members of the Billiard Room of the Central Y.M.C.A. or of the P.C.C. and notice the atmosphere which prevails in the Billiard Rooms of these Clubs and which is lacking in the Billiard Room of Hart House.

Perhaps we should excuse the Fiske article, noting that he states that the conduct seems petty to him, no doubt on account of his inferred familiarity with the customs of chorographers, spiritualists, prize-fighters, etc., and after noting that, later, he admits that the conduct is "awful" enough to need a medical training to wipe out by remembering the irrationality that his name suggests.

It is a commonly known fact that any individual attempts to justify his conduct by the conduct of others. Thus it is reasonable to deduce that the Fiske is helping to keep the Billiard Room in its present condition and his letter supports the position of its members.

In conclusion I might say that I am perfectly satisfied that the views of the large majority of the members of Hart House do not agree with the views of the Fiske, but rather with those which I have expressed. Meanwhile, I hope the condition of the Billiard Room will soon change.

Thanking you for this space, I am, sincerely, M.D.S. '25.

Editor of THE VARSITY: Dear Sir: You will recall that widely read letter of last Monday's issue by Deane C. Fiske, in which vituperative piece of literature, a most able and masterly analysis of the conditions in the Hart House Billiard Room. Doubtless this either shed or cast your censorious eye or its value as a stimulus for further correspondence to the popular column was appraised, in which latter case it is obviously successful.

Deane C. Fiske's conclusions, references to "M.D.S. '25" were naturally provocative of some small amount of irritation to members of the year. This was completely answered by the usual manner in which, it seems, with the undergraduate body in general—derived from reading his absurd letter with its forced sarcasm, and with some kind of indignation, not to mention the too obvious subtlety and vanity possessed by its writer. It is doubtful if the obvious errors or omissions are to be on this subject.

Your pictorial correspondent aptly chose his pseudonym for he is obviously one of those brilliantly intellectual gentry indigenous to pool rooms who possess a "poetic art" and an equally, if not more, potent language characterized to the public as "pool sharks" regrettably too numerous around the Billiard Room.

ANOTHER M.D. '25

The Editor, THE VARSITY: Dear Sir: Basket ball has been so much discussed lately in your columns that I realize that since my remarks are to be on this subject I must be brief if I would be read.

A short time ago in a general write-up of the Women's Basketball great credit was given to the St. Michael's team for playing out a schedule in which the odds were all against them. It was asserted that the team had good material but showed poor coaching. Let me quote THE VARSITY on the subject:

"They are new members of the League but by next year with an early start and a good coach they should cause the old stand-bys some worry."

As a matter of fact the team had no coach until two weeks before the end of the season. Then however, they secured the services of a good coach and under his direction showed a tremendous improvement in the last two games.

If they are fortunate enough to secure the services of the same coach at the beginning of the season next year, the team will take a recognized place in the League, and it is not out of the bounds of possibility that Meds will have cause to look to their heels.

A later VARSITY has since referred to the poor coaching of the St. Michael's team so that although the matter is not of general interest I feel that it should be set right by a correct statement of the facts.

Sincerely, B.M.

Editor of VARSITY: Dear Sir: Is not with regret by all those forced to spend the coming festive season round empty halls that Hart House Library is to be closed from the 16th till the commencement of the new term? At what other time could it be of greater significance, where time hangs heavy and downtown amusements pall? A call for volunteers to help the work planned, I am sure, would meet with hearty response, allowing its use at least for the greater part of the holidays.

It is to be hoped that the Pool and Gym. will also open for the use of members. Yours truly, A. READER.

WESTERN CLUB

The Annual Western Club Dance will take place to-night in the Metropolitan Assembly Rooms and as every ticket has been sold a good time is expected. This dance is to be strictly informal and one of the feature events of an evening of exceptional novelty will be the drawing of the lucky number from the hat which will entitle one member to go home with all expenses paid for the holidays. Gord Eley (of alligator fame) won the coveted bit of pastebard last year and Toronto's loss was Winnipeg's gain for the two joyous weeks.

SALES OF VARSITY CALENDAR EXCEED ALL EXPECTATIONS

But Business Staff Will Make Supply Equal The Demand

After a series of disappointments which rivalled those of the first issue of GOLLIN the University Calendar is now being delivered. All orders which have had to depend upon the printing business have been delayed this year. For example, the Students' Directory, the copy for which was in the hands of the printer on October 12th did not appear until early in December. This was not the fault entirely of the printer but was due to the unsettled printing conditions prevailing this fall. The Calendar met the same fate for a while.

However, the tremendous sales in every faculty show that it was worth while waiting for. The editors, before its publication, showed a sample copy to eleven representative men around the University and asked for an estimate as to the probable value of such an article. The lowest estimate was a dollar and a half and some went as far as to say that three dollars and a quarter would not be too much for such an excellent souvenir, particularly as it is such a splendid solution to the Christmas Gift Problem.

But the price is only 75 cents or three for $2.00 (therefore you can remember 278 friends for $185.41) figures for any other number upon application.

"THE CHESTER MYSTERIES" TO BE SEEN AGAIN

Realism Will Replace "Theatrical Effects"

The Christmas production of the Chester Mysteries in Hart House Theatre will in most respects be the same as last year, but the change is chiefly in setting and in the cast. The cathedral interior used last year was very beautiful, but in the interests of historic accuracy it has been thought better to construct a production in all respects similar to that played by the Cathedral Monks in Chester of the thirteenth century. The set therefore will show the porch and doors of an old cathedral, in front of which all the action will take place. Theatrical "effects" have been reduced to a minimum, and the music used heretofore will be repeated. Dr. Healey Willan's folksong arrangements.

In previous years a girl has always played Trowle, which seems a sacrifice of realism to convenience. This year the only female parts will be the Virgin and the Angel to be played by Nell Jefferys, Lorna McLean, Ernest Morgan will again play exposition, and the Kings and Shepherds will be played by Prof. Dale, Marley, Ayscough and L. L. Reid, Hodien Williams, Basil Morgan and Dixon Wagner; and Trowle by Rauff Acland. The setting and costumes are being done by Miss Peggy Freeman in the style of Mediaeval style, and in order to carry realism to the last point, the old prologue belonging to the Chester cycle has been restored, and the text used wholly as in the original productions.

UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT MAKES LIFE HAPPIER FOR MANY CITY LADS

FOUR TORONTO GIRLS GIVE FULL TIME TO THIS NOBLE WORK

Many Volunteers Assist

Truly, the children who belong to the Settlements Clubs and come to the Settlement Library, know that Christmas and Santa Claus are coming. When the little ones want to hear a story they invariably choose "The Night Before Christmas." Then they sit through the reading with eyes big and glowing, and a joyful little cry of "and then it was the end of the year" comes from the corner of their mouths. The pictures are a never-ending source of interest and Santa Claus seems to them an old friend. After the story is finished some one will tell shyly about having seen him at a store downtown.

If it were not for the efforts of the workers who live at the Settlement this glimpse of the little red man at the store is the only bit of Christmas that would come to many of these children, because times are hard and many fathers are out of work.

As it is there will be parties for the youngsters of all ages, the money collected at the University will provide a gift for each, and there will be baskets, bags filled with candy, nuts and fruit, one for each child. Some of the candy will go home to the brothers or sisters too little to come to the party, because one of the outstanding characteristics of the children down there is the intense love and protective instinct they have for their small relations. In this side of their natures they themselves have a good share of real Christmas spirit.

J.C.I. GRADES: At Jarvis Collegiate on Wednesday, Jan. 4, at 8 p.m., there will be held a meeting for the purpose of re-organizing the Alumni Association.

Can any reader of "Varsity" tell us if there is any 'member of the Trowel Fraternity now in attendance at U. of T. Please Phone S.A.C. offices C. 6036.

SCHOOL DEBATING CLUB

In a debating society it is the duty of equal remuneration for positions of equal responsibility should be given men and women. Messrs. Whitson and McLanahan of the First Year, holding the negative, defeated Messrs. Becker and Inge of the Second Year, the Freshmen thus qualifying for the Finals.

Boys' Joys

Memory carries us back to that Christmas morning when Good Old Santa brought us our first Boy's watch—a really, truly watch.

Oh, what a watch that was; how we handled it and fondled it, looked at it outside and inside, and then sitting up in bed had a Marathon race of endurance "to see who could hold his breath the longest," the slowly revolving second's hand of that watch acting as judge and jury.

Say what you like, there's no Christmas box quite so good as a boy's watch, unless it be a girl's wrist watch, or for that matter a good reliable Kyrie watch for father or hubby, or a sensible wrist watch for mother or wife—they're so useful and so enduring.

Boys' watches cost from $12.00 to $22.00
Girls' wrist watches cost from $14.50 to $30.00.
Men's watches cost from $12.00 to $1,200.00
Ladies' wrist watches cost from $13.50 to $5,000.00.

THE STORY OF THE CHRISTMAS TREE

Christmas May Not Be Christmas After All

Once upon a time, far, far away in a land called Egypt, the people did not bury their dead, but instead they used to embalm them, and then these bodies were called mummies. Now the story of these mummies and how they were embalmed is very interesting, but there are so many scientists who are trying to find out just how it was done that I might put them out of a position if I told you, and as there are so many out of work now I won't tell the secret for a while.

However, over in this distant country, the Egyptians, I mean, not the mummies used to offer a full-grown palm, which contains twelve sprouts, to their gods, in the winter solstice, as a symbol of a completed year. Perhaps you won't believe it, but I cross my heart and wish to die if this is not what historians claim to be the origin of our present-day dazzling, glittering, gorgeously arrayed Christmas tree.

The next trace we have of it is in Germany, where the pagans used to go out to the forests, in the winter solstice, to perform their religious ceremonies around an oak tree. St. Boniface, a priest of a group of these woodland worshippers on one of the feast days. He preached to them, and soon made them see that their religion was all wrong; but it is one thing to change a man's views and another thing to change his customs. St. Boniface realized this, so instead of ordering them to stop their tree ceremonies he suggested that they should take an evergreen tree into each of their homes, and there the family, when gathered around, should honour the greatest feast of their new religion, the Nativity. So here is where really, what we know as the Christmas tree, has its origin.

However, let us remember that all this time there was something lacking which we now consider very essential to a Christmas tree, namely, presents. Gradually this happy custom developed, and when the idea of the Christmas tree was transferred to England, this delightful practice was already connected with it.

But now that we know all about the tree part of this subject perhaps it would (Tune: March of the Men of Harlech).

U. of T. Live on forever!
Students, hail, Students, hail.
Once again we'll sing together
"Hail the Blue and White."
"Velut Arbor Æ vol. Velut Arbor Æ vol!"
Loud and long, and full and strong
We'll sing your praise wherever we go.
World-wide fame with peerless record
The traditions we do treasure.
Varsity, Live on forever!
Hail! The Blue and White.

Canada, rich in resources,
Draws her wealth from many sources.
But her greatest, strongest force is Educated man.

National reliance must depend on Science.
Varsity, we pledge to thee
Fidelity and loyal allegiance.
Canada, the land of promise,
Send us sons from every province.

Hail! The Blue and White!

WAR OFFICE EXAMINATION

The attention of members of the C.O.F.C. who desire to be candidates for Certificate "A" at the spring examination is drawn to Contingent Order No. 25 of 7th December, which requires their full name and dates of birth, to be handed in at the Orderly Room by Friday 10th instant. If this is not done they cannot write on the examination.

be well to write a few words on Christmas. What would you say if you found out now that Christmas wasn't really Christmas after all? Surprised, shocked no doubt! Nevertheless, after you have collected yourself together from the effect of that thunder-bolt, let me add that during the first century A.D. Christmas was celebrated in some part of the Christian world in every month of the year. Moreover, for the first four centuries this great feast was celebrated in half the Christian world on the sixth of January. And while a book about these ancient customs in connection with Christmas it might be well to add, for the peace of mind of a pious individual, that Christmas, when it fell on Sunday, was held to be a most unholy day.

TWO FRENCH PLAYS AT HART HOUSE

Modern Language Club Stage Successful Production

J. BURNS MARTIN PLAYS THE INTELLECTUAL DONKEY

The Modern Language Club presented their annual French plays in Hart House Theatre last Monday evening. In spite of the dark shadow of term-examinations a large audience turned out to test their knowledge of French and assure that the orphan supported by the club should not starve for another year at least.

The programme opened with an address by Professor De Champ to whom the club is deeply indebted for his invaluable assistance in producing the plays. He spoke of the difficulties which had been encountered in finding plays suitable for presentation and a place to present them. Professor De Champ paid a high tribute to Mr. John MacNaught, 215, of the "Le Jardin," and emphasized the unavailability of such a remarkable piece of work coming from an undergraduate.

Then the lights went out, the curtains parted and we were transported to the desert of La Hebeide, in the fourth century, where a hermit, two travellers and a donkey conversed on life in general and "Le bon Dieu" in particular. The setting of the scene, designed by Mr. K. Novon, was particularly effective and represented the rocky cave in the desert where the hermit lived and meditated. Mr. Louis McKay played the hermit with great character and feeling, ending in a genuine tour de force. Mr. MacNaught as the decadent poet and Mr. K. B. V. Scott as the afflicted husband carried a decided hit with his wild hair-tearings and gambols over the furniture. Miss Dorothy Arthur played the part of all his woes was worthy of high praise, her torrents of French having a decided effect even upon the audience and the many minor characters all sustained their parts with great success. It was felt that we may indeed be proud of the increasing number and high quality of the amateur theatricals which take place amongst us.

VARSITY VETERANS' BALL IN HART HOUSE, FRIDAY, JANUARY THIRTEENTH

"Old man, are you going to be at the Vets' At Home in January to talk over old times? All this talk about dancing reminds me of, what was, I think, the most fun."

most enjoyable dance I ever attended. It was the summer of '17 and our patrol vessel was cruising around the East Coast of Newfoundland at the time, so we got rather tired of six on and six off, and ran into one of the long bays there and anchored off a fishing village. All of us that could handle in the shore boat and went ashore, where the villagers, but not to be outdone in hospitality we invited all the

"first" families of the village to a dance in the evening to be held on the decks of our ship. Well, about eight bells the whole village and the village "Tolke Oikestra" boarded us, and the dance was on, it wasn't long before we all got the hang of it, and then, oh boy, the villagers all danced in their high water-proof boots, with hob-nailed in the bottom, and we did the best we could in our navy mud shoes, but we couldn't emulate them, for the chief idea seemed to be that the more noise you could make the better you were dancing.

I enjoyed that dance more than any other I've ever at, except, perhaps, last year's Vets' At-Home. By the way, if you are going this year you'd better get your name on the list right away for there are only fifty tickets still unallotted for and they would last long. They have taken the lists up to the Hall Porter's desk at Hart House, so you'll have to see them there."

"Thanks, old man, I will, but what you say about the patrol vessel reminds me of the mine-sweeper I was one for a while. We had a tremendously tall captain, but he was broader still in proportion, and even at the best of times he could just barely squeeze through the hatchway leading to the mess-room back at the ship. Particularly stormy day we were having a good deal of trouble with our "kite" because of the rough weather and our companion traveler was always getting ahead of us, so that the skipper was in a racing tempo. Just at eight bells he came racing out of the pilot-house for a few bites of dinner. He rushed into the galley and started down the companionway. He was all bunched up like a polar bear in sweaters and duflie coats and what not, and when the ship gave a lurch he slipped and—stuck in the hatchway, another lurch and he stuck tighter! Well, the cook's face was a treat to watch, from looking like an ogre, his face changed to a sunny smile—and then he laughed—so much so that the leading signalman and I had to haul the "old man" out of the hatch-way! And he weighed 340 pounds."

"What do you think, old timer? Don't you think we need a University mascot? When I saw that Queen's man with that fat, woolly bear cub it made me think that we should have a mascot that we need one to help us win games, and it seems to me that Varsity used to have a "Well Hold" dog before the war. I think they called him Pi, he was so glubular! I know we had to have mascots on board ship, sent him along to the Executive of the V.V.A. or have him leave them with Tom at the Porter's Desk and he'll get a free ticket to the Ball on the 13th."

dolled up in his trappings, and somebody had him on a leash, but by the time Billy was through there was nobody in sight from end to end of the main street in town. By Jove, I must run, old man, I have a lecture."

"Right, but don't forget, we must spin some more yarn together at the Vets' Ball in January, and if you need anybody with some good, snappy ideas for dance programmes or novelties of any sort, send him along to the Executive of the V.V.A. or have him leave them with Tom at the Porter's Desk and he'll get a free ticket to the Ball on the 13th."

"Right-o, I will. So long."

ANOTHER SCHOOL PARTY AT PRINCE GEORGE

Jules Brazil and Ross Workman Entertain Two Junior Years

One of those "parties" which make school famous was held at the Prince George on Tuesday evening, when 275 of the dignitaries suffered at the hands of 271 last October, and entertained them in royal fashion. The entertainment took the form of a smoker which was timed for 8:15 p.m. Shortly afterwards the majority of both classes were present and the programme was started with "The Play" for everyone. A song sung by Jules Brazil and Ross Workman, and the good feeling necessary for an enjoyable evening was set under Brazil's capable leadership. They were then run off in 12 time, being accompanied on the piano by the famous entertainer himself. In addition to this section of the programme were "soubrette" songs, accordion solos, dancing, voice-thriving, and general comedy. One of the performers intimated that S.P.S. should be "Staunch Prohibition Sports", and the mere fact that two or three of those present had evidently awakened only added to the general merriment. The 275 executive are to be complimented on having secured such a talented aggregation of entertainers.

The programme was brought to a very appropriate close by refreshments which, although forestalled as the "light" variety, proved to be of a more substantial nature than one considers that nearly everyone had two helpings. The Frosh Orchestra including Turner at the piano and Lloyd on his violin came into its own as never before during the evening. Keeping up a running fire of popular jazz all through feeding-time, it soon had the animals in a complete state of disorganization, so much so that they were not content unless banging various parts of their anatomy on whatever was handiest. When finally they were quieted, the ever popular Ross Workman "Worky" was called to the fore. After he had told many interesting tales—fond memories of early childhood—the "Annual" broke up with God Save the King and a "Toke Oike." "Tommy" Louden and Professor Cockburn were present with "Worky" at the special invitation of the Freshmen.

AMERICAN TOUR FOR BASKETBALL TEAM

Varsity Squad Leaves Saturday Returns January 7th

On Saturday morning the University Basketball Club is sending the first team on its annual Christmas tour, arriving home during the week of January 7th. The itinerary is as follows: Clark College, Lawrence University, Colgate University, University of Buffalo, University of Rochester, Niagara Falls, St. Mary's Basketball Club, St. Francis College, Syracuse University. The following men are making the trip: Forwards—Smith, Gith and Stewart; Guards—Logan, Graham and Duffell. The team is much stronger than that of last year and indications point to a very successful trip. The men are in perfect condition and their team work has been developed to make their play machine-like in character. The whole University is behind them and wish them every success during the holidays.

GET INTO THE ROWING GAME

May Be Your Last Chance

Some men won't realize how important it is to be out with the first rowing practice. Those that have shown up are getting along splendidly but, of course, a great many of these will not be able to make a team this time. Then again, after Christmas the tack weight men will be turning out in great numbers and it is going to be very hard to take time for new men.

So realize this. There are just two nights more counting to-night, before Christmas. Be wise and get your name on the lists down in the Rowing room before this term closes and you won't run the chance of losing this opportunity. Rowing landed the first International Championship for the University. The men who won this race had not rowed more than five months. So this shows what can be done. This opportunity is open for a man even if he has never been in a boat before.

Meet Old Pals,
Come One, Come All.
Bring Your Gals,
To The Veterans' Ball.

Students

Holy Communion will be celebrated in Knox Church next Sunday morning.

On behalf of this Session I extend to every student who is a member of any Christian Church—all who really love the Lord Jesus—to come, sit down with us at the Lord's Table and unite with us in this Feast of Love.

I wish you all a Merry Christmas, a Happy New Year and a glorious reunion. I shall be glad to see you all, but I especially welcome strangers who can't go home. Come and see me in the Vestry any Friday 4-6 and 7-9.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN GIBSON INKSTER.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Here we are again! This is the gang that's going down to the States this Christmas to show some of our American cousins how high-class hockey is played.

Coach Dr. "Bill" Dafoe, aged 26, weight 98 lbs. Varsity I '14, '15 and 19 Veterans O.H.A. He is a Med. One hundred years hockey experience.

Captain "Jack" Langtry, "Hawkeye," aged 24, weight 155 lbs. Winnipeg Vics, Varsity I, '19-20, '20-21. He fills a mean goal and is a Dent.

"Beattie" Ramsay, "Good old Beattie," aged 26, weight 145 lbs. Varsity Juniors '15; Varsity I, '19-20. The best defence man in the business. He is School.

"Stan" Brown, "Lightning," aged 24, weight 140 lbs. Dents '17, '18, '19, Varsity I, '20-21. Plays defence. One half of the best defence in the world. He is a Dent.

"Bill" Carson, "Slippery," aged 23, weight 160 lbs. Woodstock Juniors, '18. Varsity, '19-20, '20-21. Plays centre. Has been offered nearly $50,000 a year to turn pro. He is a Dent and the best centre player in the game.

"Ned" Wright, "The original Burr," aged 22, weight 145 lbs. Aura Lee Juniors. Varsity I, '19-20, '20-21. Right wing. They simply can't get away from him. He is a Med.

"George" Westman, "Westie," aged 23, weight 194 lbs. Played Junior in Ottawa. Varsity I, '19-20, '20-21. Left wing. 100 horse-power attack and defence. He is a Dent.

"Louie" Hudson, "The Flash," aged 22, weight 155 lbs. Dents, '19. Argos, '20. Sub. He is making history with his speed and shooting. He is a Med.

"Fred" Evans, "The Bradford Lad," aged 22, weight 150 lbs. Varsity I, '19-20. Intermediates, '20-21. Sub. Plays the old steady stuff, always reliable. He is School.

"Dad" Wright, "Just Dad," aged 24, weight 180 lbs. 218th Bn. Seniors, '17. Sub. A great stick-handler. He is a Dent.

"Joe" Sullivan, "Joe," aged 20, weight 140 lbs. U.T.S. Juniors. Sub goalie. One of the great Sullivan family. Nuff sed. He is a Med.

Manager "Dick" Weaver, "Dick," Varsity I. Rugby two years. Would do anything on earth for the team. He is a Med.

Wow! Check 'em over! The world has never before seen their equal! They'll go through! Merry Christmas, gang!

FAMOUS UNDERGRADS TELL 'EM HOW

DRESSING GOWNS FOR TRACK TEAM?

In 19-Why-Which

Yesterday, after having consumed a delightful lunch in the Great Hall, we slipped quietly into the West Common Room for a quiet little look at the latest issue of our favourite sporting paper. But our rest was short indeed for the chief news-getter of THE VARSITY surprisingly bore down on us with a yell, "Here, you are just the man I want to see. Must have a story for the Christmas issue," said he all in one bunch. Seeing he was beyond help we decided to humor him. "Yes, yes, of course you must," we agreed politely. "See you later," said we sweetly, "to-morrow."

His jaws snapped together. He was determined. A grip of steel descended on my useless wing. "Yes, I must," he hissed, "and you shall write it. Escape being impossible we decided to temporize. Dropping weakly into a chair and mopping our brows with the wrapper off a Flap Jack we timidly asked: "Of what shall we write?"

"Did you see the 'Three Musketeers'?" queried the Ed. "Oui," we replied, unconsciously relapsing into French.

"Then if you were about to die what would you do?"

"I should donate eighteen blue and white dressing-gowns to the Senior Track Team."

"Well, then, you have the point of a wonderful story. See six famous undergrads and ask them what they would do if they were rich and about to die."

We decided to make one final stab, "But what has that to do with Christmas?" we asked.

"Senseless gifts," he retorted, "are most appropriate subjects to discuss at Christmas time."

"School would give an elevator for the Old Red School House."

Co-ed would donate a drinking fountain for U.C. that could be made to work without removing her hat.

273 Dent would donate a fund to build a residence for future forcep manipulators.

272 U.C. would provide a smoking room adjacent to Room 82 Main Building.

277 Med. would leave a huge sum to pay for summer courses so that one entering in 1920, so to speak, could graduate in September, 1929.

When we handed in this epistle the Editor-in-Chief condescended to ask us what we would do in the event that we should become day graduate.

Coming right back at him we replied: "Pay for THE VARSITY staff's midnight lunches at the Rose Cafe, sir."

U.C. SUBMERGE VIC. IN FAST WATER POLO GAME

U.C. DEAD SHOTS, VIC. SHOT DEAD

U.C. defeated Vic. by two goals in a closely contested game.

The Varsity team still improving and their goal-keeper, Doves, outshone himself. He played a very steady game, stopping many shots that looked like sure goals for U.C.

The game was evenly balanced in parts. Both teams checked hard, played quickly and a good deal of head work was apparent from start to finish.

U.C. won the game by their more accurate shooting.

Vic—Dovey, Flaxley, Webster, Williams, Stuart, Morrow, Wood, Bates.

U.C.—Roberts, Reilly, a Wallron Latchford, Wells, Davis, Reynolds, Johnston. Referee: F. Wood. Judge: C. Harston.

ANNUAL ARTS BALL

HART HOUSE, JAN. 19

The Social Committee of the University College Literary and Athletic Society has completed arrangements for the annual Arts Ball of the Society. It is to be held on Thursday, January the nineteenth, in Hart House.

Dancing will take place in the Great Hall. The finest setting for a dance in Toronto. Ask those who were there last year. Jardine's famous fifteen-piece orchestra will supply the music and the dining room staff of Hart House will excel all previous efforts in the supper arrangements. A sit-down supper will be served in the Music Room.

Last year the subscription list was over-subscribed by about one hundred names. get your name early to the year presidents for a ticket. Only U.C. men are to be sold tickets and they must not buy for outsiders. We have six hundred men in U.C. and only two hundred tickets to be sold, so the committee feels that only U.C. men should have the privilege of attending their own dances. The price will be approximately four dollars. It will not exceed that figure, in any case. The exact price will be announced when all arrangements have been completed.

"YPRES AND AFTER" Gen. Cartwright will lecture at 4 p.m. to-day, Mil. Studies Bldg.

VARSITY FIRSTS BRING HOME MANY SCALPS AND A PERFECT RECORD

BOSTON TRANSCRIPT PRAISES VARSITY SPORTSMANSHIP

Argos To-night, Go Get 'Em

The Varsity Senior Hockey Team returned last night from a glorious and victorious tour of various American cities. They did not lose a game. Their record to date is ten straight victories over the best American and Canadian teams. The American press has been filled with glowing accounts of both the ability and sportsmanship of the Varsity team. The Boston Transcript says: "The University of Toronto hockey team has done more for ice hockey in Boston in two nights than ten years of effort on the part of the game's supporters here. They are by far the best and cleanest team that has ever played here."

It has long been the custom for the Canadian team to go to Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Boston, or Philadelphia and sustain defeat at the hands of these teams. The players make it an opportunity to break all the rules of training. This practice has been a disgrace to Canadian hockey. However, Varsity despite the fact that they played almost every night of the tour vindicated the honour of Canadian hockey by at all times behaving in a gentlemanly manner and by exhibiting a very clear margin of ability over every team they encountered. The feature of their play was always the unselfish cooperative work of the players, no one seeking laurels for himself, each striving for success for the team.

The team played seven games in all. They won two from the Pittsburgh team, two from the famous St. Nick's of New York, one from the Quaker City outfit, one from the Boston A. A. and one from Harvard. They clearly established their superiority over these clubs.

While the seniors gathered these laurels, the intermediates travelled to Buffalo and defeated the Nichol Club of that city. There is a genuine effort to put hockey on a sure footing in that city and the efforts of the "seconds" were very much appreciated by the fans of Buffalo.

The seniors took the "dark horse" of the O.H.A. to-night. Argos pulled a big surprise on Granites but they can't repeat on Varsity.

Practice hours are the same as last year.

Any managers wishing to get practice hours changed see Mr. Workman, First Year School Drafting Room. If any games are defaulted or weather prevents, playing managers will notify convenors and another date will be arranged.

Convenors and managers will note several changes in this schedule from that drawn up at the meeting last term. Unfortunately, the original schedule has been mislaid and is consequently to be considered null and void.

Any difficulties that may arise as a result of the changes that have been made should be discussed with the convenors of the respective groups.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Zowie! Up to date the good old Blue and White Senior net-buffers have taken eleven in a row into camp. Not bad for amateurs. What? They packed the fastest game in the world right into the heart of Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York and Boston and certainly showed the amazed Yanks some of its fine points. The Boston papers, supported by 8,000 spectators of the game proclaim Varsity as having the finest hockey team in the world. Good! We admit it—but don't forget, that is the very thing we have to prove in the coming three months. We have loomed worthy of our steel in Granites, Aura Lee, and Kitchener, and without hesitation we pick Granites as the gang that have to be convinced. We can do it with the support of every graduate, undergraduate and faculty member of the University. Our athletics, and notably our hockey teams, are making the name of the University of Toronto favorably known in many parts of the continent. This good name must be sustained. Get behind Bill Daloe and Connie Smythe! Now, just a minute before you break off. Tonight, Jack Langtry's crew are going to let Argos try out against them. After the way the oarsmen crowned the quarry products Queens of the May on Tuesday night you never know what's going to happen. It is just possible that you may get the crowd pastboard at the Arena if you step. Pack a half-dozen good yells in your larynx and drop around. It should be a good party.

REGULATIONS RE USE OF SQUASH COURTS

1. The courts shall be open for use daily except Sunday.
2. Courts may be reserved at any time during the day previous to that on which the game is to be played. Reservations may be for one half hour only.
3. Reservations may be made in person or by telephone with the Hall Porter of Hart House (Col. 631), the names of both players to be given.
4. The Hall Porter will post the list of reservations for each day at 10.00 a.m. on the board in the spectators' gallery.
5. After a list is posted vacant places may be reserved by two players, entering their names in the proper space.
6. A reservation may be extended to one hour, should the period following the original reservation be vacant, by the two players, placing their names in the vacant space immediately before entering the court.
7. A court not occupied within five minutes of the time for which it is reserved may be used by other players.
8. Play must stop punctually at the time at which the reservation ends, no matter what the stage of the game.
9. The use of tennis rackets or tennis balls, or of any balls other than recognized squash balls, is not allowed at any time in the courts.
10. Rubbi-rubbed shoes must be worn in the courts.
11. Handball must cease at any stage of the game if the court is required for squash.

A. F. COVENTRY,
Chairman of Squash Committee.

The annual elections of the Soccer Club takes place in the Lecture Room, East House, at 6 p.m. Thursday, January 12. Nominations must be made in writing signed by two voting members of the Club and filed with the Secretary of the Athletic Association not later than Friday, January 6, at 5 p.m.

HOCKEY TEAM LATEST WOMEN'S ACTIVITY

Yes Co-Ed, how would you like to play hockey for good old U. of T. against McGill and Queen's? Just think of it! No, the men aren't looking for subs for their own team, but they are looking for a woman to play with them. The University is to be given an opportunity to use this honour. We are going to have a U. of T. women's hockey team, to play in an intercollegiate series. Just try that over on your vacuum cleaner.

Each year there are faculty teams, made up of a few good sports who come out and play for their separate colleges. This year there will be an all-university team, which will do their best to add another intercollegiate title to the honour of their Alma Mater. Every one has the chance to join the team, and now is the time to start and work for it.

Now don't just sit back and say: "Oh, I couldn't play hockey!" Can you skate? Well then, if you can, come out to a practice or two and see what you can do with a hockey stick in your hand. Never mind if you've never played before. Every one has to learn sometime. We have a peach of a coach, Mr. Brandy, and an enthusiastic executive, who will help you and show you the ropes. This is your team, and it's up to you to make it a success.

The first practice for this wonderful new champions-to-be team will be held on Friday afternoon, January 6, from 5 to 6 p.m. at the Stadium. Players are requested to bring their own sticks this time as the ones ordered for their use have not yet arrived.

Even if you don't think you have a chance in the world of making the team, if you can skate and your hands aren't paralyzed, come to the practice. Show the executive, the coach, and everybody that women are good sports, and above all, that the women of U. of T. have as much Varsity spirit as any one.

Friday, 5 to 6 p.m. Stadium.
Hurrah! We're off!

TROUSERS

We have found from experience that every man has a good coat and vest which need a good pair of Trousers. We have over 5,000 different patterns representing the total stock of all the wholesale houses of Canada and are in position to match anything.

We matched coats and vests for 400 of the boys last term. Bring in your vest and let us match it up for you.

The future of Inter-faculty rowing, as well as the success of next summer's regattas, depends largely on the enthusiasm shown in building the work-boat.

ENGLISH AUTHORITY LECTURES HERE ON GENETICS

of Mendelism. What is a true of height (which he had discussed in his previous lecture), he said, was also true of colour and many kinds of shapes, and even true of characteristics of the nervous system such as the broodiness of hens.

There were breeds, notably the Mediterranean, in groups which would not sit on their eggs. When they raised these fowls, which had no feelings of maternity, with the common folk they produced a hybrid which would brood its eggs. When they crossed mothering breeds with non-mothering breeds they produced brooding fowls, and when they bred through these cross-bred birds they produced families which consisted of some which mothered their eggs and some which showed no more disposition to sit on their eggs than the original Mediterranean breed.

The lecturer described various effects of crossing in the case of the pea, and then mentioned that of the primula. They had races of primula with dark stigmas, and races with red stigmas. They had also races with light reddish leaves and races with dark velvet coloured leaves, but no one had ever seen a red stigma with a dark red leaf.

By making the crosses develop by the theory they got a red stigma and a deep

CURLING CLUB COMMENCES

The Varsity Curling Club is carrying on again this year. It has a twelve mile fortunate in obtaining curling privileges at the Victoria Curling Club, 271 Huron Street. Any one interested in curling, who would like to get into the game, is invited to go to the Victoria Club any afternoon except Saturday, between 3 and 6.30.

The Club intends to enter rinks in this year in the District Cup and the Canada Ice Trophy and Single Rink Championship competitions.

Every man intending to curl this year should turn out at one of the rinks competing in these competitions will soon be chosen.

red leaf. It turned out a very beautiful plant, and it would be the foundation, no doubt, of a new run of primulas, because when the stigma was red it was possible to get a lot of colour into the petal that could not otherwise be obtained.

Determination of Sex.

Dismissing the determination of sex in animals, progress in this matter, he said, had been largely developed by the theory of linkage.

Among the lantern slides with which the lecture was illustrated Professor Bateson showed a striking example of sex difference in one of the lower organisms—a creature which lives on sea weeds and searocks—the milk was very much smaller than the female and no sex embryos, in its shape, in fact, it is nothing more than a loose, swimming gland, which lives parasitic on the female, and fertilizes its eggs. This was an extreme case of sex difference. The difference between a sea slug which is very little, it might be such that the two were quite incomparable.

All school men are invited and as the party sum of thirty cents takes you all through, a large attendance is looked for. 8 p.m. in the East Common Room.

School Dance. 'Nuff Said

It is over and peace be with us. The vacation with all its gaiety and fun—lightly tempered with the thought of examinations—is over. Mayors, adjutants, school boards, referees and other officers have been elected and now examinations are rapidly passing by, with all these arduous tasks performed, surely a little pleasure can be justified. What that may be rests entirely with the individual but, as all good students are eager to suggest, here is one which will not only attract and fill all with the joy of anticipation which will only be surpassed by that of realization. The suggestion is the Annual Home of the Engineers, Scientists or Trade the "School Dance", to be held Friday Feb. 10.

For years this has been the Schoolmen's night of merriment, when I have proudly brought the "one and only" to participate in the fun of the party.

This year it is to be held in Hart House. Those who were fortunate enough to go last year will remember what an excellent setting the House lent to the brilliant spectacle. The committee are glad to announce that this year's second band—the Orchestra. So let every Schoolman and his friend take notice and be convinced accordingly.

Mr. R. C. Harris, Commissioner of Works, will address the Engineering Society, Wednesday, January 11. Watch for a later notice.

GRADUATES DINNER

On Wednesday, January 11th, at 6:30 p.m. the Graduate members of Hart House will hold a dinner in the Graduate's dining room. After the dinner the gymnasium, the pool and the billiard room will be available. Indoor basketball game will be played between teams composed of graduates of U.C., S.P.S., Meds., and Dents. An excellent program has been arranged and a large attendance is expected.

SCIENTISTS EXHONERATED FROM CHARGES BY CO-EDS

Upon returning to the Hall after the holidays we found everything apparently unchanged. However, on entering our room we were struck by an unexpected barrenness for which we could not account. To be sure our curtains and drapes had been removed for their semi-annual washing but even this did not fully explain matters. After due deliberation some one discovered that her husband and most necessary possession had disappeared. She had been surely tempted to hide it, fearing for its safety, but at last her heart had softened. She had decided that her precious comforter was necessary for the well-being of the delicate lady-scientist whom she expected to use her room. But now—what was gone, the man, the ungartered witch had conspired it. Let it be the waiting and great the illumination and soon it was substantially increased, had evidently been of the same mind as every comforter in the house had disappeared. Sadness and despair reigned supreme until all eyes were attracted towards one of the beds, previously the worst in the house, which now towered proudly fully a foot above its usual height. Investigation ensued and there they were. If the comforters neatly folded, one upon another under the somewhat emaciated mattress. The discovery did not improve the reputation of the scientists and it dashed to earth the cheering hope "At last! A new comforter!"

Still more light was thrown upon the character of at least one of the visitors when it was found that the immensity of a favourite "Lewy" had so offended that it had been hidden from view. This same visitor evidently believed in the saying "Cleanliness is next to Godliness" during his six weeks' sojourn, marvel enough in itself, but he actually succeeded in using them all.

ECNUOR SCIENCE SOCIETY

At the next monthly Executive meeting it is necessary that we should have a list of all paid-up members of the Society. The fee for this term has been set at $1.00. This entitles you to free admittance to all Society functions. At least one hundred members are necessary to finance two large Dinners.

As the paid-up membership on January 14th must be taken as a measure of the support you intend to give your Society, the programme for this term must be arranged accordingly.

Make it a success by giving your name to your year representative. Please co-operate by approaching one of the following, and giving your final decision at once.

4th Year—Miss M. Reid T. M. Steele
3rd Year—Miss M. E. Kitley J. R. Hamilton
2nd Year—Miss O. Monkman R. W. Philip
1st Year—Miss F. L. Hargreaves W. C. Weber

The Harbord Graduates' Reunion will be held at the Metropolitan on Friday, 13th January. "Superstitious" people are buying their tickets early.

Empire, several seasons ago, delighted their guests at the first big Armistice Ball that set all the town talking.

It is no longer necessary to cross the draughty rotunda filled with inquisitive guests—and near guests—to reach the supper room. This old plan has been superseded and by special arrangements; supper will be served on the express floor. Guests will alight from the express elevators at the second floor, just at the new entrance to the Small Banquet Room and pass through this to the Mezanine Room where covers will be laid for between six and seven hundred. This will avoid the annoying delay and confusion of serving supper in two groups as well as providing more ideal conditions for entertainment features the nature of which will remain unrevealed until the big night. Supper will be served at eleven o'clock sharp for the benefit of those who unfortunately must leave early, and following this repast, all will be speedily returned to the ball room where dancing will continue until the most ardent couple are content to adjourn.

Dr. Best, of the Medical Faculty of the West China Union University will speak to medical students on Sunday morning at 9:40 in Knox Common Room.

Forestry

There will be a meeting of the Foresters' Club in the Faculty Building at 8 o'clock to-night. Dr. Howe will give some details of the combined American and Canadian Foresters Convention held here during the Christmas vacation, following a business meeting. Some important decisions must be made.

TORONTONENSIS, 1922

"PATCHES"

"PATCHES" is going to press just as soon as enough material is in the hands of the editors. Any persons who have stories or sketches or poems complete or nearly so, please get busy then and turn them in, this week for sure, for my friend the chief is feeling good and ready for work. A good snappy issue is promised for next time, bright and cheerful, and brimful of interest.

Students

I wish you a Happy New Year and a successful Session.

Sunday evening Sidney T. Smith—Past President of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange—will begin a Prophetic Conference in Knox Church. Subject: "The present world unrest—its cause and cure."

Sunday morning I shall preach on the atonement.

Yours faithfully,

JOHN GIBSON INKSTER.

University College

The Women's Literary Society of University College will hold an interesting meeting at the Women's Union on Tuesday, January 10, at eight o'clock.

A paper will be given by Professor Malcolm Wallace on Knut Hamsun's novel, "The Growth of the Soil," which was awarded the Nobel prize. A large attendance is expected.

Dentistry

All members of the Dentaries Committee are urged to be present at a meeting in Room 2 at 12 noon on Saturday. Everything is well under way now for a successful night on February the third, but a great deal of work is yet to be done. If you cannot be present Saturday please send a proxy.

Messrs. Hodgson and Trueman are well along the road to completing the programme for Dentaries, but original jokes, drawings, stories, puns, sketches, etc., are more than welcome. Remember the success of last year's efforts and turn in your quota of wit and humour to make this year an even greater success than last, and don't forget also to tell HER to keep February 3 open.

PUBLIC OPINION

Healthy public opinion, as the expression of a sound balanced public mind, is the mainstay of any decent society. It is the opinion of an enlightened educated majority and should operate on society, not as a policeman's baton, but as a guardian guiding and directing, primarily, yet, if need be, restraining. Same public opinion makes for law and order. When a majority desires progress there is progress, for few denials, yet, would dare attempt to stem or thwart the tide of the people's wishes. But the expression of the community mind is not a solid mass, it is composite, made up of individual voices. Each individual has it in his power to contribute much or little to the whole. In these days of reconstruction and readjustment it is imperative that there should be a virile, far-reaching public opinion. Whether this shall be, or not, rests with the individual. If the citizen is to live up to his duties as a member of a community he must be interested in the affairs of that community; he must endeavour to be unprejudiced and, above all, to make the best use of the great power now in his grasp, he must be intelligent.

The university is a community of students who are working together peacefully towards the same end. We are not shut off from the world, its problems are our problems and here we must have public opinion. As in the large communities, we have our governing bodies, but they are almost impotent unless backed by the support of the students. If the majority of the students were to express their opinion about the misuse of the Hart House Library or about the practice of ticket-scalping for games and dances, we are confident that they would with one voice condemn them. They have it in their power to do so, and also to make their opinion, as that of the student body, felt in other spheres. Why do they not? Students do not lack intelligence or initiative, do they lack interest? If they are unable to rouse themselves to strengthen public opinion in their own university, we wonder what sort of citizens they will make when they enter broader fields of responsibility?

BOOK LOVERS AND OTHERS

In the last edition of VARSITY there appeared a letter from Professor H. H. Wrong, Librarian of Hart House, regarding the new system of cataloguing books and drawing attention to the number of books that inexplicably disappear during the term.

We have one fault to find with Professor Wrong's letter. He is too considerate; deals too gently with the offenders. Hart House is, primarily, a gentlemen's club, and the fact that petty pilfering is indulged in by some of its members is a discredit to the University.

If the removal of books from the library required a reasonable amount of daring and skill there might—apart from the moral principle involved—be something to admire in the practice. "Raffles" and "Jimmy Dale," despite their fictional misadventures, are likeable characters. Sir Walter Raleigh was a court favourite and is yet a historical hero, although his favourite hobby was piracy on the high seas. But who finds anything admirable in the type of being that removes tickets from milk bottles set out for collection? The only record of his action is a humorous three-line "Squib" in the Police Court News of the day.

The Library Committee of Hart House have only a limited amount of money to spend on books and, therefore, the idea of the Library is not to have a complete collection of literature but rather a representative gathering in which house members may browse at will. Continued removal of books may mean that a Librarian will have to be installed and the books kept under lock and key and issued only on presentation of a membership card, but this change, while it will prevent the loss of books, will stamp the members, one and all, as untrustworthy and will, in addition, entail the expenditure of money that might better be spent on the purchase of more books.

Many of the books are returned in time and it would probably reduce the tendency on the part of some members to remove books if smoking were permitted in the Library or if some system could be devised whereby a book which is being read could be reserved for a limited number of days for the use of one member only, for undoubtedly lack of the solace of the "weed" and the practical certainty that, when one looks for a book, he finds it in some other member's hands is the source of some of the trouble. Until such arrangements are made, however, every member should consider the privileges of others and adhere to the regulations laid down.

As for those which are never returned, only the concerted disapproval and co-operation of one hundred per cent. of the House members will squish this contemptible form of petty larceny.

DR. J. R. MOTT

he deals in the impossible. We need also the strong note of faith which he sounded so clearly.

Christian Solution of the Problem

"The constructive programme of Christ provides that we must go forward in the painstaking and unending process of developing citizens who will be Christ-like, with Christ's boundless horizon which embraces the human race of all kinds and sympathies. This constructive programme depends upon the presentation of Christ to all races; once they have looked upon him, he will make his own impression, a supernatural impression which will release energy in the mind of man and bring about finally a social revolution.

"There is need of a comprehensive study of racial problems in all their aspects. There is need also for a study of racial education, especially where nations are impinging on each other there is need of an educational campaign and propaganda of Christ's principles. Christ emphasizes the infinite worth of each race, and the principle of his own hardship—he must either be Lord of All or not Lord at all. He insists upon the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, two relationships so little understood before his own time. Also he lays down as a principle that inequality among nations is not intended for exploitation but for service. The Golden Rule applies to nations equally to individuals. The kingdom of God gathers in all mankind and the unity of the human race is realized and developed only in Jesus Christ.

"The strong hand of Jesus, which points to a great need as well as to a great opportunity, should be placed upon our universities and colleges to-day as never before. We should turn to the World's Student Christian Federation because it is world-wide and blends the coming leaders of all races, has proclaimed all humanity as a brotherhood, has given to the backward peoples of the earth what the others have received. It expects that each race will bring its glory and make it tributary to all of us.

"There is to be a conference of the Federation at Pekin in April, when students and professors from thirty-one nations will gather. It will be a conference for sympathy, to which people come loath to differ and determined to understand.

"More than reconstruction we need regeneration, more than external changes we need internal changes. The attitude, of disposition and motive, of spirit and ambition. To sum it up briefly we need, above all things, the spirit of God working in man."

The Old Estaminet

While passing through Keaton's Fur Department last Friday (on our way to the boot lace counter) we ran into old Bill McConachie, who used to share my herd of cooties back in the old days at Chateau de la Haie, et al.

As it was about the time for cookhouse to blow we hid ourselves to a nearby estaminet and availing ourselves of a corner table demanded that our miss fins be filled with "coute et pommes de terre frites," and settled down for a chat over old times.

"Old Snake Morgan has promised to get me a ticket for the Vets' Ball this winter," said Bill, sipping a Coca Cola in lieu of vin blanc. "When is zero hour?" "Friday the 13th old bean, and she is going to smash all previous records, and that's saying something. Why they are even surprised," why Bill, why do you look so surprised?"

"What's the idea of two hoodlums like that? Friday, the 13th! Trying to jinx the outfit?"

"Now see here old timer, the war's over and we have forgotten all that old superstitious stuff. You can light three of each last year and not get a burst of 'Emma Goss' through your tin hat, and you can even safely sleep on a stretcher and wake up all in one piece," and playing my trump card, "I know one hoodlum neutralizes another."

"True enough," said Bill, as his face brightened up, "the thirteenth will knock-out the Friday. And any way Friday is a pretty good day. Got my leave from the Plims in '14 on a Friday. Yes, and spent it all in Divizes on account of little Marguerite."

"I was broke that's timer," explained Bill lamely and hastily changing the subject, "and old number thirteen was the best platoon in our batt."

"And you graduated in '13 and enlisted on August 13th which was mighty near Friday."

"How about ducks, Spike, do we wear uniforms or dress suits?"

"Either will be approved by the committee and there was about an equal of each last year and the year before."

"Well I must get the old outfit cleaned up."

"Don't do it, leave the grease spots leather elbows and cuffs just for old time's sake. Are the patches still O.K.?"

"They sure are though a trifle muddy, and a vin rouge stains here and there on the sleeves," said Bill as a faraway, dreamy look came into his eyes.

"Of course you know it is to be in Hart House this year, don't you?"

"Oh yes, that's an extra added attraction, but I must go now old-timer, save me the seventh."

"Sure, 1st British Columbia, said I," and we'll meet at Napoo Corner Rendezvous."

"Righto, old boy."

University College

2T2

A mass meeting of the year will be held very shortly for the purpose of nominating and electing a Permanent Executive. It is hoped that much interest will be taken in this election, as the perpetuation of our interest in the class, after we leave college, will depend largely on the activity of this executive.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB

The Political Economy Club will hold its first meeting for the Easter Term on Wednesday, January 11, in the Graduates' Room, which is situated in the Library where the Book Room was. All Honour Economics students are advised to be present as a new plan for the meetings is to be proposed and tried out. Miss B. Lyons, H. A. Wilson, C. L. Fletcher, D. C. Wells and R. Woods will speak on "Government and Industry," dealing especially with Government interference in Railways, Wages and Labour disputes, and age pensions, and the problem of regulation, and unemployment insurance. It is also expected that several professors of the Economics Department will be present.

Tea will be served at twenty minutes to four.

FRENCH ART EXHIBIT ADMIRABLE AT GRANGE

Paintings of Unusual Beauty by French Masters Now on View

"In Xandu did Kubla Khan

A stately pleasure dome decree."

For some unknown reason the poem of Kubla Khan seems to be linked with a picture by Le Sidanes, one of the pictures in the French exhibit on view this month at the Grange. The connection seems distant enough, certainly, as the scene is of a pavilion on Lake Maggiore, but it is there nevertheless. As one looks at the misty mountain covered with a rosy sunset glow, a glow reflected in the deep blue of the lake one feels the atmosphere of mystery which Coleridge loved. Instead of the lure of the unknown and the mysterious there is a feeling of peace and calm serenity in the picture of a fisherman's cottage by the same artist. A light glows from the window and gives a feeling of security which is heightened by the still mackerel water in the background with the dark patches where the evening clouds make shadows on the dull blue. Both are pictures which one instinctively loves and would like to live with.

Of a vastly different type is the bold poster-like picture by Lucien Simon, which is seen through the doorway. Full of action and colour it is filled with the gaiety which one associates with masks and Venetian gondolas. The harbour scenes by Roulin are quite different, both in conception and execution. There is a fascination in masks standing like tall poplars or bouilly pines. Bouilly's work shows delicate technique and finish and great beauty. The ships stand in the calm water, masts outlined against a sky reminiscent of Turner with its soft, pale colouring clouds.

No lively pond was ever so deep a blue nor lilacs painted so delicate a rose, but it is only in the picture of the woman, Claude Monet, with great skill and power, makes us forget its impossibilities while delighting in its ethereal beauty.

Modern impressionistic style has left its mark on French art too. There is an odd picture in this collection by Redon, which, from a distance, might represent almost anything, but when more closely examined proves to be a cat sitting in the midst of brilliantly colored flowers. Across the room from it is a much less crude example of Redon's art, a picture of a woman among her flowers, combining medieval symbolism with ultra modern style. Then, too, there are two or three scenes which might have been painted by one of our School of Seven.

As a rule the portraiture is not attractive. The features seem out of proportion and neither the arrangement nor colouring is appealing. But there are two or three exceptions. One study of a typically Frenchman is quite convincing. There are also two heads by Jean Jacques Henner which are both interesting and distinctly ornamental. The most striking is of a young girl whose red head kerchief and black dress accentuate her fair skin and the clear cut profile against the dark background.

One of the most striking pictures in the exhibit is one by Jules Breton. "Le Pardon de Kergat" fills one side of one of the smaller rooms, but it is not its size which makes it so interesting. The religious fervour, fanatic rather than reverent, the expression on the faces of the figures in the procession and the endless line of faintly glimmering tapers compels our admiration and, lighting our tapers, we join the long procession though we but faintly understand its meaning.

Our eyes pass from the large central picture, we see in the corner a small Corot. It is a quiet scene replete with a wistful joyousness characteristic of the painter, a landscape of great beauty in conception and in the perfect technique for which Corot is famous.

CIVICS AND TOWN PLANNING

"TIMELY AND BENEFICIAL"

New Course on the Curriculum First to be Offered by any University in Canada—Opportunity Exists in a Young Country for Beautifying and Planning

LECTURES OPEN TO UNDERGRADS

Toronto University is proving beyond all doubt that the old criticism to which it was at times subjected, that it provided education only for the wealthier classes, is entirely without foundation. During the session of 1920-21 a course was provided for the farmers of the Province, and just before the opening of the current year a similar service was offered for journalists. The latest course on the curriculum is in Civics and Town Planning, which is now in operation, and will probably become a permanent feature. It is the first course of its kind offered by any University in Canada.

The students were formally welcomed Monday by Sir Robert Falconer and Dean Mitchell, of the Faculty of Applied Science. Sir Robert pointed out the need and opportunity in a young country of planning towns and cities so that they may at once be useful and beautiful. He referred to the work done along those lines in Halifax since the recent destruction of parts of the city in the explosion. He closed his remarks by extending to the new students a hearty welcome on behalf of the University.

The course," said Dean Mitchell in his address, "is necessary, timely, and beneficial." He outlined briefly the history of Town Planning with regard to strategy, transportation, and other advantages, referring to London, Paris, Rome, Venice, and among the newer cities, New York, Montreal, and Toronto.

The science of Town Planning, he said, may be divided into four great divisions: Circulation and Transportation, Buildings, Open spaces, and Parks. Privately owned lands and lands outside the city. He advised the students to take full advantage of their opportunity to increase their knowledge of their own specialties, and to take insight into the problems which confront men in other branches.

The students attend lectures in the various branches of the subject from 10 a.m. to 12 and from 2 to 4 daily. From 4 to 5 they meet in room 33 of the Engineering building for discussion of the problems brought up during the day, the chair being occupied by Prof. John Berrington. The discussion yesterday centred around the proposal of Mr. J. P. Hynes, President of the Ontario Town Planning and Housing Association, to the effect that the C.P.R. line through North Toronto should be a centre for all rail roads coming into the city. The speaker should be at ground level, and the roadways should be elevated on viaducts.

Prof. Berrington wished to have emphasized the fact that all lectures are open to undergraduates of the University, without any registration fee. The registration is forty-five to date, of which about thirty are out-of-town men representing New Liskeard, Oshawa, Galt, Hamilton, Port Colborne and Guelph.

The lectures for to-day and to-morrow are as follows:

- Wednesday
9 a.m.—Mr. H. L. Seymour: Zoning.
10 a.m.—Mr. A. E. C. Bunnell: Transport to and within the city.
11 a.m.—Prof. C. H. Wright: The Small Community.
2 p.m.—Mrs. J. H. Montgomery-Grubb: The Ordered Suburb.
3 p.m.—Mr. T. D. LeMay: Legal Position in Ontario.
Thursday
9 a.m.—Prof. W. M. Teagdale: Road-making and Planning.
10 a.m.—Mr. H. L. Seymour: Zoning.
11 a.m.—Mr. W. D. Connarty: Housing Policy in Ontario.
2 p.m.—Prof. W. M. Teagdale: Road Planning and Making.

HISTORY LECTURES

GREAT ATTRACTION

Large Audiences Interested in "Medieval England"

On Friday afternoon the line-up of cars before the Physics Building would have done credit to the Arena on the occasion of a McGill-Varsity Hockey Match.

Sir Bertram Windle's opening lecture on "Medieval England, from the Departure of the Romans to the Norman Conquest" drew large crowds, and at 4:30 p.m. there was scarcely standing room.

Sir Bertram's opening lecture dealt with the churches and fortifications of the Saxons prior to the Norman invasion. The lecture was illustrated by very fine lantern slides specially procured for the occasion.

In this series of lectures it is Sir Bertram's intention to pursue two main ideas—the gradual growth of civilization after the departure of the Romans and the description of the life led by the people of Medieval England right up to Tudor times.

Those who heard Sir Bertram's lectures last year on the Roman Occupation of Britain will appreciate the continuance of the series.

Very good attendance intimates a next very wide interest in these lectures. Next Friday's lecture will deal principally with the Normans, their Castles and Earthworks.

The weekly tea given the U.C. students by the Faculty will be as usual this week, on Thursday in the Library at four o'clock.

ART COLLECTION FOR HART HOUSE

Effort to Collect Pictures by Canadian Artists

The Picture Committee of the Sketch Club, which has been largely instrumental in arranging the loan exhibits in Hart House, is drawing up plans for purchasing a permanent exhibit for the walls of the splendid natural picture gallery. The present system of borrowing has been very satisfactory as far as members of Hart House have been concerned, but it cannot go on forever. As a fair recompense to the artists it would be only right if one or more large canvases were bought each year. The Hart House collection might be built up in the course of a generation or so to an unequalled representation of Canadian art in larger canvases. The large rooms and great distances of Hart House, together with the comparatively colourless background, lend themselves admirably to such a display as is at present in the Lecture Room; the whole effect of those six large pictures is splendid in the extreme.

The matter of ways and means has formed a stumbling-block. Various ways of collecting a sum large enough to buy a work while picture every year have been suggested; perhaps the best of these is that the graduating members of Hart House should contribute a small amount each, the total to be used by a committee for the purchase of a picture which will bear the year of purchase on a small plate. There is already in the hands of the Committee nearly three hundred dollars, and this plan is adopted it is expected that this amount will be added to the subscription of the class of '22 for the first picture.

The Picture Committee is responsible to the Sketch Club, and would be very glad to receive suggestions and criticisms either through the Club or through the columns of THE VARSITY.

ARTS BALL EXCITES MUCH INTEREST

Lists Being Rapidly Filled

The lists for the Arts Ball of 1922 are being filled very quickly. Any U.C. undergraduate who intends to go should see that his name is on his post office list at once. The list in the Post Office is for graduates and other faculties. Tickets will be issued at the end of the week to U.C. men on the lists, first, then to members of other faculties. A fair number have been reserved for graduates. This is the oldest custom of the University. From the days of the old-time "conversations" to the ultra-modern dances, the Arts Ball has been the premier event of the University "season." It is an occasion that will be something to think of in the future when the Prince of Wales and his consort, the Duke and Duchess of York, are in the city and do not think the beautiful and dainty romance.

The story of the stately Gothic Hall, the richness of the painting and decoration, the beauty of young faces and new gowns, and the sob of the passionate violin in the long hall, will remain with you. The Arts Ball of 1922 is not only an institution; it is a creation and you cannot afford to miss it.

Celebrity is out of season, but potatoes are being peeled.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT FEB. 16

Members of the Club are asked to note the change of hours for practice. The days are the same, the place is the same, but the hours will be 4 to 6 p.m. It is imperative that every member should be at the rehearsals, which commenced on Monday, January 9, and will be continued on Tuesday, January 17, at 8 p.m., and coming along to West Hall with the rest of the crowd that night. It will be worth while!

From the day of his graduation Sir John Gibson has trodden the path of success, which is well worth a short review. He was in the Provincial Legislature from 1879 till 1905, and during sixteen years of this term he was in the Cabinet as Provincial Secretary. In 1908 he was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and for six years ably filled this position.

During most of his years he practised law in his native city, at the same time he was officially connected with several large business concerns, all of which have prospered.

From the year 1860, when it was feared that war might break out between Great Britain and the United States, the undergraduates of the University of Toronto formed a corps, which lasted for many years. It was here that Sir John received his first military training and practice in shooting.

After graduating he transferred to the 10th Regiment at Hamilton. With this regiment he served in the Fenian Raid and he is at present its honorary colonel. He can well remember the practice of the Fenians to have target practice from the windows of their residences, which now forms the west wing of the present Main Building. The targets were tin cans placed in the windows, which extended where is now Bloo Street a post office which might prove rather disastrous if practised by some of the undergraduates now!

However, it is with Sir John Gibson's University associations that we are most particularly concerned. Ever an ardent supporter of education in any form he endeavoured to make the terminology of the American school of this branch of the science more in harmony with that of the European school. He admits that the American terminology is the best for the present, but he believes that the European terminology is better for the more advanced work.

In closing he remarked that he found it difficult to deliver a lecture that would please both the worker and the layman and that his remarks on Evolution have only been imperfectly understood by his lay friends as he received several letters asking how his lectures compare with the first chapter of Genesis. He believes that evolution is an established fact but that the exact method of evolution is not understood yet.

There was much discussion last term of abolishing initiation. In closing this short account of Sir John Gibson's life and career it is deemed fitting to mention that in his memoirs of undergraduate days he commends very favourably initiation, which was greatly indulged in during his time at Varsity.

GOOD MUSIC DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

First Effort of T.C.M.S. Well Received

An enthusiastic audience filled Massey Hall on Monday night to hear the Flaxley Quartette in the second public programme of the Toronto Chamber Music Society. The T.C.M.S. is to be congratulated on the success of its effort to popularize good music, this being very evident from the large number of people present. Both staff and non-staff members of the University were largely represented. The first number on the programme was Mozart's Quartet in D major. The Flaxley Quartette, with its joyous, lifting theme and vague background of haunting pathos, was performed in a way which secured warm applause and entertainment. The second movement, the minuet, a beautiful bit of rhythm and melody proved the excellence of the performance by its precision and unanimity. The highest point was reached in the adagio. This marvellous movement seemed as perfect as a humanly possible, so perfect that it seemed to express in words the feeling it created is futile. It can only be said that it seemed to embody all the beautiful ideas which men have desired and successfully striven to express from time immemorial, the despair of failure and all the heart-break ever known.

It caused a curious tightness of the throat in more than one auditor. In the allegro, which was characterized by its delicate phrasing, the happier theme returned. A grandioso, like a piece of silver, shimmering with the delicate sweetness of execution which it received. Next was Glazounoff's Interludium, a stately and solemn thing in which the Flaxley Quartette, with its depth of expression and feeling of its tones. The programme was closed by a beautiful set of exquisite variations by Oskar Sucklen and a bright scherzo by Borodine.

The artists were encased several times and not one who was wealthy or titled. Recently, it said, was the object of all their labours. Athletics were cultivated to develop a good figure and to give grace in movement and carriage. Their speech and literature were both most delicate and artistic. Their plays were lofty and intellectual, in deep contrast with the present day movie. In their architecture, the Greeks showed their greatest art. The Professor then drew a vivid picture of the Acropolis of Athens and the exquisite beauty of their unity and intellectual masterpieces. They did not, however, let development in art interfere with development in moral and intellectual lines, but were unusually well-balanced. In Greece, where civilization was the greatest the world has seen, art bore the closest relation to it.

The middle ages were notable for their art. The numerous beautiful cathedrals and churches, the bridges, the paintings, the sculpture, all showed a great devotion to art. It must, however, be admitted that their art was inferior in its purpose to that of the Greeks, and this showed itself in their violence and the way they persecuted anyone who tried to enlighten them.

At the present day, art is sacrificed too much to the practical. Nevertheless we can never depart from art in our life, although now it is only a matter of degree. It exists in our homes, our dress, our buildings and practically everything. But the defect of our civilization is that it does not occupy a sufficiently important position in our minds. Prof. Oldburn closed his address with an appeal that we must turn to ancient Greece for inspiration on artistic lines.

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE TO SPEAK IN WEST HALL
Sir Joseph Flavelle has been good enough to consent to address the meeting of the U.C. Literary and Artistic Society next Tuesday evening, January 17, in West Hall. Sir Joseph needs no introduction to readers of THE VARSITY nor do we need to outline his erudition and unusual qualifications to speak on his subject, "Railway Problems in Canada." In order that none may be deprived of the opportunity of hearing him, the meeting has been thrown open to men or women from all the faculties and colleges of the University are very welcome. Just make a note then, mental or otherwise, of the date and hour, Tuesday, January 17, at 8 p.m., and come along to West Hall with the rest of the crowd that night. It will be worth while!

NO CIVILIZATION WITHOUT ART

Art is Sacrificed to the Practical at Present Day

Last night, Prof. Oldburn, a well-known student of art, delivered a most interesting lecture on "The Need of Art in Life." Room 22 of the Mining Building was the scene of the lecture. By the time it started, the room was packed and a number of people were standing.

A philosophical analysis of art, Prof. Oldburn said, would reveal to us that, were it not for art, our civilization would not exist. Although we do not often think of it, art exists in our wall paper, our neckties, and everything else that make up our ordinary life.

The lecturer said that he would discuss art under three heads, that of the Greeks, the middle ages, and the present day.

In Greece, where the greatest civilization existed, a gentleman was an artist and not one who was wealthy or titled. Recently, it said, was the object of all their labours. Athletics were cultivated to develop a good figure and to give grace in movement and carriage. Their speech and literature were both most delicate and artistic. Their plays were lofty and intellectual, in deep contrast with the present day movie. In their architecture, the Greeks showed their greatest art. ## "AS THO' TO BREATHE WERE LIFE"

University life makes certain demands of the students in addition to the daily round of lectures and study. Wherever there are as many organizations as we have in this university one would expect to find that every student was actively interested in a definite sphere of college life apart from his course. Unfortunately this is not the case, for it seems to be left to a few to contribute interest, time, support and energy to college activities, while the great majority gaze calmly on, content that someone else should shoulder their burdens, offering nothing save a little adverse criticism. This situation is manifestly abnormal. It is unfair to expect, or even think, that a minority should do everything, sacrificing themselves and their studies, while others dally along doing nothing for the college community. Moreover, the few who are doing things have to struggle against this lack of interest and lethargy which is worse than any positive antagonism. How hard it is to persuade any one to do any unavailing, which is unpleasant but necessary, or to write for Pantheus. Students have a conscience when it comes to their own work, but we need a greater realization of our responsibility, not only to make good as individuals, but to contribute something to our college life. For it is quite true of our four years in the University, as a life in general that we only receive from it what we put into it. If we put our best into our studies and our other activities we shall receive the best results and a feeling of deep satisfaction will be ours. If we do not, we shall feel, in years to come when we look back on what should have been our happiest days, a vague sense that something was lacking, that we were satisfied with too little, that we thought we were living when we were only breathing.

WITH YOUR ASSISTANCE

Do you realize just what this copy of Varsity entailed in the way of work and sacrifice on the part of various members of the staff, particularly the Reporters and Local Editor. The former, whose names appear at the top, are responsible for one or more of the news articles, to obtain which they had to spend their own time, or time when they should have been at lectures in interviewing various people and writing the story.

The Local Editor, whose name appears unobtrusively directly above the Editors, spent from nine to ten hours in making this edition possible. Some time yesterday afternoon he collected all copy that had been handed in at the time and took it to the Press Room. At seven o'clock when you, who read this, were leaving for a dance or the hockey game, he arrived at the Press Room and there he stayed until five o'clock this morning. The intervening hours he spent in proofing the copy, writing heads, digging up and perhaps writing copy if there was insufficient to fill his columns, cutting articles short if there was too much and finally pasting up the "dummy" of the whole paper in the space allotted him for news by the Business and Advertising Manager. And remember he had already done a day's work before he started.

So when you are tempted to criticize if your faculty or dance does not receive the prominence you think it deserves, try first to put yourself in his place and let your remarks be just.

There are, on an average, fourteen columns of newsprint in each issue. These are set up on a "Monotype" and then are passed on to the "Caster," a machine that turns out the individual letters, one by one, from molten lead. A column of news takes forty-five minutes to cast and it is this slow process that is the primary reason for the Local Editor having to wander home, dirty and weary-eyed at five or six in the morning. Every column of news set up and cast by the day staff of the Press reduces the Local's night session by over half an hour, and this is where those of you who have stories, advance notices of dances, club meetings, and so forth, can help. Get your articles to THE VARSITY office by or before noon of the day preceding the issue and not only will you earn the appreciation of the Local Editor but your articles will be proofed while he is still feeling brisk and businesslike and chances of errors will be reduced.

You all, no doubt, have your pet charity or enthusiasm for which you are ever ready to appeal for help from others. This is our appeal to you—"GET YOUR COPY IN EARLY."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Elsewhere in this issue appears a short sketch of the life of the Hon. Sir John Gibson, former Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and a staunch friend of the University. The article, which was prepared with the assistance of the University of Toronto Alumni Association, is the first of a series on famous graduates of the University which will be published in THE VARSITY each Wednesday. Next week, the article will deal with the Hon. Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of the Court of King's Bench, a graduate, and former Vice-Chancellor of the University.

We regret that in the heading of an article which appeared in the last issue it was stated that the Veterans' Dance would be held at the King Edward Hotel. The Veterans' Dance will be held this year in Hart House, and not at the King Edward.

"BATIKS" LECTURE FOR SKETCH CLUB

Visit to Grange Planned

A most interesting demonstration and display has been arranged for Thursday of next week when Mr. Coates, of the Architectural Department, will give a lecture on the making of "Batiks." The lecture will be followed by an actual demonstration of the making of Batiks, giving finished tapestries similar to those now on view in the Sketch Room. Remember Thursday, January 19. Full details later.

The regular drawing class will be continued, beginning Tuesday, January 17, at 8 p.m. Mr. Sampson, the well-known artist, has charge of the class for that evening, and a model has been secured for the members to sketch from. Instruction in drawing and helpful criticism are ensured all who attend. Join the class next Tuesday. An early visit to the Grange is planned to view the present exhibition of French paintings, and an evening in the near future will be devoted to an inspection of the pictures hung in Hart House. Both these gatherings will be in charge of prominent artists who are qualified to speak on the features exhibited and will make the inspection both interesting and instructive. Watch for further notices.

BARBER SHOP OPENED FOR KNOX MUSICIANS

Robert MacClug Plays Delilah to Many Presbyterian Samsons

Yesterday morning, after following my way to the mill boy, I was rewarded by a business-like looking letter. Expecting that it would prove a dinner, I refrained from opening it in the presence of the gang but my fears were groundless. It was merely some enterprising gentleman's intimation that for the sum of $1.00 he was willing to shear my flowing locks four times in the Happy New Year. I further gathered that this was a special concession to me because I happened to be a "Student." There is something peculiarly gratifying in the thought that here is one golden soul anxious to brush away my scholastic taint.

Even the subsequent discovery that I was not the only one to whom this unique privilege was extended has failed to extinguish the warm glow of gratitude in my heart towards the generous barber. At the same time I regret that I cannot avail myself of his "cut" rates. We have a barber right in East House. And we must patronize local industries first. Yes, Robert MacClug, alias MacClug, in direct defiance of the North American Union of Barbers, is raising a chair in the third floor bath-room and paying his way through college just like the Alger boys of old. He has built up a huge practice, and dozens of closely cropped heads around the festal board show forth his handiwork. There is something distinctly different about a MacClug haircut, a sort of je ne sais quoi and avec-vous de l'encre which makes the recipient stand out among his kind as un pauvre polisson.

Mr. MacClug's capital business has grown at a hair-raising clip since his first small beginnings with Maxwellton Brays his sole customer. His motto has been "Gave me the roof," and when he finishes with the thud there isn't enough left to make a bursting platform! His equipment consists of one pair clippers, one comb, one need of dental attention, one porridge bowl, fourteen yards of adhesive tape, two phials of iodine and his bally nerve.

The worthy MacClug did not take lessons in his craft. He turns "hy" ear. Sometimes he doesn't get "hy" term. But on the whole he has a pretty good batting eye. He specializes in three styles of coiffures: the Boulevard, the Terrace and the Steppes. All three have their devotees. I shall describe them and at the next issue see how many of Mr. MacClug's patrons you can pick out.

1. The Boulevard cut. Rendered popular during the late war among His Majesty's forces. Originated in the "Scalp My Fall" institution. Eliminates the necessity of parting, combing or brushing. After the operation, all that remains, in order to make the shorn head look like the front campus, is to write "Seed Swan" on the victim's collar.

2. The Terrace cut. A revival of the fashion set by Julius Caesar and Tiberius Gracchus. A porringer is rammed well down over the customer's dome, and all that isn't "faded" is clipped away.

3. The Steppes cut. MacClug has imported this one from the windy plains of the Volga, without the permission of the Soviet government. Many an exiled Cossack has broken into tears of homesickness for his native Steppes at the sight of Mr. MacClug's artistic imitation.

We wish Robert all success in his chosen vocation. But he's not going to practice on us. Some years ago, we allowed a well-meaning comrade to cut our hair with the barber's sergeant's clippers. Two days later our leave warrant came through.

Someday we suspect that MacClug's method strongly resembles those of a Roman barber whom Martial immortalized long ago in a scathing epigram. In conclusion, he said,

"Unus de concitis animalibus hircus huiusmodi barbatus vivit, ne ferat Antiochum."
Which we venture to translate, or rather parody:

"The goat is no so awfully slow,
Despite his bearded mane;
He'd sooner let the blame thing grow—
Than trust it to MacClug."

NATURE MAKES THE BETTER MAN

As Knut Hanson Shows in "Growth of Soil"

A very interesting meeting of the Women's Literary Society was held on Tuesday night when Dr. Wallace gave a delightful address on Knut Hanson's "Growth of Soil." The illustrative excerpts of Hanson's book read by Dr. Wallace were much appreciated by the audience.

Two years ago the Norwegian author, Knut Hanson was awarded the Nobel prize. Until that time, on this side of the Atlantic, his name had been seldom heard. Born in 1860, in a remote valley in North Norway, Knut Hanson led a singularly romantic existence before he gained recognition as one of Central Europe's outstanding authors.

His novel "Growth of Soil" is a story of a pioneer's struggle in the wilds. The interest of the novel lies primarily in the interest of "Isaac's" primitive struggle with nature. The chief character Isaac is a "barge of a man," without book-learning is very realistically portrayed. His wife and two sons are also presented to us in a vivid way. Hanson seems to wish to show that strength of character can be developed in open country spaces as it cannot be in cities; in different chapters in his book he shows how corroding time of the cities and in deteriorating character.

The objective method is used in Hanson's "Growth of Soil." There is no psychological analysis nor yet is there any direct pointing of morals. Facts are presented and we are allowed to draw our own conclusions. The characters are very realistic and vivid pictures of the Norwegian countryside are given.

A vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Wallace and Norwegian piano selections rendered by Miss Mary Pearl closed the enjoyable meeting.

The second meeting of the Women's Intercollegiate Debating Union will be held on Wednesday, January 18, at 8 o'clock, in Alumni Hall of Victoria College. The subject will be: "Resolved that the Welfare of the Dominion of Canada demands a closer restriction of alien immigration." Victoria College upholds the negative, U.C. the affirmative. For Vice the debaters are Lily Colburn and Eileen Irwin. For U.C. Marian Maitland and Marguerite Spence. The meetings are open to everyone. Come and see what college women can do besides dance, all you men who affect to despise the fair co-ed.

BURWASH HALL RATES

In an article which appeared in the last issue of THE VARSITY it was stated that the price of board at Burwash Hall was $25 a week for residents, and $30 for non-residents. The reading ought to have been that for regular patrons of the Hall, that is, for those who were eating three meals daily at Burwash, the price of board is $5.25. For those who are eating only one or two meals in the Hall, the prices are: 7 breakfasts, $1.40; 7 lunches or dinners, $2.50; 21 lunches or dinners, $6.50. No discrimination whatever is made between resident and non-resident students.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR AQUATIC SPORTS

Co-Eds Admitted in Evenings

The committee in charge of the Water-Polo have decided that more time was needed for Intercollegiate Swimming and Water Polo. In order to provide in the water-polo schedule was shortened.

Heretofore the Interfaculty games were played in the afternoon, now double-headers will be played in the evening and tony diving will be an added attraction. The fair ones will now have an opportunity of seeing the fish in action and cheering their teams on. The galleries at these games have always lacked something, maybe that something was the (used) Thursday night, January 12 at 8.15 will tell when the first evening performance will be put on.

Admission for evening games 25 cents.

REVISED SCHEDULE

Thursday evening at 8.15, January 12th S.P.S. vs. V.C.

U.C. vs. Dents.

Friday afternoon 5.00, January 13th. S.P.S. vs. Meds.

Tuesday afternoon 5.00, January 17th. V.C. vs. Dents.

Tuesday evening 8.15, January 24th Meds. vs. U.C.

S.P.S. vs. Dents.

GYM WORK

The practice nights for gym work have been changed to Tuesdays and Thursdays until the end of the month, but on the other nights separate pieces of apparatus will be available. Remember the senior competition takes place very soon, from which will be picked the team to go to Montreal. It is very probable that Queen's and R.M.C. will be in the fight this year too. Here is your chance. How about it?

Will the Messes Grant, Fisher, MacInnes and Walton call at the office of the Women's Students Administrative Council, Room 82, Main Building, on Thursday at 4 o'clock.

There will be a practice of the Varsity Women's Basketball Team on Thursday at 5 at the Lillian Massey.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Will the manager of the winning team in each interfaculty contest in Hockey, Basketball and Indoor Baseball please furnish to THE VARSITY office, second floor, Hart House, an account of the game of 50 or 75 words as soon after the match as possible. Otherwise there may be no mention of it, which, undesirable as it may be, cannot be helped owing to the number of games going on at the same time.

INDOOR MEET ANNOUNCED

Varsity Team To Be Picked From Winners

On considering the success of last year's indoor meet the executive of the Track Club decided at a meeting last Friday to hold another indoor meet. They are arranging a meet with the different Y.M.C.A. teams in the city and, if possible, one with McGill. The Varsity team will be picked from those competing in this meet. The events will begin on Monday, January 10, at 4.45 p.m., and three events will be run off each Monday following. Those entering in events kindly have your names entered by 5 p.m. the Friday night before the event is run off. The entry list will be in Mr. Reed's office and if you are unable to call yourself phone in your entries.

Every faculty should see that their men are entered and out. Every one on his own, if possible, and host the meet along. The following is the schedule:

Jan. 10—30 yards dash

Feb. 6—1 mile walk

Standing broad jump

Standing hop, step and jump

Feb. 13—1000 yards dash

Standing high jump

1 mile relay (Faculty team, 4 men; each man, 440 yards).

CURLING MEETING POSTPONED TILL FRIDAY

On account of the mild weather the annual meeting of the University Curling Club to be held at the Victoria Curling Club, 271 Huron St., has been postponed until Friday, January 18th at 5.15 p.m. All men interested in curling are invited to attend. There will be curling before and after the meeting.

The Club wishes to announce that arrangements have been made for curling (weather permitting) at the Arena on Monday afternoon between the Varsity Second Sharpshooters and the Baptists. We even refuse to divulge the names of these concerned in the massacre. The score tells the sad story and it is not our job to pass on such dreary stuff. There is no doubt about it, the Seconds are good.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

At this writing the big bout with Rock-pit crowd has not come off. We aren't worrying any. Bill Carson says he is getting onto his new stick and can shoot the eye out of a snake. He wasn't used to it last game and only got six. Louie has had his skates greased and should hit ninety per. Westy has been eating meat again. Ned is wearing his famous smile. Stan and Beattie have pulled the wise French one "Ils ne passeront pas!" and John L. feels just like a stone-wall. Fred says it doesn't matter what position he plays. This week in undoubtedly Varsity's critical one. There are two hard hills to get over. Let's get behind them to the last man. There are a lot of teams in this good old Canada who want that Allan Cup. Let 'em try and get it.

BASKETBALL TEAM SHOW CREDITABLY

Annual Christmas Tour Develops Team Play and Confidence.

Summary of Tour

The Christmas trip of the basketball team has always been of great importance in getting the men used to each other, developing team play and giving the players confidence and coolness on strange courts before hostile crowds. This year's trip proved no exception to the rule, and its results should be seen in the inter-collegiate games which will soon be in full swing.

The team set out on the first trip with practically a new forward line, but Gill, "Hip" Smith and Stewart soon worked in with the veteran members of the team and developed an effective attack. Gill, who has been prominent in Varsity basketball circles for many years, played his usual cool, effective game. At Colgate he collected four baskets off a guard who had not had that many scored on him all last season. He was throughout the mainstay of the attack. One of the agreeable surprises of the trip was the fine showing of "Hip" Smith, intermediate forward taken at the last minute on account of an injury to Leon Smith. Hip played throughout like a veteran, showing gameness and coolness under the heaviest checking and in spite of many hard blows. Kenner Bell, the veteran centre, who has not missed a game in three seasons, made an exceptionally fine showing on the trip, proving almost the ideal pivot man both on attack and defence. In addition he shot four consistently, helping greatly to win several games. In this manner Nineteen field baskets and thirty-three foul shots out of fifty in five games tell the tale. Every player has his faults, but Kenner will be hard to replace.

The veteran defence now had lived up to past performances. Once they got used to the new men on the team their clearing and passing were excellent.

Graham's somersault proved a great attraction, and his two spectacular one-hand shots at Buffalo came just at the right time. Logan's fame had preceded him, with the result that he was too closely watched to slip in the famous Logan shot, but his defensive play throughout was a big factor. Duffill's speed and the way he intercepted passes and whipped the ball down the floor featured every game in which he performed.

American teams in general play a rushing game, with a five man attack and much dribbling and dodging. Against this Varsity generally set up a four-man defence, hoping to get the ball and whip it down to the forward who lingered near the basket. This proved very effective, and very often disorganized the whole plan of attack of opponents.

Owing to pressure of work some of the regulars could not go on the trip which began after Christmas, and their places were filled by the second-string men in the squad, who turned in a fair record, winning two and losing four, and being outclassed only in one game, against the strong New York University team, two years ago amateur champions of the States. At more games would have been won had not both regular defence players been disabled in the third game and forced to lay off for the rest of the trip.

Burgess, the tall, smooth lad from Ottawa, captained the squad. He played a fine jumping and defensive game at centre, but seldom scored consistently enough to assist the attack materially. He scored the winning basket at Corning. "Hip" Smith kept up his good work of the first trip, and ran wild at the Falls, scoring eleven baskets from all angles and all positions. Leon Smith, who was able to play on this trip, showed consistent, effective basketball when he got into action. He certainly will give many anxious moments to the intercollegiate guards. MacDougall played well at Elmira, and after the injuries to the guards went to defence and put up a very creditable game there. Fraser's inexperience handicapped him in several games, but he turned in several surprisingly finished performances, notably at the Falls and at

Corning.

The two guards, McLean and Cosgrove, deserve special mention. Both small men, they showed courage and coolness under the crashing attacks of the heavy American forwards. Cosgrove's checking helped materially in every game he played, while McLean, in addition to his effective checking, made frequent rushes down the sides, which generally resulted in pretty baskets on corner shots. He practically won the great battle at Corning, scoring ten points and holding his man throughout.

Medicine

The girls in the Secretary's Office have been house-keeping and wish to advise the students of the Faculty of Medicine that any articles that they may have lost in the building during the past two years may possibly be found in the office. There has been installed an up-to-date glass-fronted Lost and Found cabinet in the office and it contains everything from a tube of strychnine sulphate found in a fourth year examination hall to thousands of current text-books. There are purses, gloves, tie-pins, brooches (by Woolworth), key-rings, knives, fountain pens, and a host of small articles awaiting their owners.

The Dance Committee of Med. 24 wish to announce that the famous Jardine Orchestra has been secured for their gala night at Columbus Hall on January 18. The orchestra was to play in Washington for President Harding that night but they changed their plans on receiving a more tempting offer from the Meds. Tickets, at only three dollars a couple, are now obtainable.

The Annual Medical At Home plans are rapidly nearing completion and the indication is that tickets will not be too plentiful. The King Edward, in all its new glory, is decidedly the most attractive place in town for a formal dance, and this event is but fair to outshine the fashionable "Deb" dances that are hanging up new records this season for brilliance.

The regular weekly meeting of the Executive of the Medical Society met in the General Hospital on Tuesday night. The next open meeting of the Medical Society will be held in the Lecture Room, Hart House, on Thursday evening, January 17. Dr. W. E. Galle will be the speaker of the evening. His subject will be one of great scientific and romantic interest, "Lord Lister" and should certainly be heard.

Dr. Fader will give a lecture on "Carotid Emulsion" on Tuesday, January 17, from 5 to 6 in the North Lecture Room, Medical Building. This is a subject of unusual interest and a good record should be there. The Executive declared themselves in favour of the contemplated University Theatre. This is a subject of great interest. The "Savoyards" are presenting "H.M.S. Pinafore."

MEDICAL INFORMAL DANCE

This Saturday, January 14, the Medical At Home Committee are giving another informal dance at U.T.S.

HART HOUSE WELCOMES GRADS BACK TO THEIR ALMA MATER

Eighty Alumni Entertained at Graduates' Dinner on Wednesday Evening

HOUSE OFFERS MANY PRIVILEGES

At the monthly Graduates' Dinner held on Wednesday evening at the Graduate Dining Hall upwards of eighty were present, and a very successful meeting was held.

At the present time the membership totals about three hundred graduates. The membership fee in the Association is $10 for residents and $2.50 for non-residents of the city, and all Varsity graduates are invited to join.

The recently elected Executive of the Association is as follows: President, Alex. C. Snively; Secretary, P. W. Beatty; Arts Representative, Chas. S. MacDonald; Meds Representative, Dr. E. A. McCulloch; S.P.S. Representative, J. H. Craig; Dent Representative, Dr. Fred Mallory; House Committee Representative, G. F. McFarland; Board of Stewards Representative, J. H. Craig; Membership Committee Representative, W. E. Douglas.

When the banquet had been partaken of, the Adjutant-General's Room, where there was a blazing grate-fire, Warden Bickerstaff said that as many graduates as possible were welcome, although no contingent was being sent on account of restricted accommodation. He then set forth the various advantages and privileges of Hart House.

The gymnasium, swimming pool and showers are reserved exclusively for the use of graduate members on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from six to nine, and a physical instructor is on duty on each of these evenings. The athletic section may be used during the day, and hours may be had on request from Dr. Barton. The squash racquet courts are open daily from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., and may be reserved at any time by phoning Coll. 621. The billiard room is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and is reserved for graduate members on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings only. Ten p.m. Matches with undergraduates would be an excellent means of promoting good spirit.

An excellent feature is the six guest-rooms in south wing for members or their friends. Reservation may be made at the Warden's office. The Graduate Dining Room, Common Room, Billiard Room, and Library may be used by graduate members. Two hundred new lockers give splendid accommodation. The Sketch Room is available for the use of the Arts Club and Theatre are open every third Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. in order that members may introduce their friends. Ladies are permitted to see the building on that day. It was announced that the next dinner would be held Wednesday, February 16, with another on March 16.

Dr. J. H. Craig, president of the University Alumni Association, was among the members present at the dinner.

DR. GEO. C. PIDGEON TO PREACH SUNDAY

Popular Preacher is Well Known to Varsity Students

Dr. Geo. C. Pidgeon will on Sunday morning at Convocation Hall on a Sunday morning. He needs no introduction to the Varsity audience and his sermon on this occasion will be one which will appeal to students. Dr. Pidgeon graduated from McGill University and the Presbyterian College of Montreal, and that time has been along the lines of his work of the whole church, as minister, college professor and organizer in the interest of Social Service. His contribution to the church has been along the lines of practical interpretation of Christianity.

During the war he served as a padre with the Canadian Corps on the front. The Sunday services at his church on Bloor Street, as well as the popular mid-week activities, have attracted large numbers of students. Dr. Pidgeon has shown a special interest in student work as leader of a Bible Study Group, composed of men of all faculties.

CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION TO HEAR AN ADDRESS ON HORACE

Even in the popular fancy Horace and his Sabine Farm are well known. Dr. E. F. Cameron, M.A., at a meeting of the Classical Association, Monday, Jan. 16 at 8 p.m., to be held at the Women's Union, 80 St. George Street. No student of Classics can afford to let slip this opportunity of acquiring in so interesting and enjoyable a way, some of the knowledge pleasant in its human touches, useful in the light it sheds in the character of a classic, and fundamentally valuable as furnishing a practical example of the philosophy of contentment.

That is a case of sheer neglect said the barber to the prominent senior the other day.

VARSITY VETS DANCE PAN-UNIVERSITY EVENT

Friday the 13th is the Date
8.30 the Hour

At last the pan-University dance of the Easter Term is hand. To-night, Friday the thirteenth at thirteen minutes after eight, there will be given in the hall at the South Door of Hart House all of thirteen cars.

The Varsity men so believe in thirteen as a lucky number (since the war) that they are going to have thirteen hockey players (world's championship type) there, in time for the thirteenth dance.

The dance committee have vowed sacred vows that two dances will be run off by nine o'clock to every one is cautioned to be ready to dance by 8.30.

The executive committee of the U.V.A. have spared no efforts to have all the appointments completed. Everything is now ready, from the music to the bulletins of the Aura Lee-Varsity Hockey game at intervals during the dance.

Any who have not secured their tickets for this super-dance can still do so at the Hart Porter in Hart House or at the U.V.A. representative.

Uniforms for men will be worn.

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE TO ADDRESS U.C. LIT.

The meeting of the University College Literary and Arts Society which Sir Joseph Flavell is to address next Tuesday evening in West Hall, is, according to custom an open meeting, to which men and women are invited. The subject of his speech, "Railway Problems in Canada," is most timely, and the speaker is very fully informed on this subject. Sir Joseph has addressed a large meeting of business men upon this very topic. He was asked by the government to play a part in a conference through study of the problem confronting the Canadian National Railways and to give his opinions upon their financing and operation.

Men and women in the University are aware that at the present time there are large areas of sparsely populated country in the west which are served by a railway service that is far ahead of the present needs of the country. It is with problems such as these that Sir Joseph Flavell will deal on next Tuesday night, January 17. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

SKETCH CLUB

On Tuesday evening, January 17, the regular life classes of the Hart House Sketch Club will be held in the hall. A prominent artist on poster design, will be present to render help and criticism. In the following evening an exceedingly interesting and valuable lecture will be given in the Sketch Room. Mr. Robt. A. Coates will explain and demonstrate the making of "Bakelite"—an ancient art but recently revived. The lecture by Mr. Coates will be augmented by a talk on "Dyeing Processes" by a graduate of S.P.S. All members of the Hart House are cordially invited to attend this meeting at eight o'clock on Wednesday 18th.

The date was announced in the last Varsity as January 18, but this date had been changed to Wednesday. Keep this evening open.

Superstitious Await With Trepidation Friday the 13th

Are you superstitious? Of course, one never is by one's own admission since superstition has been defined as "that which our neighbour believes that we do not believe in." People who are afraid of the query and ask, "Does this conjunction of Friday and the thirteenth of the month send premonitory shivers down your spine?"

It is a peculiar fact that, whether for good or evil, Friday has long been held as a day of portent among many and widely separated peoples. The early Scandinavians honored it as the luckiest day of all. In the Moslem Calendar it is the most significant, not only as the day of Adam's creation, his entrance into Paradise, his expulsion, his repentance, his death, and his expected resurrection of the world. It is only among Christian nations that from being a day of fasting it has come to be associated with signs of ill omen.

A few years ago Mr. Dressler of the University of California conducted an investigation which revealed that of 900 Natural Science Students 338 were confessed believers in Friday as an unlucky day, while 130 had a horror of thirteen.

Even your wife is an amused superstitious? Examine your habits carefully and if you have never wished in stars, turned to see the moon over your left shoulder, cherished a four leaf clover, picked up a pin with the head towards you, touched wood, or shivered at the foot of an owl, the chances are ten to one that it is because you have a preference for some little private offering of your own to lay upon the shrine of Fortune, a lady of my name and ninety-eight feet on Hoskin Avenue. It is the intention of the directors of the Club that the house shall be a residence for the students. There is accommodation for about forty boys.

While the step is a great one it by no means completes the plan that the Directors of the Newman Club have in mind. It is their intention to spend much money than in the transaction of the Matthews' property in building a suitable hall, library, chapel and dormitory. When these plans are completed the Club will be one of the most complete of all the Newman Clubs of the Continent.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY GEN. CARTWRIGHT

Sketches Events of Early Days of War

General Cartwright yesterday afternoon delivered a very interesting lecture on the events on the British Sector of the Western Front during the first half of 1915.

The weather at the beginning of the year was very bad and the troops suffered greatly from frost-bite, trench feet, etc., which troubles were made worse on account of lack of experience in trench warfare.

On the 25th of January the Germans attacked at various points and carried some of our trenches—were driven out again.

This juncture events started to develop rapidly. The Germans brought up trench mortars which were used with considerable effect against our troops. On the other hand the British were increased from two to five corps. Some nine inch guns were brought forward and later some twelve inch ones. As the other line came forward, the "Kitchener's Army" and the Canadians were brought over and placed in the line between La Bassée and the sea.

At Neuve Chapelle, the British fought the first battle in which they had powerful backing by their artillery. They were unfortunately held off on the first day because the German barbed wire entanglements were too deep and on the second and third days the British played a brilliant part. Some prisoners and 3,000 yards of trenches to a depth of 1,000 yards.

At the Ypres Salient the Germans could not get up the hill because the British from Hill 60 and this rendered it impossible to bring up supplies except by night. Consequently the British command resolved to take the hill. Five mines were driven under it, each of which contained a ton of black powder. On the fighting which followed, the British were successful in taking the hill. The first victims were the French, mostly Colonial, who were terrified and retreated rapidly after the first casualties.

Some French guns, on the other hand, fought till the last man was killed. The retreat of the former left a gap in the line, and if the Germans had taken full advantage of this instead of wasting their strength in their gains, it might have been very disastrous to our arms. They had a great chance to break through the line. The Canadians who held the line to the west were outflanked and forced to retreat, but they finally stopped the Germans and counter-attacked. The British then came in on the gap, which attacked the Germans and the latter believe that they were strong reinforcements were cut off; the work 120 Canadians were cut off at St. Julien and forced to surrender after the French troops were brought up and the

Varsity Glee Club HAS FINE PROGRAM

Good Orchestra and Outside Talent Promised

The University Glee Club has in preparation this year a most interesting and attractive programme. Early in November Mr. C. B. McQueen, S.P.S., was elected president. Invitations were freely issued to all with good singing voices to present themselves before Mr. Sherlock for a try-out. It was not long until the membership assumed creditable proportions and the work of preparation for a concert began.

The music once having been decided upon, the conductor began the tireless, and at times seemingly ineffective task, of whipping the chorus into shape. No one knows more than a choral conductor these depths of despondency and discouragement which come after the first few practices, when the choir seems unable to grasp anything, or to respond to any training, even professional choirs have this tendency. Mention must be made of the efficient and faithful conduct of Miss Eleanor Hyslop, A.T.C.M. pianist and accompanist.

But it was not long before the Club grasped the idea and entered into the work of interpretation. It is always a joint venture, the work of the choir begins. When the notes have been learned and the idea of a piece has been grasped then the conductor is able to rapidly bend with the choir, and the work begins. With the concert only a few weeks away, and a membership of one hundred, the Club has become really interesting.

The music will be of the most diverse and attractive nature. From the Oratorios and Classics, and the humorous and whimsical selections have been chosen which give a wide appeal to an audience. In addition, outside talent is being engaged, and the choir will have the opportunity of a capella chorus. Mr. Sherlock will still welcome applications from a few good voices, more especially sopranos, contraltos and tenors. Any desiring to see him may do so at one of the practices.

GOBLIN OUT SOON PEPPY THAN EVER

Another snappy cover by an Art School student, Helen Patterson, drawings by Peggy Heise, of international fame; Guy Rutledge back in the fold once more! No art work in the February GLOBIN will be good. The July issue enters his second year of existence on January 23rd, and is celebrating the anniversary of the magazine by the best issue yet. A new touch will be added this month—personal interviews by members of the GLOBIN staff with various celebrities. Remember who's the first victim of the interviewer.

GLOBIN is putting on a splendid show this month, and as a natural result the quality of the magazine is taking a decided jump. Remember, you artists and writers, contribute for the next issue as wanted by February 1st. Here's your chance to make the old shakedown!

And here's something worth noting. The editors of GLOBIN want to do something different in the way of magazine publishing. Either the April or the May issue will be devoted to one subject. What is this subject going to be? The question—Suggestions are wanted for this special number. Will it be a Co-ed number or a U.V.A. number? A Varsity number, or an Annapolis number? For the best suggestion the editors are offering a handsome prize. The prize will be working, and something startling is sure to result. In the meantime, remember that February 23rd is Der Tag!

Preparations Complete For 1922 Arts Ball

There are very few tickets left for the Arts Ball of University College. Those who have not secured the list to the year president's book may obtain their tickets on and after Friday morning, January 13, from the presidents of their years. Those on the list in the Post Office will get their tickets from the chairman of the committee, D. F. MacLaren, or in the rotunda between ten and twelve a.m. Saturday, the 14th.

Mrs. Henry Koshluth, Ida Falconer, Mrs. M. J. B. O'Brien, Miss Vincent Massey, and Mrs. G. E. Jackson have consented to act as patronesses for the dance.

The programme will be announced in Monday's VARSITY.

Great interest is being shown in the widely varied subjects of the Civics and Town Planning Course, National and social problems are touched on by the prominent speakers who address the students.

Mrs. Dunnington-Grubb's lecture on the ordered suburb as opposed to the haphazard built-for-profit one is of special interest to Torontonians. In these matters, England leads many philanthropists there, are willing to spend large sums of money in trying out plans for better living conditions. The co-operative system land and building materials can be obtained cheaply in large quantities. From ten to twelve houses are to be built to one of the types built in the city. The streets are to be narrow in order to take up little room and discourage through traffic. Thus a large quantity of land can be devoted to playing fields, parks, gardens, etc. Only small gardens are to be given to those who have no interest in them, but a considerable amount will be taken to those interested in horticultural endeavour and houses will be held under a stock system, thus an inhabitant can sell his shares and move without loss. No one can hold more stock than the value of his holding. A person in this way may have all the advantages of owning a house without responsibilities and at a much cheaper rate.

Prof. Wright's address was also of local interest especially as he took Toronto as his example. The speaker started with explaining that the small community was the seed of the large town. This city was small once and if proper care had been taken when the city was being laid out the present day could have been eliminated. We have here one of the best town sites which the speaker was acquainted. When Toronto first began to grow, it was on a plain level. Instead of emphasizing the ravines by constructing picturesque drive-ways along the bottom. In many cases roads have been taken up the hills at the steepest place.

Thus it is the duty of the citizens of every community however small to see that the natural characteristics of their town or village are emphasized and used to the best advantage. Most people feel that their community is superior in some respect to other communities. They are encouraged as it is the soul of the small community.

Mr. Cromarty, of Ottawa, dealt with the history of the Dominion House. Mr. Iwan and pointed out that Ontario had availed itself of this to a far greater extent than any other province. On the whole the province has been very successful. The whole Canadian endeavor in this line were the most successful.

Mr. Govan made an interesting addition to the lecture. He is well known in the Provincial Parliament Buildings and in Ontario Housing Circles. This speaker was pointed to see that Ontario had been successful in the program because our ideals in small houses were apt to be turned by the influence of American ideas. The Ladies' Home Journal in favour of the types built in Florida and California which are unsuitable to the conditions in this country. Housing is a very important problem in Ontario and must be taken into account in building in such ways as insulation, making the larger windows face the south. If all these points were taken into consideration the coal bill of the average six-roomed house could be reduced by two tons.

A pamphlet to the above effect will be issued shortly.

A number of other equally interesting addresses were delivered. The above, however, were taken as they were considered to be those of most local interest.

University College

An important mass meeting of 272 U.C. took place in East Hall on Thursday afternoon at 5 p.m., the Secretary, Roy Stewart, taking charge of the meeting owing to the president's absence through illness.

Central discussion as to the advisability of holding a year reception was called for. A motion was passed that a reception without charge be held for 272 members only with the members of the other year's class executives as invited guests. This motion met with general approval as it has been felt that in the past but few members of the year have attended their own reception and it is felt that this change will improve matters greatly.

The meeting also approved of the next class party taking the form of a skating party at Varsity Rink.

Nominations for the permanent class executive were called for and according to custom the ballots were cast at the meeting.

The following executive was elected:

President, Lowe Hutchinson;

Vice President, Agnes Brown;

Secretary-Treasurer, Roy Stewart;

Lady Counsellor, Adelaide Macdonald;

Gentleman Counsellor, Ross Rytie.

It was the feeling of the meeting that a splendidly representative permanent executive had been elected.

Applied Science

The first meeting of the Engineering Society for the New Year was held on Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 in C22. A very large and enthusiastic audience turned out to hear the speaker, Commissioner Harris, of the Public Works Department. Mr. Harris' speech was full of interest and he gave every one present a very clear conception of the shortcomings of the Engineer who is a rule book. The speaker pointed out that although the Engineer has a peculiar aptitude for administration, he is a rule book. The speaker pointed out that although the Engineer has a peculiar aptitude for administration, he is a rule book. The speaker pointed out that although the Engineer has a peculiar aptitude for administration, he is a rule book.

The Annual Meeting of the School of Science, Soccer Club was held in the Engineering Building on January 10th, 1922 at 5 p.m. with President N. F. Johnson in the chair.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. Vice-President, Prof. C. H. C. Wright;

Hon. Vice-President, Prof. J. T. King;

Hon. Vice-President, Prof. P. A. Allent;

President, C. H. Lucas;

Vice-President, L. D. Campbell;

Secretary, J. H. Brown;

Manager, M. G. Evans.

The subscription list for the School at Home, Friday, February 3, will be opened at nine a.m. Monday morning at the supply department. As the number of tickets is being limited to about two hundred and fifty it will be advisable to be on hand early.

At present the committee are not giving out details as to the special feature of the dance but every one lucky enough to get a ticket is assured of a good time.

Word has been received from L. E. Willmott, S.P.S., 270 who left for missionary work in Siam stating that he has been safely at his destination, Bangkok, West China after a very enjoyable journey of upwards of 10,000 miles. Mr. Willmott is the son of Prof. Willmott, of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

Medicine

An interesting thing in connection with the Annual Medical At Home, which is being held at the King Edward on Jan. 25, is the item of expense. The Medical Society is furnishing $400 with which to go in the hole. This money has been figured in the expenses, and in addition all monies netted from the weekly in formal affairs at U.T.S. have been put into the common fund. This means that for every ticket sold at five dollars the Medical Society is contributing well over a dollar in addition to provide the best evening imaginable. Without a doubt it is going to be the event of the year. Tickets are now available.

Meds 274 have practically completed their plans for their annual class dance at Columbus Hall on January 18. Jardine's Orchestra and a super-quality in catering, with the newly decorated hall to boot, are going for three dollars.

It was very aptly suggested that the next open meeting of the Medical Society should be open to the ladies of the faculty. With this in view, the committee in charge have changed the place of the meeting from Hart House to the W. H. R. College building. Well come, girls, to our open meeting! The speaker of the evening will be Dr. W. E. Galle, and his subject will be "Lord Rutherford's Atomic Theory and the Medical Society will figure on the programme."

There was a meeting of Daffydil representatives at T.G.H. on Thursday at 5 p.m., and everything points to an even more successful show being staged this year than in years past. The next meeting will take place next Friday the 20th. All years are well under way with their skits and great enthusiasm is being shown although the date set for the show is not until Thursday and Friday, February 23 and 24.

Any Meds who have a good story to tell or who know an appropriate joke had better get in with their Epitaphs representative. It is not too early to start right now. Let's go.

WAS EUCLID EUCHRED IN YOUTHFUL EUROPE?

African Mathematician Arouses Student Interest?

Two prominent members of the M. and P. Society have been collaborating with the Classical Association in an endeavour to reconstruct something of life and times of Marcus Brutus Euclid, the celebrated man of letters and figures, and author of the forty-odd books on plain geometry. They have been inspired to their labours by articles which have appeared in Africa and the Atlantic, and much other work has been in vain, as will be shown hereafter.

The facts of Euclid's life are well-known to every student of the Encyclopaedia. His birth occurred in the island of Cos, shortly after the Piratical tribe of Kappa Alpha had been driven out of the island by the Delta Gammans, and was brought up by his grandmother on honey cakes and sunflower seeds. That his early life was not happy is shown by the constant reversion to the dictatorial imperative which is a feature of his later works.

His early work is marked by a constant tendency to treat the familiar sex problem in a manner closely related to that of our own lighter novelists. His relations with the Alpha Phi first appear in his treatment of the infinitesimal calculus, where two different forces appear to drag his heart in opposite directions, and the triangle makes its first appearance in serious literature. That he recovered is obviously true, but that this scarring experience had an effect on his later life is shown in his continuously unsuccessful attempts to leave the problem novel out of his works. He is continually treating of bisexualizing of angles; and always he finds one half better than the other for purposes of his proof. What could be more suggestive of an unhappy marriage?

The curiosity of the great Geometer became apparent early, as he was a continuous and attentive listener at the lectures of the celebrated Bateau in the Forum at Tunis. This seemed to have given him a definite and durable warp in the direction of the realms of morbid psychiatry, as appears in the hopelessly pessimistic conclusions derived from his chapters on the congruency of triangles, where it appears that all figures with equal sides and angles are exactly similar; whereas every schoolboy knows that he never met two romantic novels with the same plot.

The discussion of the Pono Ansinorum has led to much research into the intelligence of Asses. It is unfortunate that the beast of burden which appeared in Hart House some weeks ago could not be found again and examined; his opinions on our arts and customs would be worthy of all praise, even if not very profound.

During the interview which the Varsity was able to obtain with these two students, it was stated that the good work was going on, and that it was highly probable that a large book of reports would be added to the curriculum in English Literature shortly. The study of government English has never before been taken seriously; could there be a better opportunity of combining Mendelism, mathematics, incontinuity and medieval history in a single course for Pass Students?

Hart House Scene of Revelry as Warriors and Gay Companions

Ill Luck, Friday the 13th

GENERAL GLOOM NOT SEEN

Brilliant Scene as Couples Danced in Perfect Harmony

Reports of gloominess which have strayed in the winter drive of the Varsity Veterans in the Hart House sector of the "Joyous" front.

It started Friday evening at the zero hour chosen by G.H.F.O. Previous to this, transports had whirled forward carrying the troops with the equipment to necessary for the success of the "do" and had unloaded speedily quite near the jumping off tapes.

After some maneuvering to get the contact and liaison essential, the military battery began to register and on reporting this carried out, the troops prepared to go "over the tapes" with all arms prepared. At "zero hour" no man's land swarmed with advancing troops partly alarmed about the gymnasium trenches. It was a thrilling sight to see wave after wave of gliding troops, each unit gallantly leading over the object of his protection. Here and there the details of the R.A.F. fitted about worrying, harassing and observing the enemy. It was noted that each flier had his "little bit of fluff" well under control, probably due to the dizzy heights of gaiety to which they were soaring.

Such is the story of the Varsity Veterans at Home. The drive was successful in all quarters and the general and his staff deserve the greatest commendation. They were under the kind patronage of Lady Falconer, Lady MacDonell, Mrs. C. A. Corrigan, Mrs. Vincent Massey, Mrs. A. Primrose and Mrs. C. H. Mitchell. Organization of communication lines was excellent. Each unit worked like clock-work and never was the "morale of the troops as good." Smiling faces were everywhere.

The hockey team was given a rousing reception about half-past seven and later a dance was reserved in which they alone took part.

When the gay night was done the troops went home looking forward to the next "do."

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM OF GREAT U.C. BALL

Much Eager Expectation as Event Draws Near

The University College Dance Committee of University College announce the program for the Annual University College Ball which will be held in the Great Hall, Hart House, on Thursday of the college year, on January 19, 1939. The Ball this year will be the great social event of the college year, and an evening long to be remembered by those who have been fortunate enough to obtain tickets. The lists for tickets have been fully subscribed, and those who have signed may obtain their tickets any time from their year presidents. Graduates may obtain their tickets from the chairman of the committee, Mr. D. F. MacLaren, 26 Grosvenor St., Phone North 3587. Those who had their names on Ross Ryrie's list may get their tickets from the Fourth Year Secretary, Mr. Roy Stewart.

To those who are going to the University College Ball, attention is called to the fact that the dance will start promptly at eight-thirty and will stop at one o'clock. In the envelope along with their tickets, subscribers will obtain supper tickets, and admission to the supper in the Music Room of Hart House will be by these tickets only. The holders of the tickets must present themselves at the ticket supplier, First, Second or Third, according to the ticket they hold, and are requested to leave the dancing floor and come to the supper promptly their number comes. The three suppliers and the separate tickets for each supper will do away with all overcrowding.

The programme is as follows.

- Extra—Fox Trot.
- 1.—Fox Trot.
- 2.—Waltz.
- 3.—Silver Fox Trot.
- 4.—Fox Trot.
- 5.—Moon Waltz.
- First Supper—6.—Fox Trot.
- 7.—Silver Fox Trot.
- Second Supper—8.—Fox Trot.
- 9.—Waltz.
- Third Supper—10.—Fox Trot.
- 11.—Waltz.
- 12.—Moon Waltz.
- 13.—Fox Trot.
- 14.—Fox Trot.
- 15.—Moon Waltz.

LECTURER SHOWS HOW MEDIAEVAL ENGLAND BECAME CIVILIZED

Large Crowd Attend Sir Bertram
Windle's Lecture Dealing With Norman Conquest

The second lecture of Sir Bertram Windle, given on Mediaeval England, was delivered in the P.A. Building on Friday afternoon, before a very large and appreciative audience. In fact, a number of people had to stand as there were not sufficient seats for everyone who wished to hear the lecture.

The speaker opened his address by telling how civilization began to permeate England once more, with the advent of St. Augustine, and later gained a firm hold with the Norman Conquest. The Normans were an adventurous sea-roving people from around the Baltic, who used to descend upon the unprotected shores of England, and the continent, raid, ravish and despoil a small area, and then escape again with their booty in their small open boats. Monasteries were their special prey, and people were in such terror of them, that a special plea for protection was introduced in their laws.

In the tenth century a band of these marauders penetrated up the Seine to what is now the city of Paris. The people there bought them off by giving them permission to settle in the section of northern France which is now called Normandy. One hundred years later, the emerged the Norman race, a cross between Gauls and Norsemen. Physically they were Gauls, but mentally they had the vigorous spirit and the sense of order and organization of their Norse-forefathers. They proceeded to organize their state, and also to establish their dominion in Sicily and southern Italy, and in England.

First of all, the Normans had to establish themselves in a military way. After the conquest of England, many of the knights settled in England. Each one would seize a desirable piece of land, and proceed to fortify himself within his walls; their castles were built of stone, and the community. They could keep sufficient food, and all of them had wells. But the sanitation was terrible, and pestilence was almost bound to break out during a siege.

The speaker next showed some very interesting lantern slides, which illustrated the types of buildings he had just been describing. About nearly every one, he had some interesting historical and often humorous details. One castle he showed was "where the Prince of Wales was born, and where he was shown to the Welsh people as their future king, thus deriving his title.

The walled city was next explained and illustrated. It is really a large shell keep, inside which are the church, central buildings and houses, and in one corner the castle. The example used was Conway, and Conway Castle.

Sir Bertram Windle closed his lecture by saying that the Normans not only created great fortresses, but were also the greatest builders of churches in England. And here he touched on the activities which will be his subject next week.

GOBLIN'S BIRTHDAY PARTY THIS MONTH

A large news stand sale in Toronto, issue for issue, than Life or Judge, sells in every 23rd issue, and every issue in the U.S.A., and six foreign countries, and the largest circulation of any comic publication in the world, just a few of the things Toronto students have done in one year by publishing Goblins.

The little fellow will commence his second year next issue, or to be more exact, on every 23rd issue, and every issue in the U.S.A., and six foreign countries, and the largest circulation of any comic publication in the world, just a few of the things Toronto students have done in one year by publishing Goblins.

The February issue will number 10,000, and full details of contents will be published in THE VARSITY later this week.

SEVENTIETH ANNIVERSARY SINCE FOUNDING OF TRINITY COLLEGE

Sincere and Reverent Tribute Yesterday Paid to Famous Founder

Tribute was paid to her founder, the Hon. and Rev. Dr. Strachan, first Bishop of Toronto, by Trinity College yesterday, on the occasion of the centenary anniversary of the College's inauguration. Special prayers of thanksgiving were said at the morning service in the Chapel, accompanied by special music throughout.

In the afternoon, the Rev. Dr. A. H. Young, Dean of Residence, briefly sketched Bishop Strachan's career and history, pointing out the great debt which Trinity owes to his work. He was not, said Professor Young, what so many people consider him, a cut and dried venerator of classics and of nothing else. He displayed all through his life great interest in the practical sciences. He made provision for instruction in these branches of learning in all the educational institutions with which he came in contact. He came to this country with the express hope of becoming President of a College of University of King's College, although he never took an active part as one of the teaching staff. When King's College became wholly secularized, his interest in it declined, and he founded the University of Trinity College.

At the Scottish Universities Bishop Strachan had learned to believe that a combination of religious and secular education was the only true ideal for a University. He also saw that the best results are achieved if the men live in one another's company, and thus he sought to make the College essentially a home. Coupled with this he wanted something that would correspond to the old idea of family prayers, and this took the form of the college's daily chapel services. He intended that the institution should be a place as well as for those who expected to enter the clergy—one from which constantly would come an endless succession of men to serve God and State.

In closing Professor Young said: "Heating in future these ideals which the founder of our College cherished, we must hand on to future generations what we have received as a goodly heritage."

NOVELTIES PROMISED FOR MED'S AT-HOME

New Ball-Room of King Edward Scene of Festivities

The many dancers who have come to the at-home, have rendered this possible, that the recent establishment of full-time professorships are detrimental to the teaching of medicine, and that this condition of affairs is causing impairment of the loyalty of the practicing profession to the University and threats to cause a serious schism between the practitioners and the Medical Faculty. It is this condition of affairs, the Faculty of Medicine, which appeared in the January issue of "The Canadian Practitioner," and which has been causing a furore among the medical men of the city during the last few days. The present situation apparently arose from the fact that just recently the system of full-time professorships has been inaugurated and men who, under the old systems received remuneration from part-time fellowships, have been obliged to give their services to the Faculty gratis. Considerable objection has been raised by these latter to the diversion of funds set aside for their remuneration.

The Charges Against the Faculty
"The Canadian Practitioner" is the authority for the statement that most of the professors, practicing in the city, received a letter signed by the President of the effect that, as, owing to the munificence of the Rockefeller Foundation and Sir John and Lady Eakin, some $75,000 a year has been granted to the University for the furtherance of the work of the Medical Faculty, and owing to the obligations of the Faculty of Medicine to the University could not afford to pay part-time lecturers for their services. Quite naturally, the objection was raised by those affected to the influence which outsiders exercised over the policy of the Medical Faculty.

B.A. M.B. writes "There is a feeling among the graduates that the whole policy of the Faculty of Medicine is being dictated by two or three men who have served overseas."

It has been the aim of the committee to obtain the greatest possible number of refined novelties without resorting to streamers, balloons, or such shop-worn features which are neither new nor in keeping with a dance of these proportions. Just how they have succeeded will be decided by the competition of the new tickets. The demand is exceeding all expectations and as the number has been limited to three hundred many will, of necessity, be disappointed. This is not a money-making scheme—every ticket sold represents a loss to the Medical Society of $1.50, and funds will not permit accumulating more than the hundred—deficit of $450. Graduates and friends may obtain tickets from the Hall Porter, Hart House, or by mail, but be sure to see one of the following without delay:

- V.—E. G. Fleming, K. M. Heard, D. M. Prendergast, W. Wilson.
- III (5)—W. L. Atkinson, D. M. Meekison, H. E. Welsh.
- III (10)—A. Smith, S. L. Bich.
- III (15)—J. C. A. Campbell.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, January 17, at 8 p.m. in Room 20 of the Biology Building.

UNIVERSITY REQUIRES FOUR MORE BUILDINGS

Recognize Need of Suitable Women's Building

The adoption of the report presented to the government by the Royal Commission last spring dealing with the needs of the University, has provided a platform for action coming before the public. This report was presented last February by a commission composed of Hon. H. J. Gault (Chairman), Sir John Williams, A. A. Waller, T. A. Russell, A. P. Derocle, C. R. Somerville.

At the time the University at the present time is confronted by the urgent need of more buildings, the acceptance of the report would mean the solution of an urgent problem. The three new universities concerned Queen's, Western, and the University of Toronto—are all satisfied with the report. It provides for an assured income for all three and enables them to plan developments for years ahead. At the same time it places the University of Toronto in a position itself as it is provided for separately and differently from the other two. The advantage of this is that it prevents undignified competition among the universities and an unseemly scramble for funds, yet at the same time providing for all.

Among the buildings that the University needs are four much more important than the rest. These are a Forensic Building, an Administration Building, a Women's Building and a Heating Plant.

The Forensic Department is at present housed in an old residence which temporary additions have been made under pressure of accommodation for the Forensic Department. It is planned to tear down the present building and to erect a new one on the same spot.

A Women's Building, which will be used chiefly for the physical training of the women of the University, is another building urgently needed. It will provide gymnasium and swimming facilities, together with common rooms such as are provided for the men in Hart House. This building should probably be placed on the north side of Hoskin Avenue, where it will be centrally situated.

Superintendent of the Toronto General Hospital, Mr. J. C. Decker, an Advocate of the New Appointment of Full Time Professors for Clinical Work as Step Toward Centralization and Specialization

That a small clique of men has gained control of appointments to the staff, that the autocratic system of making appointments has rendered this possible, that the recent establishment of full-time professorships are detrimental to the teaching of medicine, and that this condition of affairs is causing impairment of the loyalty of the practicing profession to the University and threats to cause a serious schism between the practitioners and the Medical Faculty. ## MASSIVE SPECTACLE FOR THEATRICAL FANS

Trinity Stages Production at Hart House

On the afternoon and evening of January 28th, the Trinity College Dramatic Society is presenting two plays in Hart House Theatre which should prove of great interest in the University.

The first of these is a dramatization by the Society of Anthony Hope's "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard." The other is an English translation of Anatole France's "The Man who Married a Dunb Wife." The latter, Mr. Davidson Ketchum, well-known in University Musical circles, is providing the music.

The directing of both productions has been undertaken by Mr. G. P. M. Sparling, prominent in the University Player's Club. Mr. Sparling assures us that, as a combination of pathos and comedy, the success of the production is certain.

The Hall Porter at Hart House has been supplied with tickets for both afternoon and evening performances which may be exchanged for reserved seats at the Theatre Box Office.

MED. CO-EDS ENTERTAIN GRADS. AT ARGVILL HOUSE

The drawing-room at Argvill House has never looked lovelier than when the Medical women undergraduates entertained the women doctors of the city, the wives of the men on the staff, and the members of the department at tea on Saturday afternoon.

The mantels were dainty with Japanese blossoms and spring flowers, and cherry trees in the room were in white candles and sweet peas brightened while candles and sweet peas brightened the room.

Dr. Edith Gordon, the Honorary President of the Women's Undergraduate Medical Association, and Miss Lola McLachlin, President, received the guests. Dr. Sproule-Manson, Dr. Olive Cameron and Mrs. H. J. Gault were also present.

The spirit of friendliness between those who are through and those who hope soon to be, made the afternoon pleasant and time passed quickly. Cases were for the moment forgotten and all united in the hour of social enjoyment.

EVERYBODY OUT AND WATCH OUR SMOKE AGAINST QUEEN'S ON SATURDAY

VARSITY SLIPPED COG TO AURA LEE

The great Varsity hockey machine missed a stroke last Friday night and lost to Aura Lee 1-2. Even a Roll-Royce crew rust in its carburetor. The old gang worked hard but something was wrong. Maybe they were stale; perhaps Tuesday's game was too strenuous. At all events they were off colour. It is extremely fortunate that this slump should occur early in the race. The boys have the old-time uphill battle to fight. Watch them from now on.

Even a rapid Varsity supporter will give the credit of playing the better game to the victors. Their margin of superiority was slight, but enough to win on. Varsity's attack lacked finish and their defence was weaker than usual. The forwards especially seemed overtrained and over-anxious. The first period opened with a near counter by Aura. Although Ramsay rushed well Varsity attacks were away off at the beginning of the game. The forwards were shooting wildly and missing passes. Billy Burch and his famous poke check showed up to advantage during this stanza. After relieving Stan Brown of the park in the most approved Jesse James style he beat I angry with a timely shot. A Rutherford-Mecking combination put the Aura Lee crew on top. Louis Hudson, who turned in a very fine game, notched one for Varsity as the period ended. Aura Lee had a slight advantage in this period.

The second period, which was all Varsity's, saw Bill Carson and Stan Brown combine for a very pretty goal which tied it up. In this period Varsity pressed Aura Lee hard but could not see it up. At the close of this period it appeared that Varsity were going to romp ahead easily.

The third period opened in whirlwind style. Varsity again missed several golden opportunities. Reg Noble, who was about as competent as a bale of hay as a referee, pulled a new one by sending Bill Carson off for calling his attention to a foul. During Bill's absence, Dalton Mecking scored a beautiful rush. A moment later Eddie Redden tallied again with a long one. Although Varsity worked hard to tie it up, late Reg Noble and the Aura Lee team prevented such an occurrence. The battle ended with the Avenue Road gang at the long end of the 4-2 score.

Louis Hudson, on the forward line, showed fine form in contrast to his teammates, who were noticeably off colour. Bill Carson couldn't get going and an injury did not add any to his effectiveness. The little centre is due to come back to form with a bang and once again amaze the fans with his scintillating work. Evans, who substituted, proved a very effective back-checker. He is improving rapidly. Westman and Ned Wright were fair. Stan Brown Langtry were not as effective as usual, although the latter stopped several "impossible" ones. Old Beatty Ramsay worked like a beaver. He and Louis were best for Varsity. Let us repeat, however, even a Roll-Royce crew is a boat. They are the Roll-Royce hockey machine all right, all right, all right. Thompson were best. The former was always dangerous and the latter reliable as time flies.

The Line-up

VARSITY	AURA LEE
Langtry	Goal
Ramsay	Defence
Brown	Defence
Carson	Centre
Wright	Forwards
Hudson	Forwards
Evans	Spares
Westman	Referee
Referee	Referee
Final Score:
Aura Lee 4.	Varsity 2.

BALL TOSSERS HAVE HEAVY WEEK AHEAD

Only Postpone Games With Good Reason

Games scheduled and umpires assigned for week of January 16:

Monday, January 16—Vic. vs. Dr. Dents, at 4 p.m.
Umpires—Johnson and Ford.
Tuesday, January 17—Jr. School vs. Jr. Arts, at 3 p.m.
Umpires—Roburn and Stanton.
Tuesday, January 17—Forestry vs. Wycliffe, at 4 p.m.
Umpires—Sangster and Reburn.
Wednesday, January 18—Sr. Dents vs. Trinity, at 4 p.m.
Umpires—Western and Sangster.
Thursday, January 19—O.C.E. vs. St. Mike's, at 4 p.m.
Umpires—Hanson and Ferguson.
Friday, January 20—Sr. Arts vs. Sr. School, at 4 p.m.
Umpires—O'Donoghue and Rivers.

We are very fortunate in obtaining the services of such a capable official scorer as Mr. McLean, and captains or managers of teams are requested to give him the line-up as early as possible.

The executive must insist that games be not postponed without good reason and even then the executive must be given at least two days' notice so that other games may be arranged to fill up the hours thus left vacant.

Umpires unable to act on dates assigned must provide a competent substitute, or the exchange dates with some other umpire.

Beginning Monday, January 16, every wrestler taller than 5'6" must sign his name on record sheet in Wrestling Room each night they go on mat. Mr. Durnan has the record sheet and will mark the attendance.

BEST POLO OF YEAR AT SCHOOL-VIC. GAME

Wesleyans Lose 4-0 After Titanic Struggle

Very few turned out last Thursday night to witness the best polo game of the year.

Those who failed to come either from lack of interest or on account of other engagements missed two fine exhibitions of how the game is played.

In the first encounter between Victoria and S.P.S., Victoria spring a surprise by checking the famous School team as hard as they did. The final result was 4-0 in favour of School but this is not a true indication of how the play ran. Bell, playing goal for School was responsible for Vic not making any counters. However, in the Vic goal, also played a strong game which prevented the School score from being still higher.

Fitzgerald scored the first goal on a hard straight shot from the side. Harston soon after notched another on a pass from Keeler. He was slow in getting it away and was checked energetically by the Vic defence but after a long tussle succeeded in getting by with a beautiful back-hand shot. Wells tallied the third counter in the third period and Fitzgerald closed the scoring when he tallied in the fourth period from a scramble in front of the net.

Inside With Bill and Connie!

And now for a well-deserved rest. No more hard games for some weeks and then the gang will tackle their two chief contenders with such a whirl of speed that the Arena staff will have to work overtime keeping the ice frozen. It is early in the season yet and we know that Varsity come-back stuff. Practically the same crew have been pulling it for two seasons now, and we are used to it. In the meantime our merry men go to sneak up on the Kitchener lads in their own back-yard on Wednesday night, and on Saturday are holding a reception for our fellow-highbrows from Queen's. By the way we have the whole Arena for the last-named fixture and we should nearly fill it. How about every faculty taking a block of seats? Send your faculty athletic representative up to see T. A. He will tell them all about it. There is something about an intercollegiate game that even the O.H.A. can't furnish, so everybody memorize the Queen's Gaelic war-cry and report at Taylor's Ice Palace with their full of surprises this year. The Tri-colour is full of surprises this year.

Good old Intermediates and Juniors. They deserve a whole lot more support than they get. If there had been five hundred Varsity fans at the Arena on Wednesday night last, the St. Mary's sextette would have pulled out with the small end of the score. 'Essir, a good yell would have done it. Why not change the programme a bit this week and instead of going to the movies go down and check the boys over. There are two bouts this week and the scores will be of the football variety. All sorts of opportunity to see some good stick-handling and sniping. Think it over.

JUNIORS PILE UP BIG SCORE OF 17 2

Sharp Shooters Solve De La Salle Defence

Varsity Juniors easily defeated De La Salle Saturday afternoon when they outsourced them 17-2. The Juniors had the game in hand at all times and it was really a light work out for them.

"Lanky" Rowell of U.S. fame played on the defence for the Juniors and by his exhibition showed that he is a valuable acquisition. Ross Taylor moved up to the forward line and turned in a nice game there. Everybody on the Varsity team except the goal keeper got at least one goal. Somerville and Cloutier were the high scorers with six and five goals respectively. The Juniors played a combination game throughout which resulted in most of their goals. Griffin was best for De La Salle.

First Period
Varsity pressed right from the start but could not score until after ten minutes of play. Somerville took a pass in front of the goal mouth and easily beat McGuire. Smith scored Varsity's second goal minutes later and Somerville got another right after the face off. Somerville scored again after three minutes of play and was followed by Ross Taylor a minute later. Varsity kept the play in De La Salle territory all through this period and had their opponents well bottled up.

Varsity 5; De La Salle 0.

Second Period

De La Salle scored a lucky goal just after the period started when according to the goal judge the puck just rolled over the goal line as Dickinson was clearing. Varsity did not like this and came back with three goals in five minutes. Cloutier scored twice and Grey once. Five minutes later McCarron scored for De La Salle on a lone rush. Griffin of De La Salle was hurt and had to retire from the game. Somerville added two more goals before the period ended.

Varsity 10; De La Salle 2.
Varsity showed their superiority more than ever in this period. Cloutier got the first goal after four minutes play. Taylor got another a minute later and then Cloutier added two more. The Varsity defence rushed and Rowell scored on a pass from Porter. Somerville added another. Porter scored Varsity's last goal on a rush by himself when he rounded the goal, shot, and then beat in the rebound.

Varsity 10; De La Salle 2.

Varsity Seconds won by default from McMaster on Saturday afternoon. So far their record this season is without a break. St. Mike's come up for the jump to-morrow and the contest should provide some excitement.

TOOTH-PULLERS SCORE DOUBLE WIN FROM U.C.

Arts Men Lose at Hockey and Water-Polo

Senior Dents won their Sifton Cup game Friday when they trimmed Senior U.C. last year's group winners, 3-2-0. Both teams put up a good game in spite of the large score, and triced combination plays all the time. Johnston and Dutton were best for Dents and Dutton and Millar for U.C. Both defences checked hard and prevented many shots. Dents started off as if they were going to run away with the game and had the score 3-0 before U.C. got a point. Half time score was 11-6 in favour of Dents. U.C. pressed at the beginning of the second half but faded towards the end, when Dents ran in several baskets.

Senior Dents Johnston (3), Dutton (7), Watson (4), Wilson (3), Ritchie (2), Millar (4), Allan (2).
Senior U.C. Dutton (7), Bradley (4), Miller (3), Dickie (2), Brad, Ladphee, Purcell (2).

Dents also won the water polo game of Thursday against U.C. The first goal came in 15 seconds. Waldron took a neat pass from Relyea and shot in a beautiful back hand drive. He followed this with another beautiful shot. Wood started bombarding the U.C. goal with fast shots from all angles, but it took MacBeth to get the first one past Roberts. He shot in a weak one that just dribbled under Roberts' arm. That began the avalanche. In the second period Wood scored three by individual effort. In the third period he shot one past Roberts from halfway but it was disputed because no U.C. men had touched the ball. Waldron sent a seacher for U.C.'s third tally. Then "Fat" Riley put past a tricky shot. In the fourth, both Wood and Waldron scored twice making the final score 10-1 but not allowing the disputed goal brought the score back to 6-5.

Line-up
Dents—Woods, H. A. Reilly, Rowan, MacBeth, Nuttall, Bennett, W. J. Riley, Wright.
U.C. Blackwell, Waldron, Blatchford, Relyea, Davis, Wells, Roberts.

All the audience were greatly pleased with this first-class exhibition of a first class game. The games on Jan. 24, between Meds. and U.C. and S.P.S. and Dents need no further advertising, the people who saw the last games will do all that is necessary towards packing the gallery for the final game of the series. Between the games Johnny Oldright gave an exhibition of fancy diving from the high and low boards and George Lindsay showed some speed strokes.

SECOND BASKETBALL TEAM LOSES 34-18

The Varsity Intermediate Basketball team, which before the holidays had given promise of winning its group, presented a much weaker front on Wednesday last, losing to its only real rivals, West End, by a score of 34-18. Owing to the absence of Fraser, whose hand had been injured in the tour of the Seniors to the States, the Varsity forward line was very much weakened and in spite of the hard work of Smith was unable to score effectively. The team showed lack of efficient teamwork, having been unable to have a full team practice since the holidays. Smith, Jennings and Shields played best for Varsity, while Lawrence and Anderson starred for West End.

The line-up:
Varsity—Smith, Dutton, Johnson, forwards; Jennings and Uren, centres; Shields and Brewer, guards.
West End—Lawrence, Connors, forwards; Anderson, centre; MacDonald, Dearle and Mancer, guards.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Will the managers of the winning teams in all interfaculty contests in Basketball, Hockey, Indoor Baseball and Water-Polo please furnish to the Varsity (office second floor, Hart House) a report of 50 or 75 words, and the line-up, as soon as possible after the game. This will ensure a report being published. The amount, of course, should be impartial.

VARSITY PLAYS KITCHENER TO-NIGHT

To Whet Our Appetite For Queen's on Saturday

SUPPORTERS WANTED

The Varsity Ice-Aces start their journey to the top of the ladder-to-night against (Kitchener). Although Bill Roy and his gang have been the butt of the group so far they can be trusted to make things interesting at all times. After playing Kitchener on his own ice, Varsity will return to the Arena Saturday afternoon to show Queen's a few of the pointers. While we have no definite reports from the Linestown City Presbyterians usually carry a pretty lively looking lot of puck chasers. Anyway, get down to the Arena Saturday afternoon. Take "her" along. This one will only set you back fifty-five cents. The price of a box of "Lauras" and she'll have something to talk about in weeks. This is your chance to prevent that greatest of domestic tragedies, "John, I wish you'd stop reading that moral sporting page and listen to me." Take her to a couple of Varsity games and you'll have to buy two papers every morning. Think it over.

SCHOOL POLOISTS TO PLAY ALL-STAR

Friday, January 20th

School of Science Swimming and Polo Team have been granted their dearest wish that is to be allowed to play a picked team from the rest of the University. It was decided by the committee that this game would be the most interesting and give the best idea of how the game is played. This event will be the last of the programme of the swimming gala between Varsity and Central, which starts at 8:15 on Friday, January 20. With a four man relay race to start the evening, a mighty fast polo game to end it, and six good events in between it is going to be some evening. The two polo teams have been picked and will line up as follows:

Varsity	Central
S.P.S.	Goal: Dossey, Vic.
Belmont	Defence: Webster, U.C.
Condon	Releya, U.C.
Shimben	Centre: F. Wood, Dents
C. Wells	Releya, U.C.
Harston	Forward: Waldron, U.C.
Fitzgerald	Sub: J. Latchford
Booth	K. Wells, Vic.
Matson	Williams, Vic.

On behalf of the Indoor Baseball Team representing the first and second years of University College in the Intercollegiate Hockey challenge, the following committee representing the third and fourth years of the same college to a game at a date to be arranged.

The following conditions are suggested: (1) The place of game shall be the Lower Gymnasium, Hart House. (2) The number of innings shall be not fewer than seven; (3) Two neutral umpires shall officiate. Any other conditions shall be mutually arranged.

Signed for Junior U.C., C. H. JOHNSTON.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION

An individual competition will be held at Hart House Range on Monday evening, January 23, at 7:15. This competition is open to all members of the Association and will consist of 2 shooters and 2 practices of 5 shots. Everybody turn out and help make an interesting and successful meeting. Further information can be obtained from Lorne Smith or F. L. Mills, Dents.

275 U.C.

Everyone turn out for the second class party on Monday, January 23rd, at U.T.S. It promises to be a wonderful success with good music, novelty dances, etc. All that is needed is a full turn out of all members, and the more the merrier.

VARSITY BOXERS BUSY AT HART HOUSE

Assault-At-Arms Feb. 9th and 10th

CHANCES OF VICTORY GOOD

Every afternoon the Hart House Gym swarms with embryos and experienced boxers putting the edge on their condition or acquiring still greater speed of eye, hand and foot. The boys are preparing for the little reception which they will hold for McGill and Queen's on the 25th of February. At present prospects are very bright for sending the visitors from the limestone city and the "home of conventions" back home empty-handed. Coach Dinwiddie is on hand every minute, handing out advice and admonition to all comers. Les Black is working like a beaver showing the boys a few of the tricks of the trade. If Varsity comes through too much unscathed can not be laid upon their unselfish work for the cause. Several men are expected to put in an appearance from whom the Varsity boxers should acquire a lot of knowledge.

In the flyweights, Tutnam of Vic, Nicholson of Dents, and Robinson of Arts are striving for a place. Although none of these lads look as good as Reynolds, last year's champion, they should hold up Varsity's end all right.

At present 115 lb. scrapers are rare. In fact all men of this weight are urged to get out. Cooper of Dents should prove a find in this division.

The 125 lb. class has more capable performers than any other division. Shennett of School, Releya of School, Caulfield of St. M., Laffourey of Dents, Kay of Dents, and "Goldie" Gray of Meds. are all capable performers. This class should furnish some real excitement.

There are no really experienced 135 lb.ers about just now. Measure of School and Downs of Dents look best so far in this class. It looks as if Kay, last year's 118 lb. intercollegiate champion, would fit in very well in this class. He is a high-class performer.

In the welter there are five likely looking prospects. Fred Scabone of School, Martin of St. Mike's, the two Moyes of Dents and Kelly of Meds. are all good boxers. Most of them are experienced glove wielders. There is an intercollegiate champion in this outfit.

At 155 lbs. Les Black should not have serious opposition. He is in a class by himself as an intercollegiate boxer. It will be a surprise if anybody stays the limit with him. In case anything happens to Black, Coscarden of Meds should carry on in very efficient manner.

In the light-heavyweights Gatz of Meds, Mahon of St. Mike's and Shute of Arts are all good. There should be a lively tussle for leadership here.

Jack Goldie, who can knock over a street-car with his left and stop a freight train with his right, should be able to flatten the opposition in true S.P.S. style. Langford, the Western sky-scraper, is also a hard man to beat. The little dear only weighs about 215 lbs.

Taking prospects as a whole the present conditions given way to a genuine confidence that the boys will pull through all right.

Any boxers who have had any experience are asked to turn out at once. You still have time to help your faculty at the 9th and 10th of February.

Inside With Bill and Connie!

Two-thirty, the Arena, Saturday—the Time, the Place, and the Day. The Event? Why, didn't you know, Queen's are sending six or nine chaps up to play a little game of Hockey with Jack and the boys. The furry little cub, that mascot for the Presbyterians during the Rugby season, has dined up for his annual sleep, but in spite of this ill omen, the Tricolour boys have hopes and are determined to make our "Iron Men" hustle for a victory.

Won't be able to get tickets? Wrong again! The house will be ours. None of that O.H.A. series "stand as stand can" or rather "stand as can stand" stuff. Varsity has an allotment that should satisfy even an ex-army "grouser." And the Athletic office is ready to dish them out for four bits and a jit—eleven-twentieth parts of a dollar. Incidentally, they're small, so why not get two and bring H.R. and let her see "a game she'd love to watch." "Ev" Weaver and a corps of helpers will conduct the cheering.

DENTAL SUBMERSIBLES SUBMERGE VICTORIA

SCORE 6-2

Tank to Be Reserved For Inter-collegiate Work

Dents beat Vic in one of the hardest fought polo games of the season. In the first Vic scored two before Dents woke up. Webster got the first and Williams put a good hard drive which Stuart just tipped in. Then Wood got two and Reilly got one. Vic checked hard all through. Williams gave Wood one of the hardest rides he has ever had. Wood played defence most of the second half and left Reilly to do the scoring. He got two goals by submerging and fooling his check as to who had the ball. Wood got one more past Dossey. Both goal-keepers played very good games. Dossey being the star of the game. Line-up: Vic—Dossey, Densmore, Kirby, Williams, Webster, Stuart, Woods, Morrow.

To allow for the intercollegiate swimming and polo practices the whole tank will be reserved for Tuesday, Friday 5-6, and Saturday, 12. The first practice will be held Saturday. All swimmers with aspirations are welcome.

JUNIOR DENTS BEAT VICTORIA AT BASEBALL

Score 8-5

On Monday Jr. Dents again demonstrated their superiority over Victoria when they defeated them at the Hart House Auditorium to the tune of 8-5. The heavy hitting of the Junior Tooth-Pullers in the 5th and 6th frames sped disaster to Victoria.

The teams: Jr. Dents (8)—Ridborough, Wray, Dyer, Baker, Gruber, Rattle, McLean, McMillan and Crawford.

Victoria (4)—Soybe, Marr, Mutart, Binkey, Hudson, Mills, Rowell, Moore and Lindsay.

Umpire—Ford (St. Mike's) at plate. Johnston (U.C.) on base.

TRINITY DEFEAT PHARMACY

Win Hockey Game, 5-3

Trinity got away to a good start when they won from Pharmacy in their first intercollegiate hockey game by a score of five goals to three in twenty minutes' overtime. The rink was covered with snow and the lighting was bad, which prevented a fast game. Smith and Moore were best for Trinity.

Line-up: Goal, Ross; defence, Cayley and Smith; centre, Harper, Wiggins, Grew, Moore; sub., Jones and Thomas.

INDOOR TRACK MEET HELD AT HART HOUSE

Entries for Next Monday Open Today at the Office

The first of the Indoor Track Meets was held in Hart House on Monday, the 16th. The judges failed to give a decision in the mile walk, and the event will be held again at a later date.

In the 30 yard dash excitement reached fever pitch, three men tying for first place. Two extra heats were run to decide who should receive the medal. Partridge, of Vic, just nosing out Evans, of S.P.S.

The results were:

High Jump Carruthers, S.P.S., 5' 4.5" Meredith, S.P.S.
Broad Jump Brody, U.C.
50 Yards Partridge, 6.0" Evans
Boats

Entries for next Monday will open in Mr. Reed's Office on Wednesday for the following events:

Basketball Squad Still Practising

Seconds Make Them Work Too

Under the energetic leadership of Captain Graham, the Varsity basketball squad put in a strenuous hour on Monday. After signal practice the Seconds gave the Intercollegiate team a real argument, at times carrying the attack right to their opponents.

Gill did some beautiful shooting and Leon Smith proved that his floorwork will be a big factor. He still seemed a little weak from his recent illness. Bell continued his accurate "post-hooting" and Doug Graham made several mid dashes down the floor which resulted in corner shots that counted.

"Hip" Smith and Dunc McLe in did some fine shooting for the Seconds, and Burgess rolled in several neat ones. If this had become a consistent basket-getter he has a great future in the game, as he jumps well at centre and his pass-work is fast and accurate.

There is certainly no lack of good basketball material at Varsity; all it needs is experience and training to develop winning teams for many seasons to come.

AUTHORITIES EXPRESS APPROVAL OF MEDS APPOINTMENT SYSTEM

Adopted in Best Interests of University After Careful Consideration Says Sir Robert Falconer

The Senior Interfaculty Assault-at-Arms will be held in Hart House on Friday and Saturday, February 10 and 11. A basketball game, 17 and 18, the big Intercollegiate Gym event is scheduled to take place, McGill is confident they will defeat our team. How about it, Varsity?

VISITING GRAD. PREACHES SUNDAY

Rev. Dr. Silcox, U.C. '04, was Prominent in Many Varsity Activities

It is the policy of the colleges' Sermon Committee to invite for the sermons in the Church of the Holy Trinity, Sunday, a distinguished graduate of our own University, whenever possible, and next Sunday morning Dr. Chris Edwin Selco, Professor in the First Church of Christ, Fairfield, Conn., is to be the preacher.

Dr. Selco was born near Paris, Ontario, and after attending the Paris High School and the University of Toronto, graduated in 1901. In his undergraduate studies Selco was engaged in all phases of student activity. He was a treasurer of the Literary and Debating Society, Editor-in-Chief of the Toronto Star, and a member of the Associated Editors of Varsity. President of the University College Y.M.C.A., a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society, and himself puts it "he is the 'perpetrator' of the words, to the song, 'The Royal Blue and White.'"

After graduation Dr. Stetev was for a time Secretary of the Christian Association, Rockefeller Hall, Brown University, Providence, Rhode Island. From 1912 the student theology professor at the Divinity School of Harvard, and at the same time acted as Ministers' Assistant in Central Church, Bay Bys, Boston. In 1914 he was elected pastor of the Congregational Church, Newport, R.I., and in addition to his duties as minister and pastor was in charge of the religious education work of the National War Work Council in the Newport Military and Naval district, which brought him closely in contact with the military and naval authorities for speaking his mind."

Since 1920 Dr. Silcox has been the minister in charge of the First Church of Christ (Congregational), Fairfield, Conn., a residential suburb of Bridgeport, and during his sojourn in the States has made a very close study of the Race Question. He is at present preparing a book on "The Interational Aspects of the Race Question."

Dr. Silcox expects to preach Sunday morning on "The Permanence and Pre-eminence of the Church." He is a young man, and will no doubt deal with the subject from the undergraduates' point of view. Dr. Silcox's message should be well received.

With Dr. Shook's many friends here who welcome this opportunity of seeing him again and the student and faculty, as a whole, will be glad to hear this distinguished graduate of our own Alma Mater.

BATIK WORK DISCUSSED AT SKETCH CLUB MEETING

Unusual Form of Art is Subject of Interesting Discourse

The Sketch Club which up to the present time has been composed of elected members has altered its constitution. Instead of having a separate existence,

Designs are made upon the fabric in a colourless wax which is allowed to cool and harden, then the whole cloth is immersed in the dye, only those parts which have not been mixed taking up the colour. Many different colour schemes are possible in this way, repeated dyeings giving an unlimited variety of design. Some practical demonstrations were shown and the various successes or failures in change in the year's programme as previously announced will be effected. Mr. Sampson of the Art Postor is conducting weekly classes in elementary drawing each Tuesday night at eight o'clock and all those interested will kindly appear.

After Mr. Coates had finished Mr. Fair, a graduate of S.P.S. 291, gave a short account of the present condition of the dyeing industry. There is much confusion

PROBLEMS

One of the features of the Philosophical Conference most encouraging to the layman who is genuinely interested in philosophy was the attitude adopted by some of the leaders to the artificial problems made by philosophers in the realm of knowledge. So much attention has been taken in the past to the "problems" of the reality of material existence and of the reality of ideal existence that the ordinary human being, the "man in the street" has often been tempted to turn away in disgust from all philosophical deliberations and look elsewhere for something of practical value.

There are so many problems within the field of philosophy that are of practical importance to us all that we are led to hope that the philosophy of this new age, as we like to think of it as a new age and we hope it will provide new solutions for problems which are as yet unsolved, but which demand solutions—that the philosophy of this new age will find a new point of emphasis.

Not that we deny the value of the discussions that have absorbed some of the greatest minds of the past. They have unquestionably had great value in their place. But the problem of the reality of "the man in the street" is not now a real one.

Today in philosophy, in psychology and in religion we find a new and increasing emphasis on Personality. Therein we find a real and a practical problem. What is the meaning of personality? What is the significance of personality in the vital relations of the individual to his fellow-men and in the relations of the individual and of society to God? The problem is indeed a real one, and one for a solution to which the "man in the street" is looking to the philosopher, the psychologist and the theologian. Fortunately these people have sensed the human demand (who knows but that they anticipated it?) and we ordinary people are beginning to realize that these are very useful and necessary members of society.

The interest taken in the Philosophical Conference shows that a real interest is being taken in the real problems of philosophy.

A GIFT TO HART HOUSE

In the correspondence column of Monday's issue of VARSITY there appeared a letter from Professor Barker Fairley making the suggestion that the graduation class of 1922 should present Hart House with a picture. We think Professor Fairley's suggestion excellent and one that the men of the graduating year should consider. Hart House is the great centre of life and activity of this University; it belongs, in a very real sense, to college men, and it is their privilege to add to its beauty and comfort. At present it boasts no permanent collection of pictures, loan exhibitions adorning its walls for the last three years. The Picture Committee cannot continue inviting loan exhibitions; so the idea of each graduating year presenting Hart House with a work of art is a timely one. One picture is a small beginning, but a good one would make an excellent beginning and in a few years the walls of Hart House would be covered with a collection of Canadian pictures representative of Canadian art at its best and speaking to future student generations of the interest and affection of the graduates. The purchase every year of a painting by University of Toronto graduates would also be a recognition of our growing Canadian art. The U. of T. Sketch Club would doubtless co-operate with any committee appointed by the graduating class in procuring the best specimen of our art. The collection would be one for all time and we would need to avoid freaks and fads.

The custom of presenting a picture or some other gift is an old one in many universities. The graduating class desires to leave behind it some tangible token of the love and esteem it bears its Alma Mater which will serve to keep its memory green. If once begun in the University of Toronto this custom would soon become an honourable tradition and the class of 1922 should consider it a great privilege to be the founders of such a tradition and of such a collection.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Santa Claus' present to the University of the shining brass signs which carefully label each building is apparently bearing fruit in the fact that we have not been stopped once this year in front of the Old Red Schoolhouse and asked if it were Wycliffe! Thanks, Santa.

We regret that "Four Square" should have received the impression that the Editorial policy is other than "a square deal for all." To the best of our ability we publish all news and notices received, and there is no discrimination against any particular clubs or individuals by any member of the staff. If "Four Square" would drop in at the office of VARSITY on the second floor of Hart House a few minutes' talk might solve the non-appearance of his articles.

LORETTO ABBEY

Great preparations are being made for the Loretto Abbey College Dance, which is to take place in Jenkin's Art Galleries on January 31. It goes without saying that Loretto's Orchestra, which the committee has been fortunate enough to secure, would guarantee the success of the evening even without the additional security of sixty fair hostesses and the finest hall in the city.

The dance is under the patronage of Lady Fairman, Lady Windo, Miss Madeline Smyth and Mrs. H. T. Kelly. Mrs. E. P. Kelly, Mrs. J. P. Hynes and Mrs. F. McLaughlin.

The committee in charge is making every effort to have the Loretto Dance one of the most successful of the season, and with an entirely feminine committee what could be simpler?

Correspondence

Editor, VARSITY.

There is no paper published in Canada that is cleaner, brighter, or has a more optimistic tone than our own University paper. Although I am a fault-finder or a knacker, I believe there is place for one or two improvements in its present policy.

For instance, there are several smaller organizations and societies about our University which receive scant attention or encouragement from VARSITY columns. Reports of meetings have been frequently sent in for publication, but somehow no matter how instructive or brief, they have frequently been side-tracked in favour of some piling comedy sketch, the glowing announcement that the "Little Fellow is going to be bigger and better than ever this month," or it may be a wonderful rhapsody of the coming Varsity Veterans' Ball or some faculty dance. There have been occasions, when a reporter was assigned to attend our meetings, but even then no mention appeared in THE VARSITY, either through the fault of the reporter, but what is more probable, his report was ditched in favour of the "big interests," close to the editorial sanctum and are on THE VARSITY staff themselves. Apparently they, too, have copy, for their deadlines, and it must be published at all costs, no matter who else suffers. This should not be. All the University clubs should be given a fair deal and the support they deserve.

By the way, Mr. Editor, many students would be interested to learn what "space rates" for advertising are. Mr. Hastings for its numerous advertising readers or is this space gratis? If the latter, surely it is time for a change of policy here. A paper which boasts over 9,000 circulation and whose stock it is reported, cannot be purchased for "love or money," can now start to pay its way, and not be financially "sponsored" by the university students' benefactions through the use of the VARSITY columns and space.

"FOUR SQUARE."

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,

At a time when our own paper VARSITY and other newspapers are deploring the fact that there are no Canadians in Canada according to the latest census returns may I be allowed to write a few lines concerning an element in this University which, in my humble opinion, is by no means contributing to a Canadian national identity. I have reference to those who are obviously aping the English.

Obviously these men who affect an English accent and have adopted English mannerisms and customs and who even dress with clothes of a distinctly English design, believe that England's standard of culture is superior to that of Canada and by aping the Englishman they will at least obtain the earmarks of a gentleman of culture, and thus gain some distinction from common Canadians.

The writer is not concerned particularly with the motive which lies back of the affection of these men but as a Canadian of the second generation, he does deplore this desertion from the ranks of Canadian identity, especially at a time when every native-born Canadian should be doing his utmost to deepen the spirit of Canadian national consciousness, which in time will not only relieve us from the chagrin arising from the absurdity shown in our census returns but will assist materially in bringing Canada to a full realization of her newly attained position of a World State.

Sincerely,
CANUCK.

DIG DEEP, U.C.I.

After reading in Monday's issue of THE VARSITY of the splendid work that the Y.M.C.A. had done and is doing, I am sure that every fair-minded man in U.C. will admit that the Y.M.C.A. is deserving of our liberal support. Surely one dollar from each man is not asking too much.

That means $700 from U.C. Why so much, you ask, when Monday's VARSITY said $300 from U.C. Know, and Wycliffe together? Because U.C. is interested in the support of a foreign missionary, Perry Park, who is a graduate of our own college.

Come on, fellows, let us show that we can spare a dollar to help support such a deserving cause. We can generally dig up the odd dollar if we want to go out for the evening, let us dig up just one and put it into something that is lasting. Think it over, and when the canvasser approaches you on either the 25th, 26th or 27th, don't turn him down.

Women of University College help fill the treasure of the U. of T. Basketball Team! McGill and Queen's are coming here to Toronto to play us in February. The games will be played in Hart House, February 23, 24 and 25. The McGill and Queen's teams play each other and the U. of T. team plays each of the visiting teams making three games in all. Don't forget the dates if you want to see some real basketball. But also the whereabouts is needed for the U. of T. women to pay their third of the expenses, and the funds are low.

The members of the Senior Arts Indoor Basketball Club of University College are delighted to accede to their junior brethren's wishes and will be pleased to instruct them in the five points of the game any time, any place, any side bet.

Signed on behalf of Senior U.C.

O. L. STANTON,

Modern Language Club

The Modern Language Club held the first meeting of the year Tuesday night at the Women's Union. Miss H. Cochrane gave a very interesting paper on Restoration, which is one of the best known of modern French playwrights, and the precursor of the romantic movement in France. Although his work was not always understood, his brilliant wit, and the delicate beauty of his poetry, always compelled admiration.

Several clever charades were acted by Misses A. Dagher, P. Farrar and N. Hetherington, succeeded by a few impromptu ones, volunteered by the members of the Club.

The success of the first meeting augurs well for the coming year, and all interested are urged to attend.

DISTINGUISHED PHILOSOPHERS

Brett, who is now seeing fulfilled the great promise of his student days.

The large and representative audience which more than filled the Croft Chapter House on Wednesday afternoon when Professor Hocking of Harvard and Professor Crichton of Cornell gave their papers on "The Realistic Treatment of Evil," and "Philosophical Forms of Intelligibility" before the third session of the Philosophical Conference, showed the deep interest which the event is arousing. The papers, as the Chairman, Professor Brett, pointed out, were in continuation of those which were given at the first and second sessions on Tuesday, and traced the rise of Idealism, its submergence in the flood of Realism, and its gradual re-appearance.

There were three natural reactions to evil, Professor Hocking pointed out, namely, shrinking or escape, fighting and examination, the latter being a union of fear and curiosity, one of the most interesting instincts of the animal kingdom. There is one further response, that of explanation or analysis. The Realistic attitude is one of indignation at explaining away, and a desire to confine man's attitude to the three responses enumerated above. "Realism dreams that in apologizing for evil it may be compromising with it. In making the world possible for God it makes it impossible for man. The Realistic attitude is that Evil must be taken as Evil, and not palliated. Until we have expunged it we have no right to rest content. To a certain extent each of us must be in sympathy with the Realistic view."

Something of the nature of the meaning of the word evil may be gathered by examination of the fighting reaction, in which it must be kept at least in reach, and at the same time, must not be allowed to approach too closely. This involves a sort of middle-mindedness which the Realists fear.

In his paper on "Philosophical Forms of Intelligibility," Professor Crichton points out that it was not the business of Philosophy to give either a concrete answer or a formula; "it does not necessarily even have to give anything."

Rev. Jno. Gibson Inkster, B.A.
KNOX CHURCH
SPADINA AND HARBOR
Sunday Night
"DIVINE HEALING"
What the Church says

The Croft Chapter House was again crowded to capacity on Thursday afternoon. The subject of the debate, which proved so interesting was "What are the Fundamental Differences in Present-Day Philosophy?"

Professor Woodbridge opened the debate by asking the question, "How do we know the true currents of modern philosophy?" He dated modern philosophy from Rene Descartes and Francis Bacon and stated that these two writers of prominence were representative of the two lines of present day thought, namely Idealism and Realism. Descartes, as an idealist, stressed the necessity of certitude or absolute truth. Bacon, on the other hand, playing the role of the realist, emphasized the age old saying that "knowledge is power," and that the results thus obtained are of more use to mankind.

Professor Hocking attempted to confine himself to exactly the same ground as Professor Woodbridge had covered but stated his own opinions of the subject. He claimed that epistemology was much over-rated today, and that the effort to know what validity knowledge has is futile. He stressed and attempted to explain the difference between a proof and intuition, meaning by intuition direct knowledge or direct perception. The widening of perception was emphasized.

A large audience turned out to hear a lecture on Thursday night, in Room 22 of the Mining Building, given by Professor Crichton of Cornell University. Prof. Crichton is a Canadian and has obtained quite a reputation as a lecturer on philosophical subjects. The lecture was full of interest and in it Professor Crichton compared the philosophy of the 18th and 19th centuries. He pointed out where the philosophers of the 18th century had gone wrong and how the 19th century thinkers had overcome these defects. The history of philosophy is a record of changes taking place in the development of thought of the human race. Although the philosophy of the 18th century seems old and out of date to us, everyone must pass through that stage before they can be admitted to 19th century thinking. Professor Crichton compared the human mind to an empty vessel, ready to be filled with ideas as one would drop apples into a basket. At the close of his address a vote of thanks was moved to Professor Crichton for his kindness in delivering such an illuminative and instructive talk.

A LETTER FROM BYRON STAUFFER

Dear Student:

You are doubtless meeting the current phase of "Kismet," which urges that we are the product of our age, our parentage and our environments.

I am preparing a sermon to meet this subtle theory and will deliver it at our City Temple service, Massey Hall, next Sunday evening.

I am calling the sermon "Does Fate Fix our Destiny?" You will be surprised to find how variously the students of the ages have answered this question. I hope to make the sermon inspirational.

Miss Edna Reed will stir you by her singing. The City Temple Symphony Orchestra, composed of twenty-five of the city's best instrumentalists, under the leadership of Harvey Robb, will render: Overture, "Rustic Overture," Overture, "Valse d'Amour."

Faithfully yours,
BYRON STAUFFER.

UNIVERSITY CONGREGATIONS HEAR TWO STIRRING SERMONS SUNDAY

Dr. Silcox Speaks on the Prominence and Pre-Eminence of the Church at Convocation Hall

Dr. Silcox, a distinguished graduate of U.C. '04, preached to an appreciative audience at Convocation Hall Sunday morning on the "Prominence and Pre-Eminence of the Church." He based his sermon on the verse in the 16th chapter of St. Matthew, "Upon this rock I shall build my church and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it."

The much-disputed passages concerning the apostolic succession are considered by some the interpolation of a later generation. If Christ did speak these words he intended to found a church not easily destroyed, a church to be founded on the enduring rock of faith.

The first great truth found in the text is Christ's perception of the necessity of an established institution that would embody His will and would live after His death. It is the complaint of modern times that the machinery used in the carrying on of this institution is too complicated. Like Ezekiel's vision, there are wheels within wheels and organizations within organizations. The Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A. and kindred institutions do splendid work but they are merely cogs in the larger instruments for good.

We must not be misled by startling ideas prevalent at this time. Certain people, sincerely, say, "Oh no one ever goes to church nowadays. Science is undermining religion. The church is not progressing. It is too old—has the same songs and prayers that were used two thousand years ago. It is suffering from internal decay and soon the end will come." What a superficial attitude! One has only to glance into the overcrowded churches, to remember the increasing membership, the missionary work in new fields and old, to see the wonderful influence of our religion.

"So I am with you always, even to the end of the world." Christ hoped for an enduring church, one that would be a true continuation of divine life in human life. But is the permanence of the church secure? It has survived the hardships of the past, the dangerous period of the Reformation, the barren rationalism before Wesley, and before the Oxford movement. It has grown and developed in spite of bigotry. Humility can never forget the interest it has taken during the past ages in the arts and in education.

We have inherited much from the church. On the material side we have our heritage of schools, hospitals, and charitable institutions. Our spiritual inheritance is the intimate knowledge of the human soul, granted to the true followers of Christ.

The programme of the church is as vast as life itself, touching from the cradle to the grave. There are bound to be faults and omissions in its undertakings but we see the true result of its efforts when we reach out for God—and find Him in His church.

GENERAL CANTWRIGHT LECTURES ON LOOS

Story of Great Battle Where Gas Was First Used, Is Told Before Military Studies Class

Major-General Cantwright delivered a very interesting lecture on the Battle of Loos which took place on September 20, 1915, in the Military Studies building on Wednesday afternoon. In the course of his lecture General Cantwright described the slugs, woods, and obstacles that the troops had to contend with on the battlefield. He gave a graphic description of the preparations which were made for the attack, the trenches, roads and ammunition dumps.

This was the first battle of the war in which the British used gas in large quantities. Great difficulties were experienced in this particular because the gas cylinders had all to be put in position the night before the attack. Many of the men in the gas brigade were smothered by their own gas because of leaky cylinders.

The General completed his lecture by giving a review of the remainder of the campaign of 1915 during which little of importance occurred with the exception of a Boche counter attack on the 29th September at Loos.

SIR PHILIP GIBBS TO SPEAK AT HART HOUSE

Members of Hart House will please remember the musical to be given in the Music Room on Tuesday, January 24, at 5 p.m. An interesting programme is being arranged by the committee.

"Seek Truth At All Hazard," The Message of Rev. Prof. Foakes Jackson to Trinity Students

Dr. Foakes-Jackson, of the Union Theological Seminary, New York, and formerly Dean of Jesus College, Cambridge, was the preacher in Trinity College Chapel yesterday morning. Dr. Jackson is one of the best-known biblical scholars and recently, with another great scholar, Dr. Kierkegaard, edited a book, "The Beginnings of Christianity," which was the subject of much discussion at the recent Cambridge Conference.

Dr. Jackson's sermon was an appeal to the young men of to-day to go forth on the quest of truth in the same spirit as the knights errant of old. "Religion," he said, "is an adventure and is typified in the favourite medieval legend of the knights going forth to seek the Holy Grail." To discover it was worth all the dangers and difficulties of the quest. The modern world has had brought up in their youth in traditions which they found difficult to abandon now. In those days Old Testament criticism had been introduced, but compare those days with the present time. The views which used to cause the greatest indignation and were considered by the authorities were now admitted to be true—even common-place.

Speaking of the message of the church at this Epiphanytide, Dr. Jackson said that the Church must live in the spirit of Christ and that this was a fruitful subject for thought. He said that the modern age is towards the miracle was unsatisfactory. "What, for example, can be more futile than the tendency to make belief in the Virgin Birth of our Lord a test of orthodoxy and a denial of it a proof of liberal enlightenment? Are we never to shake off the scholasticism of the eighteenth century, when Christianity was made to rest on a mass of evidences which ought to convince every thinking man of its reasonableness." He declared that Christ's religion was something greater than a faith based upon a question whether certain wonders really happened nineteen hundred years ago.

Wonder at Belief in Religion.
Wonder, however, is an element in religion. When we know a little we become sceptical but as our knowledge increases we are more and more convinced. "This age is sceptical and irreligious because it is ignorant and superficial," Dr. Jackson ended as he began with an appeal to the young men to engage in the quest for truth. "There are difficulties enough to tempt the most adventurous you are to begin with a question of representation on the one hand, and mockery on the other. You will be called atheists as were the early Christians, you will be called bigots as were the bigoted and people who have not so much as troubled to know what your opinions are will dismiss you with a sneer. Resolve to find the truth at all hazard."

HART HOUSE IS SCENE OF CIVICS BANQUET

Prof. Barrington Explains Aims and Object of Course

The banquet which closed the short course in Civics and Town-Planning was one of the most successful events held at Varsity this term. After Sir Robert Falconer had complimented the members on the success of their course and the University, the banquet was a most touching practically all lines of life several members of the course gave, in a few words, an account of their experiences and benefits which they had received.

Professor Barrington made the speech at the evening. After the lecturer had outlined exhaustively the history of University training as to show the tendency towards synthesis. He proceeded to the discussion of university methods under four heads, namely:

To ascertain what we are studying.

To bring study to a definite knowledge.

To declare it without causing prejudice against it.

The professor followed this by a definition of Civics, which is the science of good citizenship or the use of all sciences brought together to be of value to the public.

One of the most useful of these sciences is Town-Planning by which a man knowing the elements of all the trades and professions which go into the making of a

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS LECTURE ON ARCHITECTURE

Windle Describes English Periods in Third Talk of Series

The greater number of the large churches in England have been gradually built up and altered so that when you look at the church you see a veritable history in stone, was one of the many striking remarks of Sir Bertram Windle in the third of his five afternoon lectures being delivered in the Physics Building.

To a large and appreciative audience he traced the history of English architectural development from the twelfth century to the sixteenth century, illustrating his lecture with slides, showing examples of the various types, and making clear the gradual development from Saxon to Tudor architecture.

The pre-Gothic or Romanesque period, comprised two divisions, the Saxon, dominant in the eleventh century, and the Norman, reaching its highest development in the twelfth. The round-headed, perfectly symmetrical arch types which this work and thought first used in pre-conquest times it remains as a recognized type in common use for some seven hundred years.

The modification of crossing a second round arch of the same style with the Saxon arch characterizes the work of the Norman period. The arch at the entrance to the University Library is an example of this method of expression, highly important as it is undoubtedly, for from this arch the first Gothic architecture began.

The Gothic period was dominant from the thirteenth to the fifteenth century. Evolving from the early pointed arch, the decorative and structural principles of architecture were exhibited. Intricate carvings and ornamental devices of the most naturalistic style which illustrates the best work of the period.

In this period, too, English art and glass reached its highest development and the walls of many churches became a mere frame for enormous windows. To support the huge windows, it was necessary to use pillars and cross-supports. Second story arches were thrown up and with these changes came what is known as the perpendicular or perpendicular division of the Gothic period, the time of decadence in true Gothic architecture, a preparation for the post-Gothic work of Tudor times.

The lecture was well attended by the audience a very vivid picture of the changes as they evolved. Examples were given of the perpendicular work, others illustrated the combination of the architectural types of several periods.

The lecture covered a wide field, it dealt in a most scholarly and interesting manner with the wonderful mastery of his material and the ability to present his ideas in a clear and pleasing manner, Sir Bertram Windle again demonstrated to his audience that such style can be made highly interesting to the lay mind.

DENT AT-HOME WILL BE IN KING EDWARD

Postponed to Feb. the Ninth In Favour of Assault-At-Arms

The At-Home Committee of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons take great pleasure in announcing that, owing to the popularity of the Assault-At-Arms, was scheduled for the same night as the Annual Dinner At-Home Mr. Denton, President of the Committee, has decided to postpone the At-Home to King Edward to change the night of the Premier Social Event to Thursday, February 23rd. This news was received with great satisfaction because the fact that these two stellar attractions should clash was not to be thought of.

The one and only Romani's orchestra, in Canada's first ball room, coupled with an experienced and energetic committee whose unceasing efforts will leave no stone unturned for the enjoyment of the guests, are the factors which we feel sure will not only keep this At-Home up to the standard of its predecessors, but also give it a higher rank in the hall of achievement to which future committees must aspire.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO GLEE CLUB

Notice to Members:
There are only 7 more regular practices before the concert on February 15. Nothing succeeds like success. A failure means wasted time to all those connected. Don't waste your time, turn out for ensemble and put some pep into this the big musical date on Varsity's calendar.

Practices in West Hall, Mondays 4.00 to 6.00 p.m.

Thursdays, 7.30-10.00 p.m. We can do it.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP IS TOPIC DISCUSSED BY ECON. STUDENTS

"Government and Industry" was the subject discussed at a well-attended meeting of the Political Economy Club held Wednesday afternoon in the Graduates' Room in the Library, it being the first since the new year. There was a good attendance of members including several professors of the Department.

R. A. Stewart, president of the Club, announced a new principle to be followed in the future with regard to conduct of the meetings. In the past the practice has been to have an outside speaker address the Club but hereafter the members themselves will supply the programmes, of six or six giving short addresses on subjects of particular interest, and then a discussion will take place. The plan was first tried out at Wednesday's meeting.

H. A. Wilson, the first speaker, gave a very carefully prepared and lengthy paper on state intervention in industry in England during the four economic periods to 1914. A splendid insight was given into the extent that state intervention had taken place in regulating the industries of England from times previous to 1848, and the period was taken to the present day when the system tends toward collectivism.

The speaker said that evolution of thought had produced great changes in the relationship between the Government and Industry, and he traced these changes from the end of the 17th and primitive conditions of manufacture prior to the Industrial Revolution were reviewed. The second period was from 1780 to 1830, and it was one of "laissez-faire," in which there was no state interference in industry. Manufacturing superceded agriculture in importance.

The third period 1830-1880 was one of progress in industry, and there was absolute necessity for state intervention in industry to protect the human element in grounds. The fourth period was the era of industrialism. The fourth period was from 1880 to the present time. Collectivism was the system of the future, and it was the duty of the state to regulate the industry of the future.

D. C. Wells was the next speaker, and he dealt particularly with the question of railroads, emphasizing their great importance in the world of progress. The first was the Anglo-Saxon policy of leaving them to private enterprise, and the second was the European policy of state intervention. Regulation of railroads he declared to be a very important part of the future of the world, and some of these arguments were used when the Prussian roads were taken over by the state. But there had been no improvement, but, on the other hand, in the United States, where private ownership existed, there was more progress, and more improvement in the industry.

Mr. C. L. Fletcher, who spoke next, outlined labour legislation in England in the 19th century. He showed what a great deal of industrial revolution wrought in the life of the people, especially in that of the women and children who were forced to work thirteen to fourteen hours a day. He traced the changes in the legislation were that it concerned women and children, it regulated domestic machinery, and it fixed hours of employment. The speaker also discussed the minimum wage and cited the box-making industry as an example of a case where it had been tried out.

Miss B. Lyons, the last speaker, dealt with unemployment insurance and the progress which had been made along this line in England. She pointed out that the present day is the first of the last century insurance was voluntary, but this system was not a success as it became a modified form of public relief. In 1915 benefits from government unemployment insurance totalled two and a half millions. In Canada government employment bureau has been set up to relieve unemployment. This is one form of insurance. Government control is better than trade union control.

Previous to the address to be given by the subject for the next meeting on February 15, "Unemployment—A Failure of Industry."

The subject for the next meeting on February 15, "Unemployment—A Failure of Industry."

Annual Arts Ball Festivities Held In Great Hall, Hart House

Two Hundred Couples Enjoy Biggest Social Function of University College Year

The Arts Ball, the largest event of the season, was held in the Great Hall of Hart House, and was a most successful one. The subject for the next meeting on February 15, "Unemployment—A Failure of Industry."

The Great Hall of Hart House was the scene of the revelry, and where couples had a good time. The subject for the next meeting on February 15, "Unemployment—A Failure of Industry."

Many lights of divers colors were projected from the gallery, and that, along with the beautiful music, the couples were dancing, gliding around the floor to wonderful music, made the scene one that would not be easily forgotten.

The music was furnished by J. Wilson's orchestra, and was of a quality in keeping with the rest of the hall. The usual preparations of the unrepentant "jazz" was heard, but the music was there in exactly the right quantity. The "orchestration" was the best that one could wish for.

On their arrival the guests were received in the gallery outside the Great Hall by Mrs. Malcolm Wallace, Mrs. G. E. Jackson, Mrs. Hutton, Mrs. G. E. Hutton, Professor Cochrane, and Mr. F. Lorne Hutchison, President of the U.C.

TORONTO WILL NOMINATE SCIENCE RESEARCH SCHOLAR

The Royal Commissioners of the Exhibition of 1924 have recently invited the University of Toronto to nominate one or more candidates in order of merit for a Science Research Scholarship.

Each Scholarship is tenable for two years and is of the value of $250 per annum with certain additional allowances. The Scholarship is intended to enable selected students of overseas universities who have already completed a full university course and give evidence of capacity for scientific investigation to devote themselves for two years to research work under conditions most favourable to education and practical science in the scientific life of the Empire.

A candidate must be a British subject and not more than twenty-six years of age. Under very special circumstances, the Commissioners will consider the nomination of a candidate whose age exceeds twenty-six.

A candidate must have been a student of Science in a university for a period of not less than three years and must have spent one full academic year at this University either during the session 1920-1921 or during the present session.

A scholar will be required to devote himself to research in some branch of pure or Applied Science, the peculiar nature of the work proposed to be approved by the Commissioners. A Scholarship may be held at any institution approved by the Commissioners in the United Kingdom or abroad but a scholar will not be permitted except under very special circumstances to conduct his investigations in Canada.

APPLICANTS FOR NOMINATION MUST BE RECEIVED BY THE REGISTRAR OF THE UNIVERSITY NOT LATER THAN MARCH 31ST. THE NOMINATION OF THE UNIVERSITY MUST REACH THE COMMISSIONERS NOT LATER THAN APRIL 1ST.

For further information apply at the Registrar's Office, Main Building.

GOBLIN WILL APPEAR EARLY NEXT WEDNESDAY

Comic Magazine To Contain Many Special Features by Old and New Contributors

By special request, GOBLIN will appear for the fourth time this season with a greatly enlarged cast and new effects on Wednesday night. All the old favourites and some new recruits will be positively appear. The oldtimers include: Guy Rutter, String Beebe, Gordon Smith, McNeill, Helen Cross, with art work, and F. V. McLennan, H. Reeve, Hume (Moe), A. E. Grogan and Joe Taylor on the line. Among the newcomers we note Helen Patterson, who has done the cover, Sid Llew, whose front-piece is still framing, L. B. Hutton, who has done the cover, and the mysterious "Harold" whose "Love Song of a Germ" would turn the galling cap.

The Onion-Skin returns with its usual peppery satire, and a drama page has been introduced, which features an interview with the Fairbanks twins, formerly of the English folk, and now starring in "Two Little Girls in Blue."

Wednesday morning then, in every faculty and college, and the great outbreak of blin of the last two weeks won't have as much chance as the proverbial snowball.

WE MUST WORK NOW --MRS. PANKHURST

Instructive Address Given by Brilliant Speaker Appreciated by Alumnae Clubs

Mrs. Pankhurst addressed a joint meeting of the Alumnae of University College and Victoria College of the University of Toronto on Thursday evening at Airedale House.

Mrs. Pankhurst, the President of the I. C. Alumnae, in presenting Mrs. Pankhurst to her audience, said that every woman in the room must feel a sense of obligation to the cause which she is supporting. She said that the fundamental reason for her coming was that she had seen the need of the hour. She said that the fundamental reason for her coming was that she had seen the need of the hour. She said that the fundamental reason for her coming was that she had seen the need of the hour.

"But I sometimes wonder," continued Mrs. Pankhurst, "if we have not been fortunate in the old days. British women understood thoroughly what working means, and the men, by the agitation, were brought to appreciate the work. This is an old story, but it is a story that is worth looking at."

Mrs. Pankhurst went on to explain the meaning of the word "work" as it is used in the present day. She said that the word "work" is used in the present day to mean the same thing as it did in the old days. She said that the word "work" is used in the present day to mean the same thing as it did in the old days.

Then the war came, and with it the plain duty of the woman. She said that the war had brought about a change in the position of the woman. She said that the war had brought about a change in the position of the woman.

Mrs. Pankhurst told how her war-work led her to Russia, where she saw the danger of Bolshevism threatening the best interests of the world. She said that the war had brought about a change in the position of the woman. She said that the war had brought about a change in the position of the woman.

"The great catastrophe of the war was necessary," said Mrs. Pankhurst, "to bring home the measure to nations, which had resulted largely from the elimination of women's viewpoint in national affairs, and the consequent double standard of living. A country can never be great until you have in it a race of citizens fit to control the destinies of the country in its young days. This is becoming increasingly impossible under existing conditions. Our only hope is in an entire change of standards, the enforcement of the very highest standards. The equality of the sexes in the matter of franchise makes it more and more difficult to have a double standard about anything—the question of equal pay for equal work is only another phase of the same thing. There must be a levelling up—or a levelling down—and it is the woman's duty to see that the standard is kept at its height."

"We have passed through a wonderful experience in the last five years," continued Mrs. Pankhurst. "We have seen to what great heights human beings can rise. If we could only live at our best always, what a much better world could be." In this light for purity and high ideals of national life, we are not called upon to die for the cause, as our men did in the war, we are only called upon to work for it.

Don't fritter your energies on smaller things," concluded the speaker earnestly. "Choose really the things of life, and work whole-heartedly for them."

The Banquet Committee of 273 are stepping at nothing to make this an event-de-luxe. (Looks like a sure go.)

DR. PORTER GIVES U.C. MEN USEFUL RULES FOR HEALTH

First Year U.C. men listened to a very interesting talk on the subject of Personal Hygiene by Dr. Porter, the Health Director of the University, in West Hall, Saturday morning. Personal Hygiene may be divided under three heads: (1) methods for promoting health, (2) avoidance of disease. He dwelt for the most part on the promotion of health. Health and physical strength are not necessarily considered as synonymous terms. Health is the most part of the Regimen of Health, and treated the subject under the following heads:

(1) Work. The Regimen says "Keep your hand from cats," or in other words "Don't worry." The greatest diversion against worry is work. It is impossible to worry while at work. (2) Relaxation. Work and relaxation should be interchangeable constantly. There are three forms of relaxation: (1) the last term is sleep. An average of 7 to 8 hours is best for a student. (2) Recreation. Recreation is anything that takes your mind off your work, but recreation kept up too long becomes dissipation. (3) Exercise. The best form of exercise is out door. The advantage of games is that they are fun. The best form of exercise is that which takes you back to Nature as much as possible, as hunting or fishing. The only time when it is not wise to take part in competitive athletics is right after infection. Less than 3 per cent of the University students are physically unable to take physical training.

(3) Correct diet. The best form of diet is a mixed one. The very essential vitamins are found in dairy products and vegetables. Food which is a great aid to digestion. For this reason very few doctors are called in at Xmas time to treat cases of indigestion. The care of the teeth is very important. The condition of the teeth requires care in addition to the cleansing. Some cases of serious physical disabilities are caused by bad teeth.

To sum up, the 11 principles of health are: (1) Work, (2) Relaxation, (3) proper outdoor exercise, (4) proper diet. On the subject of tobacco, Dr. Porter said that an experiment had been carried out on a group of Morse telegraph operators. The conclusion was—less early output of the heavy smoker was greater than the output of the light smoker but that the heavy-smoker's output fell off later in the day. At heavy physical work there is not any noticeable difference between heavy and light smokers. Dr. Porter's moral was "Moderation is the motto of health."

These lectures have been given by Dr. Porter to the various faculties, and are the result of the decision of the Board of Governors of the University that the First and Second year students, in addition to taking Physical Training, should receive some education on the subject of Personal Hygiene.

U.C. BASEBALL NOTICE

We are out to get revenge for our defeat at the last meeting with Victoria. To-day's the day. Junior U.C. vs. Victoria. The roll will be called at 4 p.m. The following are on the list: Manser, Pequegnat, Douglas, Wilson, Schreier, Wagg, McInnes, Thomson, Venuela, Freysing, Ferguson, Wallace.

Friday night the Dental nurses arranged a very successful skating party with benefit and dance after in the Music Room. The success of this affair will surely encourage a repetition of the event before long.

Correspondence

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

One read with considerable interest the letter which appeared in your issue of Jan. 20th, over the pseudonym "Canuck." It is, however, to be regretted that "Canuck" did not give a more specific outline of what our Canadian standards are of dress and the propagation of the English language.

If there are definite standards in Canada or in any other English speaking country, then personally I must confess to have been labouring under the delusion, that while there is a similarity in the costumes of all male members of the English speaking world yet the variations are many and strangely not so varied between countries as between individuals. Whether it be in England, United States or Canada, these are variations which appear to be based upon the environment, likes, dislikes, education and financial resources of the individual.

Provided that it is true, as we conscientiously take the wearing apparel of our Canadian Citizens as a basis upon which to pass judgment as to the truthfulness of their patriotism? Surely not, for after all, Mr. Editor, it is not the clothes a man wears, provided he is cleanly and neatly dressed, that stamps him one hundred per cent. Canadian, but rather the ability while seeing the worth-while things of his country, to see the good in others, and to select the best therefrom for the betterment of his homeland, as well as being wide awake and courageous in seeing his country's faults, yet so imbued with love for her, that he is even determined to do all in his power to remove those blemishes which delay his wonderful heritage.

To my mind, this is the true standard to be demanded of all those who aspire to be real Canadians, a standard as easily attainable by the humblest university student as by the million dollar president of some Canadian industrial organization. Moreover, it is one which is not dependent upon the discovery of some men that Spats and Brogues are more comfortable than boots or horn rimmed glasses than put-mez.

Sincerely,

T. F. Bannerman, 275

TO THE PERSON WHO SIGNED HIMSELF 'FOUR SQUARE'

Sir: Your letter which appeared in VARSITY is a direct challenge from you to every undergrad who has in any way helped in the organization or running of any student activities in this University.

Would you meet me at the Hall Porter's Office, Hart House, at 1 p.m., Tuesday, the 24th, to discuss some of your remarks? Chiefly I would like to look at a man who has the unmitigated gall to sign himself "Four Square"—a term symbolic of the perfect life of our Saviour. I picture you as a — oh, well, I will tell you on Tuesday and not use the columns of this paper to show you up. I am, very sincerely yours,

R. A. WILLIAMS, DENT. 273.

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Regarding the sensational, if ungrammatical, exposure of our alleged control of your columns, before we plead guilty to the charge of being "spoiled," graters, allow us to emit a few words of "pulling comedy."

We would like to ask "Four Square" a few questions: 1. What organization does he represent that has a greater claim on space than the Varsity veterans or a magazine which is purchased each month by more than 80 per cent. of the undergraduates? 2. Does he know that all GOBLIN ads. in VARSITY are paid for at the usual rate? 3. Can he give one instance of any report of a meeting being shelved in favour of a GOBLIN story through wire-pulling? 4. Does he know that many of the write-ups have been solicited by THE VARSITY at the last minute because of lack of news? One of the causes is that secretaries failed to report the meetings of their societies.

Does he know that time and again GOBLIN stories have been put aside in favour of other matter?

Has he any idea of the expense connected with publishing a magazine of this type? Two great American comic journals are in financial difficulties in spite of mammoth circulations, 50 per cent. of the college magazines on the continent are losing money.

Is he willing to come out from the convenient protection of a pseudonym borrowed from the "Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington" and state a few facts rather than allusions based on guess-work?

This letter seems to be a typical example of the manner in which "big interests," all University organizations, which are doing some real service for their Alma Mater, are hampered by the narrow-minded pettiness of a few chronic knucklers. In some forty the U. of T. being known is this GOBLIN, which, of course, should not be aided at home. Sixty-five newspapers from the New York Herald to the Washington Times and the Neepawa (Man.) Press, and periodicals, including the Literary Digest, MacLean's and Life, quote the wit and humour of local undergraduates because of it.

These publications also consider GOBLIN reviews as "news," well worthy of "free advertising."

In concluding, GOBLIN extends a hearty invitation to "Four Square" to call up and make an appointment to explain his statements, with motives.

Sincerely,
Managing Board of GOBLIN,
JAMES A. GOBLIN,
Editor-in-Chief.

CROWDED HOUSES GREET LORETTO ABBEY PLAYS

Scenes From Life of Dante Given by College Dramatic Society

"The New Life or The Masque of Love," a pageant play showing scenes from the life of Dante, was presented at Loretto Abbey on Friday and Saturday nights. Both performances drew crowded houses.

The first part of the play presented Dante and a new aspect. Those whose ideas of him have been taken from the haggard face of the man who had learned how salt it was to eat another's bread, how steep to climb another's stairs, were perhaps for the attractive figure of the youthful troubadour who moved among a company of young poets and fair ladies. The second part dealt with the mature life of Dante and his wonderful spiritual experiences in the Inferno, Purgatorio and Paradiso. The subject which was enacted on five planes—Florence, Hell, Purgatory, Eden and the Empyrean Heaven—gave full scope for splendid scenic and lighting effects.

Between the scenes Dr. Kirkpatrick read passages from the Vita Nuova, which were afterwards presented as scenes, so that the spirit of the theme was admirably carried out all through.

Owing to its warm reception it is probable that the pageant will be presented again at some future date.

U.C. SOPH-FROSH BANQUET

At last comes the night when Soph and Frosh around the festive board in the Great Hall, Hart House. For this annual affair Mr. Kerrison has promised us the best banquet of the year, and the Hart House staff will live up to its past reputation. Hodder-Williams has promised to speak, which alone is well worth the price of admission.

For the sum of one dollar you will get lots to eat, lots to drink, lots to smoke, and plenty of entertainment. So let us turn out, 273 and 275 to prepare for the incoming frosh.

IRONMEN BEAT QUEEN'S---TIGERS GIVE THEM BOOST FOR O.H.A. HONORS

BLUE AND WHITE OUTCLASS QUEEN'S IN INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL

Varsity Defence Too Much for Queen's
Score 47-17

O.A.C. ALSO BEATEN

Before a comparatively small crowd on Saturday night in Hart House the Basketball Team opened the Intercollegiate series with a win over Queen's by 47 to 17. At no time during the game was the issue in doubt, but during the first half Queen's provided some anxious moments for Varsity by their consistent checking.

Queen's opened the scoring on a foul shot by "Red" Stewart got excited and dropped in three baskets. Bell seemed to make no headway at centre against Jones, who at times made his check look foolish.

Varsity scored a foul shot and Haslam basket which was followed by two goals by Stewart. Bell and Logan each added a basket and Jones made a marvellous shot from centre floor. Varsity scored a foul shot and the Queen's centre again dropped in another from way out. Stewart scored again, and on a double foul, Bell dropped in two. Just as the whistle blew Keener Bell collided with a Queen's guard and went down, but he recovered.

Half-time score—Varsity 20; Queen's 13. Queen's accurate short passing game and their hard checking was very pretty to watch, but they lacked the punch and Varsity at no time was ever threatened.

For the second half, Leon Smith replaced Gill at left forward, going to right and Stewart to left. Graham came off and Duffill took his place.

Stewart started the scoring and Queen's missed a double foul shot. Duffill came up fast for a basket and Bell hooped one in from the corner. Thomas crashed into Duffill and went out, Gibson taking his place. Logan was fouled for running with the ball. Smith scored two beauties. Graham replaced Logan, and Smith scored again. A laugh was raised when a Queen's man went blindly into a teammate and checked him hard. "Big train" Graham crashed into the chair at the end of the floor and smashed a few into leading wood.

From now on Varsity's blinding speed and wonderful combination proved too much for the Presbyterian quintette but the latter went down hard.

Final score—Varsity 47; Queen's 17.

The teams:

Varsity	Queen's
Bell (15)	C. Jones (7)
Stewart (16)	R. J. Holman
Gill (0)	L. F. Thomas (4)
Graham...	R. G. Ellis (0)
Logan (2)	L. G. Lewis (0)
Smith	Thomas...
Duffill (2)

Referee—Ed. Buscombe, Toronto.

As a preliminary to the Senior game, Varsity seconds defeated O.A.C. 30 to 18 in an Intermediate Intercollegiate game.

The first half was featureless with occasional spasms of good basketball and the winners led 18 to 10.

During the second half both teams played much better and O.A.C. gave of their very best to stem the Varsity attack.

Their play, however, lacked the class of the latter and they were penalized a great deal.

McLean and "Hip" Smith played sensationally from start to finish and Burgess proved the ideal pivot man with his accurate passing. Cosgrove, Caple and Code all played well on the defence.

Forman, for O.A.C. proved the whole works but the rest of the team were held powerless by the Blue and White attack.

The teams—

Varsity	O.A.C.
Burgess (8)	C. Boise (2)
McLean (13)	R. F. Fidler
A. Smith...	J. F. Forman (10)
Cosgrove...	R. G. Thompson...
Code...	L. G. Whitlock
Caple	S. Sinclair
	Dixon

SENIOR U.C. GO DOWN TO DEFEAT BEFORE SCHOOL

SR. S.P.S. 6—SR. U.C. 5

The all-round playing of the Sr. S.P.S. basketball team was just enough to brush Sr. U.C. aside from the championship of Group C. For the winners the playing of A. Fitzgerald and Bysshe and the pitching of Mutch were prominent.

Reburn, Stanton, and Tarkin were in the lineups of Sr. U.C.

Score by innings:

Sr. S.P.S.	2	3	0	0	1	6
Sr. U.C.	1	0	2	0	1	5

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Did you see the come-back? At that they didn't half try. What's the use with a game in Tiger-town next Wednesday night. Stan Brown made sixty but he still has forty in reserve. Ned Wright's back-check is once more to the fore and Westie is getting his stick-handling down to cold science. We don't worry about Louie Hudson because he doesn't get off form. You can depend on him to turn in a whirlwind of a game. Bill Carson has his smokeless sure-fire shot back in his old stick and now it's just a question of time till the standing rights issue. Beattie and Jack? Don't be silly. Did you ever see them off colour yet? You did not! We knew the old Blue and White spirit would be there at the first opportunity and the crowd showed it. The team appreciated the yelling more than you realize albeit a little praise would tend toward more of a concerted effort. Aren't they worth while getting behind? You said it. Be there on Saturday and see what makes greased lightning look slow.

VARSITY BEATS CENTRAL

Waldron Breaks Long Plunge Record Wells and Reilly Star in Game

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a swimming meet at Hart House was present on Friday night when U. of T. beat Central, and S.P.S. tied with the All-Star team. The meet was well-handled with no delays between events, and due to the foresight of the Swimming Club officials there was no dispute about the times, as there was in the Interfaculty meet.

The evening's entertainment got away to a good start with the four man relay race. The Varsity team, Wood, Wells, Uren, Keefler, hung up a new Varsity record, doing the 200 yards in 1 minute 48 2-5 seconds. Wood and Watt, of Varsity came first and second in the diving with Van Valkenburg third. Lowndes won the 100 yards, speed and Keefler came a close second, Barber came third. Fitzgerald won the 100 yard breast stroke with Chapman second and Thrupp third. The 200 yard speed provided the closest race and finish of the night. The three swimmers, Stephenson and Buchanan, Central, and C. Wells, Varsity, kept right together for the first 100 yards, then Buchanan and Wells dropped behind till at 150 Wells was about 10 feet behind Stephenson and Buchanan about 8 feet behind Wells. Wells put on a fine spurt and caught Stephenson just as he put his hand on the finish line. The times were Stephenson 2 min. 30 secs. Wells 2 min. 30 1-5 secs. Waldron easily won the long plunge, making a new Varsity record of 71 feet 3 in. Wood of Central was the only other contestant. Lowndes won the 50 yds speed, but Uren gave him a great battle for it with Keefler a close third.

Wood and Ruddy thrilled the crowd with another close finish in the 50 yard back. Wood's time was 35 4-5 Ruddy's 36 1-4. Chapman of Central came third.

The swimming was exciting, but Oh! the polo game was not as fast to watch as some others have been but it was better polo. The men were so evenly matched that nobody could get away. Reilly started the scoring after 3 minutes of see-saw play. He got the second goal immediately afterwards and things began looking blue for School. But in response to do and long "Toke-Okes" from the gallery and in defiance of the unsportsmanlike yell of "poor School!" led by a well known Varsity swimmer, the School team came to life and Wells put a nice shot into the top corner of the net where Dosses could not reach it. This ended the scoring for this half.

Dosses and Bell both played very well and made some fine saves.

In the second half Reilly started again making the score 3-1. But once again School came from behind Wells scored another. Fitzgerald did some very neat and spectacular work with the ball, but lost several chances for goals by waiting too long before shooting.

In the last quarter Wells again came through with a shot that Dosses did not see until it was in the net. Both teams made fine efforts in the last 2 or 3 minutes but the checking was too severe and the game ended with the score tie.

The teams lined up for the beginning of the game:

S.P.S.	Position	All-Stars
Bell	Goal	Dosses, V.C.
Shinben	Defence	Reilly, U.C.
Conklin	Centre	Wells, V.C.
Harston	Forward	Waldron, U.C.
FitzGerald	Reilly, Dents
Matson	Subs.	Wood, Dents
Keefler		Latchford, U.C.
Booth		K. Wells, U.C.

JR. MEDS SCORE VICTORY OVER JR. U.C. BY 5-1

In an interfaculty game Jr. Meds were victorious over Jr. U.C. The game was fast and furious and showed very good combination play on the part of Meds which offset the superior weight of the U.C. defence.

The first period proved the most exciting with one tally each. During the remainder of the game Meds piled up a lead of four goals. For the winners the back-checking and combination play of the forward line featured. For U.C. Street and Douglas were probably best.

TRINITY DEFEATS O.A.C. IN STRENUOUS GAME

Trinity College, after a fast, strenuous game, defeated O.A.C. 25-17. The features of the game were close checking, accurate shooting and excellent condition. Stone and Bell, for Trinity, stood out conspicuously. The Trinity line-up: forward—Bell, Ballard, Centre—Stone, Guards—Ross, Herbert, Subs.—Crouch, Dwyer.

TIGERS HELP VARSITY TOWARDS O.H.A. TITLE

Friend Noah Webster tells us a tiger is a very large and powerful carnivore which lives in Asia and the East Indies. It failed to inform us about that small but active tiger which is a petrevere (rock-eater), and which inhabits the vicinity of Burlington Bay. This last-mentioned species came down to Toronto last Saturday night and handed the Granites a very arduous trouncing. The little yellow clad gladiators outplayed their larger opponents in most impressive fashion. Although they collapsed from fatigue at times, they came back and pulled the season's second great surprise. Their splendid victory gives Varsity a second lease of life. If we go ahead and win the rest of our games we are sitting "pretty" for the play-off for the championship of the O.H.A. and regions here. We can never thank the ambitious city hornets enough. They deserve credit. They got the raw end of the refereeing. They played the last period five or four men to six. They were subjected to the most strenuous and unlawful checking ever shown in an amateur game and won out. We now move Max Smith up to that select circle which includes Harry Watson, Bill Carson, Beattie Ramsay, Bill Hurch and other key stars. He is a star. It was due to his work that the Bengals won. We again thank him and his gang. "They seem their dooty and they done it noble."

The Tuck Shop opens this morning at its new stand at the east end of the basement corridor beyond Billiard Room.

NEW MUSEUM WING IS GREATLY NEEDED

Arrival of Large Shipment from China Makes Need Felt Very Badly

Professor Curle, of the Royal Ontario Museum, centered last week with Sir Edmund Walker on the construction of a new wing to the Museum. The necessity of this new wing has been felt very keenly and has been greatly augmented since the arrival of a very large and valuable shipment of antiquities from China and Japan. The authorities are going ahead in the matter as quickly as possible, and the Provincial Government has promised support.

The new shipment contains many valuable and interesting specimens. If a visitor returned to the Chinese and Japanese rooms after not having been very many hours, he would notice there for the past month all of which attract attention. Due to lack of space they have been temporarily crowded a great many more specimens into the room. The construction of the proposed new wing, as yet many of these are without labels so that all that can be ascertained from them is as to what they are. Some cases are still unoccupied, due, of course, to lack of space.

In the Chinese room, on the west side, is a huge statue of Buddha, made of bronze, with the exposed parts of the body overlaid with gold. It is a very striking exhibit. Around this are other things, including some cases containing other gods, statues, deities, and arm, all of which have arrived lately.

The Japanese room is also overcrowded. Around the well-known statue of the Lord Lohan, at the south end of the east corridor, are placed a number of other gods, men, gods, and other things, all of which would fit placed in the new wing.

Knox College

Knox College had an eminent preacher and lecturer, just at dinner on Thursday last in the person of Professor Hugh Black, D.D., of the Union Theological Seminary, New York. Professor Black, in introducing the visiting divine, alluded to the first case on which he had been called to preach, in the case of the Edinburgh, some years ago. Tables were laid in appreciation as he welcomed Dr. Black, not only as coming from the city to the country, but as coming from a Scotchman in first and foremost.

Professor Black pointed out that this was not his first visit to Knox, as he had been there some years ago at the inauguration of his friend, Professor H. Douglas. Prior to his departure for America at that time, in the course of conversation with the American ambassador at St. James Court, he had been warned to beware of "American hospitality." But, he said, "I was not afraid, for I could not tell a Scotchman with kindness. Later on I discovered that what he meant by 'American hospitality' was to be treated as a man to dinner in luncheon and expecting him to make a speech."

He went on to advise Canadian students to complete their education in America. The best students in Union Seminary, in the opinion of one of his colleagues, were Scotch and Canadian graduates. After that, the student had the opportunity and means, a year's study abroad might probably broaden his outlook. In this connection, he referred to the traditional "travelling scholars" of Scotland who, at far back as the time of John Knox, studied in Paris or Louvain. He deprecated the former custom of spending years' study in Germany as essential.

Much as scholarship was to be encouraged, in his opinion, the greater need was for a preaching ministry. The power of the pulpit was never so vital. He referred to Bernard Shaw's preface to a recent book, in which the famous satirist argued the necessity of religion for the topsy-turvy world groping to find God again. People wanted to hear preachers discuss the fundamental things.

His preaching was considered "new" in America to-day, he said abjectly, because he delivered the old-fashioned, missionary type of sermon that his own fathers had preached. "If you live long enough," he said, "the world comes around back to you. Old-fashioned to-day, and modern to-morrow. But we can't preach the same way as our fathers, for they had a different audience. They could end their sermon at the last verse of the 22nd chapter of Deuteronomy, say, and commence at the 15th verse the following Sabbath, because their audience was the same and would have followed them."

"The modern student of theology is too often afraid of the word 'doctrine,'" he continued, "but doctrine is not dogma. If you don't know what dogma means, look it up when you go out." In conclusion he expressed his pleasure at visiting Knox again, saying that he had felt among his "own folk." And again the rattling tables proved he was right.

Victoria

The long debated Freshman Reception took place at Victoria on Friday last. The peculiar situation had ended and as the capable chairman Prof. Auger remarked, "A new era was dawning at Victoria in regard to that function." The general attitude seemed favourable that the old order had finally changed.

A splendid programme followed a few well chosen remarks by the chairman of the evening after which the Beau Brummels wended their way to the innovations of the First Year on the third floor. Much credit is due to the various Committees for the efficient preparations made and to the Victoria College Orchestra which furnished the music for the evening.

PADRE WILL ESTABLISH BRANCHES OF "TOC H."

Club is Firmly Established in Every University in Great Britain

No doubt many of the troops who remember the fair city of Poperinghe will also remember a large white building on the Rue de l'Hopital which bore the sign of "Talbot House." Those who do will also remember that it was a soldiers' club that was "different," if I may borrow a phrase from the advertisements, "different" in that it was a club of men from every corner of the Empire met on terms of absolute equality, freed from restraint of rank and social conditions. It was a club in the very best sense of that word and the sort of fellowship that grew up in it was one of the afterglows of the war.

That Talbot House satisfied the social instinct that lies in every man, it was a powerful antidote to depression. Moreover, in its genial contacts, many a man got his first understanding glimpse of other men and other ways of life. It was a place in which to write home, and a cosy library in which to read.

That Talbot House satisfied the social instinct that lies in every man, it was a powerful antidote to depression. Moreover, in its genial contacts, many a man got his first understanding glimpse of other men and other ways of life. It was a place in which to write home, and a cosy library in which to read.

When the end of the War put an end to the ministrations of the House in Poperinghe and to those of the other Talbot Houses, the Rev. P. B. Clayton, M.C., thought it too good a thing to let drop. Accordingly, "The House of 'Toc H.'" as it is now officially called was established in London. The growth of the scheme has been the most recent proof of the need for it. There are three large houses in London and in many of the towns and cities in Great Britain branches have been established with a large and growing membership.

How the Padre has come to Canada to see whether the Toc H. idea which has worked so well over there can be worked out here. After a short stay with Lord Byng, the Rev. Clayton is going to Montreal and will arrive in Toronto on Friday the 27th. He will probably be the guest of Mr. Bickersteth the Warden of Hart House.

The scheme which the Padre is going to see is outlined in an open letter to Sir George Parkin. Here are some extracts from it: "Toc H. is not merely another Ex-Servicemen's Club. Its surviving members see clearly from the first that to limit the sphere of its operation to those who had known the old House, was simply to produce yet one more lack-lustre body, which would share the inevitable fate of all other ex-service organizations in the steady dwindling of its membership, and the inevitable decay of its ideals."

"Our Foundation Membership, therefore, had better be from the first, not to transmit, but to conserve, but to transmit. . . . The programme of Toc H. may be summed up in the word 'After-Care.' It is the task of these Houses and Branches to deal with the ex-serviceman of all grades at the beginning of his career as a citizen; to offer him not only a welcome alternative to lodgings, but a series of working deals, both in conduct and outlook, which can resist (and more than resist) the narrowing and limiting circumstances of a life of loneliness at the bottom of the ladder."

"The task, however, of the Houses is not merely one of Fellowship, for our War experience plainly taught us that there can be no real Fellowship unless based on the highest spirit of service. The membership of Toc H. is, therefore, pledged to social service of very great variety and the movement is fast becoming the most powerful agency of its kind in Great Britain for the recruitment from the ages of 17 to 35 of those who will voluntarily undertake tasks of this character."

"We have already strong branches in 63 of the Senior Schools and in every University in Great Britain. The task of these branches is (a) to teach Christian Civics and ideals of Social Service while the boy is still at school, through the agency of a big panel of voluntary lecturers, (b) to supply every Summer list of leaving school boys, who are referred to our Social Service correspondent in the neighbourhood to which they go."

This letter also deals with the question of finance. In the Old Country they are 'Memorial Houses' for it is the belief of Toc H. that those who did not live to come home would rather see such work go forward among their younger brothers than the unveiling of many monuments to their memory. After a while, however, each House becomes automatically self-sufficient.

The Padre concludes: "It is simply a voyage of discovery on my part, and I need not say how grateful I shall be to those who hold office both in the Schools and Universities of Canada, if they will allow me to lay the matter before them, and also before those upon whose young shoulders a double responsibility now devolves."

Teacher—A Planet is something we live on. Name another. Abie—My grandfather. Teacher—Your grandfather? Abie—Sure, Vee lived on him for years.

—McGILL DAILY.

TRINITY DRAMATIC HANDS OUT VERDICT

Marriage Matters To Be Settled and Doubts Dispelled

Are you married? Are you going to marry before you leave college? Are you ever going to marry? Impertinent questions, possibly, but certainly not for Trinity.

What we are really anxious to learn is "Should a philosopher marry?" "Living in mind one, Socrates, and the reflections of his series of misadventures led him to feel that to himself the fair Xanthippe, we have a hunch that philosophers should abstain from this dangerous practice." We may be wrong. In any case we are going to Hart House on either the afternoon or evening of January 28th to find out.

The Trinity Dramatic Society are staging a double bill on that portentous day consisting of "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" and "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard." The connection of Apple Orchards and marital obligations is beyond our limited comprehension, but that too will be cleared up on the 28th.

Anthony Hope is the author of the story which is for the first time being dramatized by the Trinity historicists. We have pleasing recollections of his "Prisoners of Zenda" and "The Houseboat on the Styx," and so are anxiously awaiting this original dramatization of "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard."

In Jack Davidson's play the magnificent poet-philosopher adored by beautiful women. He is on his part, able to see nothing to attract him in the philosopher. "They are a bore to him, which must be borne more or less graciously, but he never in his eyes attracted."

Miss Margaret Robertson gives an original and amusing portrayal of a love-lorn flapper enraptured by this sophisticated dreamer so oblivious to her manifold charms.

The part of Mrs. Talbot, a difficult role of a woman of thirty-five, is admirably portrayed by Miss Marjorie Campbell, who assumes this additional 20 years with an amazing nonchalance. Does our philosopher succumb to woman's wiles or is he still able to stay downtown for dinner without explaining that he was "unavoidably detained on business?" Frankly, we don't know. It is being kept a secret until the 28th.

MED. AT-HOME

IS OVER-SOLD

Arrangements For Handling Crowd To Be Made

Following the announcement in Friday's Varsity that advance tickets for the Home at Home show on Wednesday evening were low and far-between, the rush for the remaining postcards was so great that before the subscription list could be closed the house was far oversold. The committee greatly regret that the ticket sale should have gotten temporarily beyond control, but emergency measures have been taken to cope with the situation and on Wednesday evening guests should suffer no inconvenience. Meanwhile, those in charge would consider it a great favour if ticket holders, unable to attend, would notify any of the committee before Tuesday morning, when the purchase price will be gratefully refunded.

Every available inch of floor-space will be devoted to dancing even at a sacrifice of some of the decorative arrangements. The furnishings of the lounges will be rearranged to provide additional sitting-out corners and the large balcony will provide six several hundred to rest in comfort while missing nothing of the music or colourful scene below. Final and detailed instructions will appear in Wednesday's Varsity and should be consulted and closely followed. Meanwhile, bear in mind that guests will arrive by the new eastern entrance in Leader Lane. Gentlemen will check on the main floor, the ladies proceeding directly to the guest-chambers at their disposal on the 16th floor. This courtesy is necessary because of the large number to be handled; the downstairs check-room is merely supplemented to the regular accommodation on the 17th floor, while gentlemen will still find dressing-rooms for their use prior to meeting their partners, who come from the floor below by a private staircase, directly into the main lounge. At 4.45 guests will enter the great gold and ivory ball-room, the patronesses having kindly consented to receive at this hour. The orchestra will be playing for the benefit of those who desire to dance at once.

In any case dance number one of the following programme will commence at 9 sharp. In this way only will it be possible to complete the first half of the programme in time to allow supper to be served promptly at eleven. All will sit down together, and the special attractions during supper will be presented simultaneously in the Mezzanine and Pompeian Room, each act being repeated as often as necessary to ensure all witnessing it. Following supper dancing will continue until 2 a.m. The programme:

1. Fox trot.
  2. Fox trot.
  3. Moon waltz.
  4. Fox trot.
  5. Moon waltz.
  6. Fox trot.
  7. One step.
  8. Moon waltz.
  9. Fox trot.
  10. Fox trot.
  11. Moon waltz.
  12. Fox trot.
  13. One step.
  14. Fox trot.
  15. Moon waltz.
  16. Fox trot.
  17. Moon waltz.
- Extra fox trots as required. Dances No. 5, 8, 9, 11, 13 are special extra features and should be reserved. Dances No. 3, 4, 15, 17 present special attractions and should be saved by guests, if convenient.

Applied Science

"School" men! Turn up your diaries and, while it is fresh in your mind, mark February the 6th as a night you cannot afford to miss, for on that date there is to be held in the Hart House Lecture Room, the second meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, to be arranged, managed, and run entirely by the students.

It is believed that the Faculty of Science of Toronto University is the innovator of a meeting of this class in Canada. The first was held in Hart House on November 28, 1921 and proved such a success in numbers, enthusiasm and the quality of the address that the second meeting, which is expected to far surpass the first, has been fully warranted.

Both the Toronto Branch and Headquarters of the Engineering Institute, and many of the Faculty professors are co-operating and giving the students' executive every encouragement in the promotion of the meeting.

A number of graduate engineers and professors will be on hand as previously to answer questions, keep discussion on the right track and offer comments. As the meeting is primarily designed for you, come prepared to derive the most out of it, and depart feeling you have attained your purpose.

Well, adieu for the present, but once again, February the sixth at eight o'clock.

S.P.S. DEBATING CLUB

There will be a debate between the Third and Fourth Years on Thursday, January 26, at 7.30 sharp in the Lecture Room, Hart House, upon the subject, "Resolved that a broader education may be obtained at a small university than at a large one."

Immediately after the debate Professor Greaves will meet the Third and Fourth Year Group in "Public Speaking." Come prepared to read as for the previous lectures. This meeting is an open meeting and a good attendance is requested.

NOTICE

Members of the Lacrosse Club are reminded that nominations of officers for 1922 must be handed over to the office of the Secretary of the Athletic Association, not later than 5 p.m. to-night. Nominations must be members of the Athletic Association in good standing, and in their Second, or a higher year.

Skating Party at Victoria College Rink Tuesday, January 24. Meet at Annex Hall at 7.30 p.m. All members and ex-members of '21 are expected to join in the party.

ANGLICANS!

The United Anglican Club will hold their next dance on Wednesday, January 25th, at 8.15 p.m., in St. Luke's Parish Hall, corner St. Vincent and St. Joseph Streets. 35 cents.

Please show registration cards.

town may either build a new virgin soil or make the best of some long established "hodge-podge" like Toronto. Any one approaching this profession must primarily be a hinged towards the town as the physics can or surgeons toward the individual. It is evident from the study of such places as Washington and Prince Rupert, planned in mass, that progress in this science is as yet limited. For while there was little or no coherent idea in the layout of ancient and medieval cities its prototype of today shows no very great advance. In conclusion the lecturer spoke of the city of to-day clomping it to a spider web like which it grew from some small central point and emphasized the necessity of careful study of its needs, and natural advantages in laying it out to eliminate congestion.

Following this Mr. Dunlop, of the University Extension Department, led a discussion on the ideal short course, and many were the opinions expressed. Prominent among the speakers on this regard were Dr. McKay of Oshawa, Mr. Joseph Dixon, Dr. Britain, Mr. Lee, Professor Tomlinson, Mr. Conacher and Mr. O'Brien, a pioneer in the work of Town-Planning. All agreed that the course had been entertaining and valuable but that one hour was rather a short time in which to properly expound the rather extensive subjects of the course. Most of the speakers felt that the students could stand four lectures of one and a quarter to one and a half hours a day for three weeks, but some felt that three subjects were all that could properly be assimilated in one week.

Another speaker, Mr. Conacher, felt that it would be a great improvement if the elementary subjects were divided from those of a more advanced nature, thus a student could attend the two parts in two consecutive years if he could not spare the time to do it all in one. A suggestion of practical nature was advanced to the effect that Civics be taught generally through the University, thus it would gradually sift through the teachers down as far as the kindergartens and consequently the need of the town would become generally known to the public.

At 9.30 the meeting adjourned amid votes of thanks and cheers and all present felt that this evening had been a most valuable conclusion of an extremely valuable course.

KEEP UP OUR PAST REPUTATION. Don't forget the Club Skating Party Monday evening. Meet 7.30 p.m. at Women's Union.

DENTANTIC TICKETS IN GREAT DEMAND

One Dent or Girl Must Miss Famous Stunt Night

Poking our heads through the door of the Hya Yaka Room yesterday morning for the old minute's chat with the inmates we were greeted not with the usual cheery yelp of recognition but with an ominous "ssshhh."

"Whuzzamatter," we asked unconsciously forgetting our New Year's Resolution never to appear surprised at a great man has said: "Great men are never surprised, and we are strong on the conviction stuff."

"Thirty-nine, forty, forty-one—Shut up or get out," said a voice politely. We decided to shut up and investigate. "Sixty-six, sixty-seven, that's right, they are all there, Joe," said the police man pleasantly, and turning to me in an explanatory manner, "merely counting the DENTANTIC TICKETS," said he sweetly.

Then his handsome face clouded and a look of pain crossed his features. "And do you know," said he, "that, as there are 834 Dents enrolled and only 1,667 tickets in Convocation Hall, some poor unfortunate person will only be able to get one seat and either he or his girl will have to stand."

Hastily thrusting our watch and a Hart House meal ticket into his hands as security till we could raise $1.50 each, we were sure that it wouldn't be our girl that would have to stand through three hours of the most entrancingly interesting series of vaudeville acts ever placed before a Toronto audience.

Dear reader, will you be the unfortunate go? Will you be the victim of the fact that there is one seat lacking in Convocation Hall? Will your girl have to stand up through the entire performance? NO. Not if you hurry! Garrett Cameron and Joe Boyd can still see that your piece of mind is secured but you'll have to hurry.

College of Education held a very enjoyable skating party at the Stadium last Wednesday night, followed by a social hour at U.T.S. A large crowd of students and friends attended, making the affair a big success.

STUDENTS HEAR WELL-KNOWN WAR CORRESPONDENT

Sir Philip Gibbs' Speech Fills Lecture Room With Enthusiastic Audience

The Lecture Room at Hart House was filled to capacity when a splendid address was given by that well-known war correspondent, Sir Philip Gibbs. The only regrettable aspect of it was that the speaker, who was accompanied by his wife, had to leave the hall after only a few minutes, which was far too short.

Mr. Bickersteth, the Warden of Hart House, introduced Sir Philip, stating that he was an old friend, having known each other at the front.

As Sir Philip has just returned from Russia, and as the state of that country is one of which we have very little information, it was natural that Russia should be the topic.

"Russia holds the key to the problems of peace and economy of the world," stated the speaker. "She holds the key to peace on account of her huge standing army—now numbering four times that number, so this is no small menace to the minor countries of Europe." She holds the key to the economic situation on account of the quantity of goods she formerly imported and might import now.

Sir Philip was sent to Russia by the Russian Relief Fund Committee together with as much information as he could, on the prevalent conditions. Many people in England had been incredulous as to the reports of the famine, and more definite and reliable information was needed.

On crossing the frontier he passed herds of people, fleeing from the famine-stricken Volga regions; for two thousand miles he passed them day and night, herded wretchedly together in any kind of cars. Some of them had been driven to their deaths by the famine, and more definite and reliable information was needed.

In the Volga valley, Sir Philip visited the peasants' homes. "Honestly, gentlemen," he said, "the people were just waiting for something to happen, and that was death." Food did not exist. Some had bowls of leaves, grass or bark. Some ate clay only to give them a satisfaction of swallowing for the results were far worse than if they had not eaten at all. There was not even hope of relief.

Whole villages were left to starve to death. In another district, where there was a surplus of grain, the people had, at the time of Sir Philip's visit, 19,000 pigs, sufficient for five weeks. The five weeks have now passed.

Although many people in this and other countries are unhelpfully giving money, and others are heroically risking their lives in the famine areas, there is little prospect of some living until the next harvest.

Regarding the general economic situation, the speaker asserted that the whole machinery of civilization had collapsed. The transportation facilities, which are as good as non-existent, are a hindrance to civilization, were extraordinarily poor. Whereas there were, previous to the revolution, seven thousand locomotives and nearly two hundred thousand cars, the revolution of Petrograd has dropped from one million to seven hundred thousand.

Communism had been literally forced upon the Russian people by Lenin. Out of a hundred and fifty millions of people in Russia, it has been openly approved of and aided by only some two hundred thousand. Lenin has collected all the property that the state owned, and that the state would allocate to each individual equal amounts of food, clothing and other necessities. The result was that the peasant under-owed his field, which was partly the cause of the famine. Lenin saw the breakdown of the system, and realized that if it were not changed it would result in famine and disaster.

For a twenty pound English note Sir Philip received a huge parcel of money, which became a millionaires for the first and last time in his life. His total disbursements in Russia sound like a statement of the budget, for they amounted to forty-two million roubles. The wage of an engine driver or the president of a university was slightly more than the amount that would purchase a pound of tea. Obviously they do not live on this but live as best they can by barter.

Whatever clothes a man has in Russia are those he had before the revolution, and it is the same with the women. There has been no replacing of stocks. In all Russia not a piece of soap is to be found.

The speaker summed up by saying that Russia is down and out; no civilization exists although there is the empty shell of one. The rest of the world realizes this and the Russian people are being occupied. "Great Britain, the United States, France and Germany will soon be called to combine to help this country, where, in spite of devastation and anarchy, there are large resources in practically every line."

HONOUR SCIENCE

HART HOUSE LIBRARY IS CATALOGUED BY EXPERT

Dewey Decimal Classification System Separates Books Into Ten Classes

During the holidays an expert catalogue from one of the city libraries has been working on the Hart House Library. The books are arranged on the shelves according to the Dewey Decimal Classification System, which separates all books into ten classes with numbers as follows: 000-099-General Works, Encyclopedias, 100-199-Philosophy, Psychology, Ethics, etc., 200-299-Religion, 300-399-Sociology, Government, Economics, Law, Education, 400-499-Language, 500-599-Science, 600-699-Medical Arts, Medicine, 700-799-Fine Arts and Sports, 800-899-Literature, Poetry-Drama-Standard Fiction, 900-999-History Biographies.

These divisions are divided into a number of small groups and are the parts of the larger classification headings.

The modern novels are grouped alphabetically in order of the authors' names. The Biographies are also arranged according to the names of those written about. A card catalogue is being prepared and will be introduced in several days.

The question of smoking being permitted has not been settled yet. In the meantime as much information as possible is being sought. Many think that the Library would become too much of a lounge room for those who do not read if smoking were introduced. Again some damage might be done to the upholstery.

NEW ARTIST MAKES A GOOD IMPRESSION

Max Mellor Well Received at Hart House Musicales

A new artist was introduced to the members of Hart House yesterday in the person of Max Mellor, a brilliant pupil of Mr. Vigh Kuhl of the Toronto Conservatory. Mr. Mellor was very well received by the large audience which had assembled to hear him. The programme offered was both interesting and ambitious. It was given in the form of a climax as it were, since the most dramatic and most difficult number was left till last.

Mr. Mellor opened the recital with a Cavotte by Grieg. It was a very effective introduction by delicate means and incidentally there may be mentioned the dainty staccato for the left hand, which was very much admired. Mr. Mellor gave the "Turkish March" in a minor by Mozart. This number, which had not been played at one of these recitals, was very well received, and was given a warm reception. Mr. Mellor concentrated on pure tone at all times and even contrived to give the most brilliant passages a good, round quality. The rapid scale work for the right hand was almost technically perfect.

The Gluck Saint Sacns Carriers in A-flat major, "Alceste," was the next number. While its variations were beautiful and interesting, its arrangement seemed decidedly choppy. The changes were made in a rather startling abruptness for which one was not prepared. However, Mr. Mellor's interpretation was artistic and showed a delightful purity. Of entirely different style was the Chopin Fantasia Impromptu in E sharp minor, which followed. It was played with great force and made a splendid impression.

Mr. Mellor kept his best number till last. The audience was very agreeably surprised when the "Canonically" by Paganini was announced. It may be stated here that this piece is seldom attempted by one so young, but Mr. Mellor acquitted himself with great credit. The technical difficulties presented by this number were successfully surmounted, and especially fluent were the trills for the right hand. Mr. Mellor possesses great possibilities as a concert pianist, and his dramatic insight is excellent. The audience profited upon him to respond to an encore. He played the Chopin "Revolutionary Etude" and concluded another very successful recital.

There will be an important meeting of the Women's Staff of THE VARSITY to-morrow (Thursday) at 4 o'clock in Room 32, Main Building. It is imperative that every woman on the Staff be present.

At a recent meeting of the Queen's Hall Discipline Committee a staff was present, and a motion was made at a time when the committee was late to leave the night of the Arts Ball. Her excuse was that "her escort could not find his spats!"

THE THREE ARTS CLUB

On Friday, January 27, the Three Arts Club will meet at the Women's Staff at 4 p.m. Miss Marion Long will speak on Canadian Art, carrying on the study from the last lecture by Mr. Jeffries, on the "History of Art in Canada." Tea will be served at the conclusion of the address. The members are urged to be present promptly at 4 o'clock in order that a time may be set, convenient to all, for the next meeting, which will take the form of a visit to the studio of one of our prominent Toronto artists.

MEDICAL AT-HOME WILL BE AT KING EDWARD TO-NIGHT

Committee Gives Final Notice Regarding Great Formal Occasion

The committee in charge of the Medical Society At Home in the King Edward To-night, while asking the indulgence of all in the matter of overcrowding, has no apologies to offer. With tickets on sale exclusively to Meds for 5 days, the number of those who came to the event was not in sight and to protect the Society it was necessary to push the sale in outside quarters. Other facilities recognized the matter of late and the tickets with a speed we have come to associate only with the Hart House Masquerade.

Consequently, when the objective was reached some days ago, so many Meds were only just awakening to the situation that it was absolutely necessary to increase the number. Basis on, many who desired the committee in what appeared to be a crisis now find themselves on the outside of what promises to be the largest formal dance of the present day history of the University.

A few salient features of to-night's festivities are:

1. Patronesses—Lady Falconer, Lady Eaton, Mrs. Alexander Primrose, Mrs. J. R. MacLeod, Mrs. C. L. Starr, Mrs. G. C. Clark, and Mrs. R. B. Brown.
2. Tickets sold, 402 (804 persons).—A bona fide offer of $5.50 for every ticket returned to the committee before 4 p.m.
3. No flowers.
4. Parking space for 100 cars within a block; on King, Scott, Toronto and Victoria (West side) corners.
5. Arrive by new eastern entrance in Leader Lane. Ladies may proceed direct to retiring rooms on sixteenth floor while gentlemen are parking cars. No necessity to wait for escort, pages will show the way, no confusion about tickets.
6. Reception in check-room on main floor. Dressing-rooms on seventeenth floor. Pages in attendance at all points to direct guests.
7. Entrance to sixteenth floor available for use of ladies. Maids in attendance, private stairs to lounges of seventeenth floor, where escorts will be waiting.
8. Reception by patronesses at 8.15, during which an extra Fox Trot will be played.
9. Dance number one at 9.15 p.m. sharp.
10. Special music by J. Wilson Jardine in keeping with the nine big special dances, featured by unique electrical effects, many of them elaborated by the committee particularly on this occasion.
11. Supper in the Pompeian Room and Mezzanine at 11 p.m. sharp. One sitting only. Elevator service for one hundred cars, and in order to afford an opportunity for every one to attend, they will be held in Convocation Hall in the evening.
12. Special supper attractions in both Mezzanine and Pompeian Room. Same features for all, no matter where seated.
13. Dancing until 2 a.m. Guests may leave either entrance, Leader Lane or Victoria Street.

LIBRARY COMMITTEE OF HART HOUSE APPOINTS CURATOR

Mr. N. P. H. Brown has been appointed curator of the Hart House Library by the Library Committee. His duties will be to see that books are put back in their right places, to carry out the necessary cataloguing of new books, and generally to superintend the library. It is hoped that such an appointment will increase the general efficiency of the library. Mr. Brown is a first year Arts student and is Dramatic Editor of THE VARSITY.

GRADUATES OF NOTE

Sir William Meredith

Sir William Meredith is of a very distinguished family and at the present time has one brother who is president of the Bank of Montreal and a Governor of McGill, and another who is Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas. His curious example of history repeating itself was mentioned, at the time when Sir William Meredith was conferred the Degree of an Honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of Toronto, was conferred on him by the University of Toronto. He was made a "Sir" in 1890 by Queen Victoria and in 1912 was raised to the office of Chief Justice of Ontario, which position he still retains.

His career in law and politics has been marked by amazing strides towards success. From City Solicitor and Benchers of the University, Sir William first obtained a seat in the government in 1875 and held the opposition in 1879. While in the House, his speech mastery of details, at the same time holding a comprehensive view of the matter in hand, was of great astonishment even to his intimate friend. He was ever a friend of the working class, and during his political life he passed many acts which have been of untold benefit to the toiling thousands, such as the Workmen's Compensation for Injury Act. The high esteem in which he was venerated by his colleagues is well shown by the fact that he was appointed as sole investigator to inquire into the causes of the failure of the Farmers' Bank in 1911.

During that time he was in need of a grant from the government, it is quite well known that Sir William's influence with the Prime Minister had much to do with obtaining the money.

Perhaps the most honourable periods in Sir William Meredith's life are at Convocation, when he was elected Chancellor of the University. He confers the various degrees on the graduates. For twenty-two years now he has held this honour, and during that time he has conferred at least ten thousand degrees.

PROSPECTS FOR ENGLAND'S FUTURE APPEAR BRIGHT

Sir Philip Gibbs is Essentially Optimistic in His Views of the Future

Representatives of THE VARSITY, Students' Council, Faculties, Varsity Veterans, and other organizations, had the good fortune, through the kindness of Mr. Bickersteth, to meet Sir Philip Gibbs in Hart House after his lecture Monday evening.

The meeting was of the pleasant informal type which put every one at his ease and encouraged conversation with the noted correspondent. Questions dealt with phases of the Russian situation, the League of Nations and general economic conditions.

Sir Philip mentioned the speech made by Lenin on October 17 last in which he had added that his system had failed and that if matters were not righted the Russian people would end by hanging the lot of them and would make a very good example of them. In his speech he said that they were working under great difficulties since they were forced to perform most of their work at night, they lack pencils, paper and text-books and are compelled to accomplish what they do by oral methods.

He said that the small communes in Russia were in many cases handled by honest men and that business could be done with these people with a fair degree of safety.

Speaking of France he said that Frenchmen were not sure that they were free from the German menace as yet, and according to Sir Philip, Germany may yet come back with all her force, if opinion in Europe does not change.

The cancellation of war debts is inevitable if the present economic stress is to be relieved.

When the meeting broke up those fortunate enough to be present had heard some of the most interesting conditions than months of wading through newspapers could ever give them.

SCIENTISTS AND HISTORIANS MEET

Alumni Federation Will Hold a Series of Four Lectures

Topics of absorbing interest will be discussed in the coming series of lectures to be delivered under the auspices of the Alumni Federation, University of Toronto. The lectures will be open to the general public and in order to afford an opportunity for every one to attend, they will be held in Convocation Hall in the evening.

The first lecture will be delivered on January 31 by Professor George M. Wrong. His subject will be, "The Washington Conference." Professor Wrong has a long and distinguished career, and his address will be well worth hearing. He will discuss the place of this epoch-making conference in history, why it was assembled, the obstacles it met which it has accomplished; its probable effect on the future of the world.

On February 7, Principal Maurice H. Arnold will speak on "The Art of Lewis Carroll," and a week later Sir Robert Falconer will deliver an address on "Academic Freedom." The fourth lecture will be held the following week, when Brigadier-General C. H. Mitchell will discuss the "Engineering Activities in the War." This lecture will be an elaboration of the following questions—the place of the engineer in the development of the world—what important works are being undertaken, and why they are being undertaken.

"PROF." ALFRED WILLIAMS, FIRST GYM INSTRUCTOR AT VARSITY, DIES ON MONDAY

Had Wide Athletic Experience in The British Army, But For The Last Few Years Has Not Been Actively Engaged In Athletic Instruction

"Prof." Williams was the extremely well-known Varsity man, "Prof." Williams, who was a graduate to another on Monday. He was "Prof." or "Casey" to everyone at the University interested in Athletics during the last twenty five years. Otherwise he was Alfred Williams, former gymnastic instructor in the British Army and the first gymnastic instructor at Varsity. He was appointed to that post when the old Students' Union and gymnasium was opened nearly 30 years ago.

"Prof." for a few years had not been actively engaged in athletic instruction. Last Summer he had a very severe illness, the effect of chronic bronchitis, and this year he was back at his work of instructing the fencing candidates. Even this was too much for him in his weakened condition and a short time ago he was sent to the General Hospital, where pneumonia set in and on Monday he passed away. At the bedside were his two sons, Miss Elvira Williams and Dr. Barton, of the University.

Harold, his only son, was killed in France, while serving with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, while Mrs. Williams died shortly after the news of her son's death reached Toronto.

General, good hearted and enthusiastic about the Varsity man, "Prof." Williams, was exceedingly popular among all the students during the many years he worked in the gym. At the outset he not only gave gymnastic instruction but he looked after the training and conditioning of the team. Not content with this he had boxing and fencing classes, and also taught single stick exercises and bayonet and sword fighting. There was not a branch of indoor athletics at which he was not an expert and he had the happy faculty of being able to impart instruction and secured more than ordinary results.

The gymnastic exhibitions which he gave in the old gym were always popular with the participants and attracted large numbers of spectators. In fencing there was every body, and he was again and again his pupils captured the championships for Varsity.

The funeral will take place to-day, with a private service at 1.30 p.m. at the home of his brother-in-law, Lieut.-Col. S. T. Higgins, 36 Gurnock Avenue. The public service will be at Knox Church at 2 p.m. and interment at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The "Star," referring to the death of "Prof." Williams, said: "The death of Alfred (Casey) Williams, removes one of the best-known and one of the most popular men in sporting circles at the University. He was known to all college men, was physical instructor at the University of Toronto for over 20 years, and was a prime factor with everybody. Thousands of students have passed through his hands and every one of them admired and respected him."

Lester's death in 1912 signified the close of perhaps the most outstanding career that modern medicine has been influenced by, considering how limited the scope of surgery would be at the time.

Dr. Galle was thanked by Mr. Fleming, President of the Society after which the meeting took the form of a social, consisting of humorous sketches by Mr. Chas. Dunne and a solo by Mr. A. Duggan.

The Medical Orchestra brightened up the dull spots while a generous supply of iced beverages kept the meeting to a close.

TRAFFIC IN HART HOUSE MOVES FROM SOUTH-EAST

Tuck Shop Abandons Its Quarters Next to Tonsorial Parlours

As has no doubt been observed, the Tuck Shop has abandoned its former quarters next the tonsorial parlours, and is now stationed near the check-room. The lure of the new habitat with its beautiful shelving and long glass covered counter, permitting an extensive and attractive display of delicacies, has already increased the daily sales.

Mr. Rumsey said the great disadvantage of the old location was the lack of storage room, resulting in an S.R.O. reply when many articles were called for. Now a spacious room, entirely devoted to storage, obviates this trade handicap. Except that a more extensive stock is now carried, no new innovations are contemplated immediately, but by fall it is expected that an electrically-operated tea and coffee urn will be installed, supplemented by the sale of sandwiches and small pies.

A summary of sales during the Fall term may be interesting if not astounding: 47,791 chocolate bars, 2,729 bars of gum, 2,472 bottles of pop, 431 pounds of biscuits and 4,582 half-pints of milk went to increase the earnings of Hart House habitude. In addition, the small total of 199,220 Player's cigarettes alone went up in smoke.

Owing to unavoidable trouble at the Press, "Goblin" will not appear to-day, but will be on sale at 9 a.m. Thursday in all Faculties.

THE CORRESPONDENCE COLUMN

We have been the recipient, during the last week, of a large number of letters from various members of the undergraduate body regarding "Evolution," "Theology vs. Science," "Canadianism," our Editorial policy, and, more recently, regarding the non-appearance of letters already submitted. When we say that at the present moment we have twelve letters, each worthy of being printed and altogether sufficient to fill the whole front page of THE VARSITY, we believe that the authors will not only overlook the non-appearance of their letters but will, perhaps, be able to sympathize with us in our predicament.

From "W. C. M. S." we receive the request that we print in THE VARSITY "the criterion by which you select submitted letters for publication." Replying, we might say that all letters must be O.K'd by us before they can appear. Once that is done there is nothing to stop their being published except a possible and very frequent shortage of space, in which case the Local Editor in charge of each issue has always had instructions to give everything preference before correspondence. This means, mainly to controversial letters, which form approximately 75 per cent. of the whole, and in the case of correspondence correct errors in the paper, etc., the rule does not apply. We are not instructed to consult any one with regard to correspondence, nor do we do so, but as our appointment is made by the undergraduate body, through their representatives on the Joint Executive, we try always to exercise discretion in controlling the policy of the paper, realizing that our retention of that control depends on the satisfactory filling of the position. We know that we were to publish all of the suitable correspondence received it would reduce the news space in the paper by approximately two columns per issue and in addition to the fact that this would mean criticism from people whose notices and write-ups are not featured we feel quite sure it would be condemned by the undergraduate body and their representatives. So our criterion is, that the letter must be bona fide, be in the name of the author and finally, be reasonably courteous. Having these features and the space in the paper the letter will appear. We wish to thank "Areopagitica" for his courteously expressed condemnation of two letters, which appeared in our last issue, in reply to "Four Square." He will understand why his letter does not appear in this issue and probably will not appear in the future after reading the foregoing paragraph and when we are able to reproduce it in full would require over two columns of the paper. In reply we would point out that the same issue that carried "Four Square's" letter also carried a request that he would visit this office when it was hoped that the non-appearance of his articles might be dealt with. Incidentally, we might say, that "Four Square" would have been treated with every courtesy despite his insinuation that we are merely a figurehead controlled by "big interests" on the staff. We believe that "Four Square's" letter was prompted more by lack of knowledge of how THE VARSITY is administered than true facts and a few minutes' quiet discussion would have cleared away mutual misunderstandings.

As regards Mr. Williams' letter in Monday's issue we would like it to be understood that while Mr. Williams is, and for the past three years, has been a valued and energetic member of the staff, in this particular instance he was hearing the cudgels only for the Varsity Veterans Association and for his personal feelings as regards the use of the term "Four Square." We felt that we had done our part when we invited "Four Square" to call and discuss his criticisms. As a student he is entitled to criticize, but we would point out that a personal interview is more direct than the correspondence column.

"Four Square's" remarks regarding the GOBLIN and Mr. Hastings are really no intimate concern of ours. We plead guilty to printing articles regarding the GOBLIN in our news columns for which, so far as we know, no charge is made. At the same time we would corroborate GOBLIN's statement that there have been occasions when lack of news forced us to beg for a story about the magazine to fill our columns. And so far as advertising is concerned, every one who is registered at the University knows of the GOBLIN, and outside of the University his circulation is a great deal larger than our own, so the advertising service we give is not great. Mr. Cowan is a registered student of the University and is therefore entitled to reply to any charges made against his paper, through the columns of THE VARSITY. His reply does not champion any other cause.

Mr. Hastings, in this issue, makes reply to "Four Square's" remarks regarding advertising.

Anything in connection with the Business Administration is in his charge. He handles the advertising campaign of the VARSITY and each night prior to an issue sends his advertising "dummy" down to the Press Room. The space not occupied by advertising is up to us to fill, striving always to give service to every one regardless of who they are or what organization they belong to. If we fail it is not wilfully and any suggestions that would lead to an improvement in the paper are ever welcome. There is no "Private—Keep Out" sign on our door.

Correspondence

Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:
Permit me the use of a few lines in the correspondence column in reply to "Four Square."

The GOBLIN staff pays Mr. Hastings, or to be more particular, the Joint Executive of the Students' Administrative Councils, regular space rates for its advertising in the columns of THE VARSITY. The advertising of GOBLIN, to date, has been paid and covers display advertising and readers. The same applies to the Varsity Veterans. If "Four Square" will call or forward his address to the business office the latest rate card covering such advertising will be forwarded to him by return mail.

THE VARSITY is the Undergraduate Newspaper. Its business policy is entirely open to enquiry and information will be furnished to any student in the University who calls at the office or directs a communication to the Business Manager. It is preferable that the student desiring information should seek it personally rather than at long range through the correspondence columns and over a pay-syn. It is then and then only that the Business Staff is in a position to judge if such queries are bona fide or merely put forth for the sake of stirring up controversy.

Fred C. Hastings.

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Recently in your column letters have appeared concerning a Darwin's "Origin of Species" and "Descent of Man." Professor Watson's address have seemed to furnish the spark to kindle anew an old fire. There is no Huxley to-day to champion the cause of Science, but the evident remedy seems to be to get Ottawa to rectify it. I do not imagine Great Britain would offer any objections. The majority of Canadians are wholly British in origin and a large proportion have come directly from the British Isles. We may not be as many as those of other origins, but we must not be ignored. What more do we desire, than to be of British nationality, in common with the citizens of New Zealand, Australia and other countries of the British Empire. If we hold to that we do not lose any prestige in the eyes of the world but they will be more impressed by the solidity and strength of the British Empire. To call oneself British in foreign countries carries more weight than to call oneself Canadian or Welsh.

England does not monopolize the word British, of which some seem to be afraid. England is not even a political entity, she does not even dominate the British Government. What better evidence of her disinterestedness than the facts that the British Prime Minister is a Welshman, the government leader a Scotch-Canadian, the Irish Secretary a Canadian, the head of the navy an Irishman, the head of the army a Scot. The English do not have any question of, or desire to, hold aloof. We emerged from the struggle a young British nation, a lion cub come to maturity. We have all the status we need to take our place in the British Empire. The treaty that relieves Canada from necessary acquiescence gives her the opportunity of showing that her British training is not lost, that she still has the British spirit of 1914.

Other countries need not have been surprised that we took our place beside the mother country in 1914. The national spirit that took us overseas was British, nothing else. We were of the same blood, there was no question of, or desire to, hold aloof. We emerged from the struggle a young British nation, a lion cub come to maturity. We have all the status we need to take our place in the British Empire. The treaty that relieves Canada from necessary acquiescence gives her the opportunity of showing that her British training is not lost, that she still has the British spirit of 1914.

A Britisher

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Sir:
May I call attention to an error in your report of Professor Creighton's lecture published in Friday's issue. According to this report Professor Creighton compared the human mind to an empty vessel, ready to be filled with ideas, as one would drop apples into a basket. I am sure Professor Creighton would be extremely surprised to learn that he had been understood as making any such comparison as representing his own views. As every student of Locke is well aware, the simile of the empty vessel was used in expounding the theory of knowledge set forth in the "Essay on the Human Understanding," and the Philosophy of the Eighteenth Century, which was so deeply influenced by Locke's teaching. The comparison of the human mind to an empty basket, into which one drops apples, is about as far removed as it will be from the views entertained by Professor Creighton himself. He was giving Locke's views, not his own.

Very truly yours, F. TRACY.

ANGELIC CLUB HOLDS SKATING PARTY

The January meeting of the Women's Anglican Club took the form of a skating party at Varsity Rink on Monday last. The members of Club, their friends, and a large number of Wycliffe students, were present, as well as representatives from other faculties. Although the wind was very cold several hours of delightful skating were enjoyed.

Mrs. Hallam, the Honorary President of the Club, had very kindly put her home at the disposal of the members so that, shortly before ten o'clock, the skating stopped and the place changed its place of merriment. The guests were received by Mrs. Hallam most cordially and coffee and other good things were served. Laughter and singing were then in order and as the party broke up everyone said it had been a great success and expressed their gratitude to Mrs. Hallam for her kindness.

The Women's Press Club Theatre Party, which was arranged for Saturday afternoon, has been postponed owing to the Varsity-McGill game.

Sir:
To judge from a few recent paragraphs in certain Toronto papers, including THE VARSITY, some people seem to be very concerned about Canadian nationality. It seems to a loyal Britisher to be "much ado about nothing." If there is just a legal difficulty about a Canadian calling himself a Canadian

Gordon Sparing of Goblin Fame Directs Trinity Dramatics

You, with thousands of others have laughed at Gordon Sparing's striking cartoons and designs in Goblin and have doubtless admired the splendid style and technique which made possible his "Coles Phillips" cover design of last April's issue. Now we find this versatile artist essaying and with magnificent success, the directing and scene-painting of Trinity's first Hart House dramatic production.

The scene in which "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" is produced is of an original and unique nature seldom before attempted upon any stage, while the special lighting in "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard," offers some novel effects and surprises.

Mr. Dixon Wagner, undoubtedly one of the best known amateur actors in Canada to-day is giving tremendous aid to his old Alma Mater by lending a whole-hearted co-operation which has developed the Trinity production to a standard seldom seen upon the Amateur stage.

The advance sale of tickets under the hustling management of Mr. H. J. E. Abbott has to date been so unprecedentedly large that those desiring tickets would be well advised to call up Hart House in the near future in order to make the necessary reservations for either the afternoon or evening of January 28th, the date set for the presentation of the two plays.

Owing to the fact that the King Edward Hotel made a mistake in their bookings the 42nd Annual Dental At-Home date had to be changed back to February 17th.

VARSITY RINK

Were you at the Varsity Rink Monday night? Jack Frost was seeing snakes and I saw their shadows. My foot caught on one of these consequently I let go of my fair partner's arm and got down to examine it more closely. On closer inspection it appeared to be a miniature Colorado Canyon.

Yesterday, since I still felt disturbed in mind on account of the mysterious happenings of the night before I decided to have an interview with Mr. Ross Workman. This worthy gentleman probably because he associates with the noble University, sought a scientific explanation for everything. On very cold nights the ice contracts thus causing long fissures, but on warm nights it will often expand resulting in ice bubbles. The rink is equipped with a special scraper to level these down.

SCHOOL DANCE

The sale of tickets will CEASE at five p.m. to-night. After this time the committee will dispose of any remaining tickets to those on the waiting list. Details of the programme, etc., will be announced Friday.

Stan. Bell of S.P.S. Puts the Shot Distance of 42 ft. 9 ins.

SCHOOL OUT IN FRONT

One of the most successful meets in the annals of track history was held in Hart House on Monday, January 23. In the three events which were staged two records were broken and one record tied. Stan. Bell, of S.P.S., anxious to finish the business and get back to supper, threw the 12 lb. shot 42 ft. 9 ins., beating a previous record by nearly four feet. Another S.P.S. man—Cade of First Year—unearthed a phenomenal spirit and led the way to the lake in the half mile, lowering the record to 2:14.5 sec. Evans, of the same faculty, tied the record for the 220 yards, covering the distance in 2:14.5 sec.

The results were all follows:
220 yards—1. Evans, S.P.S., 2:14.5"
2. Gould, Med.
Curriers, S.P.S.
220 yards—1. Cade, S.P.S., 2:14.3.5"
2. McAuliffe, Pharm.
3. Sanderson, U.C.
Shot Put—1. Bell, S.P.S., 42' 9"
2. Carruthers, S.P.S.
3. Nicholson, U.C.

Next week the events on the slate will be:
1. 2 mile run.
2. Pole vault.
3. 440 yards.

School increased their lead by winning 20 points out of a possible 27. The standing at present is:

S.P.S.	34
U.C.	5
Pharmacy	3
Med.	1
Vic	1

Now, you faculties, all due respect to S.P.S., but are they going to carry off another indoor championship?

WATER POLO

The following are requested to turn out to the Swimming and Polo practices Tuesday and Friday, 5-6 p.m., and on Saturday, 12-1 p.m.

Listen, gang. When you step on the frozen surface to-night there will be four thousand stout-hearted fans sending up a silent "Battle-cry of the Blue and White" over here in Toronto. They are going to keep it up every five minutes during your struggle and you will hear three and a tiger at the last curtain when you carry off the high end of the tally. You have a bunch of hornets to down, and although it is going to take every ounce to do it, you will be on the mat with a clean bunch of sports. Now is your great opportunity. Go in and win on the strength of your honest high-class hockey that the name of Varsity may maintain its proud place. However, win or lose, we know you will have done your best and will hail you as the great lads you are. That squishy sound you just heard was a malignant rumour that we just stepped on. We have pleasure in announcing that the regular Varsity line-up is starting Mike Rodden gets a lot of funny ideas.

VIC. TOO MUCH FOR JUNIOR U.C. TEAM

Lindsay Pitched Well For Winners in 8-5 Diamond Victory

On Monday, Victoria defeated Jr. U.C. by 8-5. Lindsay pitched great ball for the winners and was well supported, especially by Marr and Mutart. Strerett, Thomson and Murdoch were prominent for the losers.

SENIOR MEDS AND U.C. PLAY 1-1 TIE GAME

Dales of Meds, Stars in Clean, Fast Hockey Match Monday

Se. U.C. and Sr. Meds clashed for the first time this season on Monday afternoon at Varsity cushions. The game was clean and fast from going to going, and full of thrills. Dales, the star defence man for Sr. Meds, dazzled U.C. by his speed; he was here and there, and everywhere when needed. Gee, for U.C., played a wonderful game in the attack.

Meds were the first to score. Duncan tallied a pretty one during the first period. The second period was a scoreless and Parks, for U.C., tied the score when he tallied in the third period. The score indicates the play.

Line-up:
Sr. U.C.—Goal, Gee; R.D., Wells; I.D., Wilson; I.W., Parks, Centre, Strachan, R.M., Woods-Embley.
Sr. Meds—Goal, Weaver; R.D., Dales; L.D., Lott; I.W., Bicknell; Centre, Wolfson; R.W., Duncan.
Forestry supplied the referee.

JR. SCHOOL DOWNED BY ST. MIKE'S

Score, 5-3

St. Mike's outplayed Jr. School at the Varsity cushion on Monday afternoon. The game produced some beautiful hockey and was close all the way. St. Mike's, however, had just an edge and as a result came out on top by a score of 5 to 3. Jr. School's 3.

VARSITY AND CENTRAL WILL MEET TOMORROW

Return Swimming Meet Takes Place at Central "Y" at 8 P.M.

To-morrow evening the Varsity swimmers go to Central Y.M.C.A. for the return meet with the Central Swimming Team. Last Friday Varsity won the Swimming Meet from Central "Y" at Hart House by a score of 42 points to 25 points. We can do it again. The meet begins at 8:15 p.m. Varsity will be represented by the following team:

TICKETS FOR WOMEN'S SECTION

Tickets for the Women's Section at the Varsity-McGill game Saturday afternoon will be sold in Room 82, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings.

DRAW MADE FOR DOUBLES CURLING

The draw has been made for the doubles competition and is given below. Players are requested to note carefully the following rules:

1. Each player must play four stones.
2. Each game shall consist of eight ends.
3. Opposing sides should arrange to play as soon as possible.
Preliminary Round:
Hobd and Oppick (vs. Hodgins and Hutchins) (vs.)

First Round

Steele and Powell (vs. winners of above)

Fasken and McInnes (vs. Ryan and Swanson) (vs.)

Sonne and Clark (vs. vs. Morrell and McIlroy)

MacKay and Urquhart (vs. vs. Phillips and Cleghorn) (vs.)

Water-Polo

To-night is the greatest game of the intercollegiate water-polo series, Dents versus School, is to be played. The evening will be an out with a game between U.C. and Meds. Meds are out for glory and hope to pull out of the series without being blanked. There will be an interesting diving competition in the intermission between the first and second games, by the leading divers of the University and city. The real interest of the evening centres on the final game deciding the intercollegiate water-polo championship. The tooth-pullers defeated School in the first last year carrying the Eckhardt Trophy home with them. It is an even game this year. The teams will line-up practically the same as last year.

The two teams, Reilly and Woods have improved for Dents, and the School defense has been greatly strengthened with the addition of Conklin and Shimbun. It will be a great game from the first whistle until the last man is ducked. Everybody out at 8:15 and cheer for their favourites.

The Varsity swimmers go down to the return match with Central at Central Y.M.C.A. to-morrow night. It will be a close match, well worth going to.

The practice hours for water-polo and swimming are from 5 to 6 Tuesdays and Fridays and Saturday from 12 to 1. The fish are requested to turn out promptly to make the best of the limited time at his disposal before the McGill meet.

Red and White Reputed to Have Several American Stars

SECONDS PLAY WESTERN

Though pleased at their unexpectedly easy victory over Queen's, the Varsity Basketball Team seemed to suffer from Saturday's strenuous play and Monday's practice lagged at times. For one thing it was late in starting and for another few of the Second Team were out.

Leon Smith gave a good exhibition of ball-handling and crashed through the opposing defence for well-earned baskets. The guards were right there with the goods all the time but the boys who were supposed to push in the ball and push up the count faltered at times and seemed to lack steam and punch.

Captain "Doug" Graham seemed to hold a strenuous practice Wednesday and with the Second's at full strength it should be a fast exhibition of the indoor sport. Both teams must get in first-rate condition for the big games at the end of the week. The Second's must down Western University, who beat O.A.C. 28-23 at Guelph, to get a struggle hold on their group, while the First's tackle McGill, always a hard team to beat in Toronto. Rumour has it that they are stronger than ever, with several American stars on their line-up. When the Blue and White and the Red and White hit their stride the fur is sure to fly, and the hardest and fastest basketball of the season will be seen by Varsity fans next Saturday evening at Hart House.

SR. U.C. WIN FIRST VICTORY OF SEASON AT BASEBALL

SR. U.C. 11—SR. DENTS 10

Sr. U.C. came to life yesterday and scored their first victory of the season at the expense of Sr. Dents. Sr. Dents got off to a good start and U.C. as usual tried to fight an uphill game, finally winning out in the last inning 11-10. The game was featured by the heavy hitting of the U.C. team and some sensational work in the field by Hanton and Reburn.

POPERINGHE—ENGLAND TORONTO

It is a happy circumstance that following closely upon the visit of Sir Philip Gidley Selous, during his stay here, expressed the opinion that the only hope for the future of Europe and the world lies in the development in the youth of all nations of a new and higher outlook, we should have the opportunity of meeting a man who has been for several years engaged in a very practical form of work that is making itself felt in the life of the Old Country. The Rev. P. B. Clayton, M.C., who was the Padre of Talbot House (better known now as "Toc H.") in Poperinghe, that club where a man might satisfy the wants, material or spiritual, of the inner man, has since the war been engaged in similar work among the ex-service men and others in England. Scattered throughout London and the Provinces are several houses which provide living accommodation and all the benefits of an up-to-date club, built on the ideals for which the original Toc H. stood.

Toc H. is now established as a club and a part of the nation-wide organization in several of the English universities, and, as a means of bringing together and cementing into a stable society men of all classes and interests, has proved a useful and a valuable asset to the country.

Those who knew Mr. Clayton remember him as a genial, genuine sort of man, a soldier and a gentleman, who in all his associations with men of every type, lived his ideals. He is to be with us in the University as the guest of the Warden of Hart House for the next few days and those of us who are interested in the future of our country will do well to take advantage of the opportunity of meeting him and not only to learn something of the work already done in the Old Country but also of discussion with one who has done things the possibility of the usefulness of such an organization here.

Only apart from this aspect of his visit, those ex-service men who knew Mr. Clayton will welcome the opportunity of renewing a valued friendship, and those who did not of forming one.

DON'T BE A GROUCH

It is the easiest thing in the world to be a grouch, in fact it comes naturally to some people. These unfortunate do not perhaps realize how they are harming themselves and others by their churlishness and pessimism. They are unwilling to take an active part in the affairs of life and they hinder others from doing so or mar their joy in what they are doing by raven-like croakings. If a grouch is persuaded to give to a charity or assist in the furtherance of any project he does it grudgingly and as a great personal favour, and if it should happen that the enterprise is unsuccessful he is the first to chortle "I told you so!" A grouch is to be regarded as a plague or a parasite. Would that we could treat him as such! Nor is he confined to any one walk of life, he is ubiquitous and acts as a grain of gravel thrown into a machine. Everywhere he goes he spreads gloom and discontent and because his sky is overcast he tries to overlook the happiness of others. There is no age limit for grouchiness. Some people show the first signs of it when they are cutting their teeth and the malady stays with them even to grey hairs. One cannot blame elderly folk, sometimes for being grouchy, they are doing by raven-like croakings. If a grouch is persuaded to give to a charity or assist in the furtherance of any project he does it grudgingly and as a great personal favour, and if it should happen that the enterprise is unsuccessful he is the first to chortle "I told you so!" A grouch is to be regarded as a plague or a parasite. Would that we could treat him as such! Nor is he confined to any one walk of life, he is ubiquitous and acts as a grain of gravel thrown into a machine. Everywhere he goes he spreads gloom and discontent and because his sky is overcast he tries to overlook the happiness of others. There is no age limit for grouchiness. Some people show the first signs of it when they are cutting their teeth and the malady stays with them even to grey hairs. One cannot blame elderly folk, sometimes for being grouchy, they are doing by raven-like croakings.

Unfortunately in any student body one finds a few grouches. Nothing pleases them and they are persistent knockers. They will leave behind no pleasant personal memories and have rendered no great public services. They are purely selfish—life begins and ends with them. It is supposed to be training his mind, forming his character and it is to be remembered that little things count, that little civilities and courtesies are easy to practice and add to the character, while small incivilities and acts of grouchiness take away. One is as easy as the other and infinitely more valuable. New Year is past but here is another resolution to add to our already sadly depleted stock, "I won't be a Grouch!"

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Richard K. Fox Challenge Cup for Intermediate Eights Champions of America, which was won by the Blue and White Junior Crew at the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen Regatta held at Buffalo last August has arrived at Hart House and is on view at Mr. Reed's Office.

This is one of the most magnificent pieces of trophy architecture in our wonderful collection and all members of Hart House are urged to take this opportunity of receiving what our crew has brought home.

Applied Science

The second smoker this session of the Civils Club was held on Wednesday evening in the East Common Room. The programme commenced at 8 o'clock with "Player's" and apples for all, these being accompanied by music from a three piece orchestra, which provided real jazz at intervals throughout the evening. Progressive euchre followed until the winner had been decided in the person of H. Wilson. Mr. Wilson received a class pennant for his prowess at the royal and ancient game. A most enjoyable evening was brought to a close with light refreshments and a few words from President "Mac" MacClintock.

One of those pleasant epiphanies that does so much to gladden life's pathway occurred in the fourth year Electrical Study Room on Thursday afternoon, the occasion being the twenty second birthday of our popular classmate, George Balderstone Fuller. In a few well-chosen words the Year President, Mr. Coulter, outlined the importance of the event, and presented to Balderstone the best wishes of the members of the year, and also several tangible tokens of our esteem. The latter included one artistic grey-and-gold cuspidor with accessories and sundry cigars of diverse size and composition, each appropriately boxed. It was evident that Mr. Fuller was quite taken by surprise, and his appreciation of the generosity of his conferees was all that could be desired.

The Civil Club Smoker Wednesday evening was voted a great success by all present. Progressive cards was the order of the evening. Apples and smokes in abundance did much to create the proper atmosphere. Lively music was supplied without stint by the orchestra.

After Mr. Wilson had been announced winner of a beautiful School pennant as award for his success at cards lunch was served and it was certainly worth waiting for. After joining in singing old familiar camp-songs the party broke up with a lusty "Toke Oike."

DENTISTRY

Don't forget that on Monday night, January 30, in Lecture Room No. 3, Dr. A. W. Lindsay, a former graduate of the R.C.D.S. and now Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry in West China Union University, will, with lantern slides give an illustrated lecture on "Dentistry in China."

In addition to the above a splendid programme, including a short, snappy debate between the Sophomores and a team representing the Freshman and Pre-dental years is arranged.

An intellectual treat is in store for all who attend. The evening is held under the auspices of the Royal Dental Society, which has become such a real live organization that any event held under its auspices is assured of success.

We just heard of a great plot which concerns nearly all the Dents. We rushed over to THE VARSITY office to reveal this wonderful idea.

With the aid of an equal number of girls, the one and only Romanelli's Orchestra the Dents are going to murder the spirit Gloom in the gold and ivory ballroom at the King Edward on the night of February 27. Don't forget the Dental Art Home is the great social event. You have only four chances in your whole college life. Don't miss this one.

Tickets are now on sale for the Dental Women Undergraduate's Dance to be held on February 11 at U.T.S. Let yours from your year representative. Price $1.50.

Another of the famous R.D.I. meetings is to be held Monday, January 30. These gatherings need no explanation. Music, vocalists, a debate between the Pre-dent-Fresh and the Sophs and a lecture by Dr. A. W. Lindsay, Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry, West China Union University.

The banquet committee are pleased with the many suggestions received to date, so if you want this banquet to be a tip-top boost it along.

The Dental Nurses are staging a Dancet on Saturday afternoon from 4 to 7 in the college halls. Tea will be served 5 p.m. Bert Till's Syncopated Orchestra will furnish the music.

Tickets from class reps.

Some twenty-five members of the American Institute of Dental Teachers, returning from their annual convention at Montreal, were guests of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons on Thursday. The convention was the second of the association to be held in Canada, the other having taken place in Toronto in 1909. The official host of the day was Dr. Morrison, of Peterboro. President of the Board of Directors of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, while Dr. McGuire, of Smeone, also a member of the Board of Directors was present. The visitors, among whom were Dr. Arthur Black, former President of the American Institute, and Dr. Coolidge, of Chicago, Dr. H. T. Smith, of Cincinnati, and Dr. Wright, of Pittsburgh, had breakfast at the King Edward, spent the morning visiting clinics, lunch at Hart House, inspected the University Buildings, and the Royal College of Dental Surgeons in the afternoon, and had dinner at the King Edward, after which those who were not leaving on the early train were treated to a theatre party and a hockey game. The visitors expressed great admiration for the University Buildings, and especially of the completeness of the equipment of the R.C.D.S.

TORONTONENSIS, 1922

In spite of every warning there are still a number of people who have not yet handed in biographies for TORONTONENSIS. As this negligence upon the part of a few students would tend to spoil the general appearance of the book, the Editor wishes to take this opportunity of making it known that unless these biographies are in his hands before Tuesday, January 31st he will undertake to write them, but will in no way be responsible for the contents of the same.

The biographies may be left at the Students' Administrative Office, Hart House, or at the Post Office, Main Building.

Music

Tuesday evening, in Hart House Theatre, Mr. Thomas Whitney, of Boston gave an interesting talk on the work of J. S. Bach, the great composer. He outlined the influences and circumstances of music at his time, and gave a more or less detailed account of his work in providing church music. Mr. Carlos gave a recital of several splendid illustrations of the contrapuntal style, the great "St. Ann's Fugue," and two smaller dance numbers; and Mr. Campbell McInnes who also Bach numbers, from the Matthew Passion and a little cradle song.

FUTURE GUARDIANS OF HEALTH

quickly transported from the ballroom of a fancy hotel to a bowery cellar with American Beauties and Crim-on-Ramblers among which the butterflies disported themselves, doubtless finding Nature's honey as re-lying as the guests did the excellent supper.

The unique experience of dancing in a terrific thunderstorm, in which Thor kept perfect time with the orchestra, and fierce flashes of lightning illumined the room was one which was enjoyed by even the most nervous. Great black clouds and little fleecy ones drifted across the ceiling, as a veritable cloud-burst poured from north to south along its white expanse, the overworked fans providing the while a chill north-easter from behind the grills set in the walls. As the thunder ceased there appeared a rainbow, which, like its first ancestor, encompassed the whole heavens, and the music, taking a lighter strain told one that the storm was over.

A one-step, in which the Meds' Quartette brought back memories of many an estaminet, biller and buttack-room, made the bloodthirsty homestead for the good old war, but the finest touch in the music was the revival of the "Blue Danube". The orchestra conjured up before the eyes of the dancers the vivacious dance of the picture-que peasantry, and the jingle of the tambourine and cries of the dancers were audible to the inner ear of excellence.

During supper, which was served in the Pompeian Room, Miss Helen Barker, Miss Beatrice Morrow, Miss Nora Hemminger, and Miss Beatrice Funchin, attended in Georgian costumes, danced a minuet in a charming manner, and won the admiration of all the guests. The supper was par excellence, the skill-shaped menu cards both attractive and original, although not facetious School man and remark that Meds, of all people, should realize that good things to eat are not meant to be kept inside the head. The guests were kept posted on the results of the hockey game by THE VARSITY bulletin board. A labor report (through another agency), owing to confusion with the pro, game, gave the battle to Varsity by a score of 3-1, causing not a little distress as well as much diversion when the truth was known.

Conceding to the wishes of the guests the committee extended the time of dancing from 2 a.m. until nearly 3. The arrangements in every department were perfect, the enjoyment was complete and too much credit cannot be given to Mr. K. M. Heard and his committee, composed of Messrs. D. J. Prendergast, D. M. Campbell, W. L. Atkinson, W. Wilson, D. M. Meekison, H. E. Welsh, A. E. Smith, S. L. Biehn, J. G. Henderson, C. L. Campbell, and last but by no means least, Mr. Eric G. Fleming, the ubiquitous President of the Medical Society.

VARSITY JUNIORS WIN AGAINST ST. HELENS

Varsity Team Both Heavier and Faster Than Opponents

The Varsity Juniors added another counter to their "games won column" on Tuesday night when they took the St. Helen's Junior O.H.A. team into camp by the score of 9 to 3.

After the first five minutes of play the superiority of the Varsity team was apparent, but St. Helen's saw to it that the game did not lag for although up against a heavier and faster team they persisted in rushing in for the odd shot on James.

Varsity started Porter and Rowell on defence with Taylor playing on the forward line, but Rowell was taken off at the end of the first period to be saved for the intermediate game which followed. On the forward line Somerville was the most outstanding man. Although all the forwards worked hard and back-checked persistently Taylor and Porter played well together on the defence. Porter showed a word of speed on his rushing, continually travelling from end to end. L. Harrington and Gibbs were the pick of St. Helen's.

Connie has a great little 60 minute team here and they certainly will bear watching.

Wycliffe, 44. O.C.E., 23

In a well-played basketball game Wycliffe, by superior combination yesterday defeated O.C.E. in Hart House to the tune of 44 to 23. Both teams showed good shooting ability as the score indicates. Lane scored 20 points for Wycliffe, while Bryce was best for Education.

The teams were:
Wycliffe—Leigh (8), Lane (20), McCullery (8), Stringer (6), Swan (2). Sub—Alexander.
O.C.E.—Stevenson (3), Croal (7), Bates (6), Bryce (7), Morrison.

KNOX OUTLINES FORESTRY IN BASKETBALL

Fast combination and the great defence of Taylor and MacIntosh gave Knox an easy victory over Forestry by a score of 13-2. Forestry tried hard all the way, but could not pierce the Knox defence, and their only scores came from two penalty shots. Tait was the star of the game, and led the scoring with twenty-two points to his credit.

The teams:
Knox—Taylor, MacIntosh, Mitchell, Donaldson, Tait. Subs—McInnis, Dreyer.

Forestry—Whitelaw, Parsons, Cram, Jenkins, Stewart. Subs—Thomson, McDougall.

Water-Polo

SCHOOL PLAY EXHIBITION WATER POLO GAME

On Thursday, February 2, the Second Year School and Varsity-Polo Team will attempt to show their superiority over the Second Year Merchants Team. The game will not only be an opportunity to watch but it will demonstrate one method School uses in getting new material for their canvas ball chasers. It should be a great old game and action will be the order of the day. The game starts at 5.30. Everybody out.

TEAM MANAGERS

Managers of winning and losing teams competing in Interfaculty leagues are hereby notified that unless write-ups of 75 or 100 words, giving line-up, score and officials, reach THE VARSITY office within 24 hours after the game, publicity cannot be given. The sporting staff is unable to cope with the large number of events which are at present taking place simultaneously in different parts of the University and this course must be adopted until further notice.

Inside With Bill and Connie!

Back to your hutch, Tigers. Only the luck of the Irish and Charlie Stewart saved the sabre-tooths from a weary, wicked walloping. The Varsity losing streak is just higher'n King Edward prices. We're away. Can't you see 'em crashing their way down the rock-strewn path to victory and another swing from the Allan Cup. On Saturday the game of the intercollegiate series will be played. Come and say it with larynxes. Doc Daloe is going to say kindly but firmly, "Sit up and drink this" to the red chemised myrmidons of the famous football coachman. Come and bring the foundation of your future family.

VARSITY TIES HAMILTON TIGERS

Stan and Beattie kept off Charlie Stewart's monkey and kept Carson Cooper and Co. shooting from centre ice or points south. Old John Langtry enjoyed a very pleasant evening. He ought to bat nearly a thousand next summer by the way he batted out the Tigers long shots. Varsity's greatest weakness is her tendency to pass poorly. The great combination play that featured last year's final is lacking. The team are not selfish but injudicious and poor receivers. A little conscientious practice will obviate this fault.

You have probably read the details of play from the local papers by this time. If the game had been judged like a boxing bout, Varsity would win easily on points. The most Hamilton hoped for after the second period was a draw. They were very pleased and surprised to get that.

Bill Carson landed both Varsity's counters. The little wizard was as tricky and heady as ever but a little weak physically due to his inability to watch but it will demonstrate one method School uses in getting new material for their canvas ball chasers. It should be a great old game and action will be the order of the day. The game starts at 5.30. Everybody out.

This game will be replayed if it effects either teams standing in the league. Varsity should beat Hamilton quite handsily on the return engagement.

INTERFACULTY TEAM MANAGERS

Section 13, page 44 of the Athletic Hand Book for this year, referring to Interfaculty contests, reads: "Within 24 hours after a game the Manager of EACH team MUST file with the Secretary of the Athletic Association a report of the game containing the names of the officials and the score. This is not being done. Many reports are never received, still more are late.

The penalty for non-compliance with these instructions is that no credit is given in league standings, and henceforth this regulation will be strictly held to.

SCHOOL DEFEAT DENTALS 4-2 AND CAPTURE TROPHY

Winners' Combination in Second Half Scores Three Goals and Wins Game

By defeating the Dental Water-Polo Team 4-2 the School (old Fish) not only won the Interfaculty Championship, but went through the whole series of eight games undefeated, scoring fifty goals to their opponent's four.

Dents had decidedly the better of the play in the first half and at half time School was the meat in a two-to-one sandwich. Woods opened the score for cavity fillers on a long under-water pass from Relly in a scrimmage before the School goal. In two minutes he doubled the score by the same manoeuvre. In response to long and prolonged Tackles from the Red School-house fans, Wells placed a nice back shot into the corner of the Dents' home. This ended the scoring for the first half.

The winners were much the better in the latter half of game, scoring three goals and holding the Dents' scores. The old School passing game seemed to come to life. Harston stayed up on the first line and was continuously supplied with ammunition with which he bombard the enemy forts for the count of two goals. In a few moments Fitzgerald placed another shot with the twins ending the scoring for the game.

Both goal keepers played a fine game, making some real saves. Dents were remarkably strong on their forward line, while School had an evenly distributed strong team on the forward and defence. The game was a real finish for a fine series which shows water-polo has come to stay in the University.

The teams lined up as follows:

School	Forward.	Dentals
Harston		Reilly
Fitzgerald		Macbeth
Wells	Centre	Woods
Conklin	Defence	Riley
Shimben		Bennett
Bell	Goal	Wright
Keefer	Sub	Nuttal
Matson		Brown

D.H.S.A. SKATING PARTY

Dunville H. S. Alumni are holding a skating party at Varsity Rink, Saturday night, January 28th. Kindly consider this a personal invitation and make this premier event a success.

VIC DOWN PHARMACY IN OLD FASHIONED "SHINNY"

Pharmacy invaded Vic with a strong following of supporters on Wednesday afternoon, but the Methodists came out on top by the long score of 7-2. During the first two periods, Vic led all the way. In the final period Pharmacy came to life and scored twice, but even at that Vic did them one better and talked three times during that period. The score, 7-2, indicates the play. Vic showing a decided superiority all the way.

One regrettable feature of the game was the turning by both teams from "bucky" to the old-fashioned game of "shinny." Both Pharmacy and Vic have good teams and in real hockey should make a name for themselves, but they must forget "shinny."

Barbury starred for Vic and was the most outstanding man on the ice. Line-up: Vic—Goal, Becker. F.D., Weston, F.D., Henderson, Centre Barbury, F.W., Weston, L.W., Mills and Ferguson. Referee—W. McLean, 23 Dents.

Westeria: Oh, don't you think these fellows are thrilling? Yes, they often tie my breath away.

Varsity's whirlwind basketball quintette displayed champion-ship form in its decisive victory over McGill, 38-13 on Saturday night. The Red and White played a hard, close-checking game. Its forwards could not pierce Varsity's strong defence and had to be content with shooting from far out, and could not score with the same regularity as "Red" Stewart and Smith. McGill presented a fairly well-balanced team with tall, rangy forwards and sturdy guards but the all around superiority of the Blue and White did not leave the issue long in doubt.

The lecture hall in the Physics Building was again crowded for Friday's address in St. Botolph Winborne's series on Medieval England. Explaining that the object of the course was to develop the "contemporary sense" so necessary for an understanding of history, the lecturer stated that it was essential to realize the profound significance of the two fundamental institutions of Medieval life—the Guild, which had been discussed in the previous lecture, and the Church.

A series of lectures, ten in number, are being arranged by the Department of University Extension at the request of the Ontario Society of Occupational Therapy. The lectures, although designed to appeal primarily to those engaged in Occupational Therapy will also be of interest to the public.

The first two lectures will be delivered by Dr. Peter Sandford, of the Ontario College of Education. His subject will be the nursing of intelligent patients. He will also act as the speaker at the three succeeding lectures. He will discuss various types of nervous diseases. The subjects and speakers of the other five lectures are as yet unannounced.

The first lecture will be on February 9, and all lectures will be in the afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock.

The Parish Church was the centre of the community's life, its particular property and its greatest pride, upon which members looked with a loving pride, present, and future, willing to leave behind their own material decoration and elaboration. Besides the more properly ecclesiastical furniture that churches came to have a vast collection of the doublets such as jewels and tapestries that were the trappings. A will is still extant by which the church was bequeathed to a wealthy merchant's best benefactor. Great churches had huge chests, lavishly decorated in which these magnificent pieces were stored, usually they had three locks the keys being in the hands of the churchwarden, the vicar and so that they could only be opened in the presence of all three.

Many of the treasures of the churches were confiscated by Henry the Eighth, and stolen during the religious changes, others fell a prey to Puritan zeal, while many more have been destroyed through the carelessness of church officials and the cupidity of "restorers." In spite of losses, however, English churches are still rich in useful records of the artistic development of the race. With the help of excellent lantern slides the audience was conducted through some of the most interesting.

On the outside doors of the oldest church may still be seen the antiquated knocker by which the fugitive from justice might demand the inviolable protection of the shrine.

Just inside the door is the font and various types are still in existence from old and crudd barrel fonts to delicately carved examples of the late Gothic period. One of the most interesting was borrowed from an old Roman pillar and is found

To the assembled students—of whom there are more than 150 now registered at the University—Miss McKenzie gave a short account of the origin and aims of the Graduate Students' Union, the object of which is chiefly to create a spirit of unity, a common interest, and a means of social intercourse for the cosmopolitan body of students who come from all parts of the globe and whose academic interests are widely dissimilar.

French seems to be a reconstruction of something genuinely mediæval; in English it becomes stogy and bears but little approximation to naturalness in its structure.

Such, at least, seems to have been in Mr. Sparling's mind. Several of the characters were made physically comic, differences of temperament were indicated by exaggerated gestures and grotesqueries of one sort or another. The result, I think, justified the means. This production was a farce, a really good farce, well directed, well staged, and showing care in the handling of every detail. The earlier production was more seriously handled, and suffered in that the direction of business, etc., had not been in the hands of such capable persons as Miss Lorna Melville and Mr. Dixon Wagner.

Exhibit Thursday

On Tuesday evening, January 31 the regular weekly drawing class of the Hart House Sketch Club will be held.

This will be the third evening at which Mr. Sampson has been present and it is the earnest desire of the Committee that more men should turn out for these classes in elementary drawing—from life.

This club is open to all members of Hart House and the name of the organization does not imply that the members are all expert artists. The main idea is the mission of spreading the gospel of Fine Art—to promote a generous and catholic appreciation. Art is one of the "humanities"—why don't we hear more of it to-day? If you have any suggestions about the club it would help to make improvements, the Committee would be very glad to communicate with you. Let's

On Thursday evening February 2nd, the Club are visiting the "Grange" to view the exhibition of French paintings. The Three Arts Club has been invited to attend and the members of Hart House may bring ladies. A prominent artist will conduct the party through the gallery. Come and lend your enthusiasm to these gatherings.

An excellent may at the so dense, haze on the planet through this telescope was seen every evening between 5:30 and 6:30 from now until February 6. Mercury reached its greatest elongation yesterday when it was eight degrees from the sun and about fifteen degrees from the horizon at sunset.

FIRST CO-ED HOCKEY TO BE PLAYED HERE

Varsity Girls Can Do More Than Tea and Dance

"Co-education!" My wife was forgiven for bringing up the worn-out cliché, and I acquiesced. Perhaps you've noticed it at school and all in your own mind. For all our university women are "clap-net of enthusiasm" and "brightly coloured" and "in command of the tea-hour and the dance, and are to be rigidly excluded from the halls of learning and the field of sport. They are to be seen only on occasions to be petted and teased in odd moments, and are not to be taken seriously—thank you, no!"

But are you fair? You pride yourself on your sound foundations. Are you open to the mind in this? When you were young, did you tea and light conversation with one face after another on a certain slow-motion afternoon, did you have a chance, wonder what any of the men were? You were young then. Then you aren't so well-informed about it, and no doubt you will be glad to have a chance to see what the occupying forces are doing. But you're not so young any more.

The fact is, the faint glimmering of a new dawn are beginning to be seen in the life of the university woman. Unseen forces are quietly but persistently at work in the universities, in all phases of college life, and in Canadian universities the desire to come together more

One result of this is the first women's ice hockey team to be formed by one of the Canadian universities. McGill is sending her team to Toronto on February 24th, to play Toronto University. Probably, you didn't know we had a team. That's because you were too busy writing letters to the Varsity on the brainlessness of women. If you had troubled to enquire you would have found out the truth. You are always practising steadily and strenuously three times a week ever since the ice started. The best players from nearly all the universities are on the team. You are fortunate enough to make the team; you only have done so by natural ability and hard work. Added to this they have a coach and a doctor. You are a long way from one of the best. Perth Banbury Vic. He thinks the team can beat McGill. He ought to know.

Will you be there? Remember it loyal to Toronto that you will support her women playing their first big hockey game, just as you always support her men playing rugby.

Prove it. Buy your ticket as soon as it goes on sale in your faculty on Monday, February 8, and let's have everybody out. Put Varsity spirit before everything else and lose your voice in the roar of the multitude—and incidentally see how well women can play hockey.

The date is Friday, February 24, 1:00 p.m.

"Dentantics" on Thursday night will prove the best entertainment in University circles this winter," said a bustling prodigious graduate committee man to an inquiring Varsity reporter on Saturday. "We have the artist in each class engaged in production of sketches that will surpass shows in the downtown theatres and those who will stay away from the event will wear mourning for the rest of the term."

A minstrel show by 2T2. A musical skit entitled "Pierroine" by a lively band of whizzing pierrots from 2T3. A notable cast from 2T4 are producing a comedy drama called "Deception." The nurses are staging a scene in the patients' reception room which will cause many a laugh in the audience. The other classes are doing their part and there promises to be some fine musical numbers.

PROF. WRONG SPEAKS ON WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

Tuesday Marks Opening of Lecture Series in Convocation Hall

"The Washington Conference" will be the subject of Professor George M. Wrong's address in Convocation Hall tomorrow night. This lecture is the first of the Murray Education series, and will Professor George McKinnon Wrong is the head of the Department of History in the University and is well qualified to speak on the subject. He has received his information from reliable sources in Washington. He will summarize in detail the importance of this epoch-making conference—its place in history—the obstacles it encountered, and the results.

Professor Wrong is an historian of international repute. His fame is so great, that he was recently asked by an American firm to write a history of George Washington. It is indeed a great honour when Americans come to a Canadian to write on American history. Professor Wrong has written many other books, some in text-book form that are well known throughout Canada and the United States. Last fall he was signally honoured at McGill University when he was presented with the degree of LL.D. Professor Wrong's opinions are well worth hearing and his lecture should throw much light on the Washington Conference.

A GREATER USE OF A GREAT HOUSE

It is an old saying "That the proof of the pudding is in the eating." With equal truth it might be said "That the proof of a university is its graduates." Moreover, it is the attitude of the graduates towards their Alma Mater that largely determines the success or failure of the university as a leader in the district from which it draws its undergraduates. One great bond between graduates and their university is the position that the latter holds in the athletic world, and in this respect graduates of our University are singularly fortunate. The respect graduates have held, and have held in the past, in all lines of sport is surely sufficient to make every graduate proud of his Toronto degree.

A newer tie, but one which bids fair to rival athletics in its appeal to the Alumni, is the possession of Hart House.

Since it was formally handed over to the University in 1919 the fame of this "club of clubs" has spread broadcast until to-day, through its ever-increasing membership amongst the graduates it has become one of the strongest factors in strengthening the relationship between the University and the Alumni.

At present, in addition to some two hundred members of the Faculty Union, there are approximately three hundred graduate members of Hart House. The fees they pay are ten dollars a year for Toronto residents and two dollars and a half a year for non-residents. This fee gives them the exclusive use of a Common Room and Dining Room, and the use of Billiard Room, Gymnasium and Swimming Pool during three evenings a week. In addition there are Guest Rooms at their disposal and the Library, Music Room, Sketch Room and Camera Room are available for their use. That the graduates appreciate the opportunity thus afforded them is shown by the numbers one may see taking part in the different activities.

In one respect these graduate members are at a disadvantage. The House is not a home to the same extent that it is to an undergraduates, and as a result they are not in close touch with the many events that occur there. The remark is frequently made, "But I did not hear about it until it was too late."

With you, Mr. Graduate Member, lies the remedy. A further bond between yourself and the University is THE VARSITY. It gives you financial news, as a source of general information it ranks far below the downtown dailies; but as an up-to-date informant of what is happening in the University, and particularly in Hart House, it has no peer.

You have been sufficiently interested to become a member of Hart House. But do you know what is being done there? Are you able to avail yourself of all the advantages the House offers or "did you not hear about it until it was too late?"

THE POPULAR LECTURE

The pendulum of the public mind during the last year or so seems to have swung from the extreme position of minute specialization, and the diversity of interests of the average man is little short of amazing. While the tendency still is to a high degree of specialization along one definite line, with it is combined an earnest desire to understand what interests the other man's enthusiasm for his work.

The popular lecture is the greatest factor of the day in stimulating interest in, and sympathy with, subjects unfamiliar to the world at large. While occasionally the expert may write at a non-technical treatment of his favourite matter, there is no doubt that the spirit of inquiry of which such a treatment is the logical outcome is infinitely to be preferred to the old placid, even rather superior, "I don't understand anything about it," with its underlying "nor do I care to."

The world is awakening to the fact that it is a contravention of natural law to divide mankind into a number of highly specialized units, each moving in his own orbit, and not in the least degree diverted from his course by his neighbours. The universe was not built on such a plan. The laws of the interaction of the planets and other bodies of the solar system have been reduced to mathematical formulae; the laws of the interaction of seemingly as widely separated human interests doubtless never can be so rigidly determined, but it is the recognition of their existence which is fundamental.

The public mind is awake and thirst for information. Ten years ago the announcement of a scientific lecture, or of the exposition of an economic theory, would have meant only a handful in the audience. To-day a lecture on almost any subject is greeted with sometimes overwhelming interest. Happily the needs of the hour are being met by men who combine expert knowledge with the rare gift of presenting it in a way comprehensible to the ordinary mind of the ordinary man.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Our Editorial on Wednesday last stated that the writer's name must appear on each letter intended for the Correspondence Column. Will "Diner" and "P. J. B." kindly oblige.

Music

The series of special lectures under the direction of the Faculty of Music of the University are well under way, and those which have been delivered to date have proven both instructive and interesting. Started on Jan. 13, the session will not be concluded until March 27, when Mr. Healy Willan will speak on "Double Counterpoint."

Miss Peterson, secretary to the President of the University, who is in charge of the series reports that the enrolment for these lectures is fully double that of last year's series. Much interest has been displayed in the course both by the Faculty of Music and the students attending the course.

Dr. Albert Ham, who lectures in Room 37 of the Main Building, has already delivered two exceedingly interesting lectures on "Modern Church Organ Music by English Composers," and on "Old English Church Composers," while Mr. F. A. Moore, the University organist spoke on "The Oration" on Monday, Jan. 23. "Form in Choral Music" was the topic of Dr. H. A. Fricker's address on Friday, Jan. 23 and the same subject will be treated in this speaker's next lecture on Feb. 3.

These lectures are being given in connection with the course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music and are free to all students enrolled in that course.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION

The next individual competition will be held on Wednesday, February 1, starting at 6:30 p.m. Suitable 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes will be given for the best scores.

Conditions—Open to all members of the Association, slings allowed, no orthotics to be used, 2 sights allowed and then 10 consecutive shots to count, the last 5 of which will not be signalled.

In view of the approaching C.I.R.A. Team Competition with R.M.C., Queen's and McGill before February 15, it is very desirable that as many members as possible turn out on Wednesday evenings.

Negotiations are under way also for team matches with the C.O.C. companies, to take place soon.

Come out Wednesday evening—you need the practice and the Association needs the information from the score cards.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB

The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 1, at 8:00 p.m., at the Royal Ontario Museum. Entry by the Southwest door. Mr. Dymond will conduct the party through the Zoological Department. This is an exceptional opportunity to visit the museum and all interested are invited.

This cold weather chills me to the bone. You should wear a thicker hat.

THEATRE NIGHT AND GLEE CLUB

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

It was with great surprise that many students read the announcement in a recent issue that the Students' Administrative Council is planning a Theatre Night for the evening following the concert of the University of Toronto Glee Club. One cannot but feel that the decision to hold a Theatre Night (in itself an excellent idea) on that night was a hasty and a faulty one. A Theatre Night on any evening during the week in which the Glee Club Concert is held is bound to result in a serious reduction in the attendance at the concert, and very probably in a deficit in the Glee Club's accounts for the year. Last year the Glee Club lost money, owing to a change in the Hockey schedule putting a Varsity game on the night of the Concert. The attendance was very small, although the concert was one of the finest that any club has offered. This year the members of the Club have worked hard to avoid a deficit and to repay to the S.A.C. the money lost last year.

The situation is serious. If the Glee Club again loses money the Council will be financially responsible for the debts of the Club. The funds handled by the General Secretary-Treasurer are held in trust for the Student Body of the University and the Council has no right to take action that will in all probability involve unnecessary loss of the students' money. From another point of view, we must recognize that the members of the Glee Club have been doing faithful and consistent work since last October, and have secured the services of eminent artists to assist, and it is grossly unfair to them to in a large measure spoil the concert by running a strong counter-attraction on the same evening. It is not as though the evening in question were the only possible choice. The date of the Glee Club Concert was chosen carefully and was announced early last term; the Council ought surely to have chosen another evening for the Theatre Night.

It is not too late to make a change of plans. Knowing something of the problems of both the Council and the Glee Club I would suggest that an effort be made to secure a special performance by the "Saxophones" on another occasion, failing which, that another company be approached; or as a last resort that the Theatre Night be canceled. It is too late to change the date of the Concert. It is already widely advertised, and the assisting artists have been engaged.

Unless a change is made, many students will feel bound to support our own Varsity organization, and to neglect the Theatre Night, in which they are probably as keen to join as any member of the Council.

I trust that the Council will have regard to the wishes of a larger proportion of the students and to the purpose of the Student Body, and revise its decision while it is possible to do so.

Yours truly,

F. Gwynn Lighthouse.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB

The Political Club will meet in the Old Book Room in the basement of the Main Building on Wednesday afternoon, February 1, at 4 p.m.

The subject to be discussed is "Unemployment: A Failure of Industry." Thirty-five or forty minutes at the most will be devoted to the reading of papers and the remainder of the time will be devoted to discussion.

Miss Grey, Miss Gold, Miss Broadbridge, and Messrs McAndrew, McLean, Hendall and Smith will lead the discussion. All Honour Economic Students welcome.

Eskimo Pie

After long and exhaustive research on the part of the Students' Administrative Intelligence Department the lowly origin of Eskimo Pie has at last been brought to light. The numerous Hawkshaw and bloodhounds detailed to this important investigation following both chocolate drops and ice-cream clods finally converged on Hart House and piled up at the dining hall entrance. Their collective deliberations brought forth the following theory:

The genius who conceived this popular tasty, one day, on raining among the coats on the rack discovered half-chewed chocolate bars in nearly every pocket. A remark to the effect, that the speaker always took ice-cream for dessert, overheard from the friendly shelter of a passing sun spot started some wheels in his spacious and airy brain. "If men of such high mentality and super-intelligence (or thoughts to that effect) subsist thusly, what could be the limits of the possibility of a combination of the two? Had I but brain! At this juncture in his train of thought an indulgent sound wave waivered across of peculiar portent to his conjective grannum from the hungry hoppers at the table next the door. "Let's ask for more pie." Click! And the tap of this man's brain was snatched shut on this bit of conversation. Being slightly deaf he had imagined their words to be "That's Eskimo Pie!" and "And" he is shivering lest he be left for the seats of the mighty, or the niche for the rich to join that great horde of millionaires incapable of writing their own name.

This unusual moral can be adduced—A university education is detrimental to the free play of the mind on remunerative hunches. For, had our now world-famous discoverer been scientifically trained to observe data of perception he would have analyzed the physiognomic expression registered by the daily devourers of the frozen fruit of the loquacious that momentous occasion with the result that Eskimo Pie would have been relegated to the limbo of unthought-of Epicurean luxuries.

Y.M.C.A.

The most permanent and valuable contribution which the University Y.M.C.A. makes to student life cannot be catalogued in any definite form. In other issues of the Varsity have appeared a statement of the various activities of the Association for which a financial appeal has been made this week. The following statement by Sir Robert Falconer outlines the real aim of the Association.

"The aim of the Association is, I believe, to serve each student to the utmost by affording him wholesome companionship, by providing opportunities for making friends of those whose ideals in life are inspired by the Christian spirit and by co-operating through each faculty in maintaining a sane and vigorous interest in all the voluntary activities of the student and in the life of the University on the student side.

The most difficult task of the student is to keep true to his convictions, to be friendly with others of different opinions, and to be so open-hearted and open-minded as to get the best in all his new surroundings without losing loyalty to his own self. Whatever you learn, learn wisdom. This is to be got not mainly from books, but from the friendship with some and resistance to others. The universal human contact which converts—the written words of wisdom into the living tissue of character." The School of Science, and U.C. have already started the campaign "Medicine starts to-day and Dents the beginning of next week. The total objective for sustentation purposes in all Colleges and Faculties is $2,000.

BLUE AND WHITE SENIORS SHATTERED 'SHAG'S' HOPES

Defensive Tactics and Absence of Well-Known Faces Caused Slow Game

A selected team of undergraduates of the University of Toronto on Saturday conducted an experiment in hockey for the benefit of their fellow-undergraduates from the eastern city of Montreal. The lads from the land of liberty showed surprising technique and surprise and worried their more experienced opponents. To come down off our perch, Varsity defeated McGill 7-3 Saturday afternoon. A very satisfactory crowd attended the function.

"Shag" had his team drilled in a defensive style of play which hampered the Varsity attack. At times the game threatened to develop into one of the old Varsity-McGill "shiny" contests. Doctor Varsity presented a line-up minus the well-known faces of Jack Langtry and Bill Carson, a pair whose names have been mentioned in connection with frequent hockey games hereabouts. They both were enjoying a well-deserved rest. Joe Sullivan, the diminutive "dead-eye," served up the front of the Varsity nets, while Bert Plaxton acted as Bill's understudy. Cliff Beattie put in his second appearance as a Varsity defence man. He is very good. Stan Brown, who skates like a Varsity, played only half the game. He had an acute attack of indigestion in the second stanza. Beattie Ramsay got most enough to score two goals and combined with Cliff Beattie for another. Ned Wright illustrated the art of back-checking. Old Westy pulled several very effective "all by myself" shots. Mr. Louis Hudson, who hopes to be known one day as Dr. Louis Hudson, had the puck most of the afternoon. He enjoyed the game immensely.

For McGill Plaxton was best. He is a very elusive stick-hander and a tricky one around the nets. He got all of McGill's lattes. Duncanson was good. The game was not an interesting one from a spectator's point of view. Varsity looked best at all times and seemed to be playing under par. The intermediate game which followed was much more closely contested. The line-up follows:

Varsity	Goal	McGill
Sullivan	Defence	McGerrige
Ramsay	Centre	Anderson
Brown	Wings	Flanagan
Hudson	Wings	Duncanson
Westman	Subs.	Kent
Plaxton	Subs.	Lynch
Beattie	Referee	Harvey Sprule

CUP DONATED FOR ALL-ROUND WATER CHAMPION

Swimming Meet Schedule Announced

It has been felt for some time the need for a swimming meet to decide the all round Swimming Championship of the University. Mr. Duran has fostered the idea by presenting a cup for open competition in the University to be held by the high man in the six chosen events. The meet will commence Monday, February 6th, and continue till Friday, February 10th.

Rules of the Meet:
1. 100 points maximum for each event.
2. Entries must be handed in to Mr. Winterburn not later than Wednesday, February 1, 6.00 p.m.
3. Events will be run off in following order:

- Monday, February 6—50 yards Free Style.
50 yards Breast.
Wednesday, February 8—Fancy Diving.
50 yards Back.
Friday, February 10—Long Plunge.
200 yards Free Style.
- Men must have Bronze Medallion of the Royal Life Saving Society or must be in course and qualify for same before being granted standing.
- Individual events governed by the Rules of the C.I.S.A.
- It will greatly facilitate matters by having the entries made to Mr. Winterburn as soon as possible. The competitors are advised that the events will be started at 5.00 p.m. sharp.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

We've got a lot to talk about to-day so try and keep awake. At this writing Mike Rodden's scandal sheet had not appeared. The chances are he will have some new story about Bill Carson not playing in that epic struggle with McGill on Saturday. Just to forestall him, we might say that it took four men and two boys to keep Bill off the ice. If he went out, he would play his head off and as Bill is too valuable a man to overwork, he was kept off. Bill is white all through and he wears a blue sweater. Right here we want to inform the assembled populace that any rumours about dissension in that blue shirt outfit are pure and unadulterated piffle. In Tiger-Town last week it was terrible. After good old Westy had razed the Hams for ten minutes, Bill would figure that a three-minute rest would fix things for another ten-minute whirlwind stunt. Westy would come off with "Aw heck, Bill, I was just getting warmed up, let me at 'em." Hah! More rank insubordination! Neddie Wright was heard to say, "Look here, Bill, I was just feeling like a couple of goals, I don't want to come off." Mike's correspondent in Hamilton had better turn over. He's snoring. That gang is sticking together like the Clan Macgregor in the days of old Scotland.

Now, Connie, our old friend and college chum, we have a few things to say about your young phenoms. They've got to win their group or die in the attempt. Listen, fellow highbrows, do you want to make sure that they do it? Well, get about four thousand of you together, dangle down to Taylor's ice-palace on Wednesday night and insist on it. The best argument to use is the same old battle-cry. St. Mary's are going to do their best to disappoint you, but that only adds a little zip to it. It is going to cost you each one about two bits in Canadian money and between ourselves you'll see a better show than you did last Saturday.

SR. MEDS BASKET-BALLERS DOWN JR. DENTS 43-13

In a strenuous game Sr. Meds, by superior weight and team work, defeated Jr. Dents. The score at half time was 13-7, but in the second half Smith and Brown increased the lead. Final score 43-13.

The teams:
Sr. Meds—Brown (14), Smith (16), Burgess (11), Cosgrove (14), Code (4), McFadden (4).
Jr. Dents—Cooper (6), Fisher (5), Campbell, McVicker, Cooper (2), Lappin. Referee—H. A. McLennan.

II'S WIN FROM WESTERN PLAYING LISTLESS BALL

In the preliminary game Varsity II scored an unexpectedly easy victory over Western University in an Intermediate Intercollegiate game. The score was 17-6, half-time 9-3.

The game was slow and listless throughout, Western being so far outclassed that the Seconds did not have to extend themselves. "Hip" Smith pleased his many supporters by rolling in some neat baskets on speedy work. Burgess continued his good shooting, and always kept cool. Cosgrove got his usual basket.

TRINITY TRIMS JR. DENTS TYING GROUP 3 WITH VIC.

Trinity, by defeating Junior Dents, 5-3, on Trinity ice Saturday morning are now tied with Victoria for honours in Group C of the Jennings' Cup Series. As Trinity defeated Victoria in the finals last year, the play-off between these two teams will, no doubt, see many fans present from the different faculties, for it is predicted by many who are not without authority in such matters that the team which will win the group will hold the silver-ware for 1922.

The first period of the Dents-Trinity game opened with a strong offensive by Dents. Pearson and Kerr scored the first goal in less than two minutes of play. But during the remainder of the period, the puck was kept almost continuously in Dent territory. Grew was responsible for one and Moore for two of the three goals scored by Trinity in this period.

The second period was not marked by any particularly brilliant playing. Pearson of Dents scored the one and only goal of this period which ended 3-2 in favour of Trinity.

When the boys came on in the third period they worked hard but neither side scored until Thompson and Verth of Dents, after about ten minutes of play, managed to push the counter in past Brillinger. There was no more scoring for some time until Thompson of Trinity batted in a rebound. This was followed by a brilliant rush by Harper, Trinity, who unassisted, scored the last goal of the game. Final score Trinity 5—Jr. Dents 3.

Trinity—Brillinger, Johnson, Cayley, Harper, F. A. Smith, Grew. Subs., Moore and Thompson.

Junior Dents—Leach, Pearson, Brule, Boyd, Kerr, Gifford. Subs., Johnson and Verth.

JUNIORS—ST. MARY'S

By the way, you can't afford to miss seeing Connie Smythe's scrappy juniors knock out their old rivals, St. Mary's. Both teams are good and are tied for group leadership. With support Varsity will win. They haven't had much encouragement. Get out and yell. Your yells will not be wasted. Connie's lads will go a long way to win this. Come on out on Wednesday night.

ST. MIKE'S EASY MEAT FOR VARSITY SECONDS

Final Score 6-2 About Indecent Play

The Varsity Intermediates put their place in group standing on ice Saturday afternoon by defeating the first travelling St. Mike's outfit 6-2. Thereby not only returning their defeat of last Wednesday at the hands of St. Helen's, but also climbing another rung on the ladder leading to the Intermediate Championship.

What was lacking in the way of excitement in the Senior fixture was more than made up for in this tussle. Varsity stepped into their opponents with determination and skated and back-checked with no let up. Douglas and Ferguson, on the defence, proved a stumbling-block to the St. Mike's forwards and it was seldom that the attackers were able to get around and grab the puck. The forwards were minus Plaxton, who was seldom in the Senior game against McGill. Fisher, who has been on the sick list, and McCord looked after the centre position and made a good job of it. Duncanson and McCarney, for St. Mike's, showed great bursts of speed and gave the roll number of hot ones to handle, but the Varsity goal proved equal to the task. His "they shall not pass" sign was working in fine style.

St. Mike's only two counter-attacks in the second period, and it looked as though they might tie up the count, Varsity having three to their credit. The third period, however, proved too much for the visitors and Varsity added three more.

GIRL BASKETEERS WILL COMPETE HERE

Intercollegiate Games Will Be Held in Toronto for First Time--Varsity Undeclared Last Year.

The Women's Intercollegiate Basketball games are to be played in Toronto this year on February 24, 25 and 26. Last year the McGill Queens and Varsity teams met in Kingston and the Varsity girls came home without having won a game. This year is the first time in the history of the University that 10 of 11 students have had the privilege of seeing Varsity women compete in basketball against McGill and Queens' right here in the city.

In an iteration of the importance and general interest involved, the Hart House authorities have finally granted the Women's Basketball Club the use of Hart House Gymnasium, and on Thursday and Friday evenings, February 24 and 25, and Saturday afternoon, February 26, the three games will be played.

Varsity's team have been practising hard and faithfully under the enthusiastic coaching of Mr. Moore, but the other teams to come up finally determined to wrest from U of T. the honours arrived from Kingston last year.

They are well prepared and certainly should have the whole-hearted support of every member of Varsity. Let's make a record out of this year's basketball girls! Here's a combined opportunity to stand by your fellow-competitors and see good basketball in the exclusive Hart House Gymnasium.

Men! Here's a chance to see better women's basketball than you've ever seen before. Don't forget your girl will want to see the game.

Schedule, hours and prices will be announced in a later issue. Watch for them.

EXHIBITION WATER POLO GAME

The water polo team are reminded that the second year school are putting on an exhibition game at 5:00 o'clock sharp to-morrow night. It is the first in an inter-department series and the old school spirit will be there in force. The Varsity play the Mechanicals this trip and the best teams going to win. Come on out and cheer them on.

"THREE ARTS" MEN PREPARE FOR MEET

Teams Conditioning For Assault-Ar-Arms

With the Interfaculty Assault-Ar-Arms in the not far distant future, the bowlers, wrestlers and fencers are working earnestly and steadily. The prospects, which looked so dull at first, have brightened considerably of late. Many "old timers" who were not going to turn out have felt the lure of the game too strong and are now working hard to get into condition. The wrestlers, under Coach Durman, are working out daily. Everybody is learning the latest wrinkles of the grappling game. Will give you more details of their doings next issue.

The bowlers have been hammering away like cool juns. From the little fellows to the giants they have been taking off weight and putting on muscle. Several local performers have been visiting Coach Dinwiddie and enlightening the boys to the finer points of the art. Every weight will be well represented and McGill and Queens will have to be very good to extremely lucky to walk off with any championships.

SUPPORT THIS TEAM

Just a word of appreciation for the Basketball team. They are a wonderful outfit. Quite as wonderful as our hockey team. I doubt it, there are two teams in Canada, which can take their measure now and by the end of the season they should be a Canadian champion.

They have mastered the game thoroughly. They're quick and accurate. Their shooting is deadly. They have an impregnable defence and a dazzling attack. Even if you are not a basketball fan there are very few basketballs turn out and support on this outfit. They completely outclassed "Old McGill" last Saturday night before a very small crowd. A team like this ought to fill Hart House to overflowing. They are a championship outfit and worthy of your support.

SEND THE VARSITY HOME

Inside With Bill and Connie!

Well, Connie, we hope to bring a crowd with us to-night. There are several thousand lads in this neck of the woods that are keenly interested in the young wizards and you simply can't let 'em down. Can you do the trick? . . . If that means "yes" it sure was definite enough. We were talking to some of the Saint Mary's lads and they say they will be hanged if you can lick them. It looks like a fruity old argument. Sandy S. and Lanky R. are going around with fire in their eyes, and things look pretty fair all around.

Our sympathies are extended to Stan Brown. Old Lightning has lots of luck but it's mostly bad. This time it is the carillage of one of his ribs roaming around. These intercollegiate contests can be strenuous if nothing else. He hopes to be in the game on Friday night, and there is one sure thing, it will take a lot to keep him out of it even if he is not fit.

The more we think of it the more excited we get over that Junior game to-night. The group is at stake and both teams are going to go the limit. It will be regular Allan Cup stuff and all going for two bits or twenty-five cents. Connie Smythe is so excited that he didn't sleep all night. The exams aren't in sight yet so let's go.

TRINITY AND VICTORIA IN GROUP PLAY-OFF

At Arena, Thursday at 4 P.M.

On Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the Arena, Victoria and Trinity will meet to decide the championship of Group C in the Jennings Cup Series. This event should be of great interest to the hockey fans for it has been predicted by many of the critics that the team which will win this group will carry off the silver cup for 1922-23, when it is recalled that Trinity, the present holders of the Cup, played Victoria in the final last year, it is almost certain that they will be such a demand for tickets on Thursday that he who has had the good fortune to secure the necessary tickets—two at least—be forehand, will be amply repaid.

SR. SCHOOL WHITEWASHES SR. MED. HOCKEYISTS

Sr. Meds Now Practically Out of the Running

Sr. School practically won their group when they blanked Sr. Meds on Monday night at Varsity rinks. The game was the most exciting played so far this season. Both "The Engineers" and "The Medicals" treated the other to the strongest aggregation and thus sure did go for the full sixty minutes. It was good clean hockey all the way—neither team having much chance on the other and all players playing good hockey.

Wilfred and Carey carried off the stellar honours for "School," while Dales and Devan starred for "Meds." Weaver, in the nets for "Meds," turned in a pretty game as also did Pratt for "School."

The first period saw several spectacular plays. Kennedy for School, tallied this period. Carey scored a pretty one in the second period. In the last period, just as the going seemed to be looking rather another one, but it was a second too late, and since it had no bearing on the game, the decision was not disputed. Meds failed to tally but at times they were

SENIORS LOSE TO OTTAWA ALL-STARS

Varsity Seniors journeyed to Ottawa on Monday night to play in exhibition game against an All-Star aggregation from the capital city in connection with the Winter Ice Carnival which is being held there this week.

Stan Brown, who is at present under doctors' orders as a result of the injury which forced him to drop out of the game on Saturday afternoon did not accompany the team.

Last night on Hart House, the Varsity maintained their usual bulletin for the convenience of the number, and considering that it was only an exhibition game, a unexpectedly large number took advantage of the service.

At the time of game to press details of players, and play had not been completed but the score by periods is as follows:
1st Period—Ottawa 2—Varsity 1
2nd Period—Ottawa 2—Varsity 2
3rd Period—Ottawa 3—Varsity 3.

VARSITY JUNIORS TO PLAY ST. MARY'S

High Class Hockey and Keen Players Deserve Support

Boys, here's a real chance to help out the old Blue and White. Connie Smythe's crack juniors are stacking up against St. Mary's to-morrow and a tough game is promised. St. Mary's won't get a win last time around a make-shift team and even at that Connie says that he has had twelve Varsity supporters on the job to give one old "Toronto" the kids would have won. We're sure to believe that the small Varsity attend are due to financial embarrassment. The price is only twenty-five cents. We're sure to believe that there's a lack of interest in the game these juniors are playing. Do you realize that they are the seniors of tomorrow? . . . The only reason left is lack of knowledge. Connie has gathered around him a team of high-class youngsters and they are a team to be reckoned with. From home, in and out, it's out to St. Mary's. It's the time to come out and see the best hockey in the city ever played. It's the time to come out and see the best hockey in the city ever played. ## VICTORIA WINS GROUP HONOURS FROM TRINITY

Scarlet and Gold Victors in Sudden-Death Hockey at Arena by 4-2

By defeating Trinity 4-2 at the Arena yesterday afternoon, Victoria now hold the championship of Group C, in the Jennings Cup Series and, it is predicted by many of the critics, will be the holders of the silverware for 1922. However, be that as it may, Victoria are now in the semi-finals, and will bear watching for they are a good team and in Banbury at centre and Becker in goal they have two men whom it will be difficult for any other inter-faculty team to equal.

The game opened fast, both sides working hard but, by the end of the first period, the pace began to slow down. It was easy to see that both teams were unaccustomed to the large sheet of ice. The Victoria players were on the whole heavier than the Trinity boys but the Anglians made up for this with their speed and stick-handling. Smith and Cobby, Trinity, were particularly good in this respect, and played good combination. Johnston on the Trinity defence proved a hard game and made several spectacular rushes. But these were fruitless due to the remarkable showing of Becker, Victoria's star goal-keeper. He was unfortunately laid out twice during the game, and towards the end of the first period had to leave the ice as a result of injury. Becker certainly deserves great credit for the remarkable showing he made. Banbury of Victoria played a hard game on the forward line, and Weston of the same College was good.

The only tally of the first period was made by Victoria and when Sutton pushed the counter in past Brullinger. The second period had scarcely commenced when Victoria scored in the absence of the goal tender from the nets. Johnston of Trinity now made a nice rush passing to Harper who secured the first goal for the Anglians. The second period closed with the score 2-1 in Victoria's favour.

Both teams came back hard in the third period but Victoria still seemed to have the edge over their opponents, it being practically impossible to score on Becker. Weston now slipped another counter in on Brullinger. Trinity now did some spectacular work and the crowd was on tip-toe continually. Harper, Trinity, began by scoring on Becker and it looked as though the Anglians were going to do something worth while. The play remained fast until the end, but Trinity was unable to secure another goal. Shortly before the end of the period Sutton scored on more tally for Victoria. Final score, Victoria 1, Trinity 2.

The Trinity players: Becker, Hendler-on, Weston, Banbury, Mills, Sutton; Subs: Ferguson, Hudson, Walwyn. Trinity—Brullinger, Johnston, Cobby, F. A. Smith, Cobby, Harper, Subs: Jones, Thompson. Referee—Hewison.

INTERFACULTY ASSAULT-AT-ARMS FEB. 10 AND 11

Entries Must Be In Before Wednesday, Feb. 8

The Interfaculties Boxing, Fencing and Wrestling Tournament will be held in the Big Gymnasium, Hart House, on Friday and Saturday, February 10 and 11.

All entries must be made at the office of the Athletic Association, Hart House, before 5 o'clock on Wednesday, February 8. No contestant will be allowed to enter in more than one class in boxing or wrestling.

Contestants in boxing and wrestling shall weigh in between 10 o'clock and 12 o'clock on Friday, February 10. The draw will be made at 6 o'clock on Thursday. Each contest shall be allowed 2 pounds over weight.

The scale of prices will be as follows: Preliminaries, Friday afternoon. Free. Semi-Finals, Friday evening. . . . 50 cents. Finals, Saturday evening. . . . 50 cents. A number of members of the Ring Side will be on sale early next week at the office of the Athletic Association at 75 cents.

BASKETBALL TEAM PRACTICING HARD

Varsity Has Bye This Week But Players Are Keeping in Condition For Queen's Game Next Week.

Captain Graham is taking no chances of an unexpected reversal of form by Queen's or McGill. After rising on Monday the basketball squad went through a strenuous workout on Wednesday. After a snappy single practice the first lined up against the seconds for about thirty minutes. Both teams went right to it, and some very pretty basketball was shown at times. Dick Gill showed a remarkable work, working in under for many baskets, as well as scoring several neat ones from a moderate distance—his favorite shot. Nevertheless the Varsity attack missed quite a few easy baskets, mainly through shooting too hastily, and there is need for considerable improvement in this respect. The guards came through with their usual basket catch. They have secured at least one basket in each game this season.

The seconds showed some fast work, and were far from outclassed. "Dix" Smith came through with some spectacular baskets, and worked hard throughout. Burgess played a good defensive game, but did not take a very large part in the scoring. MacDonald slipped in some nice shots, but did not work it full speed, as he is still nursing a time out.

The week-end Varsity has a bye, and a week from Saturday plays Queen's in Kingston.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Well done, Juniors! You gave your best, anyway, and we are proud of you. We will be away in a cloud of dust next year, providing, of course, you aren't all playing Senior, and will knock out speedy Junior competitors for a row of Chinese Pagodas. Congratulations, St. Mary's! You played good hockey and are a good team to beat our youngsters because they're speedy. The Big Brothers are due to-night for their big racket. This is the supreme game and we've got to win to stick with the pack. What's more, by heck, we're going to win. We just saw the diminutive "Joe" I like us." John Langtry pulled a wild one on us. We asked him what the prospects were and he gargled "Deas Gu Gath." As far as we can gather, he makes no rash promises but thinks we can fool 'em. There should be no lack of supporters in the old ice-house to-night but any odd underdog that can wangle past the gate-keeper will be welcome. Everybody pull hard!

CIVILS AND MECHANICALS PLAY TIE WATER-POLO GAME

CIVILS-MECHANICALS 0-0

In one of the frostiest water-polo fixtures of the season the Second Year Civils of School held the Second Year Mechanicals scoreless. The game saw back and forth with good passing but the shooting was hit or miss—mostly miss—on both sides. The one ambition of the players was to down each other when the ball was as much as looked at them. The first quarter was even for both sides and showed some good passing. In the second period Boswell made some good shots only to be put aside by Dill in goal. The last half the players were beginning to think of home and mother and of anything but water in fact. Sharpe, in goal for Civils, saved the day by knocking 'em cold in all directions. To sum it up the Mechanicals were anything but Mechanical and the Civils were anything but Civil. It was a good game.

JR. MEDS. DOWN SR. U.C.

RUNNING UP SCORE OF 24-15

By Meds. by 1 and checking and superior shooting, out-scored Sr. U.C. 15 to 24 in the first half of their basketball game. The Meds. made numerous and U.C. had difficulty in locating the basket.

In the second period, with Snyder and Porter off, U.C. were more in evidence and scored eight points to Meds' six. The line-up:
Jr. Meds.—Butters (10), Potter (8), Goodwin, Sander, Washington. Spares: Finner, D. Wilson.
Sr. U.C.—Deton (1), Fraser (7), Brodie (2), Brind (2), Tudhope. Spares, Millar, Reference—H. A. MacLennan.

DECIDE SWIMMING TITLE NEXT WEEK

Sixteen of Varsity's Best Swimmers in the Contest

The entry lists for the Mid-Round Swimming Championship have closed and by the 10-15 of June, it is going to be a great old battle all the way. Sixteen of the best swimmers of the University, some starting in special departments, are going to make it worth watching on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 p.m. The first events will start on Monday with the 20 yards, 100 yards and 50 yard races. The following are some of the competitors:

SENIOR VIC. DEFEATS JR. U.C. BY 25-20

Strenuous Game of Basketball Played Wednesday

In a fast and keenly contested basketball game on Monday Sr. Vic. downed Jr. U.C. 25-20. In the first half, through the good work of MacDougall and Brewer, Vic. ran up a commanding lead, the score at half time being 20-6. In the second half U.C. came to life and through the good shooting of Paqueton and Law soon had Vic. on the run. However, the latter stiffened their defence and scored enough to win the game. The combination of both teams was good but the superior shooting of the winners did the trick.

Sr. Vic.—MacDougall (F.), 8; Start (F.), 1; McAndrew (F.), 1; Brewer (C.), (F.), 4; Brewer (C.), 10; Bell (G.), Chant (G.), 2.
Jr. U.C. Paqueton (F.), 8; Wallace (F.), 2; Law (C) S. MacDonald (C) 2; Maier (G.); Griffith.

SUPREME TEST FOR VARSITY TO-NIGHT

Redoubtable Granites Opponents in Crucial Contest at Arena

To-night the Arena will be the scene of the most important game of the season from the Varsity point of view. They come off with the redoubtable Granites. At their last encounter Granites were very fortunate to win. To-night's game tells the tale. If Varsity win they are on the road to the Allan Cup. If they lose—

But they won't lose. Everything tends to show that they will resume their old time invincibility form. They have had a slump but that will only magnify the greatness of their comeback. We fully expect to see them whip Granites. These boys are no slouches. In Harry Watson, Dunc Munro and May McCaffery they have three wonders.

Last season Varsity beat them 9-1 in two games. They are repeat this performance. If you are lucky enough to have a ticket we expect to see you down there shouting yourself hoarse. The "Old Ironmen" are on the war-path. Everybody keyed up to fever-pitch and we're away.

ST. MARY'S VICTORS OVER VARSITY III

Blue and White Juniors Eliminated From Junior O.H.A. Race by Score of 6-3

Well, doggone it, the Juniors were beaten by St. Mary's Wednesday night. It came as a distinct shock to us. We expected them to romp. They did not play as well as usual probably due to over-anxiety. This loss puts them out of future prospects in the O.H.A. The inter-faculty is still to be played. Most of the "hunks" have a couple of years more of junior hockey and should be heard from next year.

On the night's play, St. Mary's were the better team. We don't think, however, that they could repeat that win. Varsity's defense weakened for some unknown reason last night. Their back-checking was not so hot as it has been on several occasions during the season. Their offensive play also lacked its characteristic punch. As a matter of fact they included in "off" mode it is true. The victors have every expectation. They ought to do very well in their future games. Their defense is very strong and their forwards clever and fast. Nonetheless their centre man is a real star as is his right wing. The forwards are very effective. Can't a forward be a better man than they have? His weight, speed and experience. Both in goal is also good.

For Varsity, Somerville was best. He is a very clever player and is learning all the time. He started Varsity's attack by putting the first goal of the game. St. Mary's had a distinct edge on the play in the first period in which they out-scored Varsity 3-1.

Although Varsity had a slight shade in the second period the scoring honours were even—two each.

St. Mary's had the better of the last period and won out 6-3.

For the first time Varsity had a satisfactory following present.

LADY FALCONER GUEST OF QUEEN'S HALL GIRLS

Last evening Mrs. Evelyn L. and the girls of Queen's Hall had the pleasure of having Lady Falconer dine with them.

After dinner everyone reported to the common room, where, around a pleasant fire, Lady Falconer spoke to the girls in a delightfully informal way. She depicted the little contact possible between herself and the students but pointed out the impossibility of increasing it because of the very large registration on the staff. In this connection, she spoke of the Thursday tea in the Library Building, which was begun, after considerable discussion, so that those who wished to meet the wives of their own professors might have an opportunity of doing so. Lady Falconer expressed the hope that with the advent of the new Women's Buildings, which we are all awaiting, the wives of the staff will be able to enjoy much more intercourse with the students.

Some one has said, that the greatest need of the world today is for good men and women, a sentiment in which Lady Falconer quite concurs. Because of their great opportunities university women are a greater force in the world than any other single group. To be good in the ordinary acceptance of the word we must look to the spiritual furnishings of self. Furthermore, most thoughtful people agree that a person is something more than a soul, and that there is some great power which is called God. The important thing is to think of the relationship of the three—self, soul and God.

Lady Falconer said that poetry is the expression of ideals, and therefore of religion, and that the lives we live represent our religion in action. She quoted Miss Coleman, the poetess, who says that only those win happiness who make time for the Inscrutable, who see the greater in the less, and who are not entirely engrossed with material things. One of the greatest dangers that the college woman faces is that in the multiplicity of things to do she may not make time for the Inscrutable. But she must make time for it or stand forth as a failure.

Applied Science

Well known, it is what many of you have been waiting to see the program of the Applied Science Club.

Four splendid talks are to be given by four eminent and capable scientists who will be able to deliver their subjects in an interesting and instructive manner.

Dr. Dwyer, the president of the Applied Science Club will explain the operations of a "Rock Breaking in Drifts and Linné."

Mr. Dwyer will also give the opening address of the club and is consequently very familiar with the subject.

Stan Oliver, our V.M.C.A. representative, during the summer months was working with Dr. Grinnell on the coast of Alaska, and is to speak on Monday night on the work in which he was engaged, "Small Water Powers and Their Development."

H.C. Rose of 274 has chosen for his topic "Primary Triangulation," a subject which forms the basis of topographical surveying. Mr. Rose is an M.A. from Queens and a D.L.S., so regarding his qualifications, no one can say, and we only hope he keeps within the bounds of understanding.

The fourth paper will be given by R.A. H. Gallbraith on "Radio-Telegraph Transmitters." Mr. Gallbraith is a 213 man and is prominent in the wireless association. He has chosen this branch of the subject through necessity to limit himself and for the reason that electrical related to the field of electrical engineering than is the receiving apparatus.

The meeting is on Monday at 8 p.m. in the hall, and come prepared for discussion and to fire questions as hard as you like. If you stick your fingers there will be proof on hand to fall back on.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

The Modern Language Club will meet next Thursday evening at the Women's Union at 8:15. Mrs. Bertram Forsyth has consented to address the meeting on some phases of the French theatre, and the programme will also contain a short burlesque. Refreshments will be served.

ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY

ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY

The Royal Astronomical Society, which holds its meetings in the Physics Building, has very special programme for Tuesday evening next February 7, at 8 o'clock. On this occasion several moving picture films will be shown, illustrating the motions of the heavenly bodies. Explanations of the films will be given by Mr. W.A. Park, formerly of Bradford, and the Public Company, will supply two moving picture machines. The meeting is open to the public, and a special invitation is extended to students.

ALBERTA UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

A banquet of all four University of Alberta students will be held at the Waverly Hotel, Spadina Avenue, on Saturday, February 4, at seven o'clock. Please accept this notice as a final invitation to attend.

Forestry

The meeting of the Foresters' Club that would ordinarily have been held on Friday, February 3, has been postponed owing to the Annual Club Banquet to be held in Hart House on Thursday, February 2. Talks to the language are obtainable from Messrs. Rowe, Hesse, Duce and E. A. Stewart of the I. H. H. and IV Years respectively for two dollars and a half, and is this is possibly the most important session of the faculty year in its history that every member try to be present.

LORETTO ABBEY STUDENTS HOLD GAY AFFAIR TUESDAY

Jenkin's Art Galleries, decorated with gaily coloured balloons and touched here and there with blue and white, on Tuesday evening was the scene of the Second Annual Dance of Loretto Abbey College. The guests were received by the patronesses, Lady Windle, Mrs. H. T. Kelly, Miss Madeline Smythe, Mrs. E. P. Kelly, Mrs. Hynes, and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin. Promptly at nine dancing began to the unsurpassed music of Jardine's orchestra. A sit down supper was served after the eighth dance in the supper room off the dance floor. The chief feature of the evening was a novelty dance in which well-known advertisements were used to make partners, the couple drawing the halves of a tiny Loretto pennant receiving prizes. The evening was concluded with the usual waltzes, serenade, and ballroom dance.

Don't forget the class party at U.C.S. Monday, February 6. If you do not know what a cordial is come out and we'll teach you. Class members only will be admitted so turn out and support your year.

Medicine

Medicine! Don't forget the informal dance at U.C.S. to-morrow night. This is one of the famous dollar-a-pair-shoes-and-dance affairs at 8:30. Extra dancing surface, Hart House Punch and I. Wilson-Jardine's Orchestra are the big attractions. These affairs are in the hands of the famous Medical At Home Committee and a good party is assured.

LIBRARY A COSY SHELTER

The Library yesterday afternoon proved a truly cosy shelter from the gloom and cold without to those students who wandered in to enjoy a cup of tea and exchange ideas with the members of the faculty and their wives.

The delightful informality and cordial atmosphere of these Thursday afternoons are making them very popular both with staff and students.

DENTISTRY

On Wednesday 276 held an important class meeting. General business, and the prospects of a class dance were discussed. It was announced that a substantial prize would be given the member of the class who headed in the best class yet. The first Wednesday of every month was decided upon as class-meeting for the remainder of the session.

Friends of Mr. E. T. Guest, 274, are congratulating him on the splendid showing he made in the public speaking contest held under the auspices of the Toronto Women's Liberal Club. In a field of nine contestants, Mr. Guest proved his ability before three expert judges and carried away the first prize, which was valued at $25. In speaking of the contest, the "Globe" says: "He was awarded first place for a particularly clever treatment of the theme, 'The Liberal Party as the Real Progressive Party.'"

Trinity and Osgoode Hall meet on Tuesday night at Osgoode in the semi-final round for the Inter-Collegiate Debating Union's Kerr Trophy. The topic will be "Resolved that with a view to the peace of the world, the present disarmament negotiations are futile." Trinity, represented by Messrs. Spencer and G. W. Lattin, will uphold the affirmative. Osgoode, represented by Messrs. Haydon and Gody will take the negative.

STUDENTS HEAR WM. EAKINS ON SUNDAY

The Works of All Walks of Life Have a Spiritual Significance

"The spirit of the Lord came upon Gideon." This was the text of Dr. Eakin's sermon in Convocation Hall yesterday. He said that the ancient Israelites had a very imperfect conception of the character of God, but they did conceive of Jehovah as being in intimate contact with men. They were disciples of the Doctrine of the Divine In-dwelling. Strong in his great book says that people should look upon God as not the great "Perhaps," but as the great "I am." Early in church history there were two streams of thought the Eastern and the Western. The Western thought was Latin and the Eastern Greek. The Latin conceived God as a Sovereign, Ruler, Judge, remote from the car and mantle of man, but subject to Him. For fifteen hundred years the church has been trying to bring this change.

The great poets, Tennyson, Coleridge, Wordsworth, Shelley, and many others have in the discovery of this Doctrine of the Divine In-dwelling. They represent Him as being in the deepest and noblest parts of man. The aspiration of man is the aspiration of God. However far man wanders, however he tries to escape Him, he cannot escape Him. When a soul is strong by remorse he is not returning to the loneliness of the soul.

"God," said Dr. Eakin, "is often regarded as operating this vast machine from without." His presence is arbitrary and occasional. He is a magnified man, an ecclesiastical dictator. This conception of an absentee God gives rise to grudgingness and casts. To exclude God from any of our activities is to exclude the source of the power of the living God. Only that man who has complete faith sees divinity in all the works of the world. He alone can divine and not vulgarize.

A philosopher once said that a child of eight had asked him the hardest question he had ever had put to him. It was this: "Why was there ever anything at all?" What mean the experiences of human existence? Everything derived in human nature. This world is the gradual unfolding of the divine plan. We are the

THE DEFINITE AIM

What is most needed by every individual on his way through life is a definite aim by which he can guide his course. With it in view every action counts as it draws him closer to, or keeps him back from, reaching it, it can serve as the criterion of every move he makes. The man without a definite object is a pitiable one wasting time and energy trying first one thing and then another without getting anywhere and not realizing why.

This condition is very prevalent among students. So many of them feel that they are in the formative state, that they should reach out in every direction and enter into every activity with the idea that they 'only go through once and shouldn't miss anything.' In a limited sense there is much to be said in support of this assertion, but carried to an extreme it is one excellent reason why so many go through college skimming over the weightier side and frivolous away time, without getting any very definite impressions or an impetus in any one direction.

It is true that college days are the formative ones, but they should bring development in a definite direction. While it is natural that many should come to the University with the idea that the whole world lies before them for their dissection, still after four years of intellectual concentration, of grasping the views of great men as interpreted by higher learned professors, and of mingling with their fellows, character development in the highest sense of the word should follow, and the evolution of a clear-cut conception of the life work that one is best fitted for.

Only when this end is produced is a college course truly justified. Otherwise it is merely the absorption of a conglomeration of facts which will produce only a chaotic state of mind. The student who on graduation can see before him a definite field of work and a dominating ideal has made the best of his opportunity and is a worthy product of his Alma Mater.

THE LETTER HOME

One of the things which is apt to slip into the background in the busy rush of college life is the duty of writing home. Sons and daughters should realize that their parents' chief fear when they send them away to college is that they will grow away from home and home life. The best way to reassure them is to keep them informed of all your interests. Don't be afraid of being tiresome, the everyday occurrences in the life of a college undergraduate are quite interesting and won't be lost any of their interest in the telling.

When you enjoy an athletic meet, a play, or a lecture, you don't describe it in your letter home? Make your everyday life more vivid to your parents and you will do much to soften the fears that every mother and father has for an absent boy or girl. Very little time and care will be required and the results may be greater than you could hope for.

ARE YOU A FAIR WEATHER FRIEND?

Sir John A. Macdonald, on the occasion of a spectacular victory at the polls, when called upon for a speech, thanked his hearers for their kindly expression of good will, but told them: "I do not want your cheers now. It's when I am losing that I need them."

The great statesman made a very true remark. It is when a man is in a losing game that he needs the cheers of his friends.

Let every member of the good old U. of T. bear in mind that now is the time that our team need our support. They have had a run of hard luck which certainly they do not merit. You cheered them during two years of victory. You cheer them while they win two cups this year for the Blue and White—the S.P.A. and the Intercollegiate. The only one they may lose is the Allan Cup and let us whisper, they still have a chance for that.

If you are not still behind them the fault is yours, not theirs, and the stigma of being a fair weather friend should be branded on your brow.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

WELCOME, members of the Farmers' Course, to our University. We trust that your stay with us may yield to you both pleasure and profit. In return we would ask that you judge us leniently. Our ways may not be your ways, but it takes all sorts to make a world and what's the odds so long as our hearts are in the right place.

We have learned that our criticism of the hot showers in Hart House was unwarranted. There should always be enough hot water available to supply everyone but owing to the thoughtlessness of the members who use the showers earlier in the afternoon large amounts are wasted and as a result the late comers suffer. How about the old slogan: "Remember the poor Belgians?" It's worth while adopting in this instance.

To the casual visitor to Hart House the Card Room must appear as one of the least attractive parts of the House. The air is almost invariably stagnant and smoke-laden and the floor littered with tobacco ashes and cigarette stubs. Gambling on University property is, of course, not permissible under the laws of the University. For the same reason games that require "chips" or markers are not allowed although money may not be in evidence. At the same time there is little advantage in keeping the letter of the law when the spirit of them is laid aside. Every devotee of the Card Room does endeavour to maintain the dignity due to Bridge and other card games requiring both skill and intelligence.

Theatre Night

The Editor, The Varsity

May I be permitted to express a few points which struck me in connection with the approaching Varsity Theatre Night? The theatre night, which at one time was perhaps the night of nights for the average Varsity man—was banned a number of years ago due to the efforts of a certain element which went there with the sole idea of having a "rough" party. Consequently after the war, when efforts were made on several occasions to stage a comed-act for Theatre night, there was no demand for it. Because of the bad reputation former Theatre Nights, neither Theatre managers nor Company managers would listen to any proposals which were made.

Now, however, we are presented with a most excellent opportunity for reviving the old and once popular event, and it is up to every one who attends, to see that it goes across well. Any revival of the old "rough-house" will at once put an end to the Theatre Night and Theatre Night will be out of the question for several years to come.

In view of the above facts and more especially out of consideration to the great majority of Students who will be taking Friday-trains, I should like to request any who had not given this matter serious thought to do so, and help put across at Theatre Night which by its example will aid in reviving this old time institution.

In closing, Mr. Editor, might I be permitted to put in a word for the University Glee Club, Concert which is fortunate to take place on the preceding night to the Theatre Night. This University is sufficiently large to fill both the Princess Theatre and University Hall to capacity without any duplication of attendance, and there is no reason why such should not be the case. If you can't get a ticket for the Glee Club Concert take your girl to Theatre Night.

Thanking you for this opportunity of expressing myself

I remain

H. G. Thompson.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS ARE A MARK FOR BEGGARS

Why do beggars always stop University students, that is professional beggars at any rate? A regular Weary Willie can pick them out from a crowd with his eyes shut. He considers them easy marks and pours out voluminous tales of sick families, galloping cars, months in hospital, howling hydrophobia, no work, no beer and no money to speak of.

A Med was stopped on University Avenue Saturday, the wandering one asked for money to buy a meal. "Can you change a ten?" he said. "Why sure," was the reply.

Theological students are a very cautious lot. On being asked for a dime for a bed, a University Knox man replied, "I let see the bed first."

If every male in Toronto over 21, not engaged in the grocery business or apprenticed to an undertaker, contributed to the support of the needy, to the same extent as U. of T. students, the funds would amount to more than eight million dollars every 323 days. (Of course this depends on how much each one give.)

If every business man over 160 lbs. (stripped) contributed the same percentage of his income as these same students, and this money were all in quarters, and dumped into Lake Ontario, the Niagara Falls would be done away with.

The money supplied each day by undergrads would buy 120 ninety year old mud-turtles and eight cans of dew-worms. The interest on six months' contributions at 3 per cent. per annum, calculated every Easter Monday before breakfast, would be sufficient even to pay for hangings and a trip to Green Bay, Wis., allowing for 100 lbs. excess baggage.

These figures have been verified by the Chinese Consul in Mexico, and fully indicate the growth of the philanthropic spirit among the younger generation.

DINING HALL SAID TO BE AFFECTED BY TUCK SHOP REMOVAL

The recent removal of the Tuck Shop from the west end of Hart House basement to beside the Check Room has wrought many changes which are not unimportant to most of the members. Now, in order to check one's lapels, etc., and thus insure their remaining "status quo," one must fight his way through a young regiment of untrained looking beings, who have either a bottle of milk in one hand and a biscuit clutched firmly in the other, or the remains of a "pie" spread unbecomingly about their features. Upon being questioned, these relics of a better day usually reply that they are having lunch or dinner, according to the time of day, and it is plainly evident that they aren't aware that tooth-picks have been added to the Great Hall menu. From authentic sources the Varsity reporter learned that since the advent of the Tuck Shop in its new quarters, and the subsequent addition of several new lines to its stock, the Great Hall has lost some two hundred regular diners per day. It seems that most of these have transferred their affections to the "shop," where one "daily ration" there, not forgetting the chocolate bars and smokes. From these it is possible to select a light lunch at a much lower price than that charged for a meal at Great Hall, and it can be consumed in considerably less time. The proximity of the "Shop" to the Check Room is also partly responsible for the change.

It now remains for some brave person to suggest that the light conical in Great Hall be abolished, which would surely result in a lower meal rate. We speak of the constant dropping and consequent bruising of trays of dishes which are carried on daily, seemingly for the sole purpose of amusing the patrons, for we have not yet discovered any other rational reason for the carnage. If the suggestion which we eliminate meals with the general approval, perhaps the authorities will see the light and give us a cheaper and faster meal, with accompanying fireworks. Who knows?

U. OF T. GLEE CLUB

Notice to Members

The regular practice of the Club will be held on Monday afternoon from 4 to 5 in West Hall, Main Building. It is imperative that every member should be at every practice. Make it a point to be there.

Tea was served by the Cabinet of the S.C.M. to about forty women of University College in the Common Room at the end of Union on Sunday afternoon. After tea Miss Kilpatrick, of India, spoke most interestingly of the various branches of work done in India by doctors, nurses, teachers, and evangelists. The Cabinet was delighted that so many of the U.C. women were present.

ALUMNI LECTURE

To-morrow evening, February 7, the second of the Alumni Lectures will be given in Convocation Hall. Principal Maurice Hutchinson will discuss Lewis Carroll, the staid professor of Mathematics who wrote the most wonderfully fantastic fairs tale in the English language, "Alice in Wonderland."

A short musical programme will precede the lecture. Provost Seager will preside.

GYM. TEAM COMPETITION FEBRUARY 14 FROM 4-6

Team To Meet McGill Squad Will Be Selected

Well, we're off. Our own competition takes place on the afternoon of February 14, from 4 to 6, when the team to meet the McGill squad will be selected.

The team goes to Montreal to try conclusions with the McGill lads on March 11, an hour going to bring back the honours again.

Have you seen our boys in action? Well, if you haven't, take a look in the log room next Tuesday or Thursday afternoon and see for yourself. They are developing some snappy work, and deserve a word of support. How about it?

INDOOR-BASEBALL SCHEDULES MANAGERS WILL PLEASE NOTE

Games scheduled and umpires assigned for the week commencing February 6th. Will in managers please note that owing to the many postponed games and the withdrawal of Wycliffe and Forestry there may be changes in the schedule from the original from now on.

Basket Ball

Present Standing of the Canadian Intercollegiate Basketball Union

Points	W	L	T	A
Toronto	0	85	30
McGill	1	44	62
Queen's	0	41	78

McGill beat Queen's in Montreal Saturday 31-24 after an evenly contested match, and apparently they are once more the team to beat. Queen's have, however, a very well organized team, and there is a possibility that they will defeat McGill in the return game.

After winning the first two games on their own court the Blue and White machine has a commanding lead, and already is well in line for the championship. The team has to win but one game to make sure of a play-off, and if it continues to show the speed and shooting ability revealed thus far this season, should go through the season without a loss.

The next game is with Queen's in Kingston next Saturday, and while Varsity administered a crushing defeat to the Tricolour at Hart House in the first game of the series, it is the feeling of the team that the game will be far from a walkover. As there was no practice Friday on account of the School Dances there will be two hard workouts Monday and Wednesday of this week in order to get the players right on edge for the battle at Kingston.

Short Passes
Leon Smith, Varsity's husky right forward, never feels he has earned a basket unless he scores with a couple of guards on his neck.

Hay did not play for McGill Saturday night. He and Kenner Bell sure had a great duel when the Red and White played here, but Kenner recovered faster.

Varsity's three guards have each scored one basket a game so far. It gives the team confidence to know it is sure of six points for a victory.

Duffin must be a mind reader. Some of his mad dashes across the court look mighty amiable, but he always ends up in the road of a pass.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Well, people, we are still sitting onside with the same old gang. We are going to stay right with them until the last dog's hung and then—well we'll be right with 'em still. Congratulations, Granites lads! You played a darned fine game and we don't lose anything in being beaten by such a crowd. Now don't anybody run away with the idea that we are finished. Varsity doesn't get finished. We will be playing just as hard against our friends the Argos in the twenty-fourth as we did last Friday night. We even have the nerve to figure that we will send the Hamilton fellows home to-morrow night with the story of how they got beaten. After all the odd championship is neither here nor there. The game is the thing first, last and always. The Granites have been nosed out at the post the last two seasons, but they are still the same good crowd of boys. Varsity has lost none of its reputation for high-class, clean, hard hockey this season, and that reputation is more valuable than all the cups and trophies in the world. Ten years from now, or less, possibly one person in a thousand will know who held the Allan Cup for this or the past couple of seasons, but a great many, maybe for reasons they themselves cannot state, will be better Canadians for having been privileged to see and learn from such splendid exhibitions of the art of "playing the game" as Varsity and her opponents have put up. Are we downhearted? Not by a jugful as long as there are Beatties, and Bills, and Neds, and Jacks and Harrys and Hughies, and so on, playing hockey! There were sixteen thorough gentlemen sports giving their best on Friday night. What more could we want?

SR. U.C. DEFEAT JR. U.C. 7-6

Sr. U.C. ably demonstrated their superiority over Jr. U.C., defeating them last Saturday by 7-6. Sr. U.C.'s flashy and sensational play was widely cheered by an enthusiastic crowd of four downstairers while from the gallery the curse of the well-known Mitchener descended upon and completely demoralized the Juniors.

Pequegnat ran wild on the bases in the last inning but it was a most inopportune time. His meteoric stealing of second, third and home plate was completely nullified by a fly ball being caught and himself doubled out presenting Sr. Arts with the game.

Larkin and Meredith pulled off good catches in the field, while Taylor swung a hefty club. The winners will be the guests of the boys at the theatre next Thursday night.

Line-up

played here, but Kenner recovered faster. Varsity's three guards have each scored one basket a game so far. It gives the team confidence to know it is sure of six points for a victory.

boys right where they wanted them. Munro got combative and tried to poke his shoulder through Beattie's chest. I on Mac's crowded him for a Granites played a brilliant defensive game and as soon as Duce came on, Sully took his seat for trying to steal a ride on West's back. Just here Beattie Ramsey scored the prettiest goal of the evening. He rushed alone, hit the post and whanged her in on the rebound. A little later every player on the ice, except Collett, staged a clutch game of rugby in front of the Varsity net. No touchdowns were done. Mc offers fell over to hit Beattie's stick, but it hit him to take a rest for having his stick there. Ios works like a beaver and he and Neil Wright showed up well this period. Neil stuck downing and checking were superb. Varsity took about four hundred cracks at the Granite's goal but something always happened to rob them of the old notch.

When the figures show things were worse they did in the last half the play was more or less even but the Granites seemed to score every chance. The excitement was terrific with good hockey "Varsity" sounding above the uproar. Harry Watson again walked in in two minutes. Four fads in made some dandies but the luck was against him. Stuart Brown had an open net without even Collett to beat when some one tripped him. The tough tackle just about broke our heart. Ascent and Neil Wright both went over to the time-keeper's about the same time. They both had their reasons. The play was just inclined to rough up a bit. Watson slipped in his fourth. I metry played a great game and not one of the goals could be blamed on him. He had it all over Collett, who was saved by the men in front of him. Harry Watson drew a sentence for loafing. He admitted himself he had made it. Sully spoiled Harry's record by slipping in the last one, and the game ended with Varsity fighting like heroes. They played the game right up until the 99 minute bell and were proud of 'em Granites; 5; Varsity, 2.

U. OF T. SECONDS DEFEAT WEST END

Burgess and "Hip" Smith Pull Varsity Out in Last Minute of Game

The Blue and White Second, keeping up their last work in the Intermediate Intercollegiate League, upset the above Saturday night and defeated the West End Seconds 31-22 on their own floor in a T. & D. Basketball League game. The score at half-time was 19-10 for Varsity.

The Seconds opened play fast, showing a rushing, short-passing game with persistent back-checking by the forwards. This forced West End to shoot from a distance, with poor results, and Varsity gradually opened up a gap in the score which reached nine points at half-time.

West End staged a spectacular rally in the second half and by desperate efforts went into the lead by four points with three minutes to go. As in the first half, Burgess and "Hip" Smith came through with the counters which saved the score, and then won the game, though they played almost superhuman basketball to do it.

"Hip" Smith gave his all from whistle to whistle, and MacDougall and McLean did no less well. Burgess came through with two sorely needed baskets, and shot foul well. If he can only keep up his scoring he will develop into an excellent pivot man. Cable and Cook came through with a vengeance, staving off the powerful West End attack when it seemed that nothing could stop it.

As a whole the time really hit us stride for practically the first time this season, playing a snappy, short-passing, rushing game, in marked contrast to the listless play which marked some of its games this season.

Varsity—Smith, McLean and MacDougall, forwards.
Burgess, centre.
Cable and Cook, defence.

IT'S UP TO YOU

For weeks past, Hockey has been the prevailing interest of the men and women in this University. But if one holds too closely to a particular interest, there is great danger lest one-sidedness develop. Basketball should share our interest with Hockey.

It is a great sport, giving just as many opportunities for the thrilling, the spectacular or the dangerous, whichever you desire. To excel in Basketball, a rigorous training is needed, and teams are turned out who are just as hard and as scientific as teams competing in any other sport.

The men and women of this University have shown their great interest in Hockey and have loyally supported our splendid team. The same interest and loyalty should be shown to the Basketball team. It may not be widely known that the women of U. of T. have an excellent team, in fact, a champion team. But it is true nevertheless! Last year this team of experts, carefully picked from all the faculties in the University, went down to Kingston and defeated Queen's and McGill by a small margin. This year, they will have to defend their laurels, for McGill and Queen's are coming up to take them away (if they can) on the 23rd and 25th of February. Hart House will be the scene of the fray and those who know say it will be better than last year. We feel sure of our team; the members have been practising for inter-faculty or inter-collegiate basketball since last October.

The approaching Tournament is being carefully advertised. Everyone is eager to see the U. of T. women become Inter-Collegiate Champions again. There will be only five hundred tickets sold for each game and there are over ten times that number of students at Varsity. It should not be difficult to fill the gymnasium. Elsewhere in this issue further details are given.

The team is doing its best, the advertising and business managers and their staff are doing their bit, it only remains for the third party in the contract - the student fans to do their best. Will Hart House Gymnasium be filled for each game? Will the five hundred tickets for every game go like hot cakes? Will the team be supported and cheered on to victory?

That's up to you!

CAN YOU SAY "NO"?

This is not meant to imply that you cannot articulate this simple one syllable word. Nor does it refer to that lack of will-power which prompts one to form bad habits through inability to refuse a friend's offer, through unwillingness to appear unmanly, or through any personal desires.

Its purport deals with whether or not you can refuse to work. There is a great tendency amongst many undergraduates to take on their shoulders more than they can conveniently carry, and still do justice to the job and their academic work, that is equalled only by the number who go to the opposite extreme and do absolutely nothing for the public weal.

Those who overburden themselves with work outside of their studies are guilty of a double crime. Not only do they fail to execute such work as it should be executed but they bar some who would willingly handle outside work from doing so.

It is a difficult proposition for many of you to refuse nominations. You have worked hard in some prominent position in the past and your work has been well done. Your supporters want you to take hold of still another proposition and "put it across." Perhaps you want to accept. Before you do, decide in your own mind if you can handle it without detriment to your other activities and whether or not by refusing, the nomination will go to some other, better fitted for the position but not so well known.

We are told that "whatever the hand finds to do, do with all thy might." Can you do this or have you "bitten off more than you can chew?" The solution is not to let too many offices come your way.

The Spring elections will soon be here. You will be asked to run for this or that. What are you going to do? Anyone can say "Yes." It takes a man to say "No."

DAFFYDIL NIGHT

On February twenty-third and twenty-fourth, in Convocation Hall at eight o'clock, "That is the Formula of Enjoyment." For on those nights at that time, in that place, Daffydil Night will be held.

Expressed chemically, Daffydil Night may be said to be a complex substance consisting of the Enjoyment Ring to which is linked, by substitution for the Atoms of Care (for Care is cast aside on these nights), the Ring of wit, the Ring of Frivolity, and the Ring of Caricature, made safe by the double bond of Good Fellowship. The whole compound belonging to that mysterious family of Engines, and having a specific action, upon the Spirit of Gloom, fermenting it to the Good Spirit of Fun, wherein it demonstrates its family relationship to the outlanded Engine of these drab days. There is a price upon the head of each, on the one price of outlows, on the other the price of positivity, and for Daffydil Night this will mean that tickets will be hard to get.

This brings us to a discussion of a sad fact. We would like to issue unlimited tickets and throw open the doors of Convocation Hall to all comers. But we can't. Even in Convocation Hall there is a limit to the numbers of seats. We would like to run a continuous performance for a week, but it can't be done. The Actors' Union would not permit it. And so tickets will be issued to each year with due regard for size and seniority with the hope that if their appetite cannot be satiated, it will, at least be satisfied.

The policy of secrecy as to the nature of the performance each year will stage, is still being maintained and the veil is as yet impenetrable, but with great personal risk we approached some of the groups as they rehearsed their stunts and questioned them about it all. 2T1 said "We've got a dandy show." 2T3 said, "We haven't seen any of the others, but we know ours is the best." 2T6 said, "No one else has a chance." We tried to get near a 2T5 rehearsal but the noise was too overpowering. Someone seemed to be singing. We came away.

Watch for Epitaxis this year. It is a wonderful number. We showed it to the Gollin and he turned green with envy, and had to be brought around by artificial respiration and smelling salts. Likewise remember that Epitaxis is only visible once a year, and make the most of it.

LECTURES GIVEN ON "RURAL LEADERSHIP"

AT UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA BY PROF. JACKMAN

Standard of Education Still Below Toronto

Professor W. T. Jackman, of the Economics Department, has just returned from the University of Manitoba, where he was conducting a series of lectures known as the Rural Leadership Course.

The course was held under the threefold auspices of the Manitoba Agricultural College, the University of Manitoba, and United Farmers of Manitoba, and was subdivided into two branches, Professor Jackman conducting the main portion and various Professors of the University and the Manitoba Agricultural College, and others, the minor branches.

The course was given free, with the exception of a two dollar registration fee, and lasted from January 23 till February 3.

It consisted of lectures and discussions on the following:

1. The new importance of agriculture.
2. Land and its acquirement, economic use, ownership and tenancy.
3. Capital and labour on the farm.
4. The proper balance of the rural and urban industries.
5. Marketing of farm products.
6. Co-operation in transportation.
7. Financing the farmer, credit systems.
8. Community activities (church, school and club).
9. Education for rural children and adults.
10. Sources of information on rural life.

After each hour lecture Professor Jackman held an hour of discussion, when the man held an hour of discussion, when the students brought up any uncertain points and gave each other their view points.

As regards the University of Manitoba, Professor Jackman said the following: "Their standard of education is below ours, but this is inevitable because they have not attained our standard in Public and High Schools. They realize this, and in time will reach our standard."

COMPETITION!

"Patches" Offers a Prize

The Editorial Staff of Patches has been criticised for the depressing tone of the stories which have appeared in their issues. In order to remedy this they are offering a prize of ten dollars for the best short story turned in before March 20, 1923. Stories must be less than 2,000 words, bright and dealing with adventure if possible. No theme is absolutely banned, however, and it must be remembered that the chief criterion will be the optimism of the writer's outlook. In case no story of sufficient merit is turned in, the prize may be withheld and reallocated at some future date. No manuscript will be returned unless especially requested.

SCULLERS' SOIREE SCORES A GREAT SUCCESS

Ask any one who was at the Stadium on Saturday night if he or she didn't have a great old time. It was just the night for a lot of fun and any one who was absent missed the best outing that has taken place around "Old Varsity" for some time. In fact, there doesn't seem to have been an event like it in the history of the Stadium.

The exhibition of fancy skating held the crowds spellbound around the small enclosure and you could hear gasps of wonder at some of the "stunts" that the members of the Toronto Skating Club performed. There were three separate numbers: single figure skating, double figure skating, and waltzing by four pairs. The only trouble was that it was so well done that it seemed easy, and a clown who looked very much like the manager of the rink came out and appeared to imitate them, but succeeded only in registering a great number of figures much closer to the ice than the performers did.

The moose-dancing was a decided success, so much so that when the people who were skating saw the fun that the dancers were having they changed and joined in the dancing. By ten-thirty the space set aside for this was crowded. The winners of the races received prizes of large boxes of chocolates, much to the envy of those who did not enter. The whole programme was run off in perfect order, and when eleven o'clock came the lights had to be turned off to stop the dancing and skating.

This is the first attempt of its kind and there is every prospect that with the experience gained a skating party much larger will be held every year. Everybody enjoyed themselves immensely, and the Rowing Club are confident that they have started an event that will grow into one of the important University activities. The committee desire to thank all those who lent their aid in making the Scullers' Soiree the successful evening that it was, especially the members of the Toronto Skating Club. The proceeds will see the Club well on its way towards completion of the practice boat that they are building.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

To-morrow evening, at 8.15, the Modern Language Club will meet to hear Mrs. Norman Forsyth speak on the French Theatre of to-day. Some members of the Club will present a revised version of Victor Hugo's "Ernani," calculated to amuse the present generation, and the evening will be closed with the usual refreshments. A good turn-out of members and friends is expected. Remember, Thursday, February 9, at 85 St. George Street.

VARSITY PLAYING UP TO FORM DEFEAT HAMILTON TIGERS

ISSUE WAS NEVER IN DOUBT—FINAL SCORE 4-1

Hamilton Goal Tender Saved His Team From a More Crushing Defeat

Varsity's extended losing streak ended last night when the Hamilton Tigers went down to defeat 4-1. Every man on the Varsity line up turned in a wonderful game, while Max Smith and Charlie Stewart fought heroically to stave off defeat. Langtry proved invincible in the defence and was afforded wonderful protection by Ramsey and Brown. Bill Carson's stockhandling scintillated and the star centre was always in a position to receive a pass. Ned Wright stuck to his check all evening as only Neddic can do.

First Period
Smith, the diminutive Tiger, centred around from the face-off but Langtry turned aside his snap shot. The Hamilton forwards could not penetrate the Brown-Ramsey stone wall defence and were compelled to resort to shooting from far out. Charlie Stewart made two miraculous saves on wicked hits from Ramsey and Bill Carson. Splendid stockhandling by Westman featured the play of the Blue and White, and the sturdy wing in on should have been rewarded by at least two goals. On a lone rush Carson circled the Tiger defence and beat Stewart for the initial score of the game.

Carson added another counter to his total on a pass from Boyd but Stan Brown quickly retaliated on a backhand hit, a cyclonic excursion on the backhand.

Second Period
Tigers started fast and Boyd piled many shots on Langtry's pads, but Jack was equal to the emergency. Westman shot from the wing but Mitchell deflected the puck to the side. The Varsity forward pained in a trial but a try to the net but Charlie Stewart saved miraculously.

Douglas and Cooper combined for Tigers and only Langtry's remarkable agility prevented the equalizer. Brown's amazing speed enabled him to circle the Tiger's defence but Stan hit the post after tricking Stewart. Hudson was not to be denied, and leaving his check flat footed he added No. 3.

Third Period
After two minutes of play Carson made the game safe on brilliant bit of individual work. Referee Smith's weird decisions set the crowd wild and he sent Stan Brown to the penalty box instead of the culprit, Max Smith. Again and again Charlie Stewart pulled off a brilliant stop on dead-end hits and Varsity missed an empty net after stickhandling his way through. Cooper's bullet shot kept Langtry on the go but the game ended without further scoring.

RECORD BROKEN AT TRACK MEET

McAuliffe Does a Mile in 4 min. and 50 sec;

Monday's track meet produced still another record. Tommy McAuliffe of Pharmacy turning the trick in the mile run. The entry list was not as large as it might have been, but the competition was keen despite the rather one-sided score School amassed.

The results were as follows:
T. McAuliffe, Pharm., 4 min. 50 sec.
J. Cade, S.P.S.
W. Colwell, U.C.
STANDARD BROAD JUMP
K. L. Caruthers, S.P.S., 10' 3 1/2"
G. Smith, S.P.S.
K. L. Caruthers, S.P.S., 28 ft.
G. Langford, S.P.S.
HOP, STEP AND JUMP
R. Williams, Dents, 7 min. 52 sec.
L. Black, Meds.
F. Linday, Dents.

BASKETBALL DOPE

Monday's practice was not as exciting as it might have been. The Senior forwards found little trouble in eluding the Second team's defence and scored heavily. Stewart was consistent after slipping several times on the floor he began to slip in shots from the side with regularity. Smith annoyed the Seconds greatly with his hard and persistent back-checking. Kenner Bell recovered his foul-shooting form and tossed in every chance. The defence men were good at all times, but decided to save their baskets for the Queen's game.

There will be another hard practice Wednesday, after which the team will lay off till the Queen's game at Kingston Saturday.

Short Passes
"Hip" Smith made a couple of spectacular one-hand shots for the Seconds. And he acted as if he thought they were going in.

The Seconds are about due to heat Central "Y" tonight at Hart House. They lost by one point last time, and always put up a strong game on their own floor.

They aren't looking on O.A.C. as easy meat in Quebec Saturday night either. The "Aggies" wanted Western in London, and Varsity will have to play ball all the way to win out.

Varsity Juniors play central Juniors at Hart House to-night before the Senior game. The Juniors are leading the league and need just this one game to claim the honours.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

Well, it looks as if the boys had dug up a few sets of climbing irons and found a use for them, considering the result of that little sixty minute spasm in Mr. Taylor's private mint last evening. Sometime during the first ten minutes one of those rough chaps from Hamilton started to shout "Tigers eaten raw" and though personally we think his expression was rather crude, still we must admit it was deucedly prophetic.

At that the diminutive hornets put up a game contest and were right on the job from "soup to nuts." Carson Cooper put-puttied around like a blinkin' Evernude on a midsummer night and Boyd's cylinders weren't missing any.

Charlie Stewart wrapped up his dud "wrist in a steel jacket and made the boys work for every tally they got. He should tie a string to his stick tho'—some of these times his defense is going to rebel at having to chase it all over the lot.

Beattie, Neddie and Westie didn't climb into the score column but it wasn't for want of trying. Bill Carson's total goes up to ten Louie and Stan get credit for one apiece.

Jack started a game of battledore and shuttlecock in the third frame with some of his opponents but even that didn't help them any. Old Hawkwee beat 'em on every return and won the game "forty to love."

Altogether it was weird seeing and although there aren't many sore Varsity throats, there are a good many happy faces.

SWIMMING CONTESTS ARE WORTH SEEING

Competition is Keen

The Individual Swimming Championship got off to a splendid start on Monday night. Fitzgerald took the all-stars with a total of 1,115 points out of a possible 2,000 in the two events—50 yard and 30 back. Some surprises have resulted on the standing of some of the swimmers. Waldron, who was expected to be well up on the list, has fallen down to eleventh place. The all stars were exceedingly fast and close. All those interested should make sure of a place in the gallery at 5 to 10 to see the events in the diving and 60 yards back.

The results to date are:
1. Fitzgerald ..... 1,115
2. Ruddy ..... 960
3. Derbyshire ..... 956
4. Latchford ..... 929
5. Thrupp ..... 854

WYCLIFFE AND ENOX

In a hard fought basketball fixture, Wycliffe defeated Knox last night by the score of 22 to 21.

Wycliffe had the edge on Knox in the first period. At half-time the score was 10-11. In the second period Knox came back strong, and the score was twice tied in the last five minutes. The game, 22-21, with Wycliffe in the lead.

VARSITY INTERMEDIATES JUST LOSE OUT IN STRENUOUS BATTLE

ST. HELEN'S AND THE EVIL-JINX THWART VARSITY'S HOPES OF CHAMPIONSHIP

"Sandy" Somerville and Ross Taylor, Promoted From Juniors, Play Splendid Hockey

"Good-bye, little old cup," said the Varsity Intermediate Hockey team last night after 60 minutes of the hardest and gamiest hockey seen in Intermediate's ranks in a long time. St. Helen's, though on the whole slightly outplayed by Varsity, came out on the big end of a 5 to 5 score, thus giving them the group and the right to enter the semi-finals. To every man on the Intermediate team goes a lot of credit. They lost but they did not do it without an argument, as a matter of fact two of them. They gave all they had for 60 minutes and that is saying a lot. What looked like a sure victory after the first period was turned into defeat through no fault of theirs.

Two names, new to Intermediate Company, appeared on the line-up, Sandy Somerville and Ross Taylor, both of Junior fame. As one of our notable authorities in the sporting world might say, they were one "sweet rap." Instead of being a weakness as might be suspected, they were two of the best men on the ice. Taylor scored the two pre-1st goals of the night and at a time when they were most needed. At the beginning of the second period, when the score stood 3-0 against Varsity, Taylor took the puck down the ice, beat the defence cold, drew out the goalie, and side stepping him flipped the puck in for the first counter on the Varsity score board.

A few minutes later he duplicated this order and things began to look very bright. This added the necessary punch to the team, and they tore into it with a vengeance, netting two more before the period ended.

The third period opened fast. St. Helen's scored in the first 5 minutes, tying up the score. Varsity tried desperately hard to get the next counter, but luck was against them. St. Helen's scored the fifth and a few minutes later their sixth goal, and the game appeared to be won. But Varsity were not done; they came back harder than ever, with four men on the attack. They kept burning in on the St. Helen's goalie and a lone one beat him, but the goal umpire said it didn't go in and it was not counted. A minute before the final gong Ferguson scored and it again looked as though they might even it up but hard luck was tagging them and the game ended 5-5 for St. Helen's. McEgan, Donohue and Stone were best for St. Helen's. Varsity deserved to win. They played the better hockey. There are no excuses or hard luck stories, but a goal was counted against them in the first period which a St. Helen's player threw into the net with his hand from a scramble in front. In the last period Varsity scored, the St. Helen's goal-tender pulled the puck out of the net with his stick, shot in over to the side and play was not even stopped. The St. Helen's goal umpire said it did not go in.

THE WELL-BALANCED LIFE

What constitutes a well-balanced life? A little work, a little play and the rest made up of the happy medium, which gives content without a virtuous sense of having worked one self to death and likewise without driving one to feel that life is a riotous exuberance, which may end suddenly in boredom. Life at a large university such as ours, provides ample opportunity for work if we want to take it, and there inevitably arrives a season when we have to embrace the opportunity whether we would or not. It provides also limitless opportunities for play and the good times to be so enjoyed nowhere else.

What many of us do not realize is that college life affords opportunities for the middle course, whose activities are neither work nor play, but an indefinable mingling which entails very real enjoyment. One such activity is constituted in the University Settlement. There is fascination and pleasure in the freshness of the children and their naive comments, while sympathy and broader understanding of the world and its people grows from contact with the grown-ups. A comfortable glow arises even from an occasional meeting with Napoleon, the staid and dignified Settlement dog.

When you are planning your time-table for next year remember these things and realize that you cannot afford to leave the Settlement out.

THE NEED FOR CO-OPERATION

The twentieth century puts its trust in organization. Every movement, every venture or enterprise is carefully organized and advertised, and the public avails itself of its success. But organization or careful advertising alone will never bring success to any enterprise or society, they are but the skeleton of the structure, what gives it life is co-operation. We need co-operation today, if ever we did, co-operation among nations, peoples and individuals. We need team-play here in our own University. The best man on a team is not the selfish player who makes brilliant one-man rushes, he is sensational and has his reward; the real player is the man who passes at the right time. If the co-operation is as it should be, there will always be someone ready to receive the pass and carry on.

As in hockey so in college, and so in life, co-operation of the right kind brings expedition and success. The power to co-operate is called unselfishness and is the keystone of true greatness. The chief end of our college education is not a graduate hood, but to form character and to prepare for life work. The man who has learned how to co-operate in College learned a great thing; he has obtained a great part of his life's equipment and is on the road to success.

THE KING'S ENGLISH

"Guard thy speech lest it mar thy fortune."

The injunction of Polonius is more than ever applicable to the average of humanity in the present day. For some years prior to the war flippant, slang, phrases—without any meaning save that given to them by public usage, had been creeping in, from the great republic to the south and from breezy minds within our own borders.

To this conglomeration, during the war, a great many English, French and Belgian phrases have been added until the net result is a weird collection of unconnected remarks in a medley of tongue that reminds one of the critic conversations carried on by a gathering of public school children in their own private code dialect.

It might be said, in defence of some of the war-time phrases, that their sentimental association is strong. No one of "the troops" will ever hear "Cheerio" or "chin-chin" without found recollections of the green fields of Old England or the last sight of the chalk cliffs of Dover ere the channel mist blurred his sight.

But the wholesale use of such terms is decidedly in opposition to the aims of a university education and must be deprecated.

Coming out of Convocation Hall, after listening to a highly technical lecture from Professor Bateson on Heredity and Genetics, into a slight fall of rain that was making the footing rather treacherous, we heard the following remark from an undergraduate: "Good-night, Mabel! Ain't it slippery, Hot Dog!!!"

Perhaps it was the contrast from the studied phrases we had been listening to but the remark has caught us thought, and the realization that there is too little watch keeping by over our casual utterances.

We are moved to ask: "What is the King's English coming to?"

HART HOUSE RECITAL

One of the most interesting programmes of the season is announced for Friday at 5 p.m. in the Hart House Music Room. The Canadian Academy Philharmonic String Quartette, assisted by Mr. Colin McPhee, pianist, will give a performance of outstanding merit. This group of artists needs hardly any introduction to Toronto music lovers and Hart House members are assured of a most delightful and interesting recital.

Education

On Friday, February 10, the students of the College of Education are being entertained to tea by the members of Jarvis Collegiate staff. The Dramatic Society of C.O.E. wish to announce that their first plays will be presented soon. Watch The Varsity for further particulars next week.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"Get Guest's grievances" was the unique assignment which the chief left in his book for us to-day.

Entering his office with our fountain-pen at the slope and note-book at the alert, we respectfully inquired: "Who, O most puissant sir, might Guest be? And who wronged him?"

"Dent Soph—single—reported married, get out," replied he politely, but none the less kindly and swinging about in his swivel chair his broad shoulders animated that editorial speaking, the incident was closed.

"Single, reported married," we muttered, starting off in the direction of the hair of the Cupid-Corridor.

Entering the main entrance we inquired of a khaki-coated individual if he knew an unmarried Dent named Soph. He unhesitatingly assured us that he did and requested us to follow him, which we did until completely exhausted. Then after a brief rest his cheery "only one more flight" revived us somewhat and before long the odor of formaldehyde signalled our arrival at the Anatomical Department on the fifth floor.

Introductions followed. We immediately took him into our confidence. Admitted we represented The Varsity and wanted to know what was troubling him. His reply was brief and to the point. "Your write-up in a recent issue," he explained, "has set me whole whelm of existence. Accustomed as I am to basking in the sun-burn of the smiles of the fair co-eds of this University, I find that these formal bones, which have been directed my way with all the coldness of charity are due direct to the fact that they now believe I am married, and not they, but have been humbugging them for two years."

His eloquent defence of his position and his sincerity would have made a cigar store Indian weep. "Think of Sandy English," said we. "In his freshman year he had the same trouble and was forced to write a written denial to Varsity to clear the air. He got over it. So will you. Cheer up and chuck it."

Backing out of the door to avoid the possibility of some bumptious Soph filling our pockets with style masts d'oranges or Vincennes Argues at some other equally sordid by-product of the dissection, we slipped and fell down five flights of stairs to College Street, arriving at the office sadder but wiser with the definite information that Mr. Eddie Loucks, Toronto, is not married nor his he been. We trust that our 6,000 readers will accept this humble apology for the recent misprint in our columns.

U.T.S. OLD BOYS' MEET

There will be a meeting of the U.T.S. Old Boys on Wednesday, February 15, at 7 p.m. in the Great Hall, Hart House. Dinner will be served and the election of new officers will take place. Tickets may be obtained for one dollar from any of the following: W. R. Baker, Arts; J. W. Douglas, Arts; Ian Strachan, Arts; G. E. Laventure, University Press; C. C. Thompson, R. B. West; D. R. Gunn.

Chamlermaid: I found seventy-five cents in your bed this morning, sir. Gentleman: Oh, yes, my sleeping quarters, no doubt.—MCGILL DAILY

Wearily voice: My dear sir, I have absolutely no objection to your standing on the front door step with my daughter all night, but in consideration for the rest of the household you kindly take your elbow off the bell push!—SELECTED.

Medicine

Here we are again! In view of the huge success of the last informal shine at U.T.S. the Medical At Home Committee is staging another, a Valentine Dance, at the same place to-morrow night at 8.30 (February 11). The same augmented dancing space is to be used and J. Wilson Jardine, musical adviser to the Medical Society, is again supplying the music. Some punch and, most important of all, the same price, one dollar per two, providing the aforesaid two are not of the same sex. Ring her up to-night and tell her about it. Walk upstairs and save ten!

The subscription lists for Dailydill Night are rapidly closing. The tardy ones and procrastinators would do well to see their year representatives before the end of the week. Speak now or forever hold your peace.

MANY CANADIANS ON OXFORD TEAM

Which Defeated Best Hockey Teams of Europe

WILL PLAY FOR ENGLAND THIS MONTH

Oxford undergraduates are probably aware of the fact that an ice hockey team representing this University toured Belgium and Switzerland during the Christmas vacation and met the best teams that those countries could produce. To say that the tour was a success is hardly adequate. It was more than that; it was a veritable triumph. In the six games played "the Dark Blues," as the continental players were wont to call them, scored eighty-seven goals to their opponents' two.

The campaign opened on the 13th December, when the Belgian national team was defeated at Antwerp by the score of five to one before a large and very enthusiastic crowd. Oxford, though this was only their second time on ice, scored a clean-cut victory, and were acclaimed by the Belgians as the latest team that had been seen in the finals of the Olympic ice-hockey games in 1920.

A long and rather unpleasant jump was made to Murren, in the Bernese Oberland, where Cambridge was met on the 22nd. The meeting was brief, decisive, and, for Cambridge, disastrous; for when the smoke of battle had cleared away and the referee, with the assistance of an adding machine, had been able to compute the score, it was found that Oxford had scored twenty-seven times (that surely must be a world's record), while Cambridge had not succeeded in getting any past Taylor, the Oxford captain. After Christmas the third contest took place, this time against the Swiss national team, who were beaten after a good game by nine goals to nothing. The Oxford team was the same as that which had defeated the Belgians, and though the opposition was much stiffer, it rose to the occasion and left no shadow of doubt as to which was the better team. The Swiss were fast and showed considerable skating ability, but were obviously inferior in shooting, stick-handling and in team play.

On New Year's day, in spite of a hilarious welcome to 1922 the night before, it was found possible to move to Chateau d'Oex where, on very soft ice and under unfavourable weather conditions, a Swiss team was defeated eleven to one. A match had also been arranged at Gstaad for the next day, but weather conditions made it impossible.

From Gstaad the march across the Alps to St. Moritz commenced. Here the last ten days of the tour were spent. On the 8th January the fastest and best game of the six took place against the St. Moritz team, who had previously won the Swiss championship and had also beaten Cambridge. Practically all the inhabitants of the place turned out to see Oxford win by the score of thirteen to nil. A game against Davos the next 11 day, which was won by the decisive score of twenty-two to nil, completed a very successful itinerary.

The team was as follows—
 Goal, K. E. Taylor (captain), Queen's (Canada) and Oriel; defence, J. C. Farthing, McGill University and New College, L. B. Pearson, University of Toronto and St. John's, forwards, E. B. Pridmore, University of Manitoba and The Queen's College, R. H. G. Bonnycastle, University of Toronto and Wadham; F. M. Bacon, Harvard and Magdalen; G. R. M. Call, McGill University and New College, D. R. McInerney, University of Alberta and Hertford, F. L. Neylan, University of Toronto and Pembroke.

The team was also accompanied by the selection committee, C. B. C. and M. J. In conclusion, it might be stated that the Selection Committee has invited the whole Oxford team to represent England in the international ice-hockey tournament which takes place at St. Moritz in February, and at which thirteen nations will compete.

Onside With Bill and Connie!

By the time this appears the Senior Blue and White Hockey and Basketball Squads are on their way to Kingston for their last meet with the Tricolour crews. They have a clean sheet behind them, so far as the Intercollegiate Series is concerned, and we're here to say it will be just as clean when they return.

A victory at hockey to-day and at basketball to-morrow, and two little mugs will begin another year's sojourn in T.A.'s private Museum. We know that a prophet is without honour in his own country, but while we're wound up a few anticipatory remarks regarding the reception the boys intend to give one, Willard Box, and his Kitchener satellites next Tuesday evening, at the usual stand, is going to be worth seeing and all to the mustard. They're going to show the "Boxmen" that history does not necessarily repeat itself and that the guardian angel of all good hockey men was dozing at the switch the last time the team clashed.

You won't be able to get seats, all ye fans and fanettes, but be sports. A stand at the Arena is worth two seats in movies—so be on hand.

Bon voyage, gang, we'll see you Tuesday.

WYCLIFFE WIN FROM FORESTRY ON FAST ICE

In their Jennings' Cup fixture on Wednesday, Wycliffe and Forestry provided excitement galore for their supporters. Early in the first period Phipps, for Forestry, by speed and stick-handling, went through Wycliffe defence and beat Swan for the first goal. A few minutes later he duplicated. Some five or six minutes later he duplicated. Some five or six minutes later he duplicated.

In the last period Forestry tried hard and missed several chances to score while Lane and Soanes scored for Wycliffe. Lane and Leigh were the best for Wycliffe, and Phipps for Forestry.

Queen's Establish Arts Fellowship

The University has established two Fellowships, the value of each being $250, open to men and women who have taken an Honour B.A. at Queen's or in equivalent degree elsewhere. At the discretion of the Committee on Arts Research one of the $200 fellowships may be awarded as a Travelling Fellowship, but with this exception the appointments are given only to those undertaking graduate studies at Queen's.

A student appointed to a Travelling Fellowship must submit and have approved a plan of study, and must present a report on his year's work within twelve months of his appointment.

A student appointed to a Fellowship within Queen's may be required by the Committee in consultation with the Department concerned, to undertake work of any of the following kinds: (i) Independent investigation, (ii) Assistance in research work carried on by the Department, (iii) Tutorial assistance not to exceed six hours a week. The holder of a fellowship may be required to report in lectures or in written form the results of any investigations carried on.

Applications must be sent to the Registrar, accompanied with evidence of eligibility, not later than April 1 of each year. The Fellowships will be awarded only to candidates of distinction and promise.

AMERICAN RELAY CHAMPIONSHIP

Great Athletic Competition Planned For Next Spring

WILL VARSITY COMPETE?

Pennsylvania's Twenty-eighth Annual Relay Carnival will be held on Franklin Field, a Friday, April 28, and Saturday, April 29, will bring together the most wonderful list of colleges and schools that have ever attended any athletic meet in the history of college sport. In 1914, Oxford University of England sent over a four mile relay team, which defeated Pennsylvania by a scant seven miles in one of the most remarkable races ever seen. Again in 1920 England sent over a combined team from Oxford and Cambridge which made a new world's record for the two mile relay race. Last year the University of Paris was represented and though the French delegates did not win, their visit was no less interesting. This year a team from the Universities of Italy will be here. The relay management is performing the duty of sending out to bring over a combined team which will meet the individual college teams of this country. The Italian team should, therefore, be strong enough to furnish stiff competition for the American team. The University of Italy has already won the world title in this event, and the big colleges of the West and the Canadian colleges will have much to learn from the Italian team. The Hamilton Collegiate Institute of Canada will be one of the teams to compete for the hours against the big schools of this country.

Though the invitations for the meeting have been out only a few days, already several colleges have sent word that they will be on hand. These include all the big colleges of the East, with a sprinkling from the West, and a larger number from the South than usual. When all the college entries are in it is expected that over a hundred will send teams. Then did just two, when 112 colleges were represented. The school invitations are just going out but judging by the scores of colleges already received, there will be close to 100 schools to meet at the Carnival. The real problem of the management is to arrange the events so that they may be run off in the two days given for the meet.

The indoor season is just starting but already enough has been seen to indicate that very fine performances will be made in all the events. Two new relay college championships have been added to the programme, namely a quarter mile and half mile relay, in which the runners will go 100 yards and 220 yards respectively. These are expected to be very popular and they should give a decided impetus to the development of sprinters in this country. It is expected that the final of these races will see all the fastest college sprinters in the final relay.

The championship events that are listed for the Carnival are as follows:

1. One-quarter mile college relay championship of America.
2. One-half mile college relay championship of America.
3. Two mile college relay championship of America.
4. Four mile college relay championship of America.
5. One mile Class B college relay championship of America.
6. One mile Freshman college relay championship of America.
7. One mile Class A college relay championship of America.
8. Distance middle college relay championship of America.
9. Distance middle college relay championship of America.
10. One mile Preparatory School relay Championship of America.

  4. Philadelphia Catholic High School one mile relay championship.
  5. Philadelphia High School Freshman one-half mile relay championship.
  6. Philadelphia Grammar School one-half mile relay championship.
  7. Philadelphia Parochial School one-half mile relay championship.

There will be the usual large number of relay races for colleges, preparatory schools, high schools, grammar and parochial schools, the latter two being limited to Philadelphia schools. The twenty-five championships listed above would make a wonderful meet of themselves, but the groups relay races are in many cases local or divisional championships and are keenly contested for by the teams entered.

In addition to the above, the following special events open to all college athletes regularly enrolled are given: 100 yards dash, 120 yards high hurdles, 440 yards low hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, hammer throw, javelin, discus, boy step and pump and two mile relay. These events are so high class that the Relay Management ask that colleges enter only their best men. Each school, however, is made in these events or the existing records closely approached. Wonderful performances are expected in all of the events as the best athletes of the country will be entered. The two mile international will probably see representatives from one or more European countries in the event.

Team entries, due on April 1, and managers of college and school teams are asked to send in their entries at once so that the very large number of banners, watches, and medals may be ordered or engraved in time.

PRINCETON'S PRESIDENT PLANS TO PROHIBIT THE PARKING OF PARENTAL PRESENTS IN PRINCETON

Dr. John Torrey Hibben, President of Princeton University, sent a letter to-day to the parents of all Princeton undergraduates asking that they refrain from giving their sons private automobiles for use while in college. The question of permitting students to own automobiles in which to ride, back and forth to classes, has long been under discussion here, but this is the first time that any official action has been taken in regard to the matter.

No legislation will be made at present to forbid such cars, the letter having been sent merely to obtain co-operation of the parents in preventing a large increase in numbers. The sentiment is strongly backed by the Senior Council, the undergraduate body, which was itself made responsible for the attitude, taken as a matter of precaution.

The administration of Princeton University has received numerous suggestions from the use of automobiles by undergraduates, and has given the matter careful consideration. Dr. Hibben's letter said, in general, the policy of the university has not been to interfere with the personal liberties of the students so long as those liberties conform to reasonable standards of right and good conduct. Today the administration is more and more relying upon the student body itself to maintain Princeton's traditions and to establish new sentiment on the campus as occasion demands. The success of the honour system in examinations and the high moral standards of Princeton students due to the professed conduct in student government in all personal matters.

"The administration, therefore, feel that no legislative action with regard to automobiles is advisable at the present time. It believes, however, that it would be desirable in the light of conditions in this country and in the world, if students at Princeton during the five formative period of their lives could realize the value of simplicity and the fellow of simplicity themselves and of the elimination of unnecessary luxuries.

"The administration has discussed this matter with the representative undergraduate body, the Senior Council. While that body feels, with justifiable reason, that this is not a matter for which it nevertheless it has expressed itself as believing that the automobile is not only not an asset, but may be a detriment to the owner. At a meeting held last Autumn the following resolution was passed:

"It is the opinion of the Senior Council that a privately owned automobile is not only an absolutely unnecessary adjunct to an undergraduate's success at Princeton, but that, on the contrary, it often proves a positive detriment to the interests of the individual owner.

"With this opinion the administration and the Board of Trustees of the university are in hearty accord.

"This letter is sent for the purpose of presenting the university's point of view and of answering the many inquiries from parents and guardians."—N.Y. TIMES, Feb. 3, 1922.

School 215 will hold its first class dance of the year next Wednesday evening (February 15) at U.T.S. Tickets are procurable from any member of the class executive, and are not limited to membership card holders. There is, however, an advance to secure their tickets as early as possible as the number is limited to 100, and the lists will be opened to other persons bearing the class design will be on sale at the door. If you have not already secured yours come prepared to do so then. The prices are: Kings, $7.50; tie-pins, $2.75; Pins, $2.65.

ELECTRICALS

You are invited to attend the regular meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers held every second Friday in Room 24 of the Electrical Building at 8:15 p.m.

This Friday Mr. F. H. Farmer, of the Canadian Westinghouse Co. is to speak on "Construction Work." The announcement of the meeting was, in part, "Mr. Farmer's experience in construction work extends from Atlantic to Pacific, and includes some of the most important installations in this country. Handling massive apparatus, lining up great machines within one thousandth of an inch, handling men and following up a hundred and one details, call for a broad range of knowledge and ingenuity. You may, therefore, look one of the most interesting meetings of the year.

DENTISTRY

The Dental Women's Undergraduate Association will hold their second annual Tea-Dance at U.T.S. on Saturday afternoon from four till seven.

All those who were fortunate enough to be present at the very enjoyable affair which was held under their auspices last year will certainly avail themselves of this opportunity to have a specially good time and help along a very worthy object, viz., the establishing of the first Canadian chapter of a Dental Sorority.

Come on, Dents! It's not as spectacular a way to assist a lady as the Raleigh method perhaps but will be much more enjoyable and appreciated. Here's a chance to help our girls along toward a worthy object.

Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Secombe and Mrs. Macdonald have kindly consented to act as patronesses.

Ornamental Club meets on Monday next at 10:30 a.m. in Room 2.

Be sure to get your name on the list for the 215 Monster Banquet! The more who will attend the less we will have to pay. See Pat Riley at once and avoid the risk of not being present at the biggest event in class circles this year.

The Banquet Committee will meet in Room 2 at 1 p.m. to-day.

Forestry

The premier social event of the year is about to happen. On Friday, February 24, 1922, the halls of U.T.S. will resound with the strains (this applies to the saxophonist) of heavenly waltzes, inviting the shuffling of many feet, with girlish laughter, with many voices—the products of many forest surveys—Do you remember that time the camp got lost—with the click of glasses as the punch, lemonade variety, disappears, with (we had some thought for here but we've forgotten it. No matter).

The rooms will be bright—oh, sun, where is thy glare—with party dresses and novel decorations. The boys will all get out their Sunday suits and celluloid collars. Yea! for this is to be a gala event.

Flora will be present for which Sargent has made no key. It will be not necessary to bring calipers or hypsometers. Comparative estimating only. The weather bureau has promised us a fine night, 85% right you know. There will be no compound interest to worry about, just fifty little nickels.

We have made all the necessary arrangements for the parking of cars, hats, coats,

ROYAL DENTAL SOCIETY

J. A. Boyd wishes to say that the next meeting of the R.D.S. will not take place until the latter part of the month. It was the original intention to hold it on either the 17th or 18th of this month, but since that would mean that over three hundred students would have to miss the Dental At Home or the Intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms it was deemed advisable to hold it at a later date.

The proposed reading of the manuscript journal is creating much enthusiasm already. Many good original jokes, limrics and poetry have been handed in. When asked how the coming meeting would compare with previous ones Joe winked knowingly "nuff said."

All who possibly can turn out to the Assault-at-Arms are requested to do so to-night and Saturday night. Dents have a strong entry and the chances for the cup remaining in the R.C.D.S. are very bright indeed. Show your interest in the efforts of the boys by cheering them on.

Remember the Dental Women Undergraduates' Dance at U.T.S. to-morrow afternoon. A few tickets are yet available.

SIR BERTRAM WINDLE TELLS OF FOUNDING OF ENGLISH ABBEYS

Large Audience Hears Another Interesting Lecture in Ever Popular Course on Mediaeval Architecture

The large audience which crowded the lecture room of the Physics Building on Friday afternoon when Sir Bertram Windle delivered the sixth of his series of lectures on Mediaeval Architecture was a further proof of the intellectual spirit and enthusiasm of the Toronto public.

The Cistercian Order was really a branch of the Benedictine Order and was founded by St. Robert of Molesme in 1092. The main house of the Order was established at Cisterciens in 1098. Here the rule of the Benedictines was rigidly observed. To Sir Bertram Windle, an Englishman and a follower of St. Robert, however, must be attributed the order of having devised and modelled the Order itself.

The speaker with the assistance of a diagram outlined the plan of a typical Cistercian house. The characteristic of the lovely landscape surrounding the Fountains and Dove abbey attested the keen artistic sense of the early founders.

The folk lore connected with these early foundations created an added interest in the history of the various Houses.

The speaker described how, after the dissolution of the monasteries, the Cistercian Houses were abandoned and after being ruined and sacked were often used as stone quarries. The few that remain are those which were situated too remote to render the removal of the stone convenient. Dove Abbey is the only one in use today. Lord Scudamore was induced to repair this ruin and hand it over to the Church of England.

Finestra, a later house located in the delightful Wye Valley, marked the evidence of a transition from the earlier Gothic and Norman architecture to the English decorative style. The real beauty and handsome handicraft displayed in the abbey, the speaker said, is still visible. His remarkable photographs, however, were evidences of the true magnificence of the reality.

The speaker then briefly summarized the influence of Minor Orders, the Dominicans, Franciscans and Carmelites in England. He gave a short survey of the work and ideals of the Knights Templars and the Hospitallers, the former having been completely wiped out under Edward V, the latter existing in London today under the name of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

The lecture was concluded by short reference to the associations of the early orders with the various colleges at Oxford and Cambridge and the announcement that the "Mediaeval Cathedral" would be the subject for next week.

DENT PARTY WILL BE AT KING EDDY

Big Dance To Be Staged By Dentals on Friday

Friday evening, February 17, will witness the annual At Home of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons at the King Edward Hotel—a function that promises this year to be one of the most elaborate and enjoyable occasions of its kind ever held at the King Edward.

Those who "step out" to the At Home on Friday night will carry away the most pleasant recollections of a thoroughly enjoyable evening and a memory that in the future will often be recalled as one of the biggest social events of Varsity life.

Dancing will be enjoyed in the beautiful new Crystal Ballroom, to the strains of the incomparable Ronnelli Orchestra, which will be conducted personally by Mr. Luigi Ronnelli, and several musical novelties of a high order are promised.

The following is the attractive dance programme:

1. Fox Trot
2. Fox Trot
3. Fox Trot
4. Moon Waltz
5. Fox Trot
6. Fox Trot
- (a) Fox Trot
- (b) Fox Trot
7. Fox Trot
8. Moon Waltz
9. Fox Trot
10. Fox Trot
11. Fox Trot
12. Waltz

The eight-course banquet will be served. The subscription list—one for graduates and outside friends of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons at six dollars and one for undergraduates at all faculties of Varsity at five dollars—have been well filled up. Those whose names appear on the subscription lists will, of course, receive tickets first, the remainder of the tickets will be sold to-day at the office of the R.D.S. and at the Hall Porter's Desk at Hart House. As the At Home is limited this year to three hundred and fifty couples, one needs must exercise haste in securing the necessary pastebard.

MAN CAN NOT LIVE BY BREAD ALONE SAYS PREACHER

Need of Spiritual Food is Pointed Out by Rev. John MacNeill in Sunday Sermon

WORLD IS TOO MATERIAL

Walmer Road Pastor Warns Congregation Against Too Worldly An Outlook

The Rev. John MacNeill, of Walmer Road Baptist Church, preached a very fine sermon to a large congregation in Convocation Hall Sunday morning. His text was taken from the fourth chapter of the Gospel according to St. John, thirty-second verse: "He said unto them, 'I have meat to eat that you know not of.' Jesus had been left alone by the well of Jacob, where he asked of the woman of Samaria: 'Give me to drink.' When his disciples had left Jesus he was a weary, hungry man. On their return from the city where they had gone for provisions, they found him much revived, and marvelled that he refused the food offered him. His explanation was: 'I have meat to eat that you know not of.' The exercise of his ministry in giving the woman of Samaria God's message, had served to refresh his soul, and Jesus illustrated in this way that a man shall not live by bread alone."

With the material affluence of modern times comes the tendency to mistake the true sources of spiritual satisfaction. If a man appears contented to a degree above his friends, they immediately inquire into the source of his worldly possessions, forgetting that that man who is happy by reason of his goods and chattels has sunk to the level of animalism.

The problem which should vitally employ the mind of man is, "Am I to seek a living or a life?" Mere pleasure, sensuality or knowledge is not "life" to a man. The maintenance of his soul and spiritual life demands something more holy.

NEW MEMBER ADDED TO FORESTRY STAFF

Toronto Graduate With Fine War Record Receives Appointment

During the Forestry Club banquet held recently at Hart House, President Falconer, in a short address, announced the fact that a new addition would be made to the Forestry staff next fall. Herbert R. Christie, who is at present Professor of Forestry at the University of British Columbia, will fill this new appointment.

Professor Christie is a native of Nova Scotia, and was born at Amherst. Before entering Forestry he spent two years at the O.A.C. at Guelph. From O.A.C. he came to U. of T. where he graduated in 1912. After the English armistice he entered the Forestry Branch of B.C.

During the first year of the war Prof. Christie, in addition to his duties as a lecturer, served as a lieutenant during the four years he spent in active service. He was decorated with a Victoria Cross, which was awarded him for a short time. He travelled to Siberia with the Siberian Expeditionary Force, where he was stationed until the close of the war.

After receiving his discharge he re-entered the Forestry Branch of B.C., where his outstanding ability was so manifest that he was rapidly promoted to the position of Assistant Forester. For the last two years Prof. Christie has been with the University of British Columbia, acting as Professor of Forestry.

Visiting Experts Will Discuss Hydraulic Work

Students are asked to reserve the following hours for a course of lectures in Water Power Development which will be given by visiting experts in connection with the hydraulic work of the University:

February 27, 1:30 and 8 p.m.
February 28, 1:30 p.m.
March 2, 1:30 and 8 p.m.
March 6, 1:30 and 8 p.m.
The lectures will be given by five eminent hydraulic engineers from Canada and the United States, each a specialist in the subject which he will discuss. The course promises to be of much value.

It will be of special interest to Third and fourth year men but all students interested are invited to attend. A detailed programme will be published during the week.

AIMS OF GRADUATE SCHOOL ARE OUTLINED BY PROF. WRONG AT UNION SOCIAL

System of Toronto Graduate Studies Is Patterned After English Custom

On Friday evening in the Graduate Union, Library Building, the Graduate Students held their first meeting of the year since reorganization. About fifty Graduate Students and a considerable number of the members of the Board of Graduate Studies were present. The meeting took the form of a social evening, with very short business meeting. Representatives of the various Departments of Study not already represented on the executive were elected to the executive as Councilors. The meeting was held in the very near future was discussed and a vote in favour was unanimously passed.

Prof. Wrong at a short address outlined the aims of such an organization in the life of a graduate student who were from all the universities in Canada and from many Universities in the States. Such an organization was a means of bringing the graduate student together in a common fellowship. The aim of the University of Toronto, he stated, was to produce a graduate school that would be of a different character than those of the States, where the graduates went through a course of study as rigorous as that of the undergraduate. The English Universities on the other hand, left the student very much to his own resources. Toronto University aimed to combine the best elements of the two and to provide a Graduate School of the highest type.

The speaker stated that at the present time, some Departments of the University were much better equipped to carry on graduate work than others. Especially was this the case in regard to the Physical Science. Mr. H. R. Kemp played a number of instruments, after which University songs were sung. At about 10 o'clock refreshments were served. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Dr. Scemmage has kindly consented to act with the committee, in the capacity of Faculty Representative, and no detail is being spared to make this an occasion to be remembered. The At Home will be under the kind patronage of Sir Robert and Lady Falconer, Sir John and Lady Eaton, Mr. H. R. and Mrs. Grant, Mr. Dean and Mrs. Webster, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Willmott, Dr. Gordon and Mrs. McLean, Dr. W. E. and Mrs. Scemmage, and Dr. A. D. A. and Mrs. Mason.

Gifted Quartette Charms Hart House Audience

Philharmonics Are Enthusiastically Received at Recent Musicales

The Music Room was packed to overflowing on Friday afternoon with appreciative music-lovers assembled to hear the Canadian Academy Philharmonic Quartette. Their hopes of spending a pleasant hour in a congenial atmosphere were amply fulfilled by Messrs. Harry Advin (first violin), Manny Roth (2nd violin), Milton Blackstone (viola), George H. Bruce (cello), and Colin McPhee (pianist).

The first selection was Mozart's Quartette in G major, of which there are four movements. The first of these is animated in tone and was played with great spirit. The second is a variation on the same theme as the first, but through it runs a plaintive note a suggestion of appeal. The last two movements are in the minor key, being sad, dreamy and full of pathos. There followed an adaptation by Percy Grainger of an old English folksong called "Molly on the Shore." This is a delicate, airy little renaissance of an Irish piece. It carries a Purkish spirit of abandon and in execution demands extreme lightness of touch. The Quartette did full justice to it and the number was roundly applauded.

Perhaps the choicest item of the programme was left, as is quite fitting, to the last. This was Schubert's Quartette. It is impossible for the music-lover untrained in the technique of the art to show his appreciation of really first-class music. He can only speak of it in terms of the emotions produced in him. This selection from Schubert seemed to contain all the emotions that the human heart can feel—pathos, tragedy, hope, joy, longing. The stirring notes of the cello were at times dominant, producing an effect almost sinister. In other places a martial strain was noticeable. All three movements were profoundly satisfying if the spontaneous and prolonged applause is any criterion of judgment.

Lovers of music in the University owe a debt of gratitude to the Music Committee for these delightful occasions. That they are appreciated is shown by the large and enthusiastic audiences they draw.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT FOR SUCCESS IN ASSAULT-AT-ARMS

Varsity Team Culled From Interfaculty Stars Promises to Figure Well in Intercollegiate Event

Varsity's chances of landing the intercollegiate assault-at-arms to be held here next weekend look very bright now. O.A.C. heads the list with sixty points and take the Davidson Cup home with them. Meds. came second in the grand total, with 41, S.P.S. with 38 points were third, Arts had 23 and Dents 21 points.

The tournament was run off very smoothly. There was no delay between bouts. The two exhibition bouts in the program were very much appreciated by all. In the first, Wilson, 125 lbs. triumphed over Her, took a Har, 165 lbs. In the other Major Biggs and Mr. Walters gave an exhibition of bare fighting.

The behaviour of the spectators was admirable. It was a pleasure to see the program when a tendency to revert to prize ring rooting was evident. This atmosphere must not be tolerated in a similar exhibition during the intercollegiate contests would be very detrimental to Varsity's good name.

Both Mr. Turley and Mr. Chapman are to be congratulated on their efficient handling of their respective tasks as losing and wrestling referees.

We have not space to make any particular comments on the bouts. We can only point out the big surprise of the evening when Charlie Gessage beat Moyer, last year's champion. The embryo champion led the way and almost scored the victory, won by a technical knockout when his opponent sprained his thumb.

O.A.C. completely overshadowed the wrestlers.

The results were:

- Wrestling
110 lbs.—Edgy, O.A.C. beat Towner, Dents.
115 lbs.—MacPhee, Dents beat Rachlin, Dents.
125 lbs.—Wilson, O.A.C. did not compete against Varsity, O.A.C.
135 lbs.—Adams, Dents, beat Oakes, Meds.
145 lbs.—Marston, O.A.C. beat Torrance, Meds.
155 lbs.—Moran, O.A.C. beat Farnsworth, Meds.
175 lbs.—Wilson, O.A.C. beat Inch, O.A.C.
Heavyweight—Mahaffy, Meds. beat Wildman, O.A.C.

- Boxing
110 lbs.—Hewitt, Arts beat Robinson, Meds.
118 lbs.—Cros, O.A.C. beat Greer, Meds.

GRAPHIC PICTURE OF SOMME GIVEN

General Cartwright Throws New Light on Famous Engagement

General Cartwright continued his series of lectures on military subjects by a lecture on the Somme, which was held in the lecture hall of the Military Staff Building on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the Speech Room.

After the regular schooling class opportunity will be given those present to meet the general and view the pictures on exhibition. This is an excellent opportunity to get the artist's point of view and learn the modern trend of Canadian art.

The evening will end up around the fireplace, where snacks and Hart House punch will be dispensed.

Every member of the Sketch Club is privileged to attend, and the Sketch Club makes a welcome. Sketchers, scribbles, and sketches, come one and all and spend an evening to be remembered.

At a meeting of the Senate of the University of Toronto held last Friday, it was decided to refer to the Board of Governors the establishment of a Department of Art and Architecture.

Since the distance of the lectures given by Sir W. Wilson, who was Professor of Art subject, this department has been neglected.

The next lecture, General Cartwright will deliver on "The Events of 1917."

LECTURER GIVES SIDELIGHTS ON MOTOR INDUSTRY

Automotive Expert Addresses Toronto Audience on Highway Engineering

ADVOCATES UNIVERSITY CHAIR

Mr. Fenn Speaks of Motor Transportation as a Coming Science

Last Thursday evening, in Convocation Hall, Mr. F. M. Fenn delivered the first of two lectures in Motor Transport. Mr. Fenn is the Secretary of the National Motor Truck Council, and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, New York City. Motor Truck transportation is undoubtedly one of the biggest modern cities. It is his belief that this country and it is steadily progressing. Mr. Fenn dealt first with the application of the motor truck to the farm operators. The motor truck saves time and space and lengthens the distance that can be covered. The average distance that the new motor is twenty miles in comparison with the old motor, only a few miles away. There is a free coast in the excess of transport to the farm produce of the motor truck. The use of motor trucks. The farm-growing and live stock side of the country were discussed. To the motor truck, the motor truck is a great "find" as it allows him to find a good market. The question of a fuel motor, stress, was gone into. It is useful to those who have a sufficient tonnage requirements to justify in the investment of a truck.

The cost of operation will depend in a large measure on the general operating conditions. Obviously, the cost of operation will be lower in proportion as there are improved highways. A test was recently made in Michigan, in which it was proved conclusively that it took twice the amount of gasoline to take a loaded truck over dirt roads as it did over improved roads.

The lecture was illustrated by slides, which showed the points of the lecture very clearly and were much appreciated. Mr. Fenn favours the idea of founding a chair in the University on Highway Engineering and Highway Transport Engineering. Undoubtedly the question of motor transport is one of the biggest of this country and it will take it as a life work. It is essential that they be trained for these positions. The whole training required is based on economics and therefore the university is the place to receive the required training.

Academic Freedom Is Subject of The President's Talk

Of particular interest to staff and students, the first of a series of three lectures on Academic Freedom, given by Sir Robert Falconer, will deliver an address on "Academic Freedom." A discussion of the question as to what degree of freedom a university professor should be permitted in respect to the subject that he will be lectured in the lecture. Should a university professor be supposed in respect to his political declaration in his lecture?

Sir Robert will also discuss the development of universities in a general and their functions in the community.

No one is more qualified to speak on this subject than Sir Robert Falconer. He has been President of the University of Toronto since 1907, and has written many articles on educational and public questions.

PLAYERS CLUB PLANS UNIQUE PERFORMANCE

Bertram Forsyth's "Playbills" Will Be Next Attraction at Hart House Theatre

Probably the most ambitious production yet attempted in Hart House Theatre is Mr. Forsyth's "Playbills," the title of this season's plays. A reconstruction of the old stage and proscenium has been built, and there will be a key box with a Royal party to sit in, chairs on the stage for members of the nobility, and an orange girl will manage the audience, trying to extract honest pennies from the audience.

The cast will contain most of the people who have appeared in Hart House Theatre this year, and in addition there will be two or three noteworthy debuts. Mr. A. J. Rostance, familiar to those who have attended productions by the Dickens Fellowship, will make his first appearance here as Mr. Matthes, singing three songs, especially composed for Dr. Willan. Mr. "Jim" will play the part of the same, and will appear as the old-fashioned stage manager, besides playing the part of Harriet and numerous other roles. And lastly, Mr. Coli. Mr. Fenn will play the part of Harriet, playing an overture on the harpsichord.

Students and others will do well to remember that Mr. Forsyth will deliver an address introductory to the production of "Playbills" in Hart House Theatre on Friday afternoon at 4:30.

Sketch Club Entertains Prominent Artists

Canadian artists whose works decorate the halls of Hart House are to be the guests of the Sketch Club on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the Speech Room.

After the regular schooling class opportunity will be given those present to meet the general and view the pictures on exhibition. This is an excellent opportunity to get the artist's point of view and learn the modern trend of Canadian art.

The evening will end up around the fireplace, where snacks and Hart House punch will be dispensed.

Every member of the Sketch Club is privileged to attend, and the Sketch Club makes a welcome. Sketchers, scribbles, and sketches, come one and all and spend an evening to be remembered.

Prominent Trinity Dean Resigns After Long Service

Professor Young is Granted Year's Leave of Absence to Continue History Research Work

In the resignation of Professor Archibald Hope Young, M.A., D.C.L., as Dean of Residence, Trinity College loses one of the best known and most respected members of her administrative staff. For many years interested in Canadian historical research work, Professor Young has for a long time found that his duties as Dean and Clerk of Convocation do not allow him sufficient time to carry on his studies and has considered for several years giving up these positions. After a year's leave of absence, which he intends to devote to his biography of Bishop Strachan and other books in Canadian history, he will return to Trinity as Professor of German.

A graduate of University College, Professor Young joined the staff of Trinity in 1892 as lecturer on modern languages and philology. Four years later he was appointed Librarian of the College and received his professorship in 1900. From 1903 to 1914 he was Registrar of the University and during the latter part of this time was also Registrar of the University. Added to this, Professor Young has been for over twenty years Clerk of Convocation, and has lectured in German during all this time.

His duties as Dean of Residence during the past eight years have brought Professor Young into constant contact with the student body, toward whom he always aimed to take a paternal attitude. This has served to place him high in the regard and affection of each student generation, and it is with very real regret that the college views his resignation.

HART HOUSE ELECTIONS

During the next three weeks the big topic of conversation amongst the male undergraduates will be the forthcoming elections at Hart House. To the majority these elections in the past have been rather farcical, but it is time that every undergraduate voter should come to a realization of how important they are. The problem of running a house the size of Hart House, with its many executive ramifications is no mean feat and a position on any of the committees should be considered a honour.

This year there will be a number of changes in the method of electing that should be brought to the attention of all members of the house. In the first place, the present Executives have decided to hold the elections in the house and not in the separate faculty buildings as was the case in the past. All elections will, contrary to former custom, be held on the same day, and to relieve congestion it will, therefore, be necessary to allocate a separate room to each faculty. In the special room set aside for each faculty, executives of that faculty will act as ratifiers.

One of the faults of the present system has been the lack of continuity in the committees. Each year a new body of men took charge and if much lack of knowledge were unable to benefit by the mistakes of their predecessors. This year the outgoing committees will select two of their members before they hand over their duties and in order to make up the required number in the new regulations ensures that of the eight men, not more than three will be from the one faculty.

You will have a chance to prove at these elections whether or not you feel a real interest in the House in which you are part owner. To vote intelligently it is essential that you understand the system upon which the elections are run, and the reason for that system—and knowing that to realize that Hart House elections are University-wide. Your aim should be, "The greatest good to the greatest number." Vote for the Man and not for the Faculty.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Trinity College suffers an almost irreparable loss through the resignation of Dr. A. H. Young as Dean of Residence. His sympathetic insight into the affairs of men, his knowledge of the lore of the College, and his own high personality have done much to mould the characters of Trinity and her graduates during this long tenure of office. Dr. Young, as noted elsewhere, will devote his time to research work in the field of Canadian history, and especially to the production of a biography of Bishop Strachan, the founder of both Trinity and Toronto Universities, a work in which a great deal of money and time has already been spent, and which is anticipated with pleasure by all those who are acquainted with the task on which he has been engaged.

Congratulations, Trainer Wilson, on the showing made by the O.A.C. string in the Interfaculty Assault-at-Arms. Your boys put up a fine, clean exhibition and the Davidson Cup will rest for the next twelve months in the hands of as real sportsmen as it has during the past.

NOT BY BREAD ALONE

and, in time, the soul's fundamental personality comes from the assurance that it is right with God. "I delight to do Thy will," must be the conscious intention in every truly holy life. It is in these words that Jesus reveals the source of his satisfaction. That there is no satisfaction in the life of the body, the man who is content with the material and the temporal, and who is not concerned with the spiritual, is a man who is not a Christian. Paul was strong in the belief that he had not offended against the Law of God. Truly, on the other hand, troubled because Paul "resigned of righteousness, temperance and judgment to the contrary," was handicapped in the discharge of his duty as a Roman governor of Judea by his bad conscience, and gave Paul his liberty. The strength that was Paul's may be ours if we are willing to subjugate our will to God's, where lies the true hidden support of the soul.

Jesus' whole object in living and dying in enduring the shame and suffering of the cross was to do the Father's will and "to finish His work." My meat is to do the work of him sent me. We have more recent examples of personal sacrifice employed as a means to a great spiritual end. Livingstone, under almost insupportable circumstances, could see the vision of thousands of souls reclaimed by his life, and was encouraged to "finish His work." He had need to eat that men knew nothing of.

The blame for many unaimed lives may be attributed to the fact that the life of the individual has not been lined up with the will of God, for the life that has been harnessed to the high and holy enterprise that was Christ's, cannot be other than full and satisfying. Let us examine ourselves, and if we find evidence of some hidden support, we will in all probability be able to identify it with "plain living and high thinking" in its numerous manifestations. We are warned that "the world passeth away, but he who doeth the will of God abideth forever."

FARMER'S COURSE IS LAUDED BY MEMBER

"The course is extremely useful in many respects," said Mr. S. A. Beck, one of those taking the Farmers' Course, when interviewed by the Varsity. Mr. Beck has been prominent in politics since the inception of the U. F. O. party with which he is closely connected. He was a candidate in the recent Federal elections, running as a Progressive.

Mr. Beck discussed the broadening effects that a course of this nature has on the mind. It leads the student to appreciate self-education. He leaves the course to delve into matters which have only been touched on in the course. New fields are opened to him and he determines to concentrate on self-education. This indirect result far outweighs the actual education that one gains at the course.

Another advantage that Mr. Beck noted, was publicity that the University gained. Students go home with high impressions of their Provincial University with the result that people in the rural districts of the Province begin to appreciate the high standards of the University. Thus extension work of this nature benefits not only those in the course itself but the University as well.

Mr. Beck also discussed the education that the course offered to the students. The actual work taken up, although largely cultural, is of great help to farmers from the scientific point of view. As a result of the lecture much good will be accomplished.

The course, since the opening has literally become a part of the University. This year's crop is worthy of any faculty. A class leader, a class leader with a special yell, and officers are indicative of the spirit of the students. Among the activities that will be carried out, is a reception to be held next Wednesday at the On the Ono Club of Education.

THE HONOUR SYSTEM

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Sir: Will you permit one who has attended on Arts and Sciences for four years under the Honour System to say a few words in its defence? The discussion recently appearing in THE VARSITY leaves much to be asked as to what the system is, and why its adoption is under discussion.

The Honour System is characterized by the taking into the hands of the students of the matter of honesty on examinations. The machinery of the system consists, usually, of three or four student-constituted courts, through which may be expressed the opinion of the student body on dishonesty. Practically, the student seldom appealed to, because under the system two or more students, witnessing a case of cribbing, deal individually with the offender, giving him time to correct his work, and not through the court. If the offender, however, denies his guilt, he may file his defence before the court. It is usually the case that the court is rarely convened. There is no "snatching" to university officials; the students are responsible for their own honour, and the observers deal with the offender, and with no one else. Needless to say, a guilty man will never appeal to the court.

The reasons for the adoption of the system are quite simple. In the first place, under professional supervision for the detection of dishonesty, the student is treated as a potential, if not a probable, thief. Under the Honour System the university officials act on the assumption that every man is honest, and can be trusted. This is an assumption which can never be produced under a "bottle of us" conception of the examination hall. See what you will, the examiner who walks about an examination hall is not a policeman.

In the second place, the Honour System is a system that does not do an examinations-strike at the other students, and not at the institution. Every degree obtained by class methods of cribbing is a degree of dishonesty. Every student who is caught in an examination hall is a thief. The Honour System, the students have an opportunity of proving themselves.

Further, the Honour System is a system that does not do an examinations-strike at the other students, and not at the institution. Every degree obtained by class methods of cribbing is a degree of dishonesty. Every student who is caught in an examination hall is a thief. The Honour System, the students have an opportunity of proving themselves.

Does it succeed? I believe that student opinion is right. It has been a success in scores of universities on this continent. Probably it has not succeeded in some, although I have not heard of a return to the old system. If students are consistent enough to admit that stealing information is as dishonest as stealing money, they are ready to oppose the system as the other, the system can not fail. If the Honour System is honestly made a system of self-education, it can succeed. But I believe that the homogeneous Anglo-Saxon nature of the University of Toronto makes it an excellent system for some form of the Honour System.

R. P. MCKAY.

To Varsity: The percentage of co-eds who succeed is far greater than that of the mere male students. Most co-eds who arrive at U. of T. determine to get a firm grip on some unfortunate mother's pride and most of them do it.

Check over the engagement rumours you have heard of in the last two weeks, and see if a meeting of all the parties concerned wouldn't fill Hart House Theatre. A downtown jeweller is seriously considering the manufacture of a special Varsity engagement ring. "My sales to students have been most startling," he declares, "You always know them, they wish."

MEDICAL MEN GATHER TO DISCUSS RECENT DISCOVERY

Dr. Banting, formerly an assistant in the Physiology Department of London University, came to Toronto to work out an hypothesis which he had formulated as to the value of pancreatic extract in effecting a cure of diabetes. Last May Dr. Banting and Mr. Best started work in the Physiology Department of the Faculty of Medicine. After working diligently throughout the summer they were successful in preparing an extract of pancreatic tissue which is effective in reducing the percentage of sugar present in the blood and of sugar excreted in experimental diabetes and thus effective in correcting diabetic conditions. Dr. J. P. Collop, professor of Biochemistry and Physiology at the University of Alberta, is now associated with Dr. Banting and Mr. Best in their work. At the next meeting of the Biology Club, to be held in the Biology Building on Tuesday evening, February 14, at 8.00 p.m. these gentlemen will speak and will give a popular talk on the results of their research in this important and instructive work.

THE "ALL-MED SERVICE"

The Student Christian Organizations of Medicine wish to announce more fully this meeting. Dr. Gould, M.D., better known here as Roy Canon, will give the address of the evening on the subject, "Medicine and World Problems." Dr. Hoyte, of China, and Dr. Chute, of India, will also speak, giving a glimpse of "The practice of Medicine in Non-Christian Lands." The Medical Quartette will provide special music, while the singing will be led by a Med chor.

The Place—Knox College Chapel. The Time—Sunday evening, February 12, 7.30.

Decide now to be there.

come in whistling, 'I don't have to die to go to heaven.' They often return within a few months, however, this time they sing, 'I ain't nobody's darling.' All such rings would be returnable."

Budding law-students however, dispense with the ring. They substitute a very long looking document between the contracting parties. This is locked in a downtown parcel-locker, and the key thrown away. It is only reclaimed in case of extreme necessity.

All the girls in a well-known residence have been consulting the Ouija. The advice consistently given is—"Now or Never!" This is largely responsible for the strenuous campaign being waged in some quarters. A large sign—"We know what we want and we'll get it" have been hung in all the homes.

The results of the University dances, nationally speaking, are just now becoming known. The Arts results are by far the greatest. Meds and Dents ascribe this to the butterfly life led by the aforementioned hard-works. One Med speaking on this subject to the Varsity said, "Us Guys ain't got no time for things like that."

Most co-eds have a secret list made out like a book order.

BASKETBALL LOSS AND HOCKEY WIN AT QUEEN'S--DAVIDSON CUP TO O.A.C.

VARSITY SEXTETTE DEFEAT QUEEN'S 4-2 AND HOLD LEAD IN INTERCOLLEGIATE RACE

At No Time Was The Blue and White Ever Threatened
Good Defence Play Features Game
Westman's Two Goals

Friday night the Varsity senior hockey team took the Queen's sextette into camp in an intercollegiate game. Like most intercollegiate games it was not good hockey. Queen's had a much stronger outfit than that which represented them at the Arena here. Only two members of that line up were in evidence. Colquhoun and defence man Smith. MacNeil turned in a sterling performance in the nets. Our old friend "Red" McKelvey played centre.

The Queen's sextette played a peculiar work-chopping type of game. Their attack was good and showed signs of careful coaching. The game at no time looked like a walk-away as Queen's were always dangerous. The Varsity defence however was up to the form and the Presidents were fully satisfied with the two counters they managed to make Varsity had her usual bad run of luck and Gossler McKelvey to beat.

While Varsity did not look up to form it was due to the type of "funny" that was played. A net was as usual, the hardest shot which he was a little up on save was one of West's corner drives. Old Six is so accustomed to shooting at goalkeepers that he took a risk at John but the "old man" was equal to the unusual occasion. This time old West just to prove that he mean well kicked two talks. Now what do you think of that?

The defence were both good and materially increased the score. Bill Carson was injured and perished all night. However, the Kingston folk will be talking of his visit until next Christmas. Louis Hudson was good but the rioters didn't like the way he parts his hair or something. Neddy Wright scored once and bumped them all, big or small, Cliff Beattie was good for the short time he spent on the ice.

Varsity had the better of the play in every period and the issue was never in doubt.

The score by periods was:
1st Period—Varsity 2—Queen's 1.
2nd Period—Varsity 3—Queen's 2.
3rd Period—Varsity 4—Queen's 2

Queen's	Varsity
McNeil	Langry
Kerfoot	Defence
Smith	Ramsay
McKelvey	Centre
Nelson	Wings
Colquhoun	Defence
Gossler	Subs
McLaughlin	Westman
McLaughlin	Beatty
McLaughlin	Van Horne

The executive and members of the Varsity Assault-at-arms team will have their pictures taken at 5 p.m. in the Big Gym on Tuesday afternoon.

INDOOR BASKETBALL

Games scheduled and umpires assigned for week commencing February 13th.

Monday, February 13th—Sr. U.C. vs. Vic.—4 p.m. Umpires—Ford and Rivers.

Tuesday, February 14th—Sr. School vs. Trinity—4 p.m. Umpires—Johnston and Stanton.

Tuesday, February 14th—Sr. School vs. Jr. Dents—4 p.m. Umpires—Reburn and Sanger.

Wednesday, February 15th—Sr. U.C. vs. Sr. Dents—4 p.m. Umpires—O'Donoghue and Muirhead.

Thursday, February 15th—Jr. P.C. vs. Jr. Dents. Umpires—Binkley and Mutar.

This game has been moved forward one day since on Friday the Intercollegiate Fencing, Wrestling and Boxing Tourney will need the big gym.

Basket Ball

JR. SCHOOL 36—O.A.C. 19

Junior School quintette outplayed O.A.C. in Hart House Gymnasium on Saturday Feb. 24th. The O.A.C. team was never dangerous. School's defence men kept them well out from the basket when shooting. Lloyd (Capt.) starred for School.

274 SCIENCE DANCE

Have you seen the priceless paintings on the notice 1. ads in the Engineering and Mining Buildings? Art critics say they are without a peer in the advertising world. Naturally you have examined them and found out to your delight that there is to be a 274 Twilight Dance at Columbus Hall on Saturday afternoon, February 18th from 3 to 6 p.m. With the Novelty Sextette furnishing the music and with Colquhoun satisfying the most voracious of tastes the minimum expenditure of $1.50 will secure a maximum of enjoyment.

QUEEN'S HAND VARSITY SURPRISE IN BASKETBALL

Haslam Plays a Wonderful Game
Scoring Eleven Field Baskets

Furnishing the second surprise to come from Queen's this year the Presbyterian Basketball Team humped its way to a 35-26 victory over the Blue and White quintette in a contest featured by its strenuous character. The half-time score was 13-11 for Queen's, who showed considerable improvement in several departments, but above all, in shooting, since they appeared on the Hart House floor earlier this season.

Play opened fast and Queen's rushed the play, but their forwards blew several easy chances. Smith batted in a rebound for Toronto, and Gill counted from the side a few minutes later. Haslam and Thomas came back for Queen's, and the lead fluctuated for about ten minutes. The play began to slow up under the heavy checking—the heaviest this season—Graham scored a spectacular one when he dribbled down the centre, fell, regained his feet and scored from a good distance. With about a minute to go Haslam scored, putting Queen's up by two points.

Soon after the second half began Logan scored a lovely low skimming shot from halfway, tying the count. The Queen's guards blundered and checked strenuously, and the Varsity forwards had to resort to hard shots, on which they had ill kinds of hand luck. The teams battled bitterly till about the middle of the half, when, with the score 16-16, Haslam, who had shot well all the game, suddenly broke loose and gave one of the most spectacular shooting exhibitions ever seen in intercollegiate basketball, scoring repeatedly with a peculiar twisting one-hand shot from the right-hand corner of the court. Varsity fought steadily, but seemed to be stale and to lack the pep which had characterized their play in previous games. In the dying moments of the game Kenner fell twice dribbling down the side, broke loose from flying tackles, and scored, but his efforts came too late.

Haslam was the outstanding man on the floor, scoring eleven field baskets and one foul shot, some of his shooting being almost uncanny. Queen's have always played good combination, their man Jack was forward, who could get baskets. If Haslam keeps up his good work the Tricolour should be heard from in years to come. Thomas backed up his efforts ably at centre. Bell and Smith played well on the attack for Toronto, but the best work was turned in by Captain Graham, who held his own scoreless all afternoon, scored a pretty basket, and was a big factor in the play throughout.

The Blue and White are certainly surprised, but far from daunted at the reverse. They still lead the league, and fully intend to reach intercollegiate honours by defeating McGill in Montreal next Saturday.

Toronto—Smith, r.f. (10); Gill, l.f. (11); Bell, c. (10); Graham, r.g. (2); Duffin, l.g.; substitutes—Stewart and Logan (1). Queen's—Haslam, r.f. (23); Thomas, l.f.; Jones, c. (8); Ellis, r.g. (2); Lewis, l.g. (1); substitutes, Moore and Gibson.

The Dental Women undergraduates' Dance at U.T.S. was all that the optimistic advertising committee promised, if not more. Dancing started at about four-fifteen and continued till seven, with a brief intermission at half time for a very deliciously served lunch.

As this was a move of raising money to put the R.C.D.S. in touch of an International Dental Society on its left the Dental girls are to be complimented and congratulated on the very great success of their efforts, which undoubtedly eclipsed those of last year.

RUDDY LEADS IN SWIMMING HONOURS

Has Done Well in Each Event and Leads by Good Margin

It looks as though Ruddy of U.C. has come off with premier honours in the all round Swimming Championship. He has the creditable score of 3,363 points out of a possible 6,000 in the six events, an average of over 560 in each. The meet has been a thorough success and has certainly lived up to the expectations of Mr. Durman when he presented the Cup. The closeness of the scores indicates how closely each event was contested.

Although the figures quoted above are not final as some of the entrants have not completed their six events yet, Fitzgerald, Conklin and Uron have either one or two events to complete yet, while Harston through sickness will be allowed to run off his six event next week. Ruddy's individual score in the six events shows the high standard of his play throughout the meet.

Fletcher (Nemo) Waldron, U.C. has been awarded the Diploma of the Royal Life-Saving Society, one of the most coveted awards in the realm of swimming and life saving.

The requirements of this distinction, as given by Mr. Winterburn, swimming Director at Hart House, are:

- (1) Fully dressed, even to boots or shoes, the applicant must rescue a person by the "arm carry."
- (2) Under on the surface of the water.
- (3) Float motions and horizontally on the surface of the water.
- (4) Plunging, Diving and Swimming ability.
- (5) Demonstrate 5 movements of Fancy Swimming.

(a) Write a thesis on, (a) swimming; (b) the lungs and respiration; and the theory of circulation; (c) The effects of excessive exercise and fatigue; (d) Precautions against cramp.

As far as can be ascertained, Mr. Waldron is the first male student in the history of the University to be granted this award. Miss Bryans of the C.O.E. is the only lady swimmer who gained the Diploma while attending Varsity.

VARSITY HANS GREEN SHIRTS THE MERRY RAZZ IN FRIENDLY TUSSLE

AFFIRMATIVE WINS BIG HOCKEY DEBATE

Pass Resolution to Support
Women's Hockey Team
on February 24th

A most successful and epoch-making debate took place recently among large numbers of Co-ed hockey supporters. Owing to the lack of a Hart House in which to hold the grand rally and argument, the function took place all over the university, from the lower halls of U.C. to the link at Lillian Massey. The subject debated was "Resolved that all the men should turn out in a body to support the Women's hockey team at the Arena on February the 24th."

The affirmative was supported by large numbers of women, who, to save time, all spoke at once for five minutes. Many marvellous and positively convincing arguments were given, all of which could not be heard in the general uproar, but the following were extracted, and were considered sufficient to present the case.

1. The women have turned out to all the hockey games this year for which they could lay, beg, borrow by stealth, wangle, or in any manner procure a ticket. Others have attended faithfully and willingly, upon the smallest possible amount of persuasion from any source whatever, having no other choice but to go.

2. All intercollegiate sport should be strongly supported by the whole university. The forthcoming conflict, a new departure in the realm of sport, needs this particularly.

3. The Arena, half-empty, is more depressing than the county jail. It causes the good spirits of the teams to drop out of sight. Don't let them feel that nobody cares.

4. The hockey club needs the money badly.

5. The game is going to be worth three times the money. The teams in splendid shape. In so far as possible, its truly representative of the whole university, and should, therefore, be supported by all faculties.

6. McGill will be hard to beat. You will be needed to cheer on the team.

7. Ad infinitum.

No arguments were given by the negative. The judges, who were the debaters themselves, were unanimous in awarding the decision to the affirmative.

VARSITY WOMEN'S HOCKEY TEAM CHOSEN

The following will be the team which will meet McGill on February the 24th at the Arena, as far as can be known. This is subject to alteration.

Centre—Marjory Fenwick or Grace Stanley
Left Wing—Marie Thomas or Marion Hilliard
Right Wing—Mary Thom or Margaret Dow
Defence—Gertrude Wallis and Margaret Thomas
Goal—Adelaide Macdonald
Perle Banbury, Coach.

Water-Polo

The candidates for the Varsity Swimming and Water Polo teams put in a hard practice last night in the tank. Koefler, Latchford and Harston did a fast hundred. Reilly and Uron had a tussle in the 200 yards, Reilly coming in first in remarkably fast time. Fitzgerald did a pretty 100 in his favourite breast stroke.

The water polo finds staged a real battle in the half hour before lights were blown out. The team has improved 100 per cent. over last year and should make McGill's colours look pink. In the practice the teams lined up:

Bell...Goal...Roberts
Conklin...Defence...Welster
Waldron...Shinbain
Wells...Centre...Woods
Reilly...Forward...Harston
Fitzgerald...Higgs
Relyen, Dossie, Derbyshire and Riley relieved.

MEDS. TIE O.A.C. IN FIRST HOME AND HOME HOCKEY GAME

Jr. Meds. Jennings' Cup team played O.A.C. in Guelph on Monday. The game was very fast and clean and both sides contested on excellent ice. Jr. Meds. broke into the scoring early with a goal by White which was quickly followed by a tally by O.A.C. The period ended a tie, score, 1-1.

Both teams maintained a terrific pace throughout the rest of the game. Aggie's score in third only to have it tied with a pretty rush and shot by Lively. This finished the scoring and game ended a two all tie.

The visiting team are greatly indebted to O.A.C. and were much impressed with the royal treatment accorded them on their short stay. This certainly tends to promote friendly relations among inter-faculty teams.

The play off takes place this afternoon at 2 p.m. at the Arena. All loyal Meds. are asked to turn out and support the team.

The Varsity All-Star Women's Basketball Team is playing a trial game with Margaret Eaton School Gymnasium, Yonge Street, Friday at 5 o'clock. Last time the score was 32-31 in favour of U.O.T.

VARSITY AMAZING ONES

What! ye sons and daughters of the Blue and White, behold the likeness of our valiant band, who will step on to the ice February 28 that they may uphold the honour of Varsity 'gainst the Red and White. Are we going to be there? Sure we are, every one of us, and we'll make the old rafters of the Arena ring for joy when Grace Stanley stick-handles her way through the McGill team. Then watch Marie Thomas. Talk about speed! Well, there isn't any use, you'll just have to see it. Our girls are right out to win, and if hard work and condition can do it, the coach says—that that would be giving away secrets. Anyway we'll see another honour hoisted under the Blue and White. Just to watch Langtry's disciple, Adelaide Macdonald, stop them if they ever do get past defence, to look at Mary Thom putting the fear of the game into our opponents' goalie and to listen to the zip of the puck when May Dow connects with it for a goal, will send along those little thrills which make us glad we didn't miss the game.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM IS OUT FOR VICTORY AGAIN

Basketball is again to play a very prominent part in women's activities at Varsity. The Varsity team is better, if that is possible, than that which came back from Queen's last year, laden with laurels. The enthusiastic coaching and directing of Mr. Moore, who coached Varsity last year, and the longer time for practice, have all combined in our favour. The team has been supervised splendidly by Doris Wood, who is also an enthusiastic player herself. The team has been very little changed. The two "freshies" who made the team are: Hazel Taylor, U.C.; B. Oakes, Vic. The other seven are the same as last year.

M. Burridge, D. Frapp, W. Snyder, forwards; M. Asman, centre; J. Sher, P. Young, M. Donaldson, guards.

Personnel

M. Burridge ("Mardie")—a girl from the Golden West, with a reputation for basketball that travelled far before her. She is a wonderful shot, making some seemingly impossible baskets. "Mardie" devotes much time and enthusiasm to basketball.

D. Frapp ("Doady")—A Bishop Strachan girl who spent four years at St. Hilda's where she was prominent in athletic activities. Now in her last year Meds she is playing for Varsity. She is a dependable forward and with Mardie Burridge, her combination, "can't be beat."

W. Snyder ("Wyn")—An ex-Havergal girl, now in her third year English and History. An all around good sport, and an enthusiastic participant in all academic activities, she is a veteran of the champions of last year. She plays hockey and holds the tennis championship of Victoria College. She has been for some time a hot person on her College team as a good forward.

M. Asman—A Bishop Strachan girl who in her first year made the Varsity team as centre. A U.C. girl, she is in second year General Arts. She plays tennis, and can always be depended upon when enthusiastic backing is needed. She is quick and agile, and always where she is needed on the floor.

Hazel Taylor ("Bones")—A Whitby graduate, the captain of Whitby's team last year, and one of the head girls of the school. Now at U.C. in First Year Pass Arts, she plays on her faculty hockey and basketball teams. As a jumping centre, she is alert and always gets "the jump." She is one of the two new members of the team, the other being

B. Oakes ("Bokes")—As a true "Vic" student she is an all around good sport and a splendid player. She is a resident at Annesley and prominent in the college societies. A very fast shot, she scores much sensational passing to basketball.

L. Sher ("Lil")—Another "Med" who has helped greatly to enable her faculty to win the interfaculty basketball championship. She is in her third year of the six year course and has not the time to specialize in hockey as well as in basketball. "Lil" is a strong cheer and has sticking abilities that make her an outstanding cheer.

Phyllis Young ("Phil")—"Phil" is in fourth year Medicine but she is living at St. Hilda's, where she is the tennis champion. She is also renowned as the champion woman diver in U. of T. She is the President of St. Hilda's Athletic Society and Representative of the Basketball Club to the Directorate. She holds her position as cheer on the Varsity team although several splendid players have been competing for it.

Mary Donaldson ("Molly")—She is on the U.C. Basketball and Hockey Teams, swims, plays tennis and still manages to give 11 o'clock moment to the Literary Society. As a cheer on the Varsity team she journeyed to Queen's last year and is still here with flying colours.

S.P.S. Wins Interfaculty Track Meet By Large Margin

The last of the indoor track meets was held in Hart House Monday, February 14.
School, which amassed a big lead early in the season, won the interfaculty honours by a big margin. The final standing is as follows:

S.P.S.	62
Dent	20
Pharmacy	13
Meds	12
U.C.	9
Vic	6
Forestry	1

Caruthers broke his own record for the standing high jump, clearing the bar at 4' 9". The 100 yards provided keen competition and many tie results which were not run off and the judges discarded the points. The results were as follows:

Well Known and Reliable Shades
Express Favourable Opinions of The Varsity

"Words, words, words." So said Hamlet when asked by Polonius what he read. Long discussions and long research had failed to bring to light what he was reading until in the light of recent scientific study it has been disclosed that it was The Varsity. The nature and occupation of a student when he was called home suddenly to Elsinore and naturally enough he had the undergraduate newspaper forwarded to him there. During the interview Hamlet went on to say that the matter was chiefly slanders, a ying that old men have grey beards, which would probably hinder the students from hearing them, that their faces are wrinkled and that they have a "plaintful lack of wit." Needless to say, since Hamlet died and worms have eaten him, the undergraduate newspaper no longer indulges in such slanderous criticisms of the "father of learning."

Mark Antony, whose historic speech at Caesar's funeral is so well known, was so pleased with The Varsity's report of his speech that he had the speech as it is for Shakespeare, instead of relying on the other less reliable organs of the day. Even Chesterton admits that the speech as given by Shakespeare is better than the one given by Shakespeare, and goes on to say that most of the modern reporters would have ruined it, and mere torn fragments would have been handed down to posterity.

But the remarks on the subject of the Varsity have not always been so favorable. A famous speech once was heard to say that The Varsity used to be read for its literary value and had now descended to a mere notice of meetings and reports of lectures, meetings, dances and all the other tomfoolery associated with undergraduate life. But who knows better than before we can always look elsewhere for literature, but where else could we get the third, fourth and fifth editions of the dates at which, unfortunately, we were not present or read the Sunday sermon which we missed in carelessly skipping past the agonizing hour. The Varsity certainly has its uses. May it never die.

VALUE OF SOCIAL SERVICE WORK

Miss McGowan spoke of the close field work that is done in the industrial social work in the city. The instructors endeavor to find out the needs and what types of social work they are likely to enter. The students enter agencies as workers, under close supervision of directors, and their work is carefully graded as the student learns to take on more responsibility. They do a great deal of social exploring, agency work and investigation, and a great deal of study is made of the resources which the city offers. It is desired to educate people as to social conditions and what can be done. The service given by the students is what their resourcefulness in difficult situations.

There is also a need for hospital nurses who are desired to show them the bearing of their work in social work in general and to get the proper perspective of their work.

The Social Service Extension Department is doing a great deal in the way of committees, work with the city, and in national organizations. People look to it for collaboration. A social worker's exchange is contemplated which will be used as an employment bureau and can be used in which the Toronto department has been very successful at some time.

Professor Dale is to address the next vocational meeting of the S.A.C. on March 13 on "Social Service as a Profession."

GRADUATE STUDIES ENCOURAGED BY U.S.

An undergraduate co-ed often feels that, after her four years at the university, her college days are over. But this need not be true in many cases. There are literally hundreds of opportunities for graduate study open to any student who desires to embrace them. And what could be more enjoyable than to spend the year or so after graduation in following up some special subject in which one is interested?

Our own Alma Mater, to say the least, has so far done little to encourage graduate study. This, however, is a line of activity which has been strongly advocated, especially recently, and already a few steps have been taken. We have a fellowship in Philosophy, one in scientific Research, and a number of tutorial fellowships in Mathematics, Chemistry and Biology, which are open to graduates. There is also one especially for women in the Household Science Department.

The lack of sufficient graduate scholarships awarded by our Canadian universities has driven students who wish to do post-graduate work to the United States or some foreign country to do so. There is no lack of opportunity and encouragement for such work in the American colleges. The American Association of University Women has had compiled and published a list of graduate fellowships in this continent which are open to women. This list comprises fellowships in every conceivable branch of study: Agriculture, Anthropology, Architecture, Bookbinding, Business, Economics, Education, Engineering, all kinds of Industrial Research, Medicine, Music, Social Work and Theology and but a few of the subjects that are encouraged. In addition there are some eighty or so fellowships for which the student may decide her own course of study or investigation. All told there are over four hundred of these fellowships offered each year by American colleges, and tenable in all parts of the country.

In addition to the increased academic education the holder of one of these fellowships has the experience of life in a different university, among different people, and different methods. This tends to broaden one's outlook and adds materially to one's general education. It means new associations, new friendships, and the stimulus and zest arising from contact with new ideas and influences.

Education

How many of you have smiled and wept (but mostly smiled) at "Pantalone, The Little Minister" or "The Admirable Crichton"? If you love Barrie as we do you just can't resist coming to see his "Twelve-pound Look" which is being presented this week at the T.S. Schools by the C.O.E. Dramatic Society. It is a modern and intensely human thing. If you haven't already read the book we give you three guesses what a two-pound look is, but even then you couldn't be sure you were right unless you came and found out for yourself. No doubt but that the reason we have written it is because we simply couldn't think of another thing going on that isn't at least two pounds of competition of downtown theatres daunts. Our second play, also one-act, is ultra-modern. In fact, it was written by one of our own C.O.E. students, E. Phillips who is also directing it. It is based on G.B. Shaw's "Superman" but compared to this production George Bernard Shaw is no longer a factor. To tell you any more about it wouldn't be fair. We hope we've aroused your curiosity sufficiently so you'll come and see these two plays. February 18 at U.T.S. Assembly Hall. The price of admission is only 35 cents.

GUILMANT'S SONATA IS FEATURE OF RECITAL

Large Audience Hears Fine Music

An interesting, though somewhat extended Introduction leading into an Overture of slightly quicker tempo, with a very brilliant ending, composed the concert. February 18 at U.T.S. Assembly Hall. The price of admission is only 35 cents.

A delightful contrast to the first number was the charming Romance sans Paroles, by Edvin Lemare. This number is of the type characteristic of Mr. Lemare, and has a delicacy and softness that is very pleasing. Without doubt, the biggest selection on the programme was Guilmant's Sonata in D Minor, the greatest work of France's greatest organist. The most striking feature of the first movement, the "Introduction et Allegro," was the contrasting of themes, the bold and vigorous, the other more gentle in style. The first theme was introduced brilliantly by the pedals, and throughout the allegro was given a constant accompaniment of fortissimo and pianissimo. The Pivotal movement which takes the place of the usual slow movement has in it a great deal of melody, and finally, a suggestion of merry-making, interrupted at intervals by the sound of the organ in the distant church, and finally, a close of the theme. In sharp contrast to this peaceful movement comes the almost startlingly abrupt beginning of the third movement. To object of the Allegro in a somewhat grand style working up to a final climax.

Minuet Villancos, by Stepan Esipoff, is a short number of light character, arranged by Mr. Moore for the organ. Although called a minuet, it is an old dance form in triple time, with delicate air. This was greeted with such enthusiasm that Mr. Moore very kindly repeated it.

The second number in this group was Ralph Kinders' "In Moonlight." Picturesque as it was, the title gives a perfect idea of this number, for it was a moonlight night set to music.

The programme closed with a rousing "Rappoldi Italiana" by Pietro Yan, in which appeared many familiar Italian airs. It is vividly popular in the style typical of Italian music.

One may truly say that this was one of the most delightful of the series of organ recitals which Mr. Moore has been giving, and it is to be regretted that more did not grasp this opportunity to enjoy an hour of inspiring music.

SUMMER SESSION

This summer, the University of Toronto will hold a five week's session for teachers. This course will begin July 2nd and end August 5th. The subjects will be as follows:

Second Year—English, Mathematics, French, Botany.

Third Year—English, Psychology, Botany.

Fourth Year—To be arranged. Any subject will be given for which a reasonable number of applications received before May 1st, 1922. This session offers an opportunity to spend five weeks of profitable study in pleasant surroundings and under ideal conditions. The Department of University Extension undertakes to answer fully, courteously and promptly all enquiries relating to the course.

MOCK PARLIAMENT

In order to put into practice some of the principles of public speaking taught at the short winter course for farmers, members of the course are holding a Mock Parliament this evening in West Hall. This afternoon the Ontario College of Education is giving a reception for those in the course.

The closing feature of the course takes place to-morrow night when a dinner will be held in the Great Hall, Hart House, at 7:30 p.m. Sir Robert Falconer will preside and among the speakers will be Mr. J. J. Morrison, Mr. Staples and Mr. W. J. Dunlop.

TEA DANCE

St. Luke's Guild are holding a dance at the Parish Hall, corner St. Vincent and St. Joseph Streets, on Saturday, February 18, from 3 to 6 p.m.

Bring a lady and one dollar.

St. Hilda's

St. Hilda's College entertained the Anglican Club of the University of Toronto at tea yesterday afternoon. The tea-rooms were decorated with daffodils, while yellow shades on the lights helped to carry out the colour scheme. Besides the Anglican women of the University, there were present the Executive of the Toronto Branch of the W. M. Division of Trinity and Wycliffe Colleges, Bishop and Mrs. Reeve, Bishop and Mrs. Stringer, Bishop and Mrs. Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. St. John, Miss Strickland, Miss Bowman, Miss Strickland, and others. The guests were received by Miss Cartwright, Miss Pittman, Miss Benore, and Miss Gillard.

SKETCH CLUB NOTES MEETING OF EMINENT ARTISTS AND MEMBERS OF CLUB

Last evening a most enjoyable meeting was held in the Sketch Room of Hart House.

Among the guests of the evening were such eminent artists as Wiley Grieg, H. S. Palmer, F. H. Varley, A. Lzini, F. Haines, C. W. Jeffries and F. Bridgen. Both artists and students alike made a drawing of a study provided, and Mr. Bridgen gave his worthy criticism in aid of the latter.

Afterwards Mr. Fairley, Chairman of the Sketch Room Committee made a very fitting address, offering several ideas to which Mr. Haines added a few suggestions for the club.

Later refreshments were served and the members present conducted by Mr. Bickerstaff, Warden of the House took a stroll through the different rooms in which paintings were on exhibit. The meeting broke up at eleven o'clock with everybody rather sorry there were not more paintings to admire and criticise.

The interesting way in which the artists and students were brought so closely together for their mutual advantage bids well for the future of the Sketch Room in Hart House and to the success of the enthusiastic club.

HON. N. W. ROWELL APPOINTED TO BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF UNIVERSITY

The Honourable N. W. Rowell, K.C., LL.D. has been appointed to the Board of Governors of the University to fill the place vacated by the resignation of Mr. Hume Smith. The Hon. Mr. Rowell is a graduate of Osgoode Hall and first great distinguished himself by his work in the great inter-church missionary movement of some years ago. He was at one time Leader of the Opposition in the Liberal party in the local legislature and became a member of the Union Government Cabinet under Sir Robert Borden. He took a very prominent part in the meetings of the Council of the League of Nations at Geneva. Last summer the University conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws on Mr. Rowell and he received the same degree previously from the North-Western University.

University College

The next regular meeting of the Women's Press Association will take place Friday, February 17, at 4.15 in Room 82. This meeting will be devoted to the reading of original work. Members are reminded that this meeting is open to visitors and any prospective members of the Club will be made welcome. The qualification for membership is that the candidate should be actively engaged writing for some University publication. It is suggested that those who would like to become members for next year should make an effort to join the staff of some college journal, if they are not already members. The Press Association is a U. of T., not a college, organization.

FARMERS SHORT COURSE ATTRACTS MANY WOMEN

Art of Cooking Fascinates Men English Lectures Popular

That women from the rural districts are not slow to take advantage of opportunities of culture is evident from the fact that fifty per cent. of the registration in the Farmers' Course consists of women. This is about double the proportion of women last year. It is interesting to note that this interest in education is not limited to the young or to the old. All ages seem to be well represented. Nor is it only those in close proximity to Toronto who are taking the course. On the contrary, the students seem to come from all corners of the Province, some twenty-five or thirty counties being represented.

A keen and lively interest in all phases of the course is manifested by the women students. The women and men are taking the same lectures and joining together in tours of inspection in the afternoon. Though one might naturally expect that Household Science lectures would be a special preserve for the women, it is rumoured that three or four of the men are proving themselves willing students of the household arts. Several of the women have expressed particular enjoyment of Dr. Wallace's lectures in English. The attendance at the English lectures would seem to indicate no tendency on the part of the winter students to "cut" and secure a habit peculiar to not a few of the regular students.

Visits to the Sunlight Soap, Massey-Harris and T. Eaton Co.'s factories have already been made, tours being facilitated by division of the students into several groups.

Among the social events arranged for this week is a tea by Dean Pakenham and his staff at the College of Education on Wednesday afternoon. A very interesting event also is the Mock Parliament which is being staged by the students themselves Wednesday evening in West Hall. The special subject to be debated in parliament is "Compulsory Military Training," and it is expected that a large number of the members will take part in the discussion.

LORETTO ABBEY

Owing to the illness of one of the debaters, the debate to have taken place Monday night between First and Second Years was postponed for a week. In spite of this slight change in schedule the progress of the Debating Society is very gratifying. Endeavours have been made in former years towards the formation of such a society, but have never been entirely successful. This year, however, with a pre-arranged schedule and interest on the part of the students, with the necessary encouragement and practical help from Mr. O'Connell, K.C., the attempt has proved successful.

Medicine

The tickets are on sale at the Year representatives for Duffy's Night, Feb. 23 and 24. Price 75 cents. Line up!

ANOTHER GRADUATE SOCIAL EVENING

Old King Winter has rallied his forces once more—just in time for the graduate skating party. The grads had such a fine time last Friday evening at the "get-acquainted" meeting that they are eager for another such affair, this time on the ice. All members of the Board of Graduate Studies and their wives, and all graduate students who skate meet at the Stadium at 7.45 p.m. on Friday, February 17.

At ten o'clock the party will go to the Women's Union for eats, and maybe dancing, so if you don't skate, at least meet them in time for the latter half of the evening.

SPECIAL NOTICE

If the weather does not permit of skating the party will take place "weather or no" at the Women's Union, 85 St. George Street, at 8 p.m.

Everyone come and help to make this evening even more successful than the last.

Applied Science

Don't forget the 275 class dance in U.T.S. to-night at 8.30. If you haven't secured your ticket you can get it from any member of the executive as there are still a few unsold. Dancing commences sharp at 8.30 in order that the programme may be run off in a reasonable time. The latter has been posted in the Engineering Building. Come on School. Help 275 make this the most successful class event of the year.

GRADUATION DANCE

Tickets for the Graduation Dance will go on sale this morning at 10 o'clock in the Supply Department. Will those whose names are on the subscription list please call for their tickets as soon as possible.

Everybody turn out to the Oratorical Contest on Friday 17, for the Engineering Society Cup. Prof. Greaves will criticize the speakers and award the cup. This is a good opportunity for you to put into practice the criticisms he has given you. Subjects for three minute speeches will be given out at the meeting. The final debate for the Segsworth Shield will take place.

LOST

Between Medical or Engineering Building and corner of St. George and Sussex, loose sheets of notes and data and several letters. Probably dropped while crossing campus. Finder or finders please enclose in envelope and return to Students' Council Office, Hart House.

DENTISTRY

Forget ye not, "whizz-bangers," the regular monthly class meeting to be held Friday, the 17th, 10.30, in Lecture Room B. If you are not lined up with what is to take place at the banquet, or if you are lacking information along other lines of class activities, be there to swell the numbers.

FAVOUR FORCED ARMY TRAINING

Members of Farmers' Course Made
Merry Wednesday Night—Compel
Males To Serve

On Wednesday night, West Hall took on the aspect of another well-known hall, when a Farmers' Parliament opened and discussed matters of great gravity and importance. This time, however, the Parliament opened with the yell "F.O., U. of T., etc." proclaiming that it was composed of those taking the short course for farmers, now going on at Varsity.

Formal Parliamentary procedure was not lacking. The speaker entered with a flowing gown, followed by the sergeant-at-arms, pompously bearing a mace (pitchfork), while the respectful House rose to its feet.

The subject for discussion was a bill regarding compulsory military training, to be given its second reading. The bill had been introduced by Rt. Hon. Mr. Turner, leader of the government, and member from Middlesex.

Mr. Turner was the first speaker in defence of the bill. Why, he asked, are we not now under German domination. Because, he answered, Belgium was able to hold the Germans in check, till the Belgians prepared themselves, and other Allies prepared themselves, and the Belgium was only able to do this through her system of compulsory military training. Mr. Martin, a leader of the opposition spoke against the bill. He stated that the civilian grade a better soldier than the regular and cited as evidence, the defeat of Germany's trained soldiers by those of the Allies.

The next speaker, Mr. Johnson, gained for himself everlasting intellectual laurels, by solemnly and gravely quoting Japanese and discussing the Syrians and Creoles and Persians, whereas the learned honourable brethren were wont to gaze in admiration and awe. It was definitely discovered, from a reliable source, that Mr. Johnson was defending the bill.

Mr. Black now spoke for the opposition. In reply to the fact that Belgium's preparedness won the war, he said that Germany's preparedness caused it. (Roars of applause.) Honourable member now of opposition—declared passing of the bill, stating that if it is, news will be flashed around the earth that Canada, in the Washington Convention, looks spite of the war. (Scribbles on applause) forward to war. (Scribbles on applause)

The Honourable member from Simcoe, Mr. W. H. Watson, said that there were great advantages to be derived from military training. Story about Cromwell's Ironsides—story about Scotchman and American—another about Canadian, Englishman and American. If any of us had been a Frenchman, he would probably have smiled as he recalled his youthful years.

Mrs. Bailey, speaking against the bill, began with an apology for reading her speech. Somebody objected, but the Speaker, after consulting a weighty book, ruled him out. Mrs. Bailey, drew a parallel between Canada and the United States, and said that we had no enemy to fear, and that fostering a military spirit only created discord.

Mr. Reid declaimed the bill, as being inferior to voluntary training, and moved an amendment that the phrase "Compulsory male training" be altered to "Compulsory female training."

Some more speeches, each called to order about N times, where N is a variable with limit infinity.

House called to order because somebody was snoring, —again, because somebody was snoring.

Amendment lost (great applause). Discussion was resumed on the bill itself. Mr. Hennessy defended it saying that it embodied a good feature of self-control.

Then Parliament adjourned for a year, discussion to be continued then, and the bill given its third reading.

Members of Hart House are reminded that next Sunday is NOT Visitors' Day. The following Sundays will be Visitors' Days during the remainder of the session, Sunday, February 26, March 26, and April 23.

McGILL AND VARSITY CLASH IN DEBATE

Menorah Societies of Two Universities Will Argue For Bennett Cup

To-morrow evening will see the interesting clash between the debating teams representing the Menorah Societies of McGill and Toronto Varsity on the subject of the necessity and feasibility of a Canadian Jewish Congress. The local Menorah organization have spared no efforts to make this Intercollegiate Menorah debate the leading event in its short history and are therefore expecting a record crowd of students and their friends. The debate will take place in the West Hall of University College and every friend and supporter of the Menorah Society should be present to support it to victory. A win for Varsity means that the Bennett Cup will remain here. It is the first year of competition for this cup emblematic of the Intercollegiate Menorah Debating Union and therefore a strong reason why it should not go to McGill. Turn out and cheer the Varsity debaters. Messrs. J. M. Stueben, B.A., formerly of U.C. and now of Osgoode Hall, together with David Eisen, of the final year in Medicine, and also an ex-President of the U. of T. Menorah Society, are going to argue for the affirmative side of the debate. McGill are taking the negative and are sending down two of their very best debaters to argue for them.

The Society has also arranged for a fine musical programme and for some Varsity cheering to help the debaters along. The debate is open to all students and the public as well.

GRADUATE STUDENTS' SKATING PARTY TO-NIGHT

The Graduate Students of the University are having a skating party this evening (Friday, February 17) at Varsity Stadium. All graduate students who have a pair of skates or can even borrow a pair, are urged to be present by 8 o'clock. Invitations have been sent to the members of the Board of Graduate Studies and their wives, and it is hoped that a large number will be present.

A rendezvous has been arranged for, just north of the entrance to the rendezvous.

After skating, refreshments will be served at the Women's Union, 55 St. George Street. Music and dancing will follow. The evening will be a most enjoyable one for those who do not dance.

Those who do not skate are urged to attend and take part in the rest of the activities of the evening. These gatherings afford the best opportunity for postgraduate students to become acquainted with each other and with the members of the staff and their wives. This is the prime objective of these meetings—social. Everything is absolutely informal. Come and enjoy yourself, and bring some other graduate student with you.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ASSAULT-AT-ARMS TO-NIGHT AT HART HOUSE

VARSITY, MCGILL AND QUEEN'S MEET IN COMBAT HERE

Pride of Three Universities Battle For Supremacy in Manly Sports

VARSITY'S CHANCES BRIGHT

Friday and Saturday evenings there will be tumult in Hart House. A large audience of well-conducted ladies and gentlemen will see the pride of McGill, Queen's and Toronto meet in honourable combat in three of the world's oldest forms of sport, boxing wrestling and fencing.

Varsity's prospects of winning are very bright. They have a good string of gladiators in these three lines of sport. The intercollegiate assault-at-arms has brought forth many promising contenders. Varsity will be represented by the following men:

Boxers:
110 lbs.—Hewitt, U.C.
118 lbs.—Greer, Meds.
125 lbs.—Shonitz, S.P.S.
135 lbs.—Gray, Meds.
145 lbs.—Gosage, Meds.
158 lbs.—Black, Meds.
175 lbs.—Goldie, S.P.S.
Heavyweight—Gatz, Meds.

Wrestlers:
110 lbs.—Towner, Dents.
118 lbs.—MacPhee, Dents.
125 lbs.—Cooper, Dents.
135 lbs.—C. Adams, Dents.
145 lbs.—Torrance, Meds.
158 lbs.—Farnsworth, Meds.
175 lbs.—Sands, Meds.
Heavyweight—Mahaffy, Meds.

Fencing:
Hewitt of U.C. and Walton, Forestry.

These men are to be congratulated on the showing that they have made so far. They have worked hard and trained faithfully.

U.C. ATHLETIC CARNIVAL IN HART HOUSE, MARCH 2

The U.C. Literary and Athletic Society has been granted permission to hold an Athletic Carnival in Hart House on Thursday evening, March 2. A programme is being prepared that will include basketball, indoor baseball, water polo, diving, swimming races and aquatic novelties, not to mention cats. The Society desires a cordial invitation to the ladies of the University to attend, and it is expected that the crowds will take advantage of this opportunity by turning out in large numbers. It is also expected that a great many students in other faculties will attend, besides those in U.C. The object of the Athletic Night is primarily to foster in University College an "esprit de corps" that will eventually land the Red and White at the top of the heap in intercollegiate sports. An admission fee of a quarter will be charged for men while the ladies will be admitted free of charge. The upper and lower gyms will be used for swimming, water polo, diving, and other aquatic novelties. Further announcements regarding this event will appear from time to time in The Varsity and in the sign-boards in U.C. or Hart House. Remember the time, March 2, at 8 p.m.

VIC. EARNS RIGHT TO MEET MEDS IN FINAL

Scarlet and Gold Had Decided Edge Over Forestry—Final Friday

Yesterday afternoon Vic defeated Forestry in the Jennings Cup Semi final and earned the right to oppose Jr. Meds in the final for the cup to-morrow afternoon. Victoria had a decided edge all the way through and by periods led 1-0, 5-0 and 6-1. But for the good work of Turnbull in goal the result would have been still more one-sided. Sutton and Weston starred for Vic while Phillips and Jenkins were the best for the losers.

WESTERN CLUB SMOKER

You come from the West? Then you smoke. Remember the time we had at the Western Club Smoker last year? You liked it? Great! Well, there's going to be another just as good and better if possible on Friday, February 24, so don't fail to keep the date open. A snappy programme is in the making, carols of good ears are arriving from the West for the occasion. Your smokers will be no good that night. Everything will be gratis, so if you want something real good for a hot not exceeding nothing. Then be at Hart House at 8.15, Friday, February 24.

INTERCOLLEGIATE GYM. TEAM CHOSEN

Williamson of S.P.S. Ranked First in Trial Tests in Hart House Tuesday Afternoon

On Tuesday afternoon last eight gymnasts strove for a place on the intercollegiate team. Each member was required to do the set movement of McGill and Varsity and two voluntary movements besides on the high bar, parallel, horse and mats. The amount of good work done during the year resulted in a good variety of movements.

Williamson ranked first with his good style and difficult work. Robinson showed his all round ability, especially on the mats. The judging was very close, the last four tying with each other, necessitating further competition next Wednesday.

The results:
R. J. Williamson (1) S.P.S.
P. J. Robinson (2) Meds.
J. Adams (3) Meds.
M. Wolsey (4) S.P.S.
I. Mix, Vic.
S. Williams, S.P.S.
R. Barker, S.P.S.
D. Chadwick, S.P.S.
The judges were: B. Honney of Central "Y," F. Halbus and Dr. Barton.

Varsity II and St. Mike's Clash This Afternoon

Double Hockey Bill at Arena Should See Large Turnout

Varsity holds a world's record. One to be proud of. The Varsity Intermediate Hockey Team played to the world's smallest audience the other day. There were only three paid admissions to see them defeated by St. Mike's. If there had been one enthusiastic Varsity supporter there, they would have won. To-morrow they meet St. Mike's again at the Arena at two o'clock. Give them some support. These boys work hard all year and seem to get no return for their effort.

To-day being Friday there is the usual Friday bargain to offer. Immediately after this tussle the intercollegiate play-off will take place. Vic and Jr. Meds both have good teams. They ought to enter them in the Intermediate O.H.A. For the small amount of twenty cents you can see all this hockey. How about it?

ADDEFS CN "FLAYEILLS"

Friday afternoon at 4.30 in Hart House Theatre, Mr. F. C. French is delivering a lecture introductory to "Playbills." This address should be heard by all students expecting to see this play, as a knowledge of Georgian theatrical conditions is quite essential to an intelligent appreciation of the production. Mr. French is an interesting and easily followed speaker, and should be heard by a large audience of students.

ATHLETES INVITED TO DINNER IN HONOUR OF GEORGE GOULDING

All athletes of the University of Toronto are invited to be present at a dinner to be held at Central Y.M.C.A. at 5.45 p.m. on Friday (to-day) in honour of George Goulding of Toronto, the world's champion walker, who leaves to-morrow for Vancouver, where he will reside in future.

George has been a prominent figure in sport in Canada and the U.S. for many years and has twice been Canada's representative at the Olympic games, where he won prominence as the greatest walker the world has ever known. This will be the only chance his many friends will have to say good-bye and good luck, and it is hoped that as many will turn out as possible.

BASKETBALL TEAM MUST BEAT MCGILL

Victory For Blue and White Over Rivals Cinches Intercollegiate Honours For Varsity

The Basketball Team leaves this morning for Montreal, accompanied by the Hockey Team. They both must win to clinch the intercollegiate title and every man is in perfect condition. However, the surprise Queen's provided last week has shown that the task will not be easy, and each team is taking no chances.

This chap Haskin, who played such a marvellous game at Kingston, bids fair to become one of the greatest basketball players in Canada to-day. He scored 23 of his team's points, all difficult shots from the outside. His team's exhibition is enough to take the heart out of any team, and the Blue and White are full of pride for his shooting.

The men will compose the team as played at Queen's, and will take the floor as follows:

Forwards—Smith, Stewart and Gill.

Centre—Bell.

Guards—Graham, Logan and Duffell.

ST. JOSEPH'S FRESHMEN HOLD VALENTINE PARTY

On February 14, St. Joseph's freshmen held a delightful Valentine Party in St. Joseph's Recreation Hall. Dinner was served at 6.30, and the long table was a pretty sight with its red-lit candles, heart-shaped place-cards, and lavishly decorated hearts and arrows and knickies and various other ancient and modern appurtenances of the festive fourteenth. Even the freshmen carried out the Valentine motif. An informal dance followed the dinner, and under the rosy lights the pretty and ingenious costumes formed a most colorful display. The faculty, as guests of the students, were also judges of costumes, but found it quite impossible to decide on the most appropriate, and awarded the prize impartially to everybody.

Allan Cup Holders Can Win Intercollegiate Hockey Title by Beating McGill To-night

To-night Varsity senior hockey team meet McGill in the last intercollegiate game of the season. Although our hopes were shattered in the O.H.A. we are still king-pins of the intercollegiate circuit. A win to-night will assure us of that cup.

The entire first team will go down and are expected to win handsly. However, Old McGill can always be counted on for a stout battle especially in their native haunts. Results will be announced at the ringside during the assault-at-arms.

The following night the Varsity basketball team will meet McGill in Montreal. They have to win this to clinch the intercollegiate title owing to their unexpected defeat at Kingston. They, also, can be relied on to pull through.

Then after watching Marge Fenwick and Martin Hillard blaze a trail through McGill's defence, why we'll be bubbling over with enthusiasm for the Varsity girls that they will be certain to inflict defeat on the speedy little Montreals. Listen! don't think our girls are going to have an easy time. They don't think so themselves. The Red and White girls are

On Wednesday evening the 1st C.I.R.A. Team competition took place at the Hart House Range under the supervision of Sgt-Major H. R. Roberts, Grenadiers. In this match some 30 members of the Association competed for places on the team and to qualify for prizes. To win C.I.R.A. spoons a man must average for 1st class spoon—88, for 2nd class—85, in the three matches to be held this term in the colored decimal target. The results from R.M.C., Queen's and McGill have not yet come in. The following are the 15 highest scores—the 1st 10 of which comprise the team: Mills (D) 87, Smith (D) 82, Schenitz (S) 82, Turnbull (F) 79, Miller (U.C.) 76, Barclay (M) 76, Milne (Vic) 75, Currie (D) 75, White (S) 75, Williams (D) 74, McDonald (D) 73, Allan (D) 73, Heston (M) 73, Huggins (S) 71, Jackson (D) 70. On Friday noon last week the 9 men who tied for 1st, 2nd and 3rd places in the last individual competition held a little match of their own to break the ties. Walks (S) broke the tie with White (S) for 1st place with 44, the tie for 2nd was won by Mills (D) with 47.

THREE INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS GO TO VARSITY OVER WEEK-END

VARSITY INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONS HOCKEY GAME WITH MCGILL ENDS 6-4

Somerville Moves Up to Senior Ranks and Stars --- Varsity Wins From a 4-2 Score in Second Period

Last Friday night Varsity clinched the Canadian Intercollegiate title by defeating McGill on their own ice by the score of 6-4. The win was a most satisfactory one as McGill appeared to be a much better team than ever before. At one time the score was 4-2 in favour of the Mounties. At this point Varsity displayed great fighting spirit in cutting down their opponents lead and making a safe margin. From this point of view it was the best game so far this season. The hockey was however, not as good as that of the usual O.I.C.A. game. It furnished plenty of thrills for the fans and McGill's unexpected good form had their roots in reality. An interesting feature of the McGill routing was a crowd of 250 from the University of Montreal. They displayed their chagrin at Varsity for refusing them admittance to the C.I.H.U.

For Varsity, Ramsay played his usual game. He scored two goals and was a constant source of worry to the Mounties. A particularly bright spot in the game was the work of Sandy Somerville. He scored three goals and starred all night. Instead of looking like a junior recruit, he acted as if he had been playing since "Ninny" McGillen played. Bull Carson was wonderful despite his badly crippled shoulder. His courageous exhibition deserves commendation. Neddie Wright watched the much vaunted Flanagan all night with excellent results. Stan Brown was good but hampered by the small ice-surface. George Westman kept the reuters on edge all night. Jack Langtry played superbly and then was replaced by Joe Sullivan who was very efficient. He had no chance to save the shots that scored. Bert Plonze was the second Varsity sub and showed great promise. Indeed, the playing of Varsity's substitutes augurs well for future teams.

For the first period, McGill appeared to have a slight advantage. Their combination netted them two goals for Varsity's one. In the first part of the second period they made it 4-2 and looked as if they might win but the old familiar Varsity fight came to the fore and from the middle of the second period on Varsity had a wide margin of superiority. The bright spots of this session was the work of Carson and Somerville. Beatrice Ramsay netted two goals in rapid succession here.

In the third period Bill Carson netted his long-gedoned goal on a beautiful shot that beat Stan Brown. Varsity showed clearly here that they were the better team.

THREE RECORDS BROKEN WHEN VARSITY DEFEATS MCGILL SWIMMING TEAM

Waldron of Varsity Again Breaks Canadian Record For Long Plunge Covering 71 Feet 3 Inches

Varsity made her second win of the week-end when her swimmers defeated McGill at their annual meet. The meet was very closely contested and the issue was always in doubt. Indeed, it was so close that the relay race was the deciding factor. The final point score was 37-31.

Like the hockey match it appeared at first as if McGill would win, but Varsity's great work in the latter part of the evening won for her. Fletcher, Waldron broke a Canadian record when he won the plunge dive with a distance of 71 feet 3 inches. Fisk of McGill set a new intercollegiate record for the fifty yard back stroke race when he covered the distance in 33.5 seconds. A third record was broken by the Varsity relay team who negotiated the distance in 1:52.13.

The results were:
50 yards speed—Ross, M.; Keefler, T.; Kyle, M. Time 20.2-5 sec.
50 yard back stroke—Fisk, M. Latchford, T.; Winslow, M. Time 33.5-5.
50 yard breast stroke—Laidley, M.; Fitzgerald, T.; Binnis, M. Time 35.2-5 sec.

100 yards speed—Ross, M.; Keefler, T.; Peterson, M. Time 1:02.2-5.
Diving—Scott, M.; Wood, T.; Watt, T. 200 yards—Wells, T.; Reilly, T.; Fisk, M. Time 2:29.

Plunge—Waldron, T.; Davis, J.; Forsyth, M. 71 ft. 3 inches.
Relay Race—Varsity, Time 1:52.1-5.

VARSITY AMAZING ONES

Here we are with only five days to go before the great event at the Arena, when the Varsity Amazing Ones meet the McGill Maidens for the first time in intercollegiate hockey. Have we got our tickets yet? If not we'll have to hurry for it's going to be some game. The Little Ladies of the Red and White have been hard at it on artificial ice, so our girls have no advantage over them in that line. But, say, you just ought to see the brand of combination play being developed by the Varsity girls down at the Old Arena and speed—well, some of us are going to sit up and take notice in a hurry on February 24, when we see our speedy forward line charging down upon the McGill net. The Amazing Ones are looking for real opposition and are ready for it. So it's up to us to be right there with all the support our lung power will permit.

VARSITY INTERMEDIATES LOSE TO ST. MICHAEL'S IN HARD-FOUGHT GAME

St. Mike's Win Intermediate Intercollegiate Hockey Title After Ten Minutes Overtime, 5-4

Varsity II were put out of the intercollegiate running Friday afternoon before a very small crowd of supporters, when St. Mike's succeeded in netting the winning goal after 10 minutes overtime. Varsity were considerably weakened due to the absence of Joe Sullivan and Sandy Somerville who were with the seniors in Montreal and Ross Taylor the junior who was playing in Kingston.

Varsity had a big margin in the first period scoring 4 goals and holding St. Mike's to a single counter. The play in the second period was more even, St. Mike's scoring the only goal of the period after 10 minutes of play. Varsity pressed hard but had a lot of hard luck in their shooting. St. Mike's were again the first to score in the third period making it 4-3. Varsity pressed hard but with no results. The tying goal came a minute before the final bell. McCarney scoring on a nice play. The first half of the overtime found no change in the score board. After three minutes of the second half St. Mike's scored their fifth and winning goal. Varsity fought hard. Walters and Ferguson rushing repeatedly but could not score.

McCarney and Murphy starred for St. Mike's, while Ferguson, Fisher and Walters were best for Varsity.

ASSAULT-AT-ARMS

Varsity in the finals. Adams in the 135 lb. class won both the semi-finals and finals on points, having a decided advantage but not being able to get a fall. Terrence of Varsity in the 145 lb. class lost out in the finals after winning the semi-finals on points. He was knocked unconscious in a heavy fall to the mat by losing Cohen of McGill to get a fall in the 155 lb. class. Armstrong of McGill won from Farnsworth of Varsity on a fall. The 175 lb. went to Varsity, Sindy beating Rumble on points in an extra round. This was a knock-out but not a close decision after the regular time. Mahaffy in the heaviest class, a fall from McKee of McGill in the semi-finals. Mahaffy tried hard to even it up during the remainder of the match but Mahaffy was too good.

FENCING

The fencing bouts brought forth a lot of applause from the spectators, recalling the good old days when J. M. Carson was in his prime. Malton of Varsity was the individual star, beating England of Queen's 5-0.

Heavy of Varsity was beaten 5-3 by Presthold of McGill. The final results of the fencing were Varsity 1st place, McGill second and Queen's third, making the total points scored by each Varsity: Varsity 10, McGill 6 and Queen's 1.

"T" BASKETBALLERS WIN AND DRAW INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Seniors Lose to McGill 38-37, Causing Three Cornered Tie --- Ends Win From Western

With twenty seconds to go Manson took a long pass and dribbled in for the basket which gave McGill a one-point victory over the Varsity basketball team, 38-37, in one of the fastest and hardest fought games ever seen in Montreal.

McGill got the jump at the start on the slippery floor and, working a rushing three and four-man attack and a five-man defence, soon ran up a fast lead. Varsity were slow in striding their stride, and trailed at half-time 22-18.

In the second half the teams battled desperately on even terms for about ten minutes then Varsity started a rally which swept the McGill men off their feet and at one time were leading by five points. The game seemed won with five minutes to go, but McGill made a last bid and just managed to crawl out. Crain slipped down the floor and shot two in from a distance, while Manson secured two foul shots and a basket. In the last twenty seconds Bell, who had starred all the game, was utterly enough just to miss a foul shot, and though Varsity had the ball on the edge several times, they could not hit it.

The outstanding feature was the work of Bell, who shot three field baskets and seven foul shots out of nineteen tried from a distance, and a basket. In the last two foul shots and a basket. In the last twenty seconds Bell, who had starred all the game, was utterly enough just to miss a foul shot, and though Varsity had the ball on the edge several times, they could not hit it.

158 lb.—Armstrong (McGill) beat Farnsworth (Varsity) 1 fall.
175 lb.—Sindy (Varsity) won from Rumble (McGill).
Heavy—Mahaffy (Varsity) beat McKee (McGill) 5-0.

Saturday night Varsity II's played Western University Seniors team on the Y.M.C.A. floor in London.

The game started off with some fast signal play, no score took place until Dunc McLean ran in a foul for Varsity, then both teams settled down and fought through until half-time. Fine was a hard worker for Western but Kelly proved the most dangerous man. Hal Burgess and Hin Smith assisting. Dunc McLean to 16-6 score, while Charlie Ferguson scored two of these and Dug Code did some fine cheering.

In the second half, Rob McDougall and Hal Cople came on for Varsity. About half-way through the period Varsity broke away and ran in five straight baskets but just before the end of the game Western came on with an off-trave filling up four baskets.

And the whistle brought the game to a stop with the score 20-22 in their favour.

"PLAYBILLS" AT HART HOUSE THEATRE MOST AMBITIOUS PRODUCTION OF YEAR

Enables Display of Many Gorgeous Costumes --- Introduces Old Style of Prologue and Epilogue---Some Excerpts From Home's Douglas

DR. HADY WILLAN PLAYS

Unusual Type of Play---Attempts to Portray the Theatre of a Century Ago

"The Professor has Visions," Moments of a rare imagination, how he can see something more substantial than ordinary dreams and lengths into some two hours of acting and dancing, music and comedy. The Professor, Dr. Hady Willan, has assembled into his most ambitious production, "Playbills." The Professor and the Youth are not very much to the point, there is no malice. The audience will usually accept an unlimited amount of make believe---but this old man points out that the comedy is entirely in good part, "there is no malice." A sufficient excuse for his existence in the play, for there is much that might be misunderstood.

When the old Professor has explained enough about his dreams, the scene changes in the familiar way to the production of an old-fashioned theatre. There is a lot of business worked in here, gorgeous old costumes displayed, oranges sold, an overture played, and a rhyming prologue spoken in the good old style and a beautiful costume by Kemble and we reach the first high spot of the programme, some excerpts from Home's Douglas. Critics have argued at length about this play but their praise has not kept it on the stage, and only on occasions like this do we hear of it at all. It reminds us of a big scene in a modern movie, where an star cast take turns in registering emotion and making dramatic exits. There is some good verse in its lines, which is given full emphasis by the actors. One can hardly discuss this scene from the point of view of modern acting---it makes no pretence to naturalism, and makes a severe strain on the imagination of the audience. Doran's statement that Kemble and Mrs. Siddons never played in Douglas with Betty Nedd not spoil the performance for the audience, for if they had, the show would not have been so different from the real thing.

There is now some beautiful singing by Miss Mel Duberry, and a dance by Mrs. Merrill, and we note the arrival of the nobility on the stage. Mr. Gattick is going to give us a taste of Handel, a "Melancholy fellow, with a care for lunacy." Later on, the scene is quite as evocative with his ranting as is Mr. Hodder Williams, but he plays with great intensity. The interruptions to the scene are rather a little trid, but one feels that in 1751 audiences could hardly have been so tolerant of such intruders as they are now. People who have had Shakespear receive a rude shock when they find him perverted like this; let them be open minded for the rest of this evening at least, for we are entitled to the eighteenth century had no duties, not even Shakespeare.

After this there is an intermission, and Dr. Willan recommends the Shakespear overture by Handel. Then there is

NORMAL MODEL OLD BOYS WILL HOLD ANNUAL DANCE

Newly Formed Association Makes Great Strides---To Prepare Memorial Tablet

Are you in on this yet? Have you heard?

The Normal Model Old Boys' Association is here again with something worth while for the ex-ped and friends of the School. The annual informal dance is to be held on the evening of Monday, February 22, at 8.30, in the Aurora Lee Club Rooms. Dudley's orchestra will be in attendance with their usual fine assortment, buffet lunch will be served and the patronage and management have neglected nothing which will be conducive to a most enjoyable evening. Combination tickets at $2 will partly cover expenses and ensure a large turnout.

This Association was formed but a little over a year ago and already has a large and energetic membership. At the very beginning, the Normal Model Old Boys' Association was formed by the best efforts of all concerned. On the occasion of the Annual Banquet held at the Hotel Charles Hotel in November a lively and entertaining evening was spent, and the committee in charge of preparations for the War Memorial Dinner has given an added impetus in the address of the retiring president, Mr. Wm. Scott, and now, we are in the second year. Among other activities of the Association has been the presentation of a memorial tablet at the summer examinations and provision of several prizes for the annual school games.

The annual dance is one of the most popular events, and the president, Mr. Ernest Simmons, and the committee have decided to invite all University men, ex-ped and friends to the dance, and renew old 14 year friendships and form many sterling new ones. Tickets may be obtained from the Hall Porter, Hart House, or, on the night of the dance, at the door.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION BESTS "C" COMPANY

Allan, of Dents, Shooting Under Difficulties, Makes High Score of Forty-Nine Out of Possible Fifty Points

On Friday evening the match between teams representing the Rifle Association and "C" Coy., C.O.T.C., proved to be one of the keenest and most interesting in the history of service rifle indoor matches. The excellence of the military training now being given by the C.O.T.C. was well shown as their team, many of whom were beginners in service rifle shooting, came within 5 points of winning the match.

Indeed it was not until the very last shot was fired that the result could be told. Due to an error in posting "C" Coy's scores it was thought that Allan (D), the last man to shoot, would have to make a "possible" to tie the two teams. He made a very fine score of 49, under trying conditions, and the only shot which caused the bull was so close that it called for a conference of the two range officers.

When they were making a decision the error in posting the scores was discovered and it left the Rifle Association the victors by 5 points only---an average of half a point per man. C.S.M. Walks and his team are indeed to be complimented on their excellent performance. In this connection it may be pointed out that 3 men counted among the best marksmen of the Rifle Association also belong to "C" Coy. and were shooting against the Rifle Club in this event.

The scores of the teams were as follows:
Rifle Association "C" Coy. C.O.T.C.
Allan (D) 49 Sneyd 48
Turnbull (F) 47 Miller, B.H. 47
McDonald (D) 47 Walks 47

SCHOLARSHIPS SERVE TO UNITE EAST AND WEST

Four Grants of Five Hundred Dollars Each Recently Received

As a result of the generosity of the C.P.R. and Sir Edward Kemp, the University of Toronto has received four fellowships of $500 a year. Of the four given by Sir Edward Kemp, one is for one year, one for two years, one for three years, the other three by the C.P.R. are permanent. The object of these scholarships is to bring graduates from the other provinces to this Dominion to Toronto to take advanced courses. In this way there will be a strengthening of one factor for the promotion of Canadian unity.

These scholarships follow on the heels of a letter written by the President, Sir Robert Falconer, to certain of the Sir Robert Falconer. This letter was, in part, as follows:

"The Western Universities are growing rapidly. Their instruction is excellent, their students are full of earnestness and many of them wish to pursue graduate and professional careers beyond the stage which at present is offered in their Provincial institutions.

"The comparative nearness and various connections, together with the offer of scholarships, are strong inducements for them to turn for this advanced work to Wisconsin, Chicago and other American universities. Many of these students know very little about Eastern Canada, and if they return to their homes in the West owing all their advanced instruction to universities in the United States, they will when they become leaders in Western Canada.

Graduates of Note

Sir J. A. M. Aikins

Sir James Albert M. Aikins, K.B., M.A., K.C., The Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, Sir James Aikins, is one of those who lends brilliancy to the University of Toronto's crown of illustrious graduates. His education at Upper Canada College came to University College and there received his B.A. and M.A. in the successive years of 1902 and '03. He was called to the Ontario Bar in 1908 and since then has received the distinction from the Bar of nearly all the great provinces. He was created O.C. in 1921 and in 1913 was elected to the presidency of the Canadian Bar Association to which office he has been re-elected every year since.

Sir James Aikins was made Counsel for the Department of Justice from 1919 to 1926, and Counsel for the C.P.R. from 1926 to 1929. He was the first Canadian Representative at the Congress on Moral Education at the Hague. He was one of the few law firm in Canada, is president of the Commercial Union Bank of Canada, Director of the Northern Trusts Co., the Canadian Fire Insurance Co., and many others. In educational affairs he is always well

SCHOOL MEN TO GET COURSE OF LECTURES

Five of North American Experts on Utilization of Water Power Will Deal With Different Branches of The Subject

The University of Toronto is fortunate in securing a number of the most prominent engineers in America to give a five day course of lectures to students, and other interested, on the utilization of the vast water powers of this country. Five engineers are contributing to this lecture course, and each of them will deal with a phase of the subject in which he specializes, so that the whole field of water-power engineering will be treated from the viewpoint of the expert.

The University is giving regular courses in water power development and conservation at the present time, and has done so for many years, and is gathering amongst its graduates men who have become noted in this field of engineering. When they were making a decision the error in posting the scores was discovered and it left the Rifle Association the victors by 5 points only---an average of half a point per man.

The course has been arranged by Professor R. W. Angus, Head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering, and in charge of the Hydraulic Engineering course begins February 27 and ends March 6, at 4.30 p.m. The lectures are open to all interested. They will be delivered in the following order:

Feb. 27, 4.30 p.m.---Some of the Principles Controlling the Use and Design of Hydraulic Turbines.
Feb. 27, 8 p.m.---Hydraulic Turbines and in-collators.
Feb. 28, 4.30 p.m.---Hydraulic Engineering as affecting Power House Design.
March 2, 4.30 p.m.---Design of Power Houses and Damways and Surge Tanks.
March 3, 4.30 p.m. Power House Machinery.
March 5, 4.30 p.m.---Regulation and Testing of Hydro Electric Machinery.
March 6, 8 p.m.---Some Economic Aspects of Hydro Electric Development.

WHIZZ BANG DENTS HOLD BIG FEED TOMORROW

A Great Treat is In Store For All Members of 213 R.C.D.S.

Thursday evening ushers into the lines of all juniors at the Royal College of Dental Surgeons the one Premier event of the year, the 213 Banquet at Hart House.

For six weeks an energetic enthusiastic committee has been working on the details of the month scheme to bring all members of the year together for a night of entertainment of the highest calibre.

Among the few guests who will honor the Class of 1932 are, on the momentous occasion are Sir Robert Falconer, Mr. Bickerton, and a representative from Medicine, Science and Law.

Doctors Scobie, Willmott and Mason will represent the Faculty of Dentistry, the former will be the proposer of a toast to 213. Owing to the regrettable absence of Dr. Wm. Webster and Dr. Cummer from the city they will not be present, although an invitation was, of course, extended to them.

A great surprise is in store for all those who have not seen the wonderful Song Sheet with 23 snappy songs and parodies which will be the feature of the 213 Banquet. It will be a marked degree. A most original design for the menu drawn by one of 213's staff artists will be a souvenir which no doubt will be found framed on the wall of 330 Dental offices in the day to come.

The work of the Decoration Committee cannot be completed until a few hours before the feast is spread, but the programme, music, entertainment, business and menu committees report all present and correct on the Hart House scene of the Varsity Front and so, until zero hour Thursday, O Whizz Bangers!

SCHOOL'S DEAN GIVES FOURTH LECTURE IN THE ALUMNI FEDERATION SERIES

Stresses Fact That Canadian Industrial World is More Stable Than That of United States and Europe Due To Its Independence

"VARSITY" STAFF MEETINGS

There will be a meeting of the men's staff in the Hart House office at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, March 1, for the purpose of nominating men for the positions of Managing Editor for the next two terms. The Women's staff will meet in Room 82, Main Building, at the same time to nominate for position of Women's Editor and Wm. n's Managing Editor.

There will be a general staff meeting in Room 82, Main Building, at 4 p.m. on Monday, March 6, to elect the Women's Editor, Women's Managing Editor and the two Men's Managing Editors for the next two terms.

HART HOUSE COMMITTEE MEN MUST BE CHOSEN CAREFULLY

The body which controls the destinies of Hart House is the Board of Stewards, and on this Board the undergraduates have adequate representation, elected by themselves.

The Board of Stewards is composed of the following: The warden, two members of the staff, one member of the Board of Governors, one graduate representing the graduate members of Hart House, the Secretary of the Faculty Union, the Secretary of the University Y.M.C.A., the S.A.C. representative, the Secretary of the Athletic Association, one undergraduate member and last but not least the Secretaries of the Hart House Committees.

These secretaries are chosen at a joint meeting of the old and the new incoming executives, so that the importance of the undergraduates vote in determining the policies of the House is clearly evident.

The Board of Stewards meets every week, for its business which is one of three years, the questions of finances, policies and powers which arise are many and the Board of Stewards has its work cut out for him.

Nominations have begun to come in and will be posted in the Hall as they are received. Do not forget that they close on March 1, one week from to-day.

NOMINATIONS DUE FOR MOSS AWARD

Members of Senior Years in Four Arts Colleges Eligible to Nominate and Vote

The following letter has been sent out to the heads of the four Arts Colleges, University College, Victoria College, Trinity College and St. Michael's College:

Dear Sir:
I beg to remind you that the nominations for the John H. Moss Memorial Award must be in by March 1. I enclose regulations of the Award.

Please note that the nominations are to be made through selection by vote of the Fourth Year of the best all-round student in the Year, with preference being given to returned soldier-students. I suggest that you get in touch with the Executive of the Year and ask them to undertake the selection. Please note also that we wish a report from yourself as to the character and standing of the candidate chosen.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) W. N. MacQueen,
Secretary-Treasurer.
The regulations governing the award follows.

THE JOHN H. MOSS MEMORIAL FUND

The John H. Moss Memorial Fund gift of friends of the late John H. Moss, B.A., K.C., is intended to provide the annual sum of $100, to be awarded under the following regulations:

1. The graduating class in Arts in each of University College, Victoria College, Trinity College and St. Michael's College shall select by vote, the student whom they regard as the best all-round man or woman in the final year, giving preference to the first ten years, to former members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, or failing them, to children, brothers or sisters of such former members, or of Canadian officers or men who served in Europe during the war.
2. The Secretary-Treasurer of the Alumni Federation of the University of Toronto shall notify the Heads of Colleges that the nominations must be made by students in their final Years by the 1st of March if possible, in order that the Committee of Award may interview the candidates selected not later than the 1st of April.
3. The award shall be made to one of the four students so selected by a Committee of Award consisting of the President of the Alumni Federation of the University of Toronto, the Secretary-Treasurer of ## OUR GRADUATES

Every year men and women pass from the shelter of their college halls into a wider sphere of action and join the great throng of graduate students and each year an eager stream flows in, the inheritors of Varsity traditions and the upholders of every game. The common bond which joins the students of the past and the students of the present is their Alma Mater, the University of Toronto. The fact that they belong or have belonged to U. of T. is sufficient to establish a common ground of interest and sympathy among them, no matter how diverse their other interests may be.

Varsity may well be proud of her graduates. They have reflected credit on her from all walks of life and from every calling and profession. This University has produced soldiers, broad minds and statesmen who have faith in the future of our nation. The graduates go out from us into all parts of the world and pursue various lines of activity, but they have one thing in common—a great love and respect for old Varsity and they carry her clean sporting spirit with them. Wherever they go, whatever they do or become the graduates do not forget old U. of T. nor the happy memories of their undergraduate days. As students they always retain a sympathetic interest in college activities for there is a fine masonry among students all the world over, but this interest is especially keen in the affairs of their own university.

No graduate need ever be ashamed to acknowledge himself a son of the University of Toronto for it is pre-eminent in academic circles, in society and in sport. The University of Toronto has always maintained a high standard of mental and social culture and her record in sport is brilliant and clean. It means a great deal to have spent four years in such an atmosphere, to have come into contact with the best in art and literature and perhaps to have worn a blue and white sweater. Every graduate realizes this and glories in it. They have set the standard for us and have held the Blue and White high. We must follow them maintaining their standard and realizing their hopes for the University of Toronto.

ONE THROAT AT HART HOUSE GYM. IS WORTH TWO ELSEWHERE

Are you with them?
Of course you are
When?
Thursday night, Friday night and Saturday afternoon.
Why?
To see the U. of T. Women's Basketball Team play some of the best basketball matches you have ever seen women play.
Then, too, out of courtesy to Queen's and McGill you should turn out in large numbers. When U. of T.'s team played the team at Kingston last year there was a capacity attendance at every game. Aren't you, Toronto undergraduates, as interested in women's athletic activities as the student body of Queen's? You certainly are, so prove your "college spirit" by turning out to as many of the games as you can. The game on Thursday is between Queen's and U. of T. and will be worth seeing if it is at all like the one these teams played last year. Then you may see the relative merits of the two visiting teams on Friday night.
All the games will be played at Hart House. The two first games will be played at 8.15 p.m., and the third between McGill and U. of T. at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Last year the scores of the three games were very nearly equal, and the Blue and White will have to do their very best to capture the championship again. You can help by being on hand to cheer your team, which has trained so long and faithfully, to victory.

The members of the team have given up many social engagements because of their practices, and have "stuck to it" even when they did not feel so inclined. If the team has been doing this for four months surely you can do your bit by spending one or two evenings and one afternoon in attending the games.

THEY NEED YOUR HELP. Yes! You say! All right, then, get your tickets now and be sure of a seat. Buy them at the Hart House Hall Porter's desk, or at the Women's Student Council room. Tickets can also be obtained from the curators in the different faculties, and those who have paid their Basketball Club fee can obtain tickets at a special reduction.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

With reference to recent articles which have appeared in THE VARSITY regarding International Students Tours we have been asked to advise that further details of these tours may be obtained on application to the University Library.

We have just heard of the suggestion made by a fairly prominent undergraduate of one of the branches of the University that that branch should get in touch with a sister branch and, by mutual arrangement, see that each supports the other's nominees at the Hart House Elections and thus "ensure that every possible man from our branch and theirs get on the committee." We are glad to say that the majority of those present unreservedly condemned the suggestion.

The Warden of Hart House and various undergraduates have worked hard to evolve a fair method of electing committees. Some things they have left to the honour of the undergraduate body not to do. Collusion between faculties is one of them.

Hart House Committees serve the University, not the faculty or year, and it should be the duty of every member of the house to aid in electing the best men for the job.

VOTE THE MAN—NOT THE FACULTY.

CAPUT CANNOT GRANT HOLIDAY

Due to the fact that the request was received too late, the Caput of the University have refused permission for a half-holiday on Friday next. It was felt that at this late date laboratory work would be interfered with to too great an extent.

On Friday afternoon the first Inter-collegiate Ladies' Hockey game is to be played and many students had looked forward with anticipation to a half-day off in which to root for the co-eds.

GRADUATES HOLD SKATING PARTY

The graduate students' second gathering of the month took the form of a skating party at Varsity Stadium last Friday evening and proved a decided success, some forty being present. After the twelfth ball had journeyed over to the Women's University for extra Mr. Stone and Mr. Lloyd provided excellent music for the dance that followed.

The Chemistry and Food Chemistry groups are providing the next programme.

DEAN MITCHELL AT CONVOCATION

in mills, Canadian bacon and eggs—the Engineer cannot well take any credit for the activities of the great Canadian bacon American cook. You read your morning paper made of Canadian wood in Canadian mills, though printed with American press. You went down to business in a Canadian made street car running on Canadian rails, propelled with electric power generated at Niagara Falls and transmitted ninety miles. You were taken up to the top floor of a downtown business block made of Canadian materials, in a Canadian elevator and your desk over the Bay and in the foreground you saw blocks of industries and factories supplied by power from Niagara Falls, miles of railway sidings with cars with Canadian products, and out in the bay the new harbour works which some day will put Toronto and Ontario on the Empire's trade routes. To-night you came to this Hall, maybe in a Canadian made motor car, you entered and trod the magic carpet and settled yourself comfortably down in the camouflaged seat and have all this time waited for the threatened uplift from this wooden creaking desk.

"Well, there is an uplift. It is the uplift and the objective of Canada for the Canadians. Canadian Industries and their products for Canada first and it is Canadian Brains for Canada. We have many problems. Many for the Engineer, the Financier and the Statesman. I should have said when trying earlier to describe to you the place and functions of the engineer, that there was another definition—one that linked the engineer with the Country's development; it is that "The Engineer is one who can make a dollar do the most work." He is, or ought to be, a technical business man who can do the most, make the most, get the most for one dollar! So then this is the kind of problem that is before Canadian Engineers and Canadian Engineering to-day.

Some of Problems

"In conclusion let me state some of the many problems which are before us in Canada, problems which Canadian Engineering coupled with Canadian Finance and Business must endeavour to work out to our advantage:

1. The solution of the economic organization and operation of our National Railways. This is our Key Problem and its solution will solve many more with ease.
2. The economic electrification of steam railways, as well as from the construction of new electric ones.
3. The economics of building new electric interurban and trunk railways alongside existing steam roads.
4. Profitable long distance electric power transmission. It is now 250 miles, may be 500 miles or 700 miles in this Country. Is it going to be solved by Direct Current Transmission?
5. Consolidation of our electric power supply in Ontario on a permanent economic basis, to stabilize industries with power at the lowest possible price. Power from Niagara Falls now appears likely to increase rather than decrease in price.
6. Means of getting cheap electric power delivered to farming communities.
7. The operation of Hydro Electric power plants in the very cold climate and with long transmission lines to centres of population we can distribute power to the West.
8. Recovery from our low grade ores especially in Central Canada by means of water power, at very low costs.
9. Continued intensive exploration, reconnaissance, appraisal and research on our National Resources. What more can we learn for instance about the possibilities of—Oil in the great Northwest, Copper and gold in the central North, Diamonds in the clay of Northern Ontario, Iron in Labrador?
10. Construction and surfacing of our highways which will stand up under extreme traffic with our winter conditions.
11. The protection of concrete structures from attack by the alkali waters in the Western Provinces.
12. Electric motor cars with light weight inexpensive storage batteries capable of operating over long distances.
13. The construction and operation of aeroplanes for very cold winter conditions.
14. The manufacture of motor fuels, as substitutes for gasoline, from agricultural products, such as wood, corn and potatoes.
15. The development of apparatus for using Electricity for heating and heat processes in the manufactures (based on very cheap power).
16. Development of uses for our very large nickel resources, as an essentially Canadian metal.
17. The production of nitrogen and its compounds from the air by electric processes with water power, to make Canada independent, especially for re-fertilizing our Western agricultural lands.
18. There are some of the things which we must set ourselves to solve as a nation of energetic, alert people and it is clear that Engineering plays a most important part and must take its active responsibility in their solution.
19. "It is our national duty at this time to look with cheerfulness on the future and to attack these problems with the best possible combination of our Human and Material Resources."

Correspondence

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Sir: After reading the interesting account in your Valentine issue re the recent debate, "Resolved that all the men should turn out to support the women's hockey team on February the 24th," the affirmative side of which was so convincingly argued by the ladies themselves, the writer was possessed with a bright idea. Fusing for two long breaths we proceed to quote "The women have turned out to all the hockey games this year for which they could procure a ticket. Others have attended faithfully and willingly, upon the smallest possible amount of persuasion from any youth whatever, having two of the said paste-boards."

Right there we got it—our bright idea. Has any fair possessor of two "paste-boards" tried to determine the amount of persuasion necessary to induce "any youth whatever" to accompany her to the women's game? Perhaps this never occurred to the debaters (we give them credit for that), but now that the suggestion has been brought forward—how about it? Would not this ensure an attendance fully as large as those of the two men's games, with a consequent addition to the hockey club's treasury—two things which are obviously of great importance in intercollegiate sport? Then again it would afford numerous co-eds an opportunity to return past favours.

With many misgivings we lay bare our "bright idea" where all the co-eds of our University may read and ponder it. Being only a "poor Schoolie" we are content to stand aside and await developments. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

We remain,

FUSSER.

"Were you ever pinched for going too fast?"

"No, but I've been slapped."

—SEN DODGER.

Hart House Music

A new artist in the person of Mr. S. Sherer, of Chatham, was introduced in the Music Room of Hart House on Tuesday, at 5 p.m.

Mr. Sherer gave one of the most extended and interesting recitals of the season. He played with great care of style and feeling, and the members of the Hart House thoroughly enjoyed the recital.

The first number was the Rhapsody in Blue in C minor. This selection while more difficult than the well known Prelude in C sharp minor, is nevertheless more popular, very popular with concert-goers. The spirited interpretation which Mr. Sherer gave it was one of the notable features. The next, a "Viennese Waltz" in G major by Friedrich is a new number here. It was of the classical type and while not possessing any of the melodic beauties of Chopin was, however, quite attractive.

Mr. Sherer followed these with a group of two numbers by Liszt, the first the well-known Liebestraum and the second the Rigoletto Fantasia. Mr. Sherer seems quite at home with Liszt and while exception may, perhaps, be taken to his interpretation of some of the passages, yet his technique was never in doubt. The Rigoletto Fantasia was especially noteworthy for the abundance of chromatic runs for the right hand. Mr. Sherer was prevailed upon to reply with an encore. He played the popular G-vacante by Haydn-Brahms in excellent style.

Mr. Sherer then introduced a novelty number, the "Juba" by Dett. It was nothing more or less than a classical arrangement of the negro dances of the South and as such was interesting in the extreme. If the modern Jazz could be raised to folk standard of music, it might be such selections as these it might have some excuse for surviving. This number proved decidedly popular.

Following this number came the well known Nocturne in F sharp by Chopin. Mr. Sherer made it a study in pure tone and succeeded admirably in giving it a satisfying interpretation. Two more numbers finished the splendid recital. The pretentious Campanella by Paganini—Liszt formed a spirited finale to the programme. Mr. Sherer gave this latter number a strictly traditional rendering and his technique was very satisfactory. The capacity audience gave him a splendid hand.

"Sympathize with me, old topper, I'm just getting over a bad operation."
"You bet, old man I've just had a taste of the hospital my-sell."
"Serious trouble?"
"Oh no, just a date with a nurse."
—L'OPPET.

All teams that were entered in the Series last year are entitled to one representative. Important business concerning next year's management will come up.

Varsity AMAZING ONES

The Amazing Ones turned in a wonderful practice at the Arena on Monday. They are certainly travelling after the puck with increasing speed at every practice. So ye children of the Blue and White be down at the Arena with your eyes wide open to see some real honest-to-goodness hockey on Friday at 4 p.m. Adelaide MacDonald, by the way, was turning 'em aside in true Langtry style. With our net guardian turning in the same exhibition on Friday, the Red and White may well shoot in vain. That is, of course, provided the Blue and White defence allow them to shoot. Marion Hilliard, Grace Stanley and Margaret Dow are developing a good brand of combination play for a speedy forward line, and look like fighting their way through to victory. Whatever you do, watch Marie Thomas and Mary Thom. They are going to be a source of worry to the McGill defence. So, come one, come all and let's be out to the ring side on Friday, there to be amazed by The Amazing Ones.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY TEAM CHOOSES CAPTAIN

On Friday morning, at the Arena practice, the hockey team elected their captain in the person of Adelaide MacDonald, who plays goal. Miss MacDonald is an all-round good sport, a clever student, and has splendid executive ability. The team is to be congratulated on its wise choice.

Personnel of the Hockey Team

Adelaide MacDonald, fourth year U.C., a Toronto girl, ex-Havergal, prominent in many college activities, chiefly hockey, tennis, and president of U. of T. Tennis Club and the University College W.U.A.

Gertrude Wallis, a Vic girl in her fourth year of the Seven Year Science and Meds Course, a fact which speaks for itself. She is president of the Vic Women's Athletic Society, plays a good defensive game of basketball on the Vic team, and an even better game as defence in hockey. She is a good fast skater, cool and steady, and an excellent shot.

Margaret Thomas, second year U.C., previously Moulton College, Toronto. An all-round athlete, swims, plays tennis, and plays a good defensive game of hockey.

Marion Hilliard, a splendid combination of good student and good sport. She is a first-class honour student in the second year of the Seven Year Science and Meds Course. Takes an enthusiastic and uniformly successful part at almost every line of sport and activity at Vic. She has her 'T' for tennis, plays side-centre on the Vic Basketball Team, the rest of her waking time.

Grace Stanley, fourth year U.C., English and History. A Toronto girl, a graduate of Harbord Collegiate, and she also combines brains and athletic ability. She is a very keen and quick player, excelling in forward line work rather than defence. She is a splendid swimmer and a remarkably good tennis player.

Marjory Fenwick, another member of 2T4 Victoria, who hails from Newfoundland and brings with her keen enthusiasm, and a great deal of ability in handling a hockey stick, and keeping closely attached to the elusive puck in a hand game. She is a worthy and popular "center" representative.

Mary Thom, the representative on the team from Senior Meds, and well able to uphold the honour and sporting reputation of her faculty. She plays right wing on the team and is fast and steady.

Marie Thomas hails from Niagara Falls. She has proved satisfactorily to all her fellow-Victorians that the Falls can produce all-round sports and clever athletes. She came up to the finals in the University Tennis Tournament this fall, made the Vic Basketball Team, swims well, and is one of the speediest women hockey players in Varsity.

Margaret Dow is from University College, fourth year, and is one of the strongest players on the team. She is a splendid skater, a good student, and a dependable all-round sport.

Olive Mews is another Newfoundland girl at Victoria, who is out to prove that the east is a good place to train athletes. She is a 2T5 fresquette, and, although new to the game, is a strong skater and is fast acquiring skill in stick-handling and good combination work.

TROUSERS

We have found from experience that every man has a good coat and vest which need a good pair of Trousers.
We have over 8,000 different patterns representing the total stock of all the wholesale houses of Canada and are in position to match anything.

We matched coats and vests for 400 of the boys last term.
Bring in your vest and let us match it up for you.

SR. SCHOOL TIES SR. DENTS AT INDOOR BALL

Sr. School and Sr. Dents played a fast game yesterday which ended in a draw, four all. The game was hard-fought throughout and featured by two snappy double plays, Rivers to Lowery and Benson to Lowery. School had one big inning, the second, scoring all their runs on three walks and three hits. A Fitzgerald of School made three hits. All four teams in this group are evenly matched. Trinity, Sr. Dents and Sr. School all having a chance to win out with Sr. Arts likely to upset the dope at any time.

Line up:
Sr. Dents: Coen, Bearen, Gassley, Lowery, Phillips, Rivers, Jegg, Muter, Vell.

Sr. School—McAllister, A. Fitzgerald, W. Fitzgerald, Yack, Benson, Mumery, Wearren, Duran.

Medicine

To-day, ladies and gentlemen are Wednesday. That in itself is an unusual fact, were it not for the curious circumstance with which Wednesday is followed by Thursday. This has become a thing of a long time, and if it happens just once more, tomorrow night, Dauidy Night, will be seen and heard at Convocation Hall.

This is an annual event that, aside from its own merit, deserves and obtains the enthusiastic support of every Med, a great many nurses, and a good proportion of doctors. In this is quite a unique entertainment, one that appeals to a whole profession, and that one of the finest professions of mankind. It is the Medical Festival in the truest sense, reflecting as it does, the humour and thoughts and doings of the Medical Brotherhood of the day, and for this reason, if for no other, students, nurses, and doctors alike should, and will, make it their business and pleasure to turn up at Convocation Hall to-morrow or Friday night and clamour for admission.

Dauidy Night is "of the Meds, by the Meds, for the Meds." It is the original Stunt Night at the University and we're proud of it. This year we shall have good cause to be more than usually proud of it. For with new curtain, new scenery, bigger stage, better equipment all round, the performance will have all the advantages such as they have never had before, so with due modesty we can only say that this year, at any rate, the audience may leave their rotten caps at home or if they must use them they can save them for Election Speech Day, when they will be much more necessary and quite as effective.

The Cup

As in previous years, the skit judged the best will win a silver cup for the year that presents it. This will be awarded on Friday night. All who are in on it, and with the removal by profession of the year that secured just naturally born to win the cup, having done so for three years in succession, competition on this will be keen, with all starting even. As a sheet added incentive the members of the winning skit will have the honor of two complimentary tickets refunded.

EPISTAXIS

Epistaxis is another Medie Institution of which we are proud, and never more than this year. It is a fountain of originality, as a humor of opinion, expressed with telling humor, and is the only contrived extract of the Medical world, we feel we have something here worth having, buying, and sending home. The copies are rather limited in number this year, so buy early if you wish to buy one.

SOPHS AND FROSH FROM U.C. MAKE MERRY TOGETHER

"Well, that is a dollar well spent," one third member of 273 or 274 U.C. was heard to say, at about 10:30 last night, when leaving Hart House after the Frosh-Soph Banquet. These words speak for themselves regarding the success of the Banquet. Eats, speeches, music, and vaudeville all made the evening one not easily to be forgotten.

The all-important eats were served in the Great Hall, artistically lighted by the soft glow of candles. A description of these eats would only make some poor non-attendee take on a very verdant hue, so they will not be discussed.

Music followed the meal, and it was of the finest variety, being served by the U.C. Orchestra.

The first toast of the evening was to His Majesty, proposed by Mr. Cross, President of the second year. The next to the "L.I." was proposed by Mr. Tashoff of '25, and responded to by Mr. MacLaren. The latter made a few remarks on the activities of the "L.I.", and congratulated the first and second years on their Banquet.

The speaker of the evening, Prof. A. T. De Lury, was introduced by Mr. Cross. In his speech, Mr. De Lury went back over former days when he was a student of the old University residence, now the West wing of U.C. and Mr. Cross' father was at the University. He told of the party warfare that used to be carried on over elections to the "L.I." He said that the number of ladies now at College made a decided difference in the College life. The social functions have increased. Formerly there were not so many social functions but they had one grand one, the conversation. At this event the whole college was thrown open to students and their friends. There was music, dancing, reading and many other attractions. In closing, Mr. De Lury said that he was glad to see that we had our eyes to the future and it would help him and those of his generation to look into the future with confidence.

Prof. De Lury's speech was very much appreciated and after it the banquets retired to the East Convocation Hall. One of the solo given by Cosmo E. Coventino, second cousin to Caruso. Mr. Coventino upheld the prestige of his lineage by his wonderful rendition in Italian of Solo Mio. His rich tenor voice was very pleasing to hear. When encores, he sang Puccini and several other Italian songs. He also gave some selections on the Saxophone, factiously so-called, really a mouth organ. His selection included "The Rose Tree" and "Ma". Elmer Schumacher did some very interesting dancing, which showed real talent.

Lozo Toftold was the next number. He stated that after Prof. De Lury's speech, he would be equal to DX. A song-sing was led by Roy Rickard, in the way that only Roy can do it. Mr. Pritchard performed a number of magic tricks, all of which amazed and dumfounded those present.

Jerry Smith, President of the First year, made a few remarks, expressing himself as very pleased and gratified at the number present and the good spirits that had prevailed. Mr. Hays urged everybody to make the U.C. stunt night a success.

A number of musical selections followed, including a jazz whistle solo by Mr. Vickers, a violin solo by Mr. Ketchum and a saxophone duet by the Brown brothers. Bill Bate upheld his reputation by telling a joke.

One disappointment was that the boxers were not present, nor could they be found anywhere.

The Dental Western Club will hold a smoker at Hart House on Friday, February 24. Every member should make a point of attending this affair, which promises a good time from start to finish of an evening crowded with many novel smoker stunts.

The combined Freshmen years of the R.C.D.S. are holding their annual dance at the Clubhouse on March 3 at 8:00 p.m. The music will be furnished by Nicholson's orchestra. Tickets on sale now from At Home representatives.

I.C.D.U. FINALS
In the Semi-finals of the I.C.D.U. Delores Osode's victory over Trinity, who won the laurel last year, narrowed the race down to the final date which takes place in the West Hall of the Union Building on Monday evening, March 10. Trinity will oppose Osode in this last encounter and the subject will be "Revelation and the subject will be allowed to alter her own Constitution."

The initiative will be supported by Messrs. R. A. Williams and J. A. Boyd, of U.C., and the negative by Messrs. Saydon H. A. and H. G. Cody, B.A., of Osode.

Applied Science

"She's coming! She's in town already, I tell you—oh, I can't wait just to go—wait till you see her—"

"Now look here, Clarence, a joke's a joke and I've loved to love, but there's such a thing as going too far. What was that 5.9 state that just passed, and who is this wonderful Cosette that you're so sure of?"

"Look out!"

"We hopped, pulled down our tin lid and shivered—"

"A whizzing flash of blue and a cloud of smoke—" There she goes, that's her, Petey, you see her waving, she says 'I hold me, Petey, or I'm a ruined man!'"

"Now look here, Clarence, a joke's a joke and I've loved to love, but there's such a thing as going too far. What was that 5.9 state that just passed, and who is this wonderful Cosette that you're so sure of?"

"We picked ourselves up, spat a mouthful of dust and looked as mad as we possibly could—"

"You heard?" he quizzed.

"Why, Petey old boy, I'm all spruced at you. You remember that charming little person, Miss 273, the dancer, last fall, she and her little sister, Miss 274, the Damsel de Luxe, and she's bringing her around for the boys to meet. Man, prettiest, loveliest, dearest little dear of the family—I'm all for her and—"

"Clarence is a good scout—no harm in Clarence—such lovely taste has Clarence—and besides—See you later."

Labs and Lectures off at 4:00 p.m. today.

Why? The Engineering Society Meeting in C22.

Mr. J. R. Chaffin, Supt. Water Power Branch, Dept. of Interior, is speaking on "International Waterways Problems."

Mr. Chaffin is an old school man and his presentation of such a subject with authority on all questions relating to water power.

There will be something of interest to every Department and the big thing is, Boys, be fair to yourself.

Owing to the Engineering Society holding a meeting in C22 at 4 p.m. Wednesday, February 22, it is necessary to hold the Civil Club meeting in C26 at 8:00 p.m. of the same date.

Mr. Englebert will give an address showing "The Application of Reinforced Concrete to the solution of Engineering and Architectural problems." The concrete and practical application will be fully discussed and many important structures will be shown by lantern slides.

School Miners postponed their game with the Civils until a later date. The standing to date is as follows:

Wons Lost Draw

Mechanicals	0	0	1
Civils	0	0	1
Electricals	0	2	0

The game Thursday between the Miners and Mechanicals will start at 5:00 p.m. sharp.

UNIVERSAL DAY OF PRAYER NEXT SUNDAY

Once more the time draws near when students the world over set apart a day for prayer, prayer for each other and an behalf of Christ in work among students of all nations. The General Committee of the World's Student Christian Federation has designated February 26, next Sunday, as a Universal Day of Prayer for Students. For over a quarter of a century this observance has played a tremendous part in the religious life of colleges and universities. So much so that the 1 federation leaders are convinced that what has kept the Federation united more than any other single thing has been the Day of Prayer. If it has done this, it is held for the future against those deadly forces of hatred and ill-will and bitterness which swept over such a large part of the world during the recent war and which are still rampant, it must surely demand that every one support it with their hearts, hands and voices.

The Toronto Council of the S.C.M., realizing the immense value of the Day of Prayer, some time ago asked the College Services Committee that they might have the privilege of conducting the service in Convocation Hall next Sunday. The request was very gladly granted and the service next Sunday will be entirely in charge of the students of the University. Needless to say, all the students are especially invited to come and participate in the service.

SCHOLARSHIPS NEEDED

Canada not be able to interest East to West, but may be supposed to establish intellectual links chiefly between the West and the United States. Now I should not wish to say a word against good relations between us and the United States. But I hope that our strongest intellectual, educational, religious and economic links will be between East and West. We can get excellent graduate students from the West if we offer them opportunities. Already for five or six years we have had fellowships of $500 a year given by Sir Edmund Osler, Sir Joseph Flavell and Colonel R. W. Leonard, and every year four or five excellent graduate students have come to us from the West. But more should come. It is difficult now to get money, but will not some Toronto and Ontario firms undertake to place in their budgets $500 a year for such a fellowship? It will, I know, be one powerful link in binding East and West and so be an act of high patriotism."

They sat on the porch at midnight, and the night light shone brightly. The old man gave the signal, and the bulldog did the rest.

—VIRGINIA REEL.

University College

Elsewhere in this issue of the "Varsity" there is an announcement of the coming award of the John H. Moss Memorial Scholarship and the question of electing the award. To be elected this is a candidate for the scholarship from their own number. The electing committee is an executive committee and the members of the class and then the electing committee is commensurate with the honour to be conferred.

Nominations should be addressed to the Secretary, Fourth Year, University College, and left at the U.C. Post Office before Friday, February 24th, 5:00 p.m. May the best candidate win.

U.C. 272 will hold their graduation dinner on March 9, in the Great Hall, Hart House. No effort is being spared to make this an eventful occasion and it is hoped that every member of the year will make it a point to be present. Tickets will be secured from members of the executive and please remember to reserve the date.

The executive are anticipating a large representation of the year at the annual reception, and are doing everything in their power to make it a real good party. It promises to be one of the very best! Come to the University Schools sometime between 3:30 and 6:30 on Saturday afternoon and dance to the strains of a real good orchestra. Tea will be served.

Members of the year are requested to get their tickets from members of the executive as soon as possible, preferably before Friday. A limited number of tickets will be available for members of other years and may be procured in the rotunda on Thursday morning.

The executive of 274 beg to announce that on Saturday, March 9, the annual Reception will be held in U.C. 274. Every one knows this is the big function of the year and every member is expected to turn out. Dancing will commence at 3 p.m. sharp and continue to 6:30 p.m. Only double tickets will be sold and these for class members will be 75 cents. Those who do not belong to the year may purchase them at $1.25. Tickets may be had from any member of the executive on Friday morning. Every effort is being made to procure the best music in the city. Let us put this affair with our usual pep.

Don't forget the class party at U.C. 274, next Tuesday everybody come. Bring your year cards. Watch the VARSITY for further notices.

The regular meeting of the U.C. Women's Literary Society took the form of an impromptu debate at the Union on Sunday night. The subject which was chosen was "Resolved that a college education is fit preparation for a business career." The debate took an informal turn and ended in open discussion in which negative found themselves arguing on the side of the affirmative. The judges, who were the debaters, themselves, decided in favour of the affirmative. Cocoa and sandwiches were eaten which brought the evening to a most enjoyable close.

At a meeting of the Women's Literary Society on Friday last, the fourth and second years met in the final year-year debate, the subject being: "Resolved that any people should have control over its surplus natural resources." The speakers for the affirmative, upheld by 272, were Misses M. Everson and R. Fitzpatrick; for the negative, Misses M. Sissons and G. Graham.

Miss Everson opened the debate by attacking, in a concise and convincing speech the economic side of the question. Her main point was that a disinterested party to take control would be next to impossible to obtain, and, if procured, would have much difficulty in determining the quality and value of products and in placing them where most needed. Miss Sissons maintained that a backward people should not have control over its surplus natural resources; that it would be inadvisable for a progressive people to come in and develop them, after the example of British action in Egypt, Australia, Canada, Miss Fitzpatrick, taking up again the argument for the affirmative dealt with the subject from a social standpoint, and asserted that the pooling of surplus natural resources would destroy the individuality and independence of a people and lead inevitably to internal strife.

Miss Graham skillfully refuted the arguments maintained further that since all national questions except economic questions have been dealt with by the League of Nations, a great present need is a senate to control surplus natural resources.

With great composure and confidence the leader of the affirmative brought the debate to a close. After a short interval the judges gave a verdict in favour of the affirmative.

Address by

REV. DUNCAN MCLEOD, FORMOSA

The meeting is entirely for Young Women and each University Woman is requested to take this notice as a personal invitation to be present.

"The years un-revered are existence—concentrated they become life!"

Trinity

At a meeting of the Trinity College Science Club held last night, Mr. G. Keenly, Vice-President and Chairman of the Department of Education of the Optometrical Association of Ontario and M. E. Bird, Secretary of the Association were speakers. Mr. D. Mitchell gave a very interesting paper dealing with the Anatomy of the Eye.

CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION

The Classical Association will meet this evening at the home of Professor Brown, 506 Huron Street. Professor Alexander, who will read a paper, intends to deal with a subject of general interest—some characteristics of the more novel of recent poetry. Much modern poetry is along old conventional lines, but there are also poetic pioneers and originators and it is chiefly these whom Professor Alexander will consider.

It is certain that others besides members of the Association will be interested and all such are cordially invited to attend this evening's meeting.

A typically Georgian version of a scene from the Merchant of Venice comes next, the street scene where Shylock learns that his revenge is near. The Jew of Modern actors is usually a man to be pitied, and much of the terrible majesty which Macklin and Keen gave him has been lost. The spectator feels no sympathy for Mr. Forsyth's Shylock. He is a repulsive creature, cruel and bloody, seeking revenge in the shape of justice, regardless of all appeals for mercy, and one is exceptionally thankful for this brief insight into Georgian dramatic interpretations.

After a beautiful minuet to Boccaccio's music comes the most questionable part of the evening. We have seen Shakespeare production when a good part of the audience was rocking with laughter at the misdirected efforts of some third-rate tragedian; such laughter is quite inexcusable. However, we have a presentation of one of the most beautiful scenes in all Shakespeare, in the manner of Mr. Romeo Coates, an amateur of fashion, and quite obviously we are supposed to laugh. The real Mr. Coates may have done Shakespeare badly, but we feel sure he was not intentional. Mr. Raymond Massey does Shakespeare as badly as possible and is quite serious about it. He has a chance for some beautiful broad comedy, at times positively vulgar, and he makes the most of it. In spite of serious qualms of our critical conscience, we must say we enjoyed this amateur of fashion immensely. The plays with great gusto, and uses his remarkable physique to advantage.

There is an epilogue and to the uncertain rhythm of some more or less recent jazz the previous depicts to join the younger generation in the studio. He leaves us unconvinced as to the reality of the superiority of previous generations, and we are quite sure they are different. They might laugh at modern acting, but they would have to lose a lot of their conventions before they could understand us. The theatre of to-day can reproduce the eighteenth century much better than the eighteenth century could reproduce the Elizabethans. That, at least, is certain. "Playbills" proves it.

WHO WILL WIN THE MOSS MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP?

Notwithstanding the fact that the trend of the education of to-day is toward specialization, the all-round development is still the ideal as is proved once again by the announcement of the Moss Memorial Scholarship for the best all-round man or woman student in fourth year University College. Specialization in one line of work or study should not detract the student from attaining this ideal, indeed the keen student will not allow all his energies to be absorbed by one interest only. That diversity of interest need not mean superficiality or shallowness has been abundantly proved in every student generation. The names of many of those on our various athletic teams, both men and women, are equally prominent in the honour lists in June and in connection with numerous forms of college activities. Of course this does not mean that one should have as many interests as there are points to the compass, but however few they are, they may and should radiate in different directions. Many look-alikes who have shunned sports for several years because they were convinced that they could not "get on to it" have been surprised to find that, once showed into the swimming tank, or the "remedial class" they have learned to join in with enthusiasm. Specialization often leads to narrowness of interest and outlook; the man of wide interests is prepared to view life from more than one angle and hence is not so inclined to get into a rut. His sympathies will be wider and deeper and he will in consequence be more in touch with his fellows.

The students of the senior year in University College are now trying to decide who of their number most nearly realizes the all-round ideal, a question not readily answered. Every senior should be interested in the coming election and the junior years might do well to look around in the coming year to see that when their turn comes to choose they may do so wisely and have many candidates for the Scholarship. It is a great honour to be elected by one's classmates as the best student, the best sport in short, the best all-round man or woman.

GOD SPEED

Elsewhere in this issue we are reproducing the pictures of two men who should be paramount in the minds of every undergraduate in the University to-day. To-night at the Arena, the Blue and White Seniors stack up against the Argonauts in their final game in the H.A. Series this year and with the final gong, Beattie Ramsay and Stan Brown will terminate their connection with Varsity Hockey, at least so far as active participation in any game is concerned.

Comparatively few of us have had the opportunity of meeting Beattie and Stan personally, giving their best for the honour of the uniform they wear, who has not come to his feet and roared, "Atta Boy, Beattie," "Come on, Stan," without feeling that they were "OUR BOYS." And to-night, when we rise up, and acclaim them as of old, surely there will be a suspicious lump in our throats, and a pardonable moisture in our eyes when we think that this is the last time they ever will be truly "OUR BOYS."

But will we ever forget the way have worked for us? NEVER! In years to come we will recall the thrilling moment when Stan's cyclonic rush in the second Granite-Varsity game last March put Varsity on the road to the Allan Cup. And we will count over in our memory the innumerable times that Beattie played his "usual good game," "Usual" is right! Period after period, game after game, always where he was most needed, bearing the brunt of offence and defence when his teammates faltered, the first to reach an injured man, the first to congratulate the other team when they were the victors. "Usual good game" was a doubtful compliment—until someone applied it to Beattie.

Stan's connection with Varsity Hockey is of two years' duration, during which time the team annexed two Senior Intercollegiate Championships, a Senior O.H.A. Championship and the Allan Cup. Prior to that he saw service in the ranks of the Canadian Expeditionary Force and starred for the famous Dental team. Beattie broke into Varsity Hockey in his first year, 1914-15, being granted his First Colours for work on the team that won the Junior O.H.A. Championship that year. As he was then a Freshman he could not receive the colours, and the next winter found him out of the University and into the Royal Flying Corps as a Cadet. In the fall of 1919 he re-entered the University and since that time has played on the teams that have won three Senior Intercollegiate Championships, a Senior O.H.A. Championship and the Allan Cup.

To-night they make their final bow, as Varsity players, to Varsity supporters. There will be plenty of seats available for the game. Are we going to give them a send-off worthy of them. They have held the torch of University athletics high. Let us show our appreciation. Whether we get to the Arena to-night or not, let us fill our glasses to the brim and drink to two of the best athletes, two of the cleanest sportsmen, two of the finest gentlemen that ever graced a Blue and White uniform—Beattie Ramsay and Stan Brown.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

We take this opportunity to congratulate Perley Banbury, of Vic, on his excellent coaching of the Varsity Women's Hockey Team. They were an exceptionally well trained outfit and reflect great credit on his unselfish effort.

BIOLOGY CLUB

The next meeting of the Biology Club will be held in the Biology Building on Tuesday evening February 28, at 8.00 p.m. The film "The Creation of Life" will be shown. All students and friends are invited, as usual, to attend.

ORGAN RECITAL

Tuesday afternoon, February 28, at 6 p.m., Mr. F. A. Moore will give one of his regular recitals of representative organ music in Convocation Hall.

CANADIAN POET

This evening, in Hart House Theatre, a young Canadian poet will be introduced to local book-lovers. Mr. Wilson Macdonald, author of "Miracle Songs of Jesus" and other poetry will give a recital of his own work, assisted by Messrs. Forsyth and Vincent Massey and Professor Pelham Edgar. A short introductory talk will be given, and a representative selection of his poems will be read. Admission for students, 60 cents; for out-of-town, $1.00. Tickets may be paid at box office. No seats reserved.

Correspondence

The Editor, THE VARSITY

The enclosed letter was sent to me along with Rules and By-laws of the Durhams of Connaught Memorial Hotel in London. The Hotel is a sort of hotel which single men may use when they are in London and, as the latter states, many undergraduates from Oxford and Cambridge do use it. It seems desirable that the notice sent to me should be brought to the attention of the undergraduates of this University also, some of whom may be glad to know of a comfortable and inexpensive hotel in London where they would be likely to meet pleasant companions. Perhaps you would not mind giving publicity to the letter.

Yours faithfully,
H. H. Langton,
Librarian,
University of Toronto.

H. H. Langton Esq., M.A.,
Librarian,
University of Toronto.

Dear Sir,
I am asked by my Committee to send you a notice of our terms and also a copy of our Rules and By-Laws.
You will see as the name implies, that it was started by H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught and the Lady Patricia Ramsay in memory of the late Duchess of Connaught.

I may state that since we opened in May 1920, a very large number of beds have been occupied, over 15,000 visitors having stayed here. Many undergraduates from Oxford and Cambridge spend their vacation here, and my Committee are most anxious that you should be made aware of these facts, for our real object is to provide a clean and comfortable home for young men who find themselves in London.

Of course, we do not set out to make a profit, as we have a large reserve sum of money in the bank, but we do make every effort to see that we should be self-supporting. We are not a charity nor do we wish to be looked on as such.

If you would be kind enough to bring this notice before the attention of your College my Committee will be extremely obliged.
Yours truly,
S. V. Bank,
Secretary.

The Editor, THE VARSITY

Sir,
After the two weeks' Short Course for Farmer Students came to a close a week ago Friday the members of the class gathered to discuss their two weeks' work. Continual mention was made of the good-fellowship shown toward them by the regular students of the University and a resolution was passed instructing me to find a means for making their appreciation known. Perhaps you will be kind enough to mention this in your paper which reaches so many students. Also, as one who had some share in planning and carrying out the course, I want to add a further word of appreciation for the ready co-operation we received from the whole student body.

Thanking you for your generous treatment in your paper, I am,
Yours faithfully,
MAYNARD H. STILES

WEATHERMAN vs. MR. WORKMAN

The weatherman has at last created a furor in University circles as a result of his capricious prank of covering the premises with a glass-like coating of frozen H<sub>2</sub>O. Mr. Ross Workman, of the Varsity Rink, has taken legal action to secure an injunction to restrain, prevent and otherwise not permit youthful individuals with a studious turn of mind, but restless petulant extremes from gliding about at dangerous speed on the back campus instead of the Stadium enclosure. Gate receipts at the latter institution have fallen, it is estimated, at least 23 4-5 per cent. within the last two days, the precise reputation and further continuance of a stable financial conditions was in peril unless immediate steps had been taken. It was necessary to permit what threatened to bring calamitous results to the rink management and to not allow University students to have reverted from the unsurpassed civilized state of programme regulated skating to a state of childlike innocence where youths and maidens in a frolicsome manner were wont to gambol about at all and any angles unrestricted by time or space and without the stern accompaniment of a band. A temporary injunction was granted at last night 7.01 a.m. on Tuesday, when it is hoped that after the elements will have come to the assistance of the rink management or the court will have decided to grant a permanent injunction.

The University superintendent is at his wit's end as a result of the ski-like perturbations of reckless individuals on the sloping terra firma at the rear of the Library fearing that some of the aforesaid, hereinafter mentioned youths of tender years will in the precipitous descent lose their equilibrium and land with such vehemence on the valley beneath that the large pipe of the University heating system will be punctured.

Fair co-eds, who are not blessed with the four-buckle flapping pedal contraptions worn at the dictates of sound sense (?), and specially adapted to slush, are finding a twofold difficulty in navigating on the premises. That self-inflicted dignity which would rather risk almost any physical endangerment that indulge in a sort of two inch per step shuffle prevents them from walking about at a safe rate of speed. Yet that ever present danger of a precipitous descent and a realistic interpretation of the latest Gorman impersonation of "Why Boys Leave Home" flashes itself before them as a dreaded alternative. At least twenty-nine University women likewise purchased goggles within the past three days and twenty-seven more have made inquiries as to price, size most in style and other details prior to purchase.

Special investigations of a comprehensive character have led to the prognostications that weather conditions are due for a change within at least three months and the parties most seriously affected have taken the only adequate steps possible—placed weather insurance of a suitable amount with a local company.

TRINITY EN FETE TO-NIGHT

Have you ever heard the Trinity College Glee Club in concert? Have you ever danced in the famous College's Convocation Hall?

If you are lucky enough to be able to answer "yes" to each of the above, further reference to the Glee Club Concert and Dance to be held in the historic old buildings on Queen St. West to-night will be superfluous. You'll be there—"with bells."

If, however, you never yet have availed yourself of the opportunity to take in the joys of this night of nights at Trinity which happens but once a year, now is the time to ring up C. 3501 and grab a couple of the few remaining reserved seats in the body of the Hall. Filling this, you will have to take pot luck and sit in the gallery (and incidentally save fifty cents).

The fact is that everything points to a bigger, brighter and better evening than ever.

Not least among the special attractions offered will be the chance for all music-lovers to hear Cecil Fiegelsky, remarkable Boy violinist, in recital. Mr. Arthur Plumstead baritone, will also give his hearers a treat in several numbers, including the "Prologue to Pagliacci" and Walter Danowski's splendid setting to Kipling's "Danny Deever," in which latter number he will be assisted by the men of the chorus.

No effort has been spared to make this evening a brilliant success from every view-point. The concert will commence at 8.15 p.m. and will probably last until about 10 p.m.—Refreshments in the shape of coffee, sandwiches and cake will then be served in the Front Hall, while the chairs are being removed from Convocation Hall and the floor made ready. Dancing will then immediately follow, the music being supplied by Wheeler's College Orchestra, and will continue until midnight, when the singing of the Trinity College song "Met 'Agona'" will end the proceedings.

Reserved seats $1.25. Rush, 75c. For a summary of the programme see last Wednesday's "Varsity."

Every member of the Club is reminded of the final rehearsal at 4.15 p.m. sharp.

FORESTRY DANCE AT U.T.S. BIG SUCCESS

The halls of the U.T.S. Building on Bloor Street echoed last Friday evening to the sound of laughter and gliding footsteps when the Foresters' Club of the University of Toronto staged a successful anniversary of their first Annual Dance.

In spite of the smallness of the Faculty, which renders large formal affairs a financial impossibility the Foresters managed to crowd a goodly amount of enjoyment into the three short hours during which the hall was in their disposal. Great credit is due Messrs. Eppler, Cram and Thomson for their unselfish work as the committee in charge. The thanks of those present is also owing to Mrs. C. D. Howe, Mrs. Eppler and Mrs. J. H. White, who graciously acted as hostesses.

YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY TO SEE THE OLD TEAM IN ACTION IS TO-NIGHT

VARSITY SECONDS DEFEAT O.A.C.

Varsity II basketballers had another game to play after winning the Inter-collegiate Basketball Series. This was played in Guelph Saturday with O.A.C.

Great interest was shown by the Aggies, supported by McDonald Hall. The game was played after the School and O.A.C. match.

Two harder fought basketball games have been fought this year. The first score was a foul shot for Varsity. The second score of 8-3.

In the second period O.A.C. started the scoring again, but the pace started to tell on them and with Varsity guards coming into the scoring line, managed to make a 17-24 victory for the Blue and White.

Much credit is due to this team as they have gone through the season without losing a game in this series.

JR. SCHOOL WIN GROUP BY DEFEATING O.A.C. 36-21

Junior School won its final group basketball game in Guelph on Saturday defeating O.A.C. team 36-21. The game was never in doubt from the start; the score at half-time being 18-7 for School.

Lloyd and Turner starred for Jr. School, scoring 20 points between them. Seven of the Aggies' points were from fouls while Jr. School did not make one foul shot count.

Line up—O.A.C.—Folker, McKenzie, Van Haaren, Horne, Heatherbell, Hammersley, Waugh.

S.P.S.—Lloyd, Little, Simpson, Turner, Sorby, Shields.

Referee—Forman and Stewart.

S.P.S. SWIMMING

The annual meeting of the School of Science Swimming Club will be held in S28 on Monday at 5 p.m. All members and others interested are urgently requested to be there on time.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

Phyllis Powell at centre, Miss Gardiner did excellent defensive work and her rushes were always dangerous. Miss Powell was probably the hardest worker on the ice and checked and rushed and passed brilliantly. She only lacked weight behind her shot. When she was hurt and forced to retire in the third period she received a great hand from the crowd. Evelyn Snyder marred an otherwise excellent game by a tendency to loaf offside in the first two periods.

For Varsity, the two defence players were noticeable. Miss Walls filled the position well and her attack all had a punch to them. She has a real shot, the second score of the afternoon coming on a lift from her stick into the upper corner of the net. Molly Donaldson's maddening poke broke up practically every rush which came down on her side of the rink, and she met all attacks fearlessly.

One noticeable feature of the game was the way in which all the centres kept in position for a pass. Grace Stanley in particular commended in front of the net and scored the first goal as a result on a pretty pass from Marion Hilliard.

Miss Hilliard was Varsity's star on the forward line. She is a strong, easy skater with more speed than anyone else on the ice. It was a treat to see her come up behind a McGill rush and check back.

She stickhandles well, and her shot was the envy of many a mere male looking on. Her first score was the result of a beautiful rush, and her second was whipped in from a scramble.

It is to be hoped that an opportunity will be given each year to see the women's teams in action, and under later conditions to McGill. They were handicapped by the absence of their regular coach, as Shea had to go to Queen's with the men, and also by the size of the ice—surface to which they were quite unaccustomed.

One of the most enjoyable features of the afternoon was the burlesque game put on by S.P.S. Well, cheerleader Spike Thompson and they were Junior and Senior Nicks, but we saw an awful lot of Scotch stockings in the crowd! Mr. Ross Workman was in charge, and was also chief concessioner. The referee was officer 060, one of the well known Langford midgets, George of that ilk. The array of ladies' garments worn by the burlesque players beggars description, the puck was a rubber spunge, and one of the goalkeepers knitted. Outside of that it was a great game.

In an account of this sort it is not customary to mention the work of the manager, but no account of the first Varsity McGill women's game would get by complete without an appreciative mention of Miss Margaret Thomas, the Varsity manager, who made such excellent arrangements for the team, the outfits, the arena, the sale of tickets, the advertising and all the other thousand and one details which arise when there is no precedent to go by.

The line-up—McGill: Gail, Lora Kerr, defence, Florence Gardiner and Cathie Coll; centre, Phyllis Powell, wings, Evelyn Snyder, Capt. and Violet Foley, subs, Ted Rough, Margaret Elliott and Alice Roy.

Varsity Goal, Adelaide Macdonald, (Capt.), defence, Molly Donaldson and Marion Hilliard, centre, Grace Stanley; wings, Marion Hilliard and Margaret Dow, subs, Marjorie Fawcett, Mary Tom, and Marie Thomas.

Referee—R. McLeod, Queen's.

Help The Suffering Swimmers

"Who wants a swimming meet for the girls of U. of T.?" Everybody! Why don't we have one then?

'Twas a simple question but no one seemed to be able to tell the Varsity reporter the answer to it. Then she wandered aimlessly into the Lillian Massey building, and behold! a dozen figures bannihilated and plunged and jack-knived in the pool. Many and various were the stunts that the reporters saw and she was greatly amazed at the strength and daring of the maidens.

And then there was a sudden lull in the fun and frolic.

"Oh, what's the use?" cried a disgusted voice, "I can't do any of the really difficult dives without a spring board. Why don't we get a new board—this old one is broken."

'Twas the simple answer to my simple question! A spring board! The university will not give us one so we will have to get busy and get one for ourselves, if we really and truly do want a swimming meet.

Do you come or swim? Then come along with your little old dollar or fifty cents or whatever you want to give and we will go downtown and buy a nice spring-board—only $15 and have our own swimming meet.

Conveyers will be around so don't forget! It's up to you to help us out.

INDOOR BASEBALL SCHEDULE MANAGERS WILL PLEASE NOTE

The schedule for this week is as follows: Monday—Sr. Dents vs. Sr. U.C., 4 p.m. Ungers, Murrehead and Ford. Tuesday—Trinity vs. Sr. U.C., 4 p.m. Ungers, Murrehead and Ford.

Wednesday—Sr. School vs. Sr. Dents, 4 p.m. Ungers, Murrehead and Ford.

Friday—Trinity vs. Sr. Dents, 4 p.m. Ungers, Murrehead and Ford.

Managers are requested to note that these games must be played when scheduled. Owing to the lateness of the season no postponement is possible. In the event of a game being postponed it will be replayed Thursday, March 2, at 4 p.m.

There will be a meeting of the executive and managers of teams on Monday, February 27, at 5 p.m. in the Barton's office to draw up the schedule for semi final and final games and other business.

SWIMMING CLUB

The annual meeting of the above Club will be held in the Lecture Room, Hart House, on Monday, March 2, 1922, at 5 p.m. This meeting is open to all members, but voting members are restricted to the following:

BIFF! BING! BANG! TAIL TRIES TO WAG THE DOG

The members of the fourth year in the Commerce and Finance Course hereby challenge any other body in University College of the fourth year and recognized by the A.A.U.C., etc., to a game of hockey.

The C. & F. feel that they have a team of championship calibre and therefore reserve the right to refuse any acceptance of their challenge which does not seem to merit attention. This implies, of course, that such courses as Political Science, etc., will not be considered.

The C. & F. have all their last year's men back on the team. The players have been attending all the big games down town and they have also been reading the "Star" sporting page faithfully, so that the team is in the pink of condition.

For those fans who have not been following them throughout the season, the personnel of a few of the outstanding players is given.

H. B. Wheaton, one of those who backed Argos in their first game with Grantes. Knows the inner ropes of the game.

A. L. Woodland—when he once gets going he can't be stopped.

R. Ryrie—not used much this year. Grantes, knows the inner ropes of the game.

Clubs interested in this challenge should get in touch with any member of the team or with the secretary of the C. & F. Hockey Club (champions of U.C. 2T, 1921).

registered in the C.I.A.U. during the past season (i.e., members of the Intercollegiate team).

(b) Playing members from each faculty and college who entered teams in the Inter-Faculty Series during the past season.

(c) Members of the out-going Executive.

Nominations must be made in writing signed by two voting members in the Club and filed with the Secretary of the Athletic Association not later than Monday, March 7. Those nominated to any other club must be members of the Athletic Association in good standing and at the time of nomination registered in the second or a higher year.

T. A. REED, Secretary, University of Toronto Athletic Association.

Will you fear with us while we exist? On Friday night and they certainly made a finished job of it. That fact tends to be obscured in a big smoke barrage about some weakened team, and in connection with the Avenue Riders. We want to slip a little line to the boys and show that the Blue lads (in fact the Aura Lee team) in any fixture if they play the hockey they played last week. Aura Lee were without the services of Conacher, Durb and G. Thompson. Take on one last time. Can played as good a game for the livers as the Big Train has all season. We would get a big majority on a vote taken on that question. Varsity was as much, if not more handicapped by the absence of Ross—non-erile as was Aura Lee by the absence of Billy Burch. Lastly, every fully clothed possibily one, which still leaves us a margin, was a regular goal and no net guard could have stopped them. Varsity's just about a horse apiece, we figure.

Four Varsity lads played the whole sixty. Jack Langtry, Stan Brown, Beattie Ramsay and Big Westy. They all turned in high-class exhibitions except "Eagle-eye" John who was worrying a bit too much about his means poor, though. Bill Carson, who showed how he got the name of being a star centre, was on the jump for about fifty seven minutes and tied Westy who was all over the ice working like a beaver, had ten minutes rest in all. That makes a total of three hundred and forty-seven minutes of the play handled by the regulars without the help of substitutes. It was a great exhibition of what the old guard could do. For the Red men, Eddie Rodden was the most dangerous forward and was checked pretty hard at times on that account. Their defence was good, but Carson played a great game but few defences could fool the old champs when they hit their stride.

The first opened up with a rush and Meeking was right on deck with the rubber about three minutes after the play opened, when Beattie Ramsay and John L. were doing a catch-can catch-can about fifteen feet from the basket. There was some pretty smooth looking passes on both sides. Stan Brown opened Varsity's scoring very shortly after with one of his old time double-fake pass rushes right into the Aura Lee back-yard.

About mid-way, Eddie Rodden landed a nice long shot from outside the defence. Beattie R. tied up the standing with one of his own brand before the period was over. Ned Wright stood out in the first act and had the Reds worried. Play was not so fast in the last half of the round.

We-2. They-2.

In the second, Varsity hopped into the lead with a pretty bit of combination by three stars, Brown to Ramsay to Carson who changed in a shot that a stone wall couldn't have stopped. Play got a bit thick here, Rodden opening up on Bill Carson with a shoulder that laid Bill on on the ice for a few minutes, with as little as he could get along with and live. That account was squared later in the game by a couple of clean body checks. Eddie will now know why he was so stiff on Saturday morning. Hogarth tried to scalp Westy and he rested with the time-keepers for five minutes for that reason. Then the Blue shirts collected a couple. Ned Wright and Westy each collecting a notch in their sticks. Hogarth came back and after apologising to Westy, like the gentleman he is, scored. Can and Munton followed him and left the "core again tied."

Us-5. Them-5.

Eddie Rodden was still tired when he came out for the last act, so he went over and spent two minutes in the box. In the meantime Beattie R. gave an exhibition of rushing and scoring that brought the house down.

Half-way through, Bill Carson cinched the game on a pass from Ramsay and the scoring was over. Varsity pressed right until full time and the lamps were freely given and received. Aura Lee's losing off-side was pretty raw at times but no damage was done.

Correspondence

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Sir—Please permit me to express through the "Varsity" something of the appreciation and gratitude which the McGill Ladies' Hockey Team feels.

At the outset our reception and subsequent entertainment speaks volumes for Varsity. Though faced with a decidedly difficult task because of the number of visiting ladies, with increased difficulty because of the size of the organization at U. of T. nothing has been left undone with regard to comfort or pleasure. We desire most of all to thank those in charge of the Hockey match. Varsity provided all officials and in their discharge of duties they left nothing to be desired.

U. of T. have on this occasion not only aided materially in encouraging the competition between teams but have also added to a proper Inter-University spirit.

Yours gratefully,
J. Gordon Quackenbush,
Mgr. McGill Ladies' Hockey Team

U.C. "LIT." TEA DANCE

Realizing the need of a large and inexpensive dance of an informal nature to bring the members of all years in University College together, the executive of the Literary and Athletic Society has decided to put on a tea-dance. This will be held in the Arcadia from three to six p.m. on Saturday, March 11th.

The aim of the Society has been to put on the best possible dance, at the lowest possible price.

The numbers will be limited to three hundred and fifty couples to ensure lots of room for the dancers. J. Wilson Jarman's nine piece orchestra has been obtained for the occasion and Hart House will be catering. The same excellence of arrangements as obtained at the annual Arts Ball will be assured. The tickets will sell at $1.50 per hundred ticket and may be obtained from Howard Whitson, 14 York, Gordon Graham, 111 York, N. Mathews, 11 York, H. W. Vickers 1 York or from their respective stores.

War Tax is included in the price of the ticket. Get your ticket or get on the list for Wednesday, March 14th, when the sale will be thrown open to other faculties. Tickets will not be sold to non-university students.

The last regular meeting of the U.C. Literary Society was held on Monday evening in West Hall. Very few turned up, possibly on account of the inclement weather, possibly because the student members were out to previous meetings.

A great deal of petty quibbling resulted in a slight breach of constitution on the part of the society in power, and it is consumed the time set aside for the business of the Society. After the matter was finally settled the main event of the evening, a debate, was held. "Resolved: That the Prairie Provinces should be given complete control of their resources."

The debaters, Glazebrook and Ferguson for the affirmative, and Lee and Hewitt for the negative, were not their arguments too forcibly and well, the result was a unanimous verdict in favour of the affirmative.

The next meeting is for the nomination of officers for next year, and will take place on March 8.

The annual reception is the one function of singular importance to the student's life in college. It is a time when the student meets his year, and the other faculties demand a somewhat strict observance of class limits in the choice of a partner, while this one alone, invites the student to introduce the friend from outside.

It is here the newly formed bonds of friendship are cemented by warmly welcoming him into the round of intercourse. The executive of U.C. has planned such an occasion, and they feel confident that the "year" will stand behind them. One of the main aims of the Social Committee of U.C. they were unable to procure any hall but U.C.S. Although this is hardly adequate, yet the room, despite space for a hundred couples. Jarman's orchestra will furnish the music. The tickets, which are now on sale, may be obtained from any member of the executive. The prices are 75 cents and $1.50 per couple. The smaller price is for the members of the year.

The Harvard graduates are holding a strictly informal dance at U.C. tonight. Double tickets, including tax, $1.10. All ex-pupils and their friends are invited.

Newman Club

Newman Club, 80 St. George Street, on Saturday evening was the scene of a very successful tea-dance given by Loretto Alumnae Association. One hundred and seventy-five couples danced to the music of the De La Salle Orchestra. Supper was served after the eighth dance, and guests who had not before seen the new Club rooms found added enjoyment in exploring the building. A great deal of credit is due the executive for their splendid arrangement of the affair.

DENTISTRY

ENJOYABLE SMOKER

The Western Club of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons held a very enjoyable Smoker in the East Common Room of Hart House on Friday evening.

Despite the many other attractions of the evening a goodly number turned out to enjoy the lively programme.

The evening's entertainment opened with a spirited sing-song, led by Mr. J. L. McDougall, the jovial old shock-troop, who demonstrated his ability as a conductor in no small way, after which the Chairman and President of the Club, Mr. R. H. McDougall, introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Wallace E. Dunlop, Superintendent of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

Dr. Secombe gave an interesting and profitable address on the value of unity among the people of the different provinces towards making Canada the fairest gem in the crown of Empire. Although Dr. Secombe apologized for a lack of humour and the possible too-seriousness of his remarks, nevertheless he gave an address that was relaxed and made the more forcible by many humorous comparisons and parallels, and for which he was tendered a hearty vote of thanks and the singing of "He's a jolly good fellow."

The toast of "St. Mary's," a humorous quartet rendered by Messrs. Dutton, Riley, Chisholm and Elberton, called for more "coloratura" techné than was in the hearts of the speakers. A lighthearted debate, and the serving of refreshments brought the evening to a close.

Life's Outstanding Events

Q To each of us is given the memory of at least one outstanding happiness in the journey of life. An engagement, a wedding or perhaps some anniversary which is worthy of life-long commemoration.

Q A Ryrie Diamond for such an occasion is a natural choice—its quality typifies perfection—while its beauty and durability fittingly perpetuate the event of which it is the chosen emblem.

Q A Ryrie diamond is always the highest quality obtainable.

GRANITES DEFEAT AVENUE ROADERS

Show Decided Superiority and Enter Finals 6-2 Favorites

Granites step into the final game of the O.H.A. tilt with a comfortable four goal lead. Aura Lee went in favourites at 6-5. We had three guesses as to why, but are still wrong and leave it to the dopes. Anyway, Granites come out 6-2 favorites. That was the score when the 60 minute bell rang. In the first period play was hard and fast, and Granites had a slight edge. In the second round the Green-shirts played the Red-shirts off their feet. Aura Lee didn't get past Beattie more than twice in the first half of the period. The third act was still Granites although Harry Watson was laid out by a buer looking back about six minutes before time. Collett followed him off first with a minute to go after accidentally being hit on the head with one of Conacher's shots. Checking was hard throughout and several penalties were handed out to each crew. Frank Sullivan was there with the pinch-hitting and got three to his credit. Jeffrey and Romer played well for the winners. Stephenson and Meeking were best for the Avenue Roaders. Granites seemed to be in better condition than Aura Lee. They played hard the whole sixty, while Aura Lee seemed to wither at the end of the first.

The Granites can be trusted to successfully defend the old Allan Mug and keep it in the O.H.A. Lou Marsh refereed a mighty good game.

Applied Science

Before the McGill game the 2nd year School inter-department polo finals will be run off between Civils and Mechanicals. Each team went through the series undefeated playing a scoreless game against each other. The game will be interesting and close, if not as scientific as the game following.

The teams:
Civils—Goal, Sharpe; defense, MacQuarrie and Chambers; centre, Hill; forwards, Russell and Chadwick; spares, Laine and Emerson.
Mechanicals—Goal, Saunders; defense, Tate and Kerr; centre, King-nill; forwards, Wales and Drummond; spares, Dill and Snad.

The first game will start at 2.30.
 Interviewed by THE VARSITY reporter, Professor J. R. Cockburn who has charge of the work on the eight-card shell which is being constructed in the basement of the Old Red School-house, stated that practically all of the numerous parts which go to make up the frame have been completed and only await assembly. When this has been accomplished, the skin will

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Electoral Meeting of the University of Toronto Athletic Association will be held on Wednesday, March 13th, 1922 at 4.15 p.m. in the Lecture Room Hart House (south side, upstairs).

The election of student representatives on the Directorate of the Athletic Association takes place annually at a meeting of the Electoral Body provided for in Sub-Section 4 of Article IX of the Constitution of the Athletic Association. These representatives must be male undergraduates of the University of Toronto or one of the affiliated colleges, who are proceeding to a degree and in actual attendance upon lectures and who have paid the annual fee required (Article II, Section 2, and Article IV, Section 1), and are at the time of nomination in the second or higher year (but not in the final year) at the University.

Nominations for representatives are to be handed in in writing, signed by two male undergraduates, member of the Association (according to the form on page 33 of the Athletic Hand Book) to the Secretary, at least five days previous to the date of such meeting, i.e., Friday, March 10th, 1922, and the Secretary shall post the list of nominations on the notice board at least three days before the date on which the elections are to take place (Article IX, Section 3).

Secretary.

be fashioned from Spanish Cedar, and the craft will be complete except for varnishing and out-fitting. Work has been rather slow owing to the fact that men engaged in the work must also spend considerable time on the rowing machines, but it is expected that the shell will be completed by April 1, in plenty of time for the opening of navigation on the Bay.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY TRANSACTIONS

Material for publication in the "Transactions and Year Book of the Engineering Society" should be handed in to the Supply Department or to a member of the Editorial Board on or before next Tuesday, March 7.

Year and Club Presidents are asked to have their accounts of the year's activities ready, if possible, by that date.

It is hoped to make this number of "Transactions" a complete record of "school" activities in every line and contributions of one paragraph or more will be welcomed.

Onside with Bill and Connie

The greatest game in the world is over for another season and we must say, gang, that considering the flock of breaks against you, we seen yer duty and ye done it noble. Two championship trophies, the S.P.A. and Senior Intercollegiate, will rest in T.A.'s showcase for the coming season. S.P.A., welcome to our city, Allan and John Ross Robertson, "Bon voyage." We will be glad to see you again. After all we were just one behind the Granite lads and they were but one behind the Aura Lee crew. However, as long as the best of sport is provided and "Play the game" is the rule we don't worry any. We must say "Best of Luck" to two of our greatest boys, Beattie and Stan, and we certainly wish them every success in the big game. We only hand the odd "au revoir" to the rest of the bunch. John L., otherwise known as "Hawk-Eye," will be back for his final year in the fall with the same grin. Willy Bill Carson will again treat the fans to his high-class stick-handling next season and promises to be faster and gamier than ever. Big George Westman, who is all Varsity, will still be with us and the busy Ned Wright stays with us another five years. It sounds like a sentence but there is no one we would rather see sticking around than the same cheerful Ned. Nils Hudson makes four more trips to the Busar's Office, while Burt Plaxton and Ross Somerville, who have a good foothold on the ladder to fame, don't know enough yet by two or three years. These, together with Cliff, Beatty and others of championship calibre, will be on deck next December to show the rail birds the same old Varsity stuff. The whole University wishes you "Bon chance" in the spring trials, gang, and be good!

The final game with Argos is ancient history by now. That 8-0 victory was a fitting farewell for that great troupe. All the boys were good, Stan better than ever. Beattie played his usual game.

SCHOOL SWIMMERS HAVE HAD SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The S.P.S. Swimming Club held the final meeting of this year on Monday, February 7th. The following officers were elected to carry on the good work of the club next season:

President—A. Conklin
 Vice-President—E. E. Schinbein.
 Secretary—B. C. Matson.
 Capt. Swimming Team—R. H. Keefler.
 Capt. Water Polo Team—C. M. Webb.
 S.P.S. may well feel proud of her representatives in the Aquatic Sport.

The swimming team has now won the Intercollegiate meet for three succeeding years and does not intend to give up the Intercollegiate Cup next year if hard work will keep it where it is.

The well-thumbed School Water Polo team carried all before them this season, going through the Intercollegiate Series without a defeat and bringing home the Eckhart Cup, thus completing the set.

There is an Inter-Departmental Water Polo series now being played by the 2nd Year School men. These teams are producing some very promising material for future Water Polo teams and deserve credit for the spirit they are showing—the "Old School Spirit."

Forestry

The Forester's Club nominations for next year's Executive will be received at the next regular meeting to be held in the Faculty Building at 7.30 Friday night, March 3.

MEDS AND ARTS CLASH IN CLOSE STRUGGLE

Monday night Junior Meds battled against Senior Arts. Meds had to win in order to retain their position for the group. The score indicates the play. At halftime it was tie, 8-8. During the first period Meds had most of the ball but difficulty in locating the basket. Snider and Tudhope were benched and Goodwin and Fraser substituted. The game was always in ice and Deaton, of U.C., showed himself the best man on the floor. Final score, 18-16, for Meds.

The draw for the semi-finals and finals is as follows:

- Semi-finals
 1. Winner of Group One vs. Winner of Group Three.
 2. Winner of Group Two vs. Winner of Group Five.
 3. Winner of Group Four vs. Winner of (2).
Finals
 4. Winner of (1) vs. Winner of (3).

VARSITY WINDS UP SEASON WITH WIN

Blue and White Stage Creditable Performance Before Small Crowd

The Seniors victory over Argos has been told by all the downtown newspapers. The old is in new apparel and to a better advantage. Their defence completely shut-out the Sullies while the attack made eight goals. (Of the 8, 4 by Stan and Carson got three each, while Stan and Frank Fisher each got one. Stan showed a wonderful turn to form after his season of injuries. Beattie was as good as usual. Nuff—)

Westie and Bill Carson buzzed about driving them home. It was a very good game. Ned Wright only played part of the game but was good then. Frank Fisher's showing was very gratifying. Too bad, he graduated. The U.C. Art and Athletic Society while the Argos made many dangerous rushes.

Cliff Sullivan, Lou and Reesor were best for the losers. It was a fitting send-off for that great pit, Stan and Beattie.

NOMINATIONS CLOSE AT HART HOUSE

Voting Will Take Place Under New System of Balloting

Today is the last day for the Hart House nominations.

Do not forget, Hart House Membership Cards alone entitle one to vote. The cards will be turned on the issue of a ballot so that if there is no duplication will be done in any way.

The system of balloting has been entirely revised this year in a way that it is expected will obviate any abuses that there may have been in the past. Each of the large Societies of the University, viz., the U.C. Art and Athletic Society, the Medical Society, the Royal Dental Society and the Engineering Society, will be responsible for conducting the voting of its own Faculty.

This Mr. Judson, acting for Mr. Fleming who is ill, and the six year presidents of the U.C. Art and Athletic Society, the Medical and Dental Societies, for their years as they do it will be possible to check up their men as they vote, in a way that was not possible under the old scheme.

The members of the House and Hall committees have been appointed Deputy Returning Officers by the Board of Students.

BIG POLO GAME TO BE HARD FIGHT

Warriors of The Tank Struggle Against McGill's Lead of Two Goals

On Saturday next at 3 o'clock the Varsity Polo Team is going to take on McGill for the final of the home and home games.

McGill are coming up with a 2 goal lead made at McGill on the first game. This is not a handicap for the old Blue and white team; it is an incentive. They are going to play polo from the first whistle till the last, it's going to be the finest exhibition of polo ever played in the old home town. The 2 goal lead was made in the first few minutes of play while the Varsity men were not familiar with the method of play in a show lawn. During the rest of the game our boys held them scoreless in their own tank. In a regulation tank, which calls for water at least deep enough so that the game will not become a push ball match things are going to be different. The team is evenly balanced in all departments. Bell in goal has lengthy arms and knows how to use his head. Conklin and Waldron on defense are enough to dampen the spirits of the most ambitious forwards. Woods and Wells at centre are old hands at the game, and are always there. While Ridley, Harston and Fitzgerald at forward are a treat, unslick, quick and accurate shots.

The team will line up as follows:
 Goal—Bell
 Defense—Waldron and Conklin
 Centre—Wells
 Forwards—Ridley and Harston
 Spare—Wood and Fitzgerald.

A LAST APPEAL

Someone remarked to us the other day, "Editorials won't change human nature and as long as there is human nature elections will be crooked." We do not intend to change human nature. We don't even want our readers to agree with our views unless they agree with them. But we do strive to present what we believe to be fair appeals in the future.

But the extent to which Hart House elections will have come—and go—how well they go along with you. The House authorities have spent many hours' time and quite an amount of money in an attempt to insure their success, but, after all, the mere prevention of some of the obvious faults of the old system, does not do that. In the end the result is in the hands of each and every undergraduate.

During the past two weeks we have, through our columns, done everything in our power to create an interest in the elections and inform the students how they are being run. We feel that by this time every member of Hart House must appreciate the fact that it is up to him to vote; to vote for the men regardless of his faculty; and to vote early and avoid the rush. Do you agree with our views? And will you act on them?

"UNTO ONE OF THE LEAST OF THESE . . ."

It is a common human failing to be so intent on doing great deeds that we neglect the small ones that need our efforts. Our desire is to perform some great service for which we are really unprepared because we are despising the day of small things. Small beginnings often lead to glorious ends. The tale of Sir Launfal is well known to us. That gallant knight set forth to catch a glimpse of the Holy Grail, this was the purpose of his life. While on his way it chanced that he saw a poor lowly leech by the roadside asking for alms. The haughty knight tossed him a coin and rode on. He did not find the Holy Grail, and it was utterly impossible that he should, for he was not ready for the vision. Discouraged he was returning to his castle and happened to meet the leecher again. This time real pity and sympathy for the fellow man stirred in his heart and dismounting he shared his last crust and drop of water with the leecher. Then he saw the blessed vision, for by his service he had proved himself worthy.

Many of us are planning to do great things when we graduate. We yearn to be of use, to help our fellows and to leave the world a little better than we found it. This is an entirely laudable and worthy ambition, for a life of service is, in the last analysis the most blessed, and therefore the most successful. Yet one wonders often if we have not projected our thoughts and plans too much into the future, while the present is here for our use. We can act and achieve now, not waiting for a wider field in the future. It is only as we do the small things now that we prove ourselves ready for greater tasks. Even if we never realize our aims for great achievement, there is glory in a life filled with small services.

The busy student asks what he or she can do. He has no time to enter at present into a wide sphere of service. But there is a small field open to the student, the University Settlement, which is doing such splendid work among our less fortunate fellow citizens. The settlement is making an urgent appeal for summer workers elsewhere in this issue. Helpers are needed for the summer camp at Jackson's Point, Lake Simcoe, and also for recreational work in the city. This is an opportunity for students to do their bit in social work and to render definite service.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

We gratefully acknowledge the letters of "Vox Populi," 2T2 U.C., and others. Their words of appreciation are like drops of water in the desert—but our modesty forbids publication.

The Intercollegiate Debating Union contest, slated for Monday night in West Hall, has been postponed for one week, until Monday, March 13.

There will be no issue of THE VARSITY on Monday, March 6. Owing to the fact that only two more issues are required to complete the publishing year it was decided to bring them out on Wednesday, March 8, and Friday, March 10, respectively.

The attention of all concerned is drawn to the notice in this issue re the Coming Events Column in the final paper.

We wish to congratulate Bill Carson on his unanimous election to the captaincy of next year's Hockey team. He will make as good a captain as he has been a player. We all know what that means. None better.

of EVANSTON, ILL.

Member of The Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church,
The First Church of Christ, Scientist,

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST DELIVERS LECTURE

Students Given Opportunity of Hearing of Christian Science

The Lecture Committee of the Christian Science Church, St. George Street, corner of Lowther Avenue, has arranged for the Varsity to give students an opportunity to hear of Christian Science from an authorized and qualified lecturer on the subject. The speaker will be Mr. J. J. Flynn.

It must never be lost sight of that Christian Science is not a religion, but a method of restoring to the world the Word and perpetuating the works given and carried on by Christ Jesus, and that its greatest mission and its greatest test is to restore primitive Christianity and to permeate the world with the Master's teachings. He came with healing in his thought, with healing in his voice, with healing in his touch. He went around everywhere doing good.

Christian Scientists make no stronger pretensions of belief in the Bible than do other professed Christians, but Christian Scientists go farther than mere belief; they trust, and strive to understand. And according to the measure of their understanding they make practical application of Bible truths, and achieve demonstrations. One might have in mathematics, for example, devotedly unswerving, well-learned, without ever extending further than the law. More likely would never solve a problem in life. On the other hand, if one could put in his mind and work the principle out in actual life, with the principle of the science of life, he would be able to solve the problems of life. Christian Scientists follow the instruction of Mary, the Mother of Jesus, and adhere to the Principle which she revealed, to the truth in the Bible through their understanding and their work as they go along, and bring realization of its promises and principles into their daily experience.

Christian Science is not blind faith, it is an intelligent understanding of the law of God, as revealed in the Scriptures. It is the principle of the universe, and the principle of the human mind, and the principle of the human body. It is the principle of the universe, and the principle of the human mind, and the principle of the human body. It is the principle of the universe, and the principle of the human mind, and the principle of the human body.

Never has there been a time in all history when men were in greater need than now of that clearness of sight, that steadfastness of purpose, that strength of character, that self-reliance, that unshakable moral standing, which are imparted through spiritual discernment and spiritual understanding. It is the mission and purpose of Christian Science to bring the kingdom of God to earth, by dispelling the illusion that materialism, sensuality, money-grubbing, money-getting, money-hoarding, and money-worship, are the basis of human life. The human desire for contentment, peace, and happiness. The welfare of all about us of hopes, aspiration, and vision based upon the attainment of more worldly success, should constitute an impressive warning to the business and professional man as well as to the so-called worker of the day.

What is lacking in the modern world is not only individual troubles and sorrows and sufferings, but it is the cause of all the harrowing evils that beset the family, the community, the nation and the world at large. Christian Science offers a right-thinking as a corrective—as an obtainable feasible, and in fact, as the only possible cure for this situation. It is the thoughts of humanity were in harmony with the divine Mind, with the Commandments, with the Beatitudes, with the Promises, with the teachings of Christ Jesus and his disciples, with the Principle of Christian Science, as revealed through and expounded and taught by Mary Baker Eddy, the world would be freed from fervent confusion and tumult. Christian Science corrects, equalizes and strengthens the thought of the individual, and the thought of the community, the nation and the world will be strengthened, elevated and strengthened proportionately with the increase in the number of individuals, who shall claim, and win, their natural inheritance of light, and who engage in the work of spreading it among their fellows.

ORIENTALS ASSOCIATION HOLDS GOOD MEETING

"The Beginnings of Prophecy" is Subject of Absorbing Paper

At the meeting of the Orientals Association on Wednesday evening, Mr. R. B. V. Scott, P.C. 212, gave a paper on "The Beginnings of Prophecy." His remarks were based chiefly on the books of Samuel and Kings. The nature and use of the term and the meaning of the word were discussed and it was shown how the employment of such crude methods gradually fell into disuse as the true prophets came forward. The first of these appears to have been Samuel and that his work and that of Elijah were discussed at some length. Elijah's prophecy is probably better known than that of Samuel. At that time, however, of his travels through the country and like the whirling dervishes of today worked themselves up into a frenzy or ecstasy by music and dancing.

In the discussion which followed this paper several questions were dealt with, such as the development of the prophecy among other peoples and the differences between the true and the false prophets. The old idea, that the prophet was one who foretold the future, that was to happen in the future, was in fact, a misconception. The prophet was one who foretold the future, that was to happen in the future, was in fact, a misconception. The prophet was one who foretold the future, that was to happen in the future, was in fact, a misconception.

SUGGESTION MADE THAT NAMES OF HART HOUSE STEWARDS BE ENGRAVED IN GREAT HALL

For some time past the idea of commemorating in permanent form the names of all the members of the various Hart House Committees has been under discussion. A sub-committee of the Stewards of Hart House, consisting of the warden, Mr. Vincent Mossy, and Messrs. Stone and Black was appointed to make a report and has been in touch with Mr. Scott Carter. It has been practically decided to put the names of the Stewards of Hart House year by year on the walls of the Great Hall, beginning at the stone staircase and working northwards. The name of the Hart House Committee will be placed on an oak panel which will be placed in the gallery outside the Great Hall. The House Committee will have a panel in the East Common Room. Similarly the names of the Library, Music and Billiard Committees will be placed in their respective rooms. Such a record cannot fail to be of great interest in future years. The list will be complete, as the names of those who served on the committees during 1919-2021 will be put in their proper order.

Mr. Bickerton has spent much time in talking over the details with Mr. Scott Carter to whom the task is probably to be entrusted. Mr. Carter carried out the painting of the arms of the various universities in the Great Hall.

Flugh—It took two doctors to pre-cribe for Duff.

EXTRAORDINARY APPLICATION OF SUPERHUMAN STRENGTH

This photograph, one of the most remarkable ever filmed, shows a noted professor, who meticulously insisted on remaining in the background, keeping one of his pupils firmly attached to the ceiling of his laboratory by means of a column of air generated by the waving of a silk handkerchief. It is only fair to say, however, that the pupil was assisted in rising, by a diet of yeast.

Correspondence

Dear Ed:

I feel it my duty as one who has never yet done any good to his Alma Mater except pay the fees she imposes and occasional fines, to come forward with some Constructive Criticism. My proposals will provide work for many needy students in the summer, thereby benefitting also the people they would otherwise have worked for or sold books to. These advantages, however, are incidental and temporary. My main purpose is artistic and eternal.

First I propose that the dome of Convocation Hall be made movable and some mechanism installed to toss it up at intervals and wobble it sporadically, thus imparting a much-needed aspect of animation to that stolid pile. Something might be done too with the pillars. They could be made to play cross-tag, perhaps, or hide-and-seek. This would be very amusing indeed when people were entering the building.

Then the towers of University College could be put on hinges so that they would sway gracefully in the breeze. If bells were hung round them the effect would be charming.

Wheels could be put upon the Red Schoolhouse so that it could readily be moved around to where it would be from time to time least offensive, or in case of necessity, trundled down into the Lake.

This is the scene immediately following the collision between the racing automobiles "Alabama" and "Great Force" yesterday. See how Manusual the driver of the "Alabama" is putting up his right arm to fool the photographers.

Sporting Events

The Electoral Meeting of the University of Toronto Athletic Association will be held next Wednesday, March 15, 1922, at 4:15 p.m., in the Lecture Room, Hart House (south side, upstairs).

The election of student representatives on the Directorate of the Athletic Association takes place annually at a meeting of the Electoral Body provided for in Sub-Section 4 of Article IX of the Constitution of the Athletic Association. These representatives must be male undergraduates of the University of Toronto or one of the affiliated colleges, who are proceeding to a degree and in actual attendance upon lectures and who have paid the annual fee required (Article 11, Section 2, and Article IV, Section 1), are at the time of nomination in the second or higher year (but not in the final year) at the University.

Nominations for representatives are to be handed in in writing, signed by two male undergraduates members of the Association (according to the form on page 33 of the Athletic Handbook) to the Secretary, at least five days previous to the date of such meeting, i.e., Friday, March 10, 1922, and the Secretary shall post the list of nominations on the notice board at least three days before the date on which the elections are to take place (Article IX, Section 3).

T. A. REED, Secretary.

Professors Laud "The Varsity"

At the close of a year of uninterrupted publication the Editor-in-Chief of The Varsity sat back in the only roomy Morris chair the editorial sanctum boasts, and smiled a contented smile. What a job, he meditated, nothing to do but order a lost of food reporters around. And then feeling confident that he had put out a good volume he bethought himself of the scheme of getting various well-known professors to give their opinions on the 1921-22 Varsity. So a reporter was sent scurrying over the campus to interview said professors. Here is his story:

A timid knock on Professor Mutton's door resulted in a boisterous "Adventure" from that worthy. Bravely entering, our reporter found the noble principal reclining in a pair of bedroom slippers and a bathrobe behind a lofty pile of classics text-books.

"Excuse my deshabille," remarked the prince, "but I am slightly fatigued from the Faculty At-Home last night."

On being asked his opinion of the Varsity, Professor Mutton expressed himself for some minutes in vigorous Arabian, and then curtly remarked that he could remember the time when The Varsity was read for its literature, not for the pictures of beautiful coeds contained in it.

Professor Wallace, of the Department of English, was more than pithy in his opinion. As the reporter entered, the sage was cleverly reading from a concealed book—"Oh hell, what do I see in our room this far advanced?" As the reporter uttered a slight cough the professor looked coyly up. The Varsity, he gurgled, would be a much better paper if it were never published.

The intrepid scribe finally ungarbled Gilbert Jackson from a game of African golf, to which he and Jimmy Mavor were engaged. "Ha, ha," palpitated the news-gatherer, "what thinkest thou of your Varsity?" "Verily," replied Gibbie, knocking the intruder down with a copy of Karl Marx, and sitting loudly upon his victim, "The Varsity need never send me another reporter. If I have anything to say to the students, I would rather use a megaphone."

Sr. Robert Falconer compared The Varsity to the Telegram. It was enough. The Editor-in-Chief resolved to attend O.A.C. next year.

Onside With Beattie and Stan

Know ye all by these presents that the gang is getting together on the evening of Thursday the sixteenth of the current month to give a farewell hop to our stalwart comrades-in-arms-and-hockey, to wit—William Beattie Ramsay and Stanley Brown. The use of the great Hart House (hard by the old observatory) has been granted for this memorable affair and Mr. Jardine, so well known to many of you, has signified his intention of banding together his best musicians and of perfecting them in their act off the big event.

It is with great regret that we announce that the dance cannot be put on free of charge. We are forced to ask for the sum of two dollars and fifty cents from each and every man who comes to this epoch-making function. Of course, each fan should bring a lady to make the evening a success. There is no extra cost. All the lads will be there. It is probably the last time this term that the careworn student will have an opportunity to dance his cares away on an all-university occasion and we would urge every good Varsity supporter to drop around. This is an informal party and dress-suits will not be worn. Now—altogether!

GIRL INDOO BASEBA

On Friday, March 10 a game of Baseba will be solemnized in the Household Science Jim. The game is between University College and the Ontario College of Education. Mr. O. L. Staunton will play for both sides, after which he will receive the degree of Referee. Come one, come all.

SR. VIC. TIES AND THEN WINS

On Fish day Sr. Vic., by giving the Jr. U.C. boys the good-bye 18-17, tied their group in knots along with Sr. School. The game was a regular Scotch affair—close and hard but the fans were overcome with emotion. Bell needed to be toned up and Brewer's stock was pretty low, but recovering from injuries received at a tea-party Sunday, U.C. sneaked past the Vic lads like a flock of ducks but Vie's shooting was good and they bagged a few basketfuls. It was no light lunch for Vic and U.C. gathered up 12 basketfuls while Vic took 11.

The second half provided more strenuous play and Vic filled the winning basket full of ball near the end of the game.

Wash-day saw Sr. Vic. put the lid on Sr. School's corpse to the tune of 13-7 and they were declared top-notchers of their group. You would think they were a bunch of bank clerks at the end of the month looking for 10 cents for both teams checked like maniacs. While the boys were taking a rest we discovered that the score was four a piece.

After tea was served Vic came back with bright shining faces and Sr. School will now attend to their work. Bell and Chant, the musical deck, played a cellar game of defence—clerk everybody out. Marr helped in the defeat with four baskets while McFrick and Jennings, for Chant, kept the Methodist boys worried.

JIM'S EXHIBITION

The annual assault-in-arms and dance of the Gym Club will come about on Saturday, March 18 at 7:15 p.m.

Junior competition will take place as well as boxing, fencing and Easter. The senior team will feature the evening whenever possible with gymnastics. Limited tickets will be placed on sale in numbers at the Hall Porter's desk, Athletic Office, Medical Society and Engineering Society.

TROUSERS

We have found from experience that every man has a good coat and vest which need a good pair of Trousers. We have over 6000 different patterns representing the total stock of all the wholesale houses of Canada and are in position to match anything. We matched coats and vests for 400 of the boys last term. Bring in your vest and let us match it up for you.

PROMINENT LAWYERS GOING HOME IN IMPORTED WHEEL-BARROWS CREATE UPROAR

Well, McGill was another bamboo water-wrecker. The Varsity water-polo team defeated them in the last of the home sweet home games by the score of 1-0, but lost the whole war by 2-1 on the ground. It was a hard game to win and a hard game to lose, however both teams took the water without police interference. Toronto entered the water in time for the game and were favourites from the crack of the ice. Having done this they outplayed McGill for three quarters of the game.

Woods started off by beating Ross to the ball. Both looked well in sweaters and skates to match. The ball saw-sawed back and forth, both goalkeepers got dizzy but continued until Laishley made a good save for McGill. In the second quarter, Harston played centre for Varsity and James-Lane in for a jar, after brilliantly outwitting the ball.

After the lecture had passed the referee decided that Harston had pushed the bottom out of the tank so this goal was disallowed. Then the boys started to work and after adjusting the water were dizzily sent into the McGill end. Fitzgerald bobbed up after passing out beautifully and scored the only goal of the game without kicking away one side of the tank.

In the second half McGill did some work on the forward line which the referee practised long plunges up in the gym. Fiske was down on Bell but could not rattle him, or at least we didn't hear him. Conklin and Waldron played an air-tight game on the defense and smothered everything in sight so the McGill men stayed pretty much in Montreal.

Toward the last Varsity made a ravenous attempt to even the score but McGill had stopped their watches and were saving time, so old-fashioned boys won the game they deserved the round and McGill went home tired but happy.

The U.C. Lit

It was 8.15 by the West Hall clock, from the Great Black High chair, Mr. Cochran opened the U.C. Lit. As the ancient U.C. name and fame, its purpose being the very same job of nominating for the same an executive committee to carry on the noble glorious tradition made by our good friend, Hutcheson, the retiring President.

After the minutes were read and the inevitable inimitable split by our friend, Hutch, and some more or less unimportant formalities gone through, in a series of speeches fully loaded with unashamed and undifferentiated Eulogy, various important members of the undergrad body nominated their personal friends for what official sinecure fall out as usual by the customary annual retirement of the present executive. "More matter with less art."

A Mr. Diamond from Queen's Park spoke brilliantly on the present election system. In an address chiefly concerned with a certain famous incident when a faculty member of Parliament wrote two letters of congratulation to ladies of his riding, one for her appointment as organizer of the school for a recent large addition to her family, he went on to draw an appalling picture of electoral conditions in Ontario, when votes were sold for two bits each by the way he the letters (mild) and personal attraction of character, etc., quite overawed intellectual appreciation of ideals.

After some minor, the three undergrads departed, having had an awfully jolly evening.

GRADUATION STUFF

The formal graduation dinner of 272 U.C. will be held in the Great Hall, Hart House, on Thursday evening, March 9, at 7.0 p.m.

Sir Bertram Windle will be the principal speaker. The evening so that all attending have the opportunity of hearing a very finely clever, witty address. The soft, seductive strains of J. Wilson Jardine's orchestra will be heard during the dinner. Four and different members of the year have kindly consented to give a varied program of musical sketches as well.

All members of the Fourth Year and graduating members of the Third Year who have not yet purchased their tickets should do so before Thursday. If you have not had an opportunity to buy a ticket let any member of the executive know and he will rectify the matter.

Place cards for the girls of the year will be found at the table in the Great Hall so they may proceed there directly from the upstairs cloakroom if they so desire.

Don't forget, N.W. entrance, Hart House, 7.30 p.m., Thursday, March 9.

BIOLOGY CLUB

SWORE -- EH?

On Tuesday evening, March the 14th, the Biology Club will hold their annual Soiree. This is a meeting of outstanding note and all departments at all related to Science are supplying interesting demonstrations.

The display of the Department of Physiology will again be of compound interest. There will be preparations of human hearts (What? Ed., as well as several physiological machines. The Department of Psychology will also be represented and will demonstrate several of the methods recently evolved for psycho-analysis. The Departments of Biology, Anatomy, Hygiene, Paleontology, Biochemistry and the Connacht Antrim Laboratories will all provide interesting specimens and apparatus.

GOVERNOR NOT ON FLOOR
Is Now Mounted Compactly With Cylinders on His Rubine

Mr. W. M. White, chief hydraulic engineer of the Allis Chalmers Co., Milwaukee, was the fourth lecturer of the special course on Water Power Development. In spite of the excitement caused by the Engineering Society elections and the temporary distraction of the School, the interested audience listened to Mr. White's paper on "Power House Machinery."

The speaker introduced his subject by pointing out the rapid progress that has been made in hydraulic power engineering in recent years, with particular reference to the Western States and the Japanese development at Fortuna. He then proceeded to deal with some of the more important and more recent advances in turbine and power house design which might be summarized as follows:

1. Improvements in draft tubes. Due to the eddy in curved draft tubes, relatively large losses are caused, particularly in high speed machines. The hydrodynamic regenerator, which Mr. White is the inventor, eliminates the necessity of a bend and may be used in a very limited space.

2. The new one floor station. A plant in the Kern River, Cal., has the generator and turbine both in plain view of the operator.

3. The governor is now being placed not on the generating floor but mounted compactly with the operating cylinders on the rubine as in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s, Mount Shasta plant.

4. The new type of turbine runner for low heads which will be necessary for the success of the St. Lawrence project. Two installations of this type are now in operation.

5. A device for making use of a greater head than is actually available by means of the action of the water flowing over a dam, in use by the Alabama Power Co.

That much interest was aroused by the lecture was evident by the number of questions asked at the conclusion.

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Kindly allow me to take up some space in your valuable paper concerning the "old, old story" of the Dining Hall. The meals, as they are, are good, but the quality and amount of the meat served is punk. Least night for dinner the amount of meat served to each person would hardly cover the palm of one's hand, and as for thinness—well, ordinary wrapping paper wouldn't have far to go to "beat" it.

Also, I understand from various rumours which have been floating around, that the residence men are next year to be charged a flat rate for room and meals combined at Hart House. Do those who are agitating for this ever stop to think that the average student's money is limited, and that to pay for his meals at Hart House under this plan and then eat down-town, and lose that meal, or else rush from St. Mike's Hospital or the Western in time for Hart House is going to entail serious difficulty on the student. Under the present meal schedule average student wouldn't last a week, if he didn't "get out" at least five or six times during that week.

Hoping this will be brought before those concerned, and thanking you, I remain, "RESIDENCE."

HERE'S A DANCE REPORT
THAT'S WORTH READING

HOCKEY DANCE

The executive of the hockey club has decided at the request of many of the supporters of the good old Blue and White machine, to put on a farewell party for Beattie Ramsay and Stan Brown. At a meeting held last night the date was set for Thursday, March the Sixteenth and final arrangements were made for the use of Hart House for the occasion. It was decided that the affair should be strictly informal and that it should be thrown open to the whole University. This will be joyful news to the students who enjoy a dance and a big evening is anticipated. The executive has figured expenses down to a minimum and promises all the trimmings of the most imaginative kind of a dance for two-fifty a couple. Tickets will be limited and after the hockey boys have been looked after it will be a case of first come first served.

The annual rugby dance has always proved a popular feature in Varsity's social season and the Hockey Dance should turn out equally so. This will be a last opportunity for the fellows to express their appreciation of all that Beattie and Stan have done for Varsity and a maximum attendance should be forthcoming. In addition to that, this will probably be also the last opportunity that will come up this year to forget examinations in an All-University Dance. Those socially inclined should make the most of it. Jardine will furnish the music and during the evening a grandstand and Ned Wright will give exhibitions of interpretive dancing. Mr. Westman will be seen in "The Impending Crisis," while Mr. Wright will give his rendering of "The Busy Bee."

Come one, come all.

University Settlement

A thoroughly appreciative audience filled the Common Room of the University Settlement on Monday night to enjoy a musical programme arranged by the Social Service Committee of University College. Miss Maud Standing played "The Flatterer" by Chaminade and Grainger's "Country Gardens" a most delightfully "Mother of Mine" and "O Sole Mio" sung by Mr. Cosentino were most enthusiastically received. The society of Hawaiian airs and Southern melodies played on a Hawaiian guitar and Ukulele by Miss Elvina Walker and Miss Leon McNeil particularly pleased the younger club members who were present. Two Chopin Waltzes and a Liezt selection played by Mr. MacKendrick ended the programme most successfully.

WOMEN'S ANGLICAN CLUB

The March gathering of the Women's Anglican Club was held last Friday at 179 Gerrard Street, the President and Mrs. David presiding.

After tea had been defeated, Miss Robinson, who has recently returned from China, gave an interesting talk on her work there. Chinese pictures and dresses were shown. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson told of the wide influence exerted there by such schools as those she is interested in.

Informal but refined discussion followed the addresses, and it was shown that a great interest in Miss Robinson's work had been aroused.

STEP LIVELY

Lost, on the Front Campus, a small, round, sad, brown object, with a square roof and exquisitely harmonized. Will under please return at once to the Department of Philosophy. Any one detaining such after this notice will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Press Gang Would Take Fair Co-Eds

The Women's Press Association of U. of T. held a very interesting meeting last Friday when Mrs. Perry, a prominent newspaper woman addressed the Club. Tea was served after which Mrs. Perry spoke convincingly and delightfully of newspaper work as she had found it. She declared optimistically that she with literary ability and college training should not find it difficult to obtain positions on newspapers. There are many women who have gained recognition of their invaluable services in literary work in the Dominion and they may be taken as examples of what one can do if one really tries. Mrs. Perry gave a short review of noted Canadian women writers briefly describing their various fields of activities.

"You will like reporting," she said, "It is hard work but it is never boring. You are always doing something different. Questions on 'how to break in' and other details that had been bothering the girls were answered by the speaker.

The president, Miss Ada Adams, then sincerely thanked Mrs. Perry for her helpful talk and announced that at the next club meeting elections for next year's executive would take place.

BRING YOUR SLIDE RULES

The next meeting of the Three Arts Club will be held to-morrow, March 9, in the Common Room of the Women's Union. Mr. Art MacDonald will speak on "Design," and will execute a series of interesting slides illustrative of his lecture. Tea will be served after the address. Everyone interested in Art is invited to attend.

Modern Language Club

This afternoon at 4.15 the U.C. Modern Language Club will meet to drink some cups of tea and wash it down with syllabub. At eight-fifty St. George's St. this ancient order will meet and listen to a short programme of music, songs and literature.

How's This for Walt Mason, Friends!

Come one and all and eat some ham sandwiches with care, pure, and nominate for next year's club executive your candidate. Be with us every one who cares for old-fashioned strangers.

"History, repeat thyself!" quoth the student when called upon to give the dates of the kings of England.

ANNOUNCING

GOBLIN'S FIRST SPECIAL ISSUE---THE WOMAN-HATERS' NUMBER!

This remarkable contribution to Canadian literature will appear on the campus about March 22. It will be the prize gloom-dispeller of the year. Every fault of every co-ed will be mercilessly exposed through its sarcastic pages. So many woman-haters have been found that the size of the magazine has been increased to forty pages. On your guard, women; look out for squalls!

REMEMBER, MARCH 22

"GOBLIN" WILL BRIGHTEN
VARSITY'S SUMMER VACATIONSPRIGHTLY IMP TO PUT OUT THREE ISSUES BETWEEN MAY AND OCTOBER

The Managing Board of "Goblin" has decided to run the magazine during the summer of 1922. It was recognised that to give the University a really fine humorous magazine funds had to be provided by the sale of copies to others than students. As a result a news-stand circulation of 4,000 has been built up, in addition to the Varsity circulation. To retain this circulation it is necessary to remove the long break between May and November, in which many magazine buyers and advertisers are prone to forget the very existence of the magazine. At the same time it is felt that many students, working far from home, and at more or less unpleasant jobs, would like to have "Goblin" breeze in three or four times during the summer, with a cargo of laughs in print and picture, much of it being shipped by fellow undergraduates.

To make the venture successful, a large number of summer subscriptions is necessary. "Goblin" is entirely edited, managed and printed by U. of T. undergraduates, and deserves University support. A summer subscription means only a small outlay, as the three issues will be sent anywhere in the world for fifty cents. Attached is a coupon. Fill in your summer address, clip the coupon, and mail with 50 cents to 8 University Avenue, or leave with the Hall Porter or Tuck Shop in Hart House, the Students' Book Department, Engineering Society, Vic. Book Bureau, or U.C. Post Office. If you don't yet know your summer address clip the coupon and keep it till you find out.

(These advertisements are paid for at regular rates.)

THE FINAL ISSUE

By The Editorial Staff

TORONTO, MARCH 10, 1922.

"The time has come," the Walrus said,
"To talk of many things."

In this, the sixtieth and last issue of THE VARSITY for the academic year 1921-22, we feel that the immortal Walrus has voiced our sentiments, for we would speak of many things, of the past, of the present and of the future. The past year is now a memory, but what a pleasant one! It has been a happy, busy year filled to the brim with fun and study and friendships. For some it is the first year of the college life, and for them we would wish that their subsequent years may equal this one. The sophomores are particularly lucky; they are just in the middle of things, with the terrors of initiation and first year examinations well behind them and the bitter-sweet graduation day so far ahead that it cannot terrify as yet. Every graduate will tell you that the Junior is the best in every respect. By the third year a class has developed itself, knows its strong and its weak points and members and has developed whatever of class spirit it is destined to have. When a student has weathered the storm for three years he begins to feel that the faculty has become attached to him and would be unwilling to part with him. This complacency is in the main, dangerous, but it has one good effect that it causes a student to look around him and take an interest in college affairs.

The third year once passed, our student has to look at college affairs in the face for he is now a senior. The technique of a Senior are many and varied. He is now approaching one of his life goals, the gates are swinging to behind him. He is looked up to and respected and should be an example. The fourth year student has become sincerely attached to the dear old buildings, the faculty, the familiar faces, and lates to think of the day when he shall be no longer in the tony throng trooping to lectures or in the rosters' section at a hockey game, the day when he shall be but a name, a memory, perhaps not even that. Most of all the Senior regrets to leave behind him the carefree happy days of college life and the thought of being like a dash of cold water in his face. For four years he has worked and played within the benign shadow of the old grey tower, has found his place in college life and has made many deep friendships. Now after the last barrage of examinations that happy group must scatter far and wide to pursue his own interest. When shall they all meet again? Who knows? Pity the poor distracted Senior, he is being pushed out of the nest and does not want to go, and going casts many a regretful look behind. The world, with its countless and boundless opportunities lies before him, but at present his thoughts are travelling back over four glorious years of college life. The Senior year received its traditions from previous senior years, now it passes them on proudly and lovingly to those who follow after. May they receive them as a sacred trust.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The final debate for the possession of the Kerr Cup, between R.C.D.S. and Oxeval Hall, which occurs on Monday evening in West Hall should appeal to every undergraduate. The subject, "Resolved that Canada should have the right to amend her own Constitution" is of paramount interest now that Canada signs all treaties as an autonomous state and not as a colony of Great Britain.

The contestants have been at pains to prepare their arguments and their efforts deserve warm support not only from their own class adherents but from the whole University.

The men from the "little Red School House" have done a great deal to encourage and assist women's athletics in donating a cup to be competed for annually by Women's Hockey teams from McGill, Queen's and Toronto universities.

Coincident with the gift the Blue and White Men's Team loses Beattie Ramsay, who for four years has stood for all that is best in amateur sport. Beattie is a School man and it would seem a fitting expression of appreciation if his school-mates were to name the cup the Beattie Ramsay Cup. Moreover, we feel that the name Beattie Ramsay, with all the glorious memories of the past it would conjure up enhances the value of the cup.

The orderly and dignified manner in which the Hart House elections were carried off this year has not only been a source of pleasure to the Committee which was responsible for the arrangements but a decided compliment to the efficiency of those arrangements.

Correspondence

Editor-in-Chief.

Dear Boss:

We notice in your last issue a selection of excerpts from our personal critical output covering some twenty odd centuries of our career. Obviously, we must defend what was wrote by us in our salad days, and we must wax eloquent on the sanity of our comment.

With regard to Mr. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address we would only say that this judgment of ours has been abundantly justified. His memorable lines have been added to every English public school reader, and are now the model for every aspiring post-prandial orator. Only a simple and unaffectedly low-brow address could do that (Ed. Note: "do" what?).

We have a very distinct recollection of the Mr. David incident. Our perception of the mediocrity of Mr. David's harping was greatly aided by the reflex psychological reaction on the King and other hoy polloy present. As we remember this occasion, Mr. David disappeared amid a cloud of cabbages and javelins. With our usual tact, we agreed with the majority.

We must have historical accuracy, even in our plays. It is the bounding duty of every actor to play his part properly and Mr. Hamlet with his left hand. Also, and especially, in this last play the proper abstract atmosphere of obscure and impenetrable gloom must be kept up. Unless the "canaille" miss much of the action how is the suspense to be retained?

As for the Sirens, we again feel justified. In fact we base our chief claim to authority on this particular verdict. No one since has dared to praise them, and the chief reason seems that they emphasized the merely sensuous elements of their music. It was pretty, but it wasn't Art. Only in our last sentence did we err. We have not remained alone unfolded, unfortunately.

Yours in the infernally thankless service of Varsity,
DRAMATIC ED.

The Editor, THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir:

In view of the fact that a number of students have made inquiry of me regarding work in the competition, I wish to explain the position of the Alumni Federation with respect to this matter.

Owing to lack of sufficient funds, the employment work of the Federation is carried on in a small way only. It was started three years ago to assist graduates returning from over-seas in re-establishing themselves in civil life, and has been continued for the benefit of returned soldier-students in receipt of loans from our organization. We trust that in the not far distant future we may be in a position to assist any students who may wish to apply.

For the next few weeks I shall be in my office, 184 College Street, from 5 to 6 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays to interview students looking for summer work, but as I have not more than a hundred positions open I fear they will not be much advantage in other than returned soldiers in need of outside financial assistance applying. I shall be glad, however, to talk to any students and may at last be able to offer advice of some value to those whom I am unable to refer to definite openings.

Yours very truly,
W. K. MacQUEEN,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Menorah Society Announces Final Open Meeting

The University of Toronto Menorah Society announces that its final open meeting will be held at the Zionist Institute this coming Sunday evening, March 12th, 8:30 p.m., when Professor Alfred T. De Lury will deliver a lecture on "Jewish Contributions to Science." All students are invited and admission will be by card only.

Following this meeting the Menorah Society will hold one private meeting at which all business of the 1921-22 term will be finished, and then on March 30th the Society will hold its annual elections for the 1922-23 term. Students and members are notified that only those with their membership fees fully paid up, will be entitled to run for office or be permitted to vote. Those desirous of paying their fees can do so by seeing any member of the executive or any of the faculty representative of the Society.

Modern Language Club

The German meeting of the Modern Language Club will be held at the Women's Union on Wednesday afternoon, Professor Holt, accompanied by Mr. Anderson rendered three German songs with great success, the most appreciated being Heine's "Die Grenadiere." Mr. P. Baumann followed with a dramatic reading of a poem by Louis Trenckner.

Nominations for next year's executive were taken, the nominees being: Honorary President—Professor Jeanne Laché; President—Miss Phyllis Farrar and Miss Helen Heberstrom; Vice President—Miss Irene Doole and Miss Dorothy Stacey; Recording Secretary—Miss Audrey Daggar and Miss Alice Hunter; Business Manager of Plays—Mr. J. Johnston (act.); Corresponding Secretary—Mr. N. P. H. Brown (act.); Treasurer—Mr. G. K. D. Alderson (act.). Voting will take place at the next meeting of the Club. Members are requested to bring De Camp's French recitation piece to be competed for at this meeting.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

A fitting climax to the hot election campaign now in progress at University College will be an address by Premier Drury next Tuesday night upon the subject "Hydro Radicals in Ontario." This will be followed by a smoker with a good program and election returns.

Premier Drury's address will commence at 8:15 sharp and end about 9. The men will then adjourn to Hart House for the smoker.

Nine good men are required to be elected next Tuesday by the Y.M.C.A. executive for 1922-23. The president must be a member of incoming Fourth Year, the vice-president a member of incoming Third Year, and the other officers from any year. They are: Secretary, Treasurer and Conveners of the following committees—Study Groups, New Students, Miss onary, Social Service and Boys' Work, and Publicity.

We want men of earnestness, vitality, imagination, resourcefulness, initiative, and perseverance, and men who will give this work absolutely first place apart from academic studies.

As a closing feature for this year's activities there will be a mass meeting of all men of U.C. in the Bible Study Groups and any others interested on March 30. Professor M. A. Wallace will speak. Make a note of this and keep on hour free at 4.30.

274

The sophomore year of U.C. will hold their last class party at U.T.S. on March 22, from 7.30 to 11 p.m. The event will take the form of a hard times party. In addition to the usual programme, the poets and prophets will make their retiring bows.

Victoria

The final meeting of the Union Literary Society to-morrow night, at 7.30, promises to be a real "bunfighting." The graduates will have charge and we can rely on the grads to produce something worth while. Mr. J. V. McLean, Vice Pres., Editor of Maclean's Magazine, will address the meeting on the subject of summer vocational work. The inevitable Roy Rickard will lead in the one-song, and there's sure to be a jolly time with the usual cake afterwards. Let's go!

The Dramatic Society is staging a triple bill of plays in the College to-night. The skits promise to be very funny. This is the final production of the Society this year.

Length of Service

YOU expect the watch you buy to give you years of reliable service.

Whether it lives up to your expectations depends upon the movement with which it is equipped.

While there are many watches at various prices you can always feel sure—whatever the cost—that any watch we sell is one of lasting dependability.

BYRON STAUFFER SAYS:

"Toronto After Dark" will be the theme of my sermon next Sunday evening, at Massey Hall.

So much has been said about what is going on in this city after midnight that I have taken considerable pains to be able to give a first-hand report. I think my sermon ought to be of considerable use to students.

I have asked Miss Edna Reed to repeat "Open the Gates of the Temple," a solo which she rendered with so much spirit some time ago. William McCall will sing "The Voice in the Wilderness."

A special feature will be a cornet solo by Bert Jones, "Miserere," from Il Traviatore.

Real Satisfaction!

INFORMAL HOCKEY DANCE THURSDAY MARCH TWENTY-FIRST--HART HOUSE

Y.M.C.A.

The annual meeting of the University of Toronto, Y.M.C.A. will take place in the Music Room, Hart House on Monday March 20th, from 8 to 7:30.

The annual elections will be held on Friday, Mar. 24th from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. offices, Hart House. During the past year the Association has secured a number of Speakers to deliver Christian messages in the Lecture Room, Hart House. In March a series of Noon-day addresses are being given. The Association has a distinct purpose in the University. It exists so that students may together discover the meaning of life.

One of the foremost ways in which the Association has been rendering service to unprivileged classes in the City community is by teaching English to the Foreigners in our midst.

APPLIED SCIENCE CHEMICALS

Here's the last event of the season! The Chemical Club dinner at the Walker House on Wednesday night, 7:15 p.m. The price is one dollar. Everything from roast chicken to apple pie is made to suit nothing of the evening's entertainment.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB WILL HOLD SOIREE

The Biological Club announces this annual Soiree, to be held in the Biology Building on Tuesday, March 14, from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. There will be exhibits of the more interesting features from the Departments of:

Zoology Botany
Marine and Fresh-water Fisheries
Physiology Psychology
Bacteriology Zymology
Hygiene Paleontology
Genetics

Also the Museum of the Biology Department with its many curious and odd specimens and models will be open for inspection during the entire evening. The Royal Ontario Museum will bring down, especially for this evening, a number of their finest displays. Each and every department mentioned above, are doing their utmost to make their exhibit as interesting and as profitable as possible to those who attend. Everybody, whether student or non-student are invited to be present on this evening, Tuesday, March 14.

On Thursday, March 16, the Chemistry, Food Chemistry and Biochemistry Departments are entertaining the graduate students in their room, under the library at 8 o'clock. Prof. J. R. McLeod and Prof. Lash-Miller are giving addresses.

University College

A final meeting of the Women undergraduates will be held in East Hall on Friday, March the Seventeenth at 4:30. The principal project under consideration is the amalgamation of the University College Women's Athletic Association with the Women Undergraduate's Association based on the successful union of the two parallel organizations of the men last year. It is further proposed that the present twenty-five cent W.U.A. fee be increased to a compulsory fee of one dollar to be expended by the W.U.A. executive solely on U.C. Women's activities and especially on athletics.

Up to this time the Women's Athletic activities have been at a great disadvantage owing to no definite fund beyond the voluntary contributions of a few enthusiasts—namely the players. This system has proved its inadequacy. Detailed notices will be posted of these proposed amendments in the Women's Clubroom, Union and Residences. The coming mass meeting will provide an opportunity for discussion of the subject from every point of view. Nominations for next year's executive will be held.

MEN AND WOMEN OF VARSITY HERE'S YOUR OPPORTUNITY

The Literary and Athletic Society of U.C. are holding their College reception at the Arcadia this Saturday, and the committee have engaged the Peer of all litters, to wit, J. Wilson Jardine. Hart House have agreed to side track their usual menu and to provide some regular eats. The committee has decided to put a limited number of tickets on sale in Meds, School, and Dents. So get your pasteboards at the Engineering Society from the Year Presentation at the Dentistry and in the rotunda, Main Building, all for the small sum of $1.50 per double ticket.

"STUDENTS' BIBLE LEAGUE"
A meeting of the League will be held in Hart House Chapel on Tue day, March 14, at 4:15 p.m.

The Rev. J. M. Smith will speak. All are cordially invited to attend.

HOCKEY CLUB AT HOME

It has been found necessary to postpone the Hockey Club At-Home until Tuesday evening, March 21. Jardine's Orchestra has been engaged, and dancing will commence at 8:30. Tickets may be obtained at the Office of the Athletic Association at $2 a double ticket.

SWIMMING CLUB

The annual meeting of the Swimming Club will be held in the Lecture Room, Hart House, on Wednesday, March 13, at 1:15 in the Lecture Room.

VARSITY K.O. DROPS TO MEET NAVAL CHAMPIONS

McGill received a challenge from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis to a boxing meet to be held this week-end. The United States Naval Academy is a team of several members of our team. In compliance with the request "Goldie" Gray, "Les" Black, and "Joe" Mahan will journey down to Maryland. They have been working faithfully ever since the intercollegiate meet and are in the best of condition. "Les" Black and "Goldie" Gray are in a class by themselves as intercollegiate boxers. They have both won championships. "Goldie's" achievement of winning the 135 lb. class although he weighs on 125 lbs. is a great feat. He will meet the "Middies" at his own weight. "Les" needs no press agent to proclaim his ability. "Joe" Mahan, though a novice, is a very clever and shifty boxer. Anyone who can last four rounds with Jack Goldie is bound to do something.

GYMN. ASSAULT-AT-ARMS

Well, the aerobic assault have left for old McGill to bring back the bacon. How about coming to see them show their tricks on Saturday, March 18, at 7:45 p.m.? It will only cost you 50 cents and just 50 cents more to bring "her." After the display there will be dancing from 9:30 to 11:30, with a three piece orchestra in attendance. Don't forget, Saturday, March 18.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

At the last meeting of the Modern Language Club for this year a competition for recitations in French will be held. Prof. De Champ was very kindly offered handsome prizes for the best recitation of a French poem to be selected by contestants with his advice and assistance. The final meeting of the Club will take place during the last week of March, and the election of next year's executive will be held then. Denote notice on bulletin boards later.

Date of Hockey Dance Announced Prices Reduced

The big hockey dance scheduled for next Tuesday, March Twenty-First. Another sensational announcement is the fact that the price per couple has been reduced from Two-Fifty to Two Dollars. Thus, for two iron men the famous pair of hockey stars, Beattie Romsy and Stan Brown. An expression of appreciation from the supporters of the good old hockey team is certainly in order. Don't forget that Stan and Beattie are two of the last responsible for the fact that the Allan Cup was in the possession of the University of Toronto for the first time in history. The dance will be strictly informal and will take place in Hart House. Jardine's Orchestra will supply the music and the catering will be of the highest order. Tickets will be available, on the production of the necessary "two" at the Athletic Office in Hart House from Saturday morning on. It will be a case of first come, first served, and those who contemplate attending should not delay in making arrangements.

LACROSSE CLUB ARRANGES SCHEDULE

The Team Will Leave to Tour at End of May

The management of the Lacrosse Club are busy arranging the schedule for the season. The team will leave Toronto on the 24th of May and return about two weeks later. In all about five or six games will be played. All Lacrosse players and prospective players are asked to watch for the announcement of practices, which will be called as soon as the ground becomes at all possible. As there is a likelihood that the Oxford team will play here about the end of April all players are asked to go into training at Hart House as soon as possible. The team this year will be chosen by an advisory board of graduates appointed by the Athletic Directorate and thus all candidates are sure of a chance. Watch for the announcement of practices.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Notice is hereby given that the Students' Court of the University of Toronto will sit in the Lecture Room of Hart House at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, March 14, 1922, to hear the case of the Student Body of the University of Toronto vs. the Undergraduates of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering, and of Medicine.

By Order of the President of the Court.

F. I. HUTCHESON,
Clerk.

ATHLETIC DIRECTORATE

Nominations for student representatives on the Athletic Directorate for 1922-23 must be received by the Secretary of the Athletic Association by 7 o'clock this afternoon. Nominations can be obtained in the Secretary's Office.

The annual elections will take place next Wednesday afternoon at 4:15 in the Lecture Room of Hart House. Notices have been sent to all athletic clubs, and to the athletic associations of the faculties and colleges, notifying them to appoint voting members to attend these elections. All voters must be regularly appointed and provided with credentials in order that they may obtain the necessary tickets of admission.

T. A. REED,
Secretary,
U. of T. Athletic Association.

VARSITY'S JUNIORS WIN TWO BASKETBALL GAMES

In an exhibition game on Friday evening at Niagara Falls, Bill Turner, who has just returned after a week's illness, showed excellent form at centre. On the forward, Potter had the edge on his partner. Jinkins and McIntosh played a steady game of sterling quality. Score: Half time—V, 12 N, 9. Full time—V, 22 N, 14.

Butters, F. Potter, B. Turner, 15, Jinkins, McIntosh. Students' exhibition games at St. Kate's was much faster and snappier throughout. The defence work of McIntosh and Jinkins was the feature of the game.

Butters and Potter showed excellent form. Turner was also in the highlight. With 1 minute to go, Varsity had piled up a score of 33 to 3 and then slackened their pace, allowing the home team to come out of the game on the small end of a 35 to 12 victory. Score: Half time—V, 19 N, 3. Full time—V, 35 N, 12.

Butters, 15; Potter, 8; Turner, 15; McIntosh, 2; Jinkins.

ARCHITECTURAL CLUB

On Tuesday, March 14, at 3:30 p.m., Mr. John M. Lyle will address the Architectural Club on the subject of "Modern American Architecture" in Room 25, Engineering Building. This will be an open meeting and all interested members of the University are invited to attend. Mr. Lyle's paper will be, without doubt, a distinct contribution to the literature on this subject. It will be illustrated by slides.

The Architectural Club of the University of Toronto expect to hold their annual exhibition in the Sketch Room, Hart House, for several days at the end of this month. Definite announcement of the date will be made later by poster.

The last meeting of the U. of T. Women's Press Association will be held Friday afternoon, March 17th at 4:15 p.m. in Room 82. Elections for next year's Executive will take place. It is very important that every member should be present.

MANY GREAT EVENTUALITIES MARK UNIVERSITY'S PRESENT YEAR

Two Large Conventions and a Number of Special Courses Held at Varsity During Session Make Epochs in History

Varsity's Open Lectures Win Public Approval

When Sir Robert B. Lyall delivered the opening address last fall, a college year common of which was to be a great development in the history of the University of Toronto in the form of outside lectures. The thirty-one evening events of the year that followed were typical of the work that the University is doing for the general public and to show that the University is doing its duty to its constituency, the Province of Ontario.

To be exact, the first of these events came before Sir Robert's address. This was the dinner which took place from August 10th to August 13th. The dinner was of an unusual nature and was held at the University of Toronto. There were a large number of guests, including many of the faculty and many of the students. The dinner was a success and was a great help to the University.

NEW QUARTERS FOUND FOR NEWMAN CLUB

Removal to Matthews House The Outstanding Event of Session

The Academic year of '21-22 has been one of more than ordinary success and achievement at the Toronto Newman Club. The registration in that institution reached the highest point in its history, four hundred undergraduates enrolling as members. Numbers alone, however, do not make a club. It is the quality of the members that counts. It is the quality of the members that counts.

MEDIOCRE PROGRAMME FEATURE OF RECITAL GIVEN AT HART HOUSE

Latest Attempt of Music Committee Involves Little Effort and Technique

A capacity audience gathered in the Music Room of Hart House last Wednesday afternoon to hear the weekly recital arranged by the Music Committee. The artists on this occasion were vocalists: Mr. Walter Bates, tenor; Mrs. Shirley Rodgers-Bates, lyric soprano; and Miss Daisy La Rush, dramatic mezzo soprano. In a programme which did not entail any great effort or technique on their part, the performers contrived to keep the audience interested for the hour.

Although many numbers were sung only two or three were of outstanding note from a critical standpoint. Miss La Rush opened the programme with the well-known "Elegy" by Massenet. Miss La Rush possesses a voice that is best in strictly mezzo work. In forte passages on high notes her voice is inclined to hardness and the same thing may be said of Mr. Bates, who sang later.

Mr. Walter Bates followed Miss La Rush with a group of two English songs, "If You Were Here" by Squire, and "Friend of Mine" by Walter Sanderford. Mr. Bates has a strong, clear, ringing, and although he was labouring under a slight cold, he was able to impart to his work a fine dramatic interpretation. It is a pity he had not chosen to sing more extended or classical numbers.

Following Mr. Bates, Mrs. Bates sang one of Samlerson's popular songs, "The Star-Hive Eyes." Certainly none of the numbers tried by their length and Mrs. Bates seemed to have a more for than the other. Her voice was decidedly good in a piano-work song, "The Star-Hive Eyes." Certainly none of the numbers tried by their length and Mrs. Bates seemed to have a more for than the other.

Mr. Bates sang "Ah, Moon of My Delight" by Tia Lohman, which was perhaps the most interesting and intended number of the recital. Several other numbers of a light character were sung but with the exception of a very fair duet by Mr. and Mrs. Bates, the song, "The Star-Hive Eyes," by Walter Sanderford, which was perhaps the most interesting and intended number of the recital.

Committee Will Continue The Hart House Recitals Until The End of Term

The committee wishes to announce that the recitals in the Music Room will be continued for the remainder of the term. A splendid series of programmes will be given from now on and these will be continued from time to time on the note board in Hart House.

On March 21, Mr. Campbell McInnes will give an afternoon recital. Also recitals will be given by Ernest Seitz, and others. Stewart and Crawford are doing some concert work one afternoon in the near future.

Women's Hockey Challenge Cup Given By School

The Age of Chivalry is not dead, but lives, and age flourishes within the walls of School and in the spirit of her me. Varsity hockey has been part of the school spirit, and one of her proudest traditions has been gained by her co-eds, namely the Ladies' Inter-Collegiate Hockey Championship, yet still no trophy.

This occasion has presented itself to the men of School to do their bit and show the appreciation for a team that has worked so hard to secure for their Alma Mater an honour which will surely be perpetuated in the traditions of Varsity athletics.

The School of Science did not have the privilege of being represented on that day, but the appreciation for a team that has worked so hard to secure for their Alma Mater an honour which will surely be perpetuated in the traditions of Varsity athletics.

EXTENSION WORK PROVES TORONTO A TRUE PROVINCIAL UNIVERSITY

Courses in Journalism, Farming and Town Planning Offered by Dept. Work Reaches Highest Development During Past Year—Service is Motto Adopted

SUMMER SESSION LARGEST IN HISTORY OF UNIVERSITY

The motto of the Department of University Extension Service, "and because of the remarkable work done this year there is complete justification for the retention of that motto next year. It is this department that makes the University of Toronto a true Provincial University. Extension work in several forms has reached its highest development this year, due mainly to the excellent work of the Director of the Department, Mr. W. J. Dunlop.

While the Department offered three courses for Journalists, Farming and Town-Planners. The first and third of these were new while the second was a repetition and continuation of the work done in the same course last year. All three courses were successful and it is quite probable that they will be repeated next year.

While the other work of the department has not been so conspicuous, yet it has been equally important. This department has been looking after the educational needs of four hundred and seventy-four teachers in various parts of the province. The summer session of this academic year was the largest in the history of the University. More extension lectures have been given throughout the Province to Canadian Clubs and various literary and scientific organizations than in any preceding year.

The department has established urban tutorial class in Economics, English Literature and Zoology in Toronto, Hamilton and Belton. Rural tutorial classes have been carried on in Brampton, Woodville, Cheltenham, Belton and Bone Hill. There are also classes for industrial labourers—seven in Toronto, four in Hamilton and three in Ottawa.

Other courses include urban courses in Household Science for the women of Toronto, a course of 10 lectures in Occupational Therapy and extra-curricular classes leading to the B.A. degree in Education. The department has also published and distributed a series of leaflets on such subjects as "The Education of the Worker," "The Worker's Education," and others with the purpose of informing the public as to what the University is doing.

PHYSICAL TRAINING

Physical Training Classes close as follows: S.P.S. and Dents—March 25. Arts, Meds and Forestry—April 15.

Students are required to make 60 per cent. of the total classes. Failure to do this will carry with it a "condition" on the year's work. For the benefit of those students who may be slightly behind in their attendance, extra classes will be held as follows: S.P.S. and Dents—March 27 to April 29.

Arts, Meds and Forestry—April 15 to April 29.

OSGOODE AND DENTS IN FINAL WORD WAR

Expect to Initiate Lawyers in Intricacies of Their Own Profession

The final debate of the Inter-Collegiate Debating Union will be held on Monday night, March 13, in West Hall, University College, between Osgoode Hall and the Royal College of Dental Surgeons. This is the last of a series of seven debates, the subject of which has been held in the society and it is expected that Monday's debate will be one of the very best. The subject is "Resolved: That Canada should have power to amend her own Constitution. A most suitable subject could not have been chosen nor could the subject have been so well chosen as this. The R.C.D.S., represented by J. A. Boyd and R. A. Williams, take the affirmative side of the question. It is H. J. Osgoode, M.A., and H. J. Osgoode, B.A., who will argue in favour of the negative.

The judges are to be: Greg-Bennett, M.A., C.M.A., S.O., U.D., D.C.; Francis D. Huxton, M.A., LL.D. and Prof. E. A. Hart, Ph.D. The final debate of the Inter-Collegiate Debating Union will be held on Monday night, March 13, in West Hall, University College, between Osgoode Hall and the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.
